BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. E. H. Haggood commemorated her daughter, Mary Edwyne, with a party celebrating her birthday Friday night, Sept. 14.

The guests were ushered into the living room, where many delightful games were played, which furnished diversion for the evening.

A contest of blowing a feather across the room was held with highest honors going to Catherine Hodges and Campbell Thompson.

Delicious refreshments were served to the honoree, Mary Edwyne, Carlyle Stark, Alberta Windham, Marvin Hodges, Vesva Sellers, Virgil Cooke, Sally Jean Hyslop, Catherine Hodges, Campbell Thompson, Morris Sellers and Paul Warlick.

The guests then left, expressing their appreciation for the delightful time and wishing the honoree many more happy birthdays.

FEED ON RENTED ACRES

The following ruling concerning feed grown on rented cotton acres is on file in the county agent's office.

"In case of a tenant who planted feed on rented acres, he is entitled to all the feed and landlord has no claim to any of it." W. P. WEAVER, Co. Agt.

Methodist Notes

The Methodist church is rapidly approaching the close of another conference year. Only a little more than a month until the session of the conference, which meets this year in San Antonio. There is much to do if we close the year in a creditable way. Whatever is done must be done at once. With this thought in mind the board of stewards had a meeting last Monday evening to look after the financial business of the church.

They found condition in fairly good shape, but they know that much is yet to be done. In order to obtain the greatest achievement there must be a united effort upon the part of all concerned. With the commencement of this present conference year an entirely new financial system was adopted. For the first time the finances were placed upon a voluntary basis: Every member, and friend of the church, was given a card to sign, signifying the amount that each would be willing to pay. These, for the most part, were signed and turned over to the board of stewards.

This feature, in the main, worked well. Many have faithfully met their self-assigned pledge, while some, for various reasons, have not met their obligations in full. It is now necessary to meet these obligations, so far as it is humanly possible to do so. There may be some who pledged in good faith who by force of circumstances can not carry out their obligations. Let everybody join in the effort to meet all these obligations. The Methodist church at Goldthwaite has had an enviable record in the past. Let us not fall now.

Several of our young people, some of our most faithful in their attendance at church and Sunday school, are among those who are leaving for school. They will be greatly missed in the congregation and in all church activities. Notwithstanding this, however, we are all glad that they are able to go to college. Their future depends to a great degree upon the knowledge that may be obtained at these fountains of knowledge. It is the hope of all that they may return to us better equipped to take their places in life's battle and thus be of still greater worth to the world.

Business as usual next Sunday. Let each of us be in our respective places, ready for every good work. J. S. BOWLES

PEP SQUAD ORGANIZED

Thursday, September 13, 1934, the girls of Goldthwaite high school met and organized a pep squad for 1934-35. Daphne Evans was elected chief yell leader, Willie Faye Grey first assistant yell leader, Gerty Johnson second assistant yell leader, Juanita Rudd secretary-treasurer, Ima Lois Bayley reporter, Mrs. Barnett first sponsor, Mr. Wills second sponsor and Miss Cox third sponsor.

There are more girls in the pep squad this year than there has been in several years. The girls seem to be enthusiastic about their work and are showing a great deal of school spirit.

It will be impossible for the girls in the squad to have their uniforms ready for the first game, but we will be on the side line boosting for the Eagles. REPORTER

INJURED ONES IMPROVING

Reports yesterday from those injured in the wreck near Waco the early part of last week gave the pleasing assurance that they were all getting along as well as could be expected. Chas. Frizzell and Hulon Fletcher were brought home last Sunday and are each able to sit up and appear to be making rapid improvement. Miss Frances Page is still in the hospital in Waco and her mother is with her, but it is likely she will be brought home the latter part of this week, possibly today.

More Checks Distributed

The county agent's office has about finished passing out the checks for the first payment on the hog-corn contracts. An aggregate of $8795 has been received and there are fifty checks still out. The second and third payments will aggregate about $13,000 and will be paid in November, 1934, and February, 1935.

About $2000 is still due on the 1934 cotton checks and parity payment and it is expected these checks will be received early in October.

EAGLES VS. HORNETS

This afternoon at 4 p. m. the Goldthwaite Eagles will have their first tilt of the season with the Lometa Hornets.

The Eagles are supporting the greatest football team this year that the high school has produced in several years.

The backfield this year has everything in the way of power, speed and endurance. It consists of McDermott, Todd, Rudd and Ford.

The line is made up mostly of new men, but they are looking good and much is expected of them in this game.

For the first time in several years the Eagles have plenty of substitutes, and it looks as if the subs know their stuff, too. Bill Todd will act in capacity of captain and Rudd will act as alternate captain.

The starting line up will be: El Wayne Doggett, 135, center; F. Soules, 147, right guard; A. Carter, 165, right tackle; Coffman, 175, right end; B. Johnson, 140, left guard; B. Jones, 155, left tackle; Yarborough, 147, left end; Todd, 148, quarter back; McDermott, 146, full back; Rudd, 172, half back; Ford, 158, half back.

The schedule for this season is as follows:

Sept. 21, (today)—Lometa here
Sept. 28—Comanche—there.
Oct. 5—Coleman, conference game—there.
Oct. 12—Bangs, conference game—undecided.
Oct. 19—Winters, conference game—there.
Oct. 26—Santa Anna—here.
Nov. 3—Brady, conference game—here.
Nov. 9—open.
Nov. 16—Ballinger conference game—there.
Nov. 23—San Saba, conference game—here.

Are you a backer of your home town team or are you a slacker? If you are a backer, you will be at the fair park Friday afternoon to help your team win. If you are a slacker, you won't be there. All the team needs now is your support. Do they get it? REPORTER

SCOBY-SULLIVAN

Mr. A. G. Scoby and Miss Lois Sullivan were united in marriage at the Baptist parsonage last Saturday afternoon, Rev. Franklin E. Swanner officiating.

The groom comes from Wills Point, near Dallas, and will make his home here on the Sullivan ranch, south of town. The bride is one of Mills county's most deserving and admired ladies. She was reared here and has always been the center of a large circle of admiring friends. She is a leader in church work, especially among the young people.

The many friends here of the bride welcome her young husband to their circle and are pleased to know that Mr. and Mrs. Scoby will make their home here.

SELF CULTURE CLUB

The Self Culture Club will hold its first meeting of the club year Thursday, September 27, in the home of Mrs. R. M. Thompson, at the regular hour, 3:30 o'clock. All members please take notice. Also associate members are always expected to attend. MRS. JOHN HESTER, Sec.

Cotton Price Continues Good

The certificates for marketing cotton have not been received, hence cotton can not be sold on this market. However, the price is around 13-14 cents and many believe that after the first rush following receipt of certificates there will be a better market, but this is a matter of opinion.

G. R. Goosby, assistant farm agent, is at College Station endeavoring to hasten the issuance of Mills county's quota of certificates and it is hoped they will be received in the next few days—possibly today. The county's supply of interim certificates has been exhausted and no more will be received, hence the entire amount of cotton yet to be marketed must await the arrival of the certificates from College Station, as the Bankhead law does not allow marketing of cotton without such certificates.

P. T. A. MEETING

On Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 18, the Parent Teachers Association of Goldthwaite met in its first regular session of the 1934-35 school year. The meeting was conducted by the newly elected president, Mrs. Marvin Rudd, who is filling the vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. J. E. Greathouse. Mrs. Duke Clements was installed in the office of second vice president, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. R. V. Littlepage.

The meeting was opened with a short but interesting and beneficial program. The audience sang "Work, For the Night Is Coming." Miss Myrna Miller sang "Perfect Day" and the entire faculty was introduced to the parents, and the main feature of the program was a talk by Mr. Smith. He defined education as "a reaction to environment," which gives us an insight to our real purpose as teachers and parents; namely, to establish proper environment so that the reaction will be the desired one.

