100 Due Physicals From Local Board For Early Mobilization

One hundred men from the local draft board will have taken Armed Forces pre-induction physical examinations by August 25, Mrs. Jewell Reaves, board clerk said today. The local board calls men from Eastland and Stephens counties.

Twenty men from the local board went to Dallas Monday for examinations.

Orders were being prepared Tuesday for 30 more men who will report to Dallas for their examination on Tuesday, August 15. The orders were to be mailed Tuesday afternoon.

An additional 50 men will be sent from the local board for pre-induction physicals in Abilene on August 24, Mrs. Reaves said.

The August 24 group will be the first from here to report to the Abilene examination station, which is now being readied to make full scale examinations.

First calls for actual induction will come after mid-September, Mrs. Reaves stated.

The board has received recent instructions to the effect that when a man gets his order to report for induction, if he is actually enrolled in college and attending classes on the day he is instructed to report, his induction will be postponed for the school year, if he requests it.

All registrants are instructed to report any change of status to the local board, Mrs. Reaves added. This change must be in writing in the form of a letter, in order to be placed in the file for future reference.

Any change of status must be reported immediately, before the

Sears Pig Tour Is Held Tuesday

The Sears Pig tour was held Tuesday with Ed Steele, assistant county agent in charge.

Steele reported that all the pigs, 8 gilts and one boar, are doing well and look as if they will be in excellent condition for the Sears Pig Show for the county on September 27.

The tour is to give the boys who are participating in the event to see how their pig is progressing in comparison with the others.

At the county show, the eight gilts will participate with the winner earning a trip to the district show at Breckenridge along with the Sears boar of the county.

Making the tour Tuesday were: Carol Sandlin, Carbon; Leon Rodgers, Chaney; Mack Jones, Colony; Donald Starr, Scranton; Dan Jobe, Scranton; Charlie Rice, Scranton; Lawrence Ingram, Nimrod and Glen Fleising, Pioneer.

Steele said that the tour covered a distance of 160 miles, through out the county.

The tour had been originally slated for July, but rain caused postponement until yesterday.

Organization Started On Eastland Texas State Guard Unit Tuesday

Organization for an Eastland company of Texas State Home Guard was started Tuesday, Aug. 8, at a meeting in the chamber of commerce building.

Roy Laney was made captain of the group. Other officers to serve the organization who were named at the meeting were: Wayne Lingle, 1st Lt.; Truman C. Brown, 2nd Lt.; Milton Nash, line sergeant; and Walter C. Taylor, private.

The Texas State Guard is being organized throughout the state strictly as a home protective institution to serve in any emergency that may arise, and is subject to and may be called out for such duties as may be required. It is strictly an organization to

Four Hundred Entries In For Old Rip Derby

The whistles and bells sounded for the fourth time this year Wednesday, indicating that the entry total in the Old Rip Horned Toad Derby had advanced another 100 to the 400 mark.

Entries have now passed the original goal for the derby this year by 100, and achieved the second goal of 400 set about two weeks ago.

H. J. Tanner, manager of the chamber of commerce, said that this is not all. Entries are still being received for the derby.

One of the latest entries came from T. C. U., home of the Horned Frogs, which are somewhat like Horned Toads.

Tanner said that more toads are needed for the race and requested anyone to bring their toads into the chamber of commerce office and receive 10¢ a head. About 300 have been purchased to date.

Souvenir programs are off the press and ready for distribution, Tanner said. A program and race form will be given with each ticket purchased to the derby Saturday night.

Tanner added that the toads now in are getting a daily workout at the Coca Cola farm.

Wright Wins 3rd Amateur Program Tuesday Night

James Wright was chosen as first place winner in Pullman's Westinghouse Amateur Revue for the third straight week at the Majestic Theatre Tuesday night.

Wright won in a close decision over Kenneth Mayhall and Bert Clift of Ranger, with his rendition of "Sleeping at the Foot of the Bed."

Mayhall and Clift were a piano-drum duo with Clift giving a vocal imitation of a cornet.

A large audience witnessed the Tuesday program which also included Mrs. Andy Taylor who sang "I didn't Know the Gun was Loaded," to her own accompaniment; and Misses Bobbie Reynolds and Carole Pippin of Cisco who demonstrated their skill at baton twirling. They were accompanied by Miss Patsy King.

Wright by winning first place kept alive his chances of winning the grand prize of a Westinghouse Laundromat, which will be awarded to the winner of the final show on August 29.

Mrs. Marene Johnson, director of the show, announced that there are still places available on some of the remaining shows for talented persons.

Entry blanks may be obtained at the Majestic Theatre or at Pullman's.

