ANTI-KU KLUX KLAN RESOLUTION DEFEATED

Austin, Texas, July 27.—The Pattman anti-Ku Klux Klan resolution was defeated in the house today when it was tabled by a vote of 69 to 54. Representative Cox of Taylor, in making the motion to table, stating that at this time he neither condemned nor commended the klan, but thought the resolution out of place. Representative Merriman asked Pattman, "Are you a member of the Knights of Columbus?" "I am not," Pattman replied. In defending the resolution Pattman was the object of a series of questions fired at him by other members. He gave deliberate answers to all. He reiterated his statement that the klan is lawless because it is alleged to work under disguise.

Austin, Texas, July 25.—It is expected that many students of Mexican and Southwestern history will be attracted to the University of Texas by the rare collection of books and pamphlets which are embraced in the famous Garcia Library which was recently received from the City of Mexico. With the addition of this collection the library of the university is said to contain a greater wealth of material relating to Mexico and Texas than any educational institution in the United States. The Garcia Library was a private collection and was purchased by the Board of Regents of the University of Texas for $100,000. It consists of 11,000 volumes and 15,000 pamphlets. It will take several years to determine the full value of its contents, it is explained.

GREAT PASSENGER SHIP WRAPPED IN FLAMES

Southampton, July 26.—(Telephoned to London.)—The Mauretania, queen of the steamships of the Cunard line and full sister ship of the ill-fated Lusitania, is in danger of complete destruction from fire which started from a cigarette spark at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

It is midnight as this story is telephoned to London and though the firemen claim they are controlling the outbreak the magnificent Atlantic greyhound is still a fierce cauldron.

Three decks have been completely destroyed half the length of the ship from the boat aft.

Eight hundred men of the crew and the firemen are still battling the blaze.

The Mauretania, which came into her berth here on the run from New York on Friday, was being refurnished for her next trip to America. An employee of an upholstery concern was cleaning the carpet in a first-class stateroom on E Deck. He was using petrol and started the costly blaze.

The committee will be empowered with the authority of a district court, and witnesses may be summoned and evidence taken. The resolution goes to the senate.

ESPECIALLY FOR THE KU KLUX KLAN

Boys, you'd better disband. You'd better have one more meeting and adjourn sine die. You'd better take your sheets, your banners, your masks, your regalia and make one fine bonfire.

Without pausing to argue over the objects you have in mind, it is sufficient to say that your methods are hopelessly wrong. Every tradition of social progress is against them. They are opposed to every principle on which government is founded. They are out of keeping with civilized life.

There is no place in this country for the anonymous letter writer, no matter what his purpose. There is no room for the disguised moral purveyor.

You seem to forget that the chief advantage of democracy is to let in the daylight, to prevent secret punishment, to insure a fair hearing for every person, to make impossible that kind of tyranny which can only flourish in the dark.

The newspapers of last Sunday were disgraced by the account of four illegal, unnecessary and wholly ineffectual outrages.

Without assuming that your organization was directly responsible for any or all of them, it was, in large measure, indirectly responsible.

Your organization has made the thought of secretly organized violence fashionable.

It matters not who can get into your organization, or who is kept out, any group of men can ape your disguise, your methods and your practices.

Your platform, therefore, your ritual, your oath and even your membership have no control over the activities you have set on foot.

Strictly American though your ideals may be, your way of carrying them out is absolutely un-American.

The very fact that you assume to take over the functions of the law, indicates disrespect for the law.

The very fact that you keep your identity concealed is, in itself, a confession of doubt as to the wisdom of what you do.

Putting these considerations aside, your methods are such that they can be appropriated by every scoundrel and cut-throat with impunity.

The very secrecy by which you think you conceal yourselves becomes a sound alibi for every element of malcontent.

If outrages occur for which you are not accountable—and they will—you have no way of clearing yourselves, except by throwing off your disguises and invoking that publicly you have sought to deny.

Your role of masked violence, of purification by stealth, of reform by terrorism, is an impossible one. Your position is such that you must accept responsibility for every offense which smacks of disguised tyranny.

You have done nothing so distinctly as to give the cue to every form of hate, malice, envy and temper. You have shown the man "who wants to get even" how to gather half a dozen friends, put on your uniform and hunt his victim in the night.

Those of you who are disgusted with the havoc already created—and the number is doubtless large—will only make matters worse by merely "getting out."

Under such circumstances the organization would be left in the hands of the least desirable element.

The only safe and effectual remedy lies in straight-forward disbandment. If this remedy is not accepted and applied by those who have the power it will be forced by the people. That is something thoughtful men would prefer to avoid.

The Ku Klux Klan, as recently rejuvenated, serves no useful purpose. On the other hand, it makes room for innumerable abuses. The community—meaning the whole nation—is against it, and the community will grow more resolutely against it as time goes on. Those who brought it into being, no matter what their intentions, would better bring about its dissolution before the storm breaks. That is the easiest and most sensible way in which to rid themselves and the community of what is rapidly becoming a bad situation.—Houston Chronicle, 21st.

HARDING'S DISARMAMENT
PLAN

Public sentiment in the United States is so strongly in favor of general disarmament among the nations that it was a foregone conclusion that President Harding would make some move in that direction. The support give Senator Borah's resolution inviting Great Britain and Japan to join with the United States in reducing their military burdens indicated popular feeling on the subject. Senator Borah does not belong to the dominant wing of the republican party; he is not a member of the coterie which enjoys Mr. Harding's close association; the president has not been wont to consult him. The administration's adoption, in substance, therefore, of the Borah plan may be accepted as being in obedience to popular pressure.

