THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

WHALES, LARGEST OF ALL ANIMALS, HAVE KEPT SECRET MOST OF THEIR LIVING HABITS.

BOA CONSTRICTOR IN THE PARIS ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS WAS FED ONLY 36 TIMES IN SEVEN YEARS.

WHALES cannot be kept in confinement, therefore it is impossible to make studies of their living habits, and the fact that they travel over such wide areas, and dive to such great depths, adds to the difficulty of checking up on them. Although they continue to grow for years, it is believed that the creatures mature at less than three years of age.

U. S. Will Sell "Proof Money" at Slight Premium
 By United Press
 PHILADELPHIA. — Twenty years of famine among coin collectors are being followed by the proverbial "feast," according to officials of the United States mint.

A deluge of orders from numismatologists (known as "coin cranks," followed the recent announcement of the Treasury Department that the practice of issuing "flawless money" would be resumed.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., is said to have been prompted to this move by the late Louis McHenry Howe, an ardent numismatist. The last issue of proof money, as it is technically termed, was made in 1916.

The coins are being struck under the most careful conditions to insure the perfection of the product. Each coin is individually treated, stamped from polished dies with shining, new dies, and closely scrutinized for flaws. Collectors, it is said, are "quick on the draw" when it comes to spotting "the most microscopic flaws."

Collectors will pay, in addition to postage fees and face values of the coins, the following charges for the souvenir pieces: 25 cents for 50 and 25-cent pieces; 10 cents for dimes; and 15 cents for nickels and pennies. All coins will be dated from 1936.

No one at the mint would say why the premium on dimes should be less than that on pennies and nickels; but everyone agreed that there was enough extra work entailed in the processes to make the fees "quite all right."

Two Drown, Many Periled; Cars Halt at Doom Brink

When the baggage car of the Santa Fe railroad's "Texas Ranger" seaped from the rails and plunged into the Cimarron river near Guthrie, Okla., it dragged these four passenger coaches to the edge of the embankment, leaving them teetering precariously near the edge of the swollen stream. Two railway clerks, trapped in the baggage car, were drowned. Passengers escaped with a bad oomping and a few bruises.

Brownwood Special Annual Regatta to Be Held June 20-21

BROWNWOOD, Tex.—Visitors to Brownwood's Second Annual Regatta and Speed Boat Races, June 20 and 21, will find greatly improved facilities for handling the large crowds that attend the event. Native stone repair shops, concession house, dance pavilions, and picnic structures have been constructed along the shore during the winter months by WPA labor. The parking grounds have been enlarged and cleared of underbrush, paved roads built throughout the park, and a water supply system has been installed. Numerous improvements will make it easier for spectators to witness the races and water events from more comfortable surroundings.

The races this year are attracting greater attention from speed boat racers throughout the Southwest, and it is expected that the largest field to enter a summer boat race meet this year in Texas will be on hand Sunday afternoon, June 21, for the National Outboard Association race program. These events start promptly at 2 p. m. Sunday, with five races of two heats each. More than $700 in cash prizes will be awarded to the winners. Forty entries already have been assured.

Saturday afternoon local boat races will be held and a number of novelty races, designed to interest and thrill the spectator, have been arranged. Aquaplane riding and other water sports also have been scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Regatta officials are expecting record breaking crowds at Lake Brownwood for the two-day Regatta, which offers unique entertainment for residents of arid West Texas. Lake Brownwood, a 7800 acre body of water, is one of the largest inland lakes in the state, and racing officials state its protected waters offer an ideal course for speed boat races. More than 10,000 people attended the 1935 races last summer, and preparations are being made to entertain larger crowds this year.

FINDS ALL-BRAN BETTER THAN PILLS, SALTS, AND OILS

His Natural Food Relieved His Constipation*

We quote from his letter: "... So I decided to make a fair trial of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, with the result that I felt much improved. I have quit all laxatives since 1929. "For 34 years, I had to take pills, salts, oils, teas, or other fluids, which did more harm than good. ALL-BRAN now is our breakfast cereal for the whole family."

Meals low in "bulk" often lead to constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides generous "bulk" in effective form. This "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, and gently exercises and cleanses the system. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. How much better to use this natural food in place of patent medicines.

