Benefit To Help Callahan County Family To Be Held August 29th

A group of Callahan County neighbors are working to help a friend who recently died from cancer. Clyde resident, Billy Moore, died August 17th. He didn't have health insurance and his medical bills mounted during his stay at a local hospital.

So his friends have put together a fund raiser at the Union Hill Steakhouse and Hammers located between Clyde and Baird. All the money they can raise will go to help defer Moore's medical expenses. The event is planned for Sunday, August 29th. The benefit will feature a dance and auction for Moore. The group helping Moore is seeking help from others in donating new items to the auction. Mike and Becky Jones, and Gene and Glenda Gartman are heading up the fund raising effort. "Just about any new item can be donated. We hope to get a large crowd to the dance and then we'll auction off the donations to the highest bidder," said Mike Jones.

A bank account has also been established at the First National Bank in Baird for anyone that would like to make a donation. The account is named the Bill Moore Family Fund, Account no. 11022167. The bank's address is P.O. Box 968, Baird, Texas 79504.

For more information or anyone wishing to donate items for the fund raiser on August 29th, you can contact Mike and Becky Jones at 893-3463 or 893-3883.

Area Consultants Warned To Watch For Mixed Complex Of Worm Pests

Austin--As cotton transitions into the late season, Callahan County growers and crop consultants are encouraged to monitor moth flights and prepare to halt pyrethroid use in favor of chemistry that controls multiple worm species and is not cross-resistant with traditional products.

Late-season, many worm-pests invade cotton, such as cotton bollworm, tobacco budworm, beet armyworm, fall armyworm and loopers. During this time, worm feeding can cause boll shedding and result in severe yield and economic loss, making control a top priority.

However, because pyrethroid resistance has been documented in budworm and bollworm, use of chemicals with different modes of action is essential to successful control.

"Since pyrethroid resistance has become a concern throughout much of the Cotton Belt, it is important to rotate to chemistries with different modes of action, such as Tracer* Naturalyte* insect control," says Chris Sansone, Extension entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Tracer possesses a unique mode of action that is not crossresistant with existing products, making it an effective solution for the levels of resistant budworm and bollworm we frequently experience from late July into August. It is also an effective product for beet armyworm, fall armyworm and looper control."

Researchers recommend that growers scout twice a week to properly time insecticide treatments and apply insecticides on eggs to three-day-old worms.

In states where pyrethroid-resistance has been a problem for a number of years, growers have quickly adapted to the rotation strategy for managing resistant pests. "Because of the problems we've had with budworm resistance in Mississippi and the bad failures we've seen, our growers have become very aware of the need to rotate different classes of insecticide chemistry against different generations of pests," states Blake Layton, Extension cotton entomology specialist at Mississippi State University.

He adds that it is also important to choose a product that preserves beneficial insect populations because they help control resistant pests as well as cut down on flaring of secondary pests such as aphids and armyworms.

Beneficial insects such as big-eyed bug, spiders, minute pirate bug, lacewing larva and parasitic wasps are important regulators of major cotton pests. Trials conducted in 1998 by Richard Sprengle, University of Florida, and Lance Peterson, Dow AgroSciences field biologist, demonstrated the value of maintaining beneficial insects.

These natural predators kept aphids from flaring and helped reduce Heliothis egg and larvae numbers, as well as secondary pests like fall armyworm, soybean looper and cotton aphid. Beneficials were also responsible for reducing the sharp peaks of pest populations observed in the plots where beneficial insects were eliminated. As a result, cotton yields were increased by 26 percent and chemical costs were reduced by $6.63 per acre in the plots that preserved beneficials versus the plots where they were eliminated.

By selecting a product that leaves most beneficial insects unharmed, especially in early season, cotton growers can potentially reduce the number of resistant pests that survive to reproduce later in the season. In addition, by choosing products that allow beneficial insects to be more active in pest control programs, growers can lengthen the time between sprays and potentially reduce the number of insecticide treatments applied for worm control.

The anniversary issue features favorite Texas stories from well-traveled freelance writers and 28 of the most breathtaking images by the magazine's top photographers.

Besides more traditional photographs of windmills, sunsets, cowboys and courthouses, this special issue includes unusual images not always associated with the Lone Star State.

