Developments in the H. L. McBee "hanging skeleton" murder remained at a standstill Thursday as Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Henry, recharged in the death Monday, and attorneys awaited habeas corpus hearings scheduled for 10 a. m. Friday in 91st District Court.

Subpoenas for appearance at the hearings following had been issued by district clerk's office for the state.

L. McBee, May, 1935, was made public Wednesday by Criminal District Attorney Grady Owen, who also disclosed that similar charges have been filed against four others.

He was a teacher in Chicago, Ill., many years. It was there his first wife, Mrs. Effie Stine Gristy, also a teacher, died.

Outcome of Beer Case Nearer With Higher Court Move

The Cisco beer case went a step nearer final disposition in the state supreme court Saturday as plaintiffs in the case to require issuance of a license to retail beer in Cisco made application for a writ of error in the supreme court and filed motion to advance the case.

The eleventh court of civil appeals Friday overruled a motion for a rehearing of the case, which was brought by Mayhew Bros. of Cisco to compel County Judge Clyde L. Garrett to hear application for a license. The appellate court had sustained the 91st district court in its refusal to grant a mandamus. Eastland county is legally dry, and the court rules that a wet area could not legally exist in a county dry by local option.

Because there was a dissenting opinion in the ruling of the appellate court the supreme court has jurisdiction and a hearing there is regarded as certain. A ruling within two or three weeks was expected.

Education and Christianity
The following are some of the questions that have been asked us of late: By what qualities do we judge an educated man? Is book learning the greatest factor in education? Can a man be truly educated and forsake God and Christianity?

We think that we can truthfully say that a man is best educated who has best nourished his fair wisdom thereof wisely contacted with environment.
An educated man is a wise man with well proportioned knowledge; a man who has elevated his spiritual being into the realms where true wisdom is attainable.
Let us not forget that this world is but a dressing room for our eternal destination.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE

A FRIEND of mine tells me she never wants to make the same thing twice. No matter how well a cake may turn out, she is unwilling to repeat it. Of course, her attitude makes cooking a perpetual adventure, but when guests are expected, I should think she would have some bad moments wondering about results. It's a good plan to try new dishes out on the family before serving them to company.

a great man that we now celebrate his birthday every year.
When young George was six weeks old his mother took him to Pope's Church to be christened and it is said he was named after the king of England, but when he grew to manhood he became a general in war against the king of England, so the king would very likely not be proud of his namesake.
At the christening he was given some silver mugs which he always kept.
George was a strong, healthy boy and loved to be out of doors playing on the green meadow that ran down to the river, or in the woods nearby where squirrels, fox, deer, pigeons, and turkeys lived in great number. Sometimes wolves and bears were found in the woods and occasionally friendly Indians roamed there, hunting game or fishing in the river which was near his home.
George played with his brothers and with his sister Betty. They did not have toys like children have today, but they played many of the same games we do. They ran races, climbed trees, wrestled, learned to shoot a gun, rode horses and hunted and fished, played soldier, marbles, ball, and made tops to spin.
George Washington went to a school built of logs, with benches and stools hewn from rough boards. He was taught by a man from England and learned to read, write, and work problems in arithmetic. The teacher was paid like most everyone else, with grain and tobacco. No one had much money in those days. George's favorite subject was arithmetic and he learned to keep neat notes and records. His copy book has been saved and shows that George did his work with care. He grew to be a well-mannered, wise, and dignified man.

When the colonies decided to free themselves from England they raised a large army and asked George Washington to be its commander. When they needed help and advice, they always went to Washington.
After several years of brilliant leadership, hardships, and suffering, Washington led his armies to victory. The colonies became the United States of America and asked Washington to be their president. They loved and honored him as we do now and spoke of him as "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."
Today our country honors Washington in many ways. The national capital bears his name and is built upon the spot he selected. The home he loved at Mount Vernon has been kept just as it was when he lived there. We may visit and see the home of our first president, his room, and much of the furniture that he used. But best of all, the people honor him by remembering what a great soldier, fine statesman, and good man he was. Every year his birthday is observed as a national holiday.

At this time we recall his brave deeds, his fine character, and ability as a leader.

Postmaster Being Swamped Over the Centennial Stamp

By United Press
GONZALES, Tex.—Postmaster Fred Boothe expects to stamp more than 200,000 letters March 2, in this town of 4,000 people.

Texas Centennial stamps will go on sale that day and Gonzales will be the first place they are sold, in recognition of the first shot of the Texas War for Independence being fired here.

Boothe is receiving heavy personal mail as a result. Collectors are his correspondents. They ask information about the new issue, when first sales will be made and how they can be assured of first day issues. Many enclose orders for the stamps and "covers." A "cover" in mail parlance is any envelope or wrapper bearing the postoffice stamp.

TO MILLIONS WHO SHOULD USE BRAN

Tests Show ALL-BRAN Corrects Constipation Gently and Naturally

Since its introduction, some fifteen years ago, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has been used with beneficial results by millions of people.