Very little business was transacted during the first meeting except plans for the year. This week and next will be the weeks for a membership drive in which the association wishes to enlist especially the parents who have children in school. The Parent Teachers association is the only meeting where the parents and teachers can really mix and mingle and surely, parents, you are eager to know the teacher who is helping to create the environment in which your child lives eight hours of the day during nine months of the year. Join the Parent Teachers Association and come help us make this a successful year in our school. X

TEXAS CENTENNIAL

Machinery to make the 1936 Texas Centennial celebration the outstanding event of the twentieth century has been set in motion this week with the opening of headquarters for the Centennial commission in Dallas.

The tremendousness of their task may be grasped when it is recalled that the legislature has required historical celebrations at San Antonio, Houston, Nacogdoches, Goliad, Gonzales, Huntsville, and other places of historic interest, together with the central exposition at Dallas. It is the purpose of the commission to make the central exposition full statewide in its nature, laying stress upon those happenings in early Texas history when her heroes laid the foundations of the great commonwealth that exists today.

The celebration will be one of which not only every Texan, but every American, will be proud.

SPECIAL SERVICES TO HONOR REV. MORRIS

Rev. I. T. Morris, who celebrates his eighty-first birthday Sunday, will be honored with special services held at the Methodist church at 11 o'clock. He was born, September 16, 1853, was licensed as a local minister in 1875, and admitted into the White River conference in Arkansas in 1877. He was married March 23, 1879.

Rev. Morris has a record of 57 years as a pastor and presiding elder in the Methodist church. He served the First Methodist church of Brady for four years, 1912 to 1916. In all his ministry he was loved and appreciated as preacher and leader and today is a beloved citizen of Brady. At eighty-one years of age he is seldom absent from any service held in the church. His kindly greeting and words of comfort and cheer make friends of all he meets.

Mrs. Morris is entitled to the same honors and is loved by all. She has been with him in all his work for fifty-seven years. Today, with the golden rays of sunset shining in their faces, they are the lovers of over half a century ago.

Mrs. Morris will celebrate her birthday on October 5. The First Methodist church, with all Brady, wishes for these good people many more happy birthdays. —Brady Standard.

Brother Morris was pastor of the Goldthwaite Methodist church some years ago. He and his good wife and other members of his family are remembered by many friends here, who are pleased to extend congratulations to him and good wishes for him and all members of his family.

ESCAPE RECAPTURED

Sheriff Bledsoe, accompanied by City Marshal Harry Allen and Sam Morris, went to Weatherford the first of the week and brought back Vivian Milam, who was under arrest there. He was arrested here some weeks ago on complaint charging him with having robbed the Woods filling station north of town. He made his escape and remained at large until taken into custody at Weatherford. He was placed in jail here Tuesday night.

Baptist Reminder

Sunday school 10 a. m. Sunday morning.

Preaching 11 a. m. Sunday morning.

B. T. S. 7:00 p. m. Sunday evening.

Preaching 8:00 p. m. Sunday evening.

We had unusually good services Sunday. We had 156 in Sunday school. At the morning services we had three additions to our church. A teacher is always appreciated more that lines up with some church. It seems that we have a splendid group of teachers this year.

Very often people are in doubt about their salvation. You ask them if they are Christians. "I hope so," or "I have joined the church." It seems to me that God's word is plain on this subject. I contend that a man can know when he is saved, and that he is saved if God's book is man's way made plain. Surely, it would not keep a man in doubt, I will discuss this subject Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Sunday night my subject will be, "A Wheel Within a Wheel." It is interesting to note that our churches throughout the country are becoming more missionary. Four or five churches have already sent in a mission offering this month. It would be fine if all of our churches throughout the county could make an offering before the convention meets in November. If it is just $1 it will be helpful in carrying on the Lord's work.

FRANKLIN E. SWANNER

W. M. U. MEETING

The W. M. S. of the Baptist church met Monday from 3 to 5 in the home of Mrs. W. B. Jackson, for their annual social and to install the new officers. Mrs. Franklin E. Swanner read first Corinthians, 1:3-4, and told a short story which brought out many points of this passage as the devotional. Mrs. L. B. Ashley led in prayer. A quartet composed of Mmes. Allen Ross, Homer Doggett, Otto Simpson and Floyd Sansom, then sang "Have You Counted The Cost," which was enjoyed by all.

After the program, Mrs. Will Pence presented the new officers, which had been selected and each responded with a brief talk. Mrs. Carl Bledsoe then took charge and we had a short business session. The circle leaders, Mmes. Allen Ross, Jess Hall and J. O. Neal, were appointed. We will meet Monday at 2 p. m. at the church to organize the circles.

We express our appreciation to Mrs. Will Pence, who has served so faithfully in the absence of the president last year, and she was re-elected first vice-president.

Mmes. Clarence Cave and Ed Gilliam took charge and asked that two members choose, as if choosing for a spelling match and at a given signal, one at the head of the line would hop to the door and back to touch the one she was standing by. They would then hop as the others had done. At the end of the game Mrs. Cave informed the ladies there wasn't any prize for the winner, which created much laughter.

At the close of the games refreshment of ice cream and cake was served to 37 members. We had several new members and we know they will do their part in helping to make the work a success.

Mrs. E. B. Anderson dismissed with prayer. REPORTER

Livestock Buying Is Scheduled

The government buying of sheep, goats and other livestock is subject to strict rules. County Agent W. P. Weaver has furnished the Eagle with information regarding schedules and other matters of interest, in which he says:

Buying of drought relief sheep started Monday and up to Tuesday night the sorter reported about 60 per cent of the sheep appraised had been condemned. A quota of 1200 shipping sheep per week has been fixed for Mills county. Each commissioner's precinct will be allowed 300 live sheep.

Appraisals will be made for the precincts weekly, as follows:

Precinct 1, Monday; Committee, Will Rose, Elam Berry and Jim Weatherby.

Precinct 4, Tuesday; Committee, Hern Harris, W. H. Freeman and R. E. Boyd.

Precinct 2, Wednesday; Committee, J. R. Soules, J. M. Geeslin and W. G. Wall.

Precinct 3, Thursday; Committee, D. A. Hamilton, A. W. Savoy and W. W. Perkins.

Up to Wednesday, when the purchasing of cattle was temporarily suspended, 5053 cattle had been sold to the government. Of this number 2103 were condemned and 5966 left on the farms. It is not known when buying will be resumed.

We have the following instructions relative to the preparation of pelts for shipment.

"The producer shall slaughter the sheep and Angora goats classified as unfit for use and remove the pelts and skins for shipment, observing reasonable care and precaution in performing such operations, so that the pelts or skins will not be mutilated and will be suitable for the usual commercial uses. Payments shall not be made unless pelts or skins are in reasonably satisfactory condition. The producer shall also dispose of the carcasses of those animals classified as unfit for use, according to the instructions of the authorized agent of the secretary of agriculture.

"No payment will be made for animals accepted for use and pelts of animals not fit for use until animals and pelts are delivered to a designated shipping point."

STUDENTS IN COLLEGE

A number of Goldthwaite young people have entered the universities and colleges this fall. The Eagle has endeavored to get a full list of them, but naturally some have been overlooked. If those interested will notify this office, the omitted names will be added next week.

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

Mrs. Ellis Wallace of Ratler was shopping in the city Saturday and made the Eagle an appreciated call.

D. O. Simpson, owner of the Caradan gin, was an appreciated business visitor in the Eagle office Monday.

Mrs. Mary Porter and Miss Dora Rogers of Fort Worth were here the first of the week, guests in the Will Burks home.

Miss Flowers Lindsey of Ridge was in the city Saturday shopping and visiting. She made the Eagle a short call while here.

W. J. Strickland attended the funeral of an old friend, Foster Brim, at Goldthwaite Wednesday.—Coleman Democrat-Voice.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott of Eastland county spent last week end visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Langhitz.