Absentee Voting Starts In County

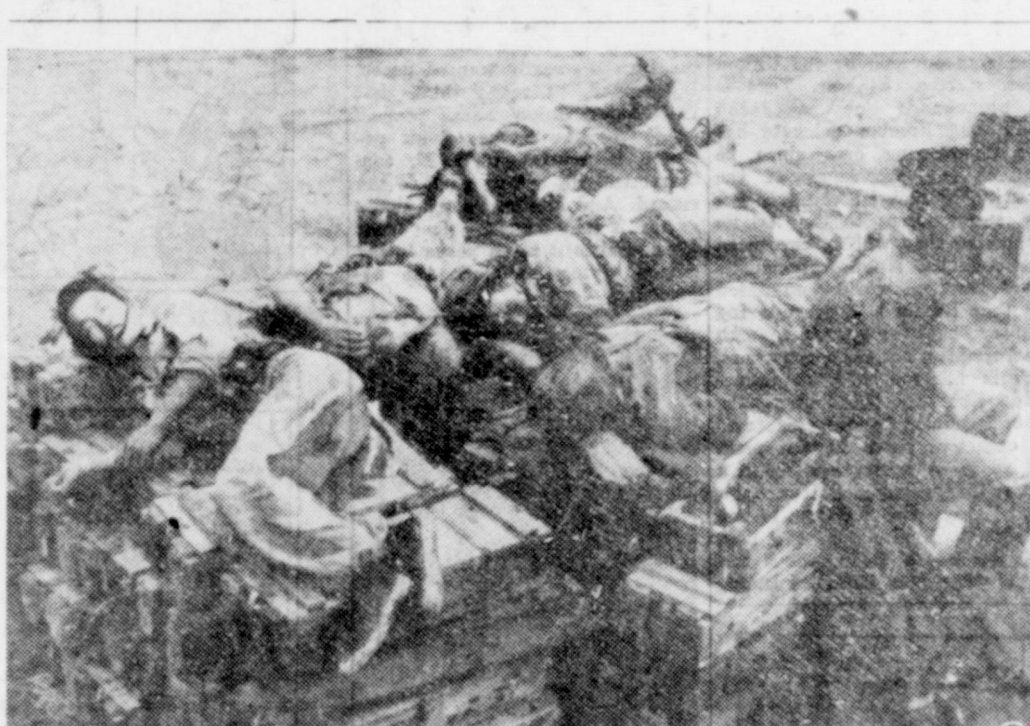

Absentee voting for the August 26 second primary elections in Texas and Eastland county, began Monday, county clerk Vigil Love, announced.

Deadline for absentee ballots is August 22, Love added.

Red Cross Swim Classes To Start Wednesday Nite

The first meeting of the Red Cross swimming classes under the direction of Eddie and Walker Hart, will be held at city pool Wednesday night.

Beginners classes will be held at 7 p. m. with Intermediate classes scheduled at 8 p. m. Classes will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights of each week.

Eddie Hart said that about 20 reported for the Monday night meeting, most of them for the beginners swimming course. He said that about that many more had indicated that they would be present at the first meeting, Wednesday night.

Hart said that the turnout Monday for the lifesaving course was not heavy enough to offer a lifesaving course. "If enough interested in the course turn out Wednesday night, however, he said that a course would be started.

Hart urged anyone interested in the lifesaving course to be present Wednesday night.

The first meeting will be mainly for roll call and instruction in water drills will not be given.

The lessons are given at no charge. Those taking the lessons pay the regular swimming price at the pool.

Bradbury Funeral Services Thursday

Funeral services for Harrison Bradbury, 78, of Sweetwater, brother of Mrs. George Collins of Olden, will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday at Slater Chapel in Nolan County.

Bradbury died at 4 a. m. Wednesday in Sweetwater from a fall at noon Tuesday in which his back and hip were broken.

Survivors include his wife three sons and two daughters.

THE WEATHER

By United Press Sultry Texas temperatures were expected to drop slightly today—but not much.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Dallas said a cloud layer over the state would keep temperatures at least below the 100-degree readings reported at several cities yesterday.

Indian Head Division Inches To Front On Bellies In Attempt To Push KoReds From Beachhead

By Robert Bennyho.

United Press Staff Correspondent WITH U. S. 2ND DIVISION, Korea, Aug. 9 (UP)—Troops of the fresh U. S. 2nd (Indian Head) Infantry Division inched forward on their bellies today in an attempt to reduce the 4,000-man Communist bulge in the American Nakdong River defense line about 25 miles southeast of Taegu.

While the 19th and 34th Regimental Combat Teams of the 24th Division held fast on both sides of the bulge, the 2nd Division pushed against the center.

But at 4:30 p. m. Korean time (2:30 a. m. EDT) the attack, launched this morning, had carried only a little more than 200 yards.

The GI's were attempting to take nearly bare hills which rise to a height of 600 to 1,000 feet. They rammied artillery shells into the Red positions, sending up great clouds of dust that swirled from the hills.

Meantime, air reconnaissance showed that Communists were building up strength in the northeast and southeast corners of the bulge near Sinam-Ni.

AIRMEN SPOTTED THEM streaming across the bulge a movement that may foreshadow a new Communist push to break out of the pocket.

The battle involving the 2nd

Division, which arrived in Korea only days ago, was a typical infantry slugging match as troops crawled forward toward the Communist-held heights.

"The weather was extremely hot and heat prostration took some toll of the troops."

MEANTIME, A MAJOR BUILDUP of the Communist forces about a mile and a half back of the Nakdong river on the road to Hypochon was reported by airmen.

These troops could be sent south in an attempt to get more Communist forces across at the point where they hold the bridgehead or be sent farther north an attempt to establish a new bridgehead nearer Taegu.