Use as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooking. ALL-BRAN is much more effective than part-bran products. It is sold by all grocers. Write to Kellogg in Battle Creek.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

DESDEMONA

On Tuesday afternoon of last week the "21" Study club met for the final meeting of the Club year at the home of Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass. Quantities of roses were used in the decorations. The program was led by Mrs. C. W. Maltby. Roll call responses were local features of interest, the subject of the program being "Our Town in Texas." Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass gave a most interesting talk on early "Stores and Churches in Our Town." She gave many facts about the beginning of our town. Mrs. Maltby talked on "Club Life in Our Town," telling some of the benefits derived from organizing groups of women who strive to improve themselves and help the town. At the close of the program refreshments were served in two courses, the first being a meat and nut salad on lettuce and the second being ice cream and cake. Mrs. Snodgrass was assisted in the serving by Miss Boyd Crenshaw, who lives with Mrs. Snodgrass while her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Heeter is away, and by Miss Ruth Abel. Those present were Mrs. Mattie Henry, W. H. Davis, Charles Lee, John Mendenhall, W. C.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer
BECAUSE of budgets that had to be stretched in troubled times to make them go farther and farther, a good many of us have become better buyers. We know more about food values and are keener judges of the foods we find in market. In the kitchen, too, we have learned some new tricks—we realize the importance of garnishing and we appreciate as did our grandmothers, the charm of simple, well-cooked meals.

In order to guard against unbalanced meals on a budget, a guide has been worked out that can be used as a measuring stick. According to this plan the food budget is divided into fifths, allowing one fifth or MORE for milk and cheese; one-fifth, MORE or LESS, for vegetables and fruits; one-fifth or LESS for meat, fish and eggs; one-fifth or MORE for bread and cereals; one-fifth or LESS for fats and sugars and other groceries.

When you buy foods, use the recommended budget. Keep accounts, buy in large quantities whenever possible, buy foods in season and read labels and compare food costs.

Plan Meals in Advance
Plan meals in advance. Use a guide to be sure of beautiful, well-balanced meals. Make full use of inexpensive food materials. Serve a few things well-cooked rather than a great many, carelessly prepared. Make the most of left-overs. If the same foods must be used repeatedly, vary them by serving in different ways. Use only tested recipes. Learn to cook the cheaper foods well. Save fuel. As soon as the food you may be cooking reaches the boiling point, reduce heat and use just enough to keep the food boiling. When the oven is on, bake as many things as it will hold. Use closely covered cooking utensils, thus conserving heat. For these temperatures, we can feature salads, sandwiches and fresh vegetable plates. In our salads and sandwiches we can use the same inexpensive foods in new combinations and in our vegetable plates we can make the most of the market offerings.

Roast Lamb Salad
One cup cold roast lamb diced, 3-4 cup diced cooked potatoes, 1-2 cups cooked peas, 1-4 cup diced raw carrots, 1-2 cup diced celery, 1-2 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, few grains white pepper, 1-8 teaspoon paprika, few drops onion juice, 1-4 cup diced pineapple (optional).

Add vinegar, salt, pepper, paprika and onion juice to mayonnaise. Combine vegetables and add prepared mayonnaise. Let stand, closely covered, in refrigerator for an hour or longer. Add lamb and mix lightly. If you use the pineapple add it with the meat. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Jellied meat salads are another possibility that can be developed almost indefinitely.

Mother Advised Ailing Daughter To Take CARDUI

Many, many women have taken Cardui on the advice of their mothers who had been helped by it. "I would have severe cramping spells," writes Mrs. F. C. Allen, of Smithdale, Miss. "I would get nauseated, and feel faint and would have to go to bed. I would be very nervous for two or three days. I was afraid to go away from home, for fear I would faint and fall. My mother, having used Cardui with good results, advised me to try it.

"I am so glad I took Cardui and got relief, for it has done wonders for me." If you suffer this way, send to the drug store for a bottle of Cardui and begin taking it today. Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Just a Pair of Sandlot Veterans

President Roosevelt returned to scenes of his boyhood triumphs when he watched the Robin Hood sandlot team, on which he played nearly 30 years ago, battle with the Columbiaville baseball team at Hyde Park, N. Y. He is pictured chatting with Arthur Groff, now manager of the nine, one of his old teammates.

BASEBALL'S blundering bosses have given the all-star game back to the fans, but with reservations. The major leagues broke faith with the public and press in previous inter-league all-star games, and they won't be given an opportunity to do it again in a hurry. Commissioner Landis and Presidents Harridge and Frick of the American and National Leagues continue to deny the customers one day and one contest in the season that they can call their own. They have decided that the patrons can elect 16 of the 21 members of each of the clubs which are to collide in the Boston Bee Hive on July 7. Managers Mickey Cochrane and Grimm each is to pick five athletes for the array he leads. The sort-sighted directors of the big leagues evidently consider this a great concession on their part, although just why they refuse to let those who pay the freight have their fun is a mystery to showmen in every other line. Why not let the fans select all the players and the manager, too? And again the bigwigs have failed to make it mandatory for the managers to play the players named by the fans. This has been the customers' biggest complaint since the all-star game's inception in 1933.

