It's going to take a lot of work, dedicated effort, by lots of people to make the Bailey County Museum and Ranching Heritage Park a 'dream come true,' but one group of people, who have already put in many hours believe it can be done.

Tomorrow, Monday, at 8 p.m., a community meeting is scheduled to discuss the proposed plans for the complex and to solicit the aid of the community in working on the project. The meeting will be at the Bailey County Civic Center.

Interested persons will be delighted in seeing the architectural drawings of what is proposed to be done at the Heritage Park location, and hear Kim Williams of the Williams Company, Austin, a professional restoration and development company.

He will be explaining how such a Heritage Park will benefit everyone in the community from the youngest to the oldest, how it can become a major tourist attraction, and the various uses for the proposed park.

According to members of the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation, who have already been diligently working on the project, "Muleshoe and surrounding area have been given a very unique opportunity to develop local resources and make the City of Muleshoe an outstanding place that people will want to visit."

Recently, the Santa Fe Railway donated the old depot to the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation and it was moved to its permanent site east of the Bailey County Civic Center, on property donated by the Bailey County Commissioner's Court for this purpose.

Janes Ranch House, and a large donation. Plans are for the house to soon join the Santa Fe Depot.

To add more interest to this Center, it is planned to add the old Muleshoe Ranch Cookhouse.

The area for each structure has been mapped out and additional features are planned, such as arbors and picnic areas, large patio areas and decks, a barbecue pit and windmill cistern will be integrated into this plan, as well as landscaped areas and trees.

According to the Heritage Foundation, it is planned that the area will be used on a daily basis for meetings, receptions, special events, as well as activities for senior citizen groups. It could very easily become a profitable and educational tourist attraction, explained Mrs. McVicker. Similar centers and attractions have been extremely successful in Lubbock, San Angelo, Albany, Fredericksburg and many other small cities. This project could really help celebrate the important Sesquicentennial Year, she added.

This effort is going to require support from the entire community, and the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation has issued an invitation to each person to join in the meeting and make a commitment to help.

The United States Coast Guard Academy has announced that it is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U.S. Coast Guard, Class of 1990. Applications are being accepted for both men and women. Appointments as Coast Guard Cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional appointments of geographical quotas. Candidates must arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to or including the December 14, 1985 administration for the ACT, and the December 7, 1985 administration for the SAT. The competition for appointment as Cadet is based on the candidate's high school rank, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school extracurricular activities, community affairs and/or part-time employment. Most successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and demonstrate proficiency in both the mathematical and applied science fields.

To qualify for the competition, an applicant must be unmarried at the time of appointment, have no legal obligations resulting from a prior marriage, and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by July 1, 1986. Under the Department of Transportation, the Coast Guard establishes and coordinates search and rescue operations by ship and plane, maintains advanced electronic and other aids to navigation scattered around the globe, operates the icebreakers which clear the way for all polar expeditions, and enforces marine law and all aspects of merchant marine safety. ## Microwave Warmed Bottles May Result In Injuries

Microwave ovens are one of today's biggest time-savers, but Baylor College of Medicine doctors warn that using one to heat a baby's bottle can result in serious injuries and less nutritious milk.

"Milk heated in a microwave oven can reach temperatures high enough to actually burn a baby's mouth, throat or stomach," said Peter Andrus, M.D., assistant professor of pediatrics at Baylor. "Since microwaves heat liquids, but not containers, parents and baby sitters are often unaware of how hot the milk becomes."

Enough heat can be generated by a microwave to build up steam and cause the milk container to explode, which could result in mother and baby suffering cuts or serious burns from the milk.

The uneven heat distribution of microwaves creates a small pocket of intense heat in different parts of the bottle, said Judy Hopkinson, Ph.D., a researcher at Baylor's Children's Nutrition Research Center. The high temperatures destroy the vitamins in formulas and break down the disease-fighting antibodies in human milk.

"If a mother is providing breast milk with the intention of giving her baby these substances that assist in preserving health and promoting wellness, then it is pointless to defeat that purpose by using a microwave," Hopkinson said.

The best way to heat formula or human milk is to place the bottle a bowl of warm water or shake it gently under warm running water. Test the temperature of the milk by sprinkling a few drops on the back of the hand. If the milk feels too warm on the back of the hand, it will be too warm for the baby.

