Mayor Moore Of Electra Talks On Everything From Railroads To Deer Hunting Here Monday

Leo Moore, Electra's famed "whistle stop" Mayor, addressed a joint meeting of the Eastland Rotary and Lions Clubs Monday noon and talked on everything from railroads to going deer hunting.

With a general theme of the utopian conditions existing in Electra from a civic standpoint, Mayor Moore urged Eastlandites to be better citizens.

The former circusman, who jumped into the public's spotlight last spring when he battled in flamboyant style the Fort Worth and Deaver Railroad Company efforts to make Electra a "whistle stop", pulled no punches in his discussion of various subjects.

Program chairman for the day was L. C. Heck, City Manager of Eastland, who outlined Moore's battle with the railroad and blew a miniature whistle, similar to the one Mayor Moore distributed to members of the Texas Railroad Commission.

The speaker outlined his battle with the railroad, running away from home as a boy to join the circus, some of his circus life, employment as production superintendent for the Waggoner Estate, and then going to Electra in 1936 where he became a city commissioner.

In discussing his administration of municipal government in Electra, Mayor Moore said the city was bankrupt when he went there in 1936, with finances now in a healthy condition. Parking meters as cited as a revenue producing measure which nets Electra $1,000 a month. City Commission meetings are of the open forum type, with the first part of the session devoted to the "beefers". Considerable attention is made by Electra to the needs and problems of the youth, according to the Mayor. He also serves as City Corporation Court Judge, and out of 600 cases in 1948, had 597 convictions.

A challenge was made by the speaker for Eastlandites to make their hometown "the best place in which to live. "If you don't like the town you live in, move to another one. Get with Eastland and be a better citizen. Keep suspicion out of your mind and hate out of your heart."

Other subjects to come under the range of the speaker's scope included the communism menace, taxation, the Gilmer-Aikin Bill, itinerant salesmen, tolerance, practical education, legislator's pay, deer hunting, a clean community, fear, and football.

Mother Rescues 3 Children; One Dies In Flames

ROSENBERG, Tex., Nov. 22 (UP)—A young mother carried three of her children to safety from their flaming home here early today, but a fourth died in the charred wreckage.

Mrs. Placido Torres, Sr., awoke to find the small, two-room frame cottage almost covered with flames. She carried three small children outside, but intense heat prevented her returning for Placido, Jr., 4.

Firemen found the boy's charred body still in his crib in the bedroom.

Mrs. Torres said she arose early to prepare breakfast for her husband, recently employed by a Houston contractor. She lit a small oil stove, returned to bed and was awakened by the fire.

It was believed the stove exploded, covering the house quickly with the blazing fuel.

None of the family's household belongings or clothing was saved. They were being temporarily cared for at the Baptist Mission here.

B-29 Survivors Landed In Bermuda

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 22 (UP)—At least 30 persons and probably 34 died in the crash of a Dutch air liner whose wreckage was found today in a rugged wilderness south of Oslo, officials announced.

There was only one known survivor of the 35 aboard the plane which was bringing 29 Jewish refugee children from North Africa to Norway for rehabilitation. He was an 11 year old French speaking boy.

Four other children were missing. The bodies of all six adults aboard the plane, missing since Sunday night, were found scattered around the smashed fuselage. They were two Dutch crewmen and two nurses.

The two-engined DC-3 disappeared Sunday night after radioing that it was nearing the Oslo airport and would land soon. It was one of the two chartered to bring the Jewish children to Norway. The other landed safely.

Splintered wreckage was found today around noon after a search of almost 48 hours by thousands of troops, Red Cross workers and volunteers who had trudged through rain sodden and fog shrouded hills and forests.

The wild and lonely scene of the crash was 18 miles south of Oslo on the Hurun Peninsula between Filbret and Storesand. The plane had cut a swath of 70 yards as it smashed through a sturdy growth of trees before it smashed into the side of a steep hill.

