Notice of appeal was given by his attorney. The term of district court adjourned in this city January 1, 1932. At this time the new law effective giving three terms of court a year, the first being the first of January to continue the second being the first of May and continuing the third being the first of September.

WEDDING

Miss Rachel Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Johnson, and Mr. Charles Roy Wilkins were married Friday evening at 6:45 at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of relatives and close friends. Beautiful autumn flowers in attractive baskets formed an aisle that led to the fern banked altar, over which was suspended an unusually attractive wedding bell. The home was resplendent throughout with many hued flowers, suggestive of the autumn season. Miss Ruby Lee Dickerson, in a rust-colored suit with Lapin collar, carrying an arm bouquet of snapdragons and marigolds, played "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacob Bond. Miss Pauline Dalton, in Princess Eugenie costume of black crepe carrying an arm bouquet of marigolds and yellow dahlias, read "That Old Sweetheart of Mine." She was accompanied by Miss Dickerson, who played "Flower Song" by Langer. The bride entered on the arm of her father and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Jack Kilgore, to the soft strains of "Bridal Chorus" from Wagner's "Lohengrin." The impressive ring ceremony was said by Rev. J. S. Bowles, who had officiated also at the wedding of the bride's parents. The bride was a beautifully gowned in brown crepe with accessories to match and carried an arm bouquet of giant yellow chrysanthemums. The going-away suit was of green tweed with Persian lamb collar. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins left in their car immediately after the ceremony for San Antonio, Monterey and other points of interest in Mexico. The lovely bride is a graduate of Goldthwaite High school and a student of Centenary, La., and of Daniel Baker college, Brownwood.

MISSIONARY MEETING

The Methodist Missionary Society met at the church Monday afternoon and finished the book "Turn Toward Peace," which is being used by the entire Southern Methodistism in order to create a sentiment for the prevention of war. At the request of the Woman's Missionary council commission on peace, this book was written and is being studied extensively by the women of the church and others. The local auxiliary will have a Silver Tea at the residence of Mrs. Walter Weatherby on Monday, Oct. 26, from 3:30 until 6 o'clock. An interesting program will be had and the ladies of the Society will appreciate very much the presence of all the ladies, children and gentlemen who can attend. Then we wish to announce the Zone Meeting. The Women's Missionary Society of the Llano District will have a meeting of Zone No. 3 at Lometa Tuesday, Oct. 20, beginning at ten o'clock and closing at four o'clock. This Zone includes the Auxiliaries of Lampasas, Llano, San Saba, Cherokee, Richland Springs, Goldthwaite, Lomet, Mullin and Center City. All the ladies of our church are cordially invited to attend and bring picnic lunches as that is the plan outlined for dinner. MRS. R. M. THOMPSON, President.

CLUB MEETING

The Art and Civic club met on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Harry Allen hostess. The reception rooms were made fresh and attractive with queen's wreath and roses. A very interesting program was led by Mrs. L. R. Conroy. "The Woman Movement," the subject for the afternoon, was given in a very informative talk by Mrs. Fred Martin. The book review "Roast Beef Medium" by Edna Ferber was given in a very delightful manner by Mrs. Marvin Hodges. The other numbers on the program "Building the Bridge" by Mrs. C. A. Eacott and piano solo by Harriet Allen was enjoyed by all. At the tea hour a dainty salad colation was passed to members of the club. REPORTER.

WIVES CLUB

Had its first meeting at T. F. Toland on Tuesday, Oct. 13. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Foster, president; Mrs. Chas. Friz, secretary; Mrs. Roy, treasurer; Mrs. Kelly Saylor, reporter; Mrs. Stoen, Jr., assistant reporter. Miss Lucille Conroy as guest and Mrs. Stoen, Jr., as club member. REPORTER.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

A beautiful birthday tribute was paid to Mrs. S. L. Frazier on her 78th birthday Tuesday afternoon at the home of her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Frazier, by her many friends and relatives. The guests all gathered at the home of Mrs. Henry Ezzell, next door neighbor, and formed in line and marched over to the home, where the honoree was seated with two other elderly ladies in the living room and as the guests filed in they all sang the "Happy Birthday" song. Just at the end of the line were the three granddaughters of the honoree bringing a huge box of beautiful flowers and a prettily decorated basket filled with gifts of every description, which they placed at her feet. Then the pleasant task of unwrapping the packages and reading aloud the many beautiful wishes and tributes also fell to the granddaughters. Mrs. Frazier was almost overcome with gratitude at the thoughtfulness of her friends. After all the lovely gifts had been admired, a huge birthday three-tiered cake with 78 candles was brought in and placed on the library table and the granddaughters lighted the candles, which made a beautiful effect. Then Mrs. Frazier was told she must blow them all out with one puff. However, failing in this, her very youngest grandson finished the job. The hostess passed a plate of delicious cake and hot chocolate to all the guests, after which Miss Pauline Dalton entertained the company with several delightful readings. There were about fifty present. A GUEST.

THE ATHENS CLASS

Four hundred and thirty-nine years ago Columbus, with a few brave men, by pushing out on unknown seas, with courage enough to overcome any obstacle, which might arise, discovered the greatest continent on earth. Seven years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Haynes Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Toland and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fairman organized a Sunday school class, where the wives could bring their husbands, and by their untiring efforts the class has pushed toward the one hundred mark in numbers and is one of the strongest classes in this part of the state. On the night of the above date we celebrated this event with a class social, at the Sunday school room. A table was prepared, which was soon loaded with sandwiches of all kinds, olives, pickles and cakes, while the coffee was being made. As this was the time for the election of officers we then went into a business session. The devotional was read by Mrs. Flora Jackson, which was very impressive. Our playground was officially named the Athens playground. All officers were re-elected. We regret very much that our president, Mrs. J. V. Cockrum, felt that she could not accept the office for the coming year. A committee was appointed to select a president. We appreciated having Brother Irvin and wife with us, also the interesting talks they made. We adjourned to go to the playground to finish the evening. The officers are: Haynes Harrison, teacher; Mrs. Fred Martin, first vice president; Mrs. Walter Fairman, second vice president; Mrs. T. F. Toland, third vice president; Mrs. Ray Ford, secretary; Mrs. Homer Doggett, assistant; Mrs. R. L. Armstrong, reporter; Mrs. Marvin Rudd, assistant. REPORTER.

A FATAL ACCIDENT

Dorwin Tullos, known to his friends as "Pete", was instantly killed yesterday morning when he attempted to pass from a trailer to the cab of a truck while coming to Goldthwaite from Brownwood. The scene of the accident was about two miles from Pompey Creek school house and was on perfectly level ground. Olan Langlitz was driving the truck, while Dorwin and Norman McWhorter were riding on the trailer. When they reached the place of the accident young Tullos said to his companion he intended to ask the driver to stop the truck a moment. He climbed over the end of the trailer and evidently expected to step upon a fender or running board, but the fender did not reach that far and he fell. The trailer ran over him, but whether it was the fall or the wheels of the heavily loaded vehicle that caused his death can not likely be determined. Young Langlitz felt the jar when the wheels passed over the body and stopped as quickly as possible and then it was he discovered the result of the terrible accident. Tullos was able to groan a few times, but never spoke and was dead in a few minutes. The two young men, Langlitz and McWhorter, displayed rare presence of mind when they picked up the body and placed it on the truck and hurried to Pompey Creek school house, from which place they phoned to this city and were directed to hurry to Mullin and get a doctor, which they did, but young Tullos had been dead some time before they reached Mullin. The remains were brought to Goldthwaite in Fairman company's ambulance and prepared for burial at the undertaking department of that company. Announcement of funeral arrangements has not been made, but it is thought burial will be made today. The dead youth is a son of Mr. James A. Tullos and was reared here and in Brownwood. Was about 15 years of age. He was not employed by the Ross Co., owners of the truck, but had asked permission of the young men to ride with them to Goldthwaite. They left Brownwood at 3 o'clock, bringing a load of cotton seed cake for Mullin. The accident appears to have been entirely unavoidable, with nobody to blame for it. The sympathy of the people goes out to the bereaved parents and other relatives.

MARRIED AT CENTER POINT

Mr. H. G. Keley of Mullin and Miss Eska Belle Roberts were married last Saturday afternoon at the residence of Rev. J. D. Long in Center Point community. Rev. Long officiating. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left in their car for a visit in Stephenville. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Keley of near Mullin and is the rural mail carrier on the route west of Mullin. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tip Roberts of Ratler and has a large circle of admiring friends in that community and elsewhere. The young couple will make their home in the Mullin community.

