HEAVY RAIN AND HAIL DAMAGE WHEAT

About 10,000 Acres Ruined. Harvest to Begin About 20th In Early Fields

Last Thursday afternoon, with the big rain that fell, we had a very destructive hail storm, that it is reported, destroyed nearly 10,000 acres of wheat in this section. Probably half of this was not insured. But even with this loss, we in this section can consider ourselves as the favored ones of the Panhandle, for the wheat on the plains north and south of Miami, is mighty fine, and it is thought that cutting will begin about June 20th. Some of the earlier wheat, is nearly ready to pass into the milk stage now, while the later wheat is still blooming. Judging from the prospects, it is estimated that the average yield for his section will be right around twenty-five bushels per acre.

HIGH SCHOOL ANNUALS HERE

The High School Annuals have arrived and are ready for distribution. In looking over the annual there is no one who helped the young folks put over the annual who is not proud of the Miami High School, and the students can be complimented on the work they did on the book. If you have not your annual yet, see Miss Bettie Brooks.

ON AUTO TRIP TO ARKANSAS

M. W. Sullivan and family left Tuesday afternoon, on a month auto trip that will take them into the Arkansas hills, where they expect to spend the time fishing and camping.

INSTALL NEW GAS PUMP

Locke's Garage has installed a fine new gasoline pump, in front of their establishment on West Commercial street.

TO TAKE MONTH'S TRIP

Will Locke is expecting to leave today on a trip that will take him through Michigan, and Illinois, and he will stop for some time in Chicago. He expects to be gone a month or more.

TEXAS TELEPHONE COMPANIES

FOR REPRESENTATIVE IN THE LEGISLATURE FROM 124TH DISTRICT

The Chief this week carries the announcement of Judge J. L. Jennings of Canadian as a candidate before the Democratic Primary July 22nd for the place of Representative in the Legislature from this newly created 124th District.

Judge Jennings is well known over the North Plains and is one of the most popular men in this district. He is a member of the firm of Sanders & Jennings, lawyers and abstractors. He is one of the real pioneers of the Panhandle, having settled here twenty years ago when just a young man. He was county judge of Hemphill County for several years. He is affiliated with every good movement and is for the development of the Panhandle. He is a member of one of the leading churches, and is affiliated with the leading fraternal organizations.

Mr. Jennings will appreciate an earnest consideration of his candidacy and your vote in the Primary.

SHIELD-TALLEY NUPTIALS

One of the most interesting happenings of the season was the quiet wedding at the lovely country home of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Thomas last Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

When the near relatives and friends assembled in the spacious living room. Mrs. Martin, cousin to the bride, took her place at the piano and broke the silence with the soft familiar strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, the minister Rev. B. F. Jackson, stood in an alcove with beautiful potted plants for a background. Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Cain entered, followed by the groom, Mr. Cecil Shield and the lovely bride Miss Laura Talley, stopping in front of the minister. The ceremony was short but very impressive.

The bride was attired in lovely gray gown of silk and carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses. The groom wore black and looked quite composed. Mrs. O'Cane cousin to the groom, and matron of Honor, wore navy blue silk with valencienn lace and looked quite imposing. Mr. and Mrs. O'Cain reside in Santa Fe New Mexico. After congratulations the hostess served delicious home grown strawberries and cream with cake.

The contracting parties are well known here, loved and respected by all.

"May joy and happiness go with them is the wish of their many friends. A Guest.

OKLAHOMA CLAIM DENIED

The United State Supreme Court entered a decree in the Red River boundary dispute between Oklahoma and Texas, putting in force, a part of its decision of May 1st. The decree holds that the part of the Red River lying in Oklahoma is not navigable, and therefore the bed of the river does not belong to the state of Oklahoma.

IT RAINED, BUT WE HAD THE RODEO JUST THE SAME

Rodeo Was a Complete Success, and Altho The Roads Were Bad and Weather Threatening, The Attendance Was Over Four Thousand

Last Thursday evening, things looked mighty black for the Rodeo, when the big rain, and hail storm came up from the northwest. Friday morning it was still cloudy and rainy, but at 9:30 the Rodeo contests were begun, and the day went off in fine shape. On account of the muddy diamond, the ball game between Pampa and Miami was postponed til Saturday, but it was found that the race track was in good shape, so the ten-mile race came off, the last event on Friday's program. The race was won by Ralph Chisum, and his time was 14 minutes flat.

Considering the weather, and the condition of the roads, the attendance Friday, was very good, there being probably 1800 at the grounds in the afternoon. The morning was devoted mostly to races, and some exhibition riding and goat roping. In the afternoon, bronk riding was the feature, in which Oran Thompson took high score, with Earl West, of Mendota, coming close second. The flag race was a novelty to most people, not very many having ever seen one. It is a game that is practiced in the cavalry. Mr. Blanton, formerly an old ranch foreman, northwest of Panhandle, managed the race. Mr. Hoffman, of Laredo, Texas, did some excellent trick roping, and also acted as announced of the events, during the whole of the Rodeo.

Saturday morning about six o'clock it began raining again, and kept it up for at least thirty minutes, and remained cloudy till about noon. The grounds were in much worse shape under foot, than Friday, but nevertheless, Dan McAnnally, manager of the Rodeo, called the events to start at 10:30, and things started with a rush. On account of the muddy track, the relay race was abandoned, and goat roping, surcingle riding, and the backward race, constituted the most of the forenoon's program. Just after dinner, bronk riding was started, and some excellent riding was done. Oran Thompson, Earl West, and in fact all of the riders did excellent work. Earl West took first money, with a very high score. The goat roping came off, and the wild cow milking contest.

Only three cars entered in the 20 mile auto race. Saturday, Ralph Chisum, Earl Chisum, and a car from Johnson Joiner garage at Amarillo. The race was run in 29 minutes, and 3 seconds, or a fraction over 50 miles per hour, and was won by Ralph Chisum, with the Amarillo car, coming second, on 37th lap, Earl Chisum's car, which had been missing a little stopped dead, thus losing him second place, which he had held from the first.

After the races, two five inning games were played, the first between Pampa and Miami, the score being 9 to 0, in favor of Pampa. Canadian then played Pampa, the winner of the first game, with a resulting score of 1 to 0, in favor of Canadian. Following the ball game, came the real feature of the day, when Earl West, winner in the bronk riding, of the afternoon, and only an 18 year old boy, rode Crazy Snake, considered the worst horse at the Rodeo, and which had taken the $25 prize as the hardest pitching orse. At the first jump the horse fell with his rider, but the boy mounted him again and rode him till he quit. The horse had been mounted earlier in the afternoon, by a one arm colored man, who claimed to be a rider but he stayed only for about three jumps.

It was estimated that there were nearly 2,000 people on the grounds Saturday afternoon. On account of the rain Thursday night, the meat for the barbecue was cooked in one of the sheds down town that night. Friday night the ditch was sufficiently dry to cook the meat at the grounds for Saturday's dinner.

The Legion boys consider that the Rodeo, even though the attendance was not up to what it would have been if there had been no rain, was a real success, and are already making plans for next year's Rodeo.

The Legion boys want to express their most sincere thanks to all through who did so much toward boosting the Rodeo, and to those who gave so freely of their time, in making preparations at the grounds, and doing the other necessary work.

Dan McAnnally, of Silverton, had charge of the Rodeo, acting as manager, and it was to his untiring work toward making the Rodeo itself the success it was, that the Legion boys feel that that are more indebted than they can express. Mr. McAnnally has been in the Rodeo business for years, and therefore was in a position to put the affair over right. He is a Legion man himself, and he had the good of the Legion at heart. Mr. McAnnally, if nothing happens will have charge of the Rodeo next year, and we predict that it will be even a bigger success than this year's event was.

The boys cleared about $200. on the Rodeo, over and above expenses, but that still leaves them in debt on the grand stand something like $300. Following is the condensed financial statement of the Rodeo.

RECEIPTS
Gate Receipts and Concessions	$1321.40
Contest Entrance Fees	$280.50
Total Receipts	$1601.90
EXPENDITURES
Prizes and Refunds	$860.00
Staging and Advertising	$468.00
Paid to White House Lumber Co.	$245.00
Total Expenditures	$1,563.00

There is still a debt with the White House Lumber Co., of in the neighborhood of $300.00, most of which can be charged to the cost of building the grand stand.