The people demand relief from oppressive taxes, a large part of which go to the maintenance of the army and navy and the building of new ships and fortifications. Not only in the United States but in nearly every other important nation there is a cry from the masses for relief from the burden of militarism. The governing powers can no longer turn a deaf ear to this cry. Disarmament is also sought as a step in the direction of abolition of war. Nations which are not prepared for war will not enter it so readily as those which are armed to the teeth and ready to fight at a moment's notice.

Prudence, however, bids the United States not to lay down its own arms until its neighbors unite in the action. France and Italy, as well as Great Britain and Japan, are invited by Mr. Harding to join in the conference on the subject. These, with the United States, constitute the great powers of the world today. But how much better would the plan be if it called for a conference of all the nations of the world! The covenant of the League of Nations contemplated universal reduction of armament.

The great powers can set an example which the other nations may be willing to follow. But the world conference on disarmament which is provided for in the constitution of the League of Nations would have provided a short-cut to the same end, had the United States joined with the other nations in this plan to dispense with war.

CHIEF JUSTICES OF THE U. S.

In the line of chief justices of the United States supreme court, former president William Howard Taft will be the ninth since 1789. It is an illustrious company to which he is promoted.

John Jay of New York, appointed chief justice by Washington, served only six years. John Rutledge had been an associate justice for two years and had retired from the federal bench to become chief justice of South Carolina four years before his appointment in 1795 to be chief justice of the supreme court, but his appointment, because of the loss of his reason, was not confirmed. Oliver Ellsworth of Connecticut served only four years.

John Marshall of Virginia, next in order, was chief justice for 34 years, an unequalled record in any court, and Robert B. Taney of Maryland, his successor, for 28 years. Between them Marshall and Taney presided over the supreme court for almost two-thirds of a century.

Salmon P. Chase, appointed by Lincoln in 1864, died in 1873. Morrison R. Waite of Ohio was chief justice for 14 years, and Melville W. Fuller of Illinois 22 years, third in length of service.

It was by Mr. Taft, who now succeeds him in the office, that Edward D. White of Louisiana in 1910 was made chief justice. In crediting Mr. Taft to Connecticut, President Harding deprives Ohio of the honor of furnishing three chief justices out of nine and confers on Connecticut the distinction of equaling Ohio's record.—New York World.

A TRIBUTE TO THE SCOUT

To be sure, the home and the school for the most part are depended upon to train the young boys of the country into citizenship, citizenship which embraces in its practical creed of consistent, scrupulous lawfulness. There are some other organizations, however, which supplement in a valuable way the efforts of the parents and teachers in teaching the duty of respecting and obeying the laws of the city, state and nation.

A few days ago a New York judge was asked some questions about Boy Scouts. He said "During my six years as a police judge I have never had a Boy Scout come before me as a defendant." There is something to think about.

Boy Scouts do not get into court, because they do not give in their behavior the occasion for officers to arrest them or people to complain against them. The secret is the spirit of the Scout training; there is discipline, there is education about obligation; there is inspiration to be manly and brave; there is loyalty taught, loyalty to law and order. The Boy Scout is so busy doing the service-

Professor Einstein is amazed at the temerity of Americans in attempting to understand his theory. That's nothing. There are plenty of women who ask to have baseball explained to them.

Take the Short Cut

WHEN you were a youngster, you never went to school the long way 'round! You took a short cut.

Every advertisements in this paper is short cut. Advertisements make it possible to tell you in a few minutes all you want to know about the service or articles you need.

At a glance you can sift out the things that interest you most and in a moment you know just when and where to go for what you want.

Figure how many steps, how much needless walking and talking the advertisements thus saves you and your neighbors.

Then you realize the great economy and necessity of advertising in your daily life.

The Stillman divorce case probably will be postponed until fall. Possibly time is needed to find more correspondents.

Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm wanted "a place in the sun", and we hope he's getting it if the weather in Holland is anything like it is here.

A Western newspaper boasts a paragrapher who has not yet remarked that Chief Justice Taft will add weight to the bench.

Britons are startled by Ambassador Harvey golfing in shirt sleeves and wearing a high hat in a "henry". To paraphrase the Western injunction not to kill the pianist, let British conventionalities have compassion; the poor thing is doing the best he knows to advertise the United States.

By this time even the most tolerant soldier boy must admit that there is considerable ivory about the republican elephant.

Of course, while all these international gentlemen are gathered to discuss disarmament somebody might get up and say that the way to disarm is to disarm.

Wisconsin's new law accords women "every privilege enjoyed by men." But some of them are going to find it rather hard at first lighting a pipe in a strong wind.

A beauty parlor operator says bobbed hair is now "de trop" and likewise "de classe" yet that does not sound nearly so harsh as some other things we have heard said about it of which he had a better comprehension.

So extreme is the drought in England that in one agricultural district a great explosive rocket was sent cloudward to induce rain. And "Colonel" Harvey's oratorical flights at all times within reach?

President Harding was supposed to be ready to proclaim peace the moment the republican congress adopted the resolution declaring the war at an end. After weeks of thought on the subject, however, he has not found anything to proclaim. It takes a treaty to make peace.

