BUSES

LUNCHROOM

Due to new state regulation the finances of the Lunchroom will be placed in the school's central office. Lunch tickets will be issued and punched this year. All students are requested to buy their tickets on Friday, August 29, if at all possible. There will be three types of tickets. A one-week ticket for $1.25. A two-week ticket for $2.25 rather than $2.50. Then there will be a full month's ticket priced at $4.50 instigating a saving to the student who buys a two-weeks or a month's ticket.

It is suggested, and would be appreciated if all students would consider buying their lunch tickets by the month and in advance. This would save time, bookkeeping, and would give the lunchroom money to operate on a cash basis rather than on credit. If any parent needs to make arrangements about their children's lunches it is requested that they see Mrs. L. B. Bramblett or Mr. Stanley.

BOARD MEETING

The Mullin school board will meet Tuesday night, August 19 at 8:00 p. m. in a called meeting, to adopt the 1958-59 school budget. The tax paying public is invited to meet with the board and discuss with the board the local school's budget.

Conservation Reserve Sign-Up To Start On Monday, August 18th

Plans for opening the sign-up under the Soil Bank's 1959 Conservation Reserve Program are continuing to take shape, says E. L. Burkett, Chairman, Mills County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

While the Conservation Reserve Program for 1959 will contain major changes in certain details, the method of program operation will be about the same as in previous years.

Farms will contract with the Department to reduce their acreage of harvested crops for a period up to 10 years and to devote this acreage to approved conservation practices. In return, the Government will make an annual rental payment to the farmer for the period of the contract and will share the cost of establishing the conservation practices.

The "basic" annual payment rate for the State of Texas for 1959 has been set at $12.00 per acre compared to $10.00 per acre under the 1956, 1957 and 1958 program years.

On the basis of the State rate, State ASC Committee will set average rates for the counties. These county rates will vary on the basis of land productivity, rental values, and the fixed cost farmers will have to meet to comply with the program. Individual farm rates within a county will vary along the same lines, except that in compliance with recent legislation no farm rate may exceed 20 per cent of the land value.

Mr. Burkett stated early this week that the Mills County rate had not been received; however, applications for a contract will be accepted beginning Monday, August 18. It is anticipated that the County payment rate will be received in the near future.

The State Committee has established September 26, 1958 as the final date for which any county can accept an application for a Conservation Reserve Contract.

COUNTY HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT

Agricultural Extension Service—Texas A. & M. College System

BY LUCY MAY BURRUS

Here is a recipe which stretches a pound of ground meat and gives a slightly different variation to the hamburger:

POTATO BURGERS

1 pound ground beef
2 cups grated potato (use coarse grater)
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1 egg, beaten slightly
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter

Combine ground meat, grated potato, onion, seasoning, egg and milk. Shape into patties and cook in hot butter until brown on one side. Turn and cook on other side until patties are cooked through and browned. Patties may be covered and steam-cooked a few minutes, if desired. Remove to hot platter. Serve with creamy brown gravy, if desired. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

CREAMY BROWN GRAVY

1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup flour
2 cups milk
Add butter to skillet in which meat has been browned. Blend in flour; cook over low heat until slightly browned. Add milk, stirring constantly and cook until gravy is smooth and thickened. Season to taste.

PERSPIRATION STAINS IN DARK COTTONS

Cool dark cottons are popular for summer wear in many parts of the State. Many warm weather dress styles are not cut to be worn with dress shields, so perspiration stains and discoloration of dark colored clothing sometimes result. These suggestions from U. S. Department of Agriculture textile chemists will deal with these stains on washable cottons.

The fresher the stain, the better your chances for removing it. Pressing a dress that is even slightly stained may set the stain and cause more discoloration. First try washing the stain thoroughly in warm water, rubbing soap or synthetic detergent well into the stain. If the fabric has discolored, try sponging a fresh stain with a little vinegar and water solution; for an older stain try a little ammonia and water. This may help restore the color. Rinse thoroughly.

Save any tags on ready-to-wear and yard goods and read carefully. Some dark cottons carry a label stating that the dye is fast to perspiration. Other labels give facts about both the fabric and its finish that will be helpful when you need to remove a stain at home.

