Rains Add Misery To Homeless

By William C. Fayette
United Press Staff Correspondent
QUITO, Ecuador, Aug 9 (UP) —Drenching rains have added to the misery of 125,000 homeless victims in the Ambato earthquake area 70 miles south and tents are urgently needed, reports from the stricken city said today.

Homeless victims of last Friday's disastrous quake are seeking shelter from the rain under trees and fallen roofs, these reports said. Thousands are huddled in public squares, waiting for help to come.

"We have no shelter left for the people," said an urgent plea from Mother Aulestia and six Catholic sisters in Ambato. "We supplicate you to send us tents, perhaps from the United States."

Reports reaching here said the stench of decomposing bodies buried deep in the rubble was spreading across the devastated area.

President Galo Plaza Lasso said rescue workers would try for a few more days to recover bodies nearer the surface. Then, he said, bulldozers will be put to work to cover both rubble and bodies.

The biggest problem now is housing, the president said. "We need tents and temporary shelters," he said. "Aid from the United States and Columbia already is arriving."

The president said the Ecuadorean Treasury had been authorized to issue funds for rescue work and that a special fund had been established to coordinate donations.

Anticipating the possibility of floods from the rain, the president said all refugees had been evacuated from the lowlands.

The Pan-American Highway and the railroad running through Ambato remained blocked by landslides and rubble. A shuttle lift organized by the government remained the only avenue of help for the disaster area.

American Military Commanders in the area offered their full help to the Ecuadorean government.

The big C-47 cargo planes from American Bases in the Panama Zone joined the airlift to Ambato after bringing in six tons of medical supplies.

Annual Payroll Of Coca Cola $75,000 Here

James Murphy, employed by the Eastland Coca Cola Bottling Company, in an address to the Rotary Club Monday noon revealed the firm has a local payroll amounting to approximately $75,000 annually with an additional $135,000 profits realized by dealers handling the soft drink. A total of 30 employees, exclusive of office personnel, are employed in the Eastland manufacturing plant and warehouse at Stephenville.

The speaker outlined the history of Coca Cola, which was discovered during the revolutionary war. Growth of the company to world wide scope was cited, and contents of a bottle of the carbonated drink were discussed.

Guests included Victor C. Yates and Willard White, both of Cisco. President W. K. Cowan presided for the business session.

Assault Charges For Therrell

GROESBECK, Aug. 9 (UP)—Former Mayor Allen Therrell was under indictment for aggravated assault today in the July 28 beating of District Judge Fountain Kirby.

A Limestone County Grand Jury yesterday refused to indict him on the lesser charge.

District Attorney Norton Fox said hearing of the case probably would be set for Aug. 17 in County Court.

Judge Kirby, just released from a hospital, appeared before the grand jury yesterday to give his account of the beating, by which the sight of one of his eyes was impaired. He conferred with the investigators 15 minutes.

The grand jury probe had been postponed a week so that the Judge could appear.

He was severely beaten about 9 P. M. July 28 as he walked home from a late session court. He blamed the fact that he had issued a writ of habeas corpus for a prisoner committed to the city.

'NEEDED FOR PROJECTS' COMMUNITY

A resolution endorsing a proposed Inter-Club Council for Eastland was adopted by the Eastland Rotary Club in a Board of Directors meeting Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the office of President Kenneth W. Cowan.

The Rotary directors voted unanimously for the resolution favoring organization of an Inter-Club Council, composed of delegates representing various local civic and service clubs, to work in close cooperation on projects to large for one group to handle alone.

Guest of the directors was a Bob Moore, editor of the Eastland Daily Telegram, who is sponsoring the proposed Inter-Club Council through his column "Going Forward With Eastland".

The Rotary Club, through the resolution, pledged itself to participate in event such a Council is formulated and declared such an organization is needed in the community.

In attendance at the meeting were: Dr. Cowan, Jim Horton, Earle Bender, David McKee and George I. Lane.

An inter-club meeting of Ranger, Cisco and Eastland Rotary Clubs was discussed. It was decided the local club will be hosts for the affair to be held in September. Horton was named to head an arrangements committee. Other clubs in the Central Texas area will be invited to attend.