HARRIMAN REPORTS THAT FOUND MORALE HIGH AMONG SERVICEMEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (UP)—W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's special advisor on foreign affairs, returned here today after a flying visit to Tokyo for conferences with Gen. Douglas MacArthur on the political situation in the Far East.

His plane landed at Washington National airport at 6:55 a. m. EDT.

Mentioning his one-day visit to the Korean fighting front, Harriman told newsmen that he found "morale high" among U. S. servicemen and that he has "great respect for the fighting ability of our South Korean allies."

The president's advisor was accompanied on his five-day mission by Lt. Gen. Lauris Norstad, acting chief of the Air Force, and Maj. Gen. Frank E. Love, a reserve officer and friend of Truman.

Harriman refused to discuss details about his political talks with MacArthur, pending his report to President Truman. He said he may see the president later today.

Diplomats have said that Harriman talked to MacArthur about the implications of his recent visit to Formosa to confer with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. It

Two Commie Regiments Threaten Allies On North Near Pohang Port; Reds Have Six Divisions

By Earnest Hoherecht United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 10 (UP)—American and South Korean forces threw the Communists back at both ends of the Nakdong river line today and fastened a firm grip on enemy bridgeheads in between. It was the first effective stand of the war against a determined Communist assault on an allied line.

The U. S. Marines scored a five-mile breakthrough on the South coast. GI's of the 35th regiment plunged nearly within sight of Chinju on the same front. The Communists were falling back on Chinju in some disorder, abandoning much equipment.

At the other end of the Nakdong line, hard fighting South Korean troops smashed a Communist bridgehead eight miles north of Waegwan. They drove nearly all of the 2,000 North Koreans back across the river.

Just south of Waegwan, on the northwestern approaches to the provisional capital of Taegu, U. S. 1st Cavalry troops clamped an iron ring on another Communist bridgehead. Eighth Army headquarters reported that the Yanks drove the enemy back to the water's edge, and the North Koreans "will be unable to reinforce their units during the night."

Still other Americans were attacking from three sides a Communist bridgehead in the big bend of the Nakdong where it turns eastward toward Pusan. Some progress was reported among the 1,000-foot hills on which about 4,000 enemy troops were dug in. They had some tank support.

"It is so rugged here that it is primarily a case of going up and down rather than gaining yardage horizontally," one officer of the U. S. 24th division said.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's midnight communique said the three U. S. regimental combat teams which kicked off the first American offensive of the war Monday morning had scored new gains averaging about three miles on the southern sector. Airmen reported that the Communists were preparing to evacuate Chinju.

UNITED PRESS CORRESPONDENT Robert Miller, with the Marines, said they broke through the crust of Communist opposition and wheeled forward five miles after a two-day bog down. By nightfall Wednesday they were fanning out and moving rapidly down the coast, together with the U. S. fifth regimental combat team.

FRONT DISPATCHES SAID the 5th Regiment was advancing toward a junction that would link it up with the 35th Regiment. (The locations were not specified, but the reference apparently was to an approach on Chinju from the south by the 5th regiment and from the east by the 35th).

Such a junction would surround a force of North Koreans estimated at battalion strength, unless they jumped out of the trap before it was sprung.

MacArthur's communique said that at the north end of the Nakdong line, the estimated two battalions of Communists, supported by tanks, "were eliminated from the bridgehead" north of Waegwan.

"Fighting continued along the entire river front, with sporadic attempts by the Communists to breach the river line," the communique said.

ON THE NORTHERN RIM OF the Allied beachhead, the South Korean sixth and eighth divisions fell back two miles to new positions.

Naval forces wheeled close inshore near Yongdok on the east coast, where Communist reinforcements were moving in, and shelled enemy gun posts and transport facilities. The communique said results were good.

Some of the heaviest fighting raged around a 30-square mile Communist bridgehead established by 4,000 North Korean troops and several Red tanks at Sinam-Ni where the Nakdong makes a hairpin curve near Changyong. United Press War Correspondent Rutherford Posts reported from this front that fresh troops of the U. S. 2nd (Indian Head) division and two units of the battered U. S. 24th division were attacking the bridgehead from three sides. Reports from 8th Army headquarters said the American assault had carried only 200 yards in eight hours and that the Communists were dug in OFFICIALS HERE SAID HARRIMAN was instructed to inform MacArthur that military and diplomatic considerations regarding Formosa must be kept carefully separated to prevent any further trouble that might lead the Chinese Communists into attacking Formosa.

They said Harriman was instructed to tell MacArthur that the U. S. "hands-off" diplomatic policy toward Chiang is still the same and that the President's June 27 order protecting Formosa was strictly military in nature.

WASHINGTON COLUMN
Korean War Gives ECA New Role--Emphasis Put on Military

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON--(NEA)—An entirely new role for the Marshall Plan Economic Co-operation Administration is emerging as a result of the Korean war.

As a matter of fact, ECA has been shifting some of its effort from civilian to military production during the past few months.

If Europe is forced to go in for greater arms production, however, that picture will be changed. It will have to curtail its production of consumer goods for export.

Any way, defense planners hit on another means of achieving the same end, through ECA. A fund of $100,000,000 was set up for what became known as AMP--Additional Military Production.

