

Another Big Crowd Is Expected For the Rodeo On April 21

Tuesday was another good day in Ranger as it was the third event of the trades days campaign sponsored by the retail merchants of the city. The trades days will continue on through the month of August. On each of these trades days large crowds have been in Ranger to participate in the events.

Announcement has been made that on Tuesday, April 21, this being the fourth day of these special days, another of the big free rodeos would be held in the city at the ball park. Entertainment is promised by those in charge and some of the best stock that has ever been seen in these parts will be in the rodeo. New riders and a complete change in program is being worked out.

Those sponsoring the rodeo are men experienced in this sort of sport. Anyone who has animals that can be used in the rodeos should see some member of the rodeo committee.

On the last rodeo day 3,000 people were in attendance at the affair and on April 21, when the second rodeo of the season will be held, a much larger crowd is expected to do their trading in the morning and attend the rodeo in the afternoon. The rodeo will be over by 3 o'clock and the people will have plenty of time to get back to town for the prizes.

Special plans have been made to take care of a record crowd in Ranger on Tuesday, March 21, for the big free rodeo and free prizes given away.

Captain Discovers He "Lost a Million"

By United Press
HOUSTON.—Capt. R. H. Dwyer of the U. S. S. California State, discovered he had "lost a million dollars" near here.

A number of years ago, Capt. Dwyer bought some property in Brazoria County on which he planned to grow oranges. The storm of 1915 left him one tree and 13 fence posts, so he "sold out."

The captain refreshed his memory with a trip to the old place. He found 90 oil wells on one side, 60 on the other.

He returned to his ship smiling at fate.

"Well, fellows, I've lost a million dollars," he remarked, as he walked through the officers' ward room.

County-Wide Centennial Celebration Would Attract Attention, Editor In Colorful Oil Belt Era Is Convinced

Boyce House, Oil Belt editor for 10 years and observer of the county's colorful oil boom period, in Eastland last week as a correspondent for a Fort Worth newspaper, believes a county-wide cooperative Centennial celebration would attract many visitors.

"This county has been the scene of events that made Texas history and I believe a revival of the oil boom color at a Centennial celebration would attract national attention.

"If Cisco, Ranger, Eastland, Rising Star and Desdemona planned a cooperative celebration, former residents should come from over Texas and the nation.

"Perhaps celebrities and colorful persons—and the oil boom did bring them—would again visit Eastland county towns," said the writer of "Were You In Ranger," a book detailing events during the oil boom era.

"It's just an idea of course, but I do believe it would be a success. July as the opening of a week's celebration might make an appropriate time. Then the Dallas and Fort Worth celebrations will have opened and by the latter part of July this county would get the benefit of the influx of Texas visitors who travel through Eastland county."

The Fort Worth newspaperman advanced the opinion certain days might be assigned for each town, although features could be arranged on all days in the cities.

Election Order Is Sent Out by Court To All Precincts

Orders issued by the commissioners' court of Eastland county, issued on April 1, ordering an election on legalization of "vinous and malt liquors that do not contain alcohol in excess of 14 per cent by volume" have been sent to the voting precincts of Eastland county for posting. The date for the election is set for Saturday, April 18.

The election was called by the commissioners' court after a petition, signed by the required number of voters in the county, was presented to the court, and after a ruling by the attorney general that such an election would be legal.

The order for the election, as sent to the voting precincts of the county, is as follows:

"On this the 1st day of April, 1936, came on to be considered by the commissioners' court of Eastland county, Texas, petitions signed by qualified voters of Eastland county, Texas, requesting that this court should order an election in Eastland county, Texas, for the purpose of determining whether or not there should be legalized the sale of vinous and malt liquors that do not contain alcohol in excess of 14 per cent by volume in Eastland county, Texas; and the court after having heard and considered said petition is of the opinion that it is sufficient and it is the opinion of the court that said election should be held in each voting box in Eastland county, Texas, on the 18th day of April, A. D., 1936, as is provided for by the laws of the State of Texas, this being Article 666 of Vernon's Annotated Civil and Criminal Statutes of the State of Texas, and being what is commonly known as the Texas Liquor Control Act.

"It is therefore ordered on this the 1st day of April, 1936, that said election shall be held at each voting box of Eastland county, Texas, on the 18th day of April, 1936, and the clerk of said court shall post or cause to be posted at least one copy of this order in each election precinct for at least six days prior to said election; which election shall be held and return thereof made in conformity with the provisions of the General Laws of the State of Texas, and by the election officers appointed and qualified under such laws, and all officials shall take such further action as may be necessary to hold said election and carry out the purpose of this order.

RAYMOND HENRY GIVES NOTICE OF APPEAL FROM FIFTY-YEAR "SKELETON" DEATH SENTENCE

Notice of appeal from the 56-year sentence given him in the "hanging skeleton" slaying of H. L. McBea at Rising Star May 1, 1933 had been given Monday by Raymond Henry.

Jurors reported their verdict of murder afterthought in 88th district court Sunday morning at 9:30. They received the case Saturday night at 10:20 after hearing eight hours of arguments by counsel.

The defendant was shaken by the decision. His eyes filled with tears as his wife, Della, 30, former wife of McBea, endeavored to comfort him with, "I know you aren't guilty."

Mrs. Henry sobbed violently as her father and brother, G. W. and Russell Barton, assisted her from the courtroom.

On May 18 she is scheduled to go on trial on a similar charge of murder.

The state introduced testimony in the week-long trial that Henry stabbed McBea with an ice pick May 1, 1933, was the chief of a bizarre after-midnight burial, several weeks later exhumation and hanging of the skeleton. The skeleton was found Dec. 22, 1934.

Special Prosecutor Allen D. Dabney pointed out the woman in his arguments as the "consideration and motive" for Henry in the death.

Criminal District Attorney Gray Owen closed arguments. R. E. Grantham of Cisco, L. H. Flewelling and J. Frank Sparks of Eastland were heard for the defense.

By the conviction only one was as yet to be tried. Jack Smith, 40, was a defendant until he was found slashed to death in the county jail recently. Lynn, his brother, is charged as an accessory.

Raymond Henry, defendant in the slaying of H. L. McBea, was sentenced to 56 years in the state penitentiary.

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK.—Jim Braddock wants no outside help in preparing for the defense of the heavyweight championship against Joe Louis in September, least of all any which Jack Johnson might provide.

So Joe Gould, manager of the former Jersey stevedore, told 600 persons who gathered at a dinner and dance tendered John T. McNeill, who has retired as a deputy of the New York State Athletic Commission after years of public service.

"Jim and I never even thought of having Johnson in our camp," said Gould when questioned in regard to the report that the old Galveston black would have a hand in training the Irishman. "Even if Johnson has a line on some weakness of Louis, as is claimed, neither Jim nor I would be interested in accepting his aid."

