Weekend kicks off with Rodeo Parade today

by Julie Hudman

It's traditional that some rain clouds shower Post during the Stampede Rodeo, so maybe by the time this is in print Garza County will have had some nice rains and then have fair weather for the three performances.

The downtown parade is Thursday afternoon beginning at 5:30. Some of the groups on hand to help kick off the August 10, 11, and 12 shows are the Lubbock Saddle Club, Post Middle School cheerleaders, Post High School cheerleaders, and floats by L.D.'s Daughters, Tac 'N Feed, and the Trinity Baptist Church. Parade Marshall is Bob West, a former Post Stampede director who served in 1962 for several years. Bob has always been a supporter of cowboy and cowgirl events, and he was a faithful contributor to the rodeo while he resided in Post. Bob West has a reputation among leather makers as one of the best in the panhandle. He owned and operated a western store and saddle shop on Highway 84 in Post for years. He now resides in Dickens, Texas and runs Bob West Saddlery there.

This year the Post Stampede Rodeo directors have added improvements to the shows. They have constructed a brand-new dance slab located in the northwest corner of the rodeo grounds. It's twice the size of the previous slab and promises to be very popular when Jody Nix and his band crank up their nightly music. Should rain come during the dance, it will be moved under cover to the old dance slab. Admission to the dance will be $5 per person.

Everyone must pay admission to the rodeo at the gate on the highway now. There will be two traffic lanes entering with plenty of gate people to keep the vehicles moving. No out traffic will pass through the entry gate in order to keep congestion down. Anyone wishing to leave and come back must pick up a ticket stub as they leave through the north gate on Highway 84. Rodeo admission is $4 for adults and $1 for children 12 years and under.

Also, the directors have included Mutton Busting as an 8 and under event this year. Entry fee will be $4 and contestants must contact Ken Young prior to the rodeo in order to enter. A parent or legal guardian must enter the child and must be present to put the child on the lamb before he/she will be allowed to participate.

Rodeo books are open until noon on Wednesday. Rene Upton from Silver City, New Mexico is the rodeo secretary. Terry Walls Rodeo Company will furnish the stock, with Dwayne Potet from Louisiana working the bulls. Rodeo announcer is Jody Carper from Big Spring.

Post ISD trustees struggle to hold tax rate with declining revenues

by Wes Burnett

In less than three years Post ISD has gone from riches to rags in terms of total revenue available for the tax base, and trustees spent several hours at the regular meeting Tuesday night trying to trim down the 1995-96 proposed budget.

Working with a projected tax rate of $1.44 per $100 evaluation, trustees directed superintendent Dr. Bobby Bain to prepare a balanced budget, requiring a cut of approximately $70,000 from the total $5,888,000. Although the proposed budget is less than the 1993-94 total of $5,968,000, trustees insisted that expenses be held within expected revenue.

A budget hearing has been scheduled for August 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the board room, at which time trustees will determine the final tax rate. The mood at Tuesday's meeting left no doubt that board members favor holding the line on the tax rate, which this year is $1.41. The projected budget presented at the meeting was based on a rate of $1.44, but may not be the final rate accepted by the board.

Board members went through the budget with a fine tooth comb, asking

Commissioners focus attention on tight '96 budget

Declining mineral evaluations sting

Another budget work session Monday afternoon kept the Garza County Commissioners' Court zoned in on declining revenues and tightly controlled expenses.

The formal public hearing on the budget will be held Monday, August 14 at the regular meeting. One of the issues facing the court is complying with the federal mandates related to the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Working with a loss of $28,165,000 from mineral evaluations, commissioners are studying a proposed budget of approximately $1.6 million with estimated revenues of $1.63 million on a tax rate of $0.40 per $100 evaluation. The current tax rate is $0.36.

Commissioners are looking for ways to tighten the expenses to allow for a continuing reserve fund of $260,000, which represents two months operating costs.

Attending the meeting were commissioners Royce Josey, Mason McClellan, Lee Norman, John Valdez, Judge Dalby, clerk Sonny Gossett and treasurer Ruth Ann Young.

questions about several line items that were dramatically higher than last year. "What we are saying," trustee Rex Cash said, "is we would like to see a budget that reflects the economic problems facing us at this time."

Last year Post ISD lost $100 million in mineral based tax evaluations, and that dramatic decrease is expected to continue. Although mineral production has not declined as much as the loss of revenue indicates, the method of determining depletion has created a crisis atmosphere for most West Texas school districts accustomed to mineral production taxes.

"A freight train is coming down the tracks," trustee Jeff Lott declared, "and we are concerned about the impending wreck."

After a lengthy discussion about repairing or replacing air conditioning units at the middle school, trustees approved a $14,500 replacement and improvement for the building. Jim Voss explained the deteriorating condition of the one unit supplying air to the Learning Center and two classrooms, and Cash brought the issue to the table by emphasizing the need to maintain current buildings, "we certainly are going to need that building for a long time," he said.

In other action, trustees approved the sale of property related to delinquent tax cases following an executive session with Shelley Veselka, attorney for tax collections.

Board members also approved new graduation credit requirements at the high school, following a recommendation by principal Joe Giddens. Incoming freshmen this year will be required to earn 24 credits, instead of 21. Giddens explained that the new block scheduling allows for students to earn as many as 32 credits.

Attendance problems at the high school were also discussed, and Dr. Bain informed trustees that beginning this school year Bobby Dean will be used as a truant officer to check on chronic absentee students.

Following an executive session, trustees voted to accept the resignation of elementary teachers Mikki Miller and Kenda Baskin and hired Mendy Dalby and Carol Williams as replacements.

Attending the meeting were trustees Gary Workman, Rex Cash, Mark Kirkpatrick, Jeff Lott, Alexa Collier, Mark Short and Barbara Hardin.

Beauty Tips

by Leslie Tatum

Here are a few more tips for mature makeup wearers.
 To enhance fading or thinning brows, use two colors of brow pencil. For the most natural look, apply with short strokes, not long lines. Add a brow creme to spruce up brows and hold them in place. Control cremes not only shape brows, they add definition, fullness and depth.
 To give an instant "eye lift", use an eyelash curler.
 Use soft, muted eyeshadow colors like taupe, gray and mauve if you wear cooler, blue-toned colors.

 Opt for peach, brown or khaki if you wear warmer shades.
 Avoid bright, frosted colors for eyes and lips. These shades make eyelids and lips look older and crepey.
 Be sure to add two coats of mascara to thicken lashes and define eyes.
 Watch what you're doing! Invest in a lighted, magnifying mirror to use while applying make-up.

Fun Time Club

The Fun Time single ladies salad supper was held July 31 at 6:30 p.m. at the Trail Blazers center.
 Johnnie Francis and Inez Ritchie were hostesses.
 Ladies attending for a night of fellowship and good food were Jean Tipton, Johnnie

Francis, Nona Lusk, Winona Ward, Ruby Shedd, Hooter Terry, Ruby Carpenter, Mary Gunn, Pansy Smith, Inez Ritchie, Marietta Pruitt, Helen Jones and Doris Riddle.
 The next meeting will be August 28, 1995. Hostesses will be Mary Gunn and Pansy Smith.

Mrs Joshua Parrott

Sara Alexander, Joshua Parrott wed August 5th

Sara Ann Alexander and Joshua Bramwell Parrott were united in marriage Saturday, August 5, 1995 at 7 p.m. at the First Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Jack Alexander.

The groom is the son of Mr and Mrs Clark Parrott of Seminole.