The program will be provided by the Ranger, Cisco and Eastland clubs.

The club decided to sponsor a jersey heifer dairy program for 4-H Club boys of Eastland County. Lane was named to lead the committee in charge. Modeled after the Johnson County program, heifers are sponsored by individuals and business firms and given to youths to raise. A number of calves are given to form a pool to keep the program in operation through succeeding years.

Other plans of the club included a movie, as well as a flag and Rotary bunting to be placed in the meeting room at the Connelley Hotel. President Cowan donated a speaker's stand and emblem.

The president announced that a report was expected soon from the youth committee in a survey to determine recreational needs of Eastland young people. Following the survey report, Rotarians will start on the youth program, which is the club's principal project for the year.

2 Inch Rain In Eastland

Eastland had received two inches of moisture up to this morning in a rainfall that started Sunday afternoon, according to J. A. Beard, weather observer.

In a "flash" thunder and rain storm Monday afternoon the home of Mrs. Mary Loper, corner of Halbryan and Hill Streets, was struck by lightning, causing slight damage to the exterior of the building.

Moisture was general in the area with Olden receiving 1.80; Leon Power Plant, 1.70; and Flat Wood, approximately 1.50 inches.

Unusual for this time of the year, the moisture will be especially beneficial to the peanut crop, which will soon be ready for harvesting. The water level in Lake Eastland was also raised by the deluge. Cooler temperatures also prevail.

Midnight Gold Fish Murrader Proves To Be Fat Raccoon

The gold fish at Poe's Floral Shop can swim peacefully now without fear of a midnight murrader in the form of a raccoon that had been dealing them plenty of misery for the past three weeks.

J. C. Poe, owner, noticed the gold fish were dwindling in number and decided that something had to be done about it. Upon initial inspection, he found animal tracks around the large fish bowl but was unable to determine what kind of animal made them.

Customers were quizzed about the tracks, with some saying they were left by a raccoon and others something else.

After weeks of plugging all cracks and checking the doors, with gold fish continuing to disappear each night, Poe decided to take drastic steps. He set a trap Friday night which netted a raccoon, fat and sassy from a steady diet of gold fish,

Poe breathed a sigh of relief—not only from eliminating the menace to the gold fish, but in not snaring one of those striped animals called a skunk.

Man Risk Life To Save Girl

BOWIE, Tex., Aug. 9 (UP)—A Wichita Falls railroad man risked his life yesterday to pull an 11 year old girl from the path of an oncoming locomotive.

H. F. Coffman, a brakeman and conductor for the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad, saw little Joan Gill ride her bicycle in front of an approaching switch engine. He shouted a warning, but she apparently did not hear him.

Then he snatched her from her bicycle as the draw bar on the locomotive brushed his arm. The bicycle was demolished.

But Coffman and the little girl were unharmed.

So-o-o GOOD

Caught in a moment of perfect contentment, one of 850 children at the famed "Child City"—Mooseheart, Illinois—maintained by Loyal Order of Moose, shows the rest of the world how to keep cool and relaxed. He also knows that one delightful way to get more milk in his daily servings of food is to eat ice cream more frequently. According to the National Dairy Council, Chicago, ice cream has, for young and old alike, basic food elements to make strong bones and teeth, to develop healthy skin and eyes, and to build and maintain healthy muscles, tissues and nerves.

Rutledge, Jr. To Serve Long Term

FORT MADISON, Ia., Aug. 9 (UP)—Dr. Robert C. Rutledge Jr., 28, started serving a 70 year sentence as inmate No. 21770 of the state prison here today for murdering his blonde wife's seducer.

The St. Louis baby specialist was in the gray, blue striped garb of a prisoner a little more than three hours after District Judge J. E. Heiserman sentenced him yesterday in Cedar Rapids.

A jury found him guilty on May 28 of the second degree murder of Byron C. Hattman, 29, St. Louis.

Rutledge was accused of tracking Hattman to a Cedar Rapids hotel room and stabbing him to death in a bruising fight last December. The fight grew out of Hattman's seduction of Rutledge's wife, Sydney, 23.