THE way this fund was handled was that if--say, a Swedish anti-aircraft gun manufacturer needed additional machine tools to carry out a contract, the ECA-AMP group would see that the necessary priorities were given to insure delivery.

One other development which is giving ECA a bigger role in the European rearmament picture is the possible use of what are known as "counterpart funds" to increase arms production.

ECA has a control over how these funds are spent. In the main, they have been channeled into increasing the productive capacity for needed civilian supplies.

Still another shift in ECA policy has been to increase its missions in southeast Asia, so as to help prepare that area against Communist aggression.

Thus while there has been some inclination to write off the Marshall Plan and bury it as a dead duck, since the Korean war broke out, the real story seems to be that it will merely change the character of the job that ECA has been doing.

ECA has built up confidence in Europe and it has a good reputation in Washington, among other government agencies.

Administrator Hoffman has stuck to his original idea that ECA should be liquidated on time, at the end of its four-year span of life.

Any premature killing off of the agency, however, or slashing of its funds because of the Korean war, might have a disastrous effect.

Ferguson Says
General Feeling In United Nations That Russia Winning Propaganda

By Harry Ferguson
(UP) Foreign News Editor

There is a general feeling in the corridors of the United Nations that so far Russia has won every round against the United States in the propaganda battle to capture men's minds.

There is a feeling, too, that Russia will continue to score successes until some American or British arises and asks the $64 question: "Who started the Korean war?"

The American or Briton will then have to answer his own question in one word--"Russia." Furthermore, he will have to introduce a proposal to condemn Russia for instigating aggression.

No well informed person inside or outside of the U. N. doubts that Russia gave the signal for the start of the Korean war and supplied the North Koreans with weapons.

You will find plenty of accusations that the South Koreans, aided and encouraged by the United States, started the war. That is the propaganda line that Jacob Malik, the Russian delegate has been hammering ever since he assumed the presidency of the Security Council.

End of a Chapter

By Edwin Rutt Copyright 1950 by NEA/SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Alice Pine has been engaged as literary secretary by the popular author, Mrs. Muriel Halleck, who writes under the name of "Jo Patience." Alice is pleased with the surroundings and she likes Mrs. Halleck, who reveals that she is working on an important novel.

As Alice walks about the place she meets Brent Halleck, Muriel's husband, with his four-year-old nephew Rick. Brent mistakes Alice for a trespasser, and then introduces himself. Rick's parents were killed in a plane crash and the Hallecks adopted him, Brent says.

MURIEL HALLECK was on the terrace as her husband Brent came up with Alice Pine and Rick. "Well," she said to Alice, "I see you've met my family."

"Quite informally. But you didn't tell me you had a cute little boy, Mrs. Halleck."

"Look, Alice, let's drop the 'Mrs. Halleck-Miss Pine' business. My name's Muriel. But--she shook her pale-gold head--"I can't think why I didn't mention Rick. Too excited, I guess, about engaging a secretary."

"Now, really," Alice said, "you'll make me feel too important--Muriel."

"I assure you, you're going to be very important," Muriel turned to Brent who had stood silently by, his mouth, Alice thought, a trifle sardonic. "Go and change, will you, darling? Then make us cocktails."

Brent moved off at once. "Come on, Rick! Time for your supper. I'll hand you over to Stella."

"Stella," Muriel explained to Alice, "is a combination housemaid and nursegirl. And a perfect godsend. I simply can't give him the child the time I'd like to give him."

Alice could believe it. Manifestly, her profession alone was enough to occupy Muriel Halleck.

"But Brent and I manage to be with him a good deal. And now that you're going to take scads of work off my hands, maybe I'll do better. Well, let's go in."

Brent rejoined them in the living room. He was still in sports clothing, but of a more presentable variety. He dropped into a chair, brand lighting a cigaret.

Muriel's slipper tapped softly. "Brent, dear! Cocktails!"

"Oh, yes." He got up hurriedly, shaking out his match. "Forgot you wanted 'em."

When he had gone, Muriel laughed. "That's Brent. Day-dreams on all occasions. You'll have to get used to him."

Alice said nothing. But Brent Halleck had not impressed her as a dreamer. Rather, he'd seemed very aware and coldly withdrawn into himself.

MURIEL refused to discuss prospective working arrangements that night. "Time enough for shop talk tomorrow," she said, "when we're fresh. Tonight we're going to relax."

They relaxed by themselves, for Brent disappeared after dinner. Alice was not particularly surprised. He had already established himself in her opinion as an aloof,

Boxing Charley

Fusari Proves That Decency, Cleanliness Can Survive In Toughest Of Sports Rackets

By Oscar Fraley
United Press Sports Writer
GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 8. (UP)—The fight racket is a cruel and pitiless game where all too many of its victims wind up with scarred faces and marbles in their mouths but nobody is ever going to have to run a benefit for Charlie Fusari.

Charley is a lithe, clean-limbed young man who won't be 25 until late this month. And as he trains here in the scenic Ramapo mountains for his Wednesday night crack at Ray Robinson's welterweight title, the camp is somewhat typical of Fusari's and his career.

Most fighters train in dirty, evil-smelling gymnasiums where the light is dim as if to hide the grime and mental darkness. There sanitation is regarded as softness and the athletes perform preparatory labors in dead air stained by sweat and colored by the hazy blue of stale cigar smoke.