Maurice Stephens and son, Bobby, came in Monday night from Wichita Falls for a visit in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Stephens.

When you have visitors or know any other local item the Eagle appreciates your reporting it.

W. J. Stark, one of the good men of the Rock Springs community, looked after business in the city the early part of the week and called at the Eagle office.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McCullough and daughters, Mary Ella and Mary Frances, spent the week end in Lampasas, attending a family reunion of the McCullough families.—Hico News-Review.

Miss Opal Gilstrap, district deputy state superintendent of public education, was here last week end on a tour of her district and conferring with school authorities. Miss Gilstrap has been engaged in this line of work for several years.

Mrs. M. Y. Stokes, Jr., and sons went to Comanche Sunday to meet Capt. Stokes, who was on a tour of inspection of C C C camps in Texas. He came home Sunday night, but left for Abilene Monday morning, to continue his inspection trip.

A letter from Mrs. Leonard Doughty brings the pleasing information that Mr. Doughty stood the trip to Annapolis well. He will be under treatment in Johns-Hopkins hospital until the specialists decide he can undergo the operation on his eyes. His friends here are awaiting anxiously the announcement of the success of the operation.

Rev. J. D. Long, who recently returned from the hospital, where he underwent a serious operation and is improving, was in to see the Eagle Tuesday and reported the marriage of Miss Edna Williams and Weldon Hill at his home last Thursday night. The young people were reared in this county and have many friends who extend congratulations and good wishes. They will make their home in the Lake Merritt community.

Floyd Fox, local Goodyear tire agent, accompanied by Raymond Bledsoe and Alvin Hayes, attended a state convention of Goodyear dealers at Dallas last Friday night and they were guests at a banquet in the Baker hotel, arranged by their company. The agents who had sold their quota of Goodyear products were extended this courtesy. The quota was pretty high for each agency, but hard work and good salesmanship put it over for the Goldthwaite agency and those in most other good towns.

Burch is prepared to clean and press garments for any member of the family and takes orders for made-to-measure garments. See his samples for Spring and Summer Clothing.

ROCK SPRINGS

Our hearts were made sad when our Saviour took from our midst Mr. Paul James Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. He and his wife had been our neighbors and friends for several months. Mr. James hadn't been sick, but a few days, but he just couldn't get well. The angel beckoned him to come where there wasn't any pain or sorrow. He will be missed in the Big Valley church, where he went to services when he could. It is our loss and heaven's gain. I feel sure this community, extends sympathy to his dear wife and the Roberson family. Mr. Paul was buried at White-right Monday afternoon by the side of his father. May God's richest blessings rest upon Mrs. James in her lonely life.

Bro. Homer Starnes from Brownwood will preach here Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Come and bring someone with you.

John Roberts and wife came home Wednesday from Galveston. They reported a good trip. Miss Ruth Strickland went on to Coleman and her brother took her home. She lives at Brady.

Some from here had a good time on the river Saturday night eating chili and drinking lolly pop. The music was fine, but I failed to get all the musicians' names. Collier Ballard wasn't present. We don't know why. We decided he didn't care for chili like he does ice cream. Anyway he was missed.

I enjoyed the visit in Mrs. Ethel Elland's home in Snyder last week. I visited in Clyde Wilford's, Jesse Isaac and Maley Stack's homes. I also went to prayer meeting on Wednesday night. Our friend, Lawrence Hays is the pastor. He conducted the prayer meeting, which I enjoyed. Everyone seems to think lots of Mr. Lawrence. I feel sure he will do good work there.

We wish to extend our sympathy to Mrs. Foster Brim in the misfortune of losing her companion. We also sympathize with Jim Brim and family and the Archer family.

Mrs. Paul James' father and mother and brother and sister from Lubbock and Mr. Gentry from Lubbock, and Mr. Paul's mother and brothers from White right, were called to the bedside of Mr. Paul Sunday morning.

Loy Long and family spent Saturday night and Sunday in the Ellis home.

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Moss were given a bridal shower Saturday night down at the river, where they enjoyed the chili feast.

Beryl Turner and family visited in the J. M. Traylor home on Saturday night. They are moving to Algerita, in San Saba county, where Mr. Turner has a school.

We are hoping our commissioner will get our roads fixed before he goes out of office. There are two bridges on the road to the Ellis farm that sure needs fixing. We can't use one of them at all and the other will soon be that way.

Claud Holley and wife and Mr. Franks and wife from Gonzales, Albert Downey and family and Catherine Vaughn from Mullin, Homer Doggett and family, Fred McClary and Joe Roberts and family spent the day Sunday in the Nickols home.

George Hamett and family from DeLeon and Joe Davis and family spent Sunday in the J. C. Stark home.

Sundry Herbert and Horace Cooke, James and Shirley Nickols and Fred McClary played croquet at J. C. Stark's. All had a good time. Mr. Hamett also played.

Miss Johnnie Belle Circle entertained her friends with a tramp party. They ate sandwiches and had a good time.

Miss Nellie D. Cooke left for Winters last week, where she began her school in Runnels county at Harmony Monday. We wish for her success in her work. She will be missed by her father and brothers and her friends.

Thanks, Mount Olive, for your compliment. I think I, too, know you personally, and your parents also. You tell us lots of interesting news. I heard a person say the writer from Mount Olive is an educated person and, of course, I said yes, for I believe I am right.

Mrs. Glenn Nickols and James called in the Hutchings home in Center Point and in the John Roberts home Monday afternoon.

This place was represented most every night at the show in town. If you are blue, it will do you good to go and have a hearty laugh. BUSY BEE

RATLER

(Too late for last week)

There was a large crowd at Sunday school and church Sunday morning. There was also church Sunday night. Bro. Jim Nicholson of Brownwood did the preaching. The church has conference and called Bro. Rev. B. F. Renfro and family and Rev. Nicholson visited in the Garner Partridge home Monday night and had a musicale.

B. F. Renfro, Jr., returned home Tuesday from Big Valley. He has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Raymond Stewart.

Partridge and Ellis Wallace; Misses Johnnie Belle Circle and Leola Bales. At the noon hour M. R. Circle, Wilson and B. F. Renfro, Jr., joined them. Flames sweeping California forests left one man dead, two missing and thousands of acres of blackened timber and brush land Sunday.

West Texas sheriffs will hold their annual convention at Lampasas the last week in November instead of the first week in October as originally scheduled.

A compilation of new car totals for the nation, covering the first seven months of 1934, shows this state to stand third in total increased number of cars sold this year, as compared with last year.

A search for bandit treasure in a cave near Greenwood, Mo., supposedly used as a hiding place by Jesse James, notorious desperado of 50 years ago, resulted in the death by drowning of a 20-year-old Kansas City youth Sunday.

Sheep buying began in about 40 Texas counties Monday with an increase of 18,000 in the state's weekly quota, the assistant drouth relief director of Texas said. A quota of 90,000 head has been set to replace the old quota of 72,000.

Sixty years ago, a mason building a brick wall in front of a steel safe in Sterling, Ill., lost a billfold of $40 in bills. Friday, when the wall was being torn out, a workman found the money embedded in mortar, still in good condition. The bills were sent to the Treasury to be exchanged.

An effort to drown the night manager of a San Antonio cafe, was made early Friday by two bandits who abducted him, after robbing the place and took him to Brackenridge park and threw him, bound and gagged, into the San Antonio river. He said the water was over his head, but he managed to free himself from his bonds. The bandits took $30 from the cash register.

The AAA's checks writers Monday had reached nearly a $4,000,000 a day mark in payments to farmers participating in the corn hog program. On the best day last week, they turned out checks totaling in excess of $3,700,000 for more than 36,500 producers. From Sept. 8 to 14, inclusive, payments approximated $15,867,259 bringing total payments, the administration reported Monday, to $78,500,000.