"Babies are not nearly as worried about the temperature of milk as parents are," Andrus said. "Once it reaches room temperature, the baby's main concern is eating."

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Robert E. Davis and Michael F. McAuley, both of Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. J.E. McVicker of Muleshoe.

Vows were exchanged before an altar of white flowers amid greenery and flanked on either side with tall tapers.

Traditional wedding music was played as the bride, escorted by her father entered the sanctuary. The bride wore her mother's formal wedding gown of ivory silk organza with an off the shoulder neckline of Alencon lace, complimented by a long full skirt which extended to a cathedral train.

Her fingertip length veil of silk illusion fell from a lace wreath dome adorned with seed pearls and rhinestones, and caught up in a pouf in the back of the wreath. She wore a string of pearls, a gift from her father, and carried a cascading bouquet or silk orchids.

Kim McAuley, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lauren Davis, Aimee Elwell and Mrs. Michael Jones, all of Dallas.

The attendents were dressed

Miss Sharla Morrison, Saylor Exchange Double Ring Vows

Miss Sharla Renae Morrison became the bride of Scott Lynn Saylor in a candlelight ceremony Saturday, Aug. 3 at 7 p.m. in the First Assembly of God Church. The Rev. Joe Stone of San Angelo read the double ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Herman and Joyce Morrison of Muleshoe and Charles (Jake) and June Saylor of Clovis, N.M.

Wedding decorations included: a fan of 15 Rosewood Mauve tapers in the center, flanked on either side by a 21 spiral of Rosewood Mauve tapers trimmed with burgundy and mauve silk flowers, greenery and bows. A memory candle and tapers lit by the mothers of the couple completed the setting. Parents pews were marked with a cascade of shades of burgundy and mauve flowers around a votive candle. Grandparents pews were marked with large mauve satin bows.

Rev. and Mrs. Steve Davis of Lubbock, with the accompaniment of a synthesizer, sang "Up Where We Belong," "You and I," and "To Me." Mrs. Pat Watson played the traditional wedding music on the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown designed by Alissa. A high neckline of Alencon lace led to an illusioned yoke. A sheer to the waist back had a row of covered buttons placed between scallops of Alencon lace. Two rows of the lace continued downward to meet the bosque waistline.

The fitted bodice complimented by a dropped waistline was covered with hand-pearled Alencon lace and scattered iridescent sequins. Full sleeves adorned with matching lace, pearls and sequins fitted against a background of white matte taffeta tapered to form a point over the hand. A full ballroom skirt flowed around to create a cathedral length train trimmed with Alencon lace.

A wreath of satin flowers adorned the head of the bride. Attached to the flowered wreath was a waltz length veil scattered with pearls and matching blusher. She carried a flowing bouquet of burgundy and mauve silk roses accented with baby's breath.

In her shoes the bride wore pennies in the years of both hers and the groom's birth. She completed her attire with the traditional something new, something borrowed, something old and something blue.

Dana Splawn of Lubbock served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Vickie Crim of Lazbuddie, Nicole Stewart of Arlington, and Angela Smith of Abilene.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids were dressed in tea-length formals designed by Jordan. The dresses were made of burgundy taffeta with a flowing overlay of burgundy chiffon. Like the bride, the bridesmaids dresses had a dropped waist front and bosque back waistling. A sheer yoke and uniquely draped chiffon three-quarter length sleeves completed the dresses.

They each carried a single mauve rose tied with burgundy ribbon. On their heads they wore a wreath of burgundy flowers accented with mauve tulle and burgundy streamers.

Blair Saylor, niece of the groom, of the West Camp community was flower girl. She wore a long white formal dress accented with tiny burgundy silk flowers. In her hair she wore barrettes covered with matching silk flowers.

Joe Neel of Muleshoe served as best man. Groomsmen were: Ronnie Angeley, Benton Glaze, and Kevin Grant, all of Muleshoe. Ryan Saylor, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

The candles were lit before the ceremony began by Kevin Hallmark and Lynn Moore. Kevin Hallmark of Florence, and Lynn Moore of Muleshoe, also served as ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Mrs. Brad Morrison, sister in law of the bride, registered the guests.