TREATMENT OF SUNSTROKE

Several cases of heat prostration have been reported to the State Board of Health for this month, but so far no fatalities have been recorded. Some of these cases were due to direct exposure to the rays of the sun, and some to high temperature not in the direct rays of the sun.

"Sunstroke occurs in two forms," said Dr. Carrick, "heat stroke and heat fever, in which the temperature of the body is very high, and heat prostration or heat exhaustion, in which the surface of the body is cool and body temperature sometimes considerably below normal. The difference is important, because of the different treatment required. In heat stroke the temperature of the body should be reduced as rapidly as possible. Place the patient in a cold water bath, add ice, rub the body with the blocks of ice, apply ice water with ice cap to his head, and keep up the treatment until the temperature is reduced to 100 degrees F.

"In heat prostration, with cool skin, weak and rapid pulse, stimulants and friction are required," continued Dr. Carrick. "Rub the surface of the body and the extremities, place hot-water bottles to the feet. Give hot stimulating drink (coffee or tea) and cover the body with blankets. If the head is hot apply cold water to the forehead."

An extension of eight miles will be added soon to the tram road of the Schmidt & Popp mill. Thirteen carloads of steel have arrived and will be laid as rapidly as possible. This extension will enable the mill to greatly increase its timber supply and consequently its lumber output.

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarettey aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

INDUSTRIOUS LUFKIN MOB AGAIN GETS ACTIVE

As in the similar cases of Wiley and Vinson, the identity of the masked men is unknown.

Miss Nell Cariker of Nacogdoches is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cariker this week.—Cushing Journal.

DIBOLL MAN TARRED AND FEATHERED IN LUFKIN

Ben Wiley, a white man about thirty years old, who is married and resides at Diboll, encountered an experience somewhat out of the ordinary here in Lufkin last night, which episode will no doubt occupy a prominent page in his diary for a long time to come. As a News reporter gets it, the man referred to had left his car parked near the curb in front of Harrell's livery barn, and was standing on the sidewalk nearby when he was seized and led away into the darkness by unknown parties, it being said that he was given a rather "gentle" thrashing after which a generous coat of tar and feathers were applied to his body. As if carrying out a well ordered plan, he was then placed in an automobile by a number of masked men and when the car reached the Burke drug store corner in the city he was discharged as so much ballast. This occurred about 10 o'clock, or about the time the last picture shows in the city were closing, and hundreds on Lufkin avenue witnessed the unusual sight of a man in this kind of garb, which is difficult to describe, but which indubitably impresses one with its striking peculiarity once it is revealed to the naked eye.

It is said that Wiley immediately upon his release from the car lost no time in beating it down the paved street, with crowds to the right and to the left, who watched him until he vanished from sight. While donning his raiment, which had been removed so the tar and feathers might be applied to the best advantage, Sheriff Watts appeared on the scene and inquired what had happened, but was rewarded by the evasive reply from Wiley that "nothing" had occurred. Soon afterwards, Wiley was in his own car, and it is presumed made it home with the engine hitting on all four cylinders.

The identity of those taking part in the affair could not be ascertained, masked as they were, and where they came from and just where they went will probably forever remain a mystery. The News knows nothing leading up to the unusual circumstance but presumes the victim and those staging the show, besides numerous others, are not at a loss in accounting for the extraordinary demonstration last evening.—Lufkin News.

CANTONMENTS ABANDONED

Washington, July 23.—Six army cantonments will be abandoned by the War Department, Secretary Weeks announced today. Two are Camp Devens, Mass., and Camp Meade, Md.

PARTIN'S CAPERS IN WAR AND IN PEACE

J. E. Sullivan, traveling correspondent of the Houston Chronicle, recently paid Nacogdoches a visit, and in his peregrinations he butted into George Partin. Anyone coming into this town is pretty apt to butt into George Partin, or George into him, for he certainly is the greatest "butter-into" known hereabouts. The result of the collision follows in Sullivan's characteristic vein:

Down at Nacogdoches, George Partin, the county oil oracle, is the hero of two wars, the rookus with Spain and the row with Germany. In the first melee, he starred—shone like the glistening dome of—well a coastal oil field. In the second Tennessee Infantry, Company "G", he was universally known as "Texas", but if he ever did squad east and west it was because he felt the need of exercise. He taboed guard duty and put kitchen police on the unfair list. But as a ball tosser "Texas" was one of the best that trod an army diamond "back in them days," as Oscar Matthews would say.

One hot sultry afternoon at Camp Alger, Virginia, a game was scheduled with an Indiana outfit.

Preceding it Colonel Keller Anderson called all hands upon deck for a final talk, but "Texas" couldn't be found. Even a committee of a corporal and two men failed to locate the twirler upon whom the hopes of the day depended.

"I saw 'Texas' going in the direction of 'Falls Church'—five miles away, the car line station for Washington, a coffee cooler announced.

The "C. O.," in frantic haste, phoned the provost guard (M. P.'s were then unknown) to round up "Texas" and return him to the camp in time for the game.

After what seemed to be an age, a small cloud of dust was seen down the road towards Falls Church. Soon a squad of New York cavalry came at a trot in the hoof-deep dust. Above the backs of the horses, the campaign hatted head of "Texas" was bobbing up and down in rhythm to the trot. He pitched the Tennesseans to victory.

Came along the great peace jubilee at Philadelphia. The regiment was to furnish a picked battalion, "physically perfect," and "Texas" with his six-foot two was looked upon as a sure-goer.

