AMERICAN TROOPS BATTERED FROM KEY CENTER OF CHONAN

Green American Troops Routed By Tank Forces After Lines Infiltrated

United Press Correspondent Miller Praises Late Courage Of Fighting US Infantrymen

Ranger Editor's Note: Copy from the Korean battlefield is now being censored by the Army. Censorship will probably increase as the Korean war grows in intensity.

By Robert C. Miller
United Press Staff Correspondent
WITH THE U. S. ARMY AT THE KOREAN FRONT, July 8 (UP)—We lost the rail center of Chonan, 36 miles north of Taejon, to the Communists today after a day of panicky retreat and a night of heroic battle.

It was a story of chaos, confusion, Communist tanks and frightened, green American soldiers who finally learned under fire how to take it and dish it out.

It was the story of a U. S. Army major who almost alone stopped the initial American retreat—then dashed North into a Communist ambush and was killed. "Operation snafu," as it has become known, began Friday.

The Americans had withdrawn 30 miles in the two previous days to new positions South of rail center. But a patrol sent out to make contact with the North Koreans reported them at least 10 miles North.

Headquarters decided to take advantage of the Red's slow advance and move up the American line beyond Chonan.

By noon Friday, the infantry had gone forward, artillery had moved into advance positions above and everything seemed rosy.

The Yanks were well dug in when the trouble started. The Red infantry touched it off by infiltrating the American ranks. Many came down from the hills West of Chonan in full view of the troops. But because they were dressed in white, the Americans thought they were civilians.

A hasty order was given the Americans to withdraw, and the panic was on.

Artillery was pulled out without firing a shot. Jeeps raced to the rear loaded with men who had only one ambition in life—to put as many miles between them and the North Koreans as possible.

American casualties were extremely light, but this was the first time these American youngsters had seen blood.

Until then, the war for most of them was a lark. But with rifle fire cracking about their ears and mortar shells bursting in their positions they bolted.

They fled with fear in their eyes and panic in their bellies. Everything was confusion. There was inadequate communication.

One officer gave orders to unload from jeeps and set up a defense line. Another would cancel it and order jeeps loaded with men and sent to the rear.

A vital bridge that was supposed to be blown up never was touched. Men who had gone forward only a few hours earlier rushed to the town.

They regrouped on the edge of town, went back in and drove the Communist back across the tracks. I pulled out at nightfall, but Sgt. Fritz Mayes of Lorain, O., told how American artillery pinned down the North Koreans all night and heavy weapons held the town.

The 43-year-old Mayes called it "a damned good show." But he said the North Korean tanks came in this morning and finally forced his outfit to evacuate.

Before pulling out, this small American group knocked out one tank with a bazooka and destroyed another with a land mine.

"ROCKET AHEAD" With Oldsmobile Osborne Motor Company, Eastland

YOU NAME IT

By Everett Taylor

In a book just off the press, Edwin T. Cox gives an excellent history of Eastland County.

Cox stated that he spent many hours of research and time in the compiling of the book.

It is not a book of legend, as many histories prove to be. Cox spent countless hours checking facts so that his book might be as humanly correct as possible.

Cox Came to Eastland County in 1881, and from that time he has observed the growth and progress of the county firsthand. He has checked through documents to see what is the real fact of events in the county.

This is no story book, but some of the incidents may read like fiction. The color of the events themselves make it interesting reading.

Boyce House writes a foreword for the book.

Copies of the book may be purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Cox at their home, 703 South Daugherty, at $4 per copy.

It is a book which will probably be of interest to most Eastland citizens.

A Scottish foursome match is scheduled to be played at the Eastland Country Club golf course today.

We were not exactly familiar with what a Scottish foursome was until it was explained to us, so maybe you would like to have some idea of what it is all about.

Seems the foursome is composed of two pairs of persons, with the Scottish part coming in because each pair uses only one ball.

This doesn't mean that one person hits the ball, then goes to chase it down and sends it back to the partner who then takes his stroke. That might be conservative on balls, but it would be a little hard on players.

The idea, as we understand it, is that one partner hits the ball, and then the next partner hits it from the spot it lands, and so fourth until somebody knocks the thing in the cup.

This is to continue through nine holes of golf. Officials figure that by that time both partners will be mad enough at each other to want to quit.

The leading pair of the group, by the way, will get a box of golf balls.