Members of the houseparty included: Mr. and Mrs. Weldon

Crim, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Morris and Mrs. Joe Stone.

The bride's table was covered with an off-white lace over solid burgundy cloth with crystal and gold appointments. Punch was served from a large crystal bowl belonging to the bride's late grandmother. The wedding cake was a three tier topped with a Precious Moments bride and groom and featured a fountain with burgundy and mauve roses and tiny doves between each tier. English ivy accented the punch service and around the cake. The bride's bouquet completed the center piece. Hand made mints in shades of mauve were also served.

Those serving at the bride's table were Sheri Bessire, K.K. Flowers and Melissa Puckett.

The groom's table was covered with ecru linen overlaid with a burgundy cloth. It was complimented with a brass coffee urn, a crystal basket of shaded mauves and burgundy

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length victorial gown of white voile with a high lace collar and lace appliques on the bodice. The dress had elbow length sleeves, with the hem and train consisting of layers of lace trimmed with ribbon.

Cotton Going From Bad----- To Worse

It's enough to make a cotton farmer cry--the way the market is shaping up for the 1985 crop.

Although the acres planted to cotton in the U.S. are down slightly this year to 10.7 million, a good crop appears in the making. Thus the end result may be about 12.5 million bales, not much under 1985 production.

Add that to the fact that consumption may nose-dive to around 9.5 million bales and the result is a snowballing carryover of more than 7 million bales. That's close to carryover stocks following the 1982 crop year--the year preceding the government's PIK program.

All this means that farmers will be hardpressed to find any sustained strength in the cotton market, says Dr. Carl Anderson, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"There appears to be little chance for the 1985 crop to move on the spot market at much above the loan rate," notes the economist. "With Strict Low Middling, 1-1/16 inch cotton set at an average of 57.3 cents under the loan, the price for most Texas cotton will be somewhat less. Farmers across the U.S. have averaged 54 cents per pound for their cotton during the first six months of the year, so a maximum deficiency payment target price minus loan rate for 1985 cotton of 23.7 cents is a real possibility."

Recent discussions about export incentives to lower the U.S. price of cotton on the world market also have had a weakening impact on future markets, with December 1986 futures already trading in the low 50-cent range.

What can be done to improve this deteriorating situation in which cotton farmers find themselves?

"The U.S. cotton industry must take strong action to recover lost markets, both at home and overseas," emphasizes Anderson. "Export incentive programs are needed to counter export subsidies of other countries and to offset effects of the strong dollar that discourage exports and encourage imports."

"Without market recovery and development, the cotton industry will face the need for much greater production cuts in 1986," adds the economist. "Based on current conditions, half as much cotton acreage as this year would be more than adequate to meet projected market needs."

August 23 from 8:00 - 12:00 for orientation and then on their respective campuses from 1:00 - 4:00 P.M. Also on this day all teacher aides in the Muleshoe district will meet for special training in the Muleshoe Cafeteria from 1:00 - 4:00 P.M.

Dr. John Champlin will be the consultant and workshop leader on August 26 and 27. Dr. Champlin, a former teacher and superintendent, is currently serving as a professor at Texas Tech University and is known nationally for his expertise in school excellence. He served as superintendent of Johnson City Schools in New York from 1971 until 1982 with tremendous success.

Urged For Safer Holiday

Major V.J. Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, is optimistic for a safer Labor Day weekend in 1985. The increased emphasis on Driving While Intoxicated has influenced many people to decide that drinking and driving is just not worth it. Major Cawthon said, "The drinking driver is still a problem in Texas. During this Labor Day weekend, the last holiday of the summer, the drinking driver will be very visible around recreational areas such as lakes and camp grounds." Cawthon urges all drivers to be alert for the drunk driver and report all infractions of the law to your

As Volunteers

A large group of Bailey County residents were among the 200 volunteers feted from an eight-county area at an appreciation luncheon at the Levelland High School Commons last Friday.

All were volunteers who had provided service to the Spartan public transportation program and the Emergency Food Assistance Program during the past year.

Jeff Klotzman, KAMC television personality from Lubbock, was keynote speaker, and developed his speech around the theme of "Your Reward for Helping Others."

He opened his address telling the group of a sign in a Lubbock restaurant that summed up the reason so many volunteer their time to help others. The sign reads, "I cried because I had no shoes until I found a man who had no feet."