He was "among those present" but not in ranks. When the battalion swung past the reviewing stand a loud yell was heard—a regular cowboy yodel. Those who braved commissioned wrath and looked saw "Texas" sitting in the grand stand along side General Nelson A. Miles.

"And those are some of the qualities that make a real oil scout," declared Major William E. Thomason, who sometimes "dabbles in oil."

CUSHING MERCHANT DIES SUDDENLY THURSDAY

Mr. John D. Erwin, a prominent and popular merchant of Cushing, died suddenly at his home at that place about 7 o'clock Thursday morning. The cause of his death was not given in the telephone message conveying the news of the lamentable occurrence. Wednesday he was about his business, apparently in fairly good health. Mr. Erwin was well known in Nacogdoches and had many friends here who are grieved to learn of his passing.

KU KLUX TALKED ON FLOOR OF HOUSE

Austin, Texas, July 25.—"The Invisible Empire," Knight of the Ku Klux Klan, was defended on the floor here today by Representative Baker of Milam, speaking to a point of personal privilege. Although he did not admit that he was a member of the Klan outright, he said he was born under the banner of the "Invisible Empire." Representative Crumplin of Bowie objected to his speech, and the speaker ruled he had a right to defend the Klan if he was a member. Baker declared that Simmons of Atlanta, who claims to be the head of the organization, had nothing to do with the Texas organization and was only the head of a small band in Georgia. "We object to his sending his representative to Texas," shouted Baker. Representative Pattman, leader of the anti-Klan movement, strove in vain to ask Baker a question, but the speaker refused to yield. His speech was followed by applause. Pattman introduced a resolution protesting against Simmons sending representatives to Texas. Pattman later spoke denouncing Baker's views.

Mr. Jake McCrary was taken to a sanitarium at Nacogdoches last Friday where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. He is reported to be getting along all right.—Mt. Enterprise Progress, 21st.

ANOTHER WHITECAPPING STUNT AT LUFKIN

Telephone advices from Lufkin early Thursday confirmed rumors of another stunt pulled off by whitecappers or Ku Klux or whatever the organized criminals of that unfortunate town call themselves. It seems, according to our informant, that a young man named Sherwood Vinson was taken in hand, tarred and feathered and turned loose on the streets at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. His offense, the Sentinel was told, was that he was "not addicted to work." This "crime," it is probable, might have been reached by the statutes against vagrancy. It is possible, of course, that he may have wounded the refined sensibilities of the mob in other respects, but so far as it has been given out, the victim simply was not so industrious as the men who found time to neglect their own business and organize themselves into a body of lawbreakers in order to attend to his. Texas appears to be entirely overrun by the mob spirit.

WILL "LAY OUT" FINE

Otto Daniel, chiropractor, who was given a sentence recently in the county court of one day in jail and $100 fine for practicing medicine without license, withdrew his appeal to the higher court, and yesterday afternoon appeared at the door of the jail to serve the time of his sentence, also to "lay out" the fine of $100. As the News understands it, one discharging a fine in this manner, that is, serving out the period behind prison bars, is allowed three dollars a day on said fine. To discharge the full debt to the state, as prescribed by the trial jury, the defendant will be incarcerated for more than thirty days, during which time he announces that his office will be in charge of another.—Lufkin News, 21st.

REUNION OF 91ST DIVISION

Los Angeles, Cal., July 25.—Between 15,000 and 20,000 members of the old Ninety-First (Wild Cat) division of the United States troops in the World War are expected to gather for a grand reunion here on September 24 and 25, according to plans just announced.

While this division was recruited in the west and is composed, in the major part, of men from the far West, quite a number of men from Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee were members of it, those four states having furnished many replacements for the Wild West division. Efforts are being made to reach every member of the division in the hope that something approaching a full representation may be had for the big gathering.

HOW A BIG CITY GROWS

Chicago, July 25.—"How a big city grows" will be shown at an exhibit by the Chicago Plan Commission at the Pageant of Progress exposition opening here July 30, according to officials of the commission.

They are arranging to have a large number of "before and after" views of Chicago's development, together with illustrations of improvements under the city plan.

SEARCHING FOR SHIPS ALLEGED WHISKEY RUNNERS

New York, July 25.—Federal authorities along the Atlantic coast redoubled their vigilance in efforts to locate four tramp ships following disclosures of evidence of the existence of at least two gigantic international whiskey smuggling rings.

Mr. Richard Owens was taken to Nacogdoches last Sunday night to be operated on for appendicitis. He is reported doing as well as could be expected.—Mt. Enterprise Progress.

ACTIVITIES OF THE KU KLUX KLAN DISCUSSED BY COUNTY ATTORNEY HARRIS

To Peace-Loving, Law-Abiding Men and Women:

As much as I regret the notoriety which our neighboring East Texas counties are receiving, I congratulate our own people upon the fact that no masked bodies of men, representing the "Invisible Empire," or any other clandestine organization, have found it necessary to "take the law" in to their hands.

The Ku Klux Klan, I am told, is an organization designed by its creators to meet conditions which cannot be reached by the law. It is the outgrowth, I understand, of a condition unprecedented in the history of this country, unparalleled since God decreed the destruction of Sodom because its people had descended to the depths of moral decay.