Rutledge's father, Dr. Robert C. R. Rutledge Sr., Houston, Tex., has said he will appeal to the Iowa Supreme Court for a new trial for his son. Heiserman refused last week to grant one. Heiserman set an appeal bond at $40,000 and gave defense lawyers 60 days to file the necessary papers.

Man Attacks Parking Meter

CLEBUNE, Aug. 9 (UP)—A Cleburne man worked out a $25 fine today, assessed after he attacked a parking meter with his fists.

Officers said he was enraged when he inserted a nickel in the meter slot and the red flag signifying overtime parking, failed to fall.

The recently-installed meter was loosened from its moorings by several lusty blows, officers said.

Mrs. Mabel Fisher, 25 suffered severe face and body bruises, and was released after hospital treatment. She said she was talking with a neighbor at a roadside near her home last night when the car, without headlights, struck her.

Montana Blaze Still Strong

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 9 (UP) — Disastrous forest fires roared out of control in Montana and Idaho today as more than 1,000 weary men battled without rest to check them. A dozen blazes in the two states have destroyed over 12,000 acres of valuable timberland. One killed 13 firefighters over the weekend. But it, a roaring inferno in the gates of the mountain area of Montana, was eclipsed today by another in Idaho's Payette National Forest. Slim Vassar, a dispatcher stationed at McCall, Ida., said the Payette blaze was "spreading rapidly" after destroying 4,200 acres. Vassar reported that the Payette blaze had inflicted a few casualties on firefighters but that injuries appeared minor. The gates of the mountain blaze has consumed 6,000 acres of forest and may take another two days to bring under control, A. D. Moir, supervisor of the Helena National Forest said. Flames from the Payette forest fire sent smoke 11,000 feet in the air, Dave Johnson of the Idaho statesman said after flying over it. Officers investigated reports that Flores and Garcia had argued earlier over a woman who had been seen with Garcia in the Gonzales Bar. She was with Flores when he was arrested. In four of the last six years, potato production in the United States has exceeded 400,000,000 bushels.

Man Killed By A Speeding Car

ALICE, Tex., Aug. 9 (UP) — Jim Wells County officers investigated today another of the establishments which the slain news-caster, W. H. (Bill) Mason, had described as "disreputable". The investigation was of the Gonzales Bar, three miles west of Alice. It followed the Sunday night death of Amando Garcia on the highway near there. Garcia was struck by a speeding car as he walked along the roadway. Eloy Flores, 22, of Alice, was arrested and charged in Garcia's death. North Carolina ranks first in the U. S. in number of lumber and basic products plants.

ZENIA, O. (UP) — Barbara Jean Gibson, 14, hardly can wait until she is 17 years old. She has made two solo airplane flights to become what may be America's youngest girl pilot. However, she cannot get a pilot's license for another three years.

Chief Of Staff Home From Tour

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. (UP) — The chief of staff returned to Washington today after their 10-day on-the-spot survey of the military needs of Western Europe.

The "Independence," president Truman's personal airplane, landed at the military air transport terminal here at 7:32 A. M., EDT., about 20 hours after it left Vienna with the nation's top military leaders aboard.

The European survey of Gen. Omar N. Bradley of the Army, Adm. Louis E. Denfeld of the Navy and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg of the Air Force was designed to expedite the formation of a joint military program for free nations under the Atlantic Pact.

Bradley told newsmen that they discussed the organization with the leading military leaders of Western Europe. He reported a "Frank exchange of views," but said no decisions were reached.

He said that the military leaders of Western Europe were "very pleased" that the American Chiefs of Staff visited them so soon after

Citizens Seek Bus Franchise

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 9. (UP) — A group of San Antonio citizens today sought a franchise to operate a new city bus service.

Their application was filed with the city council yesterday by former City Attorney T. D. Jobb, as reports came of "no progress" toward settlement of the week old strike against San Antonio Transit Company.

Citizens, who declined to name the backers of the new enterprise, said it was coincidental that the application for a franchise was filed while the company already in existence was tied up by a strike.

Cobb said the new company would obtain 150 new buses if the city grants it a franchise and that the equipment would be rolled in "60 to 90 days."

The city council was expected to hear arguments on the application at its Thursday meeting.