Volunteers are doing something for someone who will not have an opportunity to do something for themselves, said Klotzman.

"You do it because you care. Care is something you don't have to drill for, you can't mine for it, you can't buy it...it's just something you do for others. Without your contribution, someone might not receive the help they need," according to the speaker.

Bailey County residents who volunteered more than 425 hours to volunteer services to the programs and awarded were:

Elva Anzaldua, Juana Arredondo, Pearl Fluellen, Lawrence Fluellen, Sylvia Guzman, Adelia Jones, Leo Jones, Alice Kelton, Heriberto Mendoza, Felipe Miramontes, Ilean Williams, Glen Williams, Sandra Williams, Lydia Wright, Antonia Zamora, W.H. Knowlton, Myrtle Lee, Micheal Luis and Dolores Orozco.

Also, Father Pat Maher, Duvelia Saucedo, Ofelia Saucedo, Francisco Torres, Clara Coffman, Ruel Ray Pickard, Theresa Orozco, Pauline Gwinn, Loy Dominguez, Arnold Price, Sammie Ethridge, Mary Ann Ramirez, Annie Mae Contreras, Lydia De La Rosa and Lori Goke.

"Over all Muleshoe has gained educationally and financially as a result of the recent education reform legislation, and school board members, administrators, and teachers are very optimistic relative to the 1985-86 school year," Fuller concludes.

Motorist Should Prepare Themselves For Back To School

Most children hate to see the summer vacation come to an end, because it means "Back to School." As the youngsters prepare to go back to school, the motorist should also prepare themselves for "Back to School."

Major V.J. Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety in Lubbock said, "Every year as school starts there seems to be an unfortunate rash of accidents caused by drivers who fail to follow Texas' vehicular law concerning a stopped school bus."

Major Cawthon advised, "When you see a school bus ahead, expect it to stop, especially if there are children

State law requires a driver, either meeting or following, to stop and remain stopped for a school bus when the flashing red lights are activated and children are loading or unloading from the bus. The driver of a vehicle cannot resume motion until the flashing red lights are no longer activated or the bus driver signals you to proceed.

"And of course, always be careful in school zones and in areas where you see children walking to and from school. A driver's extra effort will pay off in preventing traffic accidents in these areas," Major Cawthon explained.

Seat Belt Law Effective For Motorists September 1

On Sunday, September 1, a new law goes into effect, which may have far-reaching effects on motorists in Texas. That will be the day a mandatory seat belt law requiring persons four and over to be buckled up when riding in the front seat of a passenger car or light truck (1500 pound capacity or less).

Law enforcement officers will start issuing citations for those not obeying this law beginning on December 1, 1985. Fines will vary from $25 to $50 for non-compliance with the new law.

According to the new law, the driver is responsible for seeing that everyone from four to 15 years of age and riding in the front seat of a passenger car is buckled up. Fine for not obeying this law is $25 to $50.

It is indeed strange thinking about seat belts that permits so much death and suffering in the name of personal convenience and unwrinkled clothing, says a safety official.

Most of this "strange thinking" is based on a number of common myths about seat belts, says Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

--Myth: Seat belts are unnecessary for short trips.

Fact: More than 70 percent of injury-causing traffic accidents occur within 25 miles of home, according to the National Safety Council. More than 80 percent of all collisions happen at speeds of under 40 mph. People who were not wearing seat belts have been killed in accidents as low as 12 mph--about the speed you would be driving in a parking lot.

--Myth: Seat belts trap people inside cars, and it is considered better to be thrown clear.

Fact: "Thrown clear" is a misnomer, being thrown from a vehicle usually means flying through the windshield or catapulting out a door. The force of a collision can fling you as much as 150 feet onto a roadside object, into the path of oncoming traffic or scraping along the pavement. For these reasons, if you are thrown from vehicle in an accident, your chances of being killed are 25 percent greater. What's more, instead of being trapped, belted occupants are likely to be conscious and unhurt, and therefore better able to escape in the rare situations where fire or submersions are added dangers.

--Myth: Seat belts cause injuries.