A total list of the prize winners in the various contests, has not been compiled as yet, but will be published as soon as possible.

J. A. HOLMES, OF MIAMI, ANNOUNCES FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

We are pleased to present the name of J. A. Holmes, of Miami, to the voters of the 31st Judicial District, as candidate for District Attorney, subject to the Democratic Primary, July 22, 1922.

Mr. Holmes received his training in the law school at the University of Texas, and has been a resident of Miami since 1909. He has been actively engaged in the practice of law for the past thirteen years, and is now a partner with Mon. Cleve Coffee, former district attorney for his district.

In August, 1918, District Atty. E. J. Pikkens, resigned his position as district attorney, to enter the service, and Mr. Holmes was appointed to fill the unexpired term. In the fall of that year he made the race for the office and was elected and in December of the same year, he voluntarily resigned from the office, at the same time requesting that Gov. Hobby appoint Mr. Pikkens, who had returned from the training camp, to fill the vacancy thus made.

During the four months that Mr. Holmes served the people of this district as their district attorney, he amply demonstrated his ability to fulfill the duties of the office in a very satisfactory manner, and there can be no doubt that he is thoroughly qualified to act in the office he asks for.

Mr. Holmes will make a good district attorney and will sincerely appreciate your support.

COW PAYS HIS WAY

Johnnie Archer, son of S. B. Archer of Spearman, has paid most of his expenses in the West Texas Normal Training School from proceeds received from milk sold from one Jersey cow. This student is a member of the Vocational Agricultural class. The State requires that each student who take this course, have some kind of a project, and this student is making it, profitable, both educational and financially, having made an average monthly of a little better than $24.00 per month since January.

HENRY FORD "WILL RUN," IS REPORT

Monday's dailies carried the news that Henry Ford had made a statement, saying that he would run for president of the United States, if his friends so desired, in the next race, but, he "would not spend a cent towards getting the nomination" or to further his election.

On Saturday Mr. Ford's proposal to develop the Muscle Shoals project was given conditional approval by the House. As accepted, the proposal eliminates the steam plant at Gorgas, Ala. The acceptance was made by the committee. This puts the proposition squarely up to the House.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Shields have moved into the Mrs. Hale, residence, just south of the Court House.

GOV. NEFF ANNOUNCES FOR SECOND TERM

He Asserts His Conscience is Clear Regarding His Past Record

Last Saturday, Governor Neff announced his candidacy for re-election in a statement to the "democracy of Texas" he told of the experiences of his first term, and asserted that his conscience was perfectly clear as regards his past record in the office of the chief executive of Texas. His statement made at his announcement follows in part:

"In public office as in private life, the distinguishing trait and the price-less principle to which all right thinking people pay homage and respects, is unflinching, fidelity to truth and unwavering devotion to duty. These virtues I have faithfully followed, as your governor, insofar as He who rules in the councils of men has given me light and wisdom to see. Perhaps I have made mistakes in the past. I doubt not that I shall make mistakes in the future. However, I have tried to serve the citizenship of the state in the highest and truest sense at all times, through good and evil report. I have had as a constant companion, a clear conscience.

"If the democratic voters of Texas feel that they can in full justice to their state honor me with a second term as their governor, I shall deeply appreciate it and shall continue my efforts in behalf of the welfare of our people, with a sincere ambition to fulfill their expectations and to justify their confidence.

KEMPER TEAM NEARS NATIONAL RECORD

Boonville, Mo., May 31, 1922. Investigation shows that the Kemper Military School Half Mile Relay Team, Boonville, Missouri came near the American Interscholastic Record, Saturday, May 27 at Manhattan, Kansas while competing in the Kansas Agric Relay Carnival. The official time of the Kemper team is 1:32.4 while the American Record held by Lewis Institute is 1:32.2. The Kemper Relay Team also established a new Missouri State Record at Columbia, May 6, time 1:34.2.

W. C. George, son of Mrs. J. E. George, Miami, Texas was a member of the Kemper Track Team and holds the school record in the javelin distance 163 feet 10 inches. He was also an excellent shot putter and ran the 120 yard high hurdles.

KLAN PARADED SATURDAY NIGHT

Ku Klux Klan parade scheduled for last Friday night was postponed till Saturday night, on account of the rain, presumably. The klansmen appeared on the hill near the Christain Church, and marched north on Main street, in double file, preceded by the American flag, and the fiery cross. They turned about in front of the First State Bank, and returned the way they came. There were 51 klansmen in the parade.

HAD TO STAY IN BED FOR WEEKS

Omaha Citizen Says He Is Now Rid of Troubles That Had Kept Him Miserable for Years.

"I was almost out of commission when I began taking Tanlac, but it has made me feel like a new man in a short time," said W. S. Meadville, 7904 North Twenty-ninth St., Omaha, Neb.

"My liver and kidneys were out of order and I had terrible pains in my back and sides and was so bad off I often had to stay in bed for two weeks at a time.

"The results I got from Tanlac were a very glad surprise to me. It benefited me in every way and I believe the improvement I received will prove lasting and I feel stronger and better than in many a day."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

"ON EASY STREET"

Women "Farmerettes" Make Money in Western Canada.

Many Are Taking Advantage of the Opportunity Offered by the Fertile Land and Fine Climate.

In many parts of Western Canada are to be found women owning and running farms for themselves, and what is more, making them pay. May Hazlett, an English girl, who lived on a farm in the Touchwood hills in Saskatchewan, for the past four years, looking after her stock and cultivating her land, is one of these. The farm was originally her brother's homestead, at which time Miss Hazlett was a stenographer. Her brother was killed while fighting with the Canadian forces at Vimy Ridge. Neighbors advised Miss Hazlett to sell the farm, but she decided that she was tired of the "eternal pounding" and became a farmerette.

Mrs. Mary J. Blackburn, a pioneer woman farmer of Alberta, has just added 160 acres to her farm near Hardisty. Coming from Eastern Canada, Mrs. Blackburn homesteaded a quarter section in 1902. She had two Holstein heifers, a bull, and $17 in cash. She lived in a tent the first summer and in a sod shack in the winter. Her first crop put her, as she tells the story, "on easy street." In ten years she had a herd of 90 pure-bred Holstein cattle and was operating a prosperous dairy. A fine residence has supplanted the sod hut. "I milked my cows, raised my cattle, cut hay and stacked it all by myself," said Mrs. Blackburn. "I started on bare prairie with no money, and made good. I worked hard, but the experience was wonderful."

It has generally been conceded that farming is a man's job. It has long been considered that a woman's place on the farm was in the house, with a few attendant duties, looking after the chickens and the garden. But times are changing.

Demonstrative of the present feminine initiative, there are two young ladies farming extensively and with good profit too, in Western Canada. Some years ago a family located a 100-acre farm in the Oak Lake district, Manitoba. Later the father died, leaving his two daughters and aged wife a mortgaged quarter section. Instead of selling the effects and moving to town to take employment, the girls decided to work the place.

While the mother looked after the household duties the daughters did the farm work. They did the plowing, harrowing, seeding, haying, harvesting, stacking, feeding and other farm operations. Except at threshing time, the getting out of wood, the help of man was never sought. Instead of a 100-acre place, with seven horses and ten cattle, which they started with, they have a 1,120-acre farm, twenty-five head of heavy horses and nearly a hundred head of cattle, mostly pure-breds. Their farm buildings, equipment and well-kept fields would be objects of pride to the owners in any country.

Their accomplishment has not only been profitable but pleasant, and they have enjoyed every home advantage. They are two entertaining and bright girls, and have all the feminine charm of womanhood. Their manlike occupation has not given them a masculine character or appearance, as some of the older generations might imagine. Their gallant struggle for success signifies the truth in the oft-repeated maxim of Western Canada, "A little assistance and the soil, with its natural richness and God's sunshine will soon pay for the land itself."

If you wish to learn more of what Western Canada can do, write for a copy of "Canada West" which will be mailed to you free by your nearest Canadian government agent.—Advertisement.

That's Something.

"How does Mr. Grumpson stand with his neighbors?"

"Not well, I fear."

DISHS FROM PRESERVED FRUIT

In an emergency, even in season of fruit, one will find it convenient to use some of the fruit on the preserve shelves. Plum Trifle.—Rub canned plums through a sieve. Add to each cupful of pulp the whites of three eggs beaten stiff and sweetened. Fill the cup two-thirds full of soft custard and heap the fruit meringue on top.