S. F. & E. W. SOCIETY

The young people of the Trigger Mountain community organized a club Saturday. The following officers were elected: John Cunningham, president; Denia Mae Calloway, vice-president; Gladys Long, secretary and treasurer; Lorraine Calloway, program leader; Jack Davis, reporter. The first meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Dan Calloway in Goldthwaite. REPORTER.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

County Clerk Porter reports the issuance of marriage license to Dea Woods and Iona Lusty, both of San Saba; Alvis Taylor of Sweetwater and Miss Martha Ann Ferguson of Rio Grande Valley.

DOWN ON THE FARM

By O.G.H.

J. M. Spinks, Center Point, fed lambs a straight oats ration, supplemented by Sudan grass pasture, topped the Fort Worth market and realized over 50 cents a bushel for his oats. He is so well pleased with the experiment that he will start feeding 100 more lambs. A. & M. College recommends the following ration for 60 pound lambs: First 30 days 2-3 oats, 1-3 corn by weight as grain mixture and feed 15 pound cotton seed meal per head per day. Second 30 days, 1-2 oats, 1-2 corn, 2 pound cottonseed meal. Last 30 days, 1-3 oats, 2-3 corn, 25 pound cotton seed meal. In totals per head: First 30 days 15 pounds oats, 9 pounds corn, 4 1-2 pounds cottonseed meal. Second 30 days, 15 pounds oats, 15 pounds corn, 6 pounds cottonseed meal. Third 30 days, 15 pounds oats, 30 pounds corn, 7 1-2 pounds cottonseed meal. Or a grand total of 45 pounds of oats, 55 pounds corn and 18 pounds cottonseed meal. This is the amount of grain and cottonseed meal ordinarily required with hay to fatten a weaned lamb. The interest in pecan improvement is steadily growing. We are planning work with a number of farmers for next spring and fall. We have a full crop of nuts about ready for harvest. It is well known that trees severely thrashed and punished will yield no nuts for another year or two. This has been proven by dealing with half the top gently and treating the other half the ordinary rough way. The half treated right will bear a good crop the next year, while the severely beaten branches yield nothing, because the recent growth has been destroyed. Speaking of pecans. We want to have a pecan show this fall. We already have the exhibit jars and are asking friends to bring in a pint of any and all nice nuts native or improved. We will furnish the jar and label them for the show on a date to be named later. We will ask J. F. Rosborough, Pecan Specialist, A. & M. College to judge the show. Leave the nuts with the county agent, Judge Simpson or County Clerk Porter. Already some nice pecans have been brought in.

HIGH SCHOOL GLEE CLUB MEETS

The High School Glee Club met in a business meeting Wednesday and adopted a constitution, which was approved by the directors and members. The following constitution was the one adopted: Preamble We, the members of the Goldthwaite High school Glee Club, in order to form a more perfect club, establish discipline, insure tranquility and secure high attainments and the blessings of praise, do ordain and establish this constitution for our club. Article 1. Requirements of Members 1. To attend each meeting unless the excuse is approved by the Director. 2. To pay seventy-five cents monthly (not later than the first Wednesday after the first Tuesday of every month) or five dollars and fifty cents for the entire term, if paid by Nov. 15. 3. To provide for a Glee Club dress. 4. To pledge themselves a permanent member, unless because of unavoidable hindrances. 5. To show good sportsmanship in receiving demerits. 6. To report all requirements broken. 7. Be thoughtful and agreeable. 8. Make a practice of looking at Director. Article 2. Demerits Upon Members 1. Each member shall receive a demerit for every requirement broken. 2. A member is no longer of this club when they have received ten demerits. 3. The demerits shall be issued by the secretary. Article 3. Ratification of Constitution 1. In order to be ratified, this constitution must pass a two-thirds majority vote of the club members, and be approved by the Director.

MRS. STRICKLAND HURT

A special from Coleman under Wednesday's date gives an account of a brutal attack upon Mrs. Judson Strickland, formerly of this city, who has many friends here. It says: "Mrs. W. J. Strickland, young wife of a Coleman baker, was struck a blow on her head with a large stick about daylight this morning at her home on South Concho street, soon after Mr. Strickland had gone to his place of business. John LeWarren, 24, was arrested at his home soon after the attack and is in jail. Warren had been working at Strickland's bakery. "Mrs. Strickland was just getting ready for morning bath. A man entered the front door, went to the bath room and delivered the blow. The stick broke and Mrs. Strickland was not rendered unconscious. She ran from the house through the front door and the intruder left by way of the back door after shattering the glass. Mrs. Strickland had a severe gash on the top of her head, but otherwise was unharmed. Robbery is believed to have been the motive."

COMMISSIONERS' COURT

Court was in session Monday for the regular monthly term, but very little business was transacted outside of routine matters. Robert Ervin was employed to paint the roof of the jail and make some repairs thereon. The highway money was divided to the different precincts. No. 1 received $10.44; No. 2, $12.95; No. 3, $21.53; No. 4, $4.51. The court was in session again yesterday approving the new tax rolls.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday we begin our fourth year as pastor of the Baptist church. Every member of the church ought to be present in all of our services and we urge that you be present. Let's have a record crowd at Sunday school and church. During the three years we have been here we have made many mistakes, but we have found out that most of the citizens of our town realize that a preacher is just a man, and subject to mistakes, and they take pleasure in talking about his virtues and not his errors. We have tried to be just a plain everyday citizen, seeking the friendship of everyone and lending a helping hand in any way we could to help everyone. We have among our friends a number who are not members of our church. We appreciate and love them only as a man can for their friendship and many kindnesses that they have shown us since coming this way. We are going to strive to maintain this friendship by treating everyone with the same courtesy that we have tried to show in the past. Now as to our church, we have not done one single thing that is worthy of mentioning, and we do not deserve any credit for any progress made. If there has been anything accomplished it is the members of the church deserve the honor for it. On the other hand, if there has been any failure the pastor will take credit for that and do his best, right in the beginning of his fourth year, not to repeat. We are far from having the largest church in the land, but we are not far from having one of the best. We enter the fourth year with every financial obligation met. In this connection we want to make an earnest appeal to every member of our church. We want to keep this record up if possible, and to do so every member will have to come to our aid during the next year with the best offering possible every month, or as often as you can. If we only will do this we need not worry. No one knows the financial conditions of our people any better than the pastor, and no one is more willing to make a sacrifice for our Lord's work than he. One man came to us and said; "I have not got much money to contribute, will it be alright for me to put in some wood?" Man will not only win for his church with that kind of spirit, but he will win for himself. Surely God will bless a people that will do anything for His work to go on, and we believe that more than ninety per cent of our membership maintain just such a spirit of devotion and love to the cause of our Master. We will have some other things to say Sunday morning to our membership. Let everyone be present. We had a splendid crowd at the ordination service last Sunday. More than thirty of our own members were present. We had more than twenty preachers and deacons to participate in this service. Too many to mention their names. We had 251 in Sunday school and splendid crowds at preaching services. We must confess that we have the largest and best choir that we have had, we mean by that more interest and better singing than we have had since coming this way. Possibly there are two reasons for that. Asking Mr. Evans to assist in leading of the choir and our intermediate girls are taking part. Really it seems that all of our singers have taken on new life. A gentleman living across the railroad asked me if we had some special singers last Sunday night, and when I told him no, he asked me what had gotten into that bunch, "You really had some singing Sunday night." We suppose he figured that we did not have any preaching. He never said anything about it. Everybody on time Sunday at all services. Especially do we invite visitors and our friends to worship with us. PASTOR

We will have some other things to say Sunday morning to our membership. Let everyone be present. We had a splendid crowd at the ordination service last Sunday. More than thirty of our own members were present. We had more than twenty preachers and deacons to participate in this service. Too many to mention their names. We had 251 in Sunday school and splendid crowds at preaching services. We must confess that we have the largest and best choir that we have had, we mean by that more interest and better singing than we have had since coming this way. Possibly there are two reasons for that. Asking Mr. Evans to assist in leading of the choir and our intermediate girls are taking part. Really it seems that all of our singers have taken on new life. A gentleman living across the railroad asked me if we had some special singers last Sunday night, and when I told him no, he asked me what had gotten into that bunch, "You really had some singing Sunday night." We suppose he figured that we did not have any preaching. He never said anything about it. Everybody on time Sunday at all services. Especially do we invite visitors and our friends to worship with us. PASTOR