Fusari's camp has a sharp contrast. Charley's quarters are light and airy and cleanliness is the keyword.

All of which follows the pattern of Fusari's boxing career. The Sicilian-born blond with the tawny skin is the closest thing to a mama's boy that the ring has ever seen. There's nothing uncomplimentary intended. A son of immigrant parents, Charley still is a little boy to mama and papa Fusari. The beauty of it all is that Charley is a dutiful son.

When he started boxing, Charley kept his job as milkman in the neighborhood around his Irvington, N. J. home. And when the money started rolling in, Charley didn't hit the primrose path which led so many fine fighters of their fistie inheritance and left them broken, battered wrecks at journey's end.

Papa Fusari put Charley on an allowance.

Not did Charley squander that, as slender as it was. For instance in 1948 he was given $10 a week. Last year it was raised to $20 a week, as his earnings increased. Yet, out of that $1,500 in allowances over the last two years, Charley managed to save $1,000.

Meanwhile his earnings were invested in annuities and in real estate. He now owns an 18-family apartment house in Newark, from which there is a $6,000 net annual income, and he will have $70,000 in annuities maturing at the age of 34.

A "good boy," Charley is the milkman who used his own products and steered clear of wine, women and song. His first romance is budding now, with Vicki Dickey, daughter of the former New York Yankee catcher.

His chances, despite his usual confidence, are dubious. Most of the hopes in his camp are based on the fact that the 155-pound Robinson may have weakened himself too much making the 147-pound title limit.

But win or lose against Sugar Ray, Fusari is a long-run winner who proves that decency and cleanliness can survive and flourish in the toughest sports racket of them all.

Doak Walker Chosen Co-Captain To Lead All-Stars Against Eagles

DELAFIELD, Wis., August 9. (UP)—The college All-Stars have chosen Doak Walker, speedy half-back from Southern Methodist, and Clayton Tonnemaker, hefty center from Minnesota, to lead them against the Philadelphia Eagles in the annual football classic in Chicago's Soldier Field Friday night.

Walker and Tonnemaker were elected co-captains yesterday after head coach Eddie Anderson instructed the collegians to name both a defensive and offensive leader.

Walker will lead the attack when he's operating from the left half position, and he'll have ample opportunity to exhibit the field generalship and flashy running and passing which he displayed during a spectacular college career.

Tonnemaker, 235 pounds of wall on defense, will spark the All-Stars when they deploy to meet the attack of the National Football League champions. The former Gopher Pivot was rated one of the best of modern college centers.

Other members of the 1950 squad who received votes for captain were Jim Martin, Notre Dame end; Hal Haynes, Santa Clara halfback; Dick Kempthorn, Michigan line backer; and Tom Novak, Nebraska center.

The All-Stars got two practice sessions today and are scheduled to have a tapering off drill tomorrow. They will break camp Friday morning.

Anderson put the Collegians through two workouts yesterday. Gordon Soltan, Minnesota end, missed the sessions because he was confined to a hospital with a head injury.

Also absent were Hillary Chollet, Cornell halfback, and J. D. Ison, Baylor end. They were in Chicago for selective service physical examinations.

Fishers, And Hunters It's Time To Renew

AUSTIN, Aug. 9 (UP)—Reminder to Texas fishermen and hunters!

It's almost time again to renew your state licenses. Otherwise, you may have a little chat with the game warden, and it probably will be one-sided.

Thirty-one of the 39 types of licenses issued by the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission must be renewed by Sept. 1.

The Commission was doing its part today. It was readying the 1950-51 licenses for distribution to approximately 2,000 dispersing agencies throughout the state.

War Scare Automobile Buying Tapering Off Across Nation

By Norman Nicholson
United Press Staff Correspondent
DETROIT, Aug. 9 (UP)—War scare automobile buying, which boomed to a frenzied peak in the first week of Korean fighting, is tapering off across the nation, a United Press survey revealed today.

Dealers in 16 cities reported that persons visiting auto-less showrooms were starting to "settle down" after bombarding salesmen with demands for new and late model used cars.

"We're still getting more orders than we can handle for months," a Detroit Chevrolet dealer said. "But the hysteria is dying down, and nobody has called me at home in the middle of the night for a week." The rush to buy cars, inspired by visions of tanks replacing automobiles on assembly lines, has forced many dealers from Albany, N. Y., to Denver to stop taking any more new orders.

This was particularly true among Chevrolet, Ford (Plymouth and Studebaker agencies. But dealers in nearly all of the 30 cities covered by the survey have started unofficial rationing programs, giving first choice to fleet users and old customers.

A $100 bill under the table makes you an "old customer" in a few scattered cases.

Here's what scare buying has created in the car market since the North Koreans took the chill off the cold war 46 days ago:

- 1. A backlog of orders, up to

- six months' worth of lower priced autos but generally reported from 30 to 90 days.
- 2. A 20 per cent increase in used car prices.
- 3. Revival of premium prices on brand new "used" cars.
- 4. Slashed trade-in allowances, cut as much as $400 in some cities.
- 5. Speculation purchases by persons hoping to resell vehicles in six months at big profits.
- 6. A few attempts to hoard automobiles.