Meanwhile, Federal Mediator Walter White said union and management representatives made no progress toward strike settlement in their meeting yesterday.

He said the strike was no nearer settlement than when it began a week ago and no date had been set for another meeting between union and management.

Man Sought For Double Murder

LAREDO, Tex., Aug. 9. (UP) — Laredo authorities had said earlier that they believed Ochoa would surrender voluntarily. But Gallagher said his first job is to find the man.

Mexican officials are "working with us to get Ochoa back to his country," Gallagher said. After he finds Ochoa, he said, "we will use extradition methods or something else to get him back into the United States."

"I intend to make it as hot as I can for him over there," Gallagher said.

Continue Search For Two Soldiers

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9. (UP) — The Coast Guard continued its search today for two soldiers missing on a rubber raft since they went fishing in the ocean Saturday.

Cpl. Paul L. Neely, 34, of Bonham, Tex., rescued by the Steamer China Transport yesterday, said he last saw one of his two companions when the man set out to swim ashore. He had no idea what happened to the third member of the party.

His companions were Sgt. James E. Agee, 29, Brush Creek, Tenn., and Cpl. Howard M. Dunn, 31, Bonifay, Fla.

Neely was found unconscious clinging to the life raft in which they put out from Gaviota Beach, near Santa Barbara, Cal. He recovered consciousness aboard the China Transport and told what little he could recall of his harrowing experience.

"The wind blew us toward Santa Cruz Island, and Sunday one of the fellows tried to swim ashore," he said. "I don't know what ever happened to the other one."

The three men were stationed at the army's disciplinary barracks, Camp Cooke, Cal.

Lawyer Taught Lesson

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Fed up with delays because of tardiness among the lawyers, Judge Thomas M. Marshall announced he would fine any lawyer who failed to give an acceptable excuse for being late. The first victim was Nathan J. Lippard, who paid a $10 fine for appearing in court at 10:35, an hour and five minutes after the appointed hour.

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

THE STORY: Stranded on Speare Island, eight persons, who came to Henry Gough Harding's "New Eden" face a dreary future. George Macomber, the workaholic, has seized the only rifle and has declared himself "king" with Mollie Stark as his queen. The only hope of rescue is from a fishing boat which has been wrecked during the storm. Ben Cosgrove talks to Fred Sillwell who says he wants to be blackmail Harding, and be like the little Warren and the Stimpatic's mate. Ben himself came to the island to arrange the death of his husband, Jim Martin, who killed himself as a result of Harding's activities.

XXXIV
"YOU found the cleaned-up place in the storerooms. You must have missed something else," Fred Sillwell said. "When I had my talk with Harding I told him the gun wasn't mine. I hinted I wasn't satisfied with the woman's death. Maybe I mentioned the fanciful. And what happens? That very night the whole place is blown sky high. Whatever evidence there was is gone. I don't need it. I won't have to make a case stand up in court."

"What'd he say when you told him it wasn't your gun?" Ben Cosgrove asked.

Sillwell scowled again at the memory. "Laughed at me. He sure made me sore. I worked all afternoon piling up driftwood for a bonfire. And then I didn't get a chance to light it."

"Did you see him leave while we were fire fighting?"

"No. You remember how it was. Everyone running around. Maybe I didn't mean the fire to get out of control or maybe there was something else he wanted destroyed."

"You think he'd ruin all the work and planning he's put in on this island?"

"He's got a lot of money left," Sillwell reminded her. "He can build again, if he's free."

"What about the dead man?"

"The fisherman? Probably he was snooping around, saw Harding leave the rifle in the shed

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

XXXV
"YOU told us once about men, and women like Mollie," Ben said thoughtfully. "You told me about your plan of campaign. Are congratulations in order?"

Mabel Jones smiled. "Right now I don't think he cares much for any woman. He did ask me to stay on the island while he went for supplies."

"Are you going to?"

"Maybe you've forgotten why the four of us came in the first place? I haven't. There's nothing on the mainland I want, nothing I can't have here. But whether I stay or not depends on you."

"On me?" Ben asked in surprise.

"Yes. You've got something on your mind. You weren't playing with the fanciful for the fun of it. You don't think Lilly Warren killed herself."