Four hundred and thirty-nine years ago Columbus, with a few brave men, by pushing out on unknown seas, with courage enough to overcome any obstacle, which might arise, discovered the greatest continent on earth. Seven years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Haynes Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Toland and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fairman organized a Sunday school class, where the wives could bring their husbands, and by their untiring efforts the class has pushed toward the one hundred mark in numbers and is one of the strongest classes in this part of the state. On the night of the above date we celebrated this event with a class social, at the Sunday school room. A table was prepared, which was soon loaded with sandwiches of all kinds, olives, pickles and cakes, while the coffee was being made. As this was the time for the election of officers we then went into a business session. The devotional was read by Mrs. Flora Jackson, which was very impressive. Our playground was officially named the Athens playground. All officers were re-elected. We regret very much that our president, Mrs. J. V. Cockrum, felt that she could not accept the office for the coming year. A committee was appointed to select a president. We appreciated having Brother Irvin and wife with us, also the interesting talks they made. We adjourned to go to the playground to finish the evening. The officers are: Haynes Harrison, teacher; Mrs. Fred Martin, first vice president; Mrs. Walter Fairman, second vice president; Mrs. T. F. Toland, third vice president; Mrs. Ray Ford, secretary; Mrs. Homer Doggett, assistant; Mrs. R. L. Armstrong, reporter; Mrs. Marvin Rudd, assistant. REPORTER.

A FATAL ACCIDENT

Dorwin Tullos, known to his friends as "Pete", was instantly killed yesterday morning when he attempted to pass from a trailer to the cab of a truck while coming to Goldthwaite from Brownwood. The scene of the accident was about two miles from Pompey Creek school house and was on perfectly level ground. Olan Langlitz was driving the truck, while Dorwin and Norman McWhorter were riding on the trailer. When they reached the place of the accident young Tullos said to his companion he intended to ask the driver to stop the truck a moment. He climbed over the end of the trailer and evidently expected to step upon a fender or running board, but the fender did not reach that far and he fell. The trailer ran over him, but whether it was the fall or the wheels of the heavily loaded vehicle that caused his death can not likely be determined. Young Langlitz felt the jar when the wheels passed over the body and stopped as quickly as possible and then it was he discovered the result of the terrible accident. Tullos was able to groan a few times, but never spoke and was dead in a few minutes. The two young men, Langlitz and McWhorter, displayed rare presence of mind when they picked up the body and placed it on the truck and hurried to Pompey Creek school house, from which place they phoned to this city and were directed to hurry to Mullin and get a doctor, which they did, but young Tullos had been dead some time before they reached Mullin. The remains were brought to Goldthwaite in Fairman company's ambulance and prepared for burial at the undertaking department of that company. Announcement of funeral arrangements has not been made, but it is thought burial will be made today. The dead youth is a son of Mr. James A. Tullos and was reared here and in Brownwood. Was about 15 years of age. He was not employed by the Ross Co., owners of the truck, but had asked permission of the young men to ride with them to Goldthwaite. They left Brownwood at 3 o'clock, bringing a load of cotton seed cake for Mullin. The accident appears to have been entirely unavoidable, with nobody to blame for it. The sympathy of the people goes out to the bereaved parents and other relatives.

MARRIED AT CENTER POINT

Mr. H. G. Keley of Mullin and Miss Eska Belle Roberts were married last Saturday afternoon at the residence of Rev. J. D. Long in Center Point community. Rev. Long officiating. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left in their car for a visit in Stephenville. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Keley of near Mullin and is the rural mail carrier on the route west of Mullin. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tip Roberts of Ratler and has a large circle of admiring friends in that community and elsewhere. The young couple will make their home in the Mullin community.

S. F. & E. W. SOCIETY

The young people of the Trigger Mountain community organized a club Saturday. The following officers were elected: John Cunningham, president; Denia Mae Calloway, vice-president; Gladys Long, secretary and treasurer; Lorraine Calloway, program leader; Jack Davis, reporter. The first meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Dan Calloway in Goldthwaite. REPORTER.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

County Clerk Porter reports the issuance of marriage license to Dea Woods and Iona Lusty, both of San Saba; Alvis Taylor of Sweetwater and Miss Martha Ann Ferguson of Rio Grande Valley.

DOWN ON THE FARM

By O.G.H.

J. M. Spinks, Center Point, fed lambs a straight oats ration, supplemented by Sudan grass pasture, topped the Fort Worth market and realized over 50 cents a bushel for his oats. He is so well pleased with the experiment that he will start feeding 100 more lambs. A. & M. College recommends the following ration for 60 pound lambs: First 30 days 2-3 oats, 1-3 corn by weight as grain mixture and feed 15 pound cotton seed meal per head per day. Second 30 days, 1-2 oats, 1-2 corn, 2 pound cottonseed meal. Last 30 days, 1-3 oats, 2-3 corn, 25 pound cotton seed meal. In totals per head: First 30 days 15 pounds oats, 9 pounds corn, 4 1-2 pounds cottonseed meal. Second 30 days, 15 pounds oats, 15 pounds corn, 6 pounds cottonseed meal. Third 30 days, 15 pounds oats, 30 pounds corn, 7 1-2 pounds cottonseed meal. Or a grand total of 45 pounds of oats, 55 pounds corn and 18 pounds cottonseed meal. This is the amount of grain and cottonseed meal ordinarily required with hay to fatten a weaned lamb. The interest in pecan improvement is steadily growing. We are planning work with a number of farmers for next spring and fall. We have a full crop of nuts about ready for harvest. It is well known that trees severely thrashed and punished will yield no nuts for another year or two. This has been proven by dealing with half the top gently and treating the other half the ordinary rough way. The half treated right will bear a good crop the next year, while the severely beaten branches yield nothing, because the recent growth has been destroyed. Speaking of pecans. We want to have a pecan show this fall. We already have the exhibit jars and are asking friends to bring in a pint of any and all nice nuts native or improved. We will furnish the jar and label them for the show on a date to be named later. We will ask J. F. Rosborough, Pecan Specialist, A. & M. College to judge the show. Leave the nuts with the county agent, Judge Simpson or County Clerk Porter. Already some nice pecans have been brought in.

HIGH SCHOOL GLEE CLUB MEETS

The High School Glee Club met in a business meeting Wednesday and adopted a constitution, which was approved by the directors and members. The following constitution was the one adopted: Preamble We, the members of the Goldthwaite High school Glee Club, in order to form a more perfect club, establish discipline, insure tranquility and secure high attainments and the blessings of praise, do ordain and establish this constitution for our club. THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

Mrs. A. L. Braswell and children are visiting in Levelland this week.

J. T. Guthrie of Mullin was looking after business in this city Saturday.

The low price of a made-to-measure suit will surprise you. Ask Burch.

Mrs. J. A. Gillespie of Dallas visited friends in this city the early part of the week.

Mrs. J. M. Stacy and little daughter were appreciated visitors at the Eagle office Saturday.

Duke Clements and wife and J. J. Gattman and wife returned Friday from a trip to the Rio Grande Valley.

Erin Ritchie, a student in Abilene Christian College, spent last week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ritchie.

Several of the schools of the county opened for the fall and winter term Monday and soon all of them will be under way.

Wesley Linkenhog and wife of Sweetwater visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Linkenhog, in this city Sunday.

Mrs. Floyd Mullan was here from Dallas the first of the week, looking after some business matters and visiting relatives.

J. W. Young of Comanche was here a few days ago and called to order his name enrolled as a regular reader of the Eagle.

Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Hurdle were here from Cameron the first of the week, looking after business matters and visiting relatives.

R. S. Young of Bastrop, who was spending a few days with his brother, J. W. Young, in Comanche, made the Eagle an appreciated call last Friday.

Judge and Mrs. J. C. Darroch of Brownwood spent a part of the week here, she visiting relatives and he looking after the interest of clients in district court.

C. L. Stephens drove over to Hico last Saturday for a visit with his wife and her parents. Mrs. Stephens is spending some time at Hico on account of the condition of her parents' health.

A report to the Eagle from John Tarleton college says that Mills county is represented by seven students in John Tarleton Agricultural college this fall: Catherine Duren, Ray Duren and May Duren of Mullin; Woodson Clary, Maxine McGilvray, Rolla Henry and Cholla Soules, Star.

George McCorkle of Crane and Miss Floy Strain of Indian Gap were married at the Baptist parsonage in this city last Saturday afternoon, Rev. G. C. Ivins officiating. They are strangers in Goldthwaite, as far as the Eagle has been able to learn.

