A NEW ELEMENT has been injected into the 1980 presidential campaign....religion. Well, religion isn't exactly new, and it has been "used" by churches and church members rather than by the politicians themselves.

You may have been hearing a bit of scuff about "Christian Voice," "The Moral Majority," etc., etc. This is a movement across the country to encourage Christian people to get out and vote for the candidates which Christian leaders feel are the best qualified to get our country back on the right track.

A lot of people have certainly gotten their hackles up over this. But President Carter, you may recall; definitely was not above spouting a lot of religion in order to help get himself elected in 1976. We haven't seen much of his religious side since he got in office.

Pastors and church leaders urge their members to vote for certain candidates. Labor Unions coerce their members to vote for certain candidates. What's the difference? Why is it so much worse for a preacher to dabble in politics than it would be for a Union Boss or an atheistic leader to do the same thing?

After all, anti-religion is a religion in itself, and we all know how the atheists have managed to impose themselves into our politics, our school systems, and our every-day lives.

If the "Moral Majority" can get folks out to the polls who wouldn't have voted otherwise, we say "more power to them." The "Moral Majority" and the "silent majority" are probably pretty close to the same thing. These Christian leaders can "suggest" who they think might be the best candidate for various offices, but in the final analysis, it is the voter who must make up his own mind as to who will receive his vote.

The government and the politicians haven't been doing such a good job of running the country, so maybe it's time to give God a chance at it. He sure couldn't do any worse.

"Boss, may I have next Wednesday off?"

"I don't think so."

"But it's my silver wedding anniversary and my wife and I hoped to celebrate."

"For heaven's sake! Am I going to have to put up with this every 25 years?"

A Chicagoan, an Ohioan, and a Texan died, and all were scheduled for cremation on the same day.

The Chicago man was cremated first, and when his ashes were removed, they were put into a quart jar. The Ohio man was next, and his ashes required a pint container.

The Texas man was last. After 15 hours, the furnace door was opened. Out walked the Texan, mopping his face with his handkerchief.

"Boy," he said, "if we get two more days of this hot weather, it'll ruin the cotton for sure!"

Hance Campaigns For Sarpalius

Congressman Kent Hance and state senatorial candidate Bill Sarpalius were in Friona last Friday. Congressman Hance was "stumping" on behalf of Sarpalius' candidacy.

Hance said he had come from Washington at his own expense to campaign on behalf of Sarpalius, and that Sarpalius was the only candidate he would be doing extra work for in the district.

"I feel that the state senate position is a vital one, and that the district has not had the type of representation the past three years that it deserves," Hance told a crowd which gathered at the Parmer House Restaurant.

"Every property owner in this district is affected by the state senate. The senate determines the types of local property taxes which the residents will pay.

"You need to have a state senator who will be effective, who can get along with your colleagues. With 14 senators (of 31) from the four largest cities in the state, you need to ask 'Can our elected official influence another official,'" Hance said.

Hance said he had the utmost respect for Sarpalius, and felt he would be the type of official of which the local residents would be proud.

Sarpalius said he had conducted a 'personal' campaign. "I have been to every town in the district six times, and have been in every place of business at least twice. I live right down the road from you, and will speak out for you. I'm willing to work hard, and would be proud to represent you in the state senate," he added.

The heretofore resident carried Parmer County with a 90 per cent margin.

"I don't have the money for as much television advertising as my opponent, and I will be counting on my grass roots campaign to win. I will need to carry Parmer County again by 90 per cent in order to offset gains by my opponent in his home area," Sarpalius said.

Getting out the vote was also cited as a key to the senate race.

Bob Price was elected to the state office in 1977, after former Senator Max Sherman resigned to become president of West Texas State University.

SARPALIUS SUPPORTERS....Congressman Kent Hance, center, and state senatorial candidate Bill Sarpalius, right, were in Friona last Friday as Hance spoke in support of Sarpalius' candidacy. Charles Caudill, left, organized the coffee meeting at the Parmer House Restaurant.