"Doc Robb and his staff, who were good enough to condition Jim to win the title, will be good enough to condition him for the defense of it."

"Hard work never hurt anybody," Braddock told me at Miami Beach when I asked if he really was returning to the Weehawken wharves to harden up for the Louis engagement.

BRADDOCK claims to have developed his left hand unloading railroad ties from lighters and putting them on gondolas.

"You pick up the tie with a hook," explained the North Bergen Mick. "My right hand was broken, so I had to use my left to stick on the payroll. The first thing I knew I could whip this left hand around like Lefty Grove."

He's going into the mountains for the remainder of the spring and summer.

Naturally, Braddock anticipates a good tough fight. He expects to get hit by many a good hard punch, but professes to believe that he will retain the crown.

Braddock, now 29, was a much more formidable warrior last summer than he was when he boxed Tommy Loughran for the lightweight leadership in 1929.

"The only time I used my left hand in 1929 was at the dinner table," he beamed.

BRADDOCK now weighs 210 pounds and is still filling out. "They gave me a dinner shortly before I boxed Max Baer last June, so I had to climb into a tuxedo," he said. "It fitted me perfectly then. I put it on again the other night and what do you think? I couldn't even get into it. You see I'm filling out around the shoulders where it will do me the most good."

Braddock intends to attempt to go along with Louis just as he did with Baer.

"I'll keep a left hand in his face, try to keep him off balance, and will keep moving," he asserted. "If I find that I have to change my style, I can do that too."

"Carnera, Levinsky, Baer, Paulino, and Retzlaff were scared stiff when they got into the ring with Louis. You know me, I won't choke up. When I get in the ring I get in there to fight. It's either me or the other fellow. When I land on the floor I get up and fight harder. If Louis drops me, he'll find that out in a hurry."

Cowboy Band to Tour Entire State For the Centennial

DALLAS.—W. A. Webb, general manager of the Texas Centennial Exposition, said the famous Cowboy Band of Hardin-Simmons University would visit "every major city in the state" before the opening of the Dallas World's Fair on June 6. The famous cowboy aggregation, which has played the principal halls of Europe as well as concert halls all over the United States, has been chosen as the "model" band of the Dallas Exposition. The band from Abilene, Texas, opened its state-wide tour in San Angelo, where it was a featured attraction at the San Angelo Fat Stock Show and Rodeo, March 7-11. Shortly it will begin its annual tour of East Texas. En route to East Texas, it will play concerts in Cisco, Breckenridge, Eastland, Ranger, Weatherford and Mineral Wells. "The musicians plan to tour Northwest Texas, the Panhandle and eastern New Mexico the latter part of April or early in May," Mr. Webb said. "Before the opening of the Centennial Exposition here June 6, they plan to visit every major city in the state." PINCH ENDS 50-YEAR BERKELEY, Cal.—After 50 years of wedded bliss, Mrs. Della F. "Follow the Fleet" Heads Theatre Program

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers Dance Sing, and Romance to the Music of Irving Berlin in the Greatest Picture Ever Made by The Pair

The local Arcadia Theatre announces the opening of "Follow the Fleet," latest picture starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, Saturday night at 11:15 p. m. This picture will also run through Sunday and Monday.

Theatre audiences all over the nation have acclaimed this one of the greatest musical shows of all times, and in answer to many requests from the Arcadia patrons it has been scheduled to open at a midnight show Saturday night in addition to the regular showing Sunday and Monday.

"Follow the Fleet" is the fifth picture Astaire and Miss Rogers, the most famous dancing team on the screen, and in this picture they will dance for the second time to the music of Irving Berlin, most popular of America's song writers, this making it a combination of extraordinary talents that places

Mother Advised Ailing Daughter To Take CARDUI

Many, many women have taken Cardui on the advice of their mothers who had been helped by it. "I would have severe cramping spells," writes Mrs. F. C. Allen, of Southdale, Miss. "I would get nauseated, and feel faint and would have to go to bed. I would be very nervous for two or three days. I was afraid to go away from home, for fear I would faint and fall. My mother, having used Cardui with good results, advised me to try it. "I am so glad I took Cardui and got relief, for it has done wonders for me." If you suffer this way, send to the drug store for a bottle of Cardui and begin taking it today. Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Buck Jones Grand In "The Deadline"

Fast riding, a thrilling battle between the sheriff's posse and a desperate band of outlaws surprised while robbing a bank, a runaway with the life of a beautiful girl constantly endangered until rescued by Buck Jones—these are but a few of the exciting situations in "The Deadline," the Columbia picture playing Saturday at the Columbia Theatre. Here we have a new Buck Jones. A quiet, serious character bent on re-establishing his reputation in the eyes of his townspeople. Paroled after serving one year of a five-year term for manslaughter, Buck is told by the prison warden that, while on probation, he will be walking along a deadline. Cross it an inch and he will have to come back to finish his sentence.

Buck knows that he didn't commit that murder in the dark—but a jury believed he did, and so did all the citizens of Colfax except little orphan Jimmy; Otto, the old blacksmith; and Banker Evans and his daughter Helen. Buck, however, does not think it honorable or fair of him to see Helen until he has cleared himself and his determination to stay away from her leads to a love tangle that only gets more tangled when Buck saves Helen's life when two horses run away with the carriage in which she is seated.

As Buck has to keep his hands in his pockets and has to stand a lot of insults that he would like to answer with a good punch in the jaw, you can realize how exciting it is when he buckles on and decides to step over the deadline. It is a case of take that chance or forever be branded a murderer.

How Buck finally captures the real killer and leader of a gang that has been engaged in a lot of holdups and recovers the stolen bank funds makes lively and spectacular entertainment in "The Deadline." Beautiful Lorecia Zegers is the faithful heroine and others in the cast are Robert Ellis, Harry Todd, G. Raymond Nye, Knute Erickson, Edwin J. Brady and George Ernst, a clever kid. Lambert Hillier directed his own story.

On the Waves of Irving Berlin Melody "Follow the Fleet" Dances Into Port With Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers

In the parlance of the men who write motion picture ad copy, "Follow the Fleet," the new Astaire-Rogers picture booked for showing at the Arcadia Theatre, is a terrific musical bombshell, with a complete score by Irving Berlin. The music master doesn't come to the screen himself, but his genius floods it from front to back to provide rhythm for the miraculous feet of Astaire and Rogers and infectious lyrics for their voices.

The nimble Astaire and his little titian-haired partner, have scored three record smashing hits within the short period of a year. They come to the public with quite a new and bewildering display in "Follow the Fleet."