Correspondents need not make a notation on their letters asking that their names be not published, for the Eagle never publishes a correspondent's name, except by special arrangement. Just sign your name and the identity will not be revealed, unless you ask that it be done.

Last Friday and Saturday were trades days in Goldthwaite and proved to be quite successful. A large number of mules were sold and some horses, goats and sheep. There was also considerable trading among the owners of live stock and some other property changed hands as well. The market was especially good for mules and many more could have been sold had the offerings been made. It is likely there will be another event of the kind next month, although full details have not been announced.

When you have visitors, go for a trip or know any other item in which your friends would be interested please write or tell the Eagle.

CAR GOES INTO DITCH

Judge E. J. Miller, Miss Daisy Knox and Miss Velma Weatherby suffered minor injuries when the automobile in which they were riding ran into the ditch on the Brady road near Rochelle early Thursday night. Miss Knox was the most seriously injured, suffering cuts about the face and on the legs when she was thrown from the car, as it went into the ditch. Judge Miller was shaken and bruised, as was Miss Weatherby. Miss Knox was taken to the hospital, where several stitches were taken to close the wounds. She is reported as resting at home today.

Judge Miller was driving the automobile. The machine became unmanageable when a tire blew out as Judge Miller started to pass a truck. The car went into about a three foot ditch, but did not overturn. It was badly damaged, it is said.

Misses Knox and Weatherby were returning from Richland Springs by way of Brady. They had been visiting Judge Miller's daughter, Mrs. Harold Gibbons, at Richland Springs. — Brownwood Bulletin.

SCHOOLS OR BREADLINES

As a remedy for unemployment the American Federation of Labor proposes a shorter working week and a shorter working day.

The Gifford committee proposes to take children out of factories and put them into schools — releasing jobs for adults.

Both of these are sensible plans. They deserve public cooperation.

A survey of the state school laws shows there is plenty of room for improvement. Only four states — Idaho, Nevada, Ohio and Oklahoma — fix the compulsory school age at 18. There are 32 states with a 16-year limit, and seven states stop at 14 years.

An additional 3,326,000 children would be taken out of jobs and put into school if all the states adopted and enforced the 18-year rule. Many millions more could be absorbed by junior colleges. Only 21 per cent of those eligible now are able to attend colleges up to the age of 21.

Of course, there's more to the reform than merely passing a law. It does no good to compel a youth to attend school if he or his parents can not support him there. A just economic system would provide steady jobs for adults with incomes adequate to educate their children. Lacking that, the alternative is to make education as nearly free as possible and to cover the student's personal expenses by scholarships and loans.

For thirty years the General Federation of Women's Clubs has been providing such scholarships and loans. Now the federation's president, Mrs. John F. Sippel, announces that 99 per cent of the $800,000 loaned to some 700 students has been paid back by the students.

There could hardly be a finer demonstration of the desire of penniless students for an education, and their willingness to pay the price.

In the face of such a will to learn, surely America should offer youths education in place of jobs or breadlines. — Houston Press.

PLANT NOTHING BUT GOOD STAPLE

The Texas cotton acreage will be reduced 50 per cent next year, if the law just passed is enforced. This provides an opportunity for farmers to carefully select the lands they plant to the staple, bearing in mind that in 1933 they will not be able to plant to cotton the lands used for that purpose in 1932.

With a reduced acreage, farmers should make a supreme effort to secure good seed that will produce not less than 7-8 inch staple, and if possible, get into the inch and 11-16 class. There will be a demand for that kind of cotton and Texas never had a better opportunity to regain its old reputation of producing nothing but the best.

It is said that we entered this season with 9,000,000 bales of carry over. We do not know how much of that is undesirable or undesirable for other

THINK OF THE OTHER FELLOW

If you think of your afflictions as unbearable you ought to carry around the other fellow's load for a while.

To thousands of persons your handicaps and bad luck would seem trifling.

In your desire for sympathy, your self pity magnifies your misfortune.

You long to tell someone who will feel sorry and listen attentively while you tell your troubles.

Do you show that sort of sympathetic attention when others come to you with tales of woe, which are breaking their hearts and spirits?

No, indeed, you don't—you can't endure it to hear constant complaints.

Your mind is so taken up with your own suffering there is no room for the contemplation of another's unhappy experience.

That is the attitude of too many folk in the world. If the afflicted come with their stories of trouble they are called chronic grumblers.

It would hurt you unpeakably to be considered a chronic grumbler.

Telling of your troubles has made insignificant one assume enormous proportions — each time you tell it a little worse.

Instead, why not put up a brighter front, add to the pleasure of those near you and increase your popularity as well as your prospects of better times? — Houston Chronicle.

INTERESTING NOTES

Belgium is said to be the most densely populated country in the world, having nearly 8,000,000 resident occupying an area of 11,752 square miles.

Canada has second place among the countries of the world as a gold mining country and ranks next to South Africa in output.

With an area less than two-thirds as large as the United States, India contains 1-5 of the world's people, its population being estimated at 320,000,000.

Complaining that they have been unable to sleep, neighbors of Mrs. W. M. Riggs of Moundsville, W. Va., have asked that she stop her frogs from croaking at night.

A recent remark regarding newspaper advertising is interesting because it was made by a buyer and not a seller of printer's ink. It was made by Oscar Webber, general manager of one of Detroit's biggest stores, who told a Michigan merchants' convention: "When the going is tough our experience shows that nothing sells goods like newspaper advertising."

An American firm recently filled an order for 500 typewriters for the government of Mongolia. The Mongolian language has peculiar characters, different from the Chinese, and it is written from bottom to top of the page and from left to right. The characters represent words or ideas, so no spelling is required, which is a lucky break for Mongolian typists.

From a Japanese boy's essay on Washington: "George Washington was score because American persons was not free. He say to king, 'I express declarations of independence.' King he say nothin' doin' and Mr. Washington tell Admiral Dewie to shoot big guns at him. Bimeby king he say he will not run over American persons again. 'Let George do it,' he say, and so today American persons she is free."

We are of the opinion, however, that we never would have gotten into this "picklement" as Andy puts it, had we not been tempted by the false god of "gin-turn-out" and continued to produce the kind of staple most desired by the spinners.

Let us again repeat and emphasize the advisability of planting good seed. Make your 1932 cotton crop the best in point of quality that you have ever produced. It will prove to be a profitable undertaking. — Farm and Ranch.

INDIANS INCREASING

The American Indian, said by scientists to be doomed to "die out," proved unexpectedly prolific in the past decade, deferring his racial extinction.

The 1930 census showed the Indian increasing by 87,960, a 36 per cent gain. With a sixteen per cent gain in the population at large, that jump in a race pronounced dying was pronounced impossible.

The experts attributed it to an inadequate 1920 census and to a closer check on mixed bloods.

But Dr. L. F. Schmeckebier, expert, borrowed from a research institute to supervise the Indian census, got to digging around in county schedules and discovered a bumper crop of little Indians, which he pronounced "real gain."

Doctor Schmeckebier said he had been unable to learn whether the increase in Indian children was due to better health conditions, lowering infant mortality, or to better economic conditions during the years of prosperity.

But eventual extinction, he prophesied, will not lie in a slow racial death on the reservations, but in the influx of educated young Indians into the cities with intermarriage and loss of Indian identity within a few generations.

"More genuine satisfaction than any car I ever owned"

THE FORD is good-looking. It is safe. Comfortable. Speedy. Reliable. Long-lived. Economical. Everything a good car should be.

There is, too, an added something about it that brings enthusiastic comments from every one who has ever driven a Ford . . . the joy it puts in motoring.

"I have been a car owner continuously for nearly 20 years," writes a motorist connected with a leading university. "During this period I have bought eleven new automobiles. Eight of the eleven were in the middle-price field, one cost three thousand dollars, and the last is a Ford I purchased thirteen months ago.

"In the light of this experience I can say in all sincerity that I have derived more genuine satisfaction from the Ford than any car I ever owned. In saying this, I am thinking in terms of comfort, safety, driving pleasure, ease of control and economy. My next car will also be a Ford because it will give me what I want at a price I can afford to pay."

When you get behind the wheel of the Ford and drive it yourself you will know it is a truly remarkable car at a low price. You will like it when you first buy it. You will become more and more enthusiastic the longer you drive it.

After thousands of miles of driving you will say "it's a great car." Its economy will save you many dollars.

AND COMMENTS

ARE YOU IN LOVE

Well, if you are not you should be.