"Do you think she did?"

"I didn't know much about her," Mabel replied, "but I wouldn't have thought she'd be the kind to hurt herself."

"She was drinking," Ben said thoughtfully, "and Harding had told her he wouldn't choose her for his wife."

"A reason, good or not. Why didn't it convince you?"

"Why should she get in the fanciful car to kill herself? Why wasn't there more blood?"

"You think she was shot somewhere else and put in the car?"

"I don't know. And I really don't know how much blood there should be. But—well in all the books I have read about murders, there's always a point made about how much blood there is. So I thought about it and I figured she might have been shot in the tunnel under the main house, and her body sent down. Maybe whoever did it planned to weight her body with rocks and sink it in the cove. A mysterious disappearance."

Mabel Jones smiled. "People with your reading and imagination! You go out of your way to hunt up trouble for yourselves." "Maybe. But you see what it means if it was done like that."

"Oh I see. Anyone of us could have done it. If we'd had the gun."

"Exactly."

"You suspect anybody?"

"Not for sure," Ben said. "I don't have any proof. But there's one thing certain. We didn't have any trouble on Speare Island until those four were shipwrecked. And they knew Lilly from before."

"We've had plenty trouble since then," Mabel agreed. "I'd thought some about asking Nona McGuire to stay on here with me if you others go back. I don't think she's happy. I guess, though, it wouldn't be so good to trust any of them. Why don't you stay with me?"

"Not L." Ben said firmly. "I never thought I'd see the day, but school-teaching begins to look better and better to me. Why don't you ask Agnes Firth?"

"I may do that," Mabel said. "But you still haven't answered my question about what you're going to do."

"I'm not going to do anything," Ben said. "How could I? I don't know anything for sure."

MOLLIE STARK visited the camp shortly before dark. Nona McGuire got up from her place beside the fire and made a low, mocking bow.

"The queen! Queenie herself! And how is her royal highness by now? And the king? All well and cozy I suppose. The rat!"

"Don't be mean," she pouted, "when I'm lonesome. George won't talk."

"Glad to hear he has some sense left," Nona said heartily. "You mean. Aren't any of you going to ask me to sit down by the fire and get warm?" She looked toward Henry Harding as she spoke, but he gave no sign of being aware of her presence.

Mabel Jones said, "Come sit have come back and shot him after he'd lit the fuses.

"No," Sillwell said. "If any of us had shot a dynamite, we'd have stepped forward and got a medal."

"That's reasonable," Ben admitted.

Fred Sillwell nodded soberly. "I don't much like the spot I'm in. I can take care of myself, but telling you this gives me a little protection. It'd be harder to get rid of us both."

"Swell of you to include me in," Ben said.

"Skip the sarcasm. You're in already and you know it. This island I wish we'd get away. It's beginning to give me the creeps. Now, the rifle. I want it. We'll have to figure out some way to get it from George."

MABEL JONES flung down an armload of wood and watched Ben Cosgrove stack it around a central post.

"It gives us something to do," Mabel said. "We won't sit around and mope."

"You sound as if you expected to be here a long time."

"Why not? The Stimpatic left due back for a couple months. We were to have a three-month trial, remember. About our only other chance is a fishing boat, and this kind of weather they'll be smart enough to be somewhere else."

Ben kept still, but the last few pieces of wood on the growing pile.

"And what difference does it make anyhow? To the three of us and Harding, I mean. The outsiders want to leave, sure. But we came here expecting maybe to stay. I don't see the loss of the house, some comforts and supplies makes much difference. We still got the island. We can still live. I don't get this concentrating everything on being 'rescued.' Rescued from what?"

"Harding wants to get some more supplies."

Mabel shrugged. "That's all right too, if he wants it. We still got the island. We can still live. We can get at it eventually. We could build again with what's on hand."

down if you want. But you make the choice yourself you know."

"I understand. I wanted to have fun."

Henry Harding got up and walked out into the rain. Ben Cosgrove hesitated. From the corner of her eye she caught the gesture Mollie made to Fred Sillwell when she thought she was unobserved. Ben saw the slight nod Sillwell gave to show he understood what the girl wanted.