Astaire sings and dances to "We Saw the Sea" and "I'd Rather Lead a Band." With Miss Rogers he sings and dances to "All My Eggs in One Basket" and "Let's Face the Music and Dance." Miss Rogers has a solo song and dance, "Let Yourself Go," which is reprised with Fred as a dance contest.

Randolph Scott, who first crashed the big time with the dancing stars in that musical fantasy of Paris, "Roberta," reaches for new laurels in this show. He neither sings nor dances but delivers red-blooded romantic appeal.

All Astaire-Rogers pictures have one or more personality surprises to pop. "Gay Divorcee" was loaded with them... Astaire, Erik Rhodes, Eric Blore, "Roberta" had Scott. "Top Hat" gave Helen Broderick to the screen, and now comes "Follow the Fleet" with Harriet Hilliard, considered by Hollywood the most important find of the year. "Beauty," a lovely figure, a gloriously voice, acting talent and a personality that will reach out from the screen to capture any audience, are her assets. She came from the radio and the

Reforestation Would Be Check To Flood Threats

WASHINGTON—Flood damage in the South, such as recently threatened the Tennessee Valley, could be more effectively checked at its source by increased reforestation by governmental agencies and private landowners, according to Joseph C. Kircher, regional forester in charge of the Southern Region of the U. S. Forest Service.

"Though the South is not a section of the country where the most destructive floods originate, large flood damage is caused from time to time by rivers rising in the Ozarks and the Southern Appalachians, and also the overflow of streams in the southern pine states ranging from North Carolina to Texas," Kircher stated.

"I know that a great many people take the stand that it requires so long for trees to grow that reforestation, though it has value, is not important in acute situations. This is not an accurate view. Soil experts freely admit that the roots of tree seedlings begin to function as effective agents in holding soil against erosion very soon after the plants begin to grow.

"There are now 2,138,600 acres of national forest land in Arkansas and Oklahoma which protect important watersheds to a certain extent, but to do this job adequately 2,365,000 additional acres of land suitable only for the production of forests should be purchased, at a cost of about $7,500,000.

"In the southern pine states there are already nearly 4,000,000 acres of national forest land, but so distributed that another 4,000,000 acres should be added at perhaps a cost of $10,000,000 to effectively combat the flood menace to future generations.

"In the Southern Appalachians we have 2,063,000 acres, which have been under protection for 25 years and have been a vital factor in checking floods in the rivers of Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and northern Alabama. Here we should have an additional 6,040,000 acres of land that would probably cost about $25,000,000.

"If steps were taken at the present time to acquire this land, it would not only be of prime importance in our national obligation to take measures to minimize the recurrence of floods that menace the welfare and happiness of thousands of persons each year, but it would have immediate relief possibilities."

It has been revealed the A. T. & T. financially backed a picture, "Once in a Blue Moon," plot of which probably dealt with a man who got the right number.

Mother Accused as Poison Killer

Murder by poisoning of her two daughters, Dorothy McCausland, 13, lower left, and Billy Fae McCausland, 11, right, is charged to Mrs. Velma Patterson, top photo, of Commerce, Tex., said by police to be "Hunt county's liquor queen." County officials declared they were investigating deaths of six other persons, including patrons of her alleged liquor resort and her second husband.

A European judge decided that, just because she tried on hats for nine hours straight, a woman wasn't necessarily insane. But then he didn't see the hats.

Dr. W. L. Jackson Is President Of New School Board

At the regular meeting of the Ranger school board, held this week, L. H. Flewelling retired as president of the board and C. B. Pruet, who was elected to fill the vacancy on the board, was sworn into office, as was R. H. Hodges, re-elected.

After the board was reorganized an election of officers was held and Dr. W. L. Jackson was elected president, A. N. Larson, vice president, and F. P. Brasher, secretary.

The meeting date was changed to the second Tuesday in each month, which until recently was the regular meeting date.

It was decided that at the next regular meeting, which will be on Tuesday, April 14, recommendations for positions as teachers will be considered and teachers elected.

New Manifest Form Is Now Being Used

AUSTIN.—Manifests upon which motor trucks will be allowed to haul gasoline and other petroleum products from the East Texas field will look like an enlarged form of the "transfers" generally issued by street car lines, combined with a meal ticket.

The form has been devised by C. L. Sullivan, chief of all enforcement for the State Railroad Commission.

It is believed to be proof against changes or duplication.

Changes are made impossible by omitting many written notations. Date by month, day and the time of day all must be punched out. A manifest will not be accepted with more than one time designated by the punching.

Similarly punches will designate the number of gallons of gasoline or other products loaded on the truck when it was checked out of the refinery.

The manifests will be in triplicate and will be numbered serially. They will be printed on water-marked paper like that used in railroad tickets and protected checks. Only the printer who is designated to furnish the manifests to the state will be able to purchase the paper with the particular marking.

Dallas to Do Away With Wooden Paving

DALLAS.—Wooden blocks which once covered the streets of the entire business district will give way to more modern surfacing on another two blocks under bids to be received by the city council.

The offers will be for relaying paving on Elm street from Ervay to Harwood, with brick specified as the material. Total cost of the project will be $9,147. Property owners, who petitioned for the work, will pay $7,313, the city $1,249 and the street car company $1,035.

Italy Is Shipping Poison Gas, the League Is Told

GENEVA, April 9.—Italy has shipped 200 tons of poison gas to Ethiopia by way of the Suez Canal, Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, announced today at a meeting of the committee of 13.

He urged that both nations be asked to pledge not to use gas in the future.

The committee received a jurists' report indicating the committee is without authority to prevent Italy from using the gas.

The report suggested those nations who signed the 1925 anti-gas conventions might call Italy's attention to her violation of it. That would raise the question whether the United States would join the protest.

Rains Form New Flood Menace In Southern States

ATLANTA, Ga., April 9.—Additional rains today renewed danger from swollen rivers of the South.

In several sections the rivers were beginning to recede and new rains brought fear the streams may continue to overflow.

The Tennessee river rose toward a crest of 36 1/2 feet at Chattanooga, where families in low-lying sections of the city moved from their homes again. Below the city waters were pouring through Alabama, where the Tennessee river may go to six feet above flood stage.

The three rivers that converge on Rome, Ga., forced 500 from their homes.

Search for "Black Gold" Puts to Sea

HOUSTON.—The search for "black gold" has put out to sea. Salt Dome Oil-California company's joint exploration of 60,000 acres of subsea land beneath Galveston Bay waters started when 10 boats, 17 seismologists and helpers, and a number of sailors, cooks and mechanics cast off at Bayshore's Cut.

The scientific party will "shoot" the 6,000 acres thoroughly.

"It may require as long as 18 months," said Kark Hasselmann, president of Salt Dome.