The bride's father officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The sanctuary was decorated with an arrangement of candles and candelabras covered with ivy and accented with satin and tulle bows.

Baskets of larkspur were also used. Aisle markers were accented with daisy nosegays, candles, and satin bows.

The bride, escorted by Mitchel Rasberry, her brother-in-law, wore a white satin gown by the designers of Bonnie Bridals, Inc.

The gown featured an open neckline and full length modified Juliette sleeves.

The bodice of the gown was encrusted with pearls and sequins. The inverted basque waistline was accented with fortuni pleating embellished with clear rhinestone inserts.

The dropped waistline was accented with pearls. The top portion of the sleeve was created from the fortuni pleating. Beadwork in the pearls and sequins was accented with Schiffli lace appliques.

The front of the full length skirt was adorned with motives of the Schiffli lace and delicately beaded with pearls.

Tiny satin buttons fastened with lace back and a large satin bow accented the cathedral train.

The same motifs of Schiffli lace adorned the train and the tip of the train featured an inset of the fortuni pleating.

The bride wore a hat of satin and lace adorned with sequins and pearls. A pillow pouf accented the back.

The bride carried a bouquet of purple irises, star gazer lilies, pink roses and freesia.

The bride completed her attire with pearl and rhinestone necklace and earrings. She wore a blue garter accented with lace made by Sue Maxey.

Matron of honor was Tyra Rasberry, sister of the bride. Marilyn Bell and Sarah Parrott, of Seminole, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They wore midnight blue iridescent satin sheath dresses with off-the-shoulder sleeves. They wore pearl and rhinestone drop earrings and carried bouquets of the same flowers as the bride's bouquet.

Ben Armstrong of Lubbock was best man and Derek Ray of Seminole and Tim Crawford of Lubbock were groomsmen.

Ross Rasberry, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Ken Sessions of Euless and Mitchel Rasberry served as ushers.

Candlelighters were Barry Sheets and Blaze Bingham, cousins of the groom from Seminole.

The men in the wedding party wore black tuxedos, black cummerbunds and bow ties, and boutiniers of pink roses.

Jennifer Sheets, cousin of the groom from Seminole, registered guests.

Honorary attendants were Tyra and B.J. Funk of Lubbock.

Georgie Willson played a variety of love songs on the organ as guests entered. He played "Trumpet Voluntary" as the attendants entered and the traditional wedding march as the bride entered.

Margie Maestas of Amarillo, accompanied by Mr Willson, sang "In This Very Room" as candles were lit. She sang "There is Love" as parents of the couple lit candles beside the unity candle, and she sang "Shower Me With Love" after the wedding vows as the couple lit the unity candle.

A reception and dance followed the ceremony at the Community Center. The bride's table, covered with a white cloth accented with white tulle, held a silver punch bowl and candelabra with navy candles and an ivory Italian Cream cake. The three-tiered cake was adorned with a pattern identical to the lace and pearl motifs on the bride's gown. Handmade flowers of pastry cascaded from each layer of the cake. The flowers were identical to those in the bride's bouquet. A large pastry bow topped the cake, a creation by Jack Cruse. White latticework decorated with ivy served as a backdrop for the table.

The groom's table featured a large chocolate layered cake with chocolate decorations and the couple's names. A silver coffee urn and accessories and a bouquet of purple, pink and yellow flowers accented the table.

Buffet tables were covered with white cloths and were centered with a tall vase of flowers and fruit.

A variety of meats, fruits, vegetables, meat spread and crackers were served with punch and iced tea.

Guest tables were covered with white cloths and navy and pink bows.

The bride and groom danced the first dance to "When I Fall in Love." Members of the house party were Tamra Gerner and Raeline Bagby.

The bride's going away attire was a black pant suit with pearl accessories.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents in the garden room of the Chaparral Restaurant Friday evening.

The groom, a graduate of Seminole High School and Texas Tech, is employed by Bank One.

The bride, a graduate of Post High School, has attended Texas Tech and will complete her education at UTPB. The couple will live in Dallas and later Midland.

Harry Browne to participate in first nationally televised Presidential Debate

"Libertarian presidential candidate Harry Browne will be included in the first nationally televised presidential debate of the '96 election season this October 8th," according to national campaign director Sharon Ayres. "This is an exciting first for a Libertarian presidential candidate."

Harry's participation in the debate results from his campaign qualifying for participation in the nationwide CityVote preferential primary scheduled for November 7th.

"The initial qualifying deadline is July 1, and the official list of qualifying candidates won't be released until July 10," said Ayres, "but based on our information, Harry has met all the criteria and will qualify."

CityVote, which bills itself as "A National Urban Presidential Primary", is a multi-city, non-binding presidential preference poll which will be conducted in conjunction with local elections taking place on November 7 in at least 16 cities across the country. Preceding the balloting will be a series of three televised debates, the first of which is scheduled to be held in Minneapolis-Saint Paul on Sunday, October 8. Coverage will be by Twin Cities Public Television KTCA/KTCI (a PBS affiliate) and by CSPAN. The second debate will be in Spokane on October 22. A likely site for the third debate on November 5 is Boston.

"I'm delighted that we've already qualified to participate in CityVote," said Harry. "I look forward to the debates with the other candidates — the Republicans and possibly even President Clinton. We've waited a long time to be able to confront them directly — and to make them justify their spending programs, the taxes they've all voted for, and the intrusions on our liberties."

Based on information obtained by the Browne campaign, it's likely that at least 6 Republican candidates have qualified for CityVote and the debates thus far, including Phil Gramm, Bob Dole, Arlen Specter, Lamar Alexander, Richard Lugar and Pat Buchanan. On the Democratic side, incumbent Bill Clinton automatically qualifies, and he may be joined by longtime perennial candidate Lyndon LaRouche. It appears that no other third party candidate will qualify as of the initial deadline.

According to Ayres, qualifying for CityVote by the first deadline on July 1 was a challenge.

"Naturally, Harry met the basic requirements, such as 'being a publicly announced candidate for President in the 1996 election who has filed a declaration of candidacy with the Federal Election Commission (FEC)'," she explained. "That's something a candidate is required to do as soon as a threshold of $5,000 in contributions and/or expenditures is reached."

The three criteria under which the Browne campaign qualified were: 1) in the case of an independent candidate (defined by CityVote as "a candidate not running as a Democrat or Republican"), being able to provide evidence of sufficient organization making it more likely than not that he/she will qualify for the general election ballot in at least 35 of the 50 states; 2) having received at least $100,000 in campaign contributions to date during 1995 which are legally qualified donations (pursuant to FEC rules) of $1,000 or less, with no more than $10,000 being attributed to any one state; and 3) receiving, in at least 15 states, $2,000 or more in total campaign contributions which are legally qualified donations (for FEC matching purposes) of $250 or less.

The Browne campaign qualified in 19 states under the contribution criteria: Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Texas, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin.

WTC to host Success Seminar

Western Texas College will be hosting the second of two Success Seminars on Tuesday, August 15. All full-time entering freshmen should plan to attend the seminar, which serves as an orientation for new students. The seminar begins at 9:30 a.m. and will continue until early afternoon.

During the Success Seminar, academic advisors will be available to help with the selection of classes, valuable information concerning campus life will be shared, and students will pre-register for the 1995 fall semester. There will be a session for parents given by Dr. Harry Krenke, WTC president, and campus tours will be available for all attendees throughout the day.

Students may also take placement tests if their ACT or SAT scores are not on file. All students who need to take placement tests should arrive at 8 a.m.