THE baseball moguls made the concession only because they realize that perhaps it isn't such a bad idea to have 125 newspapers and all agencies gather 800,000 votes, as was the case when the contest was played at the Polo Grounds in 1934. Because the managers paid little or no attention to the voice of the trade the two previous summers, newspapers last year were less interested in conducting campaigns and the fan lost his yerve for balloting. In effect, baseball put the chill on for its following, and its following didn't care to butt in where it wasn't wanted. It was plain that all baseball wanted from its patrons was what they paid at the gate. Its refusal to let the fans have a hand in the pic resulted in the loss to professional baseball of columns and columns of free advertising and an incomputable amount of good will. JUST how much of this professional baseball can regain by its current half-hearted gesture is problematical. Certainly the same newspapers which tried to be helpful before scarcely can be expected to steam up another of the polls, when the results of previous ones have been meaningless. Surely, the fans hardly can be expected to rush to ballot boxes with votes for favored "whim" experience has taught them that election is no assurance that they will have places in the lineup.

The all-star game was suggested by the publisher of a baseball magazine and the first one in 1933 was sponsored by a Chicago newspaper as an added attraction for the Century of Progress Exposition. The newspaper, wishing to make it a fan's game, conducted an elaborate poll at considerable expense. The managers paid little attention to the results of this poll. They paid less attention to a poll that became nation-wide in 1934 and none at all last July.

WASHINGTON—Conflicting and fragmentary reports of developments in the labor field have tended to blur the important fact that John L. Lewis and his Committee for Industrial Organization are marching rapidly along in their campaign for mass organization of workers into industrial unions. Some labor leaders predict a summer of organization as big as that which attended creation of NRA. Meanwhile, President William Green and the craft union hierarchy of the A. F. of L., at bitter war with the C. I. O., have sustained a succession of defeats. The most sensational move came in recent private conferences, when representatives of the Lewis group told pro-Green executives of the steel workers' union that if they continued to stall, following the union convention's stand for an industrial union organization drive, the C. I. O. would go ahead, anyway, with its proposed $500,000 steel organization campaign. That simply meant a threat to sweep the union right out from under its old line executives, which would be by far the toughest move in the Lewis-Green battle thus far. THE steel union (Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers) held its convention at Canonsburg, Pa. Delegates proved to be almost unanimous for industrial unionism. Faced with a vague offer of organization aid from Green and a definite offer from Lewis, they voted for an organization cam-paid along industrial lines, to be launched by a joint committee of such contributing international unions as would agree to waive all claims of jurisdiction in the steel industry and accept the jurisdiction of the Amalgamated. Since craft unions which make claims for organized steel workers were believed unwilling to give such waivers, the way seemed left open for a joint drive by the Amalgamated and the nine unions of the C. I. O. When the steel union's executive board, led by President Mike Tighe and Secretary "Shorty" Leonard, indicated a disposition to dally, Lewis sent Director John Brophy of C. I. O. and Vice President Phil Murray of the mine workers to force a meeting and deliver the ultimatum. ANOTHER C. I. O. drive will be made to organize automobile workers. This probably will proceed faster than the steel drive when it gets started, which means that the first big test of a new industrial union's strength is likely to come in the Michigan area. The automobile industry, as is true of steel, is well organized only on the fringes. The most important feature of the United Automobile Workers' meeting at South Bend, Ind., was a complete repudiation of the representatives and desires of Green. Almost unanimous hostility was exhibited toward Francis J. Dillon, imposed last year by Green as the union's president. The union voted for industrial unionism and for a vigorous fight at the next A. F. of L. convention to prevent craft unions from raiding its ranks. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Race Shows More Than One Record Broken Recently

When technicians and research engineers had completed their checkup of the results of the Indianapolis motor car race of last Saturday, they found that more than one record had been broken. Louis Meyer established a new track record at 109 miles per hour and was the first man to chalk up three victories in this international speedway event. The next four cars to finish also broke the track record, established the previous year of more than 100 miles per hour. But what was of even greater importance to every motor car owner was the records of the performance of the cars. Tire safety and endurance and fuel economy were again demonstrated to be the outstanding benefits that will accrue to the average motorist from this supreme test of the stamina of automobile equipment. No better demonstration of the reasons justifying the confidence which these expert judges of motor car equipment place in Firestone tires could be given than the results of this race. Tearing along over the burning, rough brick track at speed, sometimes exceeding 120 miles an hour, Meyer and the other nine drivers to finish within the prize money, gave these tires much greater punishment than they could ever receive in many thousand miles of ordinary service without them showing any sign of failure. In fact, the same tires that took part in this grueling contest will be used again by many of the drivers in other races this year. Engineers say this annual speed test has contributed much to the peace of mind of the motor car owner as regards his tires for ordinary driving. Information and improvements made possible by study of tire performance under such grueling punishment and burning speeds has brought about developments that give the greatest protection against blowout and complete safety under all driving conditions. There was a time at Indianapolis when the tire performance was a great problem with the drivers. But for more than a decade, since Firestone developed Gum Dipping and the Balloon tire, race drivers have dismissed tire trouble as a subject to worry about. For many years now, not one of the cars using Firestone tires at Indianapolis has lost a second of time on account of tire difficulty. Drivers give full credit for the new records in speed and fewer accidents to Firestone tire developments. With the question of tire safety no longer a factor, drivers say their confidence and freedom from worry has greatly improved their driving ability and opportunities.