The duty of finding work for America's jobless was placed on the shoulders of employers, not the government, by Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the reconstruction corporation, speaking before the national business conference, Jones said flatly: "The surest way to get people off the relief rolls is to find work for them, and in the main, that is principally the job of business and industry, not of the president."

Testimony that war supplies apparently are being piled up in Germany in spite of the Versailles treaty was given to a senate munitions committee that earlier had suppressed evidence it felt was even more explosive. Jaded by disclosures, senate investigators nevertheless straightened in their seats to hear also that the DuPont company, in February, 1933, hired an international spy to sell powder in Germany and Holland.

Francis J. Gorman chairman of the textile strike committee, issued an ultimatum Monday that if the strike was not settled this week all remaining divisions of the industry would be called out. At the same time, Gorman disclosed plans to have a resolution adopted by the approaching convention of the American Federation of Labor in San Francisco, demanding the resignation of Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator.

A 26-year-old Irish waitress, kept right of singing hash Friday in a small cafe in Houston, although she had been advised she was heiress to a fortune of $150,000. Several years ago she married a wealthy man. He died a short time later in Florida and left an estate of $500,000. There was litigation over how the estate should be divided among his wife and children by a former

RELIEF BONDS

The Texas senate on Saturday passed a bill for issuing $5,000,000 of the remaining $9,500,000 relief bonds and transfer relief administration to the state board of control.

Without a record vote the senate invoked a budget for the expenditure of the funds. It would prohibit the sale of bonds or spending of more than $1,000,000 in November and $1,500,000 monthly in December and January. Senator Joe Moore of Greenville, author of the amendment reducing the amount and of budgeting expenditures, explained the extra $1,000,000 not included in the budget would be available for October.

It was necessary to return the bill to the house of representatives for its approval.

CHARGE TAX EVASION

Charging fraud and fictitious stock transactions the Treasury has demanded additional income taxes of $3,075,103 from Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury and ambassador to Great Britain. The government filed before the board of tax appeal an answer to Mellon's suit in which he demanded relief from a deficiency tax assessment of nearly $2,000,000 and a refund of about $240,000.

FARM PRICES ADVANCE TOWARD PARITY, 1933-'34
Stacked coins show additional returns per crop unit to cooperating producers in benefit payments on domestic allotment or other portion of crop designated in contract

The real price (farm price plus benefit payments) that farmers are receiving for their allotted production of major farm products in the parity shows marked improvement. The figures along the parity price line of the above graph represent the amounts per unit farmers must receive, however, before their products will have as great exchange value as they did in the parity years, 1910-14. The increase in real prices since March 15, 1933, and the proportion of the real price farmers are receiving on designated portions of their crop in the form of benefit or rental payments under agricultural adjustment contracts are shown.

STYLES IN NEW YORK

Dinner Suit Important in Fall Fashions—

The dinner suit, so strongly sponsored in Paris openings, promise to be the really important costume in the fall mode. In straight, slim, simple stylings in keeping with the richness of its materials, it is being highlighted in New York shops—along with new and appropriate accessories. It is noted in the new silk and synthetic velvets and sheer woollens including versions featuring metal threads and slit cellulose film. Many smart models are noted with slit skirt and the shorter, rather tight-fitting jacket. Shimmering metallic blouses contribute the formal touch to many of the plain black velvet dinner suits. Others are stunningly topped off with satin blouses in silk or synthetics with plain, ribbed, corded or blistered surfaces. Gold in its various shades is the favored meta color, and in satins, light oyster white and cream tones are featured.

Handbags in Smart New Fabric and Styling—

In smart new alliances with gloves and shoes, handbags have come out this season in a variety of interesting new fabrics and stylings, and this applies to bags for sports, daytime, afternoon and evening. Generally speaking, handbags are larger, particularly the daytime and restaurant types. There are many with broad bases and tops, also new barrel shape treatments—in addition to the classic pouch and envelope stylings, which are noted this season in interesting variations. In addition to the various leathers—plain and crushed calf, pig, suedes and in new grains and finishes, there are dozens of new fabrics in bags for any and every occasion—these including new corded fabrics for daytime—displayed often with matching shoes—and sheer woollens, rayon failles and velvets for dressy afternoon and evening. There are also mixtures in wool, silk and synthetics in tailored afternoon and evening bags. Envelope and pouch styles prevail for evening with the bouffant robe de style of Renaissance inspiration as well as drawing bags in rich fabrics. Black and brown are leading colors. Bag fittings are unusually smart in detail and linings—often in heavy moire and satin—usually in color matching the bag material. Metal and composition ornaments further distinguish many of the smartest daytime bags.

High Crowns Give New Style Interests to Hat Mode—

Hats have swung into new highs for the moment—crowns in new Tyrolean, Russian, Spanish and Chinese effects, vying in interest with the new Hindu turban—another favored hat styling—and the ever-favored beret with its limitless new effects, tilts and stylings. Black velvets in silk and synthetics—the new plain versions as well as ribbed and corded, metal-threaded, and those with slit cellulose film—are first in fabric importance. The latter fabrics are particularly important in dressy afternoon and dinner hats. One of the smartest of such dinner hats is featured in flat little tricorne effect with a coquettishly draped, veiled edge also with the slit cellulose film. Day time models often are accented by lacquered quills in contrasting colors. There are other chic models accented by novel metal and composition ornaments.

Footgear Higher and Glove-Fitting—

Inspired by the popular slit skirt, as well as by Directoire, Renaissance and Moven age trends in the mode, footwear in glove-fitting silhouette stylings is growing more and more important. Shoes this season—for the most part—are high-throated and outline the foot trimly—fitting as snugly as a glove. Many of the smart newer numbers extend above the ankle bone. Soft kidskins, suedes, gabardines and other dull-surfaced fabrics are important in daytime models, these often accented by discreet, shiny patent trims in massed pipings, very narrow and applied in a manner to accentuate the glove-fitting effect as well as to give the foot a shorter appearance. Scuffless heels are featured in many smart evening as well as daytime styles, these heels simulating, as they do, almost any and every type of material found in shoes.

Russian Influence in Fall Ensembles—

The Russia influence continues to influence the mode this fall particularly in the popular tunic styling in frocks for day and evening. Sheer woollens, silks and synthetics are all being featured in New York shops in interesting Russian tunic interpretations. One very chic daytime model features it in a new black rayon alpaca—the tunic effect achieved through a separate long jacket with neckline accented by large metal taffeta bow. It is carried out in another model in a sheer woolen with a matching rayon satin yoke and sleeves, and worn with a high flaring top Russian turban, which is decidedly effective. The metallic tunic—often Russian in treatment—is a favorite top for the black satin or velvet skirt for dinner wear.

Style Briefs—

Knitted clothes with British look are decidedly important in the fall mode. There are some stunning new knits in wool and rayon mixtures in reddish, brownish and greenish shades.

There's a decided trend for "faded shades" in formal evening gowns—smoky flesh and beige shades.

A smart town costume for early fall combines wool and blistered rayon satin—the satin featuring cascade revers matching high round collar and deep cuffs. It is noted in black and boxwood green.

Peacock blue—that odd blue green shade—is very smart among new fall colors being featured in New York shops in ensembles for afternoon and evening.

The Molyneux colors—featured in his collection—one that was really "different"—are decidedly important. They are color combinations based on flowers, including the ragged tulip with shades of yellow and red. His greens vary from the deepest old leaf shades to light lettuce.

Plaids are headlines in sports fashions and for campus clothes have an air about them of being at ease.

"Choir Boy" frock—an interesting tunic variation seen in woollens as well as silk and synthetic crepes—is a favorite for school and business—and in such color combinations as green and black, red and black, rust and brown.

NEWS FLASHES

The judiciary committee of the Texas house Monday voted its approval to a resolution proposing investigation by a special legislative committee into lobbying methods practiced with the Texas legislature.