The cost of the seminar is $20, which includes lunch for the student and two guests. There is an additional $10 fee if the student must take a placement test.

Students who attend the seminar must be prepared to pay for registration and housing fees at that time. Financial aid and scholarship funds will be disbursed to those students who have qualified and completed all of the paperwork.

Students who wish to attend the seminar should call (915) 573-8511 extension 394 to pre-register. Students who do not attend either seminar will register for fall classes on Tuesday, August 22.

Dee Caylor grows some big stuff in his garden, and this year is no exception. He stopped at our office earlier this week with a 22 pound cantaloupe. Jimmy Holleman gave me the seeds, God took care of the growing and I just did what I could for it," Caylor said.

Up and Down Main Street

by Wanda Mitchell, Post Chamber of Commerce

Rodeo week! Cowboys, cowgirls, parades, dances. All in all a weekend of fun for the entire family. The parade on Thursday is shaping up to be a really good one and I know the rodeo will be great with lots of excitement.

The dance will probably be better than ever because of the fine new dance floor not to mention the wonderful music of Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys with twin fiddles played by Jody and Ricky Bowen. I can hear "Faded Love" as I sit here.

Penny Rains did the program for Rotary today and it was so interesting that no one wanted it to end. Penny told about some early, early history of Garza County and Post and these were stories that I had not heard. Most of them were about comical things that took place when Carl was Sheriff and before.

I wish Penny would record some of these tales to preserve because I doubt if anyone, even if they know about them, could tell them like she does. It was really a good program and I, for one, thoroughly enjoyed it.

Some of the new seat donors for the Tower Theatre are: Sue Shytle, Bryan and Minnie Williams, Joyce Tatum, Jimmie Redman, Victor Ashley and Marie Neff. Once again, we thank you all so much for your interest and your "money". With help like this, I know we are going to keep operating and bring some more great entertainment to Post. However, we still have seats to sell so dig down deep and let us be your favorite "write-off" for this year.

Old Mill Trade Days had a successful weekend with more than 5,000 visitors. They are sort of like the energizer bunny "they just keep on going."

There were several couples here from San Angelo and they were amazed at what we had to offer. They made an entire weekend out of Trade Days, Hotel Garza and the Tower Theatre. Only one of the six was a native of Post, Dr. Mike Cornell, and I think he was the most surprised about how much was going on in his hometown. We hope they visit again soon and bring more folks with them. We had a really big weekend with all our children and grandchildren celebrating our 40th Anniversary.

We also had company from Galveston, Port Arthur, Andrews, Midland, Rotan, Lubbock, and Flomont. Monday morning I didn't know whether to burn the house or sell it.

We were sure glad to see Channel 31 back on the air. I had a lot of calls while they were off asking why, so we know people were missing it. Paul and Jim do a great job of covering a multitude of activities in Post and our appreciation goes out to both of them.

School is just around the corner and Mothers everywhere are probably rushing around buying school clothes and supplies. I don't miss those days. Things have changed a lot, too. Now you wear labels on the "outside" of your clothes. Have a good weekend, attend the 55th Annual Post Stampede, and remember to.....

TAKE PRIDE AND TAKE PART IN POST!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Neighbor to Neighbor

by Kelly Ahrens, CEA-FCS

The 1995-96 school year will soon become a reality for many of the residents of Garza County. The yellow buses will be delivering kids to and from a variety of stops. Sporting events will soon become a major portion of the activities that kids will address with enthusiasm. Along with the excitement and determination to succeed, reducing the risk of injuries during school sports events is a concern for many. This school year, close to one-third of young children will suffer from sports-related injury requiring the attention of a doctor and/or a parent. According to the American College of Sports Medicine, up to half of the injuries sustained in organized sports are likely preventable.

Tax 'n Facts

by Terri S. Cash, CPA

Special Tax Break on Pre-1977 Property
Most often we recommend against jointly held property for tax reasons. However, a recent ruling of the US Court of Appeals points to a special tax break on jointly held property acquired before 1977.

Normally, when property is sold, the gain -- or loss -- is figured by subtracting the basis, the original cost, from the sale price. Inherited property has a stepped-up basis; that is, the basis is the value of the property on the date of the owner's death. If the heir sells it promptly, there is often little or no gain to be taxed.

If the property was jointly held, then the half owned by the decedent has a basis of current value, but the original basis continues for the half owned by the surviving spouse. If he/she sells, her/his gain is taxable.

But now the court has ruled that pre-1977 Tax Code provisions prevail for pre-1977 property, providing full stepped-up basis when a surviving spouse inherits and sells that jointly held property. (Note: Nine states offer such a break on all jointly held property.)

We keep up with the latest rulings, to help us help you better. You get dependable tax knowhow at:

Dickens Electric holds second annual electric camp

Approximately 50 4-H'ers from the DEC service area enjoyed three nights and four days in the cool New Mexico mountains near Cloudcroft. The Lincoln National Forest was the setting for the DEC's second annual Youth Electric Camp. Camp Scott Able hosted the 4-H'ers where they participated in many learning activities and had several recreational activities as well. The 4-H'ers were treated to several workshops by County Agents and adult leaders as well as DEC employees. Gayle Neaves presented a session on first-aid to the 4-H'ers while CEA-Ag agents Michael Clawson, Motley County and Gary Antilley of King County demonstrated how to wire a desk lamp. They were assisted by Kent County adult leader Charles Arnold. The 4-H'ers were then allowed to construct their own lamp out of a coke can for their own personal use. FCS agents Darlene Brady, Dickens County and Shirley Long, Kent County hosted an "Electrical Bingo" workshop. They made learning electrical facts fun while playing Bingo and winning prizes.

In an outdoor atmosphere, Robert Herrington, Dickens Co. CEA-Ag agent taught teamwork and the importance of working together to accomplish a common goal. The 4-H'ers participated in two activities which required teamwork. Without it they might skin their noses. Everyone passed with flying colors. Other workshops included Storm Disaster Planning by Stonewall Counties CEA-Ag agent Steve Bradshaw. Mr Bradshaw showed the 4-H'ers the importance of having a storm plan in their household in case of a major tornado or disaster, and how being prepared could save lives. DEC lineman Larry Taylor was to demonstrate pole climbing safety. But unfortunately after an injury on the Basketball court he was unable to perform his duties. Therefore, DEC's John Bleiker was called upon to climb the pole. (We thought we would really get to use Ms Neaves First-Aid when we saw John climbing). He survived and was very cautious especially coming down the pole.

The campers all enjoyed their turns at KP duty after each meal. Counties took turns at KP duty, Flag Raising, and being responsible for ice breaker games. Various tournaments were held such as volleyball, basketball, and several horseshoe games were held. This year's camp was the best one yet. We are learning ways to make the camp more educational and fun for all the campers. DEC is looking ahead for next year and believes "The Best is Yet to Come."

Carla Odom

Carla Odom completes training

Carla (Stelzer) Odom of Post, Texas, graduated from the vocational training program at Lions World Services for the Blind in Little Rock, Ark. for Contact Collection Representative for the Internal Revenue Service. She will work at the IRS office in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Carla was sponsored for the four-month course by Counselor Norma Parras, of the Texas Commission of the Blind in Lubbock, Texas.

The program, the only one of its kind in the United States, trains persons who are blind or visually impaired to work as tax examiners in the collections division of the Internal Revenue Service.

Carla's work will involve corresponding with taxpayers or their representatives to collect delinquent taxes, requests for taxpayers to file delinquent returns, and discussion of possible payment plans. She will use a computer to input and retrieve information.