Miss Cosgrove stood up, stretched. "It's getting close in here," she announced. "The air's suddenly bad. Guess I'll take a little walk too."

HENRY GOUGH HARDING'S hair was already matted with rain when she reached his side. "I couldn't stay there. I had to leave. Why did she come back?"

"She probably wanted something," Ben said.

"Wanted something?" He exploded. "Wanted something? What could she expect to get from me now? I was willing, eager, to give her so many things. She could have had my name. If she wanted to be a queen, she could have ruled with me over Speare Island. But why? Why did she have to do what she did to me?"

"She's young. Impatient."

"Why should being young make her impatient? It's the other way around. I was kind, considerate. I took her youth into account. I didn't hurry her. Why I was going to marry her! Marry her, you understand! Give her everything. And she chose to go with that young fool. I should have killed him. But I was stunned. Shocked. So much disaster."

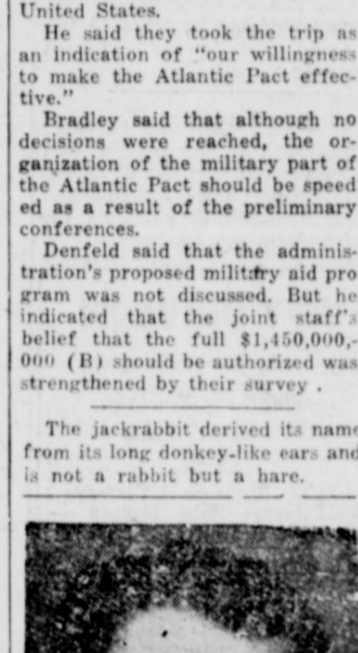

He balled one huge fist and struck his other palm. "I do not see why all this should happen to me! What have I done that I should be punished so?"

"She answered clearly, 'Look to the past. Perhaps it is something in the past.'

She saw his body stiffen, knew he had heard. She barely made out his muffled command, "Leave me now. I must think. Leave me alone."

Tokyo Rose Case End In Sight

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9 (UP)—The government treason case against Mrs. Iva Aogari D'Aquino (Tokyo Rose) may be finished by the weekend, Chief Prosecutor Tom De Wolfe said today.

He began calling Japanese wartime technical experts of Radio Tokyo to the witness stand.

Their testimony sought to bolster a key government point—that the broadcasts featuring Tokyo Rose came from Tokyo.

A major defense tack has been that programs of the "Zero Hour" heard by troops in the South Pacific came from other Japanese stations.

There Japanese witness told the court yesterday that the "Zero Hour" program on which Mrs. D'Aquino is accused of making treasonable broadcasts was capable of beaming shortwave programs to the South Pacific area.

They were Yoshitosi Tanabe, Kiwamu Momotsuka and Sigeru Okamoto. All worked for the station.

Boy Trades Front Teeth For Knife

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 9 (UP)—Don Simonson, a clerk in a hardware store, told a five-year-old boy he couldn't trade a knife for a tiny plastic animal.

"But I'll tell you what I'll do," Simonson said. "I'll give you this pearl-handled knife for your two front teeth."

The boy returned yesterday. In his hand were two teeth.

"I had to tug on 'em a couple of hours in bed last night, but I finally got 'em out," the boy said. Simonson handed the boy a pearl-handled knife.

What every party-line telephone user knows... fore the war, when they could have had individual lines.
Every person with a party-line telephone at home knows at least three things about the service.
He knows the line must be shared fairly to be useful to everyone—just as a street is shared by those on it.
He knows he appreciates courtesy from others on the line—such as not interrupting, and recognizing his emergency needs for the line now and then.
He knows whether party-line service meets his needs. About half our customers have always preferred party-line service, even before the war, when they could have had individual lines.
Today, out of each four families with telephones, about three have party-line telephones and one of them has asked for a different type of service.
We'd like to be able to give it to them. We are working toward that, and are making some progress despite the continuing heavy demand for telephones from those still without any service.
We have on file thousands of requests for some other type of service. Wherever local conditions permit, we are meeting these requests, and are keeping a careful record of all requests, to act on at the first opportunity.
