Hillcrest Foundation awards Historical Society $48,000 grant to restore Post Theater

Submitted by Frank Cheaney

During the past few months, work has been continuing on a project to restore Fort Clark's historic Post Theater.

Thanks to funds provided by The Brown Foundation of Houston, the Fort Clark Springs Association, the Texas Historical Commission, the Old Quarry Society, and individual gifts to the Fort Clark Historical Society Building Fund, much of the work to replace or repair deteriorated trim, molding, windows, and doors has been completed, at a total cost of around $32,000.

Finishing touches on the brown trim along the bottom of the theater were added by a volunteer crew from the Fort Clark Community Council. Unfortunately, the money ran out before all the required work had been done. Much safety work, some trim work, some plumbing and drainage work, as well as the installation of ADA-compliant bathrooms in the theater remain to be done. The cost of the balance of the work is estimated to be $48,000. The work on the theater had to be stopped until more funds could be raised.

It is with much pleasure and appreciation that the Fort Clark Historical Society announces the receipt of a grant of the needed $48,000 from the Hillcrest Foundation, founded by Mrs. W. W. Caruth, Sr.

As soon as details can be worked out with the contractor, work on the building will continue. In line with the goals of the Hillcrest Foundation, greater emphasis will be made on the use of the theater in educational projects, which will benefit the community and local schools.

Tax-deductible donations to the Historical Society Building Fund continue to be solicited. Helping restore historic buildings on Fort Clark would make an ideal memorial gift in memory of friends or loved ones.

Rachel Dobbins, Donovan Dobbins and Iracel Hernandez pay attention as Michelle Rosas, EMT, explains how the high-tech communications system at the new EMS building works. Rosas, EMS Director Carolyn Rutherford and other EMS personnel and volunteers are preparing for the open house planned Monday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the new EMS building. During the open house, visitors will be given a tour of the building. Other activities scheduled next week are CPR demonstrations and open house Tuesday from 12 noon to 3 p.m., and a Bike Rodeo Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon for youngsters from "tricycle age" to age 10. Helmets will be awarded as prizes. (Photo by Diana Gonzales)

EMS: New century, new hope

EMS Update
By Carolyn Rutherford
EMS Director

Kinney County EMS Week is June 12-16 and Kinney County Trauma Awareness Month is June 2000.

Most people know that when you need emergency medical help, you can pick up the nearest phone and call 9-1-1.

But do you know who will respond to your call for help? Kinney County EMS and the Texas Department of Health remind you and your family that emergency response teams provide lifesaving link between ill or injured individuals and medical care in Kinney County.

"Emergency medical response across Texas is provided every day by dedicated, trained professionals, working in ambulances and trauma centers stocked with lifesaving equipment," says Kathy Perkins, newly appointed Chief of TDH's Bureau of Emergency Management.

Ambulances staffed with at least two trained medics respond to calls for ill or injured people. The Texas Trauma System, made up of 173 trauma centers across Texas, coordinates in-hospital care so that the patients receive the type of care they need as quickly as possible.

This system can spring into action, if needed, when someone calls 9-1-1.

"Nearly 45,000 trained and certified emergency personnel are part of Texas EMS," Perkins says.

"They respond to people in need and give the best emergency medical care possible. These highly trained medics treat patients from the emergency scene to the hospital and are an integral part of our emergency care system for victims of sudden and serious illness and injury."

In Texas, this system begins with an informed public able to recognize a medical emergency and make the call for help, and includes a network of trauma centers that provide highly specialized care for the most seriously ill or injured.

To learn what you can do in a medical emergency before EMS arrives, order a copy of "When Minutes Count: A Citizen's Guide to Emergencies" by calling (512) 834-6700, or writing to the Bureau of Emergency Management, 1100 West 49th, Austin, Texas 78756.

For emergencies, call 9-1-1. (The second EMS unit may be staffed with less than TDH required crew)

County library automation system is now in operation

Kinney County Library has added 565 new books, 75 new videos and 125 new books on tape to its collection in the past six months.