While in training, Carla learned technical information about tax law, regulations and IRS procedures, and the use of special adaptive equipment for persons who are blind or visually impaired that will be used to operate the computer program.

Lions World Services for the Blind, founded in 1947, is an international, non-profit rehabilitation center that has served more than 6,700 persons who are blind or visually impaired for all 50 states and 54 other countries.

Free and Reduced Priced Meals for Post ISD Students

Post Independent School District today announces its policy for providing free and reduced price meals for children served under the National School Lunch Program. Each school and/or the central administration office has a copy of the policy, which may be reviewed by any interested parties.

The household size and income criteria identified below will be used to determine eligibility for free and reduced price benefits. Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals. Foster children that are the legal responsibility of a welfare agency or court may also be eligible for benefits regardless of the income of the household with whom they reside. Eligibility for the foster child is based on the child's income.

INCOME CHART

Household Size	Annual	Monthly	Weekly
1	13,820	1,152	266
2	18,558	1,547	357
3	23,292	1,941	448
4	28,028	2,336	539
5	32,764	2,731	631
6	37,500	3,125	722
7	42,236	3,520	813
8	46,972	3,915	904
For each additional member add.....	+4,736	+395	+92

Application forms are being distributed to all households with a letter informing households of the availability of free and reduced price meals for their children. Applications also are available at the principal's office in each school. To apply for free and reduced price meals, households must fill out the application and return it to the school. Applications may be submitted anytime during the school year.

For school officials to determine eligibility for free and reduced price benefits, households receiving food stamps or AFDC only have to list their child's name, food stamp or AFDC case number and an adult household member must sign the application. Households who do not list a food stamp or AFDC case number must list the name of all household members, the amount and source of the income received by each household member who signs the application. If neither household member has a Social Security number, the household member must indicate that a social security number is not available. The application must be signed by an adult household member.

Under the provisions of the free and reduced price meal policy will review applications and determine eligibility. Parents and guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to make a formal appeal for a hearing on the decision may make a request either orally or in writing to the Principal.

Households that list a food stamp or AFDC case number must report when the household no longer received these benefits. Other households approved for benefits based on income information must report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size. Also, if a household member becomes unemployed or if the household size increases, the household should contact the school. Such changes may make the children of the household eligible for benefits if the household's income falls at or below the levels shown above.

In the operation of child feeding programs administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, national origin, age or handicap. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Cicada Killers: Friend or foe?

In order to answer the above question, it might be just a little bit useful to know just what in the name of the goodness is a Cicada Killer. Whether or not you're aware of it, you have probably seen one of these insects at one time or another. They are a very large wasp, usually about 1 to 1 1/2 inches long, most commonly are dark brown to black in color and the pair of wings is usually reddish-orange. You may have also heard these insects called by a different name like maybe-Digger Wasps.

This is about the time of year when Cicada Killers begin to appear on the Plains, and just in case you haven't heard, the Cicadas are back too! The wasps dig a tunnel into the soil at an angle, for a distance of one to three feet. The main tunnel ends in a number of branches and cells. The burrow may be dug in either day or night and often time the digging process can result in a large mound of dirt. The entrances to the burrow are left open during the "stocking" of the nest and may never be closed except when the wasps' entire job is done.

The wasp has a sting that is paralyzing to a Cicada (locust) and often times these wasps can be seen carrying a paralyzed locust into the ground. Depending upon the size of the locust, from one to four are stored in each underground cell of the wasps' burrow. The female lays an egg on the last cicada placed in the cell. As many as four females may provision a single nest at the same time, even though only one of them made the initial excavation.

The wasp larva which hatch from the egg has a full-time meal waiting on them. After consuming the "cicada buffet" the wasp larvae remains underground until the following July when the adult wasp emerges again to repeat the cycle.

These over-sized wasps are more likely to cause you to hurt yourself trying to get away from them. The females are mostly interested in stinging cicadas and the males cannot sting at all. However, females can be provoked into an occasional people sting if a person is persistent enough.

These insects are considered beneficial because they prey on cicadas. They can be present in sufficient numbers to cause concern for home-owners and back yard barbecue guests. The vast majority of the time, these insects are merely looking for a locust and will be more than happy to go their way and let you go yours. If you feel chemical control is necessary, you may use an aerosol spray containing pyrethrum or dust the entrance to the nest with sevin.

In answer to the original question, you know, the "Friend or Foe" thing - I guess it depends upon whether or not you look much like a cicada. Most of us do not and therefore, we can only believe that however scary these things look they mean us no harm.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Cotton News

from Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. Predicting the outcome of a cotton crop on the Texas High Plains has always been difficult. In recent years, the task has become almost impossible.

During each of the last two crop years High Plains cotton growers have started their crops behind the eight-ball and ended up producing crops well above the area's ten-year average production number. The 1993 and 1994 crop's each topped the 3 million bale mark. The 1994 crop was an especially pleasant surprise coming in at just over 3 million bales despite the fact that early on a lack of moisture almost kept many acres from being planted. Early discussions of the High Plains 1994 crop found most production estimates ranging from 2.25 - 2.75 million bales.

The 1995 crop has gotten off to just as bad a start as the one experienced in 1994. Early season moisture deficits kept many dryland acres unplanted well past the area's normal planting window. A variety of other conditions including cool temperatures, blowing sand, and hail slowed the early development of many late April and May planted irrigated fields. Replanting activity continued through the July 4 weekend in a few isolated areas.

The overall result is that the 1995 High Plains cotton crop was put three to four weeks behind schedule as evidenced by the fact that the majority of fields did not begin to fully enter the bloom period until mid-July.

Warm temperatures helped the crop put on a good fruit load and make up some of the ground it lost early in the season. Some boll shed is being suffered at this time due to severe high temperature stress, a rapid change in temperatures and persistent cloudy weather during the last two weeks.

Temperatures across the area plunged from 100-plus degrees the last week of July to highs in the 60's and 70's during the first week of August. The front, which brought some much needed precipitation to the area, primarily responsible for the cooler temperatures has given way to a low pressure system that so far has prevented the area from experiencing any rebound in temperatures.