VERN SANFORD

Fishing always is best prolonged hot weather.

One can't blame the fish for staying deep and staying below, where the water is especially when the sun is so warmly overhead. They can't move around much the day either. They stick close to the bottom in deep water.

When the lure of fast water just below a big hole they can be found there anytime.

Early morning and late evening about the only daylight time that pays off. But after dark— you can make some big catches in the right spots.

Water at the entrance of a bay usually is an excellent place for real productive fishing. There you select a sink minnow rod 20 or 30 feet, if that is always, fishing over the tops.

Nighttime fishermen use beam lights and submerge them slightly under water-light, Inc., of Oklahoma makes a "Nite Fish" for this purpose. It throws a beam which penetrates the water. Because it will either float or submerge it tempts the fish without attracting the bugs. It works on a 6 or 12-volt wet or dry battery.

Old standby of course is the Coleman lantern. It uses white gasoline or Coleman fuel and produces a brilliant light with silk mantles. Great majority of the night fishermen using such illumination also attach a reflector to direct the glare to the surface of the water. This attracts insects. They fall into the water. Then the big fish are attracted by the little fish feeding on the insects.

Undoubtedly you've done lots of night fishing. You go about it one way, your partner goes about it another way, and both of you catch fish. Here's the way we do it.

As soon as we get to our location and are anchored down, we flip our minnow bucket over the side of the boat. Then we attach one of T. D. Mallison's Little Giant lantern brackets to the other side of the boat, about the middle.

Incidentally, we've tried several lantern brackets and this inexpensive little device which weighs only 8 ounces and fits in any tackle box outdoes them all. The Dallas inventor should be right proud of that little item.

To the Little Giant bracket we attach our Coleman lantern, already lit and brilliantly aglow, and direct the light onto the water.

Then we get our gear together.

For the most fun we use a fly rod with a special clamp which permits the use of a bait-casting reel. The fly rod is very flexible and gets more fight out of the fish.

Second choice: A flexible rod with an open face reel with ball—such as Garcia makes.

We fish with large minnows and a tight line, with the sinker only about a foot above the hook. Sometimes we use it right at the hook.

Once we've let down we pull the weight up about 18 inches off the bottom, then await that ever-so-slight tug on the line. Experience has proven that a straight up lift on the rod works best for us. This is no time for a snap jerk, because those whites are plenty smart. Besides their mouths are tender and you can jerk a white bass right off the hook mighty easy.

Crappie fishing is done much the same way, except that the weight is on the bottom and the hooks are on leaders tied on a foot or two above. Often more than one leader and hook is used in crappie fishing.

We've learned too that if you want large fish, use a large hook. That calls for big minnows—and big fish go for big minnows.

It's well to remember that in fishing for bass or crappie they won't hit hard. The tip of the rod barely moves. That's the time for you to pull up. Otherwise you'll find they are about the best bait stealers you ever encountered.

That suggests another reason why we like to use the fly rod—it's lighter and more sensitive. You really can see the tip move! With a fly rod, a 1-0 hook, a light sinker, and a ten pound test line, you're due to have great fun night fishing.

SWIM TITLE IS WORTH A DUCKING—Coach George Haines seems to be all washed up, but it's only temporary after the aqua-maids of Santa Clara University, Calif., threw him into the pool in Topeka, Kan. The girls had just won their fourth straight women's AAU swimming title and according to custom, they have to dunk their coach and then leap in after him.

Headlamp Proves Handy

Received something the other day that I sure do like. It is an Empire Headlight Lantern, made by the Metal Ware Corp. of Two Rivers, Wis.

Looks like a coal miners cap lamp, except that it has an elastic band which goes around the head and a power pack that clips onto the belt.

I find it's a pretty clever little gadget for night fishing. It's not to attract fish. In fact it doesn't hold a "candle-power" to a Coleman lantern, for brilliancy. But here's where I found it mighty useful.