With the Fourth of July celebration out of the way, city officials are beginning to concentrate on the Old Rip Horned Toad Derby to be held August 12.

Well over 200 entries have been received in the derby this year, far surpassing the 149 which entered last year.

Officials are confident now that the goal of 300 will be an easy mark to reach.

Whistles, sirens and bells will again sound when the 300 mark is reached.

Lyon Studio, by the way, made us some good pictures of the July 4 bathing contest which were in the Telegram Thursday.

Lift Up Your Heart

By Rev. C. Nelson

The bitterest disappointment in life perhaps is to find that you cannot put any confidence in the person whom you thought that you could absolutely depend upon.

The one cardinal virtue in life if we are to succeed, no matter what activity we choose, is dependability. The merchant does not wish to hire a person who is not dependable. The great corporation isn't interested in the young person who is not dependable.

I sometimes feel that we are missing this vital training somewhere in our educational system. The pupil thinks nothing about not bringing in his or her assignment.

People in church life think there is nothing wrong with taking a responsibility and then falling down on that responsibility. After all they feel that they are doing you and God an honor, to come occasionally and serve half-heartedly at the task. If we fail to instill this virtue or dependability in the life of youth we have done them a great and harmful injustice as parents, teachers, and churches.

I am amazed at how few people one can really depend upon. And at how lightly people take the matter. People to whom you give a confidence in the utmost secrecy, and they relate it so soon that it is common place news before the half hour is passed. Absolutely undependable in the sacred matter of keeping a confidence. People are so lax on this matter that the only way a person can keep a confidence is to keep it himself. This is one of the most inexcusable sins that one person can commit against another.

Many people are undependable to relate anything truthfully. I feel sometimes that people have habitually misrepresented things so long that it is extremely difficult for them to tell the truth. We are all to lax at this point. We are absolutely undependable if we are to be leaders in our churches, communities, and vocations.

The world has no great commitments to give to the person who is unreliable, and I am persuaded that the Lord does not either.

Consoling Thought

CHICAGO (UP)—A young man strolled into Alex Weisberg's B. & W. liquor store and ordered a beer. He drank half of it, drew a pistol and quietly asked Weisberg and four customers for their money. Then he finished his beer and said before departing with $245: "Don't worry about the money. You can take it off your income tax."

Government Opens Three Rubber Firms

WASHINGTON, July 8 (UP)—

The government today looked for an increase of 88,000 tons in the annual output of synthetic rubber with the reopening of three government-owned synthetic plants.

The plants located at Port Neches, Houston, and Baton Rouge, La., are expected to get back into operation within 90 days.

In announcing the reopening of the plants last night, the Reconstruction Finance Corp., made no specific mention of the Korean War. But rubber experts argued that an increase in synthetic production would drive down the price of natural rubber.

They said the price decrease would enable the government to buy more natural rubber for its military stockpiles.

Production from the three plants is expected to increase the total capacity for synthetic production to 500,000 tons of general purpose rubber and 75,000 tons of special purpose rubber.

The action came within 24 hours after leaders of the rubber industry appealed to the White House for a boost in synthetic output.

Industry pressure for stepped-up production began long before the Communists invaded South Korea.

Reopenings of the three facilities will bring to 18 the number of synthetic plants operated by the government. Nine others will be retained as standby plants.

County Ranch, Farm Taxes Drop In 1949

Eastland county was one of three counties among 197 surveyed recently which had farm and ranch real estate taxes decrease as much as five per cent from 1948, the agricultural experiment station at Texas A&M College has reported.

In an overall picture, Texas farm and ranch real estate taxes advanced sharply in 1949. Levies made by state and local governments totaled an average of 25.7 cents per acre, rising from 22.4 cents the previous year. The increase was 3.3 cents or 15 per cent.

Jim Wells and Atascosa were the other two counties surveyed which showed decreases of as much as five per cent.

The station reported that there are some indications that the trend of taxes over the state generally will continue to go up.

Reasons pointed out for tax increases are that operating costs of local governments may rise further, principally because of demands for expanded services and the need for more teachers as school enrollments increase, and capital needs—for roads, school buildings, hospitals and other public improvements—have not yet been fully met.

It was pointed out that the upward trend in farm and ranch real estate taxes may halt, at least temporarily in 1950, but for the long term it is likely that some upward trend will continue, but probably at a slower rate than during the past three years.