Hasselmann; Ken Regan, vice-president of Salt Dome; and Gaddis Bass, general superintendent of the state land commissioner's office, the Texas Agency which leased the land to California and Salt Dome, inspected the "floating shooting party" before its departure.

The geophysical exploration marks the active entry of California into the Gulf coast. Fisher Reynolds, president of the Seismic Explorations, Inc., will direct the geophysical work.

The "headquarters boat," a house-boat capable of holding 28 persons, was stocked for a month's stay on Galveston Bay waters. It will put back into its base from time to time for provisions.

From this boat, the men will go daily in small motorboats, cabin powerboats and a barge to drill "shot" holes, load them with dynamite, touch off the charges, and take recordings.

On a barge is a light drilling rig capable of going 1,200 feet, although no such depth will be attempted, Reynolds said.

Another boat, painted a bright red, is labeled "Oryzomite, Danger." It serves as the magazine for the party's explosives, and is given as wide a berth as possible.

Two cabin powerboats are the "exploding" and "receiving" ends of the geophysical operation.

From one the "shots" will be exploded. Aboard the other, the progress through the earth of the

Our whole community was shocked and grieved Wednesday when the news came that Jonathan Jones of Eastland had passed away. He was called "Bud" Jones here and lived in this community until 1920 when he and his wife and son, Ernest, moved to Eastland. He had many friends and relatives here to mourn his death.

Mrs. J. L. King's mother, Mrs. Haney passed away. She was an old settler in this community and was well known all over the county. We sympathize with her loved ones.

"Ernie" Gabe Andrews of Gorman passed away March 27. He was an uncle of Mrs. J. H. Wheat. He was an old settler of Gorman and was well known all over the county. His wife and relatives have our sympathy.

Editorial Tells of Blanton's Fight On Rent Control

NOT MUCH HOPE

Rep. Thomas L. Blanton, from a little town on the Texas plains—as good a little town, to be sure, as any—is having his way with the matter of most importance to the people of Washington. At the moment the matter is a bill designed to set up rent control in the District. It may be a good bill or it may be a bad bill. The point is that Blanton has made up his mind, based, so he says, on a personal experience, that it would be a bad bit of legislation. Wherefore he has dug in his hind heels and set himself to stop it. He seems likely to succeed, since he is using the filibuster method.

There is no point in accusing Blanton of venal motives. He has been exposing himself to the public spotlight too long for anybody to doubt his honesty. The worst ever suggested on this score is that he uses his trouble-making powers to get jobs in the District Government for his Texas constituents. That doesn't rate as a major political crime hereabouts. No, Blanton is just what he seems to be—a man abnormally obsessed with the rightness of his own views and somewhat more mulish than most in his stubborn adherence to those views. He isn't playing anybody's game but his own. If it is good politics for him—his personal wars with Washington go good down in the cow country—it doesn't keep him from feeling completely righteous, just the same.

Blanton isn't a political fool—nor a parliamentary fool. He knows that the days of this session are running out, so far as District legislation is concerned. He may or may not have a real interest in the bill. He does have a real interest in District legislation that is to follow, particularly the bill to repeal the Red rider which he attached to the District appropriations bill last year.

Grady Owen to Run For Re-election As Crim. Dist Attorney

Grady Owen, criminal district attorney of Eastland county, today issued the following statement in presenting his announcement for re-election:

To The Citizens of Eastland County:

In presenting for your consideration this formal announcement of the fact that I am a candidate for re-election to the office of Criminal District Attorney of Eastland County, Texas, please permit me to express my very grateful appreciation of your support, influence and co-operation.

The success of a district attorney depends to a very great degree upon the assistance and co-operation of the general public. In this respect you have indeed been helpful. Because of your aid and sympathy with the program of law enforcement we feel that Eastland county has become a better place in which to live, and has gained a reputation for the enforcement of the law that ranks it as one of the best counties in the State in this respect. Both personally and as your district attorney I desire to commend your attitude of helpful co-operation, and to express my very deep appreciation for the good citizenship which this bestows upon Eastland County.

It is also unquestionably true that a successful program of law enforcement must have the co-operation of all officers and law enforcing agencies. I am very happy to state that since I have been your district attorney I have had the close and active co-operation of all such agencies, national and state as well as local. I have constantly sought and obtained their help, and in this public manner desire to offer my continued full co-operation and to request the continued full co-operation of all concerned with the program of law enforcement.

Is Candidate

Grady Owen, criminal district attorney of Eastland county, who has announced his candidacy for re-election, subject to the action of the democratic primary of July 25.

Feeling that I am now in position to serve you better than ever, and realizing that you desire the best of which I am capable, I place before you my desire to be re-elected to this, your office, and earnestly solicit your friendship, your co-operation, your support and your influence.

Gratefully yours,

of the office I have tried to make you a good district attorney. It is for you to say whether I have done so. Naturally I have had my successes and my disappointments. I make no claim to super-human powers. At the same time I have made a close study of the office and its duties, and feel that without boasting I can claim to be qualified for the office, and to have had a very successful administration of the office.

The records show that since I have been your district attorney a greater percentage of the cases have been tried, and a greater percentage of convictions obtained; that there have been fewer reversals, only two cases having been reversed; that out of the hundreds of indictments prepared not a single one has ever been held defective in any way by any court; that law violations have been reduced until we are now having only about one-fourth as many as were occurring in the county a few years ago; that no major crime has gone unsolved, and the malefactors have been brought before the bar of justice in order that their degrees of guilt and the amounts of their punishments might be passed upon by that great American institution, a jury of peers.

Feeling that I am now in position to serve you better than ever, and realizing that you desire the best of which I am capable, I place before you my desire to be re-elected to this, your office, and earnestly solicit your friendship, your co-operation, your support and your influence.

Gratefully yours,
GRADY OWEN.

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes. They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON — Gentlemen of the AAA are heading out of Washington in all directions, armed with portable blackboards and large supplies of chalk. With these they will undertake to explain how the individual farmer can participate in the soil conservation program of 1936 and collect his portion of the $470,000,000 which Congress has appropriated for payments for such participation.

It is estimated that 50 per cent of American farms will be under the program and each farm will be a separate problem, to be solved by community and county committees. Experts, however, have been busy working out "examples" which can be presented to state and county committees now to show how the regulations should operate under a given set of conditions—and there are as many such sets of conditions as there are combinations in a deck of cards.

Some experts say it is all horribly confusing and others say it is as easy as pie when you get to understand it. Anyway, given below is an "example," worked out for the cotton belt, which may be illuminating, although rates, types of farming, productivity, and many other factors present innumerable variations.