Jack Ziller and I drove out to Lake Travis for a couple of hours of night fishing. Jack is with Billy Disch Marine Service in Austin, and really knows his stuff. Mighty good fishing companion, too.

When I showed Jack this gadget he said "Bring it along. We might need it." And sure enough, it proved handy as a third hand. Every time Jack or I would land a white I'd flash on the "headlight" and look in the direction of the activity. This provided plenty of light for landing the fish, stringing it, and re-baiting the hook. Jack is so quick to detect a strike that quite often he could take several whites with the same minnow by hooking the fish before he could swallow the bait.

Anyway, we brought back 20 whites in short order.

But the point of this little story is that because of the little headlamp both my hands were freed for continued fishing, or stringing my own, and Jack and I got in more actual fishing time.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

By HUBERT BERRY

Crop residue left on the surface of the soil is a conservation measure carried out by many farmers of the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District this year.

Possibly the easiest conservation practice carried out on cropland is crop residue utilization. Practically every farmer can adapt his own equipment so as to plow leaving crop residues on the surface of the soil. Soil temperatures can be lowered from 10 to 30 degrees on hot days, evaporation can be cut in half and the surface is protected from packing and crusting. This all adds up to more soil fertility, better soil structure and more moisture to grow future crops.

Stubble from grain sorghums and small grains is adequate to furnish the protection the soil needs from extreme heat and high intensity rainfall, if it is handled properly. On August 5th some soil temperature readings were taken by SCS technicians in a field of oat stubble. Air temperature on that particular day was 100 degrees. Under the oat stubble or straw the soil was 105 degrees and five feet away on bare ground it measured 127 degrees.

The cooler the soil stays during the summer and the warmer it keeps during the winter, the more bacterial action in the soil. These bacteria and organisms are necessary to decompose the residues into organic matter, and to condition the soil. Crop residues left on the surface keep the soil temperature more stable throughout the year and it may save just enough moisture to insure a good crop the following summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold K. Kelly and children returned home last week from a vacation spent in Monahans with her sister, Mrs. Billy Hamilton, Mr. Hamilton and family. Kenneth and Carolyn had spent two weeks there and returned home with their parents.

Keating and Suzette, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Warren, Carol and Donna, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Warren, all of Mullin; and Patty Warren of Kerrville.

There has a highly shifting nature—big changes are in the making many have already been made, according to Alvin B.
Reese, county extension economist.
For example, U. S. farm population dropped nearly two millions in 1956—an all-time low.
While numbers are decreasing, farm size is increasing. In 1940, average farm size was 174 acres, but in 1956 it had increased 40 per cent to 244 acres. The average farm has increased 300 per cent (when inflation is allowed for). Farm land values have risen 40 per cent in the last seven years.

Only 12 per cent of the population is engaged in farming.
This means 12 per cent of the population now provides the raw material to feed itself and the remaining 88 per cent. In colonial times, more than 85 percent of the nation was engaged in farming.

In 1950, only 30 per cent of farm people were working at off-farm jobs. In 1956 this figure had risen to 40 per cent.

In 1950, 17 per cent of farm
wives had off-farm employment.
In 1956, 26 per cent were so en-

Stock Canned Tuna For Easy Summer Meals

By ALICE DENHOFF

SUMMER is surely the time for easy meals. Appetites are not as hearty and, for the housewife, the less time spent in the kitchen the better.

However, meals must still be nourishing.

With a supply of canned tuna on hand, either chunk-style or solid-pack, it is always a simple task to whip up a sandwich or salad that is both tasty and nourishing. Also, meals based on tuna are economical, too.

Tuna Burger

For a Tuna Burger to serve 6, drain 2 (7-oz.) cans solid-pack
tuna and break fish into pieces.
Combine tuna, 1/2 c. chopped onions, a 12-oz. pkg. frozen chopped spinach that has been thawed, 3 tsp. mayonnaise, 1 tsp. prepared mustard, dash of pepper and 1/2 tsp. salt. Mix well.
Shape into 6 patties and coat with 1/4 c. all-purpose flour.

Broil 3 to 4 in. from source of heat 6 min. Turn patties and broil 6 min. or until lightly browned.