In the face of mounting protests against what they already have disclosed, Senate munitions investigators said Sunday they intended to stuff the record full of information in a hurry for fear outside pressure might clamp down the lid.

The farm administration announced Saturday that the third cotton "parity" payment due in December would be combined with the second rental payment and that both would be distributed in October. The total thus to be paid out will approximate $72,500,000. The parity payments due cotton producers total $28,000,000. The second installment of the rental payment is approximately $44,500,000. The AAA expects to pay benefits on the 1934 crop totaling $117,052,539. Payments on the first installment totaled $41,061,775 up to September 14, leaving payments yet to be made to farmers on the 1934 cotton program of $75,990,764. The first installment was one-half of the rental payment, with the second to be the remainder of the rental. The third installment is a parity payment, calculated on the basis of 1 cent a pound on the estimated share of each farmer's average past production which enters domestic consumption.

"My mother used it for a number of years and we do not think there is a better medicine. I was pleased when I saw Syrup of Black-Draught advertised. I sent for it and gave it to my children (as a laxative) for colds and when they felt bad. Soon they felt fine." . . . Lutheran Convention Issues

Dr. Martin Luther (above) translating the Bible in his chamber at the Wartburg Castle, Germany, 1534. Luther's Translation of the Scriptures unified the country's numerous dialects into an accepted German speech, which is practically that of today. As a result of Luther's work, one may obtain the Bible today in the languages of 1000 different peoples. Besides the two great churches noted on this page, millions of Christians in other continents are recognizing the event this Fall.

Lutheran Church of the Ascension, Savannah, Ga., where the United Lutheran Church will open its Ninth Biennial Convention on Oct. 17th. (Insert) The Reverend Frederick H. Knobel, D. D., LL.D., of New York City; its president. The convention will comprise delegates from 34 synods in the United States and Canada. High spots of its program will be consideration of Lutheran Church Unity; debate upon motion picture reform and other social problems, and celebrations, respectively, of the Bible Translation Anniversary and the 200th Anniversary of the landing of the Salzburg exiles at Savannah.

A "SABBATH SCHOOL" MEETING.—The care with which the Luther Translation of the Scriptures was made is evidenced by the fact that he called six Wittenburg University professors into weekly consultation. He referred to them as his "Sabbath School." All were scholars of note. Colleagues from other schools were consulted also. Hebrew, Greek, Latin, Chaldean and German entered into the discussion. Luther's word was final.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Short Bladed Knives New Table Style

THIS simple luncheon place-setting is of interest as showing the new trend toward the long handled, short bladed table knife and the rather broad four tined fork, which combine attractive modern design with the essentially practical feature of sharp stainless steel. The long white Pyromite handles are perfect foil for the white of the porcelain plate in this picture and the bright shimmer of the glasses. In such settings, colored napery appears at its best.

OBITUARY

Paul Eugene James was born July 9, 1909, near Trenton, Texas, where he grew to manhood. In September, 1932, he married Miss Clara Roberson of Lubbock. This happy young couple lived near Trenton a year before moving to the E. D. Roberson ranch in this county. In the early spring of this year they joined the Baptist church at Big Valley, and Paul was buried with Christ in beautiful baptism.

Paul proved his faith in God by the devoted life that he lived. His Christian life, though short, will continue to spread sunshine in the hearts of those who knew him.

We can not understand why God took him so early in life, but we know that He doeth all things well and our will are resigned to His.

Dear Paul moved to his Heavenly Home September 16, 1934, to await the coming of his dear loved ones and friends. His going is our loss, but Heaven's gain.

Beside his young wife, he leaves a mother, Mrs. Henry James, and four brothers, Bill, Fred, Johnnie and Jesse, all of near Trenton, Texas. He was carried back to his old home and laid to rest near his father, who preceded him in death several months ago.

Dear bereaved ones, "Let not your hearts be troubled." In the Father's house are many mansions."

CITY ORDINANCE

CHAPTER 75

An ordinance to be a part of the code of ordinances of the city of Goldthwaite, Texas, levying taxes for the said city of Goldthwaite, Texas, upon all real and personal property situated in said city, and for certain occupations, for the year 1934, providing for the collection of the same and assessing a penalty.

Be it ordained by the city council of the city of Goldthwaite, Texas:—

Article 1.

Section 1.—

That there shall be and there is hereby levied a city tax for the year 1934, on all real estate situated, lying and being in the said city of Goldthwaite, Texas, and on all personal property that was in said city on the first day of January, A. D. 1934, not exempt from taxation by the laws and constitution of the state of Texas, for the purposes herein-after provided.

1st. For general revenue purposes, to be known as the General Fund, sixty cents ($.60) on the one hundred dollars valuation, the proceeds of which shall be set aside and used for general municipal purposes.

2nd. For a road, street and bridge fund, fifteen cents ($.15) on the one hundred dollars valuation, same to be used for street purposes.

3rd. To provide interest and to create a sinking fund for outstanding water works bonds, twenty-five cents ($.25) on the one hundred dollars valuation.

4th. It is further ordained and ordered, and there is hereby levied an occupation tax on all such occupations as are set out and taxed by the provisions of Article 7047, and all the sections thereunder, of the revised statutes of the State of Texas. The tax hereby levied being the same as that allowed and provided for the counties of the state of Texas.

Any person or persons, firm or corporation, pursuing any of said occupations within the corporate limits of the city of Goldthwaite, Texas, without first having applied for and obtained a license from the city secretary, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction, shall be fined in any sum not less than the amount of the occupation tax assessed, and not more than double the same; provided no greater fine than two hundred dollars shall be assessed in any event.

Section 2.—

All such taxes so levied, except the occupation tax, shall be due and payable on the first day of October, A. D. 1934, and on and after said date, the city tax collector is hereby authorized and empowered to collect and receipt for the same before and until the first day of January, 1935; and if said taxes are not paid before such date, there shall be taxed against the owners of said real and personal property, and all property taxed, a penalty the same being 10 per cent of the tax due, and in any event being in the amount and in conformity with the penalty charged on delinquent taxes, due to the state and county, as provided by the laws of the state of Texas.

All taxes not paid on or before the 31st day of January, A. D. 1935, shall be deemed delinquent, and the same when collected shall be apportioned among the several different funds and the penalty and interest thereon shall be placed in the general fund. Such delinquent taxes bearing interest in conformity with the laws of the state of Texas, and all amendments there to.

After said taxes have become delinquent, the city tax collector, by virtue of his office, assisted by the city attorney, shall levy upon, seize and sell said property, real and personal, for payment of said delinquent taxes, as provided by law.

The fact that no ordinance has been passed levying taxes for the year 1934, and that assessments have been made, and that the tax roll should be made, creates a public necessity and renders it imperative and necessary that the rule requiring ordinances to be read at three several meetings be suspended, and the same is by unanimous consent suspended, and this ordinance is passed to its third and last reading, and passed by unanimous vote of the city council of the city of Goldthwaite,

BOB BARR PASSES AWAY

Relatives in this county of R. W. Barr received a message Wednesday night telling of his death, which occurred at his home near San Angelo. It was not known here that he was ill and the announcement was a great shock to his friends as well as his relatives.

Mr. Barr was reared in the eastern part of this county and was a leading citizen of the county until he removed to the west a few years ago. He was known here as a man ever ready to help those in need and was always a friend to the friendless.

His brother-in-law, J. R. Carter, Jr., and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Joe Langford, and two daughters left Wednesday night for the home of his wife and other members of the family.

You can get the Houston Chronicle daily and Sunday to Dec. 15 for $1.75, or daily only for $1.25 at this office. This will carry your subscription up to Bargain Days.