Berry Float.—Heat one quart of milk; add one cupful of sugar and one-eighth of a teaspoonful of salt; when boiling stir in a tablespoonful of cornstarch thinned with a little cold milk; let it boil for five minutes, stirring often, then add the beaten yolks of three eggs; remove from the heat and beat while the mixture cools. Strain the juice from a pint of canned berries and sweeten to taste. Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff; add two to four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and some of the berry juice—very little to color. Spread the berries on the custard, then heap the meringue on the berries. Serve in glasses if so desired.

Pear Shortcake.—Make a short biscuit dough and roll it into two sheets one-half inch thick. Bake in buttered tins in a hot oven. Cut up canned pears, sweeten and flavor with lemon rind or juice. Spread the shortcake after covering well with butter, making alternate layers of cake and fruit.

Stuffed Fruit.—Place halves of fruit in a pan, fill the centers with orange marmalade, raisins, dates, figs, or chopped nuts. When thoroughly heated remove to a warm serving dish and pour over them a soft custard or melted marshmallows. Peaches, pears or apricots are especially good this way.

Pineapple Mousse.—Take one cupful of sugar or less, the juice of half a lemon, a tablespoonful of gelatin and one cupful of water. Soak the gelatin in cold water to dissolve. Add then set in hot water to dissolve. Pack the pineapple and lemon juice. Pack in ice until ready to serve. The jelly will harden if placed on ice.

Bran Fruit Roll.—Make a bran biscuit dough, roll out into two sheets. On one sheet, well buttered, place a cupful of raisins; place the other on top with a cupful of dates or figs. Roll the whole like a jelly roll, pinching the ends together. Bake for one hour. Serve with any fruit or cream and sugar.

It is nearly an axiom that people will not be better than the books they read.

GOOD EGG DISHS

Eggs all over the country have been reasonable in price and plentiful. As a food eggs are rich in nutriment and if liked may be prepared in many ways, just as eggs. For the member of the family who needs eggs but does not care for them, it is necessary to mask them with other foods. A piece of sponge cake will be eaten by the child who will refuse eggs; as this cake is rich in eggs it is good and wholesome.

Spanish Eggs.—Take one-half can of tomato, pour off nearly all the liquid and heat the tomatoes in a saucepan, seasoning with salt and cayenne, with a little chopped onion, and cook ten minutes. Then break in four eggs and stir with a fork until the eggs are cooked and have the consistency of scrambled eggs. Serve this immediately on rounds of buttered toast.

Supper Dish.—Spread slices of stale bread with butter, place in a baking dish, sprinkle each layer generously with cheese. Beat two eggs, add one cupful of milk, salt and paprika to season and pour over the bread. Bake in a moderate oven until the custard is set. More eggs and milk will be needed for a larger dish.

Macaroni and Eggs.—Cook macaroni of any kind until tender in boiling salted water. Drain and place in a well-buttered baking dish a layer of the cooked macaroni; over this put a layer of sliced hard cooked eggs, using five eggs for a dish serving six. Sprinkle with cheese, add a bit of onion juice or grated onion and then a layer of thick white sauce made by cooking together two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour and one cupful of rich milk. Repeat with more macaroni, cheese, egg and white sauce and finish the top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven until well heated and the crumbs are brown.

Egg Lemonade.—Prepare the lemonade as usual and just before serving beat up one or two eggs, add to the pitcher of lemonade and beat well with an egg beater. This is a refreshing drink and a good way for those who do not like eggs to take them in an active form.

GIVE CARE TO SHRUBBERY

Good Idea to Note How Dame Nature Has Arranged Growth to the Best Advantage.

In a state of nature, shrubs that grow in masses or thickets stand close together, intermingling their branches from the time they spring up as seedlings and make their growth wholly upward from an early age, since the light is shut off from them on all sides by their crowding neighbors. Thus, all run to height save those on the outermost edge of such mass.

To arrange a planting that will at once conform to this that Nature produces, shrubs that grow erect and "to the top" must be used for background, with low-growing kinds spreading, and even drooping kinds planted against them. Yet the mistake of a monotonous, evenly graded bank of green extending from the turf upward everywhere is to be avoided, for this is truly fearful in its artificiality.

The proper way to assemble a shrubbery is to cluster the individual shrubs loosely and irregularly, grouping them by kinds, in the main, but invariably scattering the kinds together at the edges of each group; and further scattering one or two of any dominant kind here and there throughout the entire mass. Or, to express it in formula: All varietal clusters should give way on their edges to the neighboring variety, so that a friendly intermingling shall prevail, to a considerable degree in some places down to almost none at all in others; for all the world as daisies and buttercups intermingle in a meadow.

MORGAN HORSE IS HONORED

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The Morgan Horse Club of America has honored Castor, an 800-pound registered Morgan horse bred and owned by the United States Department of Agriculture, by issuing a booklet telling of his remarkable sturdiness and endurance. Castor was one of the few horses to finish the United States mounted service endurance test held last October. The horses traveled from Camp Alfred, Vail, N. J., to Washington, D. C.

During the test Castor carried 245 pounds, nearly one-third of his weight, without developing any leg trouble.

Castor, Registered Morgan Horse.

His loss of only 12 3/4 pounds during the three-day test was a remarkable part of his performance, especially considering the fact that he was by far the smallest horse in the contest.

The booklet published by the Morgan Horse Club is entitled "Morgan Horse Wins Laurels in Mounted Service Endurance Test, 1921." The author is H. H. Reese, animal husbandman in charge of the United States Morgan horse farm, Middlebury, Vt.

Bungalow Vs. Two-Family. Put a two-family house on the usual size lot and the neighborhood at once takes on a cliffed look. A bungalow, probably costing less than half, on the same lot would preserve the character of the neighborhood. But if the town, in seeking to maintain its suburban characteristics, zones out the two-family structure, is it within its constitutional rights or does it unreasonably infringe the rights of the property owner?

There is a very nice question here, the right of the neighborhood as against the investment right of a single property owner, and complicated by the constant likelihood of operation by the real-estate speculators. Probably it is the last that make most of the trouble. It would be quite an intricate calculation to say whether the maintained value of the neighborhood would in case of resale compensate the individual bungalow builder for what he might have earned by building a two-family house and renting one floor.—Newark Evening News.

Planting the Lawn Shrubbery. It is an axiom of good design that a lawn that is broad, sweeping and picturesque shall be planted in a broad, sweeping, picturesque manner. Straight lines must never show anywhere, either as boundaries at the foundations of buildings or as drives or walks. The effect to be created is of a broad, open glade in the midst of the forest—or at least in the midst of dense and secluded growth, if the impression of actual forest background is impossible. On every side should be vistas of swirling masses of shrubbery suggestive of the shores of a bay or any small body of water—shrubbery that looks to have been pushed back and piled against the heavier background material to make a clear space where the turf may grow.

To Study City Planning. About thirty of the large cities of California, if the extension division of the University of California and the Real Estate association of that state carry through their joint plan, will have the benefit of a unique series of conferences on city planning that was begun nearly a year ago in Los Angeles, where the regional problems of the vicinity offered an especially fruitful basis for discussion. Another course, aided by local experts, was given in Oakland.

There never was a time when Goodyear Tires were so good as now. They are bigger, heavier and stronger today than any earlier Goodyears ever were. Yet Goodyear prices are lower now than ever. Not even in those remembered days before the war did Goodyear Tires sell at such low prices as today. Look at the figures listed below. They represent an average decrease of more than 60% from Goodyear prices of 1910.

When you can get these better Goodyears at such prices, there is no question of the tire value at your command. Your Goodyear Service Station Dealer will tell you that never in his experience as a tire dealer has he known the equal of this value. See him today.

It is a lot better to be a poor talker, and know it, than to be a good one, and make yourself a nuisance to your friends.

There are too many of us, who have not the ability or spunk to get a line on the good things in life till the other fellow has copped them off.

There are a lot of fellows who have an imagination that is elastic enough to make them think they are too much punkin's to be copped up their own home town. But when they get out against the hard knocks of the world, they find that the old home town is really better than it looks.