Fact: Study after study in the United States and abroad show a substantial decrease in the number of serious injuries in actual auto accidents among those who are belted versus those who aren't. In the rare instances where injuries due to belts have been reported, either the belt was inappropriately worn or the crash was so severe that the occupants would have been killed or seriously injured if they had been unbelted.

--Myth: I don't need belts since I'm a careful driver.

Fact: No matter how good a driver you are, you can't control the other car. There's no way to protect yourself against someone else's bad driving, poor judgments or mechanical failures. Even good drivers can be killed or injured in a crash.

--Myth: I don't need seat belts; I can brace myself.

Fact: The force of an impact at just 10 mph is equivalent to catching a 200-pound bag of cement thrown from a first-story window, according to the National Safety Council. At 35 mph, the force of an impact is ever more brutal. There's no way your arms and legs can brace you against that kind of force--even if you could react in time.

Governor Offers Game Plan To Help Students Learn

By Governor Mark White

AUSTIN—When school doors open in September, Texas educators will come prepared with a game plan for grooming schoolchildren for success in the classroom as well as on the playing field.

Texas corporations and Texas celebrities like football star "Mean" Joe Greene are joining Texas teachers and coaches to promote academic excellence in our public schools.

Fina Oil and Chemical Company will award a $1,000 college scholarship to 11 Texas high school athletes who combine football prowess with outstanding schoolwork. Winners will be named to the first annual Fina Texas Academic All-State Football Team.

One of the 11—judged by a Blue Ribbon Panel to best combine football skills with academic achievement, leadership qualities and participation in other school and community activities—will be named the Fina Academic All-State Athlete of the Year.

This is one of many programs now in progress across our state to recognize the academic achievements of our young athletes.

New academic requirements mandated by the Texas Legislature will better prepare our schoolchildren for the demands of the job market.

Our students should not be daunted by the challenge of passing all their coursework before they can participate in extracurricular activities.

"Mean" Joe Greene, who I appointed as a regent at North Texas State University, is teaming up with me in a public service announcement promoting a "do pass, do play" winning attitude in Texas schools.

In this TV spot underwritten by Fina, Southwestern Bell and Atlantic Richfield, we urge young athletes to become winners in the classroom and on the playing field.

Their success in meeting that challenge depends on successful early intervention on the part of high school counselors, teachers and coaches when a student begins having problems in class.

My office has prepared a "play book" for academic coaching—outlining a variety of approaches they can use to help students learn course material: tutorials, counseling, a buddy system for studying, and meetings with the student's family to get them involved.

No student who wants to learn will be left out or left behind.

Nursing her wrath to keep it warm.

Federal budget cuts leave two choices for new farm bill

(AUSTIN)—"Budget cuts passed recently by Congress mean that there are only two choices left for a new four-year farm bill," Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said. "Congress can choose to further decimate rural America with a program that cuts farm price support levels even lower than the cost of production, or they can allow farmers to vote for a mandatory, zero-tax subsidy program that will balance supply with demand, increase farm income by half, and allow farmers to recover their production costs from the marketplace, instead of from taxpayers."

"The Reagan Administration's proposal pits farmers against taxpayers, claiming that it would cost billions to keep American family farmers from going broke, and concluding that it's not worth the price. Thus, the farm bill that they have proposed to Congress would slash the already rock-bottom prices that farmers are receiving for their commodities and lead to a farm crash that will destroy the competitive, independent, entrepreneurial structure of American agriculture—all in the name of saving money for taxpayers."

"Hogwash! Rather than giving farmers tax dollars, we can give them a simple, sound business tool—supply management—that will allow them to produce for actual world demand. By balancing their production with demand, American farmers can get a fair price for their commodities, all of which will be sold in the marketplace, at no cost to taxpayers," Hightower said. "Farmers need parity, not charity, and this commonsense approach allows them to achieve it."

"Just before starting its summer recess, Congress adopted a budget for fiscal years 1986-88 that cuts farm subsidy payments by $8 billion below current levels. That will be a disaster for American farmers. If we continue the failed, anti-farmer programs of the past, as the Reagan Administration proposes."

"However, reducing farm program spending doesn't have to mean bankruptcy for American farmers," Hightower said. "The budget cut could be an opportunity for farmers, if the Congress will come back in September and approve a new approach to farm policy, allowing farmers to opt for an effective program of mandatory production controls. Under this approach, taxpayers can save far more than $8 billion, and America can save its proven system of efficient, productive, family-farm agriculture."