The Commerce Clause: Route to Omnipotent Government

by Sheldon Richman
 In 1990, the U.S. Congress passed a law forbidding possession of a firearm within 1,000 feet of any school. The Gun-Free School Zones Act was touted as a blow on behalf of education and against violence among children. Two years later, Alfonso Lopez Jr., a 12th-grader at Edison High School in San Antonio, Texas, carried a concealed .38 caliber pistol to school.
 First he was charged under Texas law, which forbids possession of guns on school grounds. But the next day, federal agents charged Lopez under the Gun-Free School Zones Act, and the state charges were dismissed.
 Thus began one of the most important cases—and one of the most important decisions—for the U.S. Supreme Court in the last 60 years. It would turn out to be significant because the case bore directly on a clause in the U.S. Constitution that almost from the beginning, and particularly since the New Deal, has been used to justify a radical expansion of the power of the central government in the United States: the clause that delegates to Congress the power to “regulate...commerce among the several states.” The sensible person will ask, “What does the commerce clause have to do with students bringing guns to school?” The Court’s majority said “nothing.” It has been a long time since the Supreme Court last refused to let the central government use the commerce clause to expand its power. That is why Lopez is such an important case.
 Let’s back up a bit. Before adoption of the Constitution, states, under the Articles of Confederation, had erected protectionist barriers that interfered with the free flow of trade in the new country. One of the main reasons for the Constitutional Convention was to remedy that problem. The framers’ solution was the commerce clause, which was intended to make a free-trade zone out of the United States. (The clause also delegated to Congress the power to “regulate” trade with foreign nations and the Indian tribes. We will hold until later the question of whether this was a good way to solve the problem.)
 At first, the clause was closely interpreted as referring to interference by the states with the flow of commerce. In 1824, in Chief Justice John Marshall’s Court, in the first big case involving the commerce clause, Gibbons v. Ogden, struck down a New York law creating a steamship monopoly for traffic between New York and New Jersey.
 Marshall laid down the principle that for the national government to have jurisdiction, the issue must involve interstate commerce; i.e., it must involve the trafficking of goods (not manufacture) between two or more states. He also recognized that the enumeration of the interstate commerce power implied powers unenumerated (concerning intrastate commerce) and thus undelegated.
Gibbons may have gotten things off to a good start, but it did not last. Marshall sprinkled just enough bad seeds that, taken out of context, would allow later justices, legal scholars, and political opportunists to cultivate the commerce clause into a general power to do anything that could conceivably affect interstate commerce.
 For example, in 1870, the Court upheld federal inspection of steam passenger vessels that remained within a single state but carrying goods shipped from or destined for other states. The problems here were two: the inspection law was not intended to prevent state interference with free trade, and the subject of regulation was private enterprise.
 Thus, we can glimpse the beginning of the modern view that the commerce clause granted to Congress a plenary power to regulate anything that had the potential to affect interstate commerce.
 It was a short step to creation of the Interstate Commerce Commission in 1887, which cartelized the railroads and regulated their rates.
 One last barrier had to be hurdled. Taking the lead from Marshall, succeeding courts insisted on confining the commerce power to commerce, the movement of goods; production was regarded as prior to commerce and thus outside federal jurisdiction.
 In 1895, the Court would not let the central government use the Sherman antitrust law to stop the merger of sugar refiners.
 In 1903, the Court upheld a federal prohibition on the interstate trafficking in lottery tickets. In 1918, it struck down a prohibition on the interstate shipment of goods produced in plants using child labor.
 But as Richard Epstein has written, the barrier between production and commerce was “not as well-defined” as the Court held. After all, a market economy is an integrated web of activities in which everything affects everything else, however remotely. Manufacturing arrangements can influence commercial activities. It was only a matter of time before the barrier would disappear and the national government would begin to regulate production directly.
 Looking back, the progression from the early cases to the New Deal, when all inhibitions on federal regulation of the economy were dispelled, appears inexorable. Too much had been conceded along the way. The mooring of the commerce clause—the principle that state governments could not erect trade barriers—was too long lost, the distinction between government and private acts too long forgotten. (The Sherman Act outlawed private combinations in restraint of trade.)
 In 1937, the Court upheld the National Labor Relations Act, which compelled employers to engage in collective bargaining, holding that the commerce clause subsumed those things “affecting commerce.” In the particular case, the Court said that phrase meant “tending to lead to a labor dispute burdening or obstructing commerce.”
 After President Roosevelt threatened to pack the Court to dilute the influence of the uncooperative “nine old men,” a majority of the justices took to the most expansive definition of the commerce clause like a drunk to drink.
 The Court blessed the secretary of agriculture’s power to set minimum prices for milk sold intrastate. “The marketing of intrastate milk,” wrote the Court in the 1942 Wrightwood Dairy case, “which competes with that shipped interstate would tend seriously to break down price regulation of the latter.” Yes, so? What was the Court’s point? Only that nothing—especially not liberty—should be permitted to get in the way of the national government’s power to regulate the economy.
 As hard as it may be to notice, Wrightwood Dairy still preserved something of a distinction: the intrastate sale of milk obviously entailed an act of commerce. Did that mean the commerce clause barred the national government from regulating noncommercial activities? Not for long.
 Enter Roscoe Filburn, an Ohio dairy and poultry farmer, who raised a small quantity of winter wheat—some to sell, some to feed his livestock, and some to consume. In 1940, under authority of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, the central government told Mr. Filburn that for the next year he would be limited to planting 11 acres of wheat and harvesting 20 bushels per acre. He harvested 12 acres over his allotment for consumption on his own property. When the government fined him, Mr. Filburn refused to pay.
 Wickard v. Filburn got to the Supreme Court, and in 1942, the justices unanimously ruled against the farmer. The government Court, and in 1942, the justices unanimously ruled against the farmer. The government Court, and in 1942, the justices unanimously ruled against the farmer. The government Court, and in 1942, the justices unanimously ruled against the farmer. The government Court, and in 1942, the justices unanimously ruled against the farmer.
 [The wheat] supplies a need of the man who grew it which would otherwise be reflected by purchases in the open market. Home-grown wheat in this sense competes with wheat in commerce.
 As Epstein commented, “Could anyone say with a straight face that the consumption of home-grown wheat is ‘commerce among the several states?’” For good measure, the Court justified the obvious sacrifice of Mr. Filburn’s freedom and interests to the unnamed farmers being protected: It is of the essence of regulation that it lays a restraining hand on the self-interest of the regulated and that advantages from the regulation commonly fall to others.
 After Wickard, everything is mere detail. The entire edifice of civil rights legislation stands on the commerce power. Under this maximum commerce power, the government has been free to regulate nearly everything, including a restaurant owner’s bigotry. The Court has held that if Congress sees a connection to interstate commerce, it is not its role to second guess.
 What is refreshing about the recent Lopez case is that five justices were able to say that something could exceed the scope of the commerce clause. Despite the government’s strained argument that guns in schools degrade education and hence economic performance and interstate commerce, the majority said a federal prohibition on such possession is beyond Congress’s enumerated powers.
 In a concurring opinion, Justice Clarence Thomas struck at the very foundation of the modern interpretation of the commerce clause and hinted that future cases could bring big changes.
 That’s fine as far as it goes. But as Jefferson warned, the natural tendency is for government to grow. Like a poisonous vine, it sprouts through any gap. What is really needed is a repeal of the commerce clause and an amendment to the Bill of Rights that says: “Congress and the states shall make no law interfering with production and commerce, foreign or domestic.”

Fear of immigration raises questions about America

by Stephen Chapman
 Popular fear of immigration is as old as America, but it is not growing feeble with age. In fact, anti-immigrant feeling is clearly gaining strength. In the near future, Americans will have to decide whether the noble tradition of welcoming newcomers will be preserved or repudiated.
 Plenty of people think it is time to pull up the drawbridge, and the next Republican presidential nominee may be one of them. Both California Gov. Pete Wilson, who advocates getting tough with illegal immigrants, and conservative commentator Patrick Buchanan, who doesn’t like foreign arrivals even if they’re legal, hope to make it a winning theme in their campaigns.
 A new book by conservative journalist Peter Brimelow, “Alien Nation” (Random House), says the influx of outsiders is changing the nation’s ethnic makeup at a rate that invites catastrophe. As a result, he predicts, 21st-century Americans will face bitter racial conflict, repression and even national disintegration.
 A congressional commission headed by former Rep. Barbara Jordan, created to make it politically easier for Congress to deal with the issue, has chosen to side with the exclusionists. According to the New York Times, its forthcoming report calls for reducing the annual volume of newcomers by one-third. That sets the stage for a battle in Congress, where Republicans are split on the issue.
 Given the prevalence of simple xenophobia and bigotry, those who favor curbing immigration may not need facts to win the political fight. But they insist that some important developments argue for the changes they want. They make the following claims:
 The flood of immigrants is too large to absorb. Actually, the number of newcomers relative to the total population is quite low by historical standards — about 3.2 immigrants for every 1,000 Americans. That’s about one-third the level in the early part of this century and well below the average over the last century and a half. By American standards, we are experiencing a lull, not a storm.
 The skill and education of immigrants is declining. Not so. University of Maryland scholar Julian Simon, author of “The Economic Consequences of Immigration,” notes that the proportion of immigrants with less than eight years of education has fallen, while the percentage with 16 years or more has risen. High-tech industries abound with Ph.D.s from all over the world.