The Chamber of Commerce at Canadian, last week took an unequivocal stand against the ku klux klan. At their regular meeting a series of Anti-Ku Klux Klan Resolutions were drawn up and unanimously passed by the over forty members present, and ordered printed in the Canadian Record. Names of a goodly number of the most prominent men of Canadian appear among the signers of the Resolutions.

Mayor F. P. Reid, of Pampa, and his associates are again agitating the building of a bridge across the Canadian, at Adobe Walls. The building of a bridge at the famous old landmark, will make the Adobe Walls highway a great feeder to the D-C-D Highway, which two highways join at Spearman. The bridge would make a permanent and very fitting memorial to those who so nobly defended themselves at the old crossing of the Canadian.

The Spearman Reporter, last week spoke of the remarkable fact that the ducks were nesting in the lakes on the flats, at the same time remarking that old-timers say this is only the third time in 2 years that this has happened. Kelley seems to think that this presages a wet summer and fall. Maybe he is right, but what are we going to do with the old tradition that the Texas Panhandle is a place where the sandstorms reigns supreme.

Europe is sick—very sick—and there appears to be but one physician capable of restoring her to health. That physician is Uncle Sam. But when a physician gives medicine to a patient he requires that his instructions be faithfully observed, for without such observance there can be no cure.

It is possible that America owes a duty to the world, the duty of aiding in the readjustment of stricken Europe.

But the people of this country will approve the extension of such aid only upon the assurance that it will be employed for the collective good of all of the people and not be diverted to the maintenance of great armies or the enrichment of favored individuals. "No adherence, no dough," says Dr. Sam.

With government positions no longer to be distributed by congressmen and senators to "deserving" henchmen at "home," the next best thing was to have an "eligibility choice" might be influenced by sub-man or senator. Never in the history of the government has it been best served by those who gave out its positions to those who would work for Uncle Sam. The best man or woman is not sought; merely a grade of man or woman who can pass the examination. The whole idea, anyway, that the man or woman who can pass an educational test with the highest percentage is therefore the best qualified to fill any given clerical position, is nonsensical. No business man selects a bookkeeper because he can pass 99 per cent in geography or history; no mercantile house selects a buyer merely because he knows grammar or algebra better than other persons. The banker wants a bookkeeper who has three things: ambition, honesty and knowledge of bookkeeping. A mercantile house wants a buyer who knows the goods, people and who has honor and ambition. Why shouldn't the government select the same way? And why not select the best to be found—not merely one of the run-of-the-mine passers of examinations?

Any immigration law, no matter how justly framed and wisely administered, will probably occasionally permit injustice and cause suffering, but there seems to be no real reason why sufficient discretion cannot be given proper authority to make humane exceptions to impersonal law, when the law interferes as between man and wife, mother and child, or son and mother.

A case in point is that of the mother of "Charlie" Chaplin. Mrs. Chaplin was admitted to this country as an alien, suffering from mental disease (due to shell shock) and permitted to remain for treatment for a year. When the year was up she became subject to deportation as an undesirable alien, regardless of the fact, that her internationally famous son, worth well over a million dollars, was doing all in his power to make her happy and comfortable, was providing her with a home, doctors, nurses, and treatment.

The case is being adjusted. It took "special rulings" and "opinions" of legal lights in the government to do it. It should have needed nothing more than proper evidence before a commissioner of immigration. Those who think that "law is law," regardless of personal cases, might try imagining their own mothers in Mrs. Chaplin's place; perhaps then they will see more clearly the need not only of intensive restriction of immigration, but of humanizing the administration of such laws.

MEETING CONTINUES

Rev. W. R. Smith is visiting in the Lamberth home and is preaching every night this week. Bro. Smith taught at Bordwell this last school year and is on his way home to visit home folks at Wheeler.

Roy is giving us some good lessons. Hear him.
G. A. Lamberth.

OUR SUBJECT

I have have been asked the question so many times since I have been living at Miami why I oppose the use of instrumental music in the worship of the church, that I have decided I would preach on that next Sunday evening. I have no objection to people using it that want to, but I have thought it best not to do so.

Come out Sunday evening at 8:30 and we will talk it over in a serious brotherly, prayerful way and see what we think about it. I might be wrong. Men do go wrong sometimes and I am just a man.
G. A. Lamberth.

The Picture "FATE" that is being shown at the Pastime tonite is a true story of Clara Smith Hamon. Don't fail to see it.

LAKETON ITEMS

Late wheat is showing up very good.

Almost everyone from Laketon was at the Rodeo at Miami, Friday and Saturday.

W. S. Paris and family and D. C. Christopher and family made the round trip to McLean, via Alanreed, Sunday.

Miss Ida Tyner, of Oklahoma, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. W. S. Paris.

Earl Hickman was a business visitor to the Laketon neighborhood the first of the week.

J. T. McIntyre made a short business trip to Miami Tuesday.

Sterling McIntyre is spending the week with his sister, Mrs. Edward Gething.

J. B. Williams and Johnny Renner were in Miami Monday.

Everyone is getting ready for harvest, which we think will start about June 15th. Most of the wheat in this locality will be cut with combines.

WIERD HAPPENINGS AS SHOWN IN THE DAILY NEWS

A Newark (N. J.) woman has found a new reason for getting a divorce. She got it, too, which should make all devotees of the royal game more careful. Her testimony was to the effect that hubby played so much golf, so often, that he hadn't time to be a husband and provider. It's an old saying of golfers, "If business interferes with golf, give up business." This particular golfer found his wife interfered with his game, and so she got rid of him!

But this was nothing to the sad case of a Des Moines (Iowa) lady who had a "husband" who proved to be a woman, yet one so overbearing and strong that she held her "wife" in terror for a year and a half before the poor deluded lady caused her "husband" to be arrested!

The wife should have gone to Vassar. Statistics from the great women's college show that Vassarites, during the last ten years, are an inch and a half taller, two inches larger around, and with bigger hands and feet, all due to physical culture.

A Charlestown (W. Va.) boy, out riding in an automobile, was fired upon by an unknown assailant. Rushed to a hospital, he was X-rayed and his heart found to be upon the right (which is the wrong) side of his body! Had his heart been where hearts are supposed to be, in the right place on the left side, he would have been instantly killed.

Paris says skirts must be long. America says they short and going to get shorter. Comes a Parisian dress-engineer with a gown which has an adjustable skirt. When on fashion parade, milady unties a ribbon and behold, a long skirt. When she goes shopping or wishes to catch a street car, she pulls the ribbon and up goes the gown to knee length.

Why Suffer from Rheumatism?

Do you know that nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles or chronic rheumatism neither of which require any internal treatment? The pain may be relieved by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, which makes sleep and rest possible, and that certainly means a great deal to any one afflicted with rheumatism.

W. E. Gwynn, of Wichita, Kansas, came in the first of the week, to look after his business interests here, with the U. S. Strader and Cozart Grain Companies.

The Home of the Soul

In olden times, it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never so completely used up as when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing quite so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter.

Worth Many Times Its Cost The three-fold purpose of paint is

Preservation—Beauty—Economy

Your pride in the ownership of a home is shown by its appearance. Without good paint to preserve it—to protect it against exposure to rain and weather, it will quickly lose its beauty and value—Little cracks will soon become big ones—rot and decay will occur in the unprotected pores—joints will loosen up, and—here, there and everywhere the "gnawing" tooth of neglect will be plainly seen.

Waggener's Absolutely Pure Lead, Zinc and Linseed Oil Paint is a positive preventative and protection against this unhappy condition. It effectually withstands exposure to the extremes of heat, cold and rain.

Ask your Banker his opinion of the value of good paint on your home as an investment.

We will be glad to submit figures and facts which prove that our paint will be worth many times its cost to you.

RADIO

THINGS BEGINNERS MUST LEARN FIRST

Explanation of Terms Used in Radio and of Its Basic Principles.

Due to the great interest taken in radio since broadcasting stations have been started, many radio terms are seen and heard that may be unfamiliar to the novice. Some of the most commonly used terms are explained and defined below.

Like light, heat and sound, radio energy is propagated in the form of a wave motion. Every one is familiar with the wave motion set up on the surface of a still body of water by the dropping of a stone into it.

Every time a point on the surface of the waves goes through a complete set of motions and starts to repeat those motions the wave is said to have gone through a cycle.

The number of complete cycles gone through per second is the frequency.