Robert W. Service Prefers to Let "Dan McGrew" Do Dying

SANTA BARBARA, Cal.—That vast audience which finds voice in "letters to the editor," is sometimes wrong. It was when it resorted to the death of Robert W. Service, the two-fisted author of "Dan McGrew" and other poems. George W. Lynn, managing editor of the Santa Barbara News-Press, had to call on Service himself to prove that it was the public, not the editor, who was wrong. It happened when Lynn in a weekly column referred to Service as the "greatest living poet." The editor promptly was deluged with a flood of letters, chiding him for "forgetting" that the poet was long since dead. Lynn was a bit startled by this mass of rebuttal, half-convinced that his memory might have slipped. Nevertheless he started writing letters to Service, in care of every major publishing company in America and Canada. All the letters were returned unopened. The editor eventually found his first tangible clue that the poet still was alive when it suggested he direct his letters to Europe. Before long, a letter came back from Service, written from Monte Carlo. The letter read: "Dear Mr. Lynn: Many thanks for your kind letter and the cuttings which gave me great pleasure. I feel about 'Dan McGrew' much as my friend Kipling felt about Gunga Din, when he said that it was a pity the man who shot Gunga Din did not also shoot its author. "I wrote it in three evenings to recite at a smoking concert, for in my youth, I used to be that for of social nuisance—a reciter. However, I never did it, nor head it done; but I believe others have though the inebriety angle is a

"I live largely in the open air, swim, tramp, ride a motor bike, play the accordion, compose and sing my own songs and generally to amuse myself. I think that's all. "With kind regards, cordially yours, Robert W. Service." "Eight-foot-four Alton, Ill., youth has stopped growing." A lesson to boys who smoke cigars.

Ranger Furniture Exchange Has Big Electrolux Stock

The Ranger Furniture Exchange now has a complete line of both gas and kerosene Electroluxes, the silent refrigerator that produces refrigeration from a tiny flame.

The kerosene refrigerators are especially designed for the rural areas, where gas is not available, but where rural communities have gas the regular models can be used to advantage.

The Electrolux differs from all other refrigerators in that it is almost miraculously simple in its operation. A tiny gas flame, "the flame that freezes" takes the place of all moving parts, circulating a simple refrigerant which produces constant cold without force of friction. That is why it is quiet.

The newest models are now on display at the Ranger Furniture Exchange.

Old Pine Canoe is Found by Scouts

DAYTON, Texas.—While on a camping trip recently, the Dayton Boy Scout troop found an old pine canoe buried in the sand of the San Jacinto river.

Len White, negro, who says he is almost 100 years old, recalled such canoes were used in this section of South Texas when he was a boy.

S. Wilburn, Dayton scoutmaster, said the canoe was approximately 100 years old and was hewn with stone axes. Over-all length of the craft is 14 feet 10 inches. It is almost two feet deep and is more than three feet wide.

Wilburn said the canoe had been well preserved by the sand and water.

McDonald Getting Encouragement On His Southern Trip

Back home after a two weeks' swing into South Texas, W. H. (Bill) McDonald of Eastland declared Tuesday that he had met with "wonderful encouragement" everywhere in connection with his candidacy for state land commissioner.

"For instance, in San Antonio, one of the leading political figures there told me that he had never seen a candidate for any state office have his campaign in such excellent shape this early in that important city as my race is," McDonald stated.

On the day that the state democratic convention was held in the Alamo city, the Eastland countian was busy meeting big and little leaders from all parts of Texas and in 15 hours of steady campaigning handed out 1,000 cards, one at a time.

"I'm still meeting lots of former Oil Belt citizens everywhere I go and almost without exception they declare they will roll up their sleeves and go to work to help me win this race," McDonald continued.

He mentioned seeing Ernest L. (Tubby) Thompson, star player on the state championship Breckenridge Buckaroo eleven in 1929. Young Thompson is now in business with his father, J. E. Thompson, former Breckenridge banker.