Nacogdoches county is composed of a citizenship whose standard in morals, intelligence, and law-abiding spirit, will compare favorably with that of any community in the United States. We have, as a matter of fact, a certain percentage of disreputable, immoral characters, many of these have drifted here from other parts of the county. These characters practice their vile and dirty habits to an extent which calls for action upon the part of moral, decent, law-abiding men and women. A "clean-up" campaign is in order now, and these disreputable characters should be swept out as trash and garbage. But let us not permit a stain upon the fair name of our county as other communities have done with theirs.

I earnestly recommend a county wide campaign on the part of officers of the law, ministers of the Gospel, and the moral citizens, men and women, of the county, against immoral practices to the end that we may place the name of Nacogdoches county at the head of the list of clean, moral, high-class communities where good people will want to live.

I am doing all that is in my power to bring into action every legal remedy which is afforded an officer of the law, and if the law-abiding citizens of the county will co-operate with me and give me and the other officers of the law of the county their support by reporting violations of the law and assisting in the enforcement of the law, conditions will be materially improved.

The evil we have with us is not practiced by a large percentage of the people; it is practiced by a remarkably small percentage of the people, but with a boldness and insolence which is discrediting to the community.

Some time since, I attempted to start a campaign by calling a representative number of our best men into a meeting, but there seems to be an indifference to action, however much such practices are abhorred.

I now appeal to the moral, law-abiding men and women that a proper legal and effective campaign be begun at once, and let us elevate the moral tone of our county and stand out as an enviable example in Texas. I beg that all good citizens will report violations of the law, and not request that their names be concealed. Act boldly, as law-loving people, and do not hamper us in the enforcement of the law, but unite with us and help us enforce the law.

Bootleggers, gamblers, vagrants, idlers, street loafers and drunkards should find no rest for the soles of their feet in Nacogdoches county. The enforcement of the law depends, at last, upon the people. Without their co-operation and support, the officers are helpless.

Most Respectfully,
Audley Harris,
County Attorney.

BARBER SHOP FOR PRISONERS

Cleveland, Ohio, July 25.—Prisoners who desire to dress up and retain a fastidious appearance can do so by taking advantage of the opportunity offered them at the Cuyahoga county jail here. A barber shop is maintained without expense to its patrons and every prisoner is encouraged to use it.

At the request of Sheriff Charles E. Stannard, the county recently purchased three barber chairs and a quantity of barber supplies. The barbers are prisoners awaiting trial, selected because of proficiency and they continue as prison tonsorialists until they leave the jail.

Several guards stand by while the prisoner is in the chair, special precautions being taken with those charged with more serious crimes.

On the day a prisoner is to go into court he is given a haircut and a shave and his clothes are pressed. Sheriff Stannard says the new barber shop is a strong factor in maintaining the morale of the prisoners.

"UNCLE SAM, INC."

The republican party prides itself upon the "business" of government. It has frequently boasted that it was "the" party to get the government out of business as much as possible and to put as much business as possible into the operation of the government. There have been intimations that what is nebulously known as "big business" has too close a touch on the buttons which start things and stop things in the G. O. P. machine form of government, but assuming that this "big business" does not unduly influence the leaders, at bottom the party in power has "big business" in hand in operating a corporation carrying on the stupendous business which Uncle Sam annually operates.

Alleged extravagance has been deplored and the need of economy stressed; attention and action have been concentrated on the idea of getting the government business into business-like shape. Hence, was called, in General Dawes to organize the budget system for which congress laid the foundation—and for which, incidentally, it failed to make detailed provision. Revenues and their increases, expenditures and their reduction have been the all-absorbing subject of talk. The trouble has not in the least been the subject of these matters, and not the heart of real, intelligent business-like action.

The same business principles apply to Uncle Sam, Inc., that apply to John Smith, "Prop. and Gen. Man." of a home-made grocery business or of Bill Jones, "Pres. and Supt." of a cross-roads blacksmith shop, limited. Uncle Sam's business is merely bigger and more complicated. The secret of operating the government is to get enough money for the reasonable needs of government, and to get it from the right people at the fair proportion. Simple principle? Yes, but exceedingly difficult when it is spread over the country with politicians instead of business men attempting to do that thing. Or, looking at it from the other way—when the method and manner of collecting enough revenue has been settled, the plain and simple question is to keep the expenditures within the sum in sight. That is plain as can be, too—as a statement!

Yet how infinitely inextricable are the mazes into which the pork barrel artists drag the whole fiscal system when they instead of firm-handed business men attempt to make the cloth do for several garments!

THE POWER OF THE EYE

The scientific world has been set agog by a new discovery. Theoretically this discovery may not be so important as the famous Einstein theory of relativity, but is practical application to life is apparent. It seems that Dr. Charles Russ, eminent British bacteriologist, through perfecting an instrument by which it can be measured, has proved that the human eye is capable of producing movement; that a glance from the eye has motive power.

To the scientist the significance of the discovery lies in the fact that this motive power can now be distinctly measured by having the eye set in motion a delicate instrument, from which motion the power of a glance can be measured.

The practical man has long believed in the idea that the eye had some power other than that of merely registering what goes on in the material world about it. Although he has had no instrument to measure precisely the amount of power thus given off, he has gathered unmistakable evidence of it in his school days, when a glance from the teacher sent him flying across the room or made him stop wiggling about in his seat. And who has not felt on the back of his head in church the disconcerting glance from someone back in the congregation, a glance which makes the recipient of it turn around involuntarily to see who is responsible for the vital blow?