The human ear is responsive to sound frequencies up to a few thousand cycles per second but is not capable of responding to the higher frequencies encountered in radio. Arbitrarily a frequency of less than 10,000 cycles has been called an audible frequency—one which can be heard—and frequencies above 10,000 cycles, radio or inaudible frequencies—because they cannot be heard by the human ear.

The particular type of wave which propagates radio energy is an electromagnetic wave. All of us have seen bits of iron and steel attracted by the little toy magnets made up in the form of horseshoes. This attraction of the magnet for the bits of iron and steel showed the existence of a magnetic

The high-frequency current is known as the carrier-wave and its function is to radiate into space in the form of electro-magnetic waves and by its variation in amplitude carry with it the variation in the tone at the transmitting station.

It is the frequency of the carrier-wave that determines the wave-length on which a radiophone station is transmitted. By experiment it has been found that electro-magnetic waves travel at the same velocity that light waves travel, that is, 186,000 miles per second. Wave-length is the distance between any two similar points on two successive waves; for example, the distance from crest to crest of any two successive waves in the same direction, measured in meters, a unit of length equal approximately to one and one-tenth yards. Converting 186,000 miles to meters, the equivalent is 300,000,000 meters. The length of an electro-magnetic wave is equal then to 300,000,000 divided by the frequency. Suppose a station was transmitting on a wave-length of 360 meters. The frequency of the carrier-wave would be approximately 835,000 cycles.

Just as a violinist tunes his instrument, that is, makes a certain string emit a note of higher or lower pitch, or, technically speaking, a sound wave of higher or lower frequency, by adjusting the tension on the string, so may the electrical constants of the antenna circuit of a radiophone transmitter be changed in order to have the station emit a carrier-wave of a different frequency.

If a tuning fork having a natural period corresponding to middle C be placed near a violinist who is playing, the fork will vibrate when the musician plays middle C, but all other times it will remain quiescent. This phenomenon of the tuning fork vibrating whenever the musician plays the corresponding note on the violin is known as mechanical resonance. If a radio receiver be adjusted so that electrically its natural period of vibration will be 835,000 cycles (360 meters wave-length) every time a station transmits on a wave-length of 360 meters, current will be set up in the receiver by field about the tips of the magnet and this same kind of a field propagates the electro-magnetic force, except that unlike the toy magnet, its power comes off in the form of wavy motions. This electro-magnetic force propagates radio energy in all directions.

The medium that transmits the electro-magnetic waves is the same medium that transmits light—the ether. This medium is supposed to fill all space, even that occupied by fluids and solids. Little is known about its properties.

In radio it is more common to speak of wave length than frequency. The wave length of any wave motion is the distance between any two successive crests in the same direction. The wave length depends upon the frequency. If the frequency is high the wave length is short. On the other hand if the frequency is low the wave length is long. Numerically the wave length is equal to the distance traveled by the wave in one second divided by the frequency. Suppose, for example, that it were desired to know the wave length of an electro-magnetic wave having a frequency of 835,000 cycles. Electro-magnetic waves travel at the same speed as do light waves, that is, 186,000 miles per second. Dividing the 186,000 by 835,000 the wave length would be .223 miles or 366 yards. In radio work it is measured in meters. A meter is equal to approximately 1.1 yards. Converting 366 yards into meters the wave length would be 336 divided by 1.1 or 306 meters. This is the wave length on which KDKA operates. It also means that the electro-magnetic waves sent out from this station have a frequency of 835,000 cycles.

FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES

In a radiophone transmitter there are two requirements that must be fulfilled. First, there must be a source of high-frequency current, say, between 15,000 and 1,500,000 cycles so connected to an antenna and ground system that energy in the form of electro-magnetic waves will be radiated. Second, there must be some method of controlling this high-frequency current or modulating it so that the variations in the amplitude of the high-frequency current will be directly proportional to the voice or music to be transmitted.

electrical resonance. Stations transmitting on any wave-length other than 360 meters will not cause a current to be set up in the receiver.

The portion of a radio receiver that changes the wave-length at which it is electrically resonant is called a tuner. Suppose that "A" station transmits on a wave-length of 200 meters and "B" on a wave-length of 360 meters. By adjusting the tuner until the constants of the receiver make it electrically resonant to a 200-meter wave or a 360-meter wave, either of the two stations can be picked up, but both stations cannot be picked up simultaneously. This is the reason that more than one transmitter can be operating at one time and yet only one can be heard on a receiver without interference from the others.

The other necessary part of a radio receiver is the detector. The function of this portion of the receiver is to utilize the small currents in the tuner that are set up by a transmitting station and make them audible through the medium of a telephone receiver. If the telephone receiver were connected directly to the tuner the high-frequency current would not operate the diaphragm of the receiver and even if the diaphragm were set in motion it would be too fast a motion to be picked up by the human ear.

In a simple receiver the detector usually consists of two pieces of mineral in contact or a piece of mineral in contact with a metallic spring. Either combination is known as a crystal detector. A detector of this type is nothing more than a rectifier; that is, when an alternating current is applied at the terminals the current is allowed to flow only in one direction.

How One Editor Uses Radio.

The editor of a paper in an isolated town in the northwest is using the radio in a most ingenious and effective way. An amateur radio friend in a big city 50 miles away buys the latest editions of the city papers as soon as they are off the press, reads the best news into his transmitter, and a typist in the country office copies the news as it comes in over the office receiver. The editor, through this ingenious plan, is always "First With the Latest" in his home town.

Demure Taffeta Frocks; Consider New Lingerie

FASHION never ignores taffetas—they are too well entrenched in the regard of every woman. Every summer brings demure frocks of this silk, usually in black or navy blue, decked out with simple trimmings and little brightening touches, and every summer they go daintily rustling their lady-like way through the affairs of afternoon. Designers take them for granted and complacently present such appealing frocks as those of black taffeta, shown here.

things until the last minute. At this time, too, many June brides are intent upon trousseaux that will represent the very latest ideas in undergarments—and a pretty feast is spread for their eyes.

It is a silken mode this season, with emphasis put upon simplicity of design and trimmings. But replicas of silk garments, made of sheer, silky cottons, are less expensive and dainty enough for the most exacting taste—while there are still many women who

For Affairs of Afternoon.

Almost any seamstress can undertake to make either of these models. In the frock at the left, yards of little ruffles made of the silk account for all the decoration, edging the round neck and the elbow sleeves. Ruffles put on in deep points deck out the skirt and this self-trimming reaches its climax in little roses made of folds that are set about the waist.

On dresses of this kind it is easy to introduce any brightening color by means of narrow ribbon in rosettes and falling ends, as in the dress at the right. It has a plain skirt scalloped about the bottom and achieves a bouffant line by introducing corded rufings over the hips. Pinnings of taffeta are used as a finish and to join the bodice and skirt. Taffeta prefer fine batiste, nainsook and other cottons above everything else. The garments shown here may be made of crepe de chine or of batiste, using in either case, ribbon shoulder straps. The underslip is trimmed with val lace and insertion at the top and reveals a pointed ruffle at the bottom, paneled by lace insertions.

Step-in drawers of grenadine crepe de chine, with chemise to match, appear with a tailored finish of points instead of the usual lace trimming. Among the novelties recently arrived there are bodices of net or radium silk, with vestes of net and filet, or val lace insertions, which do away with the necessity of a blouse under summer coats. Sleeveless nightgowns have deep armholes edged, like their roses, set across the front, and ribbon, with colored edges, hanging in loops at each side, where the roses terminate, emphasize a front panel effect made by placing most of the fullness over the hips.

These same models, developed in the gayer colors, make enchanting dinner and dance frocks. Ruchings of taffeta, made of narrow strips frayed at the edges, covered cord, arranged in flat rosettes, flowers of the taffeta, ruffles and other self-trimmings adorn them, with narrow ribbons and millinery flowers and fruits adding their bit by way of enhancing the bright charm of taffeta in plain or changeable weaves.

In May, as in January, the stores put on special displays of lingerie for the benefit of those who have put off buying their summertime underbateau necklines, with narrow fllet lace. Narrow ribbons, tied on the shoulders, give them a caressing touch of color. Many light tints divide honors with white in the showings, where flesh, pink, orchid, peach, turquoise, and even pale green, proclaim that the courage of color has come to the point where it includes underwear.