Obliterating Party Lines

Some writers on political conditions think they see in the near future the obliteration of political party lines and the formation of new alignments, but this really seems vague and of little probability. For more than a hundred years the voters have gone to the polls with two lists of candidates, each bearing the name of a party of national strength. Sometimes one has attracted a majority vote and sometimes the other has been successful in securing control of the government. Many of these voters have inherited their party name, knowing but little of the principles underlying their party and on whose merits it depends for support. This condition may change somewhat and, in fact, these writers think they see a change in evidence in the votes in some of the recent elections, one striking example being that of Upton Sinclair, a life-long Socialist, who was elected governor of California by an overwhelming majority on the Democratic ticket, while such men as Senator Reed of Pennsylvania and Senator Norris of Nebraska are diametrically opposed to each other in policy, yet both bear the same party label. Many other cases of similar significance are sighted by those who believe we are headed for new political alignments, but they are possibly mistaken in reading the signs of the times, for it is not likely many of the members of either of the old parties will ever align themselves with a new party and whatever regulation and improvement is secured must come through one or the other of the dominant parties. A future generation may form new alignments, but most of those who are now of voting age will remain with the party of their fathers.

Regulating Industry

The announced purpose of the National Recovery Act was to regulate industry and provide more employment at better wages. The plan appears to have gone awry in the textile industry, to say the least of it. The strikers took umbrage at a speech of Hugh Johnson, the national administrator of the act, and demanded that he resign. The representatives of the textile workers organization charge that he is biased in favor of the employers, while the complain has been made heretofore by directors of industries that he had a leaning toward organized labor. This places him in a very unenviable position and, to a large extent, nullifies his influence in adjusting differences. Another phase of the labor situation is the demand of certain factions of labor organizations that they be allowed to choose their own representatives in joint bargaining, regardless of the action of the majority. This makes quite a complicated situation and appears to be a subject few of the representatives of the New Deal care to tackle.

The entire program is fraught with difficulty and requires very careful management. It takes a clear head and a steady hand to manage to the satisfaction of all parties and at the same time deal justly with all. It is no place and certainly no time for premature thought and hot-headed action. Neither side to the textile controversy appear to be willing to yield points, while both claim to be striving to obey the demands of the New Deal and co-operate with the president.

Where Shall We Cut?

When taxation and cost of government are figured in the entirety the figures are appalling. It is at this point the soapbox orator is at his best. All of them can decry the rapid rise in governmental cost, but few have been found to offer a reasonable method of reduction. We all want the government to function in all departments and wherever an addition is proposed most of us are enthusiastic in its advocacy, knowing full well that it all costs money. In the operation of government in its various branches the cost is constantly rising, regardless of conditions and the public income. This is shown by the fact that in 1913 the cost of all governments in the United States was slightly more than three billion dollars, whereas, at this time, twenty years later, the aggregate cost is estimated at twenty billion. This would seem to be an unreasonable increase in governmental cost, but it is hard to say just where the cut should be made. It seems that every department and every function of government is necessary. The main reason for so much complaint is that the income of the people has been at an extreme low level, while the cost of government in almost all branches has been increasing.

School Zone Observance

In spite of school authorities, safety workers and pleas thru the newspapers, automobile casualties still account for more child fatalities than any other accidental cause. Last year more than four thousand boys and girls were killed in these accidents—most of which could have been avoided had the warning sign, "School Zone", been observed. Motorists can be excused to some extent when adults are injured, where the injured party has not contributed at least a share in the prevention of these accidents, but when the school children are considered the scene changes and the entire blame, or at least a mighty big share of it, falls on the motorists. While statistics for five years show a decrease of 20 per cent in these accidents involving children, every motorist should realize a great responsibility in traversing the highways, where children are on the way going to or from school and should exert every effort to make this decrease 100 per cent.

Buying Texas Supplies

According to reports from some of the automobile tire manufacturers, Texas is providing millions of dollars worth of the necessary supplies for making automobile tires. One company announces the investment of a million and a quarter dollars for supplies in this state. A large part of this amount was for carbon black, a product of gas, and is the material which gives to rubber the quality of toughness and endurance. The second largest purchase by this company was for cotton, which was converted into cord used in the fabric of tires. Other articles purchased in large quantities were sulphur and lampblack, also used in tire construction. In view of this report, Texas can well claim to be able to provide the tire companies with more of the supplies, as native products, than any other state and it shows a comparatively new source of revenue for the state.

SCARLET FEVER

"Scarlet fever still continues to be a menace to children," said Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, in discussing diseases common to children. "Many cases are slight, but they may infect others who may become seriously ill. It is treacherous and undesirable, and the only good thing about it is that if one can avoid it until grown, the chances of never getting it are excellent."

"Scarlet fever is spread by the transfer of the infection in the discharges of nose and throat, ears, or abscesses of persons ill with the disease and those who are carriers of the infection. The handling of articles soiled by the patient may cause the disease. "Children under ten years of age are usually susceptible to scarlet fever. Children becoming suddenly ill with fever, sore throat, vomiting and showing a fine red rash, should have medical attention and be immediately quarantined to prevent the spread of this disease. The appearance of scarlet fever in the home should be immediately followed by a rigid quarantine for at least three weeks. The public should be warned against exposing young children to those exhibiting acute catarrhal symptoms of any kind. Take no chances—be on the safe side."

"The use of potent scarlet fever antitoxin is of value in shortening the course of the disease. The antitoxin should be administered within three days of the onset. Scarlet fever antitoxin lessens the complications, such as heart and kidney diseases, discharging ears and infected sinuses that often occur after scarlet fever. Scarlet fever can be prevented by first giving the Dick test to all children and the administration of scarlet fever toxin to all children that are susceptible."

PROSPECT FOR BIG COTTON INCREASES IN EGYPT NOT GOOD

Foreign cotton competition is not a threat new to America since the AAA cotton programs started. For more than 40 years foreign countries have been increasing their share in the world's production. Big American cotton crops during that time did not stop the growth of foreign cotton competition, but they did periodically depress the south. Will this foreign competition grow by leaps and bounds now that America has gone in for temperance in cotton production. Or are there other factors which will finally limit the extent to which these countries may expand cotton acreage?

Egypt has grown cotton since the time of the Pharaohs, yet the largest acreage in any one year was 2,160,000 acres. This is probably just about the limit to the cotton acreage, because the country still depends to a large degree upon its local food supply. The acreage in 1933 was 1,873,000 acres, or nearly one-third of Egypt's farm land. The cotton acreage this year is reported less than last. Egyptian cotton is irrigated and yields an average of 400 pounds per acre.

As in India, there is a food supply problem in Egypt. Population averages more than 1000 persons per square mile, or as Americans would say, per section of land. Population is growing at the rate of 200,000 to 300,000 persons per year. This increase will in the long run require for food all the additional land which may be reclaimed.

The price of cotton in 1933-34 in Egypt in terms of Egyptian money (and that is what influences farmers) was from 2 to 21 per cent below the prices of 1932 during the picking season. As in India, it is again seen that high cotton prices in America do not always mean high prices to foreign producers in terms of their own money. There is little incentive to the Egyptian farmer to increase cotton acreage at present. The decline in 1934 plantings bears this out.

Any permanent increase in Egyptian cotton acreage above the all-time high of 2,160,000 acres must involve reclaiming a part of the two million acres of waste land in the country. This reclamation is estimated to cost more than 200 million dollars, which is a large sum of money for a small country.

England has tried hard to promote cotton growing in the largely desert Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. Expensive government efforts have resulted in raising the cotton area from 31,000 acres in 1811 to 325,000 acres in 1932. The Sudan is a new country with a population of less than six million Arabs and primitive tribesmen. They much prefer to live their own way, caring little or nothing for the ways of the white man. Cotton growing among them has been developed by governmental compulsion. In most of this country cotton has brought the first real money the natives have ever seen. Since they have little use for money, to force cotton growing the government has resorted to a poll tax of about $1 per head which must be paid in money. The natives grow little more cotton than is needed to get the money to pay the poll tax.