Commission Urges Finish Your History

The Parmer County Historical Commission urges you to complete your family histories as they are needed to have the whole county well represented.

"We would also like to remind you about a Memorial to someone special through written copy and pictures. This is a lasting memorial that can be handed down for decades to come--something to be passed down from generation to generation, plus those placed in libraries and public places. Memorial pages are available in full pages, half pages, or fourth page," said Otho Whitefield, book spokesman.

"Why wait until that special person in your family is dead to express your love and appreciation of what they mean to you? Do it now. Surprise them with a tribute written and published in the Parmer County History. It may be done in the same manner as for memorials," Whitefield says.

"We would like to remind you again that only the number of books that are presold will be published. There will be no extra books. They are $35.00 each, $37.50 if they are to be mailed. Send order to Box 577, Friona, Texas, 79035, Whitefield concluded.

Around The House

By LAURA JACOBS

"Summer" pears, from the Pacific coast, are in season from late August through November. So fall is the perfect time to try them. Teamed up with pork chops (another good buy right now) you have supper in a skillet, easy for you to fix and your family to enjoy.

Pears are a refreshing compliment to pork and other meat. Pork chops and sunny pears simmer in a ginger-flavored sauce in this recipe.

Pears and Pork
6 pork loin chops, 3/4 to 1 inch thick
salt and pepper
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup water
1/4 cup soy sauce
1/2 tsp. ground ginger
3 fresh pears, halved and cored

Trim excess fat from pork chops. Brown chops on both sides; drain excess fat. Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper. Combine brown sugar, lemon juice, water, soy sauce and ginger; pour over the chops. Cover and cook over low heat about 20 minutes. Arrange pears around chops and cook 20 minutes longer or until pork is tender; baste pears occasionally with sauce in pan. Makes 6 servings.

Bovina Native Joins FW Church

Howard Shelton, chairman, pastor-parish relations committee, and Dr. Barry Bailey, senior minister, have jointly announced the appointment of Scotty Rundell as director of music ministries of First United Methodist Church, Fort Worth.

SCOTTY RUNDELL

Rundell has been serving in the capacity of interim director for the past three months. He was appointed to that position with the departure of Gene Lorey who returned to school to pursue a Ph.D. degree.

Under his leadership, the Chancel Choir of First Methodist has received 21 new members.

"Our growth is very exciting," stated Rundell.

He laughed as he continued, "The only problem we are facing now is the number of robes we have. We might run out!"

Rundell came to the staff of First Church in July, 1978, as the director of our graded choir program. Over the past two years he has not only caused a growth in the existing five youth and children's choirs, but he has also added a sixth grade vocal and a sixth grade handbell choir to the program.

MUSIC WEEK is a special program addition of Rundell's. Designed for elementary aged children, music week is five days of music study, arts, crafts, and other activities. The children participating also prepare, and then present to the congregation, a musical drama for young voices.

A native of Bovina, Texas, Rundell graduated from Midwestern University with a Bachelor degree in music education. He earned his Master of Sacred Music degree in 1978 from Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University.

Before joining the First Church staff he held teaching positions in the public school systems in Odessa and Altus, Oklahoma. He has also held staff positions at First UMC, Richardson, First UMC, Odessa, and First UMC, Altus.

While at Perkins he was graduate assistant to Roger Deschner, director of the Master of Sacred Music program. Rundell also served as student director of the Seminary Singers.

Active in the musical community of Fort Worth, Rundell is a member of Schola Cantorum, a professional choir which is a member of the Fort Worth Arts Council.

Rundell has one son, Dave, and enjoys racketball, tennis, reading and snow and water skiing.

YOU KNOW YOU'VE HAD A BAD DAY WHEN:

Your horn gets stuck behind a group of Hell's Angels.

You walk to work and discover your dress is stuck in the back of your panty hose.

You wake up and your braces are locked together.