Tuna Potato-Chip Grill is another good summer special.

To serve 4, drain 2 (7-oz.) cans
solid-pack tuna. Combine tuna, 1 c. crumbled potato chips and half a (10 1/2-oz.) can condensed cream of mushroom soup. Mix well and shape into 8 oblong rolls.

Place on broiler rack and
broil 3 to 4 in. from source of heat, 5 min. Turn rolls and broil 5 min. or until lightly browned.
Heat remaining soup and serve on tuna rolls.

Hearty Sandwich

For a hearty Tuna Sandwich to serve 4, pare and slice thin 1 medium-sized cucumber and combine with 1/2 tsp. French dressing, 1/2 c. vinegar, 1 1/2 tsp.
sugar and 1/2 tsp. paprika. Mix lightly. Chill 30 min. Drain.

Drain a (6 1/2-oz.) can chunk-style tuna and combine with 1/4
c. pimiento-stuffed green olives,
1/2 tsp. chopped onion, 1/2 tsp.
French dressing and 1/2 tsp. mayonnaise, mixing well.

Arrange drained, marinated cucumber slices and tuna mixture on 8 buttered bread slices.
Put slices together, two and two,
cut sandwiches in halves and serve.

gaged. This was the largest increase of any occupational group.

In 1957, a little over two per cent of the nation's farmers produced 33 per cent of all farm products and half of the farmers produced 90 per cent. Thus, 50 per cent of U. S. farmers produced only 10 per cent of the total farm production.

The farm population is also getting older. Since 1950, the largest decrease in farm population has been in the 18 to 44
year-old group.

Like human diseases, plant diseases are caused by tiny—often microscopic—organisms known as fungi, bacteria, protozoa, and viruses. Under the influence of nature and man, these organisms develop into symptoms of sickness that we readily recognize—rotted fruits, twisted trees, and yellowed, dying plants of all kinds.

Plant disease organisms are everywhere. The earth and the sky serve them as both conveyance and habitat. They can move around the world on a crumble of soil. They can move from region to region in streams and rivers, and across the land and the sea on the wings of the wind.

No plant is safe from attack.
History records the fantastic potential of plant diseases for causing destruction. They have brought death by famine to millions of people; they have wiped out the agricultural industry of entire nations. Out of fear, ancient Rome worshipped Robigus—
a god named for rust diseases of grain.

If it were not for plant pathologists, there would be little wheat grown in the Upper Mississippi Valley or in the Pacific Northwest. There would be no important sugar beet industry in the Intermountain Region and in Louisiana. The fruit production of many great orchard areas of the United States would dwindle and disappear.

But even though plant pathologists have wrought near miracles to erase the chance of disease epidemics that would lead to critical shortages of food and fiber, their greatest achievements are yet to come.

As knowledge is added to knowledge, plant pathologists will tailor-make more and more plants that are immune to disease infection. Their goal will be to prevent the billions of dollars lost to plant diseases every year.

TAKING ADVANTAGE OF TEXAS' OPPORTUNITIES

The State of Texas has been recognized by many as the "place to go to" in the industrial expansion of America, and this is logical. We have room, we have climate, and we have resources. And there is a wealth of industry looking for a home.

Trouble is, we can't officially invite them down, however welcome they may be, because of long-outdated constitutional restriction which forbids the state from advertising its wonders to prospective "settlers."

It takes something more than a Texas brag to sell our state for the wonderful place that it is, and even Texas brags have lost their impact since Alaska got out the yardstick.

The thing that could remedy this situation would be passage by the voters in the November General Election for Senate Joint Resolution Number 4 which would remove these restrictions from the State Constitution which were intended to keep out post-Civil War carpetbaggers—not free-spending tourists and important industries.

Advantages of state cooperation in such advertising and promotion extend into every area of Texas industry—including our agricultural industry.

If the Texas Department of Agriculture could lend its support in advertising and promotional efforts of private farm groups and associations, Texas farm goods could find markets untold. And this kind of support could be a by-product of this constitutional change.