The one known survivor was taken to a hospital at nearby Dramme. He was reported suffering from an injured arm and was in good spirits after eating some chocolate.

Darkness halted the search before the four missing children were found. Reports from the scene indicated that they almost certainly died. In the improbable event that they survived the actual crash, they chances of coming through two nights in the dark and chilled woods seemed remote.

Police said the forward part of the fuselage was burned through between the wings, but the main cabin had not been destroyed.

The first searchers to reach the scene were two lumberjacks, T. Hagen and Kilding Martinsen. They said they heard someone weeping in the sodden forest, and found the smashed fuselage half buried in the ground.

The first responsible report of the situation at the scene came from police officials at Drammen. They said nine were inside the plane and "there is some life."

The find by the lumberjacks capped an intensive search carried on unceasingly since Sunday night when the plane vanished.

The children had lived in North African refugee camps, and were being sent to Norway before going to new homes in Israel.

The rehabilitation program for the children was sponsored by an organization calling itself "help Europe" and by the American joint distribution committee. It called for the rehabilitation of 200 children from North African slums.

JENNY was working at the big flat-topped desk in her office when Nina came in. Nina hung up her coat. "Guess who I ran into during my lunch hour," she said. "Who?" Jenny glanced from the advertising layout she was checking.

"Tod."

Jenny seemed to freeze. She bent her head over the papers. "I talked to him for a few minutes."

Jenny looked up again, her face quite controlled. Funny wasn't it, she thought, that his name always made her heart start beating fast. You could discipline your mind, but there wasn't anything you could do about your heart. "How'd he look?"

"Dapper as ever," Nina said brightly. She took a cigaret out of a box on her side of the desk, lit it and sat down.

"What did he have to say?"

"Not much. I did most of the talking. I told him about you and Rick. And I was glad to have the chance to tell him. It gave me pleasure to tell that heel kick that you'd gotten over him completely."

"About Liz?"

Jenny nodded.

"I didn't give him a chance to say much of anything, non," she lied glibly. "I was too busy impressing him with the fact that you're happy now and looking forward to your marriage with Rick."

"He didn't ask about the children either?"

"Not a word."

Jenny pushed her work aside. She was glad when Nina left her desk to go out into the shop. She wished all at once that she was going to marry Rick immediately. She was tired of the shop; tired of trying to appear bright and cheerful day after day; tired of going home to the emptiness of the house on Riverdale Road. And it did seem empty, even though the riety had been decent, like we really should have been—"

"No use cryin' over spilt milk Ma."

He remembered that night, Jenny, her brown eyes eager as she went toward Ma, then the look of hurt surprise on her face. Later in the bedroom she had cried and said they weren't wanted. She had loved him then. It made him feel sick inside thinking about it.

MA was still talking while she ate. "We all got lessons to learn, son. Some of us learn 'em early, and some late—too late. I always thought havin' a lot of money was the beginnin' an end of bein' happy. I reckon it was because we always had such a tough row after Pa died. But now I know better. Havin' someone to love you and care what happens to you, that's the best of livin'."

Yes sir, if you've got that, you can do without the fancy stuff."

Tod stood up suddenly, shoving his plate away. "For goodness sake, Ma!" he cried. "Can't you see I don't want to talk about Jenny?"

"But I wasn't sayin' anything about her."

"All I want is peace. A little peace!" He got his hat and went out of the apartment, downstairs to the small bar, and sat there for a while with a drink in front of him. He knew he shouldn't treat Ma that way. She was right. Having someone to love was all that did matter. But why did she have to harp on it? It was too late now. All the time he had thought he was in love with Liz. But it hadn't been love at all. Just infatuation. Funny he couldn't have seen that. But then, he wasn't good enough for Jenny anyway. He was a bum. And he had used to think he was class. Those days when he was a football hero, the big shot of the State University campus and head man on sports pages all across the country, seemed like a dream.

He sat at the bar all evening, watching the television and drinking his coffee. It was better than listening to Ma's talk. It kept him from thinking. As long as he could keep from thinking, he was all right.