Cotton yields in the irrigated districts of the Sudan (little is grown elsewhere) have gone above 300 pounds per acre, but the cost to the government and the subsidized British companies has been great. In 1930 a new disease called leaf curl cut the yield to 135 pounds per acre. No remedy has yet been found for this disease. The promoting companies, once very optimistic about future cotton growing in the Sudan, are now less hopeful. —Extension Bulletin.

—EDITORIAL COMMENT—

VIEW OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

COUNTY RELIEF DUTY

Disposition of some members of the legislature to require the counties in Texas to bear a part of the cost of relief seems to be founded on good practice. The county has its responsibilities as well as its privileges and should bear the one as fully as it claims the other.

From its beginning as a state, Texas has had statutes under which the various counties supported their paupers, and most counties have farms on which these people are placed. The farms usually produce a large part of the subsistence of the inmates, and those able to do manual labor are used in this production, the difference in cost being provided by the county fund, though in the early days many of the counties had a special pauper fund.

Return to this system would bring home to the people the fact that the government is supporting numbers of people who are not entitled to public support and would result in clearing the rolls of these undeserving cases, thus lightening the load now carried. It is true that many people now receiving aid are temporary paupers, but the longer aid is continued in its present form and manner the greater the number of permanent paupers will become. Nothing is so insidious as habit, and when once the habit of being supported instead of providing one's own support is formed, it is difficult to eradicate it.

The counties perhaps should not be required to care for the entire cost of relief in this unusual condition, but with even a part of it put on the counties, there would soon be seen a lessening of the demand and no really worthy person would be neglected. People who demand local self-government should carry that demand all the way through and this would include county participation at least in relief.—Paris News.

DISPOSING OF DEFUNCT CARS

An English traveler says that the only ruins he has found in this country are the dreadful automobile dumps on the outskirts of our great cities. In Europe, apparently, these unsightly graveyards of departed cars are so concealed that they do not offend. Or it may be that the cars are broken up and disposed of by dealers in the rag and bone trade. It is to be remembered, too, that in Europe the number of cars in use is smaller per 1000 of population than here; moreover, the life of a car there is longer than here; it is made to give up its last ounce of energy, its last rod of possible travel before it is discarded. All this means that the problem of getting rid of wrecked cars is not so difficult for Europeans as for us. Nevertheless, our national passion for litter and public disorder is particularly manifest in our careless piling up of automobile detritus by the roadsides.

Unfortunately, the remains of the automobile that has carried us for its last joy ride are as tough as the fossilized bones of a dinosaur. If it were a dead white elephant we could at least give its skeleton to a museum, but the skeletons of deceased automobiles are a drug on the market. Perhaps one of these days we shall have regional wrecking plants like that which Henry Ford has set up in Dearborn. In that automobile abattoir 120 men are employed and they dispose of 375 carcasses of cars every sixteen hours. Every scrap of steel, copper, wood, fabric in them is turned to new uses—nothing goes to waste but the tooth of the horn. The wood is used for box boards, the steel and rubber rise out of the fires of dissolution to live again in the structures of new cars and so go through another span of life, perhaps this time in a country far from the scene of their first incarnation—Tombuctoo, say, or Samarkand. When such a phoenix-like fate might be theirs it is sad to see them rusting into oblivion in vacant suburban lots where tanzany and ragweed try ineffectually to shroud them.—Boston Transcript

FEDERAL TAXES RISE

That the great sums of money which Uncle Sam has been pouring into Texas through various relief channels are not pure gifts is indicated by the mounting figures of federal taxes paid by Texans. Higher income tax rates and added special taxes resulted in a 48 per cent increase in federal taxes paid by Texans and Texas corporations for the year ended June 30, exclusive of agricultural processing and adjustment taxes.

Such an increase in tax payments is not alarming, since Texas has received at least a fair share of economic benefit from the emergency relief measures, which the increased taxes helped to finance. In many instances, increases in income taxes indicate larger incomes as well as higher tax rates.

On the other hand, the heavier federal taxes may well serve as a reminder that we can not eat our cake and keep it, too. We can not allow the pouring out of money by federal agencies to go on indefinitely without further and much heavier increases in federal taxation. Neither justice nor practical problems of finance will allow the administration to obtain the whole of its emergency funds from bonds to be repaid by future generations.

While there is more sense in increasing both taxes and the government debt to relieve human hunger than to carry on a foreign war, the time soon will come when the huge emergency expenditures of the federal government must be looked upon more critically. The present tendency is for local and state governments to toss their entire responsibilities for relief upon Uncle Sam's shoulders. There must be a reversal of this movement, if the federal treasury is to avoid the danger of financial quicksands.—Dallas News.

DELINQUENT TAXES

Speaking of taxation again, there is yet much wailing and gnashing of teeth at the very thought of having to pay local taxes for support of schools and state and county expenses, yet the federal government is piling up the tax rate, and each and every citizen of the United States is having that tax to pay, in some form of sales or income or inheritance levy. That burden is growing in weight day by day, and you citizens are going to have to pay.

Protests are heard on every side, day after day, from those who have paid their taxes regularly against the injustice of permitting others, nearly half of them, to become so long delinquent and threatening to pay no more until others are compelled to meet their just share of these taxes.

We are informed a signed protest will be presented to the county commissioners and insist that steps be taken immediately to enforce tax liens.

This situation holds good for school, state and county taxes. To avoid the otherwise inevitable costs, it would be advisable to get busy and pay this civic obligation and remove the cloud from your title.—Live Oak County Herald.

CRIME FOLLOWS

The Houston County grand jury is again in session this week. After taking recess the grand jury finds additional crimes to investigate—murder, more burglary and some horse theft. When the pendulum will start to swing back the other way no one can tell. The Courier's prediction is that crime will continue to increase until a new generation, brought up during stress of hard times, comes on the stage of action. Hard times produce strong men and good men. Too much prosperity brings on the opposite kind. The criminal of today is the product of our prosperity era of a few years ago. "When wealth accumulates, men decay," or something like that. Hard times round out the strong characters, and ragweed try ineffectually to shroud them.—Crockett Courier.

RADICAL SENTIMENT

We are concerned quite as much as any Republican leader could possibly be over the drift toward socialism in this country. But the danger, as we see it, is not so much at Washington as in the trend of public opinion throughout the country. We are concerned, and greatly concerned, about such things as the nomination of Upton Sinclair for governor on the Democratic ticket in California. But we would have been quite as much concerned had he been nominated on the Republican ticket, as he might have been had he chosen to run on that ticket instead of the Democratic. The thing we are concerned about is that hundreds of thousands of the citizens of California could vote for a program like that proposed by Sinclair, and that hundreds of thousands of citizens of other states, probably millions, are coming to the same view as that held by Sinclair. The Republicans direct their criticisms at the administration, but the truth is that a very large percentage of the people hold more radical and more socialistic views by than even suggested by the administration. And the number of such persons is increasing daily. That is the disturbing thing; that is the real reason for concern. And Republican tactics are not calculated to check this tendency. They didn't check it in California, and they are not likely to check it elsewhere.—Texas Weekly.