Love is the force that makes the world go round. It is the moving power behind thrones. Kings, queens, mighty statesmen, and super-executives bow down and worship at its shrine. From the highest to the lowest—there are no exceptions—we all pay tribute to this bewitching allurements, and whether you be a common laborer or a mighty man wielding unlimited power, you are still bewildered and enamored by the emotional intensities that love brings.

As a builder of airy castles love has no equal. It can make a palace out of a mere hovel. Under its hypnotic spell you can soar away into the realms of a blissful enchantment, and whether you are rich or poor makes but little difference. The amount of felicitous enjoyment that is secured from romantic love is affected but little by one's material possessions.

You can tread the glorious heights of rapturous illusions without money or friends—for a short time—if you are in love and are loved in return.

It is said that when poverty comes in the door love flies out of the window. But where there are strong hands to work with, loving arms to enfold the worker with fervid appreciation, the way out can usually be found.

Hunger is a gaunt skeleton that is flaunted before us as an insatiable friend that brings destruction and death; but a little hunger now and then harms no one, and it doubles one's appreciation of wholesome food.

And real love should never fear poverty. It is only through sacrifices and suffering that human affection assumes its noblest characteristics. When we have to labor diligently for those we love, they are endeared to us far more because of our efforts.

We should never be out of love, if you have "fallen out" with this romantic inclination—if you have been in and out and are still out—you are just an outsider. You can stand aside and watch the world go by, but you are not a part of it. You are not truly in it.

Some people may call this romantic twaddle, but it is sound sense. We are made to love and to be loved. It is a fundamental part of our nature. The perpetuation of the race depends upon the craving of human instincts for affection, and the supreme happiness that we all crave can come to us only through following the dictates of our love nature.

Some people allow material responsibilities to keep them out of love. They cannot afford to fall in love; their responsibilities will not allow them this privilege—so they think. But no one has the right to cheat another out of the happiness that comes through adhering to the normal demands of life.

And there are those who have been disappointed. They have become man or woman-haters. They feel that they have been irreparably injured, that love has been a caustic source of torture to them. And in many cases there may be some cause for such an attitude.

And love is not without its dangers, it must be admitted. You have to take the risk. Some draw prizes in this romantic lottery, and others draw a blankety-blank. But even at its worst it is worth the risk incurred. If you have been cruelly disappointed, try again, and continue to try until you have found the exquisite delights that love brings.

Some day your dreams should come true. In the halo that environs your imagination you may see a little home on the hillside. You may hear the prattling, musical voices of children—your children—as they romp and play in the sunshine.

There will be your love haven, and the labor that may be necessary to obtain this substantial family structure will be as nothing when you consider its enchanting allurements.—Liberty Weekly.

SHERIFF'S SALE

The State of Texas, County of Mills: Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain Order of Sale issued out of the Honorable District Court of Lampasas County, on the 8th day of September, 1931, by S. R. Word, Clerk of said Court, for the sum of fourteen hundred and twelve dollars and fifty cents, and costs of suit, under a judgment in favor of Mrs. Kate M. Word, in a certain cause in said Court, No. 4212 and styled Mrs. Kate M. Word vs. L. W. Hill et al, having been placed in my hands for service, I, C. D. Bledsoe, as Sheriff of Mills County, Texas, did, on the 7th day of October, 1931, levy on certain Real Estate, situated in Mills County, Texas, described as follows, to-wit: Deed of Trust Lien.

The S. E. 1/4 of section No. 32, Certificate 21-359, block No. 2, E. T. Ry. Co. Survey and the S. E. 1/4 and East 1/2 of S. W. 1/4 of section No. 2, Certificate 1507, T. C. Ry. Co. Survey, containing 400 acres of land and being the same land conveyed to him by E. A. Hill and wife Feb. 10, 1915, and levied upon as the property of L. W. Hill et al, and that on the first Tuesday in November, 1931, the same being the 3rd day of said month, at the Court House door, of Mills County, in the town of Goldthwaite, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said Order of Sale, I will sell above described Real Estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said L. W. Hill et al.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Goldthwaite Eagle, a newspaper published in Mills County.

Witness my hand, this 7th day of October, 1931.

C. D. BLEDSOE, Sheriff of Mills County, Texas 10-23 By E. O. Priddy, Deputy.

GETTING FAVORS

People often ask too much and expect too much in the way of favors from employes.

If they have friends connected with manufacturing concerns they think they should be able to purchase goods at reduced prices.

If a friend is employed by a business advice firm they seek some free information and often are offended if refused such aid.

Persons employed in retail stores are often asked to supply goods to their friends at employes' prices.

Business tips of various kinds are asked by close friends of those who are employed where such information is possible to be obtained.

Newspapers are frequently asked to withhold information derogative to certain persons and their friends.

When friends are implicated in something they desire to keep from husbands or wives or other members of the family the reporter who finds out is asked to "forget it."

Every newspaper man deserves to extend all reasonable and legitimate favors to friends, but his duty is first to the paper and policies that employ him and news should be printed.—Houston Chronicle.

CONSOLIDATION OF COUNTIES

Interest is growing in the suggestion leading to the consolidation of large city governments with that of the county in which they are situated. People are growing tired of paying for duplicate governments; they are tired of paying taxes in two or three different places, when one could handle the business. The economy of one government appeals to them, and there is good reason to believe that in the larger city counties of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana consolidations will be made effective within a few years.

Not very many years ago it consumed most of the day for a citizen to drive fifteen miles to do business at the county seat. Small counties were an advantage. Because paved highways and automobiles were unheard of, ideas of standard counties became fixed at approximate areas of 900 to 1,000 square miles. Today every state in the Union has more county governments than are needed. In Texas, where there are 254 organized counties, the number should be reduced to 150 or less. Over in northeast Texas we have Franklin, Titus, Camp and Morris counties, four county governments in an area of 1,153 square miles. Each county has a full staff of officers paid out of the taxes collected from the people. Eleven hundred and fifty-three square miles make just an ordinary-sized county. Another county or two could be added without decreasing governmental efficiency, and at a cost not very much greater than that of a single county.

Of course this suggestion of county consolidation in the interest of efficiency and economy will not be accepted with wild enthusiasm by officeholders and politicians, and of course present county seat towns will want to sport a court house as they do now, but taxpayers ought to be for it. If the suggestion contains merit, it should be given consideration before all of the present-day county seats all manage to build $500,000 courthouses. It will be pretty hard to find adequate use for some of them after some of the county lines are erased from the map.—Faym and Ranch.

DRUG DISARMAMENT

Representatives of nearly forty nations, including the United States, have recently agreed upon a treaty that may go far toward reducing the production of narcotics to actual scientific needs, and perhaps eliminate the dreadful drug evil.

Under the terms of this treaty, the various governments would establish at Geneva an unprejudiced board of experts, which each government would annually submit an estimate of its people's drug requirements for the next year, based on legitimate consumption for the year past, with due allowance for increase of population and with special provisions for sudden new medical needs. Manufacture and import would be limited to these figures.

All figures would be published, so that any nation might check any other's demands, and suspicious increases would be subject to investigation by the central board, which would set its own estimates for countries that refuse to sign the treaty.

In large measure this instrument registers a victory for three American delegates—Sanborn Young of California, United States Narcotics' Commissioner Anslinger and Assistant Surgeon-General Treadway. These men won the fight against representatives of certain European drug-manufacturing and drug-exporting nations whose desire to limit manufacture was, to say the least, inaudible.

But the victory is still incomplete, for the treaty will not go into effect unless ratified by the congresses or parliaments of twenty-five countries, including at least five of the following so-called manufacturing countries—Great Britain, Germany, France, Japan, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Turkey and the United States.

Time to consider the matter may be lacking at the coming winter session of our own Congress. It is certain that delay will be urged in the parliaments of those foreign countries which maintain vast drug industries. The treaty's advocates have still a long, rough road to go.—Ladies Home Journal.

The first three months of this year Russia exported more than a million pounds of candy to the United States.

England broke all records in the number of books published last year. There being 9,907 new books and 5,468 new editions, translations and pamphlets.

Australia consumes more sugar in proportion to its population than any other country in the world, with America second and Great Britain a close third.

