ing him, but they discovered that Governor Peabody was not an occupant and gave it up. Jacob Wolfet, through whom Orchard says he communicated with Pettibone, vehemently denied that he had ever acted as an intermediary in handling mail from Orchard to Pettibone. Max Malich, a prominent politician and labor union man of Globeville, says Orchard told him he killed Governor Steunenberg because the latter prevented him from becoming a millionaire. Orchard reasoned, according to Malich, that Steunenberg's request for troops during the Couer d'Alene strike compelled him to leave the country and dispose of his interest in the Hercules mine, of which the purchasers subsequently became millionaires and that Orchard was the loser. Malich declared that he never had anything to do with Orchard's plots, which refutes the statement credited by Orchard by a special dispatch from Boise to the effect that Malich supplied the powder for making several bombs.

Bradley's Experience.

By Associated Press.
San Francisco, Cal., June 7.—Fred W. Bradley, a former manager of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines in the Couer d'Alene district, said last night: "Orchard's statement quite fits in with my experience. The attempt to poison me with strychnine in milk," he said, "was mainly frustrated by my habit of early rising, my habit being to get up before breakfast before anyone else in the house. One morning I found a bitter taste in the milk and spat it out and had the rest put away. Several innocent lives were thus saved. This milk may have been doctored before I tasted it."

Bradley related that he was so terribly injured by the explosion spoken of by Orchard that he had been unable to clearly follow the accounts of the outrage. He referred to the explosion which wrecked his home, caused by escaping gas in the front hall, which was ignited by a match. The owner of the flat sued the gas company and was awarded $10,000.00 damages, the explosion being attributed to a defective meter. The gas company took an appeal which is now pending in the supreme court.

Peabody Receives Anonymous Letter.

By Associated Press.
Kansas City, Mo., June 7.—James H. Peabody, former governor of Colorado, who is here on business, said last night that since the Haywood trial at Boise began he had received several anonymous letters threatening his life. He said that he paid no attention to the letters, because they evidently did not come from responsible sources. Mr. Peabody said:

"I have been subpoenaed as a witness in the case and I am only awaiting the telegram calling me to Boise to testify. I wish I might state just what my testimony will be and what I know about the case and these various threats and charges, but I don't want to do anything that might be construed in the light of trying to create any prejudice in the Haywood case."

Holds No Malice.

By Associated Press.
Seattle, Wash., June 7.—A dispatch to the Post-Intelligence from Walla Walla says:

"Harry Orchard has done many wrongs, but I hope he has repented, now that he understands the magnitude of his sins and that he be given a chance to lead a good, true and honest life after the present ordeal has passed." This is the statement of Mrs. Frank Steunenberg, widow of the former governor of Idaho, who was killed by a bomb planted by Harry Orchard in the gateway of his home in Caldwell. Mrs. Steunenberg is attending the annual campmeeting and conference of the Seventh Day Adventists at College Place, three miles west of Walla Walla. She seems to be above hatred for the man who killed her husband and her conversation indicates that she has forgiven him. As to Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, she expressed no opinion, saying that she had not thought about their con-

A COTTON MILL CAN BE LOCATED HERE

BIG MASS MEETING

WILL BE HELD AT THE COURT HOUSE TUESDAY NIGHT.

LET EVERYBODY COME OUT

And Help Land a Splendid Industry For Wichita Falls.

A mass meeting of the citizens of Wichita Falls and all others who are interested in the town's growth and prosperity, is called to meet at the court house on next Tuesday night, June 11, for the purpose of discussing the best means of securing the location of a big cotton mill in Wichita Falls.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and every person who is interested in the future welfare of Wichita Falls should attend.

Mr. L. C. Todd, president of the company which owns and operates the big cotton mill at Waxahachie, will probably be present at this meeting. Mr. Todd is the man who is proposing to organize a company to build and operate a mill at this place. In doing this, he would not give up his interests in the mill at Waxahachie, but would probably come to this city to reside, leaving his sons at Waxahachie to look after the mill there. Mr. Todd visited Wichita Falls recently and was well pleased with the city, the progressive spirit of her business men and was impressed with the belief that this would be a good location for a cotton mill, not only because of the excellent shipping facilities, but also on account of its proximity to a cheap fuel supply.

The cotton mill at Waxahachie has been a marked success and there seems to be no reason why a mill here should not be equally profitable.