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Martin Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary, Sun.

Open house was the feature of the day when friends and relatives gathered at the D. T. Martin home east of Carbon last Sunday afternoon. The occasion marked the Golden Wedding Anniversary of Tandy and Emma Martin. It was also home-coming for all children, grand-children and great grandchildren of the couple. Mrs. Hugh Bailey of DeLeon, Mrs. Walter Bailey of Mercedes and Mrs. Grady Morton of Seymour are daughters of the Martins. Everett Martin, their only son, shares the farm home with his father and mother.

Some ninety guests were present for the occasion. Friends came from Eastland, Cisco, Gorman, Brownwood, Coleman, Seymour, Abilene, Fort Worth and Carbon. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Martin and their children as they arrived. Names were recorded in the guest book and lime punch and anniversary cake were served by grand daughters.

Gold and white was the color motif featuring gold carnations and gold trimmed candle holders. Many beautiful and useful gifts were presented to the couple by admiring friends. The program high-light was Mr. Martin's talk in which he gave a running account of his first fifty years of married life. Rev. Bascom Morton of Coleman, a friend of the family for many years, spoke of the beauty of human and spiritual relationships as exemplified by Mr. and Mrs. Martin. A male quartet from Seymour sang a number of favorite songs.

Shivers Will Have Big Say When Demos Meet At Mineral Wells

By O. B. Lloyd, Jr. AUSTIN, Aug. 9 (UP)—Gov. Allan Shivers tuned his political band today, preparing to play first fiddle when Texas Democrats hold their state convention Sept. 12 at Mineral Wells.

The governor, resting at his Tyler country farm near Woodville, was reported mapping a program in which he could call the tunes.

As titular head of the party, the Governor gave the pitch to party leaders when he advised them: "I don't want to control the Democratic party in Texas for the purpose of doing anything with it. But I don't want anyone to control it to do anything to me."

The Governor has let it be known that he is taking more than a casual interest in party politics. He laid down his own political line for members of the state Democratic executive committee by telling them, "I'm not an extremist on either side."

The Governor said he saw his own position as "a little to the right of some imaginary line." Conservatives and Liberals got little solace when he added, "I don't think extremists on either side should run the party."

He was apparently charting a calculated course to make certain they didn't.

The Governor won his first primary race by the overwhelming vote of 829,730. He was counting on a similar majority backing on the convention floor at Mineral Wells.

Party members will lay down the organization platform at the September convention. Theoretically, that is the platform on which the Governor would campaign for the November general election.

Actually, it's a blueprint that is apt to either saddle him with impossible obligations or chart the objectives during his next two years in office.

It was doubted the Governor would announce any concrete recommendations to the party bigwigs. However, his wishes were evident.

His own platform was simple and on the record. He said he stood for "conservation of money, soil, water—and human resources."

If the Governor's original platform was to survive as he laid it down, little could be added and almost nothing could be taken away.

Politically the Governor was riding well.

No serious feuds have arisen to split the party leadership such as followed the Jester-Rainey campaign in 1946.

The Governor has identified himself with the executive committee membership by attending every meeting since he took office a year ago last July.

He has entertained members of the committee twice—once at his lower Rio Grande valley home and once at Austin.

But at least two major political problems face the Governor in the next few weeks.

One is selection of a state chairman, a post now occupied by John C. Calhoun of Corsicana. The other is staving off the barrage of pressure and pleas, that will come from opposing Liberal and Conservative delegations of the three big cities—Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston.

It was a virtual certainty that each of the three cities would send contesting delegations to the convention, each seeking to be seated. Victory or defeat would probably be spelled for either Liberals or Conservatives on the basis of who won with the credentials committee. A word from the Governor in favor of either side would carry potent weight.

However, he was expected to avoid direct involvement in the squabble.

Instead, it was reasoned that the Governor would probably pitch his strategy on having loyal followers in both factions and a sizeable balance of power ready with voting strength on the convention floor.

Calhoun as well as J. E. Wheat of Woodville, secretary of the state party and a long-time friend of the Governor's, were mentioned for the state chairmanship. Calhoun, it was believed, would accept re-appointment.

Wheat earned his campaign stripes as secretary. Calhoun, armed with an easy-going manner and a wry wit, turned several potential slug-fests into song-fests by pacifying both Liberals and Conservatives.

Whoever receives the nod from Shivers, one thing was certain. It would be a man loyal to the administration, acceptable to both Conservatives and long on organizational ability. He would also be a man who has stuck to the party, a policy that would automatically bar Dixiecrat bolters.

"Meeting Will Come To Order To Discuss Peace"

Republicans Return Home With Candidates For All State Offices Except Agriculture Commissioner

By Jack Gale United Press Staff Correspondent GALVESTON, Aug. 9 (UP)—Texas Republicans, returning home today from a convention here, had a GOP nominee for every state office except that of Agriculture Commissioner.

The Republicans nominated Ralph Currie of Dallas yesterday as their gubernatorial choice in the November election.

But for the job of Agriculture Commissioner, they just endorsed J. E. McDonald, the incumbent and a "Democrat." In the Republican eyes, McDonald stands out as "an unbossed Lone Ranger of Texas democracy." McDonald still must face John White of Wichita Falls in the Aug. 26 runoff for the Democratic nomination.