The "Queen For A Day" will be selected from among these four girls and will be presented at the Horned Toad Derby in Eastland.

The event is under the sponsorship of the county Home Demonstration Clubs.

PMA To Begin Measuring For Crop Marketing

The Production and Marketing Administration office is now ready to begin measuring peanuts and cotton for marketing purposes.

In addition to the cotton and peanuts for 1950, the acreage for other crops will be estimated.

There will be about twenty crews over the county to determine the acreages. This is one of the largest jobs that the office has during the year, as approximately 2000 farms will be visited before Sept. 1.

It will be necessary for the farmer to be present when the acreage reporter visits his farm, as he will be needed to estimate acreages and assist the reporter in other ways.

The cooperation of the farmer will be greatly appreciated if he will give these reporters the information they need.

Just wondering where all the fishermen could be haven't heard from any of them lately. Guess every one else had the same luck as this scribe had, no fish, but had to jump about eight feet after a big Diamond Back Rattler sounded his warning early one morning last week while walking from camp to a trotline about two miles from camp on the Pecos River. The way it turned out Mr. Rattler got the worst end of the deal.

On this trip there was only seven catfish caught they averaged two to five and one half pounds. Bait Seining Stirr Crises Varied and at times conflicting local regulations on seining and possessing bait apparently are bothering some Texas fishermen.

This is indicated by requests for information from the game department and its field men and by occasional arrests for violations.

The basic state law permits the use of a 200 foot minnow seine but forbids taking any variety of game fish for bait. There are so many special county laws that fishermen are advised to obtain a complete set of fishing laws or to check with their local game warden.

Most counties permit seining of bait. Many counties forbid seining of bait for sale. Many set a limit on the number that may be taken. The maximum ranges from 125 to 500.

Fishermen, many of whom usually catch their own bait, become agitated by reports conflicting with the law. Recently a rumor circulated that Lake Travis, near Austin, had been closed to seining for bait. Several calls were received by the game department.

Some anglers, possibly through carelessness, are caught with game fish they have taken with their finnow seines. They are reminded that game fish fingerlings have much the same characteristics as the adults. That applies, for instance, to bass and crappie fingerlings. Fishermen familiar with the appearance of the different adult species seldom have any difficulty determining what is legal and what isn't. The authorities suggest that persons in doubt had better return the fish to the water.

Game Molesters Hike June Fines Fishermen comprised one-third of game and fish law offenders during June but the largest fines were paid by illegal deer hunters and stream polluters. Total of fines and court costs was $4,450.65 for 292 cases compared to $3,988.30 for 133 cases for June, 1949 and $4,024.85 for 182 cases for May, the preceding month this year.

Seventy persons were charged under the fishing license code, with 62 Texans drawing fines for having no license. The other eight were non-residents.

The alertness of wardens in checking anglers' bait under the new law which permits persons to fish without licenses in counties adjoining their home counties, providing they do not use live or artificial bait was reflected in two cases. One San Antonio man and one Adkins man assured the investigating wardens they were using worms. When the officials checked farther, they found they were using minnows. The strategy backfired so badly that both men paid fines and lost their fishing rights for one year.

The largest individual sum paid during the month was $219.75 in fines and costs levied against a Corpus Christi man for operating two unlicensed commercial fishing boats in coastal waters. The pollution assessments included two Rockport cases that produced $342 in fines and costs.

Three Freer men paid $61 each for a headlighting foray that netted them a doe and spike buck. In another case, a Freer man paid a total of $111 when caught hunting at night. A Sour Lake man got off with $21 levy for killing deer out of season. Two Sabinal men paid $113 each for killing deer at night. One was a bartender. Wardens said that after he shut off the spigots at closing time, he rallied the customers for outlaw raids on wild game.

The Loves of Carmen
By SOPHIE KERR

THE STORY: Don Jose, young officer in a fashionable Spanish regiment, has just come to Seville from the countryside of Navarre. He becomes enamored of the bewitching gypsy, Carmen. A rendezvous with her is interrupted by Jose's superior officer, who feels he has a claim on Carmen. Angry and jealous, the soldier man draws his sword on Jose. The fight is unequal but Carmen, seizing her opportunity, trips the soldier and he falls, spitted, on Jose's sword. Hiding out in the mountains with Carmen, Jose can't seem to grasp the fact that he's a deserter and a murderer. The clatter of horses' hoofs heralds the approach of others, Carmen listens warily.