"These items were purchased through grants and state funds. The state library awarded us $3,000 this year for the purchase of new books. This is one of the benefits of being a member library," Library Director Sara Terrazas told Commissioners' Court recently.

"Of these new items, 400 have been logged in to our automation system. We also have 345 patrons entered into the system. Our automation system is now in operation and patrons can access our collection from the computers. We only have 20,000 more titles to go. When completed, it will be easier to know what materials are in-house and what has been checked out. It will also give us a daily circulation report and a list of overdue materials," Terrazas added.

She said the library is now online (the home page address is www.brackettville.lib.tx.us).

"We have just finished up the last of our TIF (Telecommunications Infrastructure Board) grant funds. We now have 16 computers, 10 of them are for the public's use. We have four in the Children's Room, seven in the main library, one in the Fritter Room for genealogy research and four for the staff's use. We also have one network color laser printer, a scanner, a black and white laser printer, a digital camera, a laptop computer with docking station and a main server. We have installed surge protectors on each computer and one smart UPS (safety device) for the main server. We also have backup media in case the server should crash. A backup tape is made every week of all our entries." She said a serviceman visits the library once a month to make adjustments on the computers, "so everything is run-

Gallego praises Emergency Medical Service crews

Submitted by State Rep. Pete P. Gallego

AUSTIN - Emergency Medical Service (EMS) volunteers have a long tradition of excellence and heroism. It is important that we all recognize their invaluable service. These dedicated men and women volunteer their time and talents, undergoing rigorous training and certification to make sure that their communities get the best Emergency Medical Service possible.

EMS personnel are an integral part of every community. If it were not for their commitment, many lives would be lost. Volunteers gain a world of knowledge and experience through their actions and their duties. Though we all hope that we will never be a part of their on-call experiences, we can sleep better at night knowing that if needed they'll be ready for action.

As a rural West Texas native, I understand the unique challenges our EMS crews face. The distances an ambulance has to travel can seriously affect response time. During my tenure in the Texas Legislature, I have made it a point to ensure that these providers have the necessary resources to provide the best quality service.

Late last year, it was my honor to present seven county EMS services with grant checks

Library plans several summer activities

Kinney County Public Library's Summer Reading Programs continues through June 28. Fourteen people have volunteered to help and more volunteers are welcome, said Sara Terrazas, director.

"We are still recruiting for volunteers. We need at least two adults for each class (see schedule below). Also, we have commitments from various organizations that have offered to help with supplies and cold drinks for the students. The Fort Clark Men's Golf Club and the Lions Club of Brackettville were the first to make contributions to the program," said Terrazas.

"We are looking forward to this summer. We already have a large group of children and teens who use our library on a regular basis. We hope to keep them busy this summer."

Frances McMaster, Brackett News contributing writer, smiles as she holds a copy of her recently released mystery, "Death Plays the Lead." She will be at the Library Annex Friday at 10:30 a.m. to sign other copies of her book. The public is invited to the book signing.

McMaster mystery, 'Death Plays the Lead,' set in Fort Clark and Brackettville, is now on sale

It's out at last! The mystery novel, "Death Plays the Lead," written by Frances McMaster, Brackett News contributing writer, has just been released by Enigma Books, imprint of Panther Creek Press in Spring, Texas. In this book, a body is found in the Fort Clark Springs Amphitheater and Fort Clark and Brackettville serve as the setting. This has proven interesting according to feedback from those who have read it. "Will there be another book?" readers ask. "I'm planning on one. A body will be found at Alamo Village! That theatrical setting should be an easy one to imagine," McMaster said.

Her first full-length novel in print, McMaster has had poetry and various articles in literary journals published. A psychotherapist in private practice when she lived in Houston, she wrote as a hobby, but attended a professional writer's group, Authors Unlimited, each week. "We met to critique each other's work, which was extremely helpful," she said. McMaster said Author's Unlimited gave writing workshops every year. "Everyone else in the group had been published many times and my contribution was to do a presentation on 'Tapping into Your Creativity.'"