H. L. Mobley, who formerly operated the Mobley hotel in Cisco, has charge of tax matters for the American National Insurance company and Moody interests in Galveston. Chapman Williamson, formerly of Cisco, is assistant manager of the magnificent Buccaneer hotel on the beach at Galveston. Mrs. Winnie Tichenor, former Ciscoan, is cashier at the Buccaneer. Owen Barker, former Cisco attorney, is one of the leading members of the Galveston bar and former district attorney.

W. W. Hooserwright, whom McDonald saw in Houston, is head of the San Benito Bank & Trust company, which has over $1,000,000 in deposits. Housewright six or eight years ago was a Ranger banker.

Clayton Orr, former Cisco attorney who now lives in Fort Worth, was in Houston while the candidate was there. Orr was appearing in a million-dollar oil suit in federal court.

In San Antonio, there is a large number of former Eastland Countians—Sun K. Wasaff (who used to live in Ranger), president and general attorney for the American-Syrian association of America; Judge Joe Burkett, former Eastland official; Dr. M. C. Van de Venter, formerly of Eastland; Dude Campbell, (at one time in the furniture business in Eastland); general agent for electrical products; Newt H. White (formerly of Cisco), head of a real estate company; former Business Manager Reed of Randolph College, Cisco, and former Senator Jeff Strickland. Former Mayor P. C. Sanders of Strawn now lives in San Antonio.

Former Eastland countians seen in Austin included Quincy Lee (Cisco), with Braniff Airlines; Miss Elizabeth Davenport (Eastland) and Miss Francis Cotton (Eastland), with State Comptroller's department, and Bert Bollinger (Ranger), chief clerk, fish, game and oyster commission.

Starving Islanders Get Food From The Coast Guard

HONOLULU.—The 175 inhabitants of lonely Swain Island, 200 miles north of Pago Pago, Samoa, probably owe their lives today to the U. S. coast guard cutter Itasca.

Returning here from a two months' sweep of the South Seas, principally on an aviation survey, the Itasca's Commander Fraser Brown revealed the vessel landed rations and supplies on the island, where the population was found to be virtually without food following a hurricane.

It was the first time in the history of the South Seas that a U. S. coast guard vessel performed such relief service.

Procedure For Handling Bonds Sent Postmasters

DALLAS.—Full instructions regarding procedure to be followed in handling bonus bonds and in making payments to World War veterans for their bonds have been sent to Texas postmasters by the postoffice department in Washington.

The bonds will be sent to the veterans by registered mail, on June 15, and will be marked, "Deliver to Addressee Only." Carriers have been instructed to use all possible precaution to obtain the proper identification of the addressee, such as having someone in the neighborhood identify him. The recipient will have to sign a registry receipt.

Bonds are cashable on and after June 15. Only the veteran owning the bonds may present them for payment. He must sign an indorsement on the back exactly as his name appears on the face of the bonds. The veteran will be required to furnish proper identification to the post office employe, who will then certify each bond by signing his name and title.

The postoffice employe will issue an interim receipt to the veteran, listing the serial number of each bond presented for payment. The postal employe will be held responsible for proper identification of the veteran presenting the bonds for payment. For use in exceptional cases, a space for fingerprint is provided on each bond.

In the event that a veteran has died or become incompetent, his survivors or family should write to the Division of Lions and Currency, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., for information as to how the bonds may be cashed.

Postmasters have made special arrangements to take the indorsements of veterans who are ill or who are so physically incapacitated as to be unable to go in person to the post office to turn in the bonds. Designated clerks will be sent to a veteran's home or to a hospital to receive his indorsement.

Checks in payment of the bonds will be drawn on the Treasury department by designated postoffice employes and then will be mailed to the veterans.

The bonds will be mailed by the Treasury department on June 15 from 12 postoffices, including Dallas, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, San Francisco and Washington.

TOLEDO.—Reports of barking brought police to an abandoned basement. There they found hidden several valuable dogs which recently had been stolen.

LONDON.—The seaworm, or Teredo, which has been a scourge to seamen and shipbuilders since the time of Columbus, has been outwitted by science. A poison gas used during the war has been found, when dissolved in creosote, to be a safeguard against the depredations of the seaworm.

Hypnotism Used To Ease Pains In Childbirth, Report

(Copyright 1936 by United Press)

By NORMAN B. DEUEL
United Press Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW. — Applied for the first time in general practice, hypnotic treatment to ease the pain of childbirth has produced phenomenal results in Leningrad and Moscow clinics.

Hypnotism was tested as part of a campaign to minimize the suffering of mothers who bring into the world more than 15,000 babies each day—5,440,000 each year, a birthrate of 32 per thousand for a population of 170,000,000.