You call 'suicide prevention' and they put you on hold.

You look for clothes you wore to last night's party and there aren't any.

Your horrible tasting toothpaste turns out to be preparation H.

You put both contacts in one eye.

You dreamed you ate the world's largest marshmallow and your pillow is missing.

You jump out of bed and miss the floor.

Have fun.....Scooter.

The Bible's Message Is For Now

Read 1 Peter 1:18-25

"The word of the Lord abides for ever." That word is the good news which was preached to you.

--1 Peter 1:25 (RSV)

ONE Sunday our young pastor invited us to choose one stanza of a hymn that would express our feelings during the previous week. It had been a week of campus eruptions, escalation of the war, and violence in our nation.

How appropriate and fitting was the choice called out by one of our elderly members. He chose the last stanza of "This Is My Father's World." Together we sang the reassuring words of that beloved hymn.

"O let me ne'er forget
That though the wrong seems oft so strong,
God is the Ruler yet."
God's word is still reminding us that faith and hope must be in God only. This is the message the church must proclaim. We are not to "be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good." God's word was never more relevant than now.

PRAYER: O God, we thank Thee for the assurance of Thy constant care and guidance. We look to Thee in these troubled times for help and courage to proclaim the good news of salvation through Christ. In His name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
We are not overcome with fear when we remember that God is in control of the universe.

June Titus (Lincoln, Nebraska)

Around The House

By LAURA JACOBS
Retired women pay taxes on more of their income than men in many cases, because of a tax formula based on women's longer life expectancy, but that may change as the Internal Revenue Service studies the issue.

Treasury Department officials have suggested the IRS amend this regulation, so the IRS is holding hearings on the subjects.

Currently, IRS regulations use a formula called the "exclusion ratio" to determine what portion of retirement-annuities income is tax exempt.

This exclusion ratio is arrived at by dividing the amount of a person's investment in the retirement fund by the total return expected to be received for the rest of the person's life.

Traditional sex-segregated insurance tables provide the average life expectancy figure for the IRS to use in computing the tax exemption--and these tables show a longer life span for women than for men.

Traditionally a woman's life expectancy has been longer than a man's, so her exclusion ratio is smaller--and that means more of her income is taxed.

Suggested amendments would require tables that do not differentiate by sex.

Here's an example of the current system:

A man and a woman each contribute an equal amount to an annuity fund--say $10,000--with each to receive $1,000 each year after retirement.

The tables say the man is expected to live 12 years and the woman 15.

Based on the tables in use, the IRS would compute each person's exclusion ratio this way: AMOUNT INVESTED divided by the ANNUAL ALLOWANCE times LIFE EXPECTANCY.

So, for the man, it would be $10,000 divided by $1,000 times 12. This equals 5/6. That is his exclusion ratio--5/6 of his annuity would be tax exempt.

For the woman, it would be $10,000 divided by $1,000 times 15. This equals 2/3.

So only 2/3 of the woman's annuity would be tax exempt.

In other words, the man will pay taxes on only one-sixth of his income, while the woman would pay taxes on one-third of hers.

Kress Pulls Sneak Attack On Mustangs

The Bovina Mustangs traveled to Kress Friday night in the first district 3-AA game of the season, to be defeated 45-6.

A pass interception in the first quarter of the game led to the first score of the game for the Kress Kangaroos in the game Friday night at Kress. Wayne Johnson intercepted a pass from Dale Gilbreath and carried the ball into the end zone. Johnson fumbled in the end zone but tackle James Cathey recovered to give Kress the TD.

Bovina's Mustangs just couldn't get the offense together in the first half. The score at the half was 20-0 Kress.

Kress kept the Mustangs' receivers well covered, but the Ponies were able to get a TD into the end zone during the third quarter, on a 44 yard TD pass from Dale Gilbreath to split end Ricky Shepherd. The two point conversion failed. Kress came back with a TD pass from Darren Young to tight end Glen Terrell and a 49 yard run by Kirk Hawkins.