Byrnes Asks Governors To Demand Tax Cut

BILOXI, Miss., Nov. 22 (UP)—Former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes last night called on Southern governors to demand a reduction of wartime taxes and charged the administration with using the cold war with Russia as an "excuse" for big spending.

Byrnes spoke at a meeting of the Southern governors conference here. He told the 13 chief executives present that "big government is more dangerous than big business."

The former U. S. Senator, war mobilization chief, Supreme Court Justice and Cabinet officer was speaking to a group which he may join next year. He said recently that he is willing to run for governor of South Carolina in 1950.

Byrnes said the governors ought to take the lead in a drive against big government and deficit spending, because "the government will not repeal a single war tax now being collected unless forced to do so by public sentiment."

He said it is now useless to argue about the repeal of federal aid laws but added that "we can oppose adoption of new and costly programs that other governments have tried and new wish to abandon."

Byrnes did not refer to the Truman administration by name, but his address was clearly an attack on the administration's policy.

Garner Observes 81st Birthday

UVALDE, Tex., Nov. 21 (UP)—Today was the 81st birthday of John Nance Garner, but if the former U. S. Vice President got his wish it would pass without fuss and celebration.

Instead, Garner, in virtual retirement since 1940 when he ended eight years service as the nation's second in command under Franklin D. Roosevelt, said he would go hunting.

His companion, as always, would be his old enemy, garage-man Ross Bromfield. The pair went hunting during the warm spell last week, but were silent about what they bagged.

However, the ex-vice president's house keeper let it be known that the birthday dinner was "Our real trouble is debt and axes," he said, "and we cannot cure it by more debt and taxes."

Excuses Not Accepted

BROCKTON, Mass. (UP)—Tending baby is no longer an excuse for not attending St. Coleman's Catholic Church. The parish provides 15 baby sitters and an improvised nursery in the church basement.

Within 25 years, North Carolina has produced a living for one-third its people from industries before then new to the state: wood, textiles and tobacco.

might be deer, since "there is a new buck in the deep freeze."

The hale and hearty south Texan's one worry at his ranch home last night was the weather. For his birthday, Garner didn't care. For hunting—yes.

Gold Threads Shine Up Holiday Attire

Gold braid and threads can be laced through holiday togs to provide high-fashion glitter at low cost. Gold embroidered nylon sheer, made into a festive dress-up apron by hemming at top and bottom, takes "strings" of gold braid that wrap around the waist (left). With gold braid wound around the heels black daytime pumps are turned into Cinderella slippers (lower right) and remnants of the gold braid is laced through this girl's hair to carry holiday glitter to the top of her head (upper right).

THE girl who is high in hopes but low in funds for holiday glamor can swing a lot of glitter at little cost.

She can transform her old black dress, for example, by making a prettily apron of glitter-lit nylon sheer. Embroidered with motifs of gold, silver, or copper lurex thread, this fabric is fit for a princess. All that's needed is to make a dazzling apron are 14 inches of fabric, if she picks one with 54-inch width.

To make the apron, the fabric needs only to be hemmed. Through

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

the top hem, lurex braid can be laced through to make apron strings. If a girl wants these to continue as a glittering belt, she can use enough braid to wind around her waist. Little gold tassels, also made of braid, will make the ends of apron "strings" look more festive.

More of the same braid can be used to turn an every-day pair of black suede pumps into Cinderella slippers. That trick is turned by winding braid solidly around the heels to turn black into gold. Braid is anchored at the bottom of the heel with transparent scotch tape before winding starts. Another strip of adhesive tape glued inside of the heel will make the braid stay put after it is wound.

If there are any remnants of gold braid left—there should be enough on a spool to carry glitter to the top of the head—it can be laced through a hair braid. As gaily an effect for holiday parties can be achieved by twisting gold braid in and out of strands of hair before they are twisted into a chignon.