A FARM of 130 acres last year (on which year the all-important soil-depleting base acreage is computed) contained 50 acres of cotton, 25 in corn for some use, 10 in other grains for some use, 15 in lespedeza (bush clover), 25 in woodpecker, and 5 in buildings area, roads, and waste-land. The last 30 acres mentioned

Out Door Health Rules Are Urged By Health Officer

AUSTIN, Tex.—Recommendation to children and their parents to get together for some sessions of plan making in preparation for warm weather recreational activities was made this week by Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer.

"Texas has done a pretty good job in awakening health consciousness in the home and school," Dr. Brown said, "and it is an excellent idea to carry it into our out of door life. Texas is essentially an out of door State. From early spring until late fall weather conditions make the countryside inviting. The warm weather comes on with a rush and there are dangers alike to children and adults."

"One excellent bit of advice, particularly for the grown-ups, to head is to avoid over exertion at the outset. Too much haste in everything is a constant menace to the health of the people, and the eager father who attempts to keep pace with his school boy sons and daughters on the first spring outing may be laying up trouble. Over-exposure to the sun is a danger that confronts all of the members of the family in their eagerness for the benefits of sunlight."

"For the whole family there can be no better practice in advance of spring and summer outings than to make a check list and obey a few simple rules. It is well to look to the source of water and milk, and to be wary of poison ivy and poisonous insects. A first aid kit is always a satisfying reliance. Watchful care should be taken of the youngsters who cannot resist the temptation to go barefoot, and immediate treatment should be given bruises and cuts. When wounds are inflicted by rusty nails or similar objects the child should be taken immediately to a physician."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

THE first robin and the first bunch of asparagus in my market bring spring cheer and stimulate my wifely ambition. Of the two, my prosaic nature cares more for the asparagus.

There are fashions in asparagus, did you know it? Some sections of the country prefer green, others white. Either suits New York but New England and the South choose white, while the North and West stick to green. The matter of color may be due either to the way two same roots are planted and taken care of or to different kinds of roots.

To be at its best asparagus should be freshly gathered. Its delicacy and sweetness of flavor disappear soon after it is cut. When buying, look for straight, crisp stalks with the little pointed scales pressed tightly against the stalk at the tip where the growth is newest. Thick stalks are more desirable than thin ones, since the lengthy ones mean long growth and consequent toughness. Be sure, too, that the cut surface is not dry and that the stalk does not feel tough and woody nor look shriveled.

Keep in Water Until Used

After buying fresh asparagus, treat it well. If tied in a bunch, cut the cord. Keep fresh by standing in a little water to retain its natural moisture. Put in a cool place. If you have an asparagus cooker, tie your asparagus in bundles for individual serving and stand upright in the cooker. Add boiling water to the water line, cover and cook about twenty minutes. If you don't have a cooker, tie the stalks in bundles just the same and cook them standing upright in boiling water. Enough water to cover the thickest part of the stalks should be used, so that the heads cook merely in the steam. The heads are much tenderer

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Shredded pineapple, baked eggs, cornmeal pancakes, maple syrup, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Cream of asparagus soup, toast sticks, prune and grape fruit salad, popovers, milk, tea.
DINNER: Filet of flounder in tomato sauce, boiled potatoes in parsley butter, turnips greens, pepper and cottage cheese salad, fruit cup, milk, coffee.

than the stalks and do not require as long cooking. Salt when half done and lay the bundles flat in the water when almost tender. Cook ten minutes longer. This insures a perfectly cooked, unbroken tip. When ready to serve, remove each bundle, cut strings and serve at once with melted butter or drawn butter sauce made with the liquid in which the asparagus was cooked.

Cook Uncovered?

Asparagus will retain its color better if cooked uncovered. The time depends on the freshness and state of maturity of the vegetable, but twenty minutes at least should be calculated. Overcooking damages both taste and appearance. The tips are described by scientists as being "rich in actively functioning cells" and resembling leaves in their dietary properties. Calcium, iron and phosphorus are the principal ash constituents—all valuable for body building. Asparagus also is an excellent source of vitamin B. Since it is a low calorie vegetable, it is a boon to the person on a reducing diet when served plain with salt and pepper. It takes almost a pound—twenty stalks eight inches long—in fennel 100 calories. Of these calories 22 are protein, 5 fat and 69 are carbohydrates.

MOISTURE CONTROL

The most important single attribute of cigarettes, other than the tobacco itself, is moisture content. To its influence we owe the ability to make uniform cigarettes, to control combustion, and to govern quality of smoke. Excessive moisture interferes with proper combustion, and makes cigarette smoke unpalatable. Insufficient moisture permits dry, dusty cigarette smoke to impinge upon the delicate mucous membrane of the smoker.

Farmers Elect Men To Supervise Soil Conservation Plan

At a meeting held in the American Legion hall in Ranger Wednesday evening, April 8, under the direction of Elmo V. Cook, county agent, the new farm program, known as the Soil Conservation program, was discussed.

The first speaker was T. G. Coudle, agriculture teacher at Cisco. He was followed by Miss Maurine Hearn, district home demonstrating agent, who spoke briefly. Both speakers urged the farmers to be patient with the extension workers until they have time to learn more about the new farm program.

Miss Hearn said she knew no one in the state or anywhere else who has had time to study the entire program sufficient to explain it in detail to others, but that all extension agents are working to that end just as fast as they can.

This meeting was called primarily for the election of three committeemen and two alternates for this district. The duty of these men under the new setup is to keep a check on the farmers and to advise with them in their effort to carry out the plan of soil conservation.

J. W. Davis, Dick Weeks and Ed Castleberry were elected committeemen and E. E. Blackwell and H. L. Fry were elected alternates. This completes the county organization so far as the election of committeemen and alternates.

PUBLIC SAFETY DISPUTE HAS BROKEN OUT

DALLAS, April 9.—Differences over affairs of the Texas public safety commission developed today in a sharp duel of words between Albert Sydney Johnson, chairman, and Sheriff Albert West of San Antonio.

Sheriff West, seeking appointment of Sheriff J. B. Arnold of Beville as public safety director, criticized the qualifications of L. G. Phares and accused the commission of "discrimination" against Bexar county.

"The only sheriff in Texas who has protested Phares' appointment has been West, and I have had no communication from him. On the other hand there are 95 sheriffs who send the safety department records of criminals daily and 147 other sheriffs constantly were telephoning the department for assistance and co-operating in its work," Johnson replied.

To the charge of Sheriff West that horse race "bookies" in San Antonio had been closed by rangers while those in Dallas were permitted to operate "wide open," Johnson parried with the reply, "That's a lot of bunk."

Electric Equipment Stolen From Firm

Officers Wednesday still sought a party who stole an electric drill and equipment, valued at $100, from the Harvey Chevrolet company in Eastland recently. Entrance was gained through a rear window, which was partially covered by iron bars.