In addition to hypnotism, all modern medical methods except those involving the use of morphine preparations or scopolamine have been used to induce 45,000 painless or semi-painless childbirths since Jan. 1.

The goal is 400,000 such births during 1936. Each will be carefully recorded. On the basis of experience, the best methods will be extended throughout the Soviet union. All methods combined produced absolute success in between 30 and 40 per cent of the cases; and satisfactory results in from 35 to 40 per cent. There were no visible results in 20 per cent of the cases.

The medical methods are familiar to physicians throughout the world. Use of hypnotism, however, is an innovation except for isolated experiments. Dr. Vassily Zdravomislav, hypnotic expert of the First Moscow University, one of its most successful practitioners, said his method, outgrowth of 11 years of psychiatric study, is simple. Any physician can do it, he said.

Most of his cases are those of women who because of their physical condition cannot safely be given ordinary medical treatment. He has delivered 90 children by the use of hypnosis since November.

Of these 90, 41 mothers had preliminary hypnotic sessions. Fifty-five per cent of the 90 mothers delivered entirely without pain, 33 per cent were partly successful, and 11 per cent showed very little result.

The commissariat of health recommends from six to ten sessions previous to the birth to assure hypnotic control. The session room of the First Moscow University clinic where Dr. Zdravomislav receives his patients (treatment is free, physicians are paid a base salary of approximately 700 rubles a month) is crowded twice a week.

The mothers are there for preliminary sessions to condition their minds for control.

Dr. Zdravomislav approached six women, their comfortable chairs against one wall of the small room.

He seated himself before the first woman, took her hands, palms down, and held them in her lap. His heavy brows drew down and he fixed his eyes on hers.

"Fall asleep, a deep strong sleep," he intoned steadily.

"A deep, deep sleep. Your eyelids are growing heavier. You can't keep your eyes open any longer. How nice it is to fall asleep, a deep, deep sleep. I shall count to ten, and you will be asleep. One, two, three—"

The woman's eyes closed. At ten dark in your eyes. You are sleeping a quiet sleep.

"All that I am going to say to you in this hypnotic condition acquires a special significance to you, and all will be as I wish.

"You know that birth is a normal physiological act which has to pass normally. You'll feel the first spasms so as not to miss the beginning of the delivery and come to the hospital in time.

"But they won't be painful. They'll even be pleasant. Yes, yes, yes, they'll even be pleasant. Your delivery will be painless even in my absence. Every night until your delivery you are going to sleep a good, peaceful sleep. And when I wake you now you are going to wake with a holiday feeling and you'll have a happy child. You must remember that a child will be happy if it was given birth with a smile.

"After I waken you, all will be as I said. I shall count ten and you your child with a smile, because you are going to give birth to will awaken."

Rejected Laws Have Left Their Marks

The founding fathers thought of a great many things when they sat down to put together the United States constitution, but it is not at all likely that they ever guessed how neatly their descendants would work out a means for riding through emergencies on unconstitutional laws.

Judging by the experience of the last few years, this system is working so beautifully that it is hard to see why anyone has the slightest desire to amend the immortal document.

Consider, for instance, three of the principal emergencies that confronted the New Deal. All were met by unconstitutional means. In each case, the unconstitutional legislation served a highly useful purpose and helped the country through the emergency; and in each case the supreme court did its work, after the emergency had passed, and restored the status quo.

There was, first of all, the great industrial collapse and the feeling of utter despair which it had created in the public mind. Congress put through the NRA as a remedy; and although this famous set-up eventually died unwept and friendless, it did us a great service during the summer and fall of 1933. It did set some wheels going again, it did boost a few wages, and—most important of all—it ended the widespread feeling that the government was helpless in the face of a nation-wide catastrophe.

When these things had been done and the emergency had passed, the NRA quietly fell apart, and life had pretty well departed when the supreme court administered the coup de grace. But for a time—about six months—it was exceedingly useful as a means of meeting an emergency.

The case of the AAA was somewhat similar. Here, again, there was a dire emergency and a widespread feeling of despair to cope with; and here, again, a complicated law got us safely through the worst of the trouble, relieved a good deal of financial distress, and restored confidence. In due course the emergency ceased to exist, shortly thereafter the AAA also ceased to exist, and practically everyone was happy.

Lastly, we have—or had—the Guffey act. This lamented law was born with two strikes on it and died after a short, sickly infancy. But it did save the country from a nation-wide strike in the bituminous coal fields. That strike was worth missing, even if a few of the American eagle's tail feathers did get a bit ruffled.

Who said American inventiveness was dead?