Argentina to Detroit by Truck

Steep and precipitous mountain passes, violent equatorial storms and near impassible jungle trails were among the obstacles overcome by Aldo Carloni and Antonio Bollester, young Argentines on a 15,000-mile trip driving an eight-year-old Chevrolet truck from Cordova, Argentina to Detroit, Michigan. Here Carloni (right) is receiving the 14-week journey with J. W. Burke, manager of the Chevrolet Truck Department in the Motor Capital. With the exception of three short stretches where there are no roads at all and the vehicle was transported, the entire trip through 13 countries was accomplished in the truck which contained provisions for sleeping and cooking meals and carried extra gas and oil. Difficult journey as shown on map by Carloni and his companion was one of the first via the still incomplete Pan-American Highway.

Suicide Note Studied in Death

TEXARKANA, Tex. Nov. 22 (UP)—A brief suicide note saying "I'll be dead when you read this" was studied today by police investigating the shooting of its 22 year old writer, sought for questioning in a robbery. Detectives said the suicide victim, a man they identified as Mark H. Rogers of Webb City, Mo., shot himself as they knocked at his hotel room to ask him about a liquor store holdup which took place less than one hour earlier. Between $100 and $200 was taken in the armed robbery. Police said they found $150 hidden in a closet in the hotel room.

If You Are 85, 45 or 3, Hadacol Helps All Ages

HADACOL is good for all ages, bringing five of nature's B vitamins and important minerals to the young and old alike. Recently the HADACOL folks received the good news that among the countless thousands who had been benefited by HADACOL were a lady of 85, a man of 45 who felt like he was 18, and a beautiful little girl only three years old.

Mrs. Edmond Doucet, of Church Point, La., is 85 years old, having thousands of friends in the picturesque Evangeline section of Louisiana where she was born and has spent all of her life. These friends are happy to know that Mrs. Doucet feels better now than at any time in two years and gives the credit to HADACOL.

"I had been sick for almost two years and was suffering with gastric disturbances and lost weight and had to stay in bed most of the time. I lost courage and felt that there was no hope for me."

Mrs. Doucet had tried many preparations without apparent beneficial results when she heard the glorious news about HADACOL.

"After taking several bottles of HADACOL I felt like a new person," said Mrs. Doucet. "I eat anything I want without ill effects and sleep well. I feel much stronger."

Neville Dugas, of Route 1, Box 101 B, Carencro, La., is a successful farmer who had worked early and late at all kinds of hard work and it wasn't so long ago that he wondered if he would ever be able to work that way again. He had tried many medicines, but felt no better.

"I had all kinds of stomach disturbances," said Mr. Dugas. "My stomach was so bloated that it felt like it would swell up and burst. I suffered with gastric disturbances, heartburn and was run down and nervous. I had no appetite and suffered with headaches and I couldn't sleep at night. I was so drawn and pale that my friends had difficulty in recognizing me. After the third bottle of HADACOL I felt a real improvement and after the twelfth bottle of HADACOL I felt like I was 18 instead of 45. I am feeling perfectly well."

"My three year old daughter, Joan, had lost her appetite," said Mr. Dugas. "Her cheeks were pale and she cried often. I started giving Joan HADACOL and after three of the large economy size bottles she is now healthy, has an excellent appetite and her disposition is perfect."

All three of these people were suffering from a lack of B vitamins and the minerals which HADACOL contains. HADACOL comes to you in liquid form, easily assimilated in the blood stream so that it can go to work right away. It is easy to understand, therefore, why countless thousands have been benefited by this amazing tonic, HADACOL.

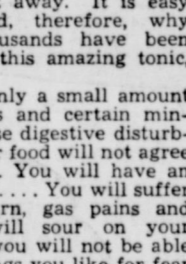

A lack of only a small amount of B vitamins and certain minerals will cause digestive disturbances. . . . Your food will not agree with you. You will have an upset stomach. . . . You will suffer from heartburn, gas pains and your food will sour on your stomach and you will not be able to eat the things you like for fear of being in misery afterwards. Many people also suffer from constipation. And while these symptoms may be the results of other causes, they are surely and certainly the symptoms of a deficiency of B vitamins and minerals which HADACOL contains. And if you suffer from such a deficiency disorder, there is no known cure except the administration of the vitamins and minerals which HADACOL contains.