By a most delicately attuned instrument this force or motive power is now to be measured. The perfection of this instrument is the outcome of years of experiment during which time the inventor was the object of much scoffing from his colleagues in science. He seems now to have convinced a goodly number of them that his experiments and tests are accurate and not a matter of accident.

A DEADLY HABIT

Old and keen observers remark that one habit of the budding motorists, if fairly established, never leaves its victim until he finally lands in the morgue. That is the habit of passing or trying to pass whatever cars happen to be ahead on the open road.

Men familiar with the psychology of motor car driving will tell you that it is the worst of all the mean bad habits the new driver can pick up. Other undesirable practices may be outgrown, according to the old-timers and psychological researchers. One by one road mannerisms may be drilled out of the offending driver. But the mad desire to pass everything on the road gets everyone who picks up the habit.

The driver who wants to get ahead, who "pulls around," is urged by that incurable impulse against which old-timers warn all new pilots. The only way to safety so far as that is concerned is to restrain the first promptings. Don't make a start at it. Keep in line with traffic and keep your turn with all the others. Why endanger your life and the lives of others all around you for the momentary satisfaction of passing the car ahead, or two or three cars ahead?

AMERICANISM AND LAWLESSNESS

Nothing recommends the American Legion more highly to the respect and confidence of the people of the United States than the manner in which the society disciplines those of its members who, acting in the name of the Legion, show contempt for law and order. The national organ of the veterans reports the case of a post which has been suspended from membership because a committee representing it gave a horse-riding to the editor of a newspaper for publishing an article which the post members considered objectionable.

The nature of the offending article is not disclosed. It is pretty safe to assume that it was of a highly provocative character, since it induced the organization of ex-service men in the town in which it was published to take such drastic action. But provocation is not accepted by the American Legion as an excuse for the lawlessness shown. The avowed purpose of the American Legion is to promote 100 percent Americanism. Now red-blooded patriots are always strongly tempted to whip or drive out of the community or apply tar and feathers to those who insult the flag, or sneer at our soldiers, or seek to destroy the government. But a few moments of reflection will show every reasonable person that Americanism is not to be inculcated by ignoring the requirements of law and order.

There is no consistency in assailing those who would overthrow the government and at the same time showing contempt for the government by violating the laws.

BE A GOOD SORT

This is the time of year and almost any hour the time of day when every attractive shady nook close and far from the highways becomes the site of a picnic or lunch party.

Thanks to nature and in some cases to the kind hearted owners, these spots are inviting, clean, tidy—and so the picnic folks, whether they toddle out of a motor car or a trolley car, shout their pleasures at the discovery and take possession. Too often a few hours later these attractive spots are a litter of lunch-boxes, oiled paper, plates, egg-shells, sardine cans and banana skins.

You see the point now, you careless and indifferent picnicker.

And so why not be a good sort? If nature or some person made the place attractive for you, why not leave it attractive for others who may follow? In other words, why not clean up, burn the litter, taking care to extinguish the fire before you leave or collect up the refuse and cart it away with you to a regular dump.

Surely after the pleasure you have had out on a picnic spot, you would not intentionally want to mess it up for others because if everyone were that sort, the fascinating spot in which you lunched, would not have been attractive at all.

Of course, if after dinner at home you sweep the plates on the floor, hurl the knives into the plaster or leave the food debris scattered over the table cloth, it is natural to carry such manners into the woods and onto the byways.

Consideration for others is one of the finest of human assets.

"Rid up", as the colloquialism goes, after picnic and BE A GOOD SORT!

AUTO WRECK NEAR SILSBBE

Perhaps you have read the particulars concerning the many auto wrecks that have occurred throughout the country, but we dare say, the following will prove of unusual interest. Here's what the Silsbee Bee has to say concerning a wreck that occurred near that city last week: "A big Cadillac, occupied by three of Beaumont's broken down sports, visited Silsbee Monday afternoon, and judging from their antics, these b. d. s. were well shinned up. They broke all speed records of former b. d. s. who have visited Silsbee from Beaumont and tried very hard to impress upon us natives that they were the real stuff, but we have seen the real stuff and they couldn't put anything like that over. And to wind up a perfect day they headed for home, going at the speed of the wind, and then some, down about Fletcher they met up with a near relative—an old time fork-of-the-river jackass—standing in the road.

"An ambulance from Beaumont conveyed the b. d. s to Hoted Dieu, a surgeon from a repair shop took charge of the big Cadillac, while the near relative was left to figure up the damage done by the cyclone.

"Thus ended a perfect day."

MISS ALICE WEBB, ONE TIME "TOBACCO QUEEN," WHAT BECAME OF HER

In an extended write-up of the remarkable Duke family of tobacco fame and fortune in the St. Louis Dispatch, the following statement is made of Alice Webb, who was somewhat notorious in Nacogdoches some 15 years ago:

Quite as harrowing in its way was Col. Brodie Duke's encounter with a beautiful and brilliant adventuress named Alice Webb, whom he married—for which offense his relatives seized upon him and confined him temporarily in a sanitarium. He had been married twice before and had grown sons, but was then a widower.

Alice Webb was born in Buffalo, N. Y., the daughter of a machinist. She always boasted that her grandfather was Thomas Smith Webb, "the father of American Masonry." Her mother died and her father disappeared, after placing the child in an orphan asylum. When in her teens she left the asylum and went to New York to make her fortune.