 Immigrants are taking jobs from natives, particularly unskilled blacks. Economist Robert Topel of the University of Chicago says the evidence is clear that blacks are not worse off due to immigration. One study found that states with more immigrants generally have lower unemployment rates than states with fewer. If all the Koreans and Arabs left tomorrow, black Americans would lose grocery stores, but they wouldn’t gain jobs.
 Recent immigrants are prone to go on welfare and commit crimes. There is some abuse of the welfare system — particularly by refugees, who are immediately eligible for public assistance, and by elderly immigrants. Congress is already moving to restrict eligibility for the elderly, and there is no reason it couldn’t restrict it for all immigrants. But overall, newcomers are about as likely to become a public burden as natives. As for crime, it is mostly home-grown. Many cities with large immigrant populations (San Jose and Anaheim, Calif.) have low crime rates, while many violent places (Atlanta, St. Louis) have few foreign-born residents.
 The foreigners coming today are racially different from natives, generating ethnic strife. This ignores 200 years of U.S. experience at digesting supposedly indigestible groups. Brimelow wonders if we can cope with so many Asians and Hispanics, just as Americans of Northern European ancestry worried about the dusky Mediterraneans who came a century ago. But Asians have assimilated so well that they are jokingly known as “honorary white people.” Hispanics, far from adopting an “us against them” posture, are more likely to identify with whites than with other Latinos. This is the stuff of racial war?
 The doomsayers hold the perennial American belief that yesterday’s immigrants were a boon but today’s are a burden. They fail to grasp that immigration is to this nation what an underground spring is to a freshwater lake; a perpetual source of nourishment and renewal. It is part of the reason America is one of the freest, most inventive and most dynamic societies in the world. It has served us well throughout our history and will continue to do so, if we let it.

The best of whatever, categories you won't believe

by Robert Fulghum
SEATTLE — “The Best Place to Have Sex in Public.”
 This was a category, in a survey published recently in my home town. Seattle used to be known for its avant-garde action when it came to coffee, airplanes, computer software and grunge music. I wonder if this survey category represents the next wave of social trendiness. Maybe I should buy stock in the tour-bus business to get ahead of the wave. I can see it now: “Welcome to Pink Line Tours ... and on your left, ladies and gentlemen, just there in the supermarket parking lot, you can see five couples ...”
 To explain: For 10 years, the Seattle Weekly has surveyed its readers on the subject of “The Best of Seattle.” Best loaf of bread, best dry cleaner, best bookstore, etc. The latest edition expands coverage to the latest “best” from the World of Love and Romance: outdoor fornication. The winners: the University of Washington Arboretum and the Washington State Ferry System.
 Now, I can understand about making out in a place where there are lots of bushes and trees. That’s old stuff. Adam and Eve did that. But on a ferryboat? Wow!
 This information is, however, welcome news. It solves a problem for me. My mother-in-law is coming to visit this month, and she wants to see sights in Seattle she has not already seen. A ride on the ferryboat ought to do it. “You check the lifeboats. Mother, and I’ll search the upper deck.”
 The Best. That’s what we want, regardless of the category. In almost every city I visit, some newspaper publishes the “Best” list. There are even magazines and books devoted to the subject. Much of what’s listed is very expensive. But if you shift the scale and ask most of us for our list of “bests” on a personal, private scale, the costs are not high. What makes daily and weekly life go well comes cheap — if not free.
 I’ll give you 10 examples from my own “Best of Summer 1995” list.
 1. Best Place to get Chicken Fried Steak in the Universe: The Shanty Cafe in Seattle on Elliot Way. It’s on the dinner menu. $8.95 plus a fine tip for the waitress.
 2. Best Place to Hide a Private Supply of Something I Don’t Want to Share at Home,

Such As Cheetos or Oreo Cookies: under the sink in the bathroom in a brown paper bag marked “extra personal toiletries.” Nobody ever sorts through what’s under the bathroom sink. And nobody asks what I’m doing in the bathroom with the door locked. And, of course, there is a sink in there. When I’m through eating the Cheetos and Oreo cookies, I can wash the orange and brown dust off my fingers so nobody knows what I’ve been doing.
 3. Best Hour of the Week: 8:00 a.m. on Saturday, when I’m still in bed — as opposed to the same hour on Monday, when, if I’m still in bed, I’m in trouble.
 4. Second Best Hour of the Week: 9:00 a.m. on Saturday, when I’m in the shower with a cup of coffee and the stereo blasting the Best Spiritual Music: The Rolling Stones playing “You Can’t Always Get What You Want” and Bob Marley playing “Don’t Worry About a Thing.”
 5. Best Local Entertainment: 10:00 a.m. on Saturday, sitting on the back porch and watching my neighbors do home improvements.
 6. Best Foods: waffles on Sunday morning and popcorn late any night.
 7. Best Sound: the click of a door closing and the greeting “I’m home, dear” from my wife when she has been out of town and I knew she was driving home from the airport late at night on the freeway in the rain.
 8. Best Smell: a beach towel that’s been hung out to dry in the summer sun.
 9. Best View: when I’m lying on my back on a summer night, looking straight up at the Milky Way.
 10. Best Piece of Dumb Luck: figuring out how to write 700 words for a newspaper column with nothing better to start with than the sentence, “The Best Place to Have Sex in Public.”
 Any and all contributions to Robert Fulghum’s columns are welcome. Please send him your stories, complaints, suggestions, factoids and interesting lies. Write to Robert Fulghum care of this newspaper.

Playing the 'lame game' with ADA

by Walter E. Williams
 James Bovard has an article about the lunacy of the Americans with Disabilities Act in the July 1995 American Spectator that will make your day. In August 1993, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission announced that obesity was a protected disability. Therefore, a 300-pound woman who was turned away as a nurse’s aide could sue the hospital. A 360-pound woman brought a $1.5 million suit against a Memphis theater for her emotional distress when she found out she couldn’t fit into any of the theater’s seats. Not to be outdone, a 410-pound man, denied a promotion from cleaner to train operator, sued the New York Transit Authority for discrimination.
 A Santa Monica, Calif., deaf woman sued Burger King, claiming its drive-through windows illegally discriminated against deaf people. Burger King settled the lawsuit by agreeing to install visual electronic-ordering devices at 10 restaurants. In March 1993, a federal judge ruled that the District of Columbia’s practice of excluding blind people from jury duty was a violation of the ADA.
 The Americans with Disabilities Act also has been a godsend to dumb college students. Thousands have successfully dodged required courses by getting a shrink to certify them as “math-disabled.” A Tufts University student claimed that under the ADA the university was obliged to accommodate her aversion to test taking. The president of Boston University said ADA lawsuits and threats have resulted in demands to “accommodate foreign language majors who have foreign-language phobia (and) to comfort physics students who suffer from dyscalculia, the learning disability that prevents one from learning math.”
 University professors also benefit from the ADA. A Suffolk University professor sued the law school, claiming she was denied tenure because she had a disease that results in lethargy and lower productivity. Professor Donald Winston, an English instructor at Central Maine Technical College, was fired for kissing students and having sex with them. Winston sued the college, claiming discrimination against the handicapped. Two doctors at his trial testified the professor suffered from “sexual addiction.”
 Some attempts at blatant extortion and special privilege have been thrown out of court. Others have cost companies millions of dollars. Even when a case is thrown out, companies spend thousands of dollars defending themselves against frivolous suits. And who pays? You and I, through higher product prices or less convenience. But lawyers love it. In fact, in some quarters, the ADA is taken to stand for “Attorney’s Dream Answered.”
 We can’t blame the ADA on mush-headed liberals. It was passed at President Bush’s urging in 1990 along with those other Bush economy-crippling favorites such as the Clean Water Act and the 1990 Civil Rights Act. What Bush did, and what Clinton is trying to perfect, is producing an economic nightmare for local jurisdictions as well. According to the National Association of Counties, county governments will be forced to spend almost $3 billion by 1998 to comply with ADA mandates. Cities are ordered to put wheelchair curb cuts at intersections where even an Olympic-class sprinter might not hazard crossing.