The Republicans, in convention yesterday, adopted a number of resolutions.

They demanded a national budget cut of $5,000,000,000 in non-defense spending, condemned Democrats of Texas and Vice President Alben Barkley for raising a $100,000 "slush fund" for use "against the state's own best interests," cited the Brannan farm plan as Socialistic, and defended Red-hunting Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R., Wis.

Besides Currie, the state GOP nominated:

Lt. Gen.—Mrs. Malcolm Mac-Corquandale, Houston.

Attorney General—Nat Friedman, Houston.

Court of Chival Appeals—Jack Nossaman, Sherman.

Supreme Court, Place 1—S. E. Bennett, Beaumont.

Supreme Court, Place 2—E. G. Fletcher, Grand Saline.

Supreme Court, Place 3—J. E. Vickers, Lubbock.

State Comptroller—Dan Barnhart, Denton.

Railroad Commissioner—Roy D. Golstan, Tyler.

State Treasurer—Mrs. Dahl Darden, Midland.

Land Commissioner—Charles F. Adams, Jacksonville.

Rep. Ben Guill of Pampa will be the only Republican Congressional entry in the 21 Texas districts. He now represents the 18th district as the only GOP member of the Texas delegation, and must stand for re-election in the November balloting.

MONTEREY, Calif. (UP)—A hen owned by Mrs. Frances Schiller laid an egg weighing one-quarter pound and measuring two-and-one-half inches in length.

Freight Train Plunges Past Open Switch

AMARILLO Aug 9 (UP)—A long FW&DC railway freight train plunged through an open switch early today at the Texas Refining Co. plant here, injuring three crewmen and creating a serious fire hazard.

The three-unit diesel engine smashed into a gasoline loading rack, spilling 100-octane gasoline into a ditch for one-quarter mile. It was three feet deep in places.

The area was roped off because of the fire and explosion danger, and officials said it would be at least two hours before the tracks could be cleared for passage of other trains.

Engineer H. M. Pryor, 44, was hospitalized with a fractured left leg and shoulder received when he jumped from the cab. Conductor Frank R. Howard, 44, and fireman M. A. Burnett, 26, were released after treatment for minor injuries. All were from Amarillo.

Railroad officials said the train, from Fort Worth, was 30 minutes early.

One tank car, a box car and one and one-half units of the engine were derailed in the 3 a. m. mishap, and 100 feet of track were torn up. A loading platform was damaged.

Hollywood Film Shop

By Patricia Clary United Press Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Basil Ruysdael spent 40 of his 62 years looking for an easy way to make a living. Then he tried movie acting.

"Better than a pension," he said today. "A trifle hard on the feet sometimes, but it's never hard on the mind. Nothing like it. I'm seriously considering it as my life work—if you can call it work."

Ruysdael was an opera singer, an airplane pilot, a voice coach, a stage actor, an electrical engineer, inventor, radio writer and radio announcer. They all tired him out.

Eighteen months ago he tried movie acting. He'd had 16 picture roles since then. In his current movie at 20th Century-Fox, "Half Angel," he plays a doctor who straightens out Loretta Young's split personality which makes her love John Cotten one minute and hate him the next.

"All I have to do is move in and out of half the scenes watching and making profound observations—thought up by someone else—about the comic twist of her brain" he said.

No Labor Involved "No labor involved. I don't have to run, climb or lift anything heavier than a warning finger."

"The job is good for three weeks. Out of the three weeks I work only 13 days. On none of these days will I be actually before the camera for more than three or four hours, and that includes rehearsals and retakes.

"And for those, say 39 hours of labor I'll be paid enough to keep me for many months. Yes, I think I'll make a career of this."

Ruysdael's been lucky in Hollywood, however. In this year and a half of character acting he's worked oftener than many a more experienced actor does in five years.

The job is just the kind he's been looking for, he said, since he got his first steady work at age 22 as a Metropolitan Opera basso profundo.

100 Man Posse Hunts Gunman In Ozark Hills

FREMONT, Mo., Aug. 8 (UP)—A posse of 100 men, some armed only with pitchforks, surrounded a wild Ozark mountain area today in an attempt to capture an ex-convict who killed three persons and wounded two others.

The 39-year-old gunman, William Harris, fled into dense woods of the Clark National Forest yesterday after eluding state troopers. Farmer Howard Reed, who lives near the woods, reported that Harris apparently broke into his home and changed his clothing.

Highway patrolmen, sheriff's officers and volunteers blocked all roads and kept night-long vigil. They decided not to try to flush the well-armed and desperate killer from the jungle-like woods during the night. Flashlights penetrated the undergrowth only a few feet.

Wet weather made bloodhounds useless. "It's awfully rough country, and he's familiar with it, so there's a good chance he might slip out," said a trooper spokesman at Willow Springs. "People in this country are aroused over this thing."

The highway patrol reported most farm families living near the surrounded area had moved out to spend the night with friends and neighbors.

The fugitive killed three persons, including his four-year-old daughter, and wounded two others during a quarrel Monday at the home of a neighbor, R. N. Fansler, 65, near Eminence, Mo. Fansler had accused Harris of running off with 15-year-old Lola Fansler, his daughter, missing since last Friday.