FIGHTING THE DESERT

The havoc played in the west and southwest by drouth and the impoverishment of the soil of vast areas of the richest part of the United States by windstorms, demands that serious consideration be given plans to prevent further soil deterioration. The forest project, which would split the continent in half with a belt of trees 100 miles wide and 1,300 long, may sound visionary, but since it is supported by the opinion of leading foresters it cannot lightly be tossed aside. If it is not practicable a substitute for it must be found. It should be remembered that the capital city of the Queen of Sheba was located in a fertile country, which is now a desert. Large parts of the Sahara were once fertile lands. Unless something is done to help the west we may have deserts east of the Rocky Mountains.—Spartanburg, S.C. Herald

FORGET RELIEF POLITICS

The drouth has given this state a staggering blow. It has done the same thing for other states. Not only has this come from a reduction of crops and the loss of live stock and the consequent shortage of food for thousands, but it has curtailed work for thousands who depend upon farm labor for a living, such as crop harvesting, planting and cultivation. These people will have to be aided until they can get started again, and it is that class that the government intends to aid. Naturally, there are always those who want to horn in on things of this kind, whether or not they are entitled to it, and it is this class that should be eliminated. It takes local co-operation from the citizens to accomplish this. The Texas relief commission has been termed a "joke" and certainly those who have followed them in their work will agree to that statement or term. It is hoped that the legislature will forget politics and get down to some sort of a sane manner in handling relief problems, for it is the most important matter now confronting the people of this state and this nation.—Velasco News

Texans paid far more taxes on gasoline and cigarettes during the fiscal year ending August 31, than during the previous 12 months, according to records in the comptroller's office. Collections from gasoline taxes aggregated $33,879,630 and were $4,197,985 in excess of the 1932-33 fiscal year. General strengthening of business conditions accounted for the increase, the comptroller said. Receipts from the cigarette tax for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1934, totaled $4,007,845.82, an increase of $840,781.80 over receipts the previous year.

Surprised trainmen found the tracks covered with millions of "army" worms that had crawled out of weeds and grass beside the right of way when hail beat down their shelter. Finally the train was split into sections and, after tracks had been cleared of the worms, it was possible to move the cars past the slippery stretch.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Toiletware Makes Lovely Gift

A LOVELY gift which any girl welcomes is a toiletware set for her bedroom or dressing room. It is especially nice as a wedding gift, if you want something rather personal, but at the same time in good taste for the occasion. For graduation, too, it is most acceptable. The above illustration shows a set in Pyralin, a pyroxylin plastic material, in a new design. It has a satin pearl finish on an amber-like base, and comes in the pastel shades of maize, rose and jade, which harmonize with the feminine bouidoir. The decoration is of initial gold and black. For more sophisticated taste and ultra modern room, there are sets, strictly modern in design, in striking combinations such as ivory and black, or a trim of chromium.

Lilies That Gleam and Sparkle

Modern Home Decoration Service

LOVELY blossoms in a variety of color—pink, tango, red, or amber can be easily made, even by those not greatly skilled in home craft, and are attractive color notes in hall or living room. Each spray has two flowers and there are 6 petals and three stamens to a flower. Each petal needs a nine-inch strip of "Cellophane," in ribbon form, a half inch wide. Fold this piece in the middle so it makes a right angle triangle and then reverse one strip across the fold, cementing it at the point. Paste both ends together at the bottom, fasten through the crossing with wire and cut off the surplus end. Place six of these petals around three stamens and fasten with wire. If these lily stamens cannot be obtained at a store, they can be made by wrapping the tip of a piece of spool wire with a strip of crepe paper the proper shade.

Wrap one of the flowers from the base down with narrow crepe paper, adding two nine-inch pieces of wire. Do the same with another flower, adding an eighteen-inch length of medium weight wire besides the two light weight pieces. Wrap the longer stem four and a half inches down with the same material and then include the shorter stem in the wrapping. This will make lovely flower groups that will look well in a vase or bowl.

W. W. Berry and his son, W. A. Berry, were in from the Pleasant Grove community Tuesday and called on the Eagle. W. A. renewed his subscription, making his date now Jan. 15, 1936. There are more Berry names on the Eagle's list than any other family name and they are all good people and all pay their subscriptions to the Eagle. However, W. A. is paid further ahead than any of them and further than most anybody else.

Burch is prepared to clean and measure garments for any member of the family and takes orders for made-to-measure garments. See his samples for Spring and Summer Clothing.

A CARLOAD OF WASHERS

L. J. Gartman expects the arrival of a carload of Maytag washing machines Saturday and an advertisement of the washers will be found in this paper. He evidently has the right spirit of optimism and expects a good business. It also reflects credit on this section and proves the people are still prosperous, notwithstanding some still talk of the depression of a few years ago. The fact that Mills county people are able to provide themselves with labor saving conveniences proves they are neither depressed in spirit or finances.

There was a good crowd at Sunday school Sunday and a rather small crowd at singing. We are glad of the increase in our Sunday school and are hoping we will have a still larger crowd next Sunday.

It was announced Sunday that school will start Monday. We are looking forward to a real good school this year and from the prospects we feel sure that we will have one. Our teachers will be Mrs. Claud Smith, principal, and Miss Rose Miller primary.

MOUNT OLIVE

Cotton is being picked out rapidly now, and the young folk are looking forward to the opening of school. We suppose school will start about the first of October. Our teachers this year are Joe Smith, Bro. Herbert Cooke and Miss Lois Blackwell.

Some of our teachers have left to start their schools this week. We understand Miss Minnie Cody's school at Newburg, in Comanche county, opened and also Miss Alma McArthur went to her school at Zephyr.

Woodrow Helms, the butcher, was selling fresh beef again in this community Wednesday.

Speaking of getting ready for school, as many folks are these days, we must tell you of the lady who said to her husband, "John, don't you think we should buy an encyclopedia for our little son this year?" And the answer was, "No, let him walk like I did."

I am still gaining readers of my column. I now have three. The reporter from Chappel Hill evidently reads it, as she gave me some good advice. She told me to report it straight, and if it was a dance, call it a dance. I plead guilty to your charge and give it straight from here on.

So here goes. This community had no dance the past week, which was very unusual. We usually have one or two every week. But when we have none our dancing folks go somewhere else to one. So our dancing folks dance every week. They never miss. As we had no dance this week our folks enjoyed one in the Jim Lindsey home near here. So there it is straight. I hope to have three or four dances to report next week. But it's like I said once before. By the reports, it seems Mount Olive is the only dancing community in the county. Queer!

If the editor will pardon above transgression, I shall give more news and less transgression next week.

I am sorry to disappoint my readers with no news this week. Ye reporter and wife visited her folks at Anson for several days this past week and came in too late to learn any news. Therefore, my letter is very short. And I am sure the editor will regard its brevity as its only merit.

RIDGE

Well, everything is rather quiet at this place and cotton picking is the order of the day, so we don't have time to go places and learn news. However, a few still visit.

Among those who attended the singing at Pompey Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Egger and Mr. and Mrs. Flat Hollis.

Mr. and Mrs. Arle Egger called in the W. H. Freeman and Will Kelso homes Sunday.

Sylvester and Everett Cummings and Herman Boyd attended a show in Brownwood Monday night.

Mrs. D. B. Lindsey spent several days visiting in Fort Worth the past week and Mrs. I. A. Hollis and Miss Flowers Lindsey met her in Brownwood Wednesday.

E. K. Woods moved his family to Brownwood Saturday to be there for the fall term of school. M. F. Powell and Geo. Robbins had business in Goldthwaite on Monday.

Marietta Atkinson and Zelda Kelso spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Atkinson.

Ernest Woods ate dinner Monday with Will Kelso. Mrs. Vernon Howington, Mrs. Will Kelso and Zelda visited Mrs. Mann Roberts at Mount Olive last Thursday.

Jess Massey moved to the Rock Springs community the past week.

Mrs. Massey is staying in town to be near the doctor. She has a very sore hand.

Fabric Shade in Venetian Style

Modern Home Decoration Service

A new window treatment which uses a modern type of shade instead of glass curtains, is shown here. This shade gives the effect of Venetian blinds but actually is made in accordion pleats, of a washable shade cloth material, impregnated with pyroxylin. The shade can be raised or lowered from top or bottom, thus permitting whatever ventilation is desired and rain and fade proof. A treatment of this type is especially pleasing in a modern room such as the above, which shows curtains of a new fabric in plaid design, and chair, table and ornaments of strictly modern simplicity. It is also in keeping in any room where Venetian blinds could be used. The shade, being less heavy in appearance and construction than the blinds, particularly recommends itself for a dainty bedroom where a treatment of this kind is desired.