Readers can also learn what 25 celebrities like Willie Nelson, Lady Bird Johnson and Bob Lilly, love about their home state.

Over the past 25 years, the magazine's circulation has grown from 25,000 in 1974 to nearly 300,000 readers worldwide. Its subscribers are as far away as Saudi Arabia and Japan.

The magazine includes a pass for free admission to one of more than 200 participating museums such as the Alamo, the George Bush Presidential Library and Museum, and the Kimbell Art Museum. In addition, readers can enter a "Where in Texas are you?" contest to win a San Antonio getaway package.

Charlie's Weekly Round-Up

By Congressman Charlie Stenholm

Caring For The Women Who Cared for Us

You know her. She's your mother, your grandmother, your great aunt. She was your favorite elementary school teacher, the lady next door who peered out her window when your baseball landed in her yard, the nurse who helped deliver your children.

And now she's a senior citizen who faces challenges which can be confusing, frustrating, and even frightening. Chances are, her most worrisome preoccupations center around matters of health and finance.

The status of senior citizens has improved significantly since the government's creation of Social Security in 1935 and Medicare in 1965. Still, a report recently released by the Older Women's League entitled, "Medicare: Why Women Care," highlights why strengthening and modernizing Medicare is important to all seniors, but especially to older women.

Of the 34 million elderly Americans covered by Medicare today, 20 million, or nearly 60 percent are women. This proportion rises with age to the point where 71 percent of people age 85 or older are women and more than four in five people (83 percent) of centenarians are women. Amazingly, the number of women age 100 or older will double in just the next ten years.

Such longevity certainly is good news and the Medicare program is rightfully credited with helping to lengthen older women's lives by 20 percent over the time since the program was created.

At the same time, with older age comes more chronic illness and greater difficulty in keeping up with increased living costs. Since women's incomes are lower than men's, they must stretch fewer financial resources over longer lives. Seven out of 10 Medicare beneficiaries living below poverty are women. At the same time, women on Medicare spend 22 percent of their income on health care, compared to 17 percent for men.

Prescription drugs present a special problem for seniors, since they are not covered by Medicare. Total prescription spending averages $1200 per Medicare woman and Medigap plans which include prescriptions range from $3600-$4800/year.

If we're seeing such challenges now, imagine what we will face as the number of all Medicare beneficiaries doubles over the next 30 years. Demographic demands such as these are largely responsible for the predictions that the Medicare program will exhaust its resources in about 15 years. That means that even a woman who retires with Medicare today faces the likelihood that Medicare will become insolvent.

That is, unless Congress acts soon to shore up this vital program.

We have many reasons to begin the debate of how Congress can strengthen and sustain the Medicare program. We need to do it for both senior men and women. We need to do it for young folks who are just entering the work force and deserve to have a program survive for when they retire. We need to do it for rural hospitals which need Medicare payments to survive. Currently, there are many demands for tax dollars, including a tax cut. But anyone who has ever cared for a woman of any age ought to care about Medicare as well.

State Capital

HIGHLIGHTS
Compiled by Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Gov. George W. Bush and Texas Attorney General John Cornyn last week filed a friend of the court brief in the U.S. Supreme Court supporting Santa Fe Independent School District's policy of allowing students to have voluntary prayers at graduation ceremonies and sports events.

Alabama, Colorado, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, South Carolina and Tennessee also joined the amici curie brief filed by Bush and Cornyn for the state of Texas. The nine states want the U.S. Supreme Court to hear the school district's case, in hopes of resolving a split over the issue in two U.S. circuit courts of appeals.

Currently, a decision by the Fifth Circuit in New Orleans requires school officials to censor student-initiated and student-given prayer at graduation ceremonies and prohibits voluntary prayer at school-sponsored sporting events.

The Fifth Circuit's decision conflicts with a recent 11th Circuit ruling holding that student-initiated religious speech is fully protected by the free-exercise and free-speech clauses of the U.S. Constitution.

Funds Target Illegal Gambling
Bush and Cornyn also pulled at the same yoke last week on another hot-button issue: gambling.

Bush announced a $1.5 million grant to Cornyn to prosecute illegal gambling in Texas over the next three years.