In the shooting, Harris fatally wounded Fansler. Fansler's son Homer, 27, and Barbara Wanda Harris, his own daughter, Elmer Nichols, brother-in-law of Fansler, was wounded in the hip by the same bullet which killed the child. The shot was aimed at him. Fansler's wife was wounded critically.

After the shooting, officers said, the ex-convict forced his wife and 16-year-old Joyce Thomas into a car and placed the baby's body on the seat.

Harris ran the car into a ditch shortly afterward, then shot at two farmers who tried to help him. He abandoned the women and fled on foot.

Troopers spotted Harris later in a pickup truck racing through Winona, Mo. They missed with shots fired at the vehicle, but Harris leaped from the truck near here and ran into the brush.

The fugitive, on parole from a burglary and larceny sentence, apparently changed clothes at the home of Reed, leaving his brown trousers and white shirt and taking the farmer's pair of denim pants and khaki shirt.

Colonel Decides Easier To Move Train By Engine

WITH 1st CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea, Aug. 9. (UP)—Lt. Col. William C. Holley, of Corvallis, Ore., got orders to blow up an American train.

It was stranded just outside the 1st Cavalry sector. Fifteen freight cars loaded with gasoline and munitions in imminent danger of falling into North Korean hands.

Holley planned everything just right. Twenty tired riflemen set out ahead in jeeps for the railway station, 15 miles east of Kumchon. The main body of his engineers' battalion followed in trucks mounting machine guns.

The riflemen seized the station and threw up a defense. The demolition was ready.

It was at that point Holley decided to heck with his plan.

He telephoned back to headquarters and said he wanted a locomotive. The officer he spoke to said maybe there was one he could get farther south.

From 2 a.m. to 4 a.m. the engineers held the station against enemy attack. Then in came a locomotive and huled the train out.

Woman Draws Short Sentence For Killing Man

HILLSBORO, Aug. 9 (UP)—Nervous and shaken, Mrs. Billie Prestridge heard a 66th District Court jury assess her a two-year suspended sentence last night for the fatal shooting of a man with whom she admitted "keeping company."

The jury deliberated only 90 minutes before returning the guilty verdict against the Cleburne woman, accused in the death of Pat Jones Ward last June 11 as they sat in his pickup truck near Hillsboro.

JUDGE FRANK McDONALD placed Mrs. Prestridge under a $2,000 recognizance bond to be effective during term of the suspended sentence.

Two defense witnesses testified that Ward, 50, Waco lumber dealer, tried to clear the 32-year-old woman of the shooting even as he lay dying in a Hillsboro hospital.

"DON'T BLAME HER," a doctor who attended Ward quoted the shooting victim saying.

Nurse Pauline Lowell told the court Ward made a deathbed statement saying he "made a mess of his life and tried to shoot himself."

MRS. PRESTRIDGE HAD SAID Ward was shot by accident during a struggle for possession of a pistol in the glove compartment of his truck.

Ward's widow and nine-year-old daughter were in the packed court room as testimony was heard yesterday.

ANOTHER SERIOUS THREAT to the Allied beachhead was the push of two Communist regiments, about 6,000 men, through a lightly defended portion of the northern front to within 10 miles west of the east coast port of Pohang, where the 1st Cavalry landed in Korea on July 18.

A spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said the Communist strategy appeared to be based on four main efforts—the Masan - Pusan highway on the south coast, the Sinam-Ni bridgehead across the Naktong, the Waegwan bridgehead above Taegu and the drive down the east coast.

The spokesman said the North Koreans have six veteran divisions, about 100,000 men, which they are using on the four fronts. The Communist 6th and possibly the Poats reported from the Sinam-Ni area at 4:30 p.m. (2:30 a.m. EDT) that aerial reconnaissance showed the Communists were building up their strength in the north-east and southeast corners of the Naktong river bulge. Airmen reported enemy troops "streaming across the sector," indicating they may be about to try to break out of the pocket.

It says SUCCESS-with SPIRIT First of the Fine Cars in Value YOU can see this man has made his mark in life, and while his heart's still young. You can tell he likes action for his money—that he knows a fine car needn't be the most expensive to give the greatest value. Yes, such are the things you know of any man, when you note that his car is a ROADMASTER. Follow him on his spirited way as he pilots this lively motorcar through traffic. Even the lightweights are no match for this road-steady husky—not with the 152-horsepower straight-eight Fireball engine that purrs beneath its bonnet. Maneuver beside him at the next stop light. Then just try to get away as smoothly, swiftly and silently as Dynaflo Drive gets his ROADMASTER going—and keeps it rolling without shifting, even automatically. But don't waste time merely envying the man in this great car! Why not emulate him? With all its outside room, interior luxury and exterior grace—with all its front-rank prestige, rare performance and matchless ride—a ROADMASTER can be yours for less than some smaller cars cost. In fact, even if you had a fortune to spend, you couldn't make a more fortunate buy in the fine-car field. So we suggest you try a few minutes behind the wheel. We're confident they will convince you that ROADMASTER has everything you could ever ask for in any motorcar—although your Buick dealer asks a good bit less for ROADMASTER than you might pay for other top-line cars.