Panther Creek Press is a small young press formed by an outstanding author, Guida Jackson Laufer, editor of a literary journal for years before starting this new adventure. McMaster is expected to promote the book, she explained. "Unless you sell thousands of books on the strength of your name as an author, even major publishing companies do little to publicize and market your book. I will be signing books at every bookstore I can find, and 'Death Plays the Lead' will be available through Amazon.com soon," she said. The public is invited to a book signing at the Library Annex Friday at 10:30 a.m.

Deer management incentives approved

A Little on the Wildlife Side
By Henry Lutz

AUSTIN — Drawing insight from a diverse group of white-tailed deer managers, biologists and enthusiasts, state officials approved June 1 new incentives for landowner involvement in deer management. The changes to Texas Parks and Wildlife's guidelines and philosophy for issuance of special deer harvest provisions under the Managed Lands Deer program were developed from discussions by an agency task force created specifically for the purpose. "Improving and conserving habitat is still the primary goal of TPW management programs," said Bob Cook, TPW chief operating officer. "The pathways being recommended mean that the MLD program will evolve from reward-based to incentive-based. Landowners still must have a desire to improve habitat on their property and a willingness to harvest deer when needed." The MLD program was devised by the agency as a mechanism for landowners with a TPW-approved wildlife management plan to have greater flexibility in when deer may be harvested on their property. Under the new provisions, the basic MLD program would remain unchanged and all participants would still be required to have a wildlife management plan in place. New components to the program create additional flexibility for the landowner in determining which management practices to implement, a longer time frame in which to make those improvements and provisions for more accountability. "We realize there are years when management goals cannot be met because of weather or other circumstances and there are times when land managers may decide to change their focus and direction in land practices," offered Jerry Cooke, TPW upland game ecology program director. "There are also times when landowners simply want out of the program or when flagrant violations occur and participants need to be removed from the program. We've tried to identify those provisions and include them."

Under the new process, landowners will have a three-year window to undertake a specified number of wildlife management practices on their property, the number and scope of which will be guided by the level of participation in the program. MLD participants will also have to maintain deer harvest and population census data over a number of years in order to qualify for additional incentives.

In related deer management program alterations, the agency proposed changes to its Trap, Transport and Transplant (or Triple-T) Permit program for public comment that provide fewer hurdles for insignificant deer transfers. This program provides landowners additional tools for managing white-tailed deer populations where traditional practices are insufficient to achieve desired goals. Participants would also be required to keep daily logs of their activities, including the costs of deer transfers and include these logs in their annual reports.

Rep. Bonilla calls on Administration to prosecute Mexican militant offering $10,000 bounty to anyone who kills a Border Patrol agent

WASHINGTON D.C. - U.S. Representative Henry Bonilla, R-Texas, demanded the prosecution of Mexican militant, Carlos Ibarra Perez, who offered a $10,000 bounty to anyone who kills a United States Border Patrol Agent. Bonilla sent a letter today to President Clinton asking that the United States not sit back and tolerate threats on federal law enforcement officers.

"The threats made by Perez on the lives of our Border Patrol agents are criminal. This is why I have asked President Clinton to call on the Mexican government to prosecute this criminal," Bonilla said.

Perez, a resident of Reynosa, Mexico, claims to represent a 5,000 member organization known as the Citizens Defense Committee. He issued the $10,000 bounty at Reynosa's city hall on Monday. Perez has voiced his intentions to impose his version of justice for the shootings by Texas landowners on undocumented immigrants over the past year.

"This should be taken seriously. The United States cannot allow terrorist threats to go unchallenged," Bonilla said.

Jose Antonio Zabalgoita, a Mexican embassy spokesman, issued a statement on behalf of the Mexican Embassy condemning Perez' remarks and calling them "an intolerable provocation."

"I hope that President Clinton will show his support for the Border Patrol, as well as the rest of our law enforcement officers and urge Mexican officials to seek the prosecution of Perez. The U.S. cannot allow this threat to go unanswered," Bonilla said.