Realizing the important relationship between proper diet and health, the Kellogg Company has aided for some years research in leading university laboratories. These tests show that the continued use of bran is thoroughly satisfactory.

ALL-BRAN supplies soft "bulk" which absorbs water, and gently cleanses the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron. Use as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook in delicious recipes.

This tempting cereal may be enjoyed by every normal person. Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Consult your doctor if you do not gain relief this way.

Help your family keep well. Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk."

Besides the mail inquiries, Numerous crank letters also pester the Gonzales postoffice. One autograph collector has a plan to send letters the first day the new stamp is used.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion...

IT WORKED FOR ME

Women should take only liquid laxatives

MORE people could feel fine, be fit and regular, if they would only follow the rule of doctors and hospitals in relieving constipation...

Never take any laxative that is harsh in action. Or one, the dose of which can't be exactly measured.

Doctors know the danger if this rule is violated. They use liquid laxatives, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why it should be a liquid like Syrup Pepsin.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if it doesn't give you absolute relief, if it isn't a joy and comfort in the way it overcomes biliousness due to constipation, your money back.

DESDEMONA

Friday afternoon at the Methodist church funeral services were conducted over the remains of little Kenneth Boncelle Ashburn...

A graduate of Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va., McRae surveyed land in Oklahoma between school terms and was a witness to opening of former Indian Territory to homesteaders.

In Waxahachie his residence prior to coming to Eastland, McRae had been an attorney. During the Spanish-American War he organized Company D of the Fourth Texas Volunteer Infantry and served as captain.

He was married Oct. 21, 1903, to Miss Mattie Graham. His first association in the legal profession was in 1894 with the late Judge J. W. Ferris. Later he was associated with the late State Representative Bowed Farrar.

McRae was a double cousin of T. C. McRae, now deceased, who was an Arkansas governor and congressional representative.

In Waxahachie he was an elder in the Presbyterian Church. The following sketch of McRae is given in the History of Texas, published several years ago by the Lewis Publishing Company in the volume which deals with Fort Worth and the Texas Northwest edition:

"John D. McRae, an attorney-at-law of Eastland and president of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, is one of the most representative of his profession and citizenship to be found in the rich oil belt of Central West Texas. He is accounted one of the most influential factors in the public and civic affairs of Eastland, and is a thorough Texan, with all the energy, practical ability and resourcefulness which that name implies.

"The birth of John D. McRae took place at Mount Holly, Union county, Arkansas, in 1869. He is a son of John M. and Eliza (Dewes) McRae, both of whom are now deceased. John M. McRae was born in Anson county, North Carolina, a member of the fine old families of Scotch ancestry which since the Colonial days have been the very bone and sinew of lower North Carolina. When he was still a child John M. McRae was taken to Union county, Arkansas, by his parents, and developed with the course of time into one of the prominent merchants and planters of Mount Holly. During the war between the states he served in the Confederate army, and after the termination of the war he bravely faced changed conditions and took up the burdens of private life. The present governor of Arkansas, Thomas C. McRae, of Union county, is a nephew of this fine old gentleman and a cousin of Attorney John D. McRae.

"After attending the public schools of his native county John D. McRae attended Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va., where he took both the academic and law courses and was graduated in June, 1894. In that same year he came to Texas, and, locating at Waxahachie, entered upon the practice of his profession. The environment was congenial and for almost a quarter of a century he was engaged in a very large and profitable practice, taking always a prominent and active part in all of the city's affairs and becoming one of the stalwart leaders of the best element. In 1918 Mr. McRae moved to Eastland, where he has continued his practice as a law partner of Judge Earl Conner, the two forming one of the strong legal combinations of this part of the state. Here, as in Waxahachie, his sterling worth, integral ability and experience in public affairs have caused him to be drawn prominently into matters pertaining to Eastland, and he was further honored, Jan. 14, 1921, when he was elected president of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce.

"Mr. McRae was united in marriage with Miss Mattie Graham, who was born in Kentucky. It has long been an accepted fact that where education, training and experience run parallel with individual inclination the combination is irresistible in its impetus, and the associates of Mr. McRae feel that his choice of his profession has been a happy one in that he is so eminently fitted for the work he carries on so successfully. The action of his fellow citizens in placing him at the head of the Chamber of Commerce is gratifying to him, for it places the stamp of approval upon his actions and proves that his efforts not only are appreciated, but that they are of value to others. His ideas on civic matters are very progressive, and he plans to give practical expression to them in his new office."

O. A. Kountze spent the past week in West Texas and New Mexico on business.

W. H. Whitworth was in Eastland on business Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tillman Dyson, formerly of Desdemona but now of Stephenville were here Sunday for a short visit with old friends and neighbors, who were delighted to see them.