 What’s Williams’ solution to ADA mandates? I’m not smart. I depend on our Constitution for guidance. Amendment Ten says, “The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.”
 Then I checked Article I, Section 8, and found no authorization for the ADA. That being the case, the solution is a broad-based refusal to comply with ADA mandates. After all, neither the states, nor the people, have a moral duty to obey unconstitutional acts of Congress.

1995 Property Tax Rates in CITY OF POST

This notice concerns 1995 property tax rates for CITY OF POST. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:

Last year's operating taxes	$	283,183.99
Last year's debt taxes	$	-0-
Last year's total taxes	$	283,183.99
Last year's tax base	$	67,424,760
Last year's total tax rate	$	.42	/ $100

This year's effective tax rate:

Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property)	$	283,183.99
+ This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting value of new property)	$	68,742,180
= This year's effective tax rate	$	.411951	/ $100

In the first year a hospital district or city collects the additional sales tax to reduce property taxes, it must insert the following lines unless its first adjustment was made last year:

- Sales tax adjustment rate	$	N/A	/ $100
= Effective tax rate	$	N/A	/ $100

x 1.03 = maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearing	$	.42430	/ $100
---	----	--------	---------

This year's rollback tax rate:

Last year's adjusted operating taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property and adjusting for transferred function)	$	283,184.
+ This year's adjusted tax base	$	68,742,180
= This year's effective operating rate	$	.411951	/ $100
x 1.08 = this year's maximum operating rate	$	.444907	/ $100
+ This year's debt rate	$	-0-	/ $100
= This year's rollback rate	$	.444907	/ $100

A hospital district or city that collects the additional sales tax to reduce property taxes, including one that collects the tax for the first time this year, must insert the following lines:

- Sales tax adjustment rate	$	N/A	/ $100
= Rollback tax rate	$	N/A	/ $100

For a taxing unit with additional rollback rate for pollution control, insert the following lines:

+ Additional rate for pollution control requirement	$	N/A	/ $100
= Rollback tax rate	$	N/A	/ $100

Schedule A

Unencumbered Fund Balances

The following estimated balances will be left in the unit's property tax accounts at the end of the fiscal year. These balances are not encumbered by a corresponding debt obligation.

Type of Property Tax Fund	Balance
General Fund	$1,094,692

Schedule B

1995 Debt Service

The unit plans to pay the following amounts for long-term debts that are secured by property taxes. These amounts will be paid from property tax revenues (or additional sales tax revenues, if applicable).

Description of Debt	Principal or Contract Payment to be Paid from Property Taxes	Interest to be Paid from Property Taxes	Other Amounts to be Paid	Total Payment
(Expand as needed)
Total required for 1995 debt service
- Amount (if any) paid from funds listed in Schedule A
- Excess collections last year			$ -0-
- Total to be paid from taxes in 1995
+ Amount added in anticipation that the unit will collect only 0% of its taxes in 1995			$ -0-
= Total Debt Levy

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Texas received federal approval last week for a six-year plan to withhold payments to welfare recipients who don't have their children immunized properly.

Approval of the plan, which takes effect Oct. 1, was announced by President Clinton at the National Governors' Conference in Vermont.

He said the granting of welfare waivers to Texas and three other states should serve as proof of his administration's flexibility on welfare reform.

Texas plans to withhold $25 per child per month from families on Aid to Families With Dependent Children who don't immunize their preschool children.

Parents or guardians will be required to show their children's immunization records when they appear for interviews every six months to certify they still are eligible for welfare benefits. But the state will not assess the penalty if the parent cannot find a clinic or doctor's office offering affordable immunizations.

While urging federal approval of the waiver, the state assured federal officials that it was educating parents about immunizing their children, offering immunizations at Texas Department of Human Services offices and spending $10 million to make immunizations more widely available.

No School Aid Appeal

Attorney General Dan Morales says the state will not appeal a court decision ordering reimbursement of about $80 million lost by school districts because of a miscalculation of state aid.

District Judge Scott McCown last month ruled that school districts should not be penalized for offering optional property tax exemptions and ordered that the districts should be repaid beginning with 1993 property appraisals.

After conferring with other state leaders, Morales said he had concluded it wouldn't be in the state's best interest to appeal the decision.

The state comptroller's office, against which the suit was filed, said it will not appeal.

Inmate Lawsuits Costly

Meanwhile, Morales said frivolous lawsuits filed by Texas prison inmates are needlessly costing the state money.

Texas is one of 27 states that has urged Congress to impose tighter restrictions on prisoners' civil-rights filings in federal court. "The right to due process does not give prison inmates the right to clog up Texas courts merely for their own entertainment," the attorney general said.

Morales said costs to Texas taxpayers of defending groundless lawsuits filed by prisoners could reach into the "tens of millions of dollars" as the state's prison capacity doubles to almost 150,000.

Odom Eyes Gramm's Seat

Houston lawyer John Odom announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate last week, saying incumbent Phil Gramm "cares more about multimillionaires than he does the middle class."

Odom said Gramm, who is also seeking the Republican presidential nomination, "has been AWOL and doesn't stand up for Texas."

He said Gramm is more interested in presidential politics than he is in representing Texas.

Odom, a longtime Texas Democratic Party activist, said Gramm will use the "LBJ law to run for president, and, at the same time, seek a third term in the U.S. Senate next year."

Larry Neal, a spokesman for Sen. Gramm, said he wasn't worried about a Democratic challenge. "It's clear the Democratic Party plans to throw up a candidate, and if it is Odom, great," Neal told The Dallas Morning News.

"If he wants to spend a year and a few million dollars of trial lawyer money while spouting Bill Clinton's slogans, I say, 'Go for it, John,'" Neal said.

Odom, a native Texan, is a member of the Texas Youth Commission and served as legislative counsel to former Gov. Mark White.

Cities Get Anti-drug Grants

Gov. George W. Bush has picked six cities to receive state grants and participate in the "Turn Around Texas" crime and drug-fighting program.

Alice, Greenville, LaMarque,

Corsicana, Athens and Waxahatche will be eligible for state grants administered by the governor's Criminal Justice Division to encourage and train local citizens to fight crime.

"These six communities have agreed to mobilize a grass-roots stand against crime and drugs," Bush said. "These six cities will work with the CJD and the Texas National Guard to send a clear message to criminals that they're not welcome in our communities."

Cotton Task Force Named

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry has named a task force to examine factors related to Rio Grande Valley cotton crop losses.