Vondy, McKelvy host Daughters of the Republic of Texas meeting at Alamo Village

Fifty-one Daughters of the Republic of Texas and their guests met at Alamo Village on June 1.

Hostesses for the event were Agnes Vondy and Pat McKelvy. They were treated to a tour of the Alamo, musical entertainment, and a gun fight prior to a Mexican buffet luncheon.

Special guests were Daughters of the Republic of Texas District VII representative Fran Brookshier and the winner of the Caddel-Smith Chapter scholarship Bonnie Cockrell.

Bonnie, Class of 2000 salutatorian of Uvalde High School, will be attending the University of Notre Dame in the fall.

She was eligible for the scholarship by winning the chapter's seventh grade essay contest years ago.

Many of those attending had recently been at the annual convention held in Houston.

The Caddel-Smith chapter won first place in the state in Attendance and Achievement and its Scrapbook placed third in the state.

Plans were made for attending the District VII Workshop in Brownsville in August.

Work is progressing rapidly on the Kinney County United Medical Center's new pharmacy. A spokeswoman said Wednesday that it is hoped the new building will be ready for the pharmacist to move into next Tuesday.

Two elementary school teachers, band director join Brackett ISD

Brackett ISD board members Monday night approved the superintendent's recommendation to hire three new teachers for the 2000-2001 school year.

They are Janna Bowlin, Jason Guidry and Yolanda Rueda. Bowlin will teach third grade. She earned a Bachelor of Science in Education degree from Lubbock Christian University, with a major in elementary education and a minor in English. She taught second grade in Midland. She and her husband, Brian, have two daughters, Katie and Brooke. The girls attend Jones Elementary School.

Guidry has been hired as band director. He will be moving here from Denton. He was choir director, marching band arranger and guest conductor for Sanger High School in Sanger, Texas. He earned a Bachelor of Music degree from the University of North Texas in Denton, where he majored in Composition. He spent two years as a member of the Denver based Blue Knights Drum and Bugle Corps. His wife, Nicole, plays the clarinet; he plays the tuba. They have a three-year-old son, Charlie.

Rueda will teach fourth grade. She recently moved here. She earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics from Texas Tech University in Lubbock and in Early Childhood Education from Texas A&M University in Kingsville.

She has taught Home Economics for most of the 19 years she has been an educator. She also is certified to teach elementary education. She taught fourth grade in Uvalde last year. She is the mother of three children. Her husband is with the Border Patrol.

ning smoothly."

Terrazas said that this summer, the Alamo Library System will be offering network training for librarians and any other county employees who want to learn how to support and troubleshoot computer equipment and local area networks.

The training will take place in Uvalde and San Antonio - three days on networking and two days on Windows NT. The dates for the training has not been set.

Terrazas also reported that on April 21, the library hosted a video conference for the Tocker Foundation. Thirteen member librarians attended the conference in the Fritter Room.

"Good comments were made on our library and meeting room. The room is used quite frequently these days. The Census Bureau is using it for recruiting and testing, Southwest Texas Junior College has been using it as a classroom for English as a Second Language (ESL) classes and computer classes are held each Thursday," said Terrazas.

talling over $70,000. These grants have allowed EMS providers to purchase ambulances, jaws-of-life, heart monitors and other pieces of vital medical equipment.

Several EMS crews are also skilled as firefighters. Not only do they battle against hazardous conditions, risking their own safety, but they also ensure the safety and health of others. Recently, due to the dry conditions and emergency situation in the Glass Mountains, we have been reminded of the need and role EMS/Firefighter volunteers play. Volunteers are called at all hours from their families, work and leisure to ensure the safety of others. They willingly give their time and deserve our respect and admiration not only during EMS week but throughout the year.