In the report of honor roll pupils of John Tarleton college the names of two Desdemona girls appeared, those of Miss Nell Robert and Miss Romalee Wright. Their many friends are glad to know they are continuing the good record they made these last year. Another name in which Desdemona friends were interested was that of Melvin Lawson of Cisco, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Lawson, who lived here for a number of years before moving to Cisco.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Whitton, mother of Mrs. C. W. Maltby and Arthur Whitton, is seriously ill. Mrs. Whitton has made her home with her daughter for the past eight years and for four years has been helpless on account of paralysis.

Mrs. Mattie Henry and her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Mendenhall, visited L. F. Mendenhall and wife at Cisco on Monday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Henry and her father had

$5,000,000,000 Is Collected In Gas Taxes In 17 Years

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Motorists of the United States have paid more than $5,318,615,856 in state and federal gasoline taxes since taxation of motor fuel to finance highways was inaugurated by Oregon on Feb. 25, 1919, it was reported today by Baird H. Markham, director of the American Petroleum Industries Committee.

Declaring the tax was producing larger revenue every year, with 1935 income exceeding $800,000,000, Mr. Markham said it now is possible to give the taxpayers relief, without curtailing funds available for highways, by reducing excessive state gasoline tax rates, by eliminating the duplicating federal gasoline tax, and by confining expenditure of the revenue to the original purpose of the levy, highway development.

The rapid increase in gasoline consumption during the past few years, he explained, will enable the average state to obtain from lower taxes revenue sufficient to finance a long-term program of planned highways, if economically built and effectively adopted to actual traffic needs. He said that at the same time highway development would provide employment for workers of 24 different industries.

"Present consumption of roundly 18 billions of gallons of gasoline annually," said Mr. Markham, "will produce more than $500,000,000 yearly revenue from a three-cent gasoline tax. Since every dollar expended upon highways starts a trade movement which results in the ultimate distribution of $3.15 in business activity and in wages, $500,000,000 spent upon roads would distribute $1,575,000,000 in trade and wages among 24 industries. Every four men put to work on highways make jobs for seven additional workers in industries whose products are used in highway construction, improvement, and maintenance. Certainly this method of creating employment and distributing wages is preferable to spending endlessly and indiscriminately from gasoline tax funds for other state expenses, especially since it gives those who pay this special additional tax for roads the roads for which they are paying. No other method will accomplish that."

Mr. Markham estimated at $4,732,278,290 the total of gasoline taxes collected from motorists by the states in the period 1919 through 1935. Revenues from the duplicating federal gasoline tax were reported as totalling $586,337,566 in the period 1932 thru 1935. Unreported revenue running into millions of dollars also has been paid in additional county and municipal levies, he said, explaining that in some sections of the country four different taxes are paid on every gallon of motor fuel, the total tax sometimes running as high as 12 cents per gallon and ex-

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Who owns all that 10 billion dollars' worth of gold, anyway?

It's in Treasury vaults in San Francisco, Denver, New York, and soon, at Fort Knox, Ky. But whose is it? The question becomes pretty important in view of new demands that the currency be inflated by new money issued against the gold as backing.

One argument is that seven billions is already obligated to Federal Reserve banks, which hold the government's gold certificates as backing for their currency. But they can't get the gold. It's in the Treasury vaults. Possession is nine points of the law.

Senator Henrik Shipstead is one of those who want to find out pretty definitely. He is backing a resolution calling on the attorney general to furnish the Senate with a formal opinion "as to the ownership of, and the encumbrances on, the gold stock," with particular reference to the status of the gold taken from the Federal Reserve banks.

SHIPSTEAD points out that several bills are pending which demand issue of currency against this gold, especially in relation to the bonus; and that up to now there has been no official statement regarding just who owns the gold, and why, and how.

He hasn't gotten any action yet. It's just another one of those mysteries, like the disposition of the $2,000,000,000 "devaluation profit" fund with which the Treasury was to deal in foreign exchange to relate the value of the dollar abroad.

SENATOR VANDENBERG, "dark horse" Republican candidate for the presidency, can toss the king's English about when he chooses, almost on a par with Ham Lewis. "The senator thinks that it is a matter of supererogation to inquire about that," he asked "Colon Ed" Smith the other day during debate on a farm bill. Smith rebuked him: "The senator should not use that sort of word in a farm bill."

NOW comes the proposal to hand the whole American labor movement, lock, stock, and barrel, over to the government, to be administered by a board of five army officers. The sponsor, William J. Rau, connected with the American Engineers' Corporation, is perfectly straight-faced about this effort to "save the unions from their worst enemies, graft and poor leadership."

A pamphlet, over the signature of an organization calling itself "American Union Men," is being distributed to members of Congress.

Some members get all in a froth and denounce "this effort to introduce Fascism." Others insist they think somebody is kidding again.

WASHINGTON is a place where queer things come out from under logs, even in winter. Not so long ago a gentleman appeared at one of the leading hotels here, offering to peddle titles, such as Duke of Sockeye, to persons like John D. Rockefeller, at a handsome figure.

since 1923. Ohio motorists are estimated to have paid $322,077,448 since 1925. Pennsylvania motorists have paid $315,922,847 since 1921. Motorists of New York, the largest gasoline-consuming state have paid $264,820,907 since 1929.