The Waxahachie mill was organized with a capital stock of $100,000. It commenced operations in March, 1906. Figures taken from the company's annual reports show that the net earnings during the five and one-half years that the mill has been in operation total $111,759, making the yearly average net earnings $20,318. The actual cost of the mill plant was $126,687, the real estate on which it is situated costing $7,263; the houses in which the operatives live, $12,728; and office fixtures, $550, making the total cost inclusive of the mill, office fixtures, operatives' houses, etc., $147,226.00.

The total sales of products from the mill last year reached the large sum of $303,447, giving a net profit of $48,110.00.

Mr. Todd proposes to invest $75,000 in a company to build and operate a mill here, if the citizens of Wichita Falls will invest an equal amount in the stocks of the company.

It is for the purpose of presenting this proposition in detail to the citizens that the mass meeting has been

BOWLING GREEN GOES DRY.

No Open Saloons Between Louisville and Nashville.

By Associated Press.

Bowling Green, Ky., June 7.—Bowling Green voted out the saloons yesterday, the vote being nine hundred for and eleven hundred and twenty-seven against the saloons. When the law goes into effect there will not be an open saloon on the Louisville and Nashville railroad between the cities of Nashville and Louisville.

MASS MEETING TONIGHT!

ALL CITIZENS OF WICHITA FALLS ARE RESPECTFULLY REQUESTED TO MEET WITH THE CITY COUNCIL AT THE CITY HALL TONIGHT, FRIDAY, JUNE 7TH, AT 8 O'CLOCK P. M. FOR THE PURPOSE OF DISCUSSING THE SEWER PROPOSITION NOW BEFORE THE CITY COUNCIL FOR FRANCHISE.

nection with the case. She is leading a secluded life, spending most of the time reading the Bible and other religious works. She said yesterday:

"The trial of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone is the commencement of a national struggle between the United States government and organized labor and will eventually lead to rebellion. When the Couer d'Alene trouble arose Mr. Steunenberg was greatly worried and after he had made his final stand he told me he thought it would cost him his life. The thought that his life was at stake did not influence him in the least in what he thought was right. After completing his term as governor he never thought his life was in danger and I had practically forgotten the ordeal through which he had passed and I believe he had. His assassination was a terrible shock."

By Associated Press.

Dayton, O., June 7.—Mayor Wright, in welcoming the convention of the United Commercial Travelers to this city this morning took occasion to say that Senator Foraker should be the next president of the United States. Immediately there were storms of hisses and many traveling men arose and left the hall. When the mayor said that Foraker was one of the greatest statesmen of the country, there were again many hisses.

SCHMITZ TRIAL PROCEEDS

After Interruption Caused by Defendant's Appearance in Another Court.

San Francisco, Cal., June 7.—The trial of Mayor Schmitz on a charge of extortion will proceed again this morning. It was interrupted yesterday afternoon, as the defendant, Schmitz, had to appear in Judge Lawler's court to answer fourteen indictments in connection with the gas bribery cases and fourteen more growing out of the trolley franchise steal, but on the motion of his counsel the case was postponed until a week from tomorrow.

FRIDAY, THE 13th By Thomas W. Lawson. Copyright, 1907, by Doubleday, Page & Company. and the heart of one I love—and yours, too, Jim—systematically skewered to those of the hundreds and thousands of victims who have gone before. Jim, we must be three millions losers, and the men who have our money have so many, many millions that they can't live long enough even to thumb them over. Men who will use our money on the gambling table, at the race tracks, squander it on stage harlots, or in turning their wives and daughters or their neighbors' wives and daughters into worse than stage harlots. Men, Jim, who are not fit, measured by any standard of decency, to walk the same earth as you and Judge Sands. Men whose painted pets pollute the very air that such as Beulah Sands must breathe. I've learned my lesson to-day. I thought I knew the game of finance, but I'm suddenly awakened to a realization of the dense ignorance I wallowed in. Jim, but for the loading of the dice, I should now have been taking Beulah Sands to her father with the money that the hellish 'System' stole from him. Later I should have taken her to the altar, and after, who knows but that I should have had the happiest home and family in all the world, and lived as her people and mine have lived for generations, honest, God-fearing, law-abiding, neigh-