More than 80 per cent of the world's manganese ore comes from Russia, India, the Gold Coast and Brazil.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Period Accessories in the Boudoir

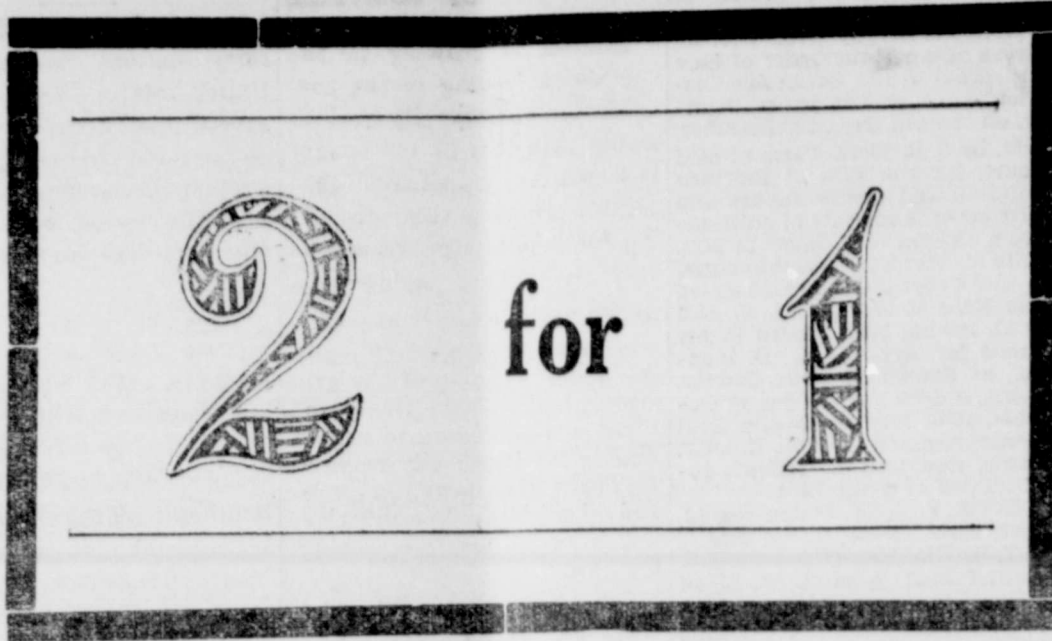

PERIOD designs in furniture and decorations and also in the accessories of the toilet table have always been popular for the American bedroom. As the Colonial style has found favor widely as the best note to strike in furnishing a sleeping apartment, and also as the approach to an added interest in early American motifs, some of the most alluring dressing tables now being displayed are equipped with comb, brush, mirror, slipper horn and manicure appliances that are really American in form, color, design and inspiration.

Monticello, the home of Jefferson, has given its name to one group of these toilet accessories which seem to reflect the best art ideals of the early colonists and to be particularly restrained and refined in spirit, as were the arts of the early American craftsmen. The shapes are based on the best work of the Colonial silversmiths and architects, an ornamentation of flowers and the pheasant-type of bird in the oval medallion recalling the hope chest decorations of that period. Two distinct color combinations and the variety of designs on the individual articles give opportunity for a note of individuality. These toilet accessories come in styles reflecting the spirit of various English and French periods also, and are from designs by such artists as Verna Cook Salomonson, Ben Nash, Ethel Parsons, Robert Leonard, Margaret Pritchard, and Burton Keeler. Decorators are finding them valuable in giving a final touch in the proper period spirit to the ensemble of the sleeping room, and the lady who uses the boudoir takes delight in their color, design and finish as well as feeling sure that she has something accurately within the historic range of the rest of the apartment.

CENTER CITY

A fine rain fell here Monday afternoon, which broke a long dry spell and cooled the weather, which had been very warm for this time of year.

Brother Mayfield and family of Brownwood were here last week end. He filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sunday. Brother and Sister Griffith also of Brownwood attended church. In the afternoon they went to Trigger Mountain, where Brother Jim Hays was ordained as a minister.

Mrs. J. W. Patterson and little daughter visited here last week end. She is now a student in Howard Payne college.

Saturday afternoon teachers, patrons and pupils met at the school building and enjoyed a nice program, a get-together meeting and books were issued. This was done in order that Monday would not be lost to the pupils. We are very proud of our school and of the interest shown by all. We are especially glad to get the faculty we have for our teachers. Prof. J. W. Patterson, Misses Lois Keese, Leota Simpson and Fannie Luckie. Miss Simpson is the only new teacher for this year. Prof. Patterson was with us last year. Miss Keese begins her third year with us, while Miss Luckie her fourth, and we feel she is one of the best primary teachers to be found anywhere.

Jake Seylor and crew are moving Ellis Head's residence to Center City, where he will be near his station. At this writing it is somewhere on the way.

Miss Lois Blackwell left Monday for North Bennett, where she will teach this term. Her brother, Hollis, and Miss Gladys Casbeer will begin their school at Pleasant Grove next Monday. We are proud of these home teachers and expect to hear good reports of their work. XX

SELF CULTURE CLUB

A very interesting meeting of the Self Culture Club was held with Mrs. J. M. Campbell as hostess, on Thursday afternoon of last week.

During the business session, which was conducted by the president, Mrs. Marvin Rudd, lawlessness was discussed, especially as to drinking and the club went on record as opposing drinking of intoxicating liquors, both socially and in private. Strong drink is undermining our future generations as well as destroying the present, therefore, a resolution was adopted by the club that we as a body stand for the enforcement of the law and frowning upon any form of entertainment that will cause the downfall of our young people.

A most enjoyable program followed the business session and Mrs. S. P. Sullivan favored us with a beautiful solo.

The hostess served tea dainties, which the guests enjoyed, while pleasant conversation was engaged in. A MEMBER.

cluded were Mark, Eva and Julia Dee Fallon, Mildred, Elizabeth, Wilson and Evelyn Mills, also Mrs. Floyd Jackson of Goldthwaite and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith and son of Big Valley.

Several here enjoyed the singing at Rock Springs Sunday afternoon.

Hallford and children and Mrs. Ida Smith visited relatives in Bangs Sunday.

Miss Ola Belle Williams visited the Conner girls Thursday afternoon.

The crowd at League Sunday night was smaller than usual, although some very interesting talks were made. The program was short, due to the fact that a number that were on the program failed to come.

The following program was rendered:

Subject—Faith.

Leader—Alva Spinks.

Opening song—Draw Me Nearer.

Opening prayer—Joe Spinks.

Scripture reading—Heb. 11:29.

SURPRISE FOR GREAT GREAT GRANDMOTHER

The eighth of October was the 77th birthday of Mrs. T. A. Lovelace and as she had not been quite so well recently her daughter, Mrs. A. H. Daniel, had only planned a quiet day for the occasion.

Just before noon though the following guests arrived and made the day merry for all:

A daughter, Mrs. B. B. Beck of Abilene, a son, Roy Lovelace of Brownwood, and a daughter, Mrs. T. M. Shipman, and husband of Indian Gap, and a granddaughter and baby, Mrs. Clint Swindle, of Priddy. They all brought the birthday cakes and many other tempting foods and the feast was added to by Mrs. A. H. Daniel's capable hands until the table was covered with the birthday dinner. Mrs. Lovelace enjoyed having her four children and all the others so much, that she is reported improving since her birthday celebration. She has two sons who could not be present, one in California, and one in New Mexico.

LOS AMIGOS

Los amigos or the "Friends" of the Methodist Sunday school reorganized their class the other day. Miss Nelson was unanimously elected our teacher. New officers were then elected and the class roll was reorganized. There are only about eight or ten on roll now. We invite every young person who does not attend Sunday school elsewhere to come and join our class.

Last Sunday after a very interesting lesson was discussed and explained by Miss Nelson, another discussion was begun. We discussed the possibility of some form of entertainment in the near future. A picnic was finally decided on and after several places were suggested No place was decided on. We postponed the rest of the discussion until next Sunday.

New members and visitors are always welcome to our class and again we invite all the young people in town to join our class. REPORTER.

Argument on the application of the Southern Pacific to acquire the Cotton Belt will be held by the Interstate Commerce Commission Nov. 13, it was announced Friday. The application is before the commission on an adverse report by Examiner Sullivan, who recommended that it be denied as not being in the public interest. A large number of briefs have been filed with the commission for and against the unification.

Fire following an attempt to blow the safe in a drug store at Cross Plains between Friday midnight and dawn, fatally burned one of the intruders and caused several thousand dollars damage. The burned man gave his name as Joe Robbins of Lampasas. He died three hours after being dragged from the flames. He said a man from Lampasas accompanied him. The store safe did not yield to the explosive.