Tientsin Hails "Lifting Of Lid" Road Diversions Cost Farmers of The U. S. Millions

TIENSIN.—Tientsin is going to be wide-open under the new administration of Mayor Hsiao Chen-ying, politician extraordinary.

Under the previous "moral mayors," the Chinese areas in the "Pearl of the Haiho" were subdued, and opium dens, gambling halls, brothels, and such places were crowded into the foreign concessions, particularly the Japanese concession.

It was not long after Mayor Hsiao took office that he made his policy clear to all concerned. He called department heads and police officials to a general meeting and said:

"The foreigners in Tientsin have their race meetings, sweepstakes, lotteries and other forms of gambling; why shouldn't we? Let us permit these places to open and collect a stiff license fee from them.

"The foreign concessions are filled with dance halls, cabarets, sing-song houses and other places of amusement; why should we attempt to bar them? Let them open and run peacefully. Policemen, stop annoying them and stop squeezing money from them. They will pay the municipality a regular license fee.

"Let's get busy and permit the opening of opium establishments under license and regulation. Register all opium smokers and make them pay a fee also."

The new mayor ordered the removal of all police inspectors who have been stationed at the railway stations to watch for opium smugglers. Fifty opium stores were licensed immediately. The clanging of symbols and whining of flutes mingled with the songs of the singing girls, is heard all through the native city.

"I want to see Tientsin a livelier and more agreeable place in which to live," Mayor Hsiao said. "My policy is frank, open and honest. In previous administrations, opium dens, brothels and gambling halls also operated, but they paid squeeze on the side, not a regularized license fee, and there was no control over them."

To a group of Chinese newspaper men whom he dined, Mayor Hsiao said: "I intend to get as much money as possible from the people who want these things and to use the money to build roads, bridges and schools, and to fight the Japanese. I don't care what the Japanese and foreigners think of me."

When Mayor Hsiao took office, students paraded the streets crying, "Down with Hsiao Chen-ying, the traitor."

The Japanese military spokesman, asked his opinion of the new mayor, replied:

"Hsiao is a clever politician. He is always promoting and organizing something. He'll get along."

'Bill' McDonald Makes His First Campaign Speech

SAN MARCOS, May 30.—"The office of state land commissioner belongs to the people and I object to any efforts toward a self-perpetuating dynasty whereby the present commissioner, retiring after being in office since 1899, seeks to hand the position on a silver platter to a deputy who has been on the public payroll since 1903," said W. H. (Bill) McDonald of Eastland county Saturday here in the first speech in his race for state land commissioner.

He charged that his opponent has entered the campaign without resigning from "a fat appointive position."

"My opponent should resign at once or withdraw from the race," McDonald declared. "He should not expect the people of Texas to pay for his campaign."

The speaker vigorously criticized the recent proposal of the state land commissioner to use convicts to drill for oil on thousands of acres of state land.

"There are hundreds of oil field workers who are having a difficult time making a living and, if there is any drilling to be done, it should be given to these industrious, law-abiding citizens. The workers of Texas are going to resent this effort to drive tax-paying citizens out of employment and I am receiving assurances of support from labor in all parts of the state."

Pointing out that he is 36, a World War veteran and an attorney, McDonald declared he was old enough to be experienced but young enough to be energetic, "and I pledge a business administration that will be fair to the interests of all and yet will add thousands of dollars a day to the fund belonging to the school children of Texas."

Expert Solves Three Riddles of Easter Island

HONOLULU.—The three great "mysteries" of Easter Island are no riddle to Dr. Alfred Métraux, French ethnologist, who has joined the staff of the Bishop museum here.

Although Métraux first went to Easter Island as a representative of the Paris Museum of Ethnology, he transferred his services to the museum here because of his conviction that only long residence in the Pacific would make it possible to solve all of the problems of the origin of the Polynesians and various tribes of the Pacific.

As regards the colossal statues on the seashore at Easter Island, Dr. Métraux declares there should be no mystery whatsoever. The statues, he points out, weigh only five or six tons.

He insists they could have been carved in the inland quarries from which the stone originated and dragged to their present position by natives. Four hundred men could drag them with ropes of native weaving, he says.

The second "mystery" which he has deflated is that the inhabitants of Easter Island are the remnants of the population of a lost continent. He identifies them as being merely related to the Maori of New Zealand and calculates they came to the island in the 12th century.

Finally, the third "mystery" of script on wooden tables found on the island is explained by Dr. Métraux who insists that it is not a true written language but rather a device to aid the memory of the natives in reciting sacred legends.