"Mr. Brownley, please look on the bright side of this calamity." Bob. He pushed his way through the crowd and, joining me, said: "Jim, forgive me. I have dragged you into an enormous loss, have ruined Beulah Sands, her father and myself. I think at the last moment I did the only thing possible. I threw over the 150,000 shares and so cut off some of our loss. Let us go to the office and see where we stand." He was strangely, unaccountably calm after that heart-crushing, nerve-tearing day. I tried to tell him how I admired his cool nerve and pluck in about facing and doing the only thing there was left to do; to tell him that required more real courage and level-headedness than all the rest of the day's doings; but he stopped me: "Jim, don't talk to me. My conceit is gone. I have learned my lesson to-day. My plans were all right, and sound, but poor fool that I was, I did not take into consideration the loaded dice of the master thieves. I knew what they could do, have seen them scores of times, as you have, at their slaughter; seen them crush out the hearts of other men just as good as you or I; seen them take them out and skin and quarter-slice them, unmindful of the agony of those who were dear to and dependent on their owners, but it never seemed to strike me home. It was not my heart, and somehow, I looked at it as a part of the game and let it go at that. To-day I know what it means to be put on the chopping block of the 'System' butchers. I know what it is to see my heart-

BURKBURNETT SALE

NEW TOWN ON THE RED RIVER
OPENED THURSDAY.

LOT SALE WAS AUSPICIOUS

Many Residences and Business Houses Will Be Built at Once and the Future is Promising.

The opening of the new town of Burkburnett with a big auction sale of town lots was an entire success and the number of lots sold to persons who intend to build homes and business houses upon them insures a goodly population for the new town from the very start and the splendid land surrounding the town and its excellent situation from a commercial standpoint makes the promise of future growth very bright. At the opening of the sale yesterday Mr. Doneghy announced that every lot that was offered would be sold whether it brought $25 or $5,000. No bids for less than $5 would be entertained and the terms were one-third cash, one-third in six months and the balance in one year. Another feature of the sale was that the man who bought a lot had first chance at the adjoining lots. He could take as many adjoining lots as he wanted at the price he was to pay for the one he bid in.

Another commendable feature was that the auctioneer's wagon was driven from place to place about over the townsite and whenever a lot was offered for sale the wagon was standing on it. There could thus be no doubt in the mind of the purchaser about the location of his lot.

The entire morning was occupied with the sale of business lots. In the afternoon residence lots were offered. The highest bid on residence lots was $110 and the lowest about $30. Only about two blocks were sold when the bidding got to be a little slow and the townsite people, feeling that the people were not very anxious to buy and that they were not getting for their lots what they were worth or what they would sell for later, declined to proceed further with the sale and did not offer any more lots for sale at auction.

The townsite officials, the auctioneers and the greater part of the people went on the train to Kell in the evening. Also, together with the passengers who were going to Kell, filled the five passenger coaches to the limit. Returning to this city in the evening the train was not unduly crowded. It arrived here at 6:40.

Asked as to how the sale measured up to their expectations, Mr. Doneghy, on his return trip, said: "We did well. We sold between $30,000 and $40,000 worth of lots today. We would have done much better if the weather had been more favorable, but under the circumstances I consider that we did very well."

Soon after the special arrived, a boy with a cornet called the crowd together at the corner of Scott avenue and Avenue P, near the depot and at 10:10 a. m., when the crowd had gathered Burk Burnett mounted the auction wagon and addressed the crowd. He said in substance:

Burnett's Speech.

"Gentlemen and Fellow Citizens: I am truly proud to greet you on the site of a town named after myself. I am not a speaker, as you all know, I have never been to a round up like this one in this country. I have been to lots of round ups here, but this is the first time I ever saw all of them come on two feet. We usually brought them in on four.

"I am glad that I have turned this land over to such men as Kemp, Kell and Doneghy, who will take it and build railroads, towns and homes. I didn't have sense enough to make of it what God intended it should be, and I couldn't make out of it what they can.

ROUNTREE-JOYCE.
Pretty Home Wedding Took Place
Last Night.
At a pretty home wedding last night at half past eight o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Joyce, on Burnett avenue, their only daughter, Willye, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Charles W. Rountree of Gainesville.
The ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. A. C. Burroughs, pastor of the First Baptist church.
The parlors of the Joyce home were prettily decorated for the event and a throng of friends were gathered to witness the ceremony.
The wedding march was played beautifully by Miss Pick Hyer.
The bride was attended by two brides' maids, Miss Evelyn Rountree of Henrietta, a sister of the groom, and Miss Elsie Holloway of Petrolia. Both wore gowns of pink crepe de chine.
The flower girls were Misses Mabel Tompkins and Mabel Simpson.
The bride wore a lovely gown of white lace over blue silk and never was prettier or more charming than on this occasion. The groom was attended by Mr. R. H. Helm of Henrietta.
Following the ceremony an elegant luncheon was served.
Mr. Rountree and his bride left today for Gainesville, where Mr. Rountree is engaged in the lumber business and where they will make their future home.
The Times, with their many other friends, extends congratulations and wishes for them a long and happy life.