XVI
PABLO and Remondado, bundled in serapes against the mountain cold, were first to come into the circle of the fire. They stopped short as they saw Carmen and Don Jose.

Don Jose's arm dropped from across Carmen's shoulders and she moved slightly, to stand in front of him in an almost protective gesture. Her voice was sharp.

"This is Jose, a strong, healthy addition to our company. You will find him very valuable. He was a soldier."

She turned to Jose and said, "This one is Pablo, who is good in a fight but don't ever turn your back on him. And this one is Remondado. He's stupid but he's not a bad fellow."

She crossed to the stewpot, keeping up a steady flow of chatter. Don Jose, conscious of the steady, suspicious regard of the two men followed her. Carmen started to dish the stew into bowls.

"He killed the colonel in a sword fight. Ran him through as neatly as a pig on a spit. He's a deserter and a murderer."

As she said this she looked up and let her eyes meet those of the two gypsy men defiantly. "So I said he could join us."

There was utter silence. No one moved or spoke. Then Remondado, the good-natured one, grinned and the awkwardness

SHE looked off at Remondado, daring him to comment on this. Silently Remondado went to the stewpot as Don Jose sat uncomfortably beside Carmen.

Pablo, chewing on a bone, said, "Carmen, you might like to know that we cleaned out that storehouse without a cracked skull between us."

Carmen, eating her stew, nodded approvingly. "Good." Remondado chuckled. "It was full of tobacco and cotton. Just like you said. The thieves' market in Cordova will be glad to see us."

Don Jose looked from one to the other, disturbed by the conversation, not understanding Carmen's part in it. Pablo obligingly tried to enlighten him. "We couldn't have done it without Carmen. She charmed the old watchman away from his post and trussed him up like a turkey ready for the oven."

Carmen kept her eyes on the bowl of stew as if intent on the business of eating. In a low voice, trying not to be heard by the others, Jose said, "You cheated and tied up an old man so they could commit a robbery?"

Carmen continued to eat greedily and, still not looking at him, shrugged and said, "Tobacco's very valuable."

His face set, his tone became very definite. "After we married there'll be no more of that." She looked at him sideways quickly and stopped eating. "Married?"

Jose's eyes were hard and uncompromising. "I won't have my wife mixed up in such shaggyisms." She flicked a quick glance off toward the other men whose eyes they had heard.

He went on sternly. "Do you understand?" After a moment, softly, with her eyes on the bowl in her lap, she answered, "It will be as you say, Jose--always."

Then her head lifted at the sound of horses-and-shouts. Remondado and Pablo ran off into the darkness. Carmen rose slowly and put her bowl down on the rock.

Pajama Man Warns Brides About Hubbies

By Jay Breen
United Press Staff correspondent
This is a delicate subject, but Max Lovell warns June brides against allowing their husbands to sleep in the raw.

"A woman should put her foot down right at the beginning," he said. "We have just completed a survey which shows that you give a man an inch and he'll take a mile."

Since he is director of the National Association of Pajama Manufacturers, Lovell admitted his interest was not academic.

But he claimed he was at least partly altruistic.

"We asked 1,000 American wives if they minded whether their husband went to bed in his skin and only one-point-five wives said it was okay," he said.

The overwhelming majority didn't like it but didn't know what they could do about it.

"Most of them told our interviewers that they let down the bars during a heat wave and just couldn't get 'em back up again," Lovell added.

Lovell also had a survey made among men and learned that 58 per cent think they look pretty virile wearing just themselves.

"Our problem was spread out before us right there," he said. "We've got to educate men to wearing bedclothes without hurting their feelings."

"So the manufacturers ran up a sheer, dainty pair of pajamas, for a man, with accompanying robe, which makes him look like a bundle of curtains."

"We decided wed'd have to tempt men into pajamas for summer time—offer 'em something that's cool and yet attractive and what you call chuz," Lovell explained.

Now for how to get a man into those pajamas—Lovell said the wives should do it.

First, she buys a set and puts it on the bed for her husband to find all by himself.

She stays out of the room until he's inspected the caveman negligence.

"A woman with a terribly dumb husband can get a pair with the word 'his' on the jacket pocket, so he doesn't think the stuff got on his bed by mistake," Lovell said.