State gasoline tax rates were said to range from 2 to 7 cents per gallon, with the duplicating federal levy increasing the cost 1 cent per gallon in every state. The average of state and federal tax rates now exceeds 5 cents per gallon, he added, and the combined levies constitute an average retail sales tax of around 40 per cent. Collection of state taxes was said to cost the states about $3,000,000 a year, and to cost the petroleum industry, which is held responsible for their payment, upwards of $22,500,000 a year.

France Honoring First Balloonist

By United Press

PARIS.—To commemorate the 150th anniversary of the death of Pilatre de Rozier, first man in the world, with the Marquis d'Arlandes, to attempt a balloon flight, the French government has ordered the issue of a stamp bearing the portrait of this pioneer.

In November, 1783, a few months after the first Montgolfier balloon had risen from the public place of Annonay, Rozier and the Marquis d'Arlandes left the park of the Chateau de la Muette in a balloon. Twenty minutes later, they landed in the outskirts of Paris, at the Butte-aux-Cailles.

In June, 1784, Pilatre de Rozier renewed his attempt with Proust, the chemist, and in three-quarters of an hour they traveled from Versailles to Chantilly, about 40 miles.

Channel Flight Fatal

Encouraged by the success of his first attempts, Rozier decided to cross the Channel. In June, 1785, he had built an apparatus, composed of two superimposed balloons, one of which contained hydrogen and the other hot air.

On the morning of June 15, Rozier and the physician Romain went up, but pushed by contrary winds, the balloon flew over the shore, and to complete the disaster, the taffeta of the hydrogen balloon ripped open, and caught fire. Rozier and his companion were hurled out of the basket and crushed to death in the fall to earth. Pilate de Rozier was 29 and Romain a little younger.

They were the first victims in the conquest of the air by men.

Ampere to Be Honored

Another commemorative stamp will be issued to honor the memory of Andre Marie Ampere, creator of the electro-dynamic theory.

Ampere was born in Lyons in 1775. Never having attended school, he spent his childhood and youth in the small libraries of his home town.

The Revolution wept him off his feet, ardent partisan of the young republic. After his father had died on the guillotine, he gave up his revolutionary ideas and became a professor of Experimental Physics at the College of France. Philosopher as well as mathematician, Ampere wrote several philosophical and mathematical books, and a biography, containing love letters he wrote during the three years in which he was engaged to Julie Caron.

The ceremonies of the century will take place in his birthplace, Lyons.

1,200 Daily Seek Information About Texas Centennial

By United Press

DALLAS.—Each day more than 1,200 persons throughout the world are seeking definite information about the State of Texas and its Centennial year state-wide celebration.

During the 12-day period, ending Feb. 6, approximately 15,000 requests for definite information and literature on the state and its celebrations were received in the offices of the state department of information for Centennial celebrations here. This total was reached before the national advertising campaign of the state department had been underway a full two weeks.

Incoming mail grows larger each day, indicating that as the campaign is continued, an unprecedented demand will be recorded for information on the Lone Star State. The mail comes from every state in the union, and already has included, in addition, requests for information from Denmark, England, France, Mexico, Canada, and Panama. New York has sent in more requests than any other state.

The first of a series of advertisements of Centennial celebrations in magazines and newspapers with national and state-wide circulation appeared only two weeks ago. It, and succeeding advertisements, all including coupons on the which interested persons may ask for information on Texas, resulted in the flood of mail which now is engulfing the state office here.

Requests are answered by direct mail with attractively printed material descriptive of Texas and the Centennial which is being observed this year in scores of celebrations planned in all parts of the state. All celebrations definitely planned are listed on a calendar which is included in the literature.

Drouth In U.S. Is Forecast For Three More Years

SAN MARINO, Cal.—The disastrous drouths of the past few years are expected to continue until about 1939, if the "weather cycle" theory holds true.

After that, for a period of 10 to 20 years, they will become less frequent and less severe.

Finally, with the return of a normal cycle of moisture, American farmers can hope to have complete relief from drouth for a period of 150 years or more.

These are the conclusions of Halbert P. Gillette, who after years of scientific study of the "weather cycle" has presented his findings to the American Meteorological Society.

Studied Tree Rings

The existence of weather cycles were based upon intensive studies of the tree-ring thickness of the giant Sequoias in California and the Arizona pine. Other contributing elements were found in the study of the annual silt layers of varves, of ancient glacial lakes, and the time intervals between occasional moraines deposited in the last ice age.

In his ten-year study of weather cycles, Gillette has become convinced that all great wars and migrations are caused by climatic conditions. Italy's present war in Ethiopia, for example, he believes is the direct result of the fact that Italy has suffered the past few years from drouths the same as the United States.