With this grant, Cornyn will form a task force to prosecute all forms of illegal gambling, including Internet gambling, "eight-liner" slot machines and casinos.

"If it looks like a slot machine and pays like a slot machine, then it is illegal in Texas," Bush said.

Most eight-liner slot machine businesses operate as casinos with at least 10 slot machines and are organized solely for the purpose of facilitating illegal gambling, the attorney general's office said.

Illegal gambling via the Internet is gaining in popularity, Cornyn's office also reported. States including Missouri, Minnesota and New York have obtained injunctions against the operation of gambling web sites within their state lines.

Online Database Aids Employers
HIRE TEXAS, a free, online database maintained by the Texas Workforce Commission, allows employers to post jobs, run matches, review resumes and contact job seekers.

More than 600 Texas businesses, including some of the state's top employers, are using the Internet-based job-matching system to find skilled employees.

There are 400,000 employers and more than 8 million people in Texas' workforce, the work-force commission estimated.

Employers who have a Texas tax identification number can use the system, on which more than 30,000 jobs and 1.4 million applications already are posted.

To use HIRE TEXAS, go to <http://www.twc.state.tx.us>.

Agency Faces Budget Shortfall
The Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation is facing a $60 million budget shortfall in 2000-2001, twice the projected deficit.

Cuts in funding to community mental health centers and medication programs could result.

Coupled with a $28 million decrease in federal funding, including Medicare payments, to the agency, MHMR revealed to its board of directors that it had made an error in coding its budget request that added $15 million to its revenue projections.

MHMR director Karen Hale said the agency would cooperate with state lawmakers, who will look at ways to solve the shortfall after reviewing reports from the state auditor.

■ Anyone who has a computer and Internet service can look up information on registered sex offenders by typing in this address: http://openrecords.org/records/sexual_offenders/texas/. The web site allows searchers to type in their ZIP Code and obtain an offender's name, street, description and data about offenses.

■ A new study by the Texas Turnpike Authority says toll roads would do much to relieve traffic congestion in the northern part of Austin. The study proposes two toll roads, "Mopac turnpike" hooking up with Interstate 35 and "Texas 45 turnpike" forking west from Mopac to U.S. 79. Required public hearings are expected to be scheduled and conducted later this year and in 2000.

■ Pascal "Pat" Forgione Jr., 54, former chief of the National Center for Education Statistics in Washington, D.C., has been named superintendent of troubled Austin Independent School District. AISD is under investigation for falsification of test results.

Back Talk Chiropractic Care Questions & Answers
I have been suffering from low back pain for 10 years. After a variety of treatments, my doctor has recommended surgery. Could chiropractic help?
It would be extremely wise to seek a thorough chiropractic examination as a second opinion before subjecting yourself to the expense, pain and recovery time of back surgery. Chiropractic treatment may relieve some or all of the pain you are experiencing. A chiropractor may also concur with your medical doctor's findings regarding surgery. Many people with low back pain find chiropractic a practical alternative to costly and sometime ineffective drug therapies and time consuming surgery.

Oh How Rich We Are

Matthew 19:24 says it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God. Now I may frighten the socks off a few, read what follows but stay with me.

That rich young ruler who left Jesus, if given a choice might trade places with most of you because you have so much more than he had; He had no air conditioning, his fastest chariot could not keep up with your old work car. Can you travel by air. All of his servants could not till as much land as your tractor can. He had nothing like the variety of foods you enjoy. His best medical care would not equal what you have available. What about telephone, television, radio and other entertainment? He didn't even have screens on his windows to keep out the flies and mosquitoes. Yet Jesus said he had too much to enter Heaven?

With this wealth beyond the wildest dreams of that rich young ruler and beyond the reach of kings and queens of those lands, you expect to pass through Heaven's Pearly Gates?

Now come back with me in time to Guadalcanal in the year of our Lord 1943 when I had a large white sheet from the hospital hut. Don't ask how I came by that. I held it out where a group of those Black Melanesian natives could see it and soon was offered in trade a Japanese wrist watch, which I should have taken and one of those 25 caliber Japanese automatic rifles we called "the woodpecker" for its distinctive sound. I traded for the rifle but someone took it with almost everything else I had when I was shipped out wounded.