In choosing between these alluring colors and white, the matter of laundering must be reckoned with. Only white will stand ordinary tubbing, but colored silk and batiste are not hard to launder. If they fade they may be retinted in the rinse water.

WAR ROBS THREE OF MEMORY

Trio Among Most Unusual Cases on Record at Veteran's Bureau in Washington.

Three men who have lost themselves and whose memory does not extend back to the war where they received injury, are among the most unusual cases on record at the Veterans' bureau in Washington, D. C., among the long list of war victims. The American Legion is endeavoring to assist the unfortunate ex-service men in finding their relatives.

Hayward Thompson—at least that is what he is now called—is one of the most peculiar cases. He has forgotten who he is. In his head is an ugly shrapnel wound. His memory goes back to January 22, 1922, when he arrived at a hotel in Denver, with a bill in his pocket from one of the most expensive hotels in Colorado Springs. His memory, he now believes, lapsed somewhere, either far back in France or on the trip between Colorado Springs and Denver. Thompson remembers having had $1,200 in his pocket and access to many thousands more.

In searching Washington records for some trace of the lost man, it was found that a certain Hayward Thompson enlisted in the Marine corps June 5, 1918. He was discharged January 6, 1919. He had a wife and three children at Flemington, Mo., and a mother, Mrs. Louise Thompson, at Chicago. The man with a shrapnel wound in his head and no memory of any relatives at all, telegraphed in great eagerness to Flemington, Mo., and to Chicago. He received no answer.

Not so long ago a clean-cut young man appeared at a Los Angeles hospital. He wore an American Legion button. When questioned as to who he was he stated he did not know. "I think I am thirty-two years old," he said. "I am five feet, nine inches and weigh 130 pounds. My eyes are gray and I have blond hair. I believe I was a soldier. If any one can tell me who I am, or anything about my past, please let me know." The Los Angeles post of the Legion is making every effort to help the man find himself.

A third "unidentified living" lives at 735 North Thirty-first street, Louisville. He is known as Leonard Wells, to the neighborhood. His memory is hazy. He believes that he enlisted in the old First Kentucky Infantry, and with the command was transferred to a replacement detachment and sent to France. His photograph was forwarded to his company commander, who recognized the face but did not recall a name. A machine gun bullet had pierced his abdomen and injured his spine. Another had injured the left shoulder cap. No compensation or insurance can be awarded to this man, the Veterans' bureau regrets, until his identity can be established.

France, it is said, has six of these "unidentified" living ex-service men. Great Britain has a few. These lost souls who cannot find their memories, and who know they cannot, present a spectacle unique and pathetic. They are lost and know it.

ON "GREATEST HEROES" LIST

Sergt. Samuel Glucksman of the American "Devil Dogs," Rival for York-Woodfill Honors.

Another rival for the crown worn alternately by Sergeants York and Woodfill as the greatest hero of the World war has been uncovered by the United States veterans' bureau in the person of Sergt. Samuel Glucksman, member of the American "Devil Dogs" during the war and decorated by both the American and allied governments.

Although born in Austria, Sergeant Glucksman enlisted with the marines at the outbreak of the war and although too modest to tell the story of his achievements while fighting against the Germans, the American Legion at Washington discovered that Glucksman fought in seven major engagements, Verdun, Belleau Woods, Chateau Thierry, Marbach, St. Mihiel, Soissons and Mont Blanc.

On the morning of October 3, 1918, Sergeant Glucksman started out to get water for his comrades. He returned without the water but with 20 Germans and a painful wound. The "Devil Dog" sergeant captured a lone German and instead of bayoneting his captive forced him to lead him to the rest of the advance party. Coming onto the whole batch of 20, Sergeant Glucksman waved a hand grenade and ordered them all out of the shell hole they were occupying and into the arms of his American comrades. By executive appointment Glucksman is now employed at the navy yard at Portsmouth, N. H.

LEGION MAN, AID TO CURE

Henry Sullivan, Phoenix (Ariz.) Organization Enthusiast, as J. Ties Many Knots.

Having secured plenty of experience in braving the perils of the deep a member of the American Legion, Henry Sullivan of Phoenix, Ariz., is helping to lead the several of matrimony that set sail on his home. When the men of the start their dingy bars seek out the lines of their single blessedness.

Mr. Sullivan is also the man who started the "Under one head, American Legion" slogan which has been adopted by all the war organizations of his home county to advance the interests of the service men by carrying on hospitalization work, convalescent drives and working generally for the benefit of the men who are in their country.

As Mr. Sullivan himself explains: "All war organizations in this county have united under one banner for the purpose of centralizing their work. We expect to lend our aid largely to hospitalization work and other ways serving the disabled. We see men by placing the responsibility on the various departments of government where they belong rather than by advancing their rights in a shod fashion."

FORCE PERSHING TO SP

Legionnaires of Bement, Illinois, Up Old Commander's Car and Demand an Address.

General Pershing was captured while attempting to pass through friendly territory by a group of American Legion men at Bement, Ill., old leader of the A. E. F. stalled through the town on an interurban trolley car, but Legionnaires, aided a powerful ally in the person of a motorman, gathered in front of the trolley and demanded a speech. The rear platform of the car turned into a speaker's stage and "Black Jack" addressed the men and their friends for ten minutes. The Legionnaires were marshaled together by Sidney Morgan, their commander, who stood on the platform with his old general, and it was not until he had given the word that the former members of Pershing's command would give the trolley right of way.

Adjusted Compensation Wins

Adjusted compensation won an aided victory in the nation-wide referendum by the United States Chamber of Commerce—4,116 chambers voted favorably, 2,657 against the measure. The United States chamber has opposed the bill from the start. The commerce body in Toledo, O., tested the questionnaire which it sent out as being unfair in the way it presented the subject.

Carrying On With the American Legion

A community playground will be made by the Legion at Nashua, N.H., the ex-soldier's bearing the expense of apparatus and upkeep.

In Korea, American ex-soldiers, of their missionaries under the leadership of a Southern Presbyterian mission, have formed a post of the legion.

During the war it cost Uncle Sam $300 to clothe each of his soldiers. Present doughboys is garbed in clothing costing but $189, the War department states.

The only woman field clerk in the army is Miss Jean Hodson of Francisco, Cal., secretary to Major General Morton. She holds the rank of sergeant major.

The Legion in both North and South will henceforth observe the birthday of Generals Lee and Grant, rival winners of the Civil war. The birthday of General Grant was observed on January 27 this year and that of Lee will be served January 19, 1923.

THE FIGHT

PROLOGUE—Occupying a dilapidated shack in the Silent City, a water and loved and fed him ever since? She looked first at the man, then down at the lamb.
"He's mine, Oscar," she hesitated. "I've had him two full days now."
Oscar laughed.
"A likely story!" he jeered. "How long since squatters raised sheep? Where'd you get him?"
"Found him," she answered, putting her hand on the little animal.
"Then he isn't yours," he retorted, "and he can't be anybody's but mine. I thought I was missing some lambs."
Polly's eyes filled with alarm. She was trying to frame an argument in favor of herself and the creature she loved.
"When you find a thing dyin' in a creek, Oscar," she faltered at length, "you can take him home an' love him, now can't you?"
The man's loud guffaw brought a deep flush to the girl's face. She placed herself directly between him and the lamb.
"He's mine," she insisted. "He'd drowned sure if I hadn't jumped into the drink an' pulled him out."
Her words made the farmer certain where the creature came from.
"Dead or alive, he's mine!" he exclaimed.
Besides coveting the lamb, he hated the squatter girl's way of fondling animals. When he got her, he determined, he would take all of that kind of nonsense out of her.
With one sweep of his mighty hand, he thrust her aside, and whipping out his knife, he cut the rope that held Nanny Hopkins to Polly's arm. Then, in spite of the girl's frantic cries and her desperate fighting against it, Oscar picked up the lamb.
Polly screamed frantically, for from the look on his evil face, she saw instantly what he intended to do. He was going to kill Nanny! Again she flew at him, but he was tall and strong and held the lamb aloft in the air, high out of her reach. With a rough oath he pushed the girl from him so roughly that she fell. When Polly scrambled up, he had the lamb in one hand and a large stone in the other.
"Oscar!" she shrieked.
She dropped to her knees, clasped Wee Jerry in her arms, and shrouded his face and her own in her curls. When she dared look up again, Oscar had thrown the dead lamb on the ground.
"There," he gritted, "that's to teach you a lesson, Miss Polly Hopkins. And now I'll open your eyes to something else."
As he crossed to her, she tried to struggle to her feet; but her legs were weak, and she was sick over the quivering body there in the road. In another minute Oscar had snatched her into his arms.
She shrieked again and again; and Jerry's loud cries followed, as she fought desperately with the burly farmer.