If a jockey can make a horse fly, and a blacksmith the fire fly, can a boarder make the butter fly? LEGIONNAIRES AND THE STORY OF THEIR WORLD WAR SERVICE

Editor's Note: This is the tenth of a series of war biographies being written by B. H. Peacock, commander of the American Legion Post of Ranger, covering the experiences of members of the local post. The biography of another veteran will appear in next Sunday's issue.

T. A. (AL) TUNE
Most thrilling was the splendid contribution of the United States Navy toward the winning of the great World War. Commonly known and conceded as our country's first line of defense, it was for the giant battleships and destroyers of the American Navy to hold high the banner of the service during those hectic days of 1917-18. So fascinating and unspotted had the record of the fleet been kept throughout the years of our national history, that the urge to become a part and parcel of her caused literally thousands of American youth to enlist in the service for the duration of the war. And it has become a matter of common knowledge that the entire war strength personnel was recruited entirely from the ranks of volunteers.

Among others that literally sailed the Seven Seas under the banner of the Stars and Stripes was that of T. A. (Al) Tune of 809 Page street, Ranger, Texas. Eight months of the Atlantic, and once down into the waters of the southern hemisphere during the World War, spelled both excitement, comedy, tragedy, and never ending action for this erstwhile-farm youth of Forney, Texas. On Feb. 23, 1894, an embryo sailor in Uncle Sam's Navy was born to Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Tune. They christened him T. A., but it soon became "Al" for short, and Al it has been ever to this good day. The great expanse of his farming neighborhood and the genial atmosphere of good home training put the "spiz-zirinctums" youthful ambitions in the boy. He had long since heard and read much of the glamorous past of the United States Navy, so directly upon the declaration of War against the Central Powers of Europe by the United States, Al proceeded to make his application for enlistment. He was thereupon inducted into the service on June 30, 1917, in the city of Dallas, Texas. Forthwith, he was ordered to the Navy Training Station at Norfolk, Va., and after the short period of only three weeks, his transfer orders specified that he should report for duty on the U. S. S. Vermont, which had been converted into a troop ship. Little did Tune know, when he went aboard, that this was to be his floating home for practically his entire period of service of two years and three months during the war. And little did he realize at this time that the months and years that were ahead of him were to open up a vista of travel and experiences that would carry him well over a 100,000 miles across the deep; and that would employ numerous 6 to 14 day fleet maneuvers, as well as scouting and convoy duties in infested zones.

"It was in June, 1918," said Tune, "that we started on a trip that I shall not soon forget. The Chilean ambassador to the United States had died in Washington, and according to an age old custom among nations, it fell to the lot of one of the battleships of the U. S. Navy to act as a guard of honor in returning his body to his homeland. The Vermont was selected to perform this rare duty, and I, being a fireman on the ship, naturally, was to make the trip. The trip carried us through the Panama Canal and thence south skirting the west coast of South America until we reached Valparaiso. A motor boat appropriately draped and manned by a crew from one of the gun boats of the Chilean Navy, came out into the harbor where we were anchored, and carried the body of their deceased ambassador ashore.

"Another occasion, which was more of the comedy, than of the sublime, happened when our ship was in the process of crossing the equator. There is an old, old custom in the experiences of sea-faring folk that when the ship approaches the equator, it must take the consequences of invading the Domain of one Neptunus Rex, erstwhile Ruler of the Deep and Raging Main." And that it was that Rex sent out his subpoena to Fireman Tune to appear before his Majesty and if found worthy, to be initiated into the Mysteries of the Deep.

The trial and ceremonies incident to the occasion were short, but very severe, but with it all there came into Tune's possession, which he highly prizes to this day, a beautifully bound and engraved Certificate of Membership into the Order of the Deep, which reads as follows:

DOMAIN OF NEPTUNUS REX
Ruler of the Deep and Raging Main
All seariners and all mermaids, whales, sharks, dolphins, porpoises, sculpins, skates, crabs, lobsters, jellyfish, pollywogs, and all other creatures that live in the sea, wherever you may be, Greetings:
Know ye, that on the 14th day of June, in the year of 1918, in Longitude 81 deg. 13 minutes west, there did appear from the northward and did cross the equator and did enter our Royal Domain the good ship "Vermont," a battleship of the United States

This picture of Sailor Tune was taken in Norfolk, Va., on Feb. 23, 1919, on his 25th birthday.

Navy, bound southward for Valparaiso, Chile.

That the "Vermont" was duly inspected by Ourselves and Our Royal Staff and that T. A. TUNE, Fireman 2nd Class, being a member of the ship's company having been found qualified was duly initiated into the mysteries of THE ANCIENT ORDER OF THE DEEP and is now counted as one of our trusty shellbacks.

All our subjects of the deep are therefore commanded to show him honor within our Royal Domain.

Given under our hand and seal.

NEPTUNUS REX,
Davy Jones, Scribe.

Attest:
Frank H. Clark,
Captain, U. S. N.,
Commanding U. S. S. Vermont.

Joseph H. Shea,
United States Ambassador to Chile.

And thus, away down south, off the coast of South America, did one more "gob" of the Fleet receive his credentials to that ancient Order.

"It was in September, 1919," reminisced Tune, "that I was ordered on a mission to the Bremerton Naval Base at Seattle, Wash. President Woodrow Wilson was to review the Pacific Fleet, and the famous old U. S. S. Oregon was to be re-commissioned and used as his flagship. The admiral had ordered that a picked crew from the entire fleet should be selected as the crew for the Oregon, and I was very happy to learn that I had been so honored as to be made a member of the Oregon's crew. And not only myself, but the entire crew aboard were greatly thrilled when President Wilson and Secretary Daniels, in addition to numerous governors, and other notables, came aboard. I can remember the President to this good hour, although wrinkled and drawn from the cares incident to the great war, as he stood there at attention on the deck of our ship, and while the Pacific Fleet passed in review."

Many events, too numerous to mention, stand out in bold relief in the experiences of Sailor Tune. "On one occasion," he said, "we lost one of our men at sea. We were in the middle of quite a storm. A giant wave broke over the ship's deck, and one of our men was carried overboard. A boat crew was hastily put out, as well as the life buoys, when the poor fellow went down when almost within reach of it."

"And as to submarines," he said, "our first and only contact with them happened to be when returning to the States through the Caribbean Sea. It was the second night out of Colon, and I was on watch. The ship had been cruising along at its ordinary speed of about 14 knots, when a sudden order of full speed ahead was given. It was later reported that two submarines had been sighted and that our ship rammed one of them and had eluded the other."

The battleship Vermont, according to Tune, had a battery of 12 boilers which were fired with coal. Each tour of duty for a four-hour period required the services of three firemen, two coal heavers, and one water tender for each of the six firerooms. The two twin screw engines which developed the ship's motive power, according to Tune's best recollection, developed approximately 18,000 horsepower each. The ship's regular cruising speed was approximately 15 knots, with a maximum of 21 (a knot being 1 1/4 miles).