"Such a proposal is awaiting action right now by both the House and Senate Agriculture Committees. It has been approved by a House subcommittee and has the support of such key members as Majority Leader Jim Wright (D-Ft. Worth). It is called 'The Farm Policy Reform Act,' and its chief sponsors are Senator Tom Harkin of Iowa and Representative Bill Alexander of Arkansas. The bill (S. 1083 and H.R. 2383) would provide a 52 percent boost in net farm income, while also virtually eliminating federal farm subsidy payments, saving as much as $10-15 billion a year in federal budget costs."

The Farm Policy Reform Act was developed through two years of Hightower-sponsored hearings with farmers, rural residents and consumer groups around the country. The proposal calls for a nationwide referendum of farmers on reducing storable commodity production to meet actual domestic export and world humanitarian market needs in exchange for approximately 40 percent higher market prices.

"It's absurd that a federal program should force farmers to sell their crops for as little as half of the cost of production. That absurdity is made clear in a recent study of the farm economy, which forecasts that without action addressing the farm crisis, we can expect farm loan losses to escalate to $25 billion, forcing interest rates back up and throwing as many as 275,000 people out of work, while reducing the nation's total gross national product by $30-50 billion and increasing the federal deficit by $21 billion," Hightower said.

Those predictions are included in a comprehensive study of the farm financial crisis prepared by Wharton Econometrics in cooperation with the Food and Agricultural Policy Research Institute at the University of Missouri-Columbia and Iowa State University.

"It is becoming clearer to more people everyday that a good farm program is important to all of us and can work for farmers and taxpayers alike," Hightower said. "But it is going to require a program based on producing for real markets in return for prices that honestly reflect the cost of production."

Federal High Tech '86 Highlights R & D Funding Opportunities

How to compete for $2 billion in Federal R&D that annually goes to high tech companies with 500 or fewer employees is the highlight of Federal HIGH TECH '86. Sponsored jointly by the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Department of Energy, Federal HIGH TECH '86 will be held in Dallas on October 29-30, 1985 and Boston on November 25-26, 1985. Cosponsors of the conference include 16 Federal R&D agencies and 28 major federal prime contractors.

Cosponsoring agencies with the National Science Foundation and Department of Energy are the Army, Navy, Air Force, Defense Advanced Projects Agency, Strategic Defense Initiative National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Department of Transportation, Department of Health and Human Services/National Institutes of Health, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Environmental Protection Agency, Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Department of Education, Department of Agriculture, and the Small Business Administration. Because of their interest in purchasing products and technology from small firms, as well as subcontracting R&D, 28 of the Federal government's largest prime contractors also will be making R&D presentations at Federal HIGH TECH '86.

The cosponsoring companies include IBM, AT&T, Ford Aerospace, General Dynamics, General Electric, Boeing, GTE, United Technologies, Rockwell International, Litton, McDonnell Douglas, 3M, TRW, Sperry, GM/Hughes, LTV, Westinghouse, Signal Companies, Textron/AVCO, Motorola, ITT, Raytheon, Grumman, Texas Instruments, Allied/Bendix, Martin Marietta, RCA, and Teledyne. Billions of dollars are awarded to small companies each year by prime contractors seeking technical hardware, services, and R&D.

In order for companies to take full advantage of the six concurrent workshops at the meeting, the registration fee is only $50, to enable two-day representatives per company to attend. This fee is for the entire two-day conference and includes two luncheons and all conference materials. The Federal agencies and prime contractors will make half-hour presentations during which they describe their R&D priorities for the coming fiscal year. Representatives of agencies and companies also are available for private meetings with attendees during which more targeted, substantive exchanges can occur. The function of these presentations and one-on-one meetings is an enable small companies to locate the best R&D marketing opportunities. The same format will be used in both Dallas and Boston for the two-day conference.

Federal R&D totals some $50 billion, nearly half the nation's total R&D. The government is by far the largest single market for R&D and many areas of technology. To better enable small companies to compete for R&D, government and private sector exports will hold 15 workshops on topics such as proposal preparation, follow-on-funding, marketing high technology, government contracting, patents and licensing, MIS, and project costing. Because small companies frequently must meet financial and other needs to be viable competitors, other workshops focus on venture capital, business plans, SBA programs, and sources of technical information.