Wichita Falls, Texas, June 7th, 1907.

A STRONG PULL ALL TOGETHER NOW.

By a strong and united effort, Wichita Falls can secure a cotton factory. The opportunity for doing this will present itself at a mass meeting of citizens at the court house called by the Chamber of Commerce for Tuesday night of next week. At that meeting the man who proposes to establish and operate the enterprise will submit his proposition. As the Times understands the matter, he proposes to take for himself and associates one-half the capital stock, provided the other half is subscribed for by local people. He is a man well known to some of our citizens, and is the same party who established the cotton mill at Waxahachie, which has paid handsome dividends every year since the factory was placed in operation. He is not dissatisfied with his investments at Waxahachie, but on the contrary is highly pleased and expects to retain his holdings at that place. Owing to the fact that the Wichita & Southern is to be constructed, and when completed will open up one of the largest coal fields in the west, he thinks, and with good reason, that Wichita Falls will be an excellent point at which to establish a cotton factory, as it not only guarantees cheap fuel, but will also be in the midst of as fine a cotton raising country as can be found anywhere. This is a matter that should appeal to every citizen of Wichita Falls and the Times hopes that the mass meeting called for next Tuesday night for the purpose of considering the proposition to be submitted will be attended by every citizen who has the future welfare of Wichita Falls at heart and after the conclusion of the meeting it hopes to be able to announce on Wednesday of next week that the cotton factory will be built.

called for next Tuesday night. In the face of the foregoing figures, it hardly seems necessary to urge the matter and the Times believes that the people of Wichita Falls will make good their part of the proposition. Come out to the meeting and be ready to help subscribe the $75,000 stock in full before the meeting adjourns.

The Revival Meetings.

Rev. Barton was not present last night and Slinger Ramsey spoke to the congregation. He denied the charge of being a preacher, but made an excellent talk notwithstanding. His subject was "Strong Manhood," based upon David's charge to his son, Solomon, "Be strong, therefore, and show yourself a man."

In support of the statement that it was easy to go with the crowd, he gave several interesting and profitable illustrations. He said that last year the style for ladies' hats was a long bizard feather and everybody had one. This year he said it was a bunch of hay on one side and all the women were calling for "more hay."

Among the illustrations of what he calls manhood in going against the crowd was that of Pete Henderson. When Pete left his home to go to New York, his mother made him promise not to go anywhere when she was dead that he would be ashamed go while she was living. Fulfilling this promise he refused when Gov. Bob Taylor's staff to enter a saloon and take a social drink, even though requested by the whole staff to do so. Other equally good illustrations were given.

As a result of the efforts put forth, in the service and in the after meeting seven persons were converted and several of them united with the church. Services today and until further notice will be held at 3:30 and 8:15 p. m. Let those who attend make a special effort to get there promptly at that time.

ONE EYE IS PUT OUT

LITTLE CHILD MEETS WITH DEPLORABLE ACCIDENT.

STRUCK WITH A KNIFE

Sight of the Right Eye is Probably Destroyed Forever.

The home of Charles Priebe, who lives two miles south of Wichita Falls, was visited by a sad and deplorable accident this morning.

Elsie, the bright 3-year old daughter, was playing in the yard with an open pocket knife when in some manner she stuck the point of the blade in her right eye. The child suffered excruciating pain after the accident and it is feared that the sight in that eye has been entirely destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Priebe left this evening for Fort Worth, where they are taking their little daughter to a specialist in the hope that he may be able to save the sight of the injured eye.

BOY MANGLED BY BINDER.

Henry Pundt Loses Two Limbs When Horses Became Frightened on Farm Near Henrietta.

Special to the Times.

Henrietta, Tex. June 7.—With his right arm and left foot cut off and the right thigh terribly mangled, Henry Pundt, 12 years of age, is not expected to live as the result of being thrown from his seat on a binder two miles south of this place yesterday. The left foot was amputated about four inches above the ankle this morning.

The boy, whose father, H. Pundt, is a farmer, was riding the binder about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the team he was driving became frightened. Young Pundt lost his seat and was thrown into the sickle, badly mangled him before his father, who was near by, could stop the animals.

The boy's right arm was severed from his body three or four inches from the shoulder. The bone in his left foot was crushed, the flesh and skin lacerated and the foot left hanging by a strip. From just above the right knee to the thigh the skin and flesh was torn and arteries severed.