We Texans know the blessings of our home state, and we tell it every chance we get. But word-of-mouth advertising is not enough to assure Texas of its fair share of the millions of dollars spent every year by vacationers and new business and industry developments.

Questions And Answers About Social Security

Question: I recently obtained a statement of the total earnings posted to my social security account. No earnings were shown for the year of 1956. In January of 1957, I filed an income tax return and Schedule C, reporting self-employment income of $3,218 for 1956. Why is this amount not posted?

Answer: The Internal Revenue Service keeps the tax return. Only the Schedule SE, a small detachable portion of the Schedule C, is forwarded to the central accounting office of the Social Security Administration, Baltimore, Md. Your name was probably not shown on the Schedule SE the same as it is shown on your social security card, or your account number was omitted or given incorrectly; therefore, your account could not be credited. You should contact the social security office or representative so that the proper action can be taken to credit your 1956 income to your account.

Question: I have just retired from the company where I have been employed for many years. I wish to apply for social security benefits but find I have lost my social security account number card. Will this interfere with my applying for payment?

Answer: No. Your company will have a record of your number on their payroll records, also the social security office can obtain your account number from their central accounting office in Baltimore.

Pastor's Column In Cooperation With the Mills County Ministerial Alliance

I AM YOUR CHURCH

By Rev. George B. McCrary
Pastor, First Methodist Church,
Goldthwaite

I am your church! through the ages I have wrought by the power of the Holy Spirit to develop a nation into whose life you might be born in safety and protection. I have filled this land with the Gospel of Christ and with houses of worship and Christian instruction and a Christian home in which you would be nurtured. When you were born, I laid the hands of my minister upon your head, blessed you in baptism and in my arms received you into the fellowship of the babes in Christ. I watched over you anxiously during those early years as at the knees of your mother you learned your first simple prayers. Though my school I prepared you for full church membership. It was at my altar you were born of the Spirit, professed your faith in Christ and took the sacred vows and with my arms you were received into the holy fellowship of God's elect.

Through the years I have nurtured you that you might grow in grace and the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. In my school you have learned the Holy Scriptures that were able to make you wise unto salvation. I have given you life. I have given you activities in Christian service that you might develop in Godly living. I have received and sanctified your tithes and offerings of silver and gold, given out of the abundance of the goods God has given you, and have used these funds to preach the Gospel around the world.

When you found your life companion, I blessed you two in Holy Matrimony. I gave you instruction for building a Christian home. As your children came I received them with open arms and worked untiringly with you to nurture them in Christian living. When one of them wandered into sin, I was the servant of God who went out and searched for him as the shepherd for the one sheep until he was found and returned to the fold. To all your children I have opened doors of Christian service, that they might fill worthy places in life.

Through the years of your responsibility I have been the agent of the Holy Spirit to stand by you and administer His grace. When you or any of yours have been sick, I have prayed at your bedside. When sorrow and heartache came I comforted you, and pointed you through suffering into a path that led closer to God. All these years we have lived together. It has been a militant life. We have fought our battles in the name of the Master. We have suffered defeat sometimes. We have rejoiced in victory many times.

Through a long journey we have walked together; sorrowing, rejoicing, weeping, singing. Our labors have become the heritage of rising generations and the evening of life has crowned your hoary head with glory and honor. Our love for one another has grown dearer through the years and experiences.

When the Holy Father shall call you to your reward, I shall lay your body to rest on some grassy hill with suitable ceremonies for the passing of a saint. On the other side I will be waiting to receive you with open arms into the eternal doors of the Church Triumphant and usher you into the everlasting presence of Him who shall say, "Well done."

—I AM YOUR CHURCH.

We again caution the old line Democracy against that restless, constantly working something, who sometimes are called "Young South," sometimes "fire eaters" and sometimes open disunionists, but who are forever seeking to establish a new party under the name of intense "Southernism." They are forever seeking new issues.