But my point is the result of the trade on the little native. He made skirts for himself, his wife and his children. Most native children went naked until they became adults but his were special. I saw him with two cheap glass set rings, and a sack slung on his shoulder to carry his other belongings and he was smoking a cheap "like White man" pipe. How proud he was! Though fifteen dollars might have bought all he possessed, he acted as if he were too good for his neighbors and it was obvious they resented it. For in their eyes he was RICH.

Certainly he was because he felt that he was, and I believe he

Corporate Sweatshops - Some Prominent Names

Let's call the roll of some of the most notorious racketeers of organized crime in America. They don't have names like Gambino, Gotti, or any of the other mob families of old, but previously-respectable names like The Gap, Tommy Hilfiger, Nordstrom, Sears, J. Crew and J.C. Penney.

These are among the 18 prominent clothing companies and retailers that have had a billion-dollar class-action suit filed against them for engaging in a racketeering conspira-tion because I believe riches is much a state of mind. For it is the LOVE of money and the pride of wealth. So pray that we with more than all those ancient kings enjoyed might slip by that solemn old Gate Keeper, St. Peter.

cy. Their organized-crime racket is not drug dealing, but conspiring with sweatshop factory owners in the faraway, Northern Mariana Islands to exploit workers there in order to get cheaply-produced clothing for sale back here in America. In these hellish sweatshops, thousands of teenage girls and young women from Asia are held in voluntary servitude. They're abused, deprived of their rights, and compelled to make the products of these brand-name marketers.

Not only does The Gap, Nordstrom, and the rest get their goods made on the cheap through this appalling system, but they also pay no tariffs to ship the goods and they can even attach a Made-in-the-U.S.A. label, since the Northern Mariana Islands are a U.S. commonwealth.

Many of these same companies have been part of the hokey anti-sweatshop initiative of the Clinton Administration, and they've loudly proclaimed that they support a corporate "code of conduct" against this sort of ex-

The Reader who cares

A Legend
One night in ancient times three horsemen were riding across a desert. As they crossed the dry bed of a river, out of the darkness a voice called, Halt!

They obeyed. The voice then told them to dismount, pick up a plaitation. They wash their hands of the abuse, saying it's the foreign factory owners, not them, who are at fault. But, as one worker who made clothing for the Gap in one of these sweatshops put it: "This abuse occurs while U.S. retailers watch. In my factory, the Gap code of conduct is posted over the water fountain. But the code is written in English, a language the workers can't speak or read."

handful of pebbles, put the pebbles in their pockets and remount.

The voice then said, "You have done as I c o m m a n d e d . Tomorrow at sun up you will be both glad and sorry." Mystified, the horseman rode on.

When the sun rose, they reached into their pockets and found that a miracle had happened. The pebbles had been converted into diamonds, rubies, and other precious stones.

They remembered the warning. They were both glad and sorry: glad they had taken some and sorry they had not taken more: AND THIS IS THE STORY OF LIFE.

ON THE ROAD

With Wonder Woman & Tumbleweed

Drivers in the Big Trucks love to laugh and talk about 4-wheelers who make mistakes driving. We always hear about 4-wheelers who park in the way of the big trucks, and then get mad if the trucks get too close to them.

In some states there are parking lots on the Interstates that are marked for "trucks only," but sure enough a car will drive through the parking lot, and many will park there even if they have just passed by a parking lot for cars only.

Oh, yes, there is heavy conversation on the CB about how others are driving. In Georgia, drivers were laughing at cars who were following trucks into a weigh station. Either the 4-wheelers were not paying attention, or they could not read English and did not know that weigh stations are for the big trucks only.