In his further research of the question of weather cycles, Gillette believes he has established the crest of the last great ice age which he places at 16,300 years. B. C. This, he says, was followed by a warm dry crest about 3,300 B. C., and there will be another ice age crest about 10,300 A. D., according to his computations.

Gillette, who was born in Waverly, Ia., was graduated from Columbia University, and followed the profession of mining engineers until he retired, 10 years ago.

ceeding the price of the commodity itself.

State gasoline tax collections for 1935 were estimated at $636,160,000 a new record, and about $70,000,000 above the 1934 income, $565,027,000. Federal gasoline taxes cost the taxpayers an additional $172,262,481, or more than $2,000,000 above 1934 revenue, $170,109,270.

Mr. Markham pointed out that the farmer, as the largest consumer of motor fuel, pays more than one-fourth the cost of gasoline taxes. Taxpayers of California, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York were reported as having paid more than one-quarter of all gasoline tax revenues collected by the states since 1919, as well as the larger share of federal gasoline taxes collected since 1932.

Contributions from California's taxpayers to that state were reported as totalling $360,178,538

Keep Your Body In Good Condition Is a Health Tip

AUSTIN.—"Keep your body in good condition," advised Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer. While colds, influenza, and pneumonia are different conditions, all three may be brought on or made worse by lowered bodily resistance, and all three may often be prevented in the same ways.

When these communicable diseases are prevalent, avoid crowds as much as possible and plan your work and recreation so that you will not overtax your strength and yet tired out. Be sure that the room where you are is always well ventilated. Drink plenty of water and don't let your system get clogged up.

Sufficient rest, cleanliness of hands, mouth and teeth, fresh air while at work and at sleep, regulation of meals and bodily functions, wholesome food and freedom from anxiety will increase bodily resistance and avoid contracting the disease.

One attack of cold or influenza does not as a rule confer immunity. Individuals have been known to have several attacks during an epidemic. Segregation of the patient is desirable to avoid giving the disease to others.

If you develop symptoms of cold or influenza, consult your physician early and follow his instructions.

D. Joseph Offers Latest Bargains On Leap Year Day

Since Saturday, Feb. 29, is an unusual day, the only time in more than half a century that Feb. 29th falls on Saturday, D. Joseph is offering unusual bargains—bargains that probably will not be duplicated again in nearly another half century. Leap year day has been celebrated for centuries, but only on rare occasions does it fall on Saturday. And since the day has been dedicated through the ages to the unmarried girls, who in theory are granted the privilege of proposing marriage, the bargains offered at the D. Joseph store are dedicated to the miss who wants to make a splendid appearance, not only on Leap Year Day, but throughout the spring. Dresses of unusual value have been selected by the management to be offered for one day only at unusual bargain prices, and the dresses are so attractive, and the prices so reasonable, that not only the Leap Year girls, but the young matron as well, will be delighted with the offerings. These are not outmoded items that are being offered, but the very latest, as new and unusual as the combination of Saturday and Leap Year Day. And, too, not only are the latest in dresses being offered on this day, but the store is full of other attractive items that will appeal to the shoppers, both men and women.

W.P.A. Mural Is Without Symbolism
By United Press
BOSTON.—A 16-panel mural painting whose "meaning will be so apparent that you won't need a text to understand it" is among the W.P.A. art projects planned for Boston. "The average mural doesn't mean anything to the average person," according to Andrew D. Fuller, Jr., an officer of the New England Society of Contemporary Art and the Academy of Artists, who is directing plans for the project. "They're too symbolical. This one would be planned out ahead. These murals will be so that the average person can look at them and get educated. Instead of having the Spirit of the Sun or whatever it is will be set forth in plain figures so you can tell what it's supposed to be."

Hassen Company Has Bargains For Saturday, Feb. 29

Hassen Company, one of Ranger's most progressive stores, is cooperating in an effort to provide these unusual offerings would be placed before the public, because not since 1908 has Leap Year Day fallen on Saturday, and it will be nearly 30 years before such an occurrence happens again. Like Leap Year Day, such attractive bargains in the latest of clothing will possibly have not been seen in many years and may not be seen again for almost 30 years, because these bargains are as rare as Feb. 29th falling on Saturday, the natural shopping day for the entire trade area. The extra day in the year brings savings for everyone, since bargains are being offered in a wide variety of merchandise for the benefit of the buying public. The extra day in February means extra day of business, and the savings made by getting an additional day with costs practically the same as for the regular month of 28 days, these savings are being passed on to the customers. A general reduction in many of the newest items of merchandise in the store has been made for this day only and the thrifty shopper can take advantage of the opportunity to buy at unusual prices.

First Texas Play To Be Re-enacted
By United Press
AUSTIN.—"The Hunchback," first play ever presented in Texas, will be re-enacted at ancient Saengerhalle Hall in Austin March 4, by Little Theatre players. The drama was first given in Houston, June 11, 1838, with President Sam Houston attending. Legend is that one of the principal actors was so overjoyed at the play's success that he took an overdose of narcotic to quiet his nerves after the first performance. His death ended the engagement. The way most politicians meet an issue, you'd think they owed it some money.