Lester Young intercepted another Bovina pass in the final period and carried the ball 15 yards for the score. The PAT failed, leaving the score 39-6.

The Kangaroos finished off the scoring on a six yard pass to Terrill. The extra point try failed.

The loss put Bovina's season record to 4-2 and Kress 3-2-1.

The Mustangs host the Vega Longhorns this Friday night at the Mustang Field. Vega is undefeated for the season with a record of 6-0. Kick-off time is 7:30 p.m.

The eighth grade and Jayvee teams travel to Vega Thursday. Their kick-off time is 5 p.m. with the JV immediately following the eighth grade game.

1. Please describe your training and experience that qualify you for this office.
Active private law practice since 1951, member of Texas House of Representatives 1956-1961; member of Texas Senate 1962-1975 — Chaired or served on all major House and Senate Committees. Chaired Legislative Property Tax Committee. Active in administrative and private business endeavors.

2. What should be the role of the Texas Railroad Commission with respect to the national energy problem?
Texas produces almost 40% of the oil and gas in the U.S. and moving to the forefront in lignite. The Commission should offer strong leadership towards solutions of the energy crisis. The Commission's failure to offer strong leadership in this area has encouraged the Federal Bureaucracy to spend billions of dollars without producing one barrel of oil and they have imposed unconscionable taxes on the people of Texas which impedes future exploration and production.

3. What are the three most urgent issues facing the Railroad Commission and how will you address them?
(a) Lack of effective leadership toward solving the energy problem. The Commission must exhibit strong leadership in every phase of energy. Texas produces 40% of total U.S. energy yet has no strong voice in Austin or Washington to insure that every citizen's interest is protected.
(b) Red tape has resulted in the production of tons of paperwork but little energy, with added consumer cost.
The Commission should promote methods of streamlining operations to encourage production of substantially more energy. Texas should strive for incentives which will allow for greater production of energy.
(c) Loss of confidence in the actions of the Commission.

1. Please describe your training and experience that qualify you for this office.

As a consumer I have enough experience in paying high transportation and energy bills to know that competition, not Railroad Commission regulations can lower these bills. I am an ex-Air Force officer with degrees from Kenyon College and Stanford University and have a professional knowledge on the energy industry.

2. What should be the role of the Texas Railroad Commission with respect to the national energy problem?
The Texas Railroad Commission should not have any further role in either our national or local energy problems. The Commission's past role is a major cause of our current crisis and for this reason the Commission should be abolished when its authority expires under the Texas Sunset Act in 1983.
Artificially high prices have been the result of past Commission policies restricting Texas oil production and limiting imports of cheaper foreign crude oil. The naturally independent and competitive spirit of Texas energy producers, not the Railroad Commission, is the key to abundant future energy at fair prices.

3. What are the three most urgent issues facing the Railroad Commission and how will you address them?
The only important issue facing the Railroad Commission is whether it should be allowed to continue its anti-consumer programs or whether it should be abolished under the Texas Sunset Act. As of now the uses the money for programs to limit competition in the transportation and energy industries. This costs consumers hundreds of millions of dollars more each year in artificially high prices. To expand these programs the Commission is now requesting a 46% budget increase!
These problems can only be addressed by "sunsetting" the Texas Railroad Commission.

JAMES E. (JIM) NUGENT

1. Please describe your training and experience that qualify you for this office.
I have served nearly two years on the Commission and 18 years in the legislature, where I sponsored Texas' first ethics law for public officials, revision of criminal statutes and major funding bills for highways and education. I am a lawyer, engineer, and successful businessman.

2. What should be the role of the Texas Railroad Commission with respect to the national energy problem?
The energy crisis is real, it is sapping our national economy and making us the target of scheming international madmen. Solutions will be found, but our immediate challenge is to produce efficiently the energy we have, conserve what we can and bridge the gap to new sources and technologies as rapidly as possible. The Railroad Commission will continue as an aggressive leader in each phase of this program by efficient management of our oil and gas reserves, promotion of lignite-coal, solar, gasohol, geothermal and in situ mining technologies. We must also play a leadership role in balancing developing federal energy regulation against our own.