WORLD FAMOUS DRIVERS KNOW ONLY ONE TIRE IS Safe! Firestone

GUM-DIPPED TIRES WIN INDIANAPOLIS 500 MILE RACE

Last Saturday Louis Meyer broke the track record, at 109 miles per hour, driving the entire race without tire trouble of any kind. He is the only driver ever to win the race three times, and has always used Firestone tires.

No tires except Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires could have resisted the terrific heat generated at such high sustained speeds on the hot brick track, lap after lap, hour after hour. You can have no greater proof of blowout protection.

Not one of the thirty-three drivers would risk his life on any other tire, for each driver knows that heat is the chief cause of tire failure and blowouts. Firestone cords are soaked in liquid rubber, which saturates and coats every cotton fiber, preventing friction and heat and adding great strength. This is the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping, that gives you greatest blowout protection and safety.

Profit by the experience of race drivers. Equip your car today with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—it costs so little to protect lives worth so much.

Just knowing the ingredients of an Angel Food cake doesn't enable a woman to bake a good one — for the MIXING is so important. Perhaps you haven't realized that prescriptions, unlike recipes, usually give the ingredients only, and leave it to the pharmacist to know how to combine them properly.

With many prescriptions, as with an Angel Food cake recipe, this knowledge of HOW to combine the ingredients is vital.

Legionnaires and the Story of Their World War Experiences

Private W. H. Bollinger on July 20, 1918, while at Hempstead, New York, just prior to going overseas.

WILLIAM HARLEY BOLLINGER

This is the fourteenth of a series of biographies covering the World War experiences of veterans of Carl Barnes Post No. 69 of the American Legion of Ranger, as written by R. H. Peacock, Legion Commander of Ranger.

Private W. H. Bollinger of Battery B, 133rd Field Artillery, Thirty-Sixth Division, during his youthful experiences back in these historic days of 1917 and 1918. "It was while at Duradon," stated Bollinger as he began to recount, "that I took advantage of an opportunity to see the once gay city of Paris."

The old veteran hobbled on his way, and the desire for action, from that time forward, according to Bollinger, was not quite so acute.

As a mere youth of 18 years, young Bollinger enlisted on June 27, 1917, as a private in Battery B, 133rd Field Artillery of the Texas National Guard. This was in the city of Dallas, Texas, and the men of the outfit soon found themselves encamped in the livestock buildings that then composed a portion of the State Fair Grounds.

On October 1, 1917, Battery B, together with Private Bollinger, was transferred to Camp Bowie where it became a unit of the Thirty-Sixth Division. It was here that the outfit began its intensive training program preparatory for overseas service.

Christmas, 1917, was a joyous occasion for most of the boys in the outfit, who were fortunate in going home for the holidays, but not so for Bollinger. It happened to fall to his lot to be detailed with thirteen other of his buddies of the battery to remain in Camp Bowie and attend the 45 horses left in their care.

But the routine of training passed quickly for Bollinger and the boys of his outfit. They soon found themselves on August 31, 1918, embarking at Long Island for service somewhere in France. Seven transports together with seven escorts formed the convoy that was to run the submarine gauntlet of the enemy.

Six days for the battery in the rest camp at Brest was spent in a most unique manner. Unloading supply barges at night and working on the roads during the day was anything but rest for the boys. Shortly, however, the 133rd entrained for the little inland town of Aversae, where it remained for about two months.

And not unlike the thousands of others, the big moment of Private Bollinger's career came when the sirens of peace made that eventful announcement on November 11. Everyone, from the privates to the colonel, were in hilarious celebration.

"Only old men, casuals, and women were to be found in this great city," stated Bollinger, "for all of the men, even including the younger ones, were in the army." Ten weeks of training in the transport school, however, brought recognition in the form of a first class driver's license from the French Government.

Although no front line or hand-to-hand fighting marked the service record of this soldier, the experience of having served for twenty-one months in the army of his country before he reached his maturity placed an indelible stamp on his then still young life.

But the old job at Mulford & Company was beckoning to him. After working a year or so with this firm, Bollinger resigned, went to Anahuac, Texas, and shortly thereafter went to Ranger where he had heard about the oil boom.

Mr. Bollinger on July 7, 1931, became married to Miss Vera Mitchell, and to their union, one child, Billie Ray, age 4, was born. Mr. Bollinger's particular interest lies in the responsible position which he now holds.

ZIONCHECK IN HOSPITAL FOR OBSERVATION WASHINGTON, June 1—Police today arrested a struggling, cursing Representative Marion Zioncheck, Democrat, Washington, at Naval Medical Center, on a lunacy warrant, and took him to Gallinger Municipal hospital for mental observation. The warrant, which was signed by Al Stump, the sanity officer of the police department, charged the playboy legislator with driving "his auto in a reckless manner, annoying citizens."