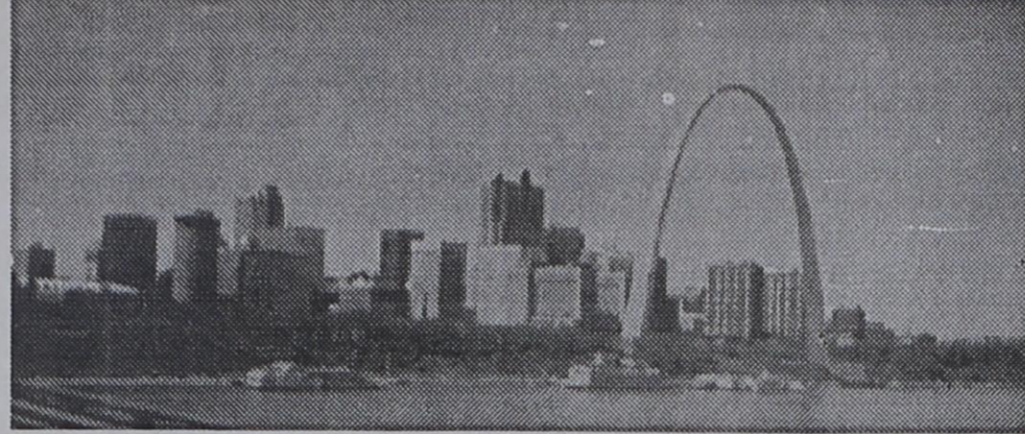

We heard two drivers talking on the CB and one complained about having to put his cigarette out in a restaurant in Salt Lake City. There was not a smoking area in that restaurant. The other driver said it makes him mad to go to a restaurant and the smoking area is too small and the room was filled with smoke. "Even the food tasted like smoke," he said. He wanted a larger area to smoke in. Many of the drivers had comments about the truck-Am-Trac train wreck in Illinois. All who talked just knew the truck driver was the one who was not at fault. No doubt about it. Too many times drivers have racial slurs. Then the other driver will comment on that driver. Drivers also get into arguments and say "Just what's your 10-20?" (location). They are ready to fight. But the other driver will want the other driver's 10-20. And neither one will give out their 10-20. So, no one fights.

On the CB drivers also help each other out. They help a driver trying to park in a confined spot at a truck stop when it's dark at night. Drivers warn each other if there are bears around or if there is a DOT inspection. One time we were told about a full-blown DOT inspection in Tennessee.

Since we were carrying a haz-mat (hazardous material) load we just knew we were going to be pulled over, but they just waved us on by. (It also surprised us because the trailer did not have a license plate on it). If a driver is pulled over the officers check everything, log books, cargo, the truck, and the driver's CDL.

The officers had a "car lot" (a truck that carried new cars), and two other trucks pulled over, and were inspecting them. Just another exciting trip in the Red Roof Inn with Tumbleweed and Wonder Woman (Herrrel and Wanda Hall-mark) in the Hammer Lane. Till next time, drive safe!

Farmers and Merchants Bank Opens For Business In Eastland

Farmers and Merchants Bank will open for business Monday, August 16th at 9 a.m., according to President James Bruton.

Virtually one year to the day from when ground was broken the new bank will be open at 930 East Main St. on Eastland's Miracle Mile. A large delegation of county residents attended the groundbreaking on August 17, 1998.

"It will be business as usual Monday," President Bruton said. "We will be open and anxious to meet and serve the Eastland County people and handle their banking needs."

This is a full-service bank, he said, and repeatedly comments: "What sets our bank apart is our employees. They are the friendliest and they care about the customers."

The white native stone building is being landscaped, and will offer convenient drive-in banking as well as adequate parking, ATM banking as well as other full-service features.

Farmers and Merchants Bank of De Leon was chartered in 1905 and is a locally owned 44 million dollar bank.

Staff and personnel at the Eastland County facility has been announced as follows:

DONALD L. IVEY, Jr., vice president and branch manager. He was formerly manager of the Clyde Branch of the First National Bank of Baird.

WENDY PORTER, assistant vice president, has 24 years banking experience with Eastland National Bank.

ANA MARIA SAUCEDA, formerly with Thrift Mart for five years and at Eastland National Bank for four and one half years.

DOROTHY KEA, retired after 17 years at Eastland National Bank.

DINA CARLTON, formerly employed by American Land Title Co., and came to Eastland with her husband B.J.

TAMMY WAL-LACE, previously owned Eastland County Answering Service and was head office cashier at Brookshires.

The Management and staff has extended a cordial invitation to the public to come by to meet the staff and enjoy the new building and banking services.

An official grand opening will be held in the near future, it was announced.