Strawn Firemen Hold Banquet On Thursday

Tuesday evening, Feb. 26, the Volunteer Fire Department of Strawn had its annual banquet at the city hall. This banquet is given for the wives, mothers and sweethearts of the fireboys and the city chief.

Brief talks were given by O. M. Hurst and Mayor Tucker. Immediately following these talks a buffet supper was served. The menu consisted of barbecued beef, chili sauce, creamed potatoes, salad, white and dark bread, pickles, olives, pie, hot coffee and soda pop.

All food was furnished, prepared and served by the fireboys. This is the first time in the history of the department that the ladies did not help with the banquet. After having eaten such delicious food, the ladies are convinced that the men should prepare the food every year.

After the banquet J. W. McCorkle gave a few instructions to the fireboys, who were to entertain. While they were getting ready for the program, Lee Vernon led the group in playing a few games.

A Major Bowes amateur program was given. Graham Matt Segars McNamee was master of ceremonies. The program was broadcast from Station P-U-N-K. Graham Segars McNamee gave very convincing talks for the corn savor he represented. He read several testimonials of persons in the audience that had used this corn remedy.

Major Bowes was portrayed by J. W. McCorkle. Major McCorkle Bowes never failed to use the gong on most of the amateurs.

The following program was given by the Major's amateurs:

Speech, George De Spain, colored fire chief of Station No. 2. Harmonica solo, Howard Han-yan. Mr. Han-yan was assisted at the piano by C. C. Mitchell. Fan dance, Cliff Wickham. Song, duet by girl and boy, Jesse Lemmond, Fred Brock. Clog dance, Buster Waugh. Impersonator, Jim Hodges. Trumpet solo, Page Baxendale. Cowboy songs, L. C. Messimer and C. J. Langlitz. Violin solo, H. A. Crawford. As soon as the program was over "42" and bridge were played.

TWO ARE HELD IN A RADICAL PLOT IN NAVY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—Two women were under arrest and five others were reported under surveillance today as naval intelligence officers moved to smash reputed radical plots to spread dissatisfaction among men of the U. S. fleet.

The two women, booked on suspicion of criminal syndicalism as Lucy Wilkes, 34, and Carol Brandt, 32, were arrested aboard the Battleship Mississippi.

Ships officers reported detecting about the ship copies of an inflammatory pamphlet reviling officers of the fleet, urging sailors to join the Third International and other Communist organizations and exhorting them against rejoining the navy.

The tentative program would involve purchase of some 1,250,000 acres of land and would provide for rehabilitation of about 650 poverty stricken farm families.

Maj. Gen. Hagood Relieved of Duties

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Major General Johnson Hagood, recent critic of administration work relief funds, today was ordered to relinquish command of the Eighth Corps Area at Fort Sam Houston and return to his home to "await orders."

The war department described the order as an "administrative measure" and declined to say if it was a punishment of Hagood's criticism of Roosevelt's policies.

Officers pointed out Hagood, who was named to his post Oct. 4, 1935, normally would have served until June 16, 1937, when he would have reached the retirement age of 64. The general's home is in Charleston, S. C.

CHECKING OF SEASON'S BEST BRINGS TOPS

The Arcadia Theatre, due to very careful study of the pictures available has arranged a very special group of pictures for the week end giving the theatregoers a chance to see some of the best of both comedy and drama.

The first of the perfect lineup for the week end is "Chatterbox" with lovely little 17-year-old Anne Shirley and Phillips Holmes. This is the story of a young girl with ambitions to be a great actress. She leaves home and is taken in by a member of a stock company, who she gets to take her to New York where she talks herself into the leading role of a revival of an old fashioned melodrama, ignorant that the show is intended as a travesty. This picture is to show Friday only.

The second of the week end pictures is "Navy Wife" which shows Saturday. This picture is taken from Kathleen Norris' newest story which deals with the woman's side of navy life. Claire Trevor has the lead in the picture playing the wife of Ralph Bellamy, a navy man who claims to be in love with his former wife who is dead. The following of this picture will touch the heart of every woman.

Sunday and Monday the Arcadia presents "Magnificent Obsession," the most talked of picture of the year, this picture is so touching that after you see it you will never be the same again. It has been held over in every city it has played, and even now the contract with the local theatre only allows it to remain in Ranger for two days. The long list of popu-

"MAGNIFICENT OBSESSION"—WHAT IS IT?

What is "the magnificent obsession"? It refers to a magical pattern of living which local theatre-goers will have an opportunity to learn when they see "Magnificent Obsession," Universal's John M. Stahl production which opens at the Arcadia Theatre on Sunday, with Irene Dunne and Robert Taylor in the starring roles.