Her career was associated with several men, to whom she proved highly expensive, owing to a taste for champagne and Lucullan banquets. She appears to have married now and then. In 1890 she was known as the wife of Murat Masterson, a gambler. She shot at him three times in New York, during a quarrel over another man. Both were arrested, but refused to prosecute.

Such afterwards she appeared in Chicago, with a capital of $10. She formed a company, with herself as president, to exploit lands in Texas, where she declared that tobacco as fine as that of Sumatra or Cuba could be grown. Many hard-headed business men of the Windy City were persuaded to invest.

Brodie Duke, it should be remembered, refused to join his brothers in forming the American Tobacco Company. This resulted in a complete estrangement from his family, and he began operating several flourishing independent factories.

Alice Webb learned of Brodie Duke's fight, and wrote him at length about her wonderful lands in the Nacogdoches district, on which, she said, enough tobacco could be raised to break the trust, or at least, to insure the prosperity of his independent factories.

Duke hastened to Chicago and met the woman, in October, 1904. A few days later she followed him to New York and took an expensive suite at a hotel. At their third meeting, Miss Webb said Duke proposed in these words:

"Little girl, I don't want you, tobacco stock nor your lands, nor will I consider your business proposition, promising as they look; but I do want you."

On December 19, 1904, the Rev. W. W. Coe was summoned to Hotel Winton and there performed a marriage ceremony which converted Alice Webb into Mrs. Brodie L. Duke. Almost immediately Duke's relatives caused him to be confined in a sanitarium, alleging insanity and alcoholism. Interviewed there, he expressed immense astonishment at learning that he was married to Miss Webb. He had not the slightest recollection of any such ceremony, he vowed.

His secretary promptly filed a habeas corpus suit for Brodie Duke's release, which brought about a lunacy commission, held before Justice Gaynor, late Mayor of New York. Gaynor decided that the prisoner was of sound mind and ordered him released.

The first thing he did, on finding himself free, was to file a divorce suit. As the time for the hearing approached, it happened, by accident or not, that his wife was arrested and locked up in the Tombs on a charge of grand larceny, said to have been brought by the authorities at Nacogdoches. The extradition papers never arrived, and Mrs. Duke was released after serving 16 days. She left the Tombs to find that, while she was imprisoned, she had been divorced by default.

But she was intrepid, if penniless, and was soon in Chicago again, making deals in tobacco lands. She was arrested on a charge of passing worthless checks at the Great Northern Hotel, and pleaded guilty, laying the blame on excessive drink. The case was dismissed by the hotel management. After this her mind began to fall, and in 1909, after she had created many public disturbances, she was adjudged insane and confined to the state asylum at Kankakee, Ill. There, mad and a pauper, known as "Patient No. 12,708," this former wife of a millionaire died in 1911.

LIVELY GAME TUESDAY

In one of the fastest and most exciting games that has ever been played on the local field, Doches defeated Woodville by a score of 7 to 3 in the first game of a three-game series.

In the third inning after Mooney flew out to Roberts, Risinger worked Munsell for a pass and J. Reed tore off a single to left, advancing Risinger to second. It looked as if Kress had the ball get through him, but when Risinger dashed to the hot corner Kress recovered and made a perfect throw to Pack, who put the ball on Risinger for the second out. J. Reed going to second on this play, and spiked the rubber for the first score of the game when Gordon singled over second. Gordon went to second on Martin's throw to the plate to catch Reed. When Gordon started to steal third Rulfs made a wide throw to Pack and he came home with the second tally. Munsell ended this by whiffing Ford for the last out. 2 runs, 2 hits, 1 error.

Doches tied the score in the fourth when Ford issued Robertson a free pass and Rulfs hit to pitcher, who threw to second to force Robertson short stop taking the throw, Rulfs safe at first on fielder's choice, Robertson overran second and shortstop dropped the ball but caught Robbie on third. Rulfs stole second and romped home on Kress' hot hit to left. Pack hit to short, who forced Kress at second and came home on King's single to right. Woodlan hit to short, who forced King at second for the last out. 2 runs, 2 hits.

The visitors chased another run over in the seventh. McAllister, first up, grounded out King to Roberts. R. Pope hit a slow roller down third base line, Munsell went after the ball and threw high to first, Pope safe. He stole second and came home when King let Mooney's grounder get thru him. K. Pope flew out to Robertson and Risinger retired the side when Roberts caught his foul fly. 1 run, 2 errors.

The locals tied it up again in the seventh. Roberts worked Ford for a pass and stole second. Munsell went out catcher to first and Martin handcuffed Risinger with a line drive, but was forced out at second by Robertson. Roberts taking third on the play and came home when Rulfs hit to left to two bags. 1 run, 1 hit.

Doches determined on not going into extra innings, put the game on over to the eighth. Pack, first up, popped out to first. King beat out an infield hit down third base line. Ford hit to Woodlan, King going to second and Woodlan to first, Roberts struck out and Munsell got hit, King to third, Woodlan to second and Munsell to first. With the bags loaded to their capacity, Martin tried to work Ford for a pass, but grew angry and smashed out a line drive over short, sending King and Woodlan across the platter. With Munsell on third and Martin on first, Robertson hit to deep center for two bases and Munsell and Martin came romping home. Rulfs flew out to left for the last out. 4 runs, 3 hits.