Hospice Benefit tickets on sale now

Friends of Hospice, for the fourth year, is selling tickets for a Hospice Benefit. The volunteer organization was chartered to help the terminally ill and their families. It has raised $7,000 with this fund-raiser to date. For more information, or to purchase a ticket, contact a Friends of Hospice board member, the Hospice Bargain Box (open Wednesdays and Saturdays) or Seasons/May's Hallmark. All ticket proceeds go directly to Hospice as the benefit is totally underwritten by Season's/May's Hallmark. Drawing for the gift certificate will be June 24.

75 students enrolled in summer school

Making a Difference
By Taylor Stephenson

We're back! Summer school activities began June 5 and will continue until June 29.

We have 75 students and 10 teachers below grade 9 working on their basic skills in math and reading.

The summer food program began serving breakfast and lunches the same day and will continue food services to coincide with summer school.

The summer program is available for all students free of charge. School age students do not have to attend summer school to eat in the summer food service program. All adults would be charged for their meal. Questions can be directed to Honey Bee Gomez at 563.2491 extension 554.

Finkenbunder visits
Art Finkenbinder dropped by to say hello. Many remember Art and his family who left here to move to East Texas in 1998. Art & Renee will move to Scammon Bay, Alaska, for the next school year. Jania completed high school this year and will join the US Army soon. Isaac will be a Junior and will move with the family to Alaska.

Teachers hired
Monday night, the School Board hired three new teachers. We welcome Jason Guidry, Band Director, and Janna Bowlin for 3rd grade and Yolanda Rueda, 4th grade. We now have three vacancies which include counselor, librarian and a combination 6th grade teacher who will need to teach science/history and is also the assistant coach for girls' sports. We're working hard trying to fill our vacancies

New band director.
New band director, Jason Guidry writes: "I received the school calendar this morning, and I think I would like to have a band member and parent meeting on Thursday evening, July 27, a sort of "officer inservice" with the drum major and her two assistants during the day on Friday the 28th, and then schedule band camp from July 31-Aug 7 (minus Saturday & Sunday). Perhaps the 8th through the 10th, we could have evening sectionals and on the 11th, we could have a short rehearsal during he day. I'll like to have the band playing and marching the opener on August 11th."

Jason is excited about moving to Brackettville to be our band director. It's great to feel the excitement in his letter as he dreams about what could be at BHS. Band members, let's get ready to have a great year. He will write to you later in the summer to finalize plans.

Great trip!
Our trip to California was a great one. We spent one night in the state capitol, Sacramento. It's a town with a rich history of railroads and gold mining. In old Sacramento, there is a "board walk" and lots of fun shops to spend time and money. The river boats dock right in the middle of town. There are lots of great places to eat. We chose Mexican food with lots of salsa. The California highways are mostly divided in the north state and oleanders that are as much as 10 feet tall are in beautiful bloom in colors of pink, white and red. The flowers in California are beautiful. From the air, you can see rice fields around Sacramento.

We also visited Mount Lassen which is a couple of hours north of Sacramento, near Redding. The mountain is an extinct volcano that still spews sulfur smoke. It is snow capped with as much as 6 inches of snow and the runoff from melting snows and rushing fast toward the rivers (probably the Sacramento).

That's about it for the week. I'll tell you a few things about the areas that I visit this summer. I know that vacation is a special time for you.

Have a great week!

Laura Lee Ballew wins national award

Competing against more than 9,000 students from throughout the United States, Laura Lee Ballew, a Brackett High School graduate, has won a National Honor Society scholarship, sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

Don Sims, principal of Brackett High School, announced the award, which includes a $1,000 college scholarship.

Two hundred National Honor Society winners were announced by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Each high school NHS chapter could nominate two senior students based on their leadership, scholastic achievement, character and service.

"Miss Ballew has demonstrated outstanding ability in her academic work and service to her school and community," said Gerald N. Tirozzo, executive director, NASSP.

"She is a fine example of the outstanding caliber of young people in America's high schools."

While at Brackett High School, Ballew has been active and had leadership roles in multiple organizations and sports, and has received numerous awards. She is valedictorian of the class of 2000, and will attend Texas A&M University in the fall, to major in Biomedical Science.

NASSP is the nation's largest school leadership organization with a membership reaching to-