At the same time they will see what is regarded as a powerfully emotional film drama, the crowning effort of a master screen director. A stirring motion picture, it promises to become one of the screen's most important contributions for 1936.

Primarily the story deals with the romance of Miss Dunne, portraying a beautiful young bride, and Taylor, delineating a wastrel scion of a wealthy family.

The climax of the story comes six years later, in a series of events filled with heart-rending tenderness, culminating in a sweetly poignant love drama such as rarely reaches the screen.

The large cast supporting Miss Dunne and Taylor in "Magnificent Obsession" includes Charles Butterworth, Betty Furness, Sara Haden, Ralph Morgan, Henry Armetta, Gilbert Emery and Arthur Treacher.

"Fast Bullets" COMING SOON

All the color and romance of the West's famous rangers are seen in "Fast Bullets," the stirring Reliable drama, which opens an engagement at the Columbia Theatre on Saturday, with Tom Tyler in the starring role.

The story is laid on the Western plains in the vicinity of the Mexican border. The action takes place alternately in an isolated post of the rangers and a rough settlement a few miles distant. The picture tells a revealing and highly interesting story of those picturesque law officers, who, just as the "Mounties" of the Royal Northwest Police, always "get their man."

Tyler is seen in the role of Tom, a clever and expert enforcement officer whose skillful work in trailing and capturing outlaws has earned him a reputation which strikes terror to the hearts of all criminals. The remainder of the story details Tom's exciting adventures after he is accepted as a member of the outlaw band.

"Fast Bullets" was directed by Henri Samuels, and Tyler's supporting cast includes Rex Lease, Margaret Nearing, Al Bridges, Bill Gould, Bob Walker and James Aubrey. The original screen play was written by Jay J. Bryan.

LEGIONNAIRES AND THE STORY OF THEIR WORLD WAR SERVICE

MACK M. DUTTON
Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of weekly biographies written by B. H. Peacock, post commander of Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion of Ranger, based on the war-time experiences of members of the post. Another will follow in next Sunday's issue.

The call of duty during those stirring days of 1917-18 touched responsive cords, not only in the youth of our country, but those even beyond the prime of life as well. Thus it was that thousands of sons of America, in their teens, twenties, thirties, forties; and some even beyond the half century mark, enlisted and cast their lot for a country that had protected and nurtured them.

It must have been the Scotch-Irish in him, or at least some other inherited patriotic zeal that prompted Mack M. Dutton of Galveston, Texas, to volunteer for military duty at his then age of 28 years. His connection with the Southern Pacific Railroad and Steamship Company at that time was ample evidence in the eyes of Uncle Sam that he should be placed in a preferred class and exempt from military service. But not so with Dutton. Realizing that possibly others just as capable of doing his job and so for doing military service, could handle his civil duties prompted him to enlist on June 24, 1918, in the army of the United States.

As with all other soldiers in the making, it became necessary, according to the recruiting officer that Dutton should hold up his hand in allegiance to the flag. And this, mind you, only 24 hours after he had sworn possibly a more lasting and permanent type of allegiance when he took Miss Hazel Burchette of Oklahoma to be his wife. But why a honeymoon for two when there was a war to be won by thousands, and literally millions. So it was back to the barracks for bridegroom Dutton, and back to home folks for Miss Hazel.

It was on the thirteenth day of October—and what a lucky day—in 1889 when young Dutton first saw the light of day in Arcadia, La. As a child he came with his parents to Wills Point in Van Zandt county where he grew to young manhood and received his education in the public schools. At 18, instead of listening to the "Go west, young man, go west," Mack went practically due south and landed a job with the Southern Pacific Steamship Company at Galveston in the clerical department. For 11 years, or until his enlistment in 1918, he served his company well at both Galveston and New Orleans. And it was this civilian training that no doubt placed young Dutton in very good stead in his army career. For it was only a period of approximately seven weeks at Camp Travis with the quartermaster corps before Dutton, with approximately 25 of his Galveston buddies, was promoted from private to corporal, and then to sergeant. It was then that his detachment was ordered to Camp McArthur in Waco for special training in order to qualify for overseas duty. This was on the sixteenth of August in 1918, and two weeks later, the outfit was called in to report for physical examination prior to embarking for France. "So exacting were the physical requirements for overseas service," commented Dutton, "that on this particular occasion one of my buddies had gotten a small burn on his forearm from the tip of a lighted cigarette. He thought nothing particular of it, but the medical officer saw fit to place his case under observation for a day or so, and in the meantime the outfit had rolled out for Hoboken and Brest, France."

In like manner, due to a minor physical deficiency, Sergeant Dutton was denied the privilege of his men, and it fell his lot to write "finis," practically speaking, to what otherwise might have been a much more exciting and eventful career. So on Dec. 21, 1918, Capt. Harry Stewart expressed "bon voyage," and forthwith handed an honorable discharge from the army of the United States to Sergeant Mack Moreland Dutton, which among other things, stipulated "honest and faithful service."