But the ending of the war and the return of the troops home wrote "finis" to the naval services of Tune. He received an honorable discharge from the United States Navy at Dallas, Texas, on Oct. 19, 1919. And what a period of action—of pathos, comedy, tragedy, joy, and sorrow—and what a war for this farm lad who went to sea.

After donning his "civics" again,

Tune went first to his home town of Forney (Kaufman county). Shortly thereafter, however, he entered the employ of the Hercules Petroleum company in Ranger, and later became associated with J. W. and Dick Elliott operating the Texas Company agency.

On Oct. 16, 1923, Mr. Tune was married to Miss Berlin Kohler, and to this family, one child, T. A. II, now 14 months of age, was born. Since leaving the service, Mr. Tune has spent practically his entire life in the Ranger community. He has assumed in a capable and efficient manner his duties and responsibilities as a citizen, and has on several occasions been honored by being elected to places of trust and responsibility. In September, 1929, Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion saw fit to elect him as its vice commander, and the following year as commander. Twice honored by the Texas Department of the "40 and 8," an auxiliary of the American Legion, when he was elected as Grande Conducteur and also as Grande Commissaire Entendant.

The well appointed, oil and gasoline agency at the intersection of Railroad and Harwell Avenues would not be the same, were it not for the pleasant word and genial smile of "Al". And probably numerous of his many friends and acquaintances who go to his station to "fill up," have little dreamed that such vicissitudes of war had come his way.

Macedonia Church Revival to Start Monday, April 13

W. M. McLendon, pastor of the Macedonia Baptist Church, colored, of Ranger, has announced a revival meeting to be started at the church beginning on Monday, April 13.

The preaching for the revival will be done by W. D. Davis, the founder of the church and for a number of years its pastor. He is now located at Vernon.

Special prayer services will be conducted and special music is to be arranged for the revival.

White friends of the church have been cordially invited to attend any of the meetings, and special seating arrangements will be made for all who attend.

Two Caskets Cause A Lot of Excitement

HOUSTON, Tex.—Two caskets, each containing a corpse, apparently abandoned in a Negro cemetery, caused Homicide Squad Captain Peyton a lot of trouble.

Apparently everyone who passed the cemetery called him and told him about the caskets, Peyton said.

He finally located a Negro undertaker who told him he had taken the caskets to the cemetery and found the graves had not been prepared. He left the caskets until he could find a grave digger. He promised to get them under ground as soon as possible. He must have, Peyton said, because the calls stopped.

HIAWATHA, Kan.—The riddle: Why does H. L. Williams, who voted in the last election and still lives in the same house have to register again? He moved his house to another street address.

SUIT DISMISSED
On motion of plaintiff, suit of D. J. Neill vs. Zampare Southern Gas company was dismissed without prejudice by Eighty-eighth district court Monday.

That old problem of an irresistible force meeting an immovable body pops up again in the news that there have been agitators among WPA workers.

FARM PROGRAM URGED FOR U. S. TO END WASTE

SAN FRANCISCO.—Scrapping of the AAA has led California industrialists, economists, scientists and farm leaders to launch a nationwide movement for complete rehabilitation of American farming through normal scientific and economic channels.

At the basis of the movement will be two fundamental principles: Development of non-food outlets for agricultural products. Utilization of all farm waste products.

In California alone, backers of the movement declare, a new income of $26,000,000 annually is possible for the farmer through proper utilization of the waste materials of California vegetables alone.

At the preliminary meeting of backers of the new movement here steps were taken for a Far Western States' Conference on the subject to be held at Fresno, Cal., March 26 and 27. From this regional meeting, it is hoped the movement can be launched on a nationwide basis.

Aided by Chemists The fundamental program for this new drive for the re-establishment of American agriculture as a profitable industry had its origin last May at Dearborn, Mich., when the Farm Chemurgic Council was organized under the sponsorship of the Chemical Foundation.

Carl B. Fritsche, of the Farm Chemurgic Council, will preside at the Fresno meeting. He will have the help of Dr. Robert A. Millikan, of the California Institute of Technology, the Dean Hutchinson, of the University of California's College of Agriculture.

The underlying principles of the program by purely scientific, economic and industrial methods instead of by statutory regulation are embodied in the following program:

Gradual absorption of much of the domestic farm surplus by domestic industry.

Profitable utilization of idle acres.

Increase of the purchasing power of the American farmer on a stable and more permanent basis.

Complimentary increase in the demand for manufactured products.

Ultimate creation of new work for idle hands, revival of American industry, restoration of American labor to productive enterprise and relieving of economic distress of the nation.

Urges New Approach "We must get rid of the idea," declared Fritsche, "that there are no new frontiers to conquer and of the belief that the farm problem can be solved by enacting statutes.

"We feel that we can go a long way toward solving the problem by developing new uses for farm surpluses through the application of the discoveries of science."

The program, according to Dr. Vernon Taylor, of the Stanford University Food Research Institute and a member of the Farm Chemurgic Council, "is something which economists have been waiting for years."

Chemurgic Council already has a definite program of projects not only for the use of waste farm products but for the non-food absorption of agricultural products in various forms of industry.

Artificial wool, he asserts, can be made from casein extracted from dry milk. Purfural also is obtainable from the waste hulls of oats and forms a solvent for composition materials such as tiles, linoleum, paneling, etc.

There also can be intensified in agricultural regions, he declares, the production of wood and cotton cellulose which results in celophane and rayon.

Vast quantities of California raisins which are not quite up to the fruit market standard are capable of conversion into industrial alcohol in the proportion of 90 gallons to the ton. Pectine, which is obtained from California citrus fruits, is used in vast number of chemical operations.

Concerted Drive Is Being Started On Unsafe Driving

AUSTIN, Tex.—Death of Gov. James V. Allred's sister plus eight other fatal traffic accidents in one week-end had repercussions throughout the state capital. From L. G. Phares, director of the state safety department, went a terse warning to patrolmen and rangers—"Safety or Else!" Phares accompanied his order with a statement that molycoddling of auto law violators must stop. He recommended maximum sentences, the "else" in this case being stiff fines and jail sentences. Among other things the patrol chief pointed out were:

The speed limit on passenger autos is 45 miles an hour outside towns and 20 miles per hour inside towns—regardless of size. Trucks carrying 6,000 pounds or more must not go over 25 miles per hour even on highways and those of less capacity may travel 40 miles an hour.

The state board of health passed a resolution condemning the number of traffic fatalities in Texas. Last year fatal accidents in this state increased 15 per cent while the nation as a whole showed a one per cent decrease.