While a 2-year-old daughter of a Salem, Ark., farmer, waited without discomfort in a hospital in Kansas City for the removal of a bean from her bronchial tube, a fit of coughing strangled the object, which she swallowed the bean at play in her Arkansas home and her parents were advised to seek immediate treatment. The infant was examined and the physicians finding the object lodged in such a way that they deemed her in no immediate danger. After the seizure of coughing, followed by choking, the child was taken to the operating room, but efforts to save her life were futile.

Representative Wright Patman of the Texarkana district is preparing a bill to introduce in the next congress to prohibit "short" selling of stocks on the stock exchange. The bill would make it unlawful to sell stocks not actually owned by the seller, but would permit sale through authorized agents of the owner. Mr. Patman believes congress should investigate the floating of foreign bond issues in this country to determine whether "Wall Street bankers deliberately defrauded the public." Many of these foreign bonds were sold in the United States with a promise of 8 and 10 per cent interest, which did not materialize, according to the Texas representative.

The postoffice department has reverted to a policy adopted by Postmaster General Albert S. Burleson of Austin, while a member of the cabinet of Woodrow Wilson, when he ordered use of cotton twine in place of jute twine for tying packages of mail. This has been urged for several years in a movement designed to aid the cotton producer. In the face of repeated demands the government continued with jute twine. The specifications of the postoffice department for large purchase of twine for the next six months, however, have substituted cotton for jute, which is a product of India. The department uses about eight carloads or close to 3,000,000 pounds of twine a year.

HUDSON BROS. DRUGGISTS

ENCOURAGING CRIME

Carelessness and stupidity on the part of the victims is responsible for much of the thieving and swindling which has reared such alarming proportions in this country, amounting to approximately two billions a year.

Some of the specific weaknesses of our "easy marks" are pointed out by a leading criminologist, who enumerates cashing checks for strangers, leaving automobiles unprotected, carrying unnecessarily large sums of money, buying real estate without seeing it or investigating its title, investing in stocks and schemes without consulting a banker, trying to beat gamblers at their own games, lending money and extending credit to persons of doubtful honesty, and so on.

If people fail to exercise any caution whatever in these matters, no law or official action can effectively protect them from thieves, swindlers and dead beats.

While the punishment of swindlers often occurs, it usually happens too late to do the victim any good, so far as recovering his money or property is concerned.

Honest people have it in their own power to greatly reduce losses from the above mentioned causes, by merely exercising ordinary good judgment, instead of indulging in reckless practices, which encourage crime.

TRAGEDY OF IGNORANCE

An excellent illustration of the difficulty of helping people who are ignorant, and unused to the methods of modern civilization, comes from China, where the Lindberghs flew over flooded areas for the purpose of ascertaining the extent of the needs of the people.

Subsequently, it was decided that the famous American aviator should transport medical officers with medical supplies to some of the isolated areas. When this was attempted the Chinese people, misunderstanding the purpose of the plane's arrival, and clamoring for food, threatened to destroy the plane, throwing the medicines into the water.

As a result of their ignorance and backwardness the plan to safeguard them from disease and pestilence had to be abandoned. They were too ignorant to accept the help of the modern world. As a result they must suffer while their would-be benefactors are unable to assist them.

OUTLOOK FOR POULTRY INDUSTRY

Less poultry on farms, reduced storage stocks of poultry and eggs, sustained consumption of poultry products, and cheaper feeds in relation to prices of poultry and eggs are the outstanding factors in the mid-summer poultry outlook report issued by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

The number of laying hens in farm flocks on July 1 was about 5 per cent less than the same date last year and the number of young chickens was about 10 per cent less. The output of commercial hatcheries from January to June showed a decrease of about 26 per cent compared with the same months last year.

The consumption of eggs, as indicated by the movement in four principal markets, was about 10 per cent greater than during the same period in 1930 while the consumption of poultry was slightly less than a year earlier. Receipts of fowl, both live and dressed, were extremely heavy, but low prices have been conducive to liberal consumption of this class of poultry.

Farm prices of grains used for poultry feeding in June were only 60 per cent of the five year average, 1923 to 1927, while the price of chickens was 76 per cent and eggs 63 per cent comparatively. On June 15 this year, both poultry and egg prices were higher than poultry feed prices while the opposite was true a year ago. The indication of a good crop of corn and wheat in the principal producing area gave promise of a continuing liberal supply of poultry feeds.

With fewer hens on farms and fewer young chicks from which to save pullets, it seems unlikely that the production of eggs during the rest of the year can be equal to that of last half of 1930 even with more liberal feeding. Pullets were hatched much later this year than last, which will tend to retard fall and early winter egg production to some extent. - Farm and Ranch.

TEXAS TRUCK LAW

From the viewpoint of public safety, which should be the first consideration, Judge Kennerly's decision—handed down in a special three-judge Federal court at Houston—holding valid the main body of Texas' truck law, is encouraging.

To the extent that the act seeks to regulate the size of vehicles and loads, and the speed, and otherwise safeguard the traveling public and protect the highway from wear and tear, it is "well within the power of the legislature," the decision holds. However, the court invalidated as discriminatory the section in effect limiting hauls of uncompressed cotton. The 7,000 pound maximum load for that commodity it compares with 24,000 pounds of compressed cotton, which might be carried over the highways without violating the law.

That provision evidently was not included primarily as a safety measure. Its effect would have been to compel the shipping of considerable cotton by means other than truck and it apparently has no proper place in a statute designed to safeguard the traveling public and protect the taxpayers' investment in their roads. The legislature should amend the truck law to correct that section.

As the court has upheld the safety provisions - including those relating to limits, to width and length of trucks and trailers, headlights and taillights and driver-licensing—the state highway patrol doubtless may initiate its deferred enforcement campaign. With an enlarged personnel and more rigid regulations, the patrol should be able to stop the abuses of which motorists continually are complaining - such as "hogging" the road. In particular, the new licensing provision affords a check against the offending driver. - San Antonio Express.

BEAT COTTON ACREAGE CUT LAW

It looks like a way has been found to beat the cotton acreage reduction law.

Here's the plan, that has been figured out, as far as The News has been able to learn.

Plant 30 acres of each 100 in peas, 30 acres in cotton, and the remaining 40 acres in corn and other feed crops. The peas and cotton are to be planted in alternate rows over 60 acres of land. It is claimed that on the greater part of the farms of Lamar county, crops planted in alternate rows, with peas will produce virtually as much as when the entire acreage is planted to cotton or corn.

If Bill Jones or Smith can plant alternate rows of cotton and peas on 60 per cent of his cultivated land and produce practically the same amount of cotton as if he were to plant every row in cotton there will be little reduction of the cotton surplus. However, he will be complying with the letter of the law as only 30 per cent of his land is in cotton—30 per cent planted in peas.

The cotton acreage reduction law makes no provision in regard to interplanting cotton with any other crop. It merely provides that only 30 per cent of the cultivated land can be planted to cotton in 1931 and 1932 with the further provision that cotton shall not be planted on the same land two years in succession. Under the plan explained to the News, the peas rows can be planted to cotton and vice versa, year after year.

The legality of this plan, however, cannot be vouched for as the attorney general has announced no ruling on the provisions of the law—Paris Morning News.

W. C. T. U. RALLY

Redication of American women to the cause of temperance and prohibition, to the end that it will be one of the big successes in the history of the world, was urged on members of the Texas chapter of the W.C.T.U. at a rally in Austin. The rally was a part of the program of the state convention of the organization, which concluded its sessions in the Capital City.

COMANCHE

A light docket is expected when district court convenes in Comanche Monday, Oct. 19.

Only five cars of peanuts had been shipped from Comanche up to Thursday at noon, as compared to about twice that many on the corresponding date last year.

Seventy-seven Proctor school children were given the first dose of diphtheria toxoid at the school building Thursday morning, when a local health organization was perfected.

J. Fred Benson was arrested Monday at Milbourn in Brown county by Sheriff Dwight Brightman and brought to Comanche and placed in jail on an alleged swindling charge.

Fifteen hundred and fifty-five bales of cotton had been received at the Comanche cotton yard up to Thursday morning, as compared to 576 on the corresponding date a year ago and 1230 for the entire season last year.

Tom T. Wallen, indicted in 1929 for swindling in Comanche county, was released by Tennessee authorities to Sheriff Dwight Brightman in Memphis last week. Mr. Wallen was brought to Comanche and his bond was set at $1000.

Wade Morris, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Morris of the Sidney community, who was hurt in an accident Saturday afternoon at five o'clock, died in a Brownwood hospital Tuesday at 11 p. m. Interment was made in the Pendergrass cemetery Wednesday morning. Wade was fatally injured when his skull was pierced by an iron rod from a stalk cutter, which was thrown by Mrs. Morris, who was cleaning the yard and did not know that her son, who had just come around the corner of the house, was near her.—Chief.