She may have to put the stuff on his bed 10 nights in row in the more stubborn cases. If that produces no results, it's time for step two.

She tells him she's glad she isn't married to a hulk who cares nothing for his own appearance. Then she says she has a present for daddy and out come the voile pajamas.

Lovell said even the most stubborn should fall.

But if the old man doesn't the lady can always point out that sleeping in the raw produces bronchial trouble, sinus miseries and other ailments. There is no medical proof of it, but Lovell said: "A wife has a right to use any ruse to get her husband back into night clothes."

More Than 500 Texans Apply For Licenses

500 Texans have taken out game breeders licenses this year, the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission reported today. The 531 figure for 1950 is almost double the 284 total for 1949.

The licenses cost $2 and are required for all persons dealing in wild game. The same fee is necessary for persons obtaining a permit to keep wild game. The permits have to be renewed by August 31 of this year.

The Chief Clerk estimated that about 90 per cent of the residents obtaining the game breeding licenses raise pheasants. This is the only species which may be sold as food.

A few Texans raise migratory waterfowl which come under federal regulations. Game breeders who raise them are required to have a permit from the United States Department of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D. C., as well as the regular $2 state license.

The law stipulates: "Such a license does NOT entitle the holder to capture any of the wild game birds or wild animals of this state. He must procure either his primary stock from a game breeder in this state or from a game breeder in some other state or from the Republic of Mexico or from some other country."

Enclosures for "wild squirrels, wild prairie chickens, wild quail, wild chachalacas or wild pheasants" shall not contain more than forty acres. For deer, antelope, turkey or any wild migratory bird, the enclosure shall not exceed three hundred twenty acres."

Without Painful Backache
As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 40 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief — help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 40 years. YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Judas, the traitorous, perfidious, faithless Apostle who, under the semblance of friendship, betrayed Christ. How many good, sound, fair appearing persons do you have on your friendship list who are not friends at all but are worthless, deceptive characters . . . not to be trusted. How many Judases do you know?

What a chance this man had for greatness! What an opportunity for service to a world in urgent need! One of twelve to walk with the Son of God along life's pathway! What would we not give for his opportunity to do and to be! But Judas "blacked out." He failed and wrote his own name in "DEEP BLACK" across the pages of history for all time. He preferred thirty pieces of silver to the fellowship and blessing of Jesus; he failed to appreciate beauty and goodness and gracious companionship with the highest. His "sights" were low . . . his interests selfish.

Other men counted it an honor to carry a cross for the Master; JUDAS sent Him to Calvary to die in shameful agony. JUDAS might have followed Christ to the end and shared a martyr's death, but he preferred a disgraceful grave in the field of the nameless or shameless dead.

We have but one life to live, and that one life is too precious to be wasted. "What shall it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his life?" What is it to lose? What is it to gain? Jesus was thought to have lost, but in that self-sacrifice He saved a world of dying men. This man Judas gloated over his gain, but generations have wept for him as a lost soul. Are you and I really winning, or are we losing? Truly we have but one life to give . . . shall we not write it credibly on the pages of history for ourselves and for humanity? Shall we not hold it high for the service of men and for the worship of God? Attend your church; be faithful. Don't be a JUDAS.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE
"Sacrament" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 9.
The Golden Text is: "Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me, and know my thoughts; and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting." (Psalms 139:23,24).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "He shall receive the blessing from the Lord, and righteousness from the God of his salvation" (Psalms 24:5).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is the living Christ, the practical Truth, which makes Jesus 'the resurrection and the life' to all who follow him in deed" (page 31).

Atom Blast Description Is Reported

A description of just what happens when an atomic bomb explodes will soon be available to the public in an official Government document now being printed at the Government Printing Office. Entitled "The Effects of Atomic Weapons," the book will be released about August 1, and advance orders may now be placed with the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C., at $1.25 per copy. All proceeds from the sale go to the Government.

Of primary interest to persons engaged in civilian defense and the building trades, the book contains previously unpublished details on atomic explosions. The damage caused by the atomic bombs in Japan is examined with estimates of the probable effects on American cities. The types of buildings which best withstand the shock and hazards of various radiations are described and illustrated.

The book was prepared by the Atomic Energy Commission from non-confidential scientific and technical information. It is the most informative and authoritative document to be published since the Smythe Report.