Once out of sight of the Red Cross poster and the little group in front of it, Percival checked his horse. Bay

"What Do You Want?" She Asked Suddenly, Frowning at Him.

Dexter shook his head and champed his bit in disapproval. He was accustomed to mad, harum-scarum gallops, and he loved them; but this morning, especially since the pause by the fence corner, he had been compelled to mope along like a worn-out, old nag.
His master was thinking, really and seriously thinking. Happily born and the heir to an immense fortune, his way through life so far had been marked out for him. He had gone to war carelessly, in a mood of hot patriotism and because it was the thing to do. Over there he had done his share and gained, especially from his French comrades, an inkling of life's vital purpose. He had decided that, when he returned, he would do something worth while, something to make the world a little better because he had lived in it.

Now he was home; and almost the first day had come to him this appeal. He smiled ruefully at the recollection of Pollyop's plea. He had promised to help the squatters, and he meant to do it. Suppose it did bring him into conflict with Marcus MacKenzie! He knew how to fight, and a good fight was not bad fun.
Faintly from the direction he had ridden, the sound of cries came to his ears. Idly he wondered what the row was. Some squatter man disciplining his wife, he decided; but he could not stand to have a woman beaten!
He vaulted into the saddle and raced back over the road. It was not long before he located the place where the screams came from. Then Bay Dexter had an opportunity to show all the speed he had.
The sight of Pollyop writhing in the strong arms of a man he did not recognize made Percival see red. He was off his horse with one leap, and two long strides took him to Oscar's side.
One blow from his powerful knuckles in the farmer's face staggered Bennett and freed Polly so quickly that she fell to the ground. Instinctively she crawled out of the way of the battling men. The blow that had released her had done no damage to Bennett except to aggravate his rage. He recovered himself and confronted his assailant, dripping oaths like rain from a cloudburst.
Bennett took the offensive, his fists flying like balls. He wanted to get his arms around the other fellow, to trip him and make the fight a rough and tumble on the ground, but Percival avoided the rush, and struck as Bennett tried to come to close quarters. But he could not; neither could he hit his elusive opponent. At length he hesitated, distressed as much by his own efforts as the blows he had received.
Then Percival stepped in, and quickly it was all over. Two well-planted thumps laid Bennett like a log on the ground.
Robert dusted off his hands, picked Wee Jerry up, and handed him to his sister.
"Did he hurt you, Polly?" he queried, and her answer was positively gleeful: "Nary a bit, sir, an' I reckon the big lummoxx got a plenty this time."
Robert brushed off his clothes slowly. The farmer still lay on the ground.
"Get up," ordered Percival scornfully, touching the prostrate man with the toe of his boot. "Get up and make off if you don't want me to lick you again."
Oscar rolled over and crawled slowly to his hands and knees.
"The ground's kinda wabby, ain't it, Oscar?" Polly glibbed.
"Get out," commanded Robert, once more.
Bennett scrambled to his feet, shook his fist at Polly, snatched up the little dead lamb, and in another moment had climbed the fence and was gone.
"What were you fighting about?" began Robert, looking keenly at Polly.
"Tears hung on the girl's lashes, and the sensitive underlip quivered."
"Oscar said as how Nannyop were his," she murmured. "Weren't it awful for him to swat it with that stone that way?"
"Did you?" He broke off the question abruptly. He was going to ask her if she had stolen the lamb; but an expression in the pleading, misty eyes stopped him.
"I found the little feller drownin' in the creek, sir," she explained with bowed head. "I just took him home to love him, that was all."
The strange, thrilling emotion that had overcome Robert but a short time ago in the presence of this squatter girl attacked him again.
"What can I do to help you, child?" he demanded sharply.
Polly flung out her hand. Help! that was what the squatters wanted. The little lamb was dead. Nothing could ever hurt it any more. But there were her people—
"Just help Daddy Hopkins!"—she choked and went on—"an' all the poor folks in the Silent City, an'—all—I'll love you forever and forever!"
After that the "littlest mother" made large strides upward toward the "greatest mother." Every little worried thing in the woods, every heavy heart in the squatter settlement felt the difference in Polly Hopkins. She smiled more, she talked more; and, when she found a group of her women-folks wondering how their absent laddies were, she led them in smiling assurance to Old Marc's fence and there repeated what Robert Percival had said about the Greatest Mother in the World.
One morning Pollyop was cleaning the shanty and Granny Hope was seated by the stove. A sharp rap came on the door. When Polly opened it and recognized the caller, she would have closed the door and barred it if a man's heavy boot, thrust across the threshold, had not prevented her.

There in his riding clothes, haughty and frowning, stood Marcus MacKenzie.
"Where's Jeremiah Hopkins?" he demanded, eyeing Pollyop sternly.
She fidgeted with the edge of her apron. Had MacKenzie come to harm her best beloved?
"My daddy's gone out," she returned finally, in a low tone.
"Then I'll wait," said Marcus. "I'll sit down and wait."
Polly set out a chair for him, her legs trembling so she could scarcely stand. Granny Hope grunted out a word of greeting, but the man gave her no answer; and, after blinking at him a few times, the old woman fell asleep.
"This is a rotten hole," spat out MacKenzie presently, looking at the girl.
This scornful comment on the quarters Daddy Hopkins worked so hard to support touched the squatter girl to the quick. She kept the but as clean as broom and lake water could make it!
"It's our home, mister; all we got," she replied, and she straightened her shoulders with dignity.
"Rotten, just the same," repeated Marcus. "Say, you! Come and stand here before me."
He touched a spot on the floor with his riding whip; and Polly stepped upon it.
"Now you listen to me," he said sternly. "I've come with a proposition to your father, and if you've any influence with him, you'd better talk him into it."
Polly's face brightened a little. Then it was not real harm coming to Daddy Hopkins today. She wished now that he would come in; and, almost as if in answer to the throbbing of her nerves, Hopkins passed through the doorway with Wee Jerry clinging to his neck.

"Now You Listen to Me," He Said Sternly.

The trembling girl saw his face grow gray at the sight of his powerful enemy.
Jeremiah made an awkward bob of his head to Marcus, slipped Jerry into his arms and without a word sat down. And Pollyop, full of curiosity and anxiety, sat down too, her brilliant eyes steadily leveled upon MacKenzie.
"Hopkins," began Marcus, "I've come with a proposal to you. If you've got any sense, you'll impress its value on the rest of your fellows here, for by hook or by crook, I intend to break up this settlement and burn these shacks."
One long gasp came from Polly. Her father said nothing but looked back at the speaker as if he had not heard.
"Daddy ain't got the hull right to say what's what," she interrupted suddenly. "There's lots of squatters."
"Then call in some of the others," MacKenzie snapped. "And don't be long about it. I want to know what's going to be done before I go."
Polly flashed a glance at her father. "Go get 'em, brat," he directed. "An' bring Larry."
Out into the settlement she went, and when she came back into the shanty, there followed her an angry set of ill-clothed men; and outside a sullen group of women waited to hear what Old Marc had to offer.
One by one the men silently ranged themselves in a row around the hut wall while Polly stood at her father's shoulder, one hand resting upon it, and the other on Wee Jerry's head.
Marcus MacKenzie knew the group of men he had to deal with. He knew their wicked ways, how they thieved, how they used their nets against the law, and how they shot game out of season. He remembered, too, how many had been sent to prison with his aid, but this day he hoped to get rid of them all at once.
"I want to pay you fellows to go away from Ithaca." He plumped the proposition at them baldly. "If it hadn't been the easiest way out, I wouldn't have considered it a minute. But after talking it over with my lawyer, I've decided to give you all a sum of money if you'll leave peacefully."
"Out you'll all go, if I have to burn your huts about your heads!"