Although very weak from the loss of blood, the boy rallied after surgical attendance and withstood the operation this morning well. From later reports today, however, it is learned that he is not expected to live.

Later—A message received from Henrietta today states that the boy is dead.

NEARING THE END.

Investigation Into Brownsville Affair May Be Concluded Next Week. Special to the Times.

Washington, D. C., June 7.—The Senate Committee on Military Affairs which is investigating the Brownsville affair, heard several witnesses today and then adjourned until Monday. It is believed that the session will be concluded next week, unless it should be decided to send a sub-committee to Brownsville later in the fall. Mrs. Emma Leaby continued her testimony today and said that on the morning following the shooting she went to the home of her mother at about 5:30 o'clock. She passed the barracks and said there were five or six men on the balcony of Company B barracks, cleaning their guns. At the same time she says she saw a white officer on the road inside the garrison. She believes this officer was either Major Penrose or Captain Ryan. Harold Cowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louise Cowan, testified concerning the shooting at their house.

Friday the 13th

By THOMAS W. LAWSON

Author of "Frenzied Finance"

Warriors of the 'System,' so their firing senate committee held a session last night and unanimously reported to put sugar on the free list. The people will read that in the morning, and probably the day after they'll be told that the committee held another session to-night and unanimously reported to take it off the free list. By that time these honorable statesmen will have loaded up with the stock that you and I and Beulah Sands sold, and that other poor devils will slaughter to-morrow after reading their morning papers."

Bob's bitterness was terrible. My heart was torn as I listened. He stalked through the office and into that of Beulah Sands. I followed. She was at her desk, and when she looked up, her great eyes opened in wonderment as they took in Bob, his grim, set face, the defiant, sullen desperation of the big brown eyes, the disheveled hair and clothes. For an instant she stood as one who had seen an apparition.

"Look me over, Beulah Sands," he said, "look me over to your heart's content, for you may never again see the fool of fools in all the world, the fool who thought himself competent to cope with men of brains, with men who really know how to play the game of dollars as it is played in this Christian age. Don't ask me not to call you Beulah; that what I tried to do was for you is the one streak of light in all this black hell. Beulah, Beulah, we are ruined, you, your father, and I, ruined, and I'm the fool who did it."

She rose from her desk with all the quiet, calm dignity that we had been admiring for three months, and stood facing Bob. She did not seem to see me; she saw nothing but the man who had gone out that morning the personification of hope, who now stood before her the picture of black despair, and she must have thought, "It was all for me." Suddenly she took the lapels of his torn coat in either hand. She had to reach up to do it, this winsome little Virginia lady. With her big, calm blue eyes looking straight into his, she said:

"Bob."

That was all, but the word seemed to change the very atmosphere in the room. The look of desperation faded from Bob's face, and as though the words had sprung the hidden catch to the doors of the storehouse of pent-up misery, his eyes filled with hot, blinding tears. His great chest was convulsed with sobs. Again—clear, calm, fearless, and tender, came the one syllable, "Bob." And at that Bob's self-control slipped the leash. With a hoarse cry, he threw his arms around her and crushed her to his breast. The sacredness of the scene made me feel like an intruder, and I started to leave the room. But in a moment Beulah Sands was her usual self and, turning to me, she said: "Mr. Randolph, please forget what you have seen. For an instant, as I saw Mr. Brownley's awful misery, I thought of nothing but what he had done for me, what he had tried to do for my father, what a penalty he has paid. From what you said when you left and the fact that I got no word from either of you, I feared the worst and did not dare look at the tape; I simply waited and hoped and—prayed. Yes, I prayed as my mother taught me I should pray whenever I was helpless and could do nothing myself. And I felt that God would not let the noble work of two such men be overthrown by those you were battling with. In the midst of a calmness that I took for a good omen, you came. Can you blame me for forgetting myself? Mr. Brownley," the voice was now calm and self-controlled, "tell me what you have done. Where do we stand?" "There is little to tell," Bob answered. "Camemeyer and Standard Oil have taken me into camp as they would take a stuck pig. They have made a monkeyed ass out of me, and we are ruined, and I have caused Mr. Randolph a heavy loss. Roughly, I figure that of your four hundred thousand capital and the million four hundred thousand profit you had this morning, only your capital remains."

Wishing to spare Bob, I interrupted and myself gave the girl briefly the details of what had happened. She listened intently and seemed to take in all the trickery of the "System" masters; seemed to see just what it meant to us and to her. But she made no comment, showed by no outward sign that she suffered. As soon as I was through she turned to Bob, who had stood with his eyes fastened upon her face, as though somewhere out of its soft beauty must come an assurance that this was all a bad dream.