Roscoe Reeves failed to come with us from the Long Syne party at Luther's after all. They said their boys was not feeling well when they left home morning and they just had to go back to him. But my girl friend, Stella Reeves Pinchard, came home with me and we had a merry time. Afternoon Stella and John and I went to Creek to see Miss Cora. We found this precious lady asleep on the divan in her lovely living room with a piano, books, and paintings on the wall, her pretty Collie dog, and at the end of the hall, a friendly greeting. Cora was to have been at our party at the Johnson home. I had written her to leave El Paso that John and I would come by Thursday morning. To my regret, she is considered out of our way and we were very late getting off and did not receive any communication that she would be coming. So right at the moment we decided to go on to Luther's, hoping we would get there some other time. This decision we were to greatly regret. Miss Cora said she got ready and waited and waited and hoped and hoped that someone would come for her. Not till after twelve did she give it up. We were filled with remorse, and we promised her that if she would hang on till next year, we would not do her that way again.

We came back by the Stanley Reeves home where Stella was to spend the night and Stanley would take her to town next day to catch her bus for home. While Willie and Edna were finishing the supper, Stella and I got in the car and went to the Hubert Reeves home. Joe and Nancy had gone to Mullin to take John to practice with the Little League. Hubert was gone to town with a load of grain. So Mirra was alone and had time to visit with us and to show us over the house which they have lately remodeled. At the end of the summer session, Mirra will be in the graduating class of Howard Payne College.

The Wilmeth reunion was to be held July 5 at the home of Mrs. Edna Dwyer. The Mitchells wrote us from Beaumont that they would arrive at our house June 28, and would stay until July 7. On Monday after they arrived, O. R. went to town, got a bucket of paint, and spent the WITNESSES TO A REUNION—Joseph Dignard of Quebec weeps as he embraces one son, Jean, 5, as another, Renaud, 8, downs a doughnut at police headquarters in New York. The boys wandered from the home of friends in the Bronx, N. Y., while their parents were attending the international meeting of Jehovah's Witnesses. Able to speak only French, the pair were missing for 14 hours when police finally found them.

whole week painting our inside wood work. And does it look nice! Before he went home he climbed on top of the house and fastened hall screen over the top of our chimney. We're hoping when we come back next year there'll be no wrens in our house.

Don and Carol Vinzant and Baby Larry of Abilene joined us at the weekend for the reunion.

Sunday afternoon, July 6, I was joyfully surprised when Lela Philen Clements—a beloved oldtime friend—and her children, Ruth and Robert Andrews, came all the way from Brownwood to see us. They had come from Gilmer to attend the Andrews Reunion. And on the following Thursday, July 10, I was again happily surprised when a car drove up at our gate and I discovered in it were Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Parks of Locker, their daughters, Lois Parks Boynton of San Saba and Katy Myrl Parks of Dallas, and Beanie Neal Oneal of Arkansas. Lois had been my star pupil at Locker. She now teaches at San Saba, and her husband, Sam Boynton, is superintendent of schools there. I boarded at the Parks home, and Katy Myrl was my adoring preschool friend. She is now a school-librarian in the Dallas Schools. Beanie Neal was another of my Locker pupils. Verily my cup runneth over.

Here we are constrained to say that the Stanley Reeves received a telegram Monday, August 4, telling of the death of their sister-in-law, Mrs. Cicero Reeves, nee Miss Sallie Hildebrand, of Trinidad, Colo. She died Saturday, Aug. 2, and was buried Tuesday, Aug. 5, beside her husband near Trinidad. She is survived by a son, Tom, of Arizona and a daughter, Olive Ann Reeves of Berkley, Calif. Also five grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Two sons, Allen and Sam, preceded her in death. Miss Sallie taught the first school at the Reeves School in our community. For many years she was active in the schools of Mills County, and will be remembered by many who were her pupils as a beloved teacher.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex.—Although the main bout of the political summer is over, there's still considerable commotion ahead.

Generating a little extra heat during the scorching weeks ahead will be these events:

STATEWIDE RUNOFF: Only one race for statewide office, a place on the Supreme Court, remains to be decided at the Aug. 23 primary. Contenders are Robert W. Hamilton of El Paso and J. Edwin Smith of Houston.

In a one-contest race like this, the candidates' big problem is likelihood of being ignored. A tiny segment of authorized voters could tip the election.