Federal HIGH TECH '86 will place emphasis on new Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) opportunities. In FY 1986, over $325 million in SBIR awards will be made. Responding to R&D topics developed by the agencies, small firms with the best proposals receive up to $50,000 for advance research to demonstrate their scientific and technical merit and the feasibility of their ideas in a first Phase. The most promising projects receive Phase II funding of up to $500,000 to further develop the proposed ideas to meet Federal agency R&D needs. Where two or more proposals are evaluated as having approximately equal scientific and technical merit and feasibility, special consideration is given to those proposals that have commitments of nonfederal capital for a Phase III effort to commercialize the results of the Federally-funded work.

SBIR programs have been particularly beneficial to small firms. For example, Collaborative Research, one of the nation's leading biotechnology companies, conducted its first genetics research under a National Science Foundation 1977 SBIR award and subsequently received more than $40 million in equity and R&D funding.

To register, or for additional information, companies should contact the conference contractor: Foresight Science & Technology Incorporated, 2000 St., NW, Suite 305, Washington, DC 20036 or call (202) 833-8844.

V.A. News

The U.S. Veterans Administration turned 55 on July 21, and in the words of current Administrator Harry N. Walters, "is more than ever dedicated to serving America's finest."

The VA was created in 1930 to centralize the federal government's responsibility for providing benefits to veterans and their dependents. Paralleling the vast increase in the number of veterans over the last 55 years, the VA has grown immediately and is now the nation's largest independent federal agency.

The present veteran population of 28 million is almost six times the 4.7 million veterans living in America in the VA's founding year. Eighty-one of every 100 living veterans served during defined periods of armed hostilities and account for 59 percent of all Americans who ever served in war in over two centuries.

Altogether, 81.5 million persons - veterans, dependents and survivors of deceased veterans - are potentially eligible for VA benefits and services. This is almost one-third of the nation's population.

To meet this challenge, the VA is providing the most comprehensive and diverse benefits programs in its history.

From 54 hospitals in 1930, the VA hospital system has grown to include 172 medical centers, 228 outpatient clinics, 116 nursing home care units (by the end of September), and 16 domiciliaries. It is the nation's largest medical care system.

With nearly 80,000 beds, the medical centers annually treat 1.3 million patients, and nursing homes and domiciliaries care for an additional 30,000. Outpatient clinics register more than 18 million visits a year.

Since 1979, the VA has operated a nationwide system of Vet Centers which provide readjustment counseling services to Vietnam Era veterans. By the end of 1985, 189 of these "storefront" centers will be in business around the country. More than 250,000 veterans and their family members have received counseling for a variety of problems - including employment, marital and post-traumatic stress disorder.

While providing high quality health care to the nation's veterans, VA also conducts an array of research activities concentrating on some of the most difficult research challenges facing medical science today.

VA research helped to conquer tuberculosis; to develop the heart pacemaker; to perfect kidney transplants and to develop the laser cane for the blind. The VA is recognized as a world leader in the research and development of prosthetic devices. Recent VA innovations include a robotic arm, omnidirectional wheelchairs and aids for diminished vision.

VA researchers are exploring ways to improve the treatment of the spinal-cord injured, including spinal-cord rejuvenation, and are developing new, improved artificial limbs for amputees. VA psychiatrists and physiologists are continuing to develop treatment techniques for schizophrenia, alcoholism, and the long-term psychic effects of war.

VA disability and death compensation and pension expenditures run about $14 billion annually, with monthly payments going to nearly 3 million veterans and 1.3 million widows and other survivors of veterans.

Since 1944, when the first GI Bill became law, over 18.2 million beneficiaries have received education and training assistance, and 11.7 million have made use of the home loan guaranty program.

Veterans educated under the GI Bill include 7.8 million from World War II, 2.4 million from the Korean Conflict, and 8 million from the Post-Korean and Vietnam Eras.

The VA has guaranteed over $230 billion in home loans under the 41-year-old program which not only aided veterans, but helped spur one of the greatest building booms in history.