The increase was attributed largely to trucks without tail-lights, without horns, with defective headlights, brakes and steering apparatus. The health board recommended an educational program to reduce accidents and urged stricter enforcement of laws by local officers. Ministers and welfare agencies were asked to devote one day of "State Health Week" to spread information on how to decrease auto and truck wrecks.

A special committee was appointed to study the methods employed in New Hampshire, where fatalities declined sharply.

Atty. Gen. William McCraw and Texas railroad commissioners also commented on motor laws following the death of Mrs. Hazel Allred Stokes, Jr., at Mineola.

McCraw informed anxious East Texans that there was no law to prevent truck drivers from working as long as they chose. Contract carriers are limited to 14 hours continuous employment and may not drive for eight hours.

Mark Marshall, chief of the railroad commission's motorbus division, reiterated McCraw's statement.

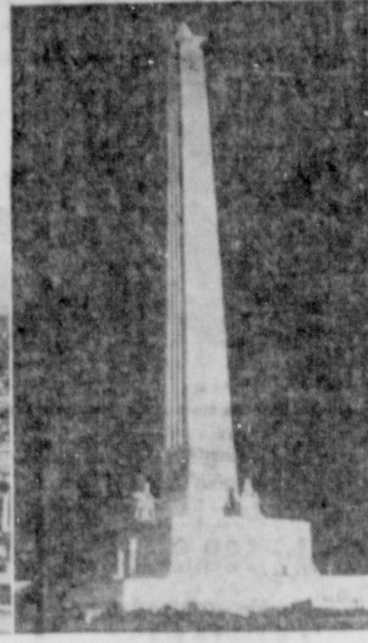

The railroad commission can deal only with trucks hauling for hire. Application of the 14-hour law to all commercial vehicles was suggested as a remedy.

The railroad commission itself pointed out that several key highways had been closed to further contract truck and bus travel. They were restricted on evidence that traffic was as great as was commensurate with safety for travelers.

Where Houston Celebrates Winning of Texas Freedom

Houston will be host to thousands April 12-21 when the San Jacinto Centennial Celebrations hold forth for ten gala days. Visitors will witness colorful parades and pageants, and an entertainment highlight will be a public ball on Main Street in front of the site of the old capitol of the Republic of Texas. On San Jacinto Day 100,000 will participate in a pontifical field mass and other ceremonies to be broadcast nationally over both major networks. At the right is the gigantic shaft to be erected on the battlefield in honor of the heroes of Texas' struggle for liberty.

Pope May Bless the Pontifical Mass at San Jacinto Apr. 21

HOUSTON, Tex.—Pope Pius XI may bless the pontifical field mass at San Jacinto battleground April 21 in celebration of Texas' 100 years of independence. Offered the facilities of one of the major broadcasting companies, Most Rev. C. E. Byrne, bishop of Galveston, said he has asked that the pope send his blessing by radio.

Bishop Byrne, who will conduct the field mass in which several thousand persons will participate, said he originally had planned to receive the Pope's blessing by cabled message, to be read at the conclusion of the service.

The pope's message would be broadcast at the battlegrounds and over a national network of radio stations, the bishop said. "I have written to the cardinal at New York and expect a reply from him soon," Bishop Byrne said. "Should he desire that I personally extend the invitation, I have my letter ready to send to the pope."

Approximately 100,000 persons from many sections of the nation were expected to attend the San Jacinto celebration, commemorating the battle which won Texas' freedom from Mexico and resulted in formation of the Republic of Texas and later in admission of the territory to the United States.

The entire personnel of the U. S. Army coast artillery unit, including 500 enlisted men and officers, of Fort Crockett, Galveston, and equal number of Texas National Guardsmen; thousands of South Texas school children; Sons and Daughters of the Republic of Texas and many other patriotic and civil groups will march in parade to San Jacinto for the pontifical mass.

A huge memorial shaft listing many of the Texas pioneers who formed the small band of soldiers under the leadership of Gen. Sam Houston, who defeated the Mexican army under Gen. Santa Anna, will be dedicated.

Col. Andrew Jackson Houston, only surviving son of General Houston and Lt. Gov. Walter Woodul will lead in dedicating the memorial.

Name of Author of First Texas Song Is Being Sought

By United Press FORT WORTH.—With nothing but the initials "J. K." to guide them, students of Texas folk songs have renewed a search for the identity of a composer whose song is widely known but whose name is a mystery.

"J. K." was the composer of "The Yellow Rose of Texas" which was first published in 1858, and which is believed to have been the first song featuring the name of the Lone Star State.

Mrs. Will Lake of Fort Worth, head of the committee on historical research for the Texas Frontier Centennial which opens here on June 6, is leading the quest for clues to the identity of "J. K."

Mrs. Lake and William J. Marsh of Fort Worth have recently published "The Yellow Rose of Texas" in sheet music form. To preserve the song in its entirety, the title page and the music were copied photographically from the original, bearing only the additional phrases, "Texas Centennial Edition," and the line "Published by Mary Daggett Lake and William J. Marsh, Fort Worth, Texas." In order to make the song eligible for a copyright, Marsh composed a scottish arrangement for the music but otherwise left it unchanged.

The song originally was published by Firth, Ford & Co., of New York and was dedicated to Charles H. Brown, who once operated a music store in Jackson, Tenn. That information is clear, but the composer's name is missing. "The Yellow Rose of Texas" is centered about the longing of a Tennessee negro for a yellow girl in Texas. "She's the sweetest rose of color this darkey ever knew," according to one line of the chorus. "Her eyes are bright as diamonds, they sparkle like the dew." The song, incidentally, is said to be one of the three favorites of President Roosevelt.

Jurist Is Thanked For Cooperation In Coverage of Trial

180 Farm Products From East Texas To Form Exhibit

LONGVIEW.—East Texas agricultural exhibit at the Central Centennial celebration in Dallas will feature more than 180 agricultural products grown and produced in this seventy-county region. Drue M. Moore, manager of the exhibit for the East Texas Chamber of Commerce said.

Moore, who has just returned from three district meetings held the last week at McKinney, Hearn and Navasota, said unusual interest is being shown in the exhibit everywhere he goes.

"I already have half the exhibit collected," he said. "I have been given wonderful co-operation in every county I have visited."

"We never expected to find as many as 180 different products in East Texas," he continued. "This work of planning a Centennial exhibit has brought a revelation of the diversity of production in East Texas."

The East Texas exhibit will occupy one third of the space in the Hall of Agriculture at the Centennial grounds.

BRECKENRIDGE, April 7.—In a simple ceremony Sunday afternoon Miss Mary Frances Black, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Black of Breckenridge, and Wayne Satterwhite, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Satterwhite of Necessity were married at the Baptist parsonage in Carbon.