It is easy to understand, therefore, why countless thousands have been benefited by this amazing tonic, HADACOL.

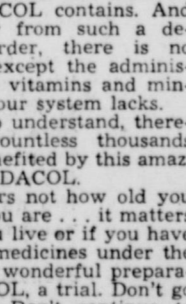

So it matters not how old you are or who you are. . . . it matters not where you live or if you have tried all the medicines under the sun, give this wonderful preparation, HADACOL, a trial. Don't go on suffering. Don't continue to lead a miserable life. Many persons who have suffered and waited for 10 to 20 years or even longer, are able now to live happy, comfortable lives because HADACOL supplied the vitamins and minerals which their systems needed. Be fair to yourself. Temporary relief is not enough for you. Give HADACOL a trial—Adv.

The LeBlanc Corporation

The LeBlanc Corp. has purchased a $250,000 steel and concrete building with 35,000 square feet of floor space in Lafayette, La. and will remodel it at a cost of more than $50,000 for the national headquarters of Hadacol, famous B vitamin and mineral preparation.

Dudley J. LeBlanc, Founder and President of the LeBlanc Corp., announced the purchase of the building from the Reconstruction Finance Corp. The small building which now houses the Hadacol trucks and for storage space. The office headquarters of Hadacol, which now occupies a building in downtown Lafayette, will be moved to the new building.

The new Hadacol building was built in 1945 and is of excellent construction. Remodeling work already has begun and the LeBlanc Corp. plans to move into the new headquarters early next year. Mr. LeBlanc and officials of his organization already have begun making plans for a gala opening of the new headquarters.

"The office and manufacturing facilities will be the most modern possible," said Mr. LeBlanc. "The building will be air conditioned and will have many other features. It is just another forward step in the remarkable progress of Hadacol."

TEXAS News Briefs

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 22 (UP)—The low-flying stork that serves Houston is getting the pants worked off of him this year.
 City Health Department statisticians said 202 babies were born here during last week-end, sending the year's total of new arrivals so far to 16,009 -- a record when compared to similar periods.
 W. H. Alban of the Health Department said the 17,590 births last year -- which was a record itself -- would likely be broken this year.

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 22 (UP)—Two hundred college and university administrators will gather here Monday for the 18th annual conference of academic deans of the Southern States.
 The convention theme will be "academic freedom," and will feature addresses by Dr. D. K. Woodard, Jr., chairman of the board of regents of the University of Texas; Dr. Philip Davidson, Vanderbilt University; Dr. Harold W. Stoke, president of Louisiana State University; Dr. George G. Man 82 Wed To Woman Who Is 67

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 22 (UP)—Handle-bar mustached Charlie Ward, 82, and his bride, a great-grandmother, set out for the groom's Wisconsin ranch today to "live the good life" amid the scenes of Charlie's mule train driving days of the old West.
 Ward and 67-year-old Mrs. Catherine Ginter were married here last night in a home ceremony attended by the bride's eight great-grandchildren, 25, grandchildren, three children, and as many other relatives who could squeeze into the living room.

 Rev. Ted V. Voorhees, a Methodist minister, officiated as the couple, who met on a trip to California this fall, took the vows and Ward slipped the ring on the finger of his "little prairie flower."
 Someone asked: "were you nervous, Grandma?"
 "Not me," smiled the white-haired, dimpled little lady in a navy blue gaberdine dress. "I don't get as jittery as I used to."

FORT LEWIS, Wash. (UP)—The Second Division band here claims the only bagpipe section of an Army band in the country. Under supervisions of John P. Ironside, 16 members have learned to play well enough to appear regularly as part of the band.