Another of the VA's responsibilities is operation of one of the largest life insurance programs in the world. In 1984, the VA administered and supervised approximately $146 billion in policies for 7.4 million veterans and military personnel. Since 1973, when the VA took over the National Cemetery System, nine new national cemeteries have been established and two more have been approved. Today there are 109 cemeteries in 38 states and Puerto Rico. Interments are expected to increase from 47,000 in 1984, to 80,000 in the year 2000.

The VA also provides over 250,000 headstones or markers each year to mark the graves of veterans buried in private and national cemeteries.

Reflecting today's concerns, Administrator Walters has set several programs in motion that will add to the VA's capabilities to care for veterans in the decades ahead.

A major effort is being made to improve services for women veterans and to insure that they are aware of their eligibility for veterans benefits, on an equal basis with male veterans.

Walters has added a goal for the VA to: "Provide better service to veterans and their families through the use of modern automatic data processing and telecommunications technology." Work has already begun on installing a Decentralized Hospital Computer Program which will greatly enhance clinical laboratory functions, pharmacy activities, patient scheduling, and patient admission/transfer/discharge processing.

A physical fitness advocate, Walters has also inaugurated a nationwide program designed to emphasize exercise and fitness as an essential part of health care, focusing mainly on promoting wellness and independence for disabled and aging veterans.

The biggest challenge to the VA in the future lies in the aging veteran population. Veterans 65 and older will increase from the present mark of 3.9 million to nearly 8.8 million before the turn of the century. By 1995, over 60 percent of U.S. males over age 65 will be veterans.

In addition to hospital and nursing home care, the VA is exploring noninstitutional extended care programs such as hospital-based home care and residential placements in "personal care homes." Congress has also authorized the VA a pilot, five-year adult daycare program.

The VA is a pioneer in exploring the whole subject of care for the aged and is deeply involved in research of Alzheimer's disease and other problems of the aging.

Eleven Geriatric Research, Education and Clinical Centers have been established at VA medical facilities to help push the state of the art in caring for the aging.

Without question, the nation has, and will continue to heed Abraham Lincoln's admonition to "care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow, and his orphan."

Through September 30, 1984, the VA and its predecessor agencies spent $432 billion for benefits the nation has provided those who served in its military forces. The proposed Fiscal 1986 budget of about $26.7 billion is the third largest among federal agencies, ranking behind only the Departments of Health and Human Services and Defense.

As of December 1984, there were 241,929 employees on the VA rolls. Of these, 220,591 were in the department of Medicine and Surgery, 13,887 in the Department of Veterans Benefits, and 1,163 in the Department of Memorial Affairs. The rest, 6,288 employees, were in the various staff offices needed to support the three major departments.

At age 55, the VA is indeed, robust and ready.

ANITA SERNA

Angels Of Mercy Of West Plains Medical Center

Since 1983, Anita Serna has been a part of the nursing staff at West Plains Medical Center. Her job title says she is a "Ward Secretary", but anyone who has ever worked day shift without Anita knows that she is responsible for more than what the term "Ward Secretary" would imply. Anita is the person who, from 7 AM to 3 PM, answers the phone at the nurses station, greets patients as they come to us from the Business Office, receives transmissions from the ambulance teams when they are out on emergency calls, registers ER patients, collects payment from ER patients and discharged patients, answers a monumental number of questions from physicians, and operates the switchboard on the weekends. Anita says "I like working with the nurses and doctors at WPMC. I especially enjoy working with the ER patients, we have some very interesting ER cases. Working with the staff of WPMC and helping people who come to our hospital find the assistance they need are the reasons I continue to work at WPMC."

TAB Supporting Amendments On Water Plan

The state water plan proposal has garnered another advocate. The 5,500 member Texas Association of Business (TAB) have expressed their support for the two constitutional amendments to enact the program. Voters will make their decision on the water plan in November. The centerpiece of the proposals is an amendment authorizing water development bonds of up to $980 million. Other provisions would set up agricultural soil and water conservation funds, provide for freshwater inflows to bays and estuaries, regulate ground-water supplies and earmark flood control assistance. Bill Gray, president of TAB, said "The lack of a comprehensive state water plan has been a deterrent to economic growth in Texas. The Legislature is to be commended for working out a compromise plan. Texans should join together to insure the passage of these two amendments to assure the future economic growth of our state."

TAB is a statewide alliance of employers.