BROWNWOOD

Gus J. Rosenberg, owner and manager of the Economy Store, is recovering from a slight wound sustained Thursday, when a needle punctured his foot. He is limping about today.

Purse snatchers were at work here Friday night. A woman reported to police that someone snatched her purse while she was at the Daniel Baker-Howard Payne football game. Police are working on the case. She reported that there was only a small amount of valuables in the purse.

P. W. Pitts, 24, who is in a Dallas hospital suffering gunshot wounds was reported Saturday to be improving, according to his brother. Pitts was shot Monday, shortly after one o'clock and received the load of shot from a 12-gauge shotgun in his back, part of the shot entering his left lung and part into his left kidney. His left arm and elbow were also badly torn by the shot.

Three men face charges of resisting an officer, a woman faces a charge of drunkenness, and a dance hall is in ashes today, as the result of a dance near Winchell Saturday night. The men are charged with having tried to prevent Deputy Sheriff Cuxbo from arresting the woman. The deputy sheriff was hurt in the fight that followed. The dance hall was burned, it is thought, by indignant persons living near there.

Funeral services for Joe Robbins, formerly of this place, were held at Baird Friday afternoon. Robbins died in an ambulance en route from Cross Plains to Baird at 4:30 Friday morning. Robbins was found in a blazing drug store at Cross Plains and taken from the building and rushed to the hospital. His clothing was burned and torn to shreds, which led officers to believe that an explosion was responsible for his first injury and the fire. He formerly resided at Killeen, where his wife and children now live. He has a sister living in Brownwood.—Record.

side and lost control of his car. He could not move his foot nor handle the steering wheel, and his car headed into a telephone pole, with the result that his face and arm were badly cut and he sustained other injuries. His car was also considerably wrecked by the impact. He was taken home, where he has been receiving medical treatment and is considerably improved.—News.

LAMPASAS

The county school board met last Saturday and set the Teachers' Institute for Friday and Saturday, the 16th and 17th of October.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Vernon of San Antonio are here to visit his mother, Mrs. J. E. Vernon, who has been quite ill for several days.

Work was started Monday afternoon on excavating for the new city hall. The building will be placed closer to the sidewalk than was planned when excavation was made for the hotel building on the same site. As soon as this work is completed workmen are ready to go ahead with the building.

The continued dry weather in this section has made travel dangerous on the highways, due to the dust which the cars raise. When a car passes you at a high rate of speed there is such a dust cloud that you are unable to see but a few feet ahead until the dust rises, and is very easy to be right upon another car before you see it.

Monday, Sept. 28, a mule died in Lampasas county, of anthrax. This is the only death from that disease in this county for several weeks. If all parties will observe the quarantine regulations for a week or two longer and no new cases develop, the quarantine will be lifted from every section.

The fire department was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Bailey Saturday afternoon to extinguish a blaze in a stack of lumber in the yard. Mr. Bailey had oak and walnut timber stacked in the yard and some trash had been burned nearby and the grass carried the fire to the lumber.—Leader.

VALUE OF GOOD WILL

One of the striking developments of recent years in the business world is the increased value which individuals and corporations place upon the good will of the public they serve.

Good will is really only another name for confidence, for if a business concern has the confidence of the community it has its good will. It often takes years of fair dealing to build up the great asset of public confidence, yet it may be lost by a few shady transactions. For this reason, everlasting vigilance is required on the part of owners of a business, to see that not only are their own principles and policies sound, but that the spirit of the establishment is carried out by every person connected with it, even to the lowest salaried employee.

NO TAX PENALTY

Attorney General Allred has advised Comptroller George H. Sheppard that interest on all taxes delinquent prior to 1930 was stopped September 30, when house bill 80, releasing the penalties and interest on delinquent taxes if paid by January 31, 1932, became effective.

The comptroller also was advised that no penalty could be attached for 1930 taxes for non-payment prior to Feb. 1, 1932, and that interest on 1930 taxes will stop on October 15, and no penalty or further interest will attach until February 1, 1932.

Allred said his department would co-operate fully in the suit filed by Representative Vernon Lemens of Rainbow testing the constitutionality of the law passed at the second special session releasing back penalties and interest on all delinquent taxes, no matter how old, if the taxes were paid by January 31, 1932.

In an opinion several days ago to the comptroller, Allred expressed considerable doubt as to the right of the legislature to remit back penalties and interest, stating he believed them as much an obligation to the state as the taxes themselves. At the same time he admitted the legislature had the power to release penalties and interest that would accrue in the future. Allred said the courts have held the penalties and interest were a part of the tax and secured by liens.

The suit filed by Lemens was in the form of a mandamus to compel the Travis county tax collector to accept delinquent taxes for 1929 and issue a receipt in full without receiving the accrued interest and penalties.

TERRORS OF JUSTICE RARE

Another tragedy of blind justice is revealed with the announcement that Jesse Lucas, 50-year-old inmate of an Illinois prison, has been freed because another man, on his behalf, confessed that he killed the man for whose slaying Lucas was sent to the penitentiary.

Press dispatches tell us that Lucas had served 23 years for the crime that he did not commit, yet he is quoted as "bearing no grudge against society" for its fearful mistake. Let us all be thankful that this man has been freed, and that the latter part of his life will not be spent behind the bars that encompassed him unjustly.

However, there is no use for the sob sisters, male and female, to get worked up about it. There are not many instances of this kind. Occasionally, one discovers that an innocent man has suffered through the error of the jury and the law, but these cases are rare and infrequent.

OIL: All Wells Do Not Gush Liquid Gold

CHAPTER XIII WHEN oil is struck it does not usually spout up in a great fountain, although occasional "gushers" have long appealed to the popular imagination.

As a rule the driers have the well under complete control, and the oil is turned at once into tanks and pipe lines. Sometimes the oil has behind it only enough pressure of gas or water to bring it to the surface. In a great number of cases what is known as "shooting" with nitroglycerine is resorted to. A charge of dynamite is lowered to the bottom of the well, and is exploded in the oil sand for the purpose of breaking up the rock formations and facilitating the flow of the oil.

After a well has been drilled into the producing sand, the oil is carried by pipes from the well to steel or wooden tanks which have been set up to receive it.

"Flush" and "Settled" Production

"Flush" production indicates a well's first "enthusiasm"—when the oil flows from it freely and without mechanical assistance. After completion wells may be expected to "settle down" within a period of a few weeks. Wells which upon completion yield four or five thousand barrels of oil each day soon lose their high rate of production, and most wells must be pumped after the "flush" production period has passed. "Settled" production does not necessarily indicate a pumped well, as some wells have flowed at a settled or normal rate for years. Settled production is the volume produced from any well after the initial pressure has been released and production is down to a point where only normal and gradual decline is taking place.

Operation of a Well

The operation of a well after it is produced is usually referred to as the "lifting operation," which includes pumping and various methods of increasing or prolonging the flow of oil. Frequently natural gas is pumped in to renew the pressure and to force the oil to resume its flow. This and other rejuvenating methods now extensively used keep many a well producing which a few years ago would have been abandoned as exhausted. In flowing wells the "lifting cost" may be only a few cents a barrel, but it rises rapidly when production declines and pumping or repressuring and other rejuvenating methods are used. In many sections where wells have been producing for a long time, the margin between the cost of lifting and the sale value of the oil—after the payment of the royalty—may be reduced to practically nothing. Thus, during periods of low prices many wells must be either operated at a loss or shut down entirely.

Connecting Up an Oil Well

The Cost of Dry Holes

An oil well may be such in name only. Even on proven oil lands, where the elements of chance have apparently been removed, wells fail to strike oil. Approximately one well in three is a "dry hole," that is, it fails to strike oil or gas in commercial quantities. Seven thousand "dry holes" drilled annually in the search for oil represent a gross loss of approximately $150,000,000.

Producing Oil Wells

There are more than three hundred thousand producing oil wells in the United States. The production of these wells ranges from a fraction of a barrel a day to many thousands of barrels daily. The average production is about 8 barrels per day. In the older fields, where virtually all are pumped wells, the average production per well is in most cases less than 1 barrel a day. In newly opened fields the wells are in the "flush" production class, and yield relatively large quantities of oil. Thus it is seen that this country is dependent for its oil supply upon large types of producing oil wells, "settle" wells and "flush" wells—each type having a considerable range of production, with lifting charges varying greatly.