"Mr. Brownley," she said, "—" figure up just where we stand, so that we may know what to do to recon- sider. You have said so many times, since I have been here, that Wall street is magic land; that no man may tell 24 hours ahead, what will happen to him. You have said it so many times that I believe it. We know that this morning we were at the goal, that we were millions ahead, and all from 24 hours' effort. We have yet almost three months left, and I do not see why we have not just as much chance as we had day before yesterday. Yes, and more, because we know more now. Next time we will include the dividend cuts and the senate duplicity in our figuring."

We both dumbly stared in wondering admiration at this marvelous woman. Was it possible that a girl could have such nerve, such courage? Or had woman's hope, so persistent where her loved ones are concerned, made Beulah Sands blind to the awfulness of the situation? As I looked at her I could not doubt that she fully realized our position, that she was really suffering more than either of us, that she was only acting to ease Bob's anguish. Bob brought out his memoranda, and in half an hour we had the figures. The total loss was nearly three millions. As Beulah Sands' 20,000 shares had cost less than ours and Bob figured to leave her capital of $400,000 intact, we felt some comfort. Beulah Sands had watched the figuring with the keenness of an expert, and when Bob announced the final figures, which showed that she still had what she started with, she drew the sheet containing the totals to her. "I was willing to accept your assistance," she said, "when the deal promised a profit to all of us, because I appreciated your goodness and knew how much it would hurt your feelings if I were churlish about the division; but now that we all lose I must stand my fair share; I must." She said this in a way that we both knew precluded the possibility of argument. "We owned together 150,000 shares. I was to have had the profits on 20,000 shares. Our total loss is $2,775,000, of which I must bear my just proportion. Mr. Brownley, you will see that $370,000 is charged to my account. I shall have $30,000 left. If our cause is as just as we think, God in His goodness will make this ample for our purposes."

Though Bob and I were in despair at her determination to strip herself of what Bob had worked so hard to accumulate, we could not help feeling a reverence for her faith and her sturdy independence. She now showed us in her delicate way that she wished to be alone; as we went she held out her hand to Bob. "Mr. Brownley, please, for the sake of the work we have to do, look on the bright side of this calamity, for it has a bright side. You wanted me to send word to my father that we were about to grasp victory. Think if we had sent it—then you will know that God is good, even when we think He is chastening us beyond endurance."

Bob took me into his office. "Jim, you see what a woman can do, and we are taught women are the weaker sex. Now listen to what you must do. Accept my notes for the whole loss, less one hundred thousand which I have to my credit, and which I will pay on account. I won't listen to any objection. The deal was mine; you came in only to help us out, and I ought never to have tempted you. If I remain in my present busted condition, the notes will be blank paper. Therefore you do me no harm in taking them. If I should strike it rich, I should never feel like a man until I made up the loss."

It was no use arguing with him in his inflexible mood, so I took his demand notes for $2,405,000. I begged him to go home with me to dinner, but he insisted that he could not face my wife with his last night's break still fresh in her mind. Next day he did not turn up. Along in the afternoon I received a telegram from him, saying that he was on his way to Virginia, that he needed a rest and would be back in a week. I was worried, nervous. It takes until the next day and the day after, and the week after that, to get down to the deepest misery of an upset such as we had been through. I did not feel easy with Bob out of sight while he was scounding for a new footing. I went to Beulah Sands in hope we might talk over the affair, but when I told her that Bob was to be gone for a week and that I was uneasy, she said in her calm, confident manner: "I don't think there is anything to worry about, Mr. Randolph. Mr. Brownley is too much of a man to allow an affair of dollars to do us."

WOODMEN OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY.

Picnic at Charlie on Seventeenth Anniversary of the Founding of the Order.

Yesterday being the seventeenth anniversary of the organization of the Woodmen of the World a picnic was held at Charlie in honor of the occasion. The speakers of the occasion were Judge A. H. Carrigan and Hon. P. A. Martin of Graham, who are now in this city attending court. Their speeches were of a fraternal nature and did ample justice to the occasion. The usual fine dinner and all round good time was by no means lacking on this occasion.

Runaway Averted.