But it would be amiss not to mention that soldiering for one's country was peculiar to only one member of the Dutton family. For out of five brothers and one sister a total of four brothers answered their country's call. Charlie, the younger, while still under age, enlisted and served in the infantry at Camp Pike, Ark., as well as an older brother, John, age 23. Tom, another brother, at 25, entered the army air service in New York, was commissioned as first lieutenant and saw service as a pilot overseas.

And so it was that Citizen Dutton left Camp McArthur in Waco shortly thereafter, accompanied by his wife for Greenville, Texas. On Sept. 14, 1919, they moved to Ranger, where he immediately entered the employ of the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth Railroad as a clerk. He was advanced in 1926 to agent, at which position he is now employed with this company. Being interested in the civic and community interests wherein he lives, Dutton has been affiliated with both the Masons, Elks and the American Legion, of which he is now serving as vice commander. Three children, Maxine, 16; Mack, Jr., 13, and Jacqueline, 12, together with his wife now complete the family of Legionnaire Dutton.

System Offers A New Stenography

PALO ATLO, Cal.—Based on what psychologists call "kinesthetic perception," Dr. J. Edgar Coover, professor of psychology at Stanford University, has invented a new shorthand and typewriting system which he believes will revolutionize present-day stenography.

The new shorthand, which will be known as "notescrypt," is made up of consonants with dots and dashes for the vowels. While not as short as systems now in use, Dr. Coover declares, tests have demonstrated it can be translated directly from code without difficulty.

The typing system is based on a sense of position rather than on sight and touch. The student learns a different finger position for each key before he touches a typewriter, and when actual practice starts, his fingers fall naturally into position.

Dr. Coover declares the system is applicable to all individuals regardless of physical differences or disabilities of the senses.

Only One Low Priced Car is FIRST in Everything That Counts

...TERRAPLANE

JUST COMPARE THIS with THIS

Terraplane alone among all popular low priced cars gives you this:

- Full 115-inch wheelbase.
- 195 inches over-all length.
- Most power—88 or 100 horsepower—with freedom from vibration at all speeds.
- Body all of steel, with seamless roof of solid steel.
- Most inside room—145 cubic feet—more leg and shoulder room, and widest rear seat.
- Completely new style—best insurance of the investment value of your car.
- The only rear opening baggage and tire compartment on 5 and 6-passenger models that can be had in any low priced car without extra cost. Spare tire lies flat inside.
- Duo-Automatic Hydraulic Brakes (patent applied for), two braking systems operating automatically from one brake pedal. And a third braking system from the easiest operating parking brake in the world.
- Extra deep "V-type" windshield—for added beauty and wider vision.

In every other popular low priced car this is what you get:

- 2 to 6 inches less wheelbase.
- 5 to 12 1/2 inches less over-all length.
- 3 to 18 less horsepower than Terraplane's 88—and not nearly as smooth.
- Body only partly of steel—or steel body with "soft-top."
- Less inside room—less shoulder and leg room—narrower rear seats.
- 1935 styling, changed only in details. Far more likely to be out of date by 1937.
- No rear opening baggage and tire compartment, except in cars where trunk models are available—at considerable extra cost. Spare tire mounted outside on all other models.
- Single main braking system—either hydraulic or mechanical—without complete reserve braking system and without Terraplane's type of easy acting parking brakes.
- Nothing like Terraplane's deep "V-type" windshield in any other low priced car.

The list of Terraplane advantages doesn't stop with those listed here. There's greater ruggedness, proved by owner mileages of 125,000, 150,000 and more. Greater economy, too, certified by thousands of sworn owner statements... emphasized again just the other day in the Los Angeles-Yosemite Economy Run when a Terraplane averaged 23.95 officially certified miles per gallon over a tough 352 mile stretch on mountain roads.

And dozens of other features... all at a price down with the lowest for the model you want. Come in and see and drive a Terraplane.

Fear-Collecting Is Queer Hobby

AUSTIN.—Fear-collecting is the strange hobby of Dr. W. F. Gidley, dean of the University of Texas College of Pharmacy. He has 230 fears, ranging from the simple to the unpronounceable variety, neatly classified and defined.

Dr. Gidley found nearly every person has a particular fear-phantasy in technical terms. So he began collecting them. A phobia is defined as an insane dread or fear.

Persons are afraid of drafts of air, stars, cats, microbes, walking, cancer, mirrors, sinning, Hep, cold, strangers, number "13" and work. To be a "phobia" the fear must be abnormal. Among those listed by Dean Gidley are acrophobia, the fear of sharp-pointed objects; anglophobia, dislike for the English; anthro-phobia, dread of human society; bathophobia— you missed this one—fear of depths; and batrachophobia, dread of frogs.

Others are bibliophobia, fear of books; bogophobia, fear of specters and spooks; brontophobia, fear of thunder; ceratophobia, fear of lightning; cleithrophobia, fear of being shot up in a closed place; and colorophobia, aversion to color.