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

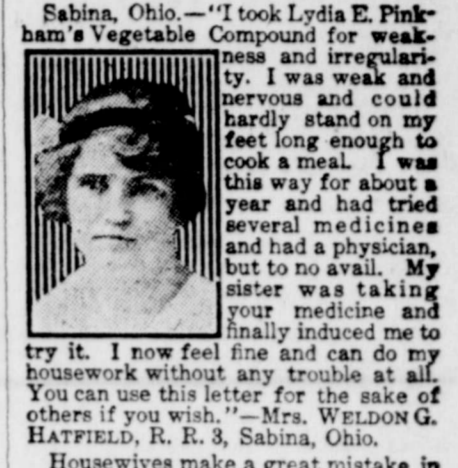

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

HAPPY MISS SPRING

"Miss Springtime was as happy as happy could be," said Daddy.
"Ah, I feel so pleasantly," she said. "The dear Breeze Brothers are whispering such sweet secrets to me. They are telling me they are so glad to see me. That makes my heart rejoice. I like to be wanted and to be made so welcome."
"You know I am always happy. I do not worry and weep and feel sad. I am bright over each little flower that is going to bloom next. I am not sad over the one that has dropped its petals and which is through blooming."
"But I am happy with the next one that is to come out. And that is the way with all of our family. It is the way dear Mother Nature has taught us to be. That is why we make room so willingly for each other."
"Now I shall make way for Lady Summer and Lady Autumn will make way for Prince Autumn and Prince Winter."
"We will not be sorry we have to go, for we will know that so much is going to follow and that we will be here again when it comes time for our season."
"Ah, yes, Mother Nature has taught us not to be sad. She has such a wonderful disposition that we are always happy too."
"She tells her to be happy with each new thing that happens, each new little bud that opens up its sweet face to greet the world."
"Isn't it wonderful not to feel sad over what has happened but to be happy over what is going to happen next? Every one cannot be like that."
"We are Mother Nature's children and so have special permissions granted to us."
"Ah, I love my time of the year. The birds sing as though they would burst their little throats."
"They don't burst their little throats, of course, but they do sing as though they would!"
"What sweet little throats they have, too. Ah, I hear them sing when their songs are loveliest, when they are making love to the dear little birds who will later be their mates."
"I watch the flowers come out. I have many traits. I saw a dear little person known as Dolly picking flowers."
"I saw a dear little person."
"This is the truth, but do you know who said so too, and who, too, discovered the truth?"
"It was that dear Dolly person. She knows the truth about Mother Nature and her children. And now I must sing a little song:
"I'm Miss Spring, I'm Miss Spring. And blossoms I bring. And the birds all sing. For they're glad that it's Spring."
"And then the birds all joined in the chorus and the blossoms danced with the Breeze Brothers and Mistress Springtime said she liked her time of the year best, though she knew that Lady Summer and Prince Autumn and Old Man Winter didn't agree with her!"

MRS. HATFIELD SABINA, OHIO

In Pitiable Condition when she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sabina, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and irregularity. I was weak and nervous and could hardly stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal. Was this way for about a year and had tried several medicines and had a physician, but to no avail. My sister was taking your medicine and finally induced me to try it. I now feel fine and can do my household work without any trouble at all. You can use this letter for the sake of others if you wish."—Mrs. WELDON G. HATFIELD, R. R. 3, Sabina, Ohio.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become so weak and nervous that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble. Give it a fair trial. It surely helped Mrs. Hatfield, just as it has many, many other women.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

An inestimable amount of injury, according to an eminent medical authority, is done by the use of pills and salts, as most of these provide only temporary relief at the expense of permanent injury.
Science has found a newer, better way; a means as simple as Nature itself.
In perfect health, a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft. Thus it is easily eliminated, but when constipation exists, this natural lubricant is not sufficient.
To find something to take the place of this natural lubricant, medical authorities have conducted exhaustive research. They have discovered that the gentle, lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative, it cannot grip. It is not a medicine in any sense of the word, and, like pure water, it is harmless. Get a bottle from your druggist.—Advertisement.

THE SOCIAL REALM

SHOWER THE SHIELD'S

A bunch of young people, members of Mrs. Jackson's Sunday School Class, favored Mr. and Mrs.
Cecil Shields with a tin shower Tuesday night, at their home. After the presenting of the presents they honored Cecil with a shower in the tank at the light plant, and all report a good time.

We decided to not meet through the months of July and August.

A JOLLY PARTY

A jolly good time was reported at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rhoten Wednesday evening when a crowd gathered for a surprise party.
The surprise was reversed at ten o'clock we found someone had turned traitor and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. After eating all we could we decided to play "mouse" and all go to our own home.
Wishing in every bunch there was one traitor. A Guest.

SOO-SOO CLUB NOTES

The Soo Soo Club met with Mrs.
Robert Townes Tuesday, June 6.
This being our regular business meeting most of the afternoon was spent in discussing club matters. Delicious refreshments consisting of sandwiches, cake and lemonade were served. Eleven members were present.
Our next meeting will be social day with Mrs. J. W. Veyles. P. R.

PRESBYTERIAN AID

The Presbyterian ladies met at the home of Mrs. S. E. Fitzgerald socially, on June 7th. These were ten members, and two guests, Mrs. Thos.
O'Loughlin and Mrs. C. F. Burnett, present. The hour was spent in having a jolly good time, and when the hostess added the finishing touch—a lovely lunch of sandwiches, pickles, fruit salad, cake and coffee, we felt the afternoon had been pleasantly, and happily spent.
Next meeting will be with Mrs.
Fitzgerald, a regular business meeting, and all members are invited to be present. P. R.

NOTICE

A business meeting of the Study Club is called for Friday afternoon at three o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Newman. Every member is urged to be present as there are several matters to be attended to and the plans for the summer to be made. P. R.

MISSIONARY NOTES

The Missionary Society met at the church Wednesday afternoon for the regular business meeting.
After singing a song and being led in prayer by Mrs. Ewing the reports of officers were called for and made.

The ladies will give a cooked food sale at Locke Bros. store. Every member of the church is asked to donate cake and pie and dressed chickens. The proceeds of this sale will go to help pay for painting the parsonage so lets everyone help.

$365 IN PRIZES FOR BEST RHYMES

A new contest is just being started which will interest everyone who reads this paper. Anyone can enter this Contest—anyone can win! All it is necessary to do is to write a 4-line rhyme on Dr. Price's Phosphate Baking Powder, using only the words which appear on the label of the Dr.
Price can (front and back).
Isn't that easy? Everyone likes to make rhymes and here is a chance to spend a fascinating hour or two writing rhymes on this popular Baking Powder and perhaps winning a substantial prize for your efforts.

CASH PRIZES

For the rhyme selected as best a prize of $100 will be given; for the second, third and fourth best rhymes prizes of $75, $50, and $25, respectively will be given. And besides these prizes there will be 23 prizes of $5 each for the next 23 best rhymes. With such a long list of prizes as these, it would be a pity not to try your hand.
Here's a 4-line rhyme as example:

*Biscuits, muffins, pie or cake,
With Dr. Price's Powder bake.
The Price's Co. guarantee
No alum in the cans to be.*

As Dr. Price's Phosphate Baking Powder sells for only 25 cents a 12 oz. can, some rhymes could play up the great economy of this pure and wholesome baking powder.
All rhymes must be received by July 1, 1922. Only words appearing on the label of the Dr. Price can (front and back) may be used. These words may be used as often as desired, but no other words will be allowed. If you haven't a can of Dr.
Price's, you can see one free at almost any grocer's. It is not a requirement that you purchase a can in order to be eligible in this Contest.

Anyone may enter the Contest, but only one rhyme from each person will be considered. In case of ties, the full amount of the prize will be given to each tying contestant. Write plainly on only one side of a sheet of paper and be sure to give your name and address. Send your rhyme before July 1st to Price Baking Powder Factory, 1065 Independence Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

So extra delicious
With fresh fruits

No other food has such an appeal on a hot day as Kellogg's Corn Flakes! They win fickle appetites, they satisfy hungry folks! As an extra-summer taste thrill, eat Kellogg's with the luscious fresh fruit now in season. Such a diet is not only ideal from a health standpoint, but it is refreshing!

You can eat Kellogg's Corn Flakes liberally at any meal because they digest easily. Let the children have all they want.

Insist upon Kellogg's Corn Flakes in the RED and GREEN package that bears the signature of W. K. Kellogg, originator of Corn Flakes. None are genuine without it!