Yesterday evening as J. D. Peeler was driving along Eighth street between Denison's hotel and the Argyle, one of the hames on one of his horses broke near the top. This let the harness and neck yoke drop and frightened the horses. They started toward Indiana avenue at a lively pace. Mr. Peeler stayed with the lines and soon had them practically under control. Another man came to his assistance and together they succeeded in quieting the team. No serious damage was done.

these valleys will be irrigated and the yield doubled. The time of the cow man is gone and a new era is breaking upon us.

"Twenty thousand acres of land here have been cut up into 80, 100 and 160 acre tracts that will be sold to settlers and farmers. If Wichita Falls will do the same with the land around it the population in five years will be three times what it is now. The government officials showed great judgment in selling farms in Oklahoma to actual settlers. Mark what I tell you. In five years the country around Burkburnett will contain more people to the square mile than any other section of the state, outal of our large cities.

"Burkburnett has one railroad. From the Dallas News, I see that another is to be built from Henrietta to this place, forty-five miles through the Red River valley land. Another, the Lawton & Southwestern, is headed this way.

The Future.

"This place is the natural market for all the products of the big pasture. No towns can be built this side of Kell and if that country grows cotton like they do east of it, there will be more cotton marketed here than at any other town on the Denver railway.

"Another thing I wish to mention is that Burnett has lived here and planted crops for twenty years and in the twenty years there has been only one crop failure.

"Burk Burnett, the man that everything he touches turns to gold, has not held this great country from those who want to improve it but has given it up. He has done his part in this matter and deserves credit for it. In my opinion he is one of the best and noblest men in the State of Texas."

Notice.

I have removed my offices from the Kemp & Kell building on the corner of Ohio avenue and Eighth street to rooms 8 and 9, over McClurkan's dry goods store on the southeast corner of Ohio avenue and Seventh street. Phones—Office, 289; residence, 214. 15-12 J. C. A. GUEST, M. D.

Like the Israelites of Old.

An automobile party that made the run from this place to Burkburnett yesterday had some thrilling experiences. The roads in th country were so soft that chains had to be put on the drive wheels before any progress could be made. When they came to the Gilbert Creek they found that stream bank full and several feet deep. Taking a good start they struck the water at full speed and, according to one of the passengers who might have been more or less excited, the machine literally knocked the creek dry. Water was thrown about ten feet high and a distance of some thirty feet and the machine passed through like the Israelites crossed the Red sea—on dry land.

TEXAS FIVE MILLION CLUB.

Railroads Make Special Rates for the Convention at Fort Worth. Special to the Times.

Houston, Tex., June 5.—A low rate has been made by the railroads of Texas in honor of the second regular meeting of the Texas Five Million Club to be held in Fort Worth on June 14 and 15. The round trip rate is approximately one and a third from all points in the State and over any road.

Responses from the coupons published in the daily papers of the State are coming rapidly and indicate a desire on the part of the people of Texas to hold a Diamond Jubilee and Southwestern Exposition in Texas in 1911. This will be one of the important matters to be threshed out at the Fort Worth meeting.

Some 1,200 invitations were sent out and some three-fourths of them have signified a willingness to attend, so it is safe to estimate that there will be from 800 to 1,000 people assembled in the North Texas city on that occasion.

"As I cannot possibly do justice to this grand occasion, I introduce to you T. J. Powell, ex-mayor of Fort Worth, who will represent me on this grand occasion."

Powell's Talk.

Mr. Powell then rose and acknowledging the honor conferred upon him by Mr. Burnett in selecting him as spokesman, he said in part:

"Mr. Burnett and Gentlemen: Mr. Burnett says he has selected me to represent him. I can't do that. No one can do that. He is in a class by himself and has many characteristics peculiarly his own. I shall not set myself to the impossible task of representing such a man.

"Coming on the train this morning we talked of the times and conditions thirty-two years ago and it seemed to me that there was in his conversation and general manner a lingering regret that he had turned this country over to those who were fast changing it from a cow ranch into a farming country. He was pretty much like the young orator. On one occasion a town was celebrating its twentieth anniversary and a young orator was selected to make the big speech of the occasion. He hiked to the woods and fixed up his speech. On the day appointed he arose and addressed the crowd: 'Twenty years ago the site on which this town now stands was a part and parcel of a howling wilderness and—' he forgot his speech. He tried again and failed. The third time he braced himself, collected his thoughts and began: 'Twenty years ago the site on which this town now stands was a part and parcel of a howling wilderness and—d-n me if I don't wish it was yet.' That's Burk. (Laughter.)

"Burk came from Denton county to this country thirty-two years ago. He hauled his first lumber from Ft. Worth with a six-ox team, to build, so far as he knows, the first frame house that was ever put up in Wichita county.