3. What are the three most urgent issues facing the Railroad Commission and how will you address them?
Texas consumers are unwitting victims of national policies designed to provide cheap energy to the Northeast. The railroads, coal-exporting states and others have used Texas for their own benefit. I will continue to oppose these out-of-state forays into Texas consumers' pocketbooks. I will hold gas utility profits to the minimum level sustainable under the law, while assisting small cities in rate proceedings with utility companies. I will continue my initiative to keep overweight trucks off our highways, saving millions in highway maintenance and automobile repairs.

Appeals, interpreting and applying the law.

2. What structural or administrative changes, if any, do you recommend for the Texas judicial system?
The changes most needed are ones which will decrease the costs and delay inherent in our judicial process while at the same time making it more accessible to all citizens. The establishment of neighborhood justice centers, where citizens may submit their disputes to trained, volunteer arbitrators without incurring expenses, would accomplish all three of these goals. Second, the transcription of testimony should be converted from the current system employing typewriter to computerized stenotypes. This change would drastically decrease the time needed to prepare the appellate record which is the greatest cause of delay both in civil and criminal cases.

1. Please describe your training and experience that qualify you for this office.
My current service as Texas Supreme Court Justice; Texas University law graduate, ranked first in class; 3 years' military; 20 years' Texas private civil law practice; endorsements include 11 former Supreme Court Justices, 3 former Governors, 4 former Attorney Generals, 15 Texas Bar Presidents; 82% endorsement Texas lawyers' poll.

2. What structural or administrative changes, if any, do you recommend for the Texas judicial system?
I believe judicial elections should be determined on qualifications and character, rather than on a partisan or party label basis. There is no "Republican" or "Democratic" justice, only justice under law equally for all. The legislature and people of Texas should seriously consider changing the election of judges so they would run as non-partisans and not under a party label.
Also, we must always strive to improve our judicial system's efficiency, while maintaining its essential fairness. I have tried to do so in my service on the Texas Supreme Court. We must remember that justice delayed may be justice denied.

2. What structural or administrative changes, if any, do you recommend for the Texas judicial system?
1. New simplified rules for appeals to reduce delays;
2. Permitting closed circuit videotape in trial courts to augment record on appeal;
3. Updating court reporting methods by use of electronic word processing;
4. Streamlining trial by permitting liberal summary judgment by trial courts;
5. Cut civil juries to 6 members; and

I have practiced general civil law for 18 years; served two terms in the Texas Senate, gaining invaluable experience in law making; served as a District Judge and an Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, interpreting and applying the law.

1. Please describe your training and experience that qualify you for this office.
Ten years on the Court of Civil Appeals, four years in the Texas Legislature, two years as County Judge of Harrison County. Education: Business degree from Texas A&M; law degree from University of Texas; graduate of the National Judicial College and the Institute of Judicial Administration. Thirteen years in law practice.

2. What structural or administrative changes, if any, do you recommend for the Texas judicial system?
Provide, through the rule of procedure for minor disputes to be handled by local committees through negotiation. This process has worked well to relieve the courts of minor but difficult cases in many other states. Provide for more efficiency in the court procedures through the use of modern business equipment. Both of these approaches would help relieve the court without additional costs to public.

It's True.

"We put the heat pump in our home based on the recommendation from a builder. He said, 'by having a heat pump, you will save money over a long period of time on heating and cooling costs.' And, he was right! We are saving money with a heat pump. The heat pump really does do an efficient job of heating and cooling the home. If we were doing it all over, we would put a heat pump in again based on the results we've seen with lower electric bills. We are extremely pleased with the way the heat pump has performed."

The things said about the heat pump are true. Find out more about the heat pump. It can save for you.