Farmers have called this the worst cotton crop in decades because of the combination of pest infestation, high temperatures and dry conditions.

Perry said the task force will assess how drought, pests, boll weevil eradication efforts and other crop production practices may have affected cotton losses.

Heading the 11-member task force will be Ray Frisbie, chairman of the Texas A&M University's department of entomology.

Letters to the Editor

Lions, Rotarians, express thanks for fund raising

The Post Lions Club and the Rotary Club wishes to thank all who helped us in our fund raiser for Naomi Gonzales to help with her medical bills. We collected $375 by having the garage sale, car wash and the gallon jars located at some businesses for donations.

A special thanks to United for allowing us to use their parking lot for the car wash. United also furnished soap and sponges, plus giving the workers pop and chips. Also, Pizza Hut furnished pizza for the workers. The Lions Club furnished the drinks at the Pizza Hut. We appreciate the support of these businesses.

Thank you, Paul Jones

Post citizens give time and money for community

We are blessed to live in a community like Post. People chip in to help one another when needed. We have a lot of people giving their time and money to make this a better community.

The contribution made by one business (Post Channel 31) came to light when it was off the air for just over a week. I was pleased to get so many calls concerning when 31 would be back on the air. People keep in touch by watching the city, school and county business meetings. This is the only way some have of keeping up with what is happening in Post. Not being able to see the church services and enjoy the gospel singing caused many to call, wondering when programming would resume. It was a pleasant surprise to hear of so many people listening to Channel 31.

Post Channel 31 is a non-profit group run by their Board of Directors, consisting of eight community members. The filming and programming is all volunteer work. No salaries are paid.

Due to some recent changes, the Board could use the help of those that enjoy the programs. They owe about $7,000. As the Mayor of Post, I want to encourage you to support Channel 31. Your donations will be tax deductible. Send donation to Post Channel 31, 202 W. 10th.

We want and need this business to stay on the air.
Jim Jackson, Mayor

DPS states that 'kids do the darnedest things!'

We've all heard the saying, "Kids say the darnedest things!" Well kids do the darnedest things, especially around school zones. With school starting up again, there's sure to be trouble afoot. Now is the time for drivers to start thinking about the dangers this presents.

Whether you drive in school zones once a year or work there every day, you can never forget certain lessons. One is that you have to use better judgement than the seven year olds who surround you, according to Trooper E. Baiza, Public Information Officer for the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"It's important to remember that kids aren't small adults, and they don't think like adults. They lack experience with traffic, and they don't always act logically. When you sound your horn, for instance, a child may think it's okay to cross the street in front of your vehicle," Baiza added.

Children also have limited perceptual skills. Sometimes they can't even tell if your vehicle is in motion or stopped. They can't accurately judge the speed and distance of vehicles or detect safe gaps in traffic. "Elementary school aged children often aren't tall enough to be seen on the other side of a parked car, or as they move between vehicles to cross the street when they're being picked up. School zones are not the time to light a cigarette or call the office on your car phone," Baiza said.

The key is to see children in time to avoid a collision. Search from curb to curb for kids who could enter your path. Everyone who enters the roadway is vulnerable to injury, but children on foot are even more at risk.

Many times the kids probably have their minds on school or friends, not on the vehicles moving around them. That means it's your job to be even more aware of what's going on around you. Since it's hard to predict kids actions near schools, try to avoid these areas. Reroute your trip, if possible, to avoid peak drop-off and pick-up times and getting stuck behind a school bus.

However, if you can't avoid a drive through a school zone, the best strategy is to just slow down and stay alert. It's up to us to take precautionary steps to keep kids alive and safe.

Surf's up for Texas Ag Commissioner Rick Perry

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry recently became the first statewide elected official to unveil his page on the Internet, the newest technology for communicating with the public.

"Just as the industry of agriculture is changing to meet the demands of the 21st century, likewise new technologies have replaced the time-honored techniques of communicating our message to the public," Perry said. "I'm a fifth generation farmer and rancher who understands that the future of this state will be technology driven."

"The public wants to know more about its public officials than just what it gets through a 30 second tv spot, and that is the purpose of my page on the Internet," Perry concluded.

Perry's page was created and will be maintained by Shop On Line, a Texas-owned business. Perry's address on the Internet is: <http://www.shoponline.com/rick/>

Faith! How does it work?

by Rev. Jim Graham, Church of the Nazarene

Hebrews Chapter 11 is the faith chapter of the bible. Within it's sentences you will find many proofs and illustrations dealing with faith. It refers to Abel offering a better sacrifice than his brother Cain; about Enoch who was taken by God into heaven without passing through death because he pleased God; about Noah who was instructed to build an ark to save his family from the impending flood which was to come; about Abraham who was called by God to go into a place that he would receive as an inheritance, and he went out not knowing where he was going; about Sarah who gave birth to a child after she she had passed the age of bearing children; and the list goes on and on.

But! Wait a minute. How does faith work anyway? Have you ever asked yourself that question? How does faith work? There are three ingredients that causes faith to work. Really more than three, but for our purpose we will only consider three.

The first ingredient deals with God's promises. Faith that works is positively, absolutely, unconditionally, certain of the promises of God. Heb. 11:1 says, "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." In other words faith believes that God will do what he says he will do in his word, The Holy Bible. These promises are almost without number. If we could only believe and have faith that God would indeed honor those promises, it would change our lives as Christians.

God's promises gave Daniel victory even when being thrown into a den of lions. It gave Job victory even when all was taken from him. The Bible says about Job that his later years were more blessed than his earlier years. Faith gave David strength and power and victory when facing a giant who had all of the soldiers of Israel in their tents trembling. David, a shepherd boy, defeated that giant with a sling and only one stone of the five that he had.

The faith that works is absolutely, unconditionally, positively, certain of the promises of God.

The next ingredient of working faith deals with God's power. Real faith that works is confident of the power of God. After all, God brought everything that we see, hear, smell, feel, all of creation into existence by merely speaking the word and it happened. "Let there be light; and there was light... Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters... Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together into one place, and let the dry land appear... Let the earth bring forth grass... Let there be lights in the firmament of the heavens to divide the day from the night... Let the earth bring forth the living creatures according to his kind... Let us make man in our image, according to our likeness and let them have dominion... ETC." Genesis 1:1-31.

This all powerful God who has created all things, has promised to give his people power over all of the power of the enemy, which is the Devil. The child of God can actually tell the Devil where to go. He is heading there anyway. You do not have to be a defeated Christian. Have faith in the power of God to give you the victory. It does work. Joshua had faith in the power of God at the battle of Jericho. Without firing one shot, as we would say it today, the wall of Jericho came tumbling down.

Moses had faith in the power of God at the Red Sea. With the Egyptians coming up behind, and the Red Sea in front, there seems to be no where for Moses and the Hebrew people to go. But Moses faith in God's power gave them the victory. The Red Sea divided and they walked to the other side on dry land.

So! Child of God! Be confident and have a relentless faith in the power of God. The third ingredient of working faith deals with man's response to God's promises and power. As his people, we must act upon those promises and power to make them work in our lives. Hebrews 11:8-35 gives one illustration after another about those who acted upon these promises and power. Read part of the list: Abel, Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Sarah, Joseph, Moses, Joshua, Samson, David, Samuel, the list goes on and on... V. 33-35 says about these, "Who through faith subdued kingdoms, worked righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouth of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong, became valiant in battle, turned to flight the armies of the aliens, women received their dead raised to life again... ETC..."

Acting upon the promises and power of God gave these believers the victory. It will also give the child of God of today the same victory.