He Fought Indians.

"He fought the Indians to maintain his rightful possession of this land and fought the herds of buffalo that threatened at times to destroy his herds of cattle. But, he, like other men, had to give up his big pasture; had to yield to the man with the hoe. Even so almost everything had to give up to the man with the hoe. He is a ruler.

"In 1881 Burnett came from Birk station to this country and built his old ranch headquarters, using some of the same lumber he brought from Ft. Worth. He made treaties with the Indians, whereby he gained control of a large part of the big pasture across Red River and, be it said to his credit, he never once had the least trouble with them.

A Prophecy Fulfilled.

"On New Year's Day, seventeen years ago Burnett and I stood upon the ridge seven miles north of Red River. We had followed a bunch of turkeys that the hounds had run out of the bottoms. We looked across the river and saw the smoke ascending from the old ranch and the old ranch house. Burnett swung his old sixshooter around his head, saying that was the signal for the boys to come up. They came. Standing on the highest part of the country and looking across at the rich valley on this side he said: 'Powell, some day there will be a city in that fine valley over there. God never made a better farming country anywhere in the world.'

A Tribute to Burnett.

"There never was a truer and better man than Burk Burnett. Few indeed have such spirit and great character. He it is who slerd on the prairie, drove the Indians out and opened the way for the brain, brawn and genius of such men as Kemp, Kell and Doneghy to build railroads and develop the greatest country in the greatest State of the Union.

"I fear that we do not appreciate the efforts of these men who take first part in all these great undertakings. Look at the Kemp irrigation scheme. The value of that undertaking is not to be measured so much by the size of the dam, the area covered by the lake or the amount of land that it will irrigate, but the greatest benefit is the demonstration of a problem. It shows that this soil that is underlaid with clay will hold water like a jug. It is only a question of time when all

A Correction.

The Times yesterday through no intention of offending or injuring anyone or their business, in giving a short account of a runaway, stated that the wagon and horse was the property of Mr. Burt Bean. This is a mistake. It was not Mr. Bean's horse that ran away with the wagon and the Times is more than willing to rectify the error, which doubtless will be acceptable to the injured party.

GIRLHOOD FRIENDS

Meet Today After Separation of Over Thirty-three Years.

A joyous yet pathetic meeting took place at the residence of Marshal R. P. Gwinn this morning. The principals were Mrs. C. C. Allen and Mrs. W. W. Bailey, both residents of Wichita county. These two ladies were girls together back in old Mississippi. Both left their old home after they became matrons and today was the first time they had seen each other in over thirty-three years. It so happened that both of their husbands had been drawn as members of the grand jury.

Knowing the girlhood friendship of Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Bailey, Marshal Gwinn arranged that both ladies and their husbands should take dinner at his home today.

Thus it happened that after a separation of over thirty-three years these estimable ladies are reunited. Exclamations of joy, mingled with tears, attended the meeting of the two long separated friends. The arms of each were entwined about the other and what a happy time they are having today talking together over the dear old days back in Mississippi.

ALL LOVELY AT HENRIETTA.

New Railroads, New Buildings, New Factories and Many Other Reasons for Rejoicing.

Special to the Times.

Henrietta, Tex., June 6.—And still the old town is forging to the front.

The Odd Fellows are now arranging to build on their lots a pressed brick building to have a 60-foot front and 140 foot depth. When completed this will be one of the most handsome buildings west of Fort Worth. The entire building has already been rented at a splendid rental price. The lower floor will be used for a wholesale and retail dry goods and notion department; the second floor will be used as the offices of the new railroad and the third floor will be used as a lodge room for the order erecting the building.

Mr. Ed. S. Hughes of Abilene and Mr. George Byers of Kansas City, together with a number of home people are today arranging to put the surveyors in the field at once to lay out the line of a road from this place through the Charlie country on to the new town of Burkburnett in Wichita county.

The work is progressing rapidly on the road from Henrietta to the Southwest. Sixty teams arrived last night and are now on their way out to the work and a large force is expected to arrive by Saturday night.

The Dale Brothers of this place and Bonham, aided by local capital, have closed a deal for a cotton factory at this place and the work will be under way just as soon as the preliminary work can be done.

Many good things are just a little way ahead for Henrietta and her people are justly proud of the bright prospects that await her. Henrietta is not jealous in the slightest and likes to see towns that surround her prosper.

Crop prospects are getting better all the time and our farmers are rejoicing with our city people.

We are ready to serve you and will appreciate any business you may give us. King & White. 20-71