State Democratic Chairman Jim Lindsey has reminded county chairmen that the law requires that they hold a runoff primary—even if it's just for one race. In some 100 counties there are no local races going into a runoff.

LEGISLATIVE RUNOFFS: Winners of 33 legislative posts are yet to be decided.

Included are three campaigns to decide successors of retiring Senators Otis Lock of Lufkin, Searcy Bracewell of Houston and Carlos Ashley of Llano. All of the 28 senators already definitely "in" are incumbents.

In the House, also, it appears to be a good year for incumbents. Out of a membership of 150, 101 won out in the first primary or had no opponents.

Nineteen new members were elected to the House in July, and winners of 30 seats are yet to be decided. Twelve incumbent representatives are involved in these runoffs.

SPEAKERSHIP RACE: Hanging in the balance of the 30 House of Representatives runoff races is the outcome of months of persistent campaigning for one of the key posts in state government—Speaker of the House.

Speaker is elected by fellow House members. Candidates are Rep. Waggoner Carr of Lubbock, seeking a second term, and Rep. Joe Burkett Jr., of Kerrville.

After the July primary, each claimed to have 45 per cent of House members pledged to his side. This is not literally possible since only 80 per cent of the total membership has been elected.

But it illustrates the nip'n tuck nature of the contest that probably won't be over until the last chip is down.

STATE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION: Climax to the precinct and county conventions—and all the struggle that preceded them—will be the state meeting in San Antonio Sept. 9.

It's known traditionally as the "governor's convention" with the nominee for governor and his supporters taking the lead in deciding on officials, committees and policies for the next two years.

Gov. Price Daniel, who worked harder at rallying moderate-conservative Democrats to precinct conventions than at his own race for renomination, predicts a comfortable margin of supporters at the state meeting.

BETTER DAYS—More students, more prosperous profs are in prospect on the campuses of Texas state colleges and universities this fall.

Commission on Higher Education predicts a total enrollment of more than 81,000 at the 18 tax-supported colleges, up from last year's 77,913. Beginning this year, a growing flood of college students is expected as the high schools turn out the "war babies" of the 1940's.

Pay raises up to 20 per cent will begin in September for the state college teachers. It will put the "average" professor's annual salary between $5,000 and $7,000.

DRAGNET FOR LOAN SHARKS—Atty. Gen. Will Wilson filed suits in an Austin district court in an effort to squelch a new scheme for charging excessive interest on small loans.

Wilson's suit attacked "brokerage fees" being charged by some small loan companies in Austin. Texas Constitution limits interest rates to 10 per cent. But "loan sharks" have been getting around this, says an assistant attorney general. They charge a legal rate of interest, then tack on a large "broker's fee," presumably for arranging the loan.

Until last spring, when credit insurance rates were sharply reduced, excessive insurance charges were regarded as the favorite dodge of lenders in getting around the 10 per cent limit.

Attorney General Wilson is asking the court to enjoin the loan companies from using "any indirect methods" of evading the law.

Efforts to pass measures strengthening the state's anti-usury laws have had uphill going in past Legislatures. New tries are certain next year, some probably aimed at establishing a higher legal interest rate for small, unsecured, short-term loans than for long-term, secured loans.

A special state regulatory agency for loan companies, as for banks, also has been suggested.

WHO MOVES THE POLES?—A test suit is set for Aug. 12 to determine who bears the cost of moving utilities to make way for new interstate highways.

Attorney General Wilson filed suits in an Austin district court. Defendants are cities of Austin and Dallas, but the decision will ultimately affect many cities across the state.

Last Legislature passed a law permitting use of the federal-state highway funds to pay for necessary utility moving. But Wilson contends such payments would violate the constitution prohibition against "donating" public money to corporations and individuals.

City governments, regarded as "municipal corporations" under the law, are vitally concerned with the outcome of the case. Texas League of Municipalities has predicted an adverse ruling would result in some $20,000 in utility moving costs for cities.

SELECTIVE SERVICE BIRTHDAY—Texas Selective Service system marks its 10th anniversary this summer.