Woodville tried to come back, but Doches put them on the bench in one, two, three order. Cross went out to Robertson to Roberts. McAllister went out King to Roberts and R. Pope flew out to center.

The locals will play Woodville again today. It is not known who the Woodville crew will send against the locals, but it is most likely that Cross will be selected to serve up his offerings, while Kress is slated to do slab duty for Doches.

AMERICAN AVIATORS KILLED IN GERMANY

Coblentz, July 27.—Two American aviators, Lieutenant Carl Derby Gibson of Frankfort, Ind., and Corporal L. O. Rogers of Hillsboro, Texas, were killed yesterday when their plane crashed at Weissensturm Field, near here.

We haven't time to tell you much about them just now, as we are unpacking an attractive lot of goods, which we bought at an under price.

We will have them in shape by Saturday for your inspection and we know the goods and prices will be pleasing to you. C. W. Butt. 28-1

FIGURING ON OF EARTH

Geologists Generally Agree That Figures Given in Genealogies of Genesis Are Mythical.

Shakespeare in "As You Like It" says "the poor world is almost 6,000 years old," but geologists began to abandon that idea two generations ago.

The two greatest geologists that this continent has produced—James Dwight Dana and Sir John William Dawson, of McGill university, Montreal—both of them extremely devout men, after starting out with orthodox views on the subject, made radical changes in the latest editions of their works.

MADE THIEF BETRAY HIMSELF

American Indians Used Test That Was Common in Justice Courts of the Middle Ages.

Certain tribes of Indians, according to Prof. Pillsbury, of the department of psychology at the University of Michigan, had a curious way of determining the guilt or innocence of any member of their tribe accused of theft.

Scotland Vindicated.

A golfer dropped into a New York store to buy a driver.

"This club is off balance," he remarked to the clerk, as he fiddled a nice looking brassie.

"That is a special-order club. Let me have it, please," said the clerk nervously, plucking the curiosity of the shopper.

The manager, an old friend of the golfer happened along just then.

"Bill," asked the customer, "what the deuce is the matter with this club? Just left the darn thing. It's all off balance."

"Bill looked wise, and he looked all around carefully, then he replied, in a stage whisper: "Fete, that is the best club in the bag. It holds just two drinks of hooch. See here, how the handle is hollowed out."

The Dog in Scripture.

There are few boy lives or man lives in which a dog has no place, and no other domestic animal has so many contradictory characterizations in literature or in current speech.

Went Bravely to Death.

The nerviest prisoner who ever went to the electric chair in Sing Sing was James L. Odell, convicted of murder, according to prison officials.

She Wants to Know.

"Husband," said the professor's wife suspiciously.

SENT MESSAGE BY DOG TEAM

Native of Labrador Used Unique System of Communication Across Vast Frozen Waste.

In the bleak land of Labrador, where the winter distances are vast snow spaces, the means of communication between neighbors is sometimes a matter of serious inconvenience.

The man with whom I had come to spend the night had a brother whom he wished me to meet. This brother lived five miles across what appeared to be an unbroken stretch of snow and ice, without even a tree between.

He took a stout piece of board, wrote his message on it, attached to it a rope, and then called his dog team to him.

Harassing the leader, he tied the rope to the trace, and then, with a cut of his long whip, sent the leader dashing away.

DREW ON HIS IMAGINATION

High Ecclesiastical Authority of Centuries Ago Had Wonderful Idea of Sea Serpent.

Rudyard Kipling's conception of a pair of sea serpents—great white, blind pathetic creatures risen from the primordial ooze—made a corking yarn, but it wasn't a bit more imaginative than the grisly description penned in all seriousness centuries ago by Olaus Magnus, archbishop of Upsala.

Their forms are horrible, their heads square, all set with prickly, and they have sharp and long horns about, like a tree rooted up by the roots.

The exact principle which causes a magnet to take hold of metals and cling to them with a force which overcomes the principle of gravity is, like electricity, one of Nature's unsolved mysteries, the Detroit News remarks.

It is merely known that a piece of iron which has been electrically treated will attract and hold various other metals. The force it exerts is called "magnetism."

Unsolved Mystery of Nature.

The earliest known astronomical instruments of German make have recently been described by Dr. J. Hartmann of Göttingen. They belonged to the philosopher and astronomer, Cardinal Nikolaus of Cusa, who lived from 1401 to 1464, and comprised a "torquetum," for measuring the longitude and latitude of the celestial bodies, an astrolabe and two celestial globes.

A note has been found in the cardinal's own handwriting stating that he purchased three of these instruments in the year 1444, together with 16 astronomical treatises, for the sum of 38 florins.

Honi Solt.

Morris Gest said at a Chicago reception: "These blue-law people are always finding offense where no offense is intended. They remind me of the bookseller."

Their Wedding Day.

"When we were married, my husband and I thought we had planned carefully to elude the sendoff our set was sure to give us. We had a quiet family wedding and knowing our friends would be at the depot to see us off on our trip with the usual embarrassing attentions bestowed on newlyweds, we decided to outwit them by boarding the train at the water tank, where it stopped before pulling into the station.

Bread to Clean Watches.

There is no more novel use to which bread is put than that in vogue in some of the great watch factories where more than forty loaves of fresh bread were used daily in pre-war times.

Home, Sweet Home.

"Does your wife let you carry a latchkey?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Meekton; "the only person who is now likely to keep me from going into my front door is the landlady."

DIAGNOSE BY PROTEIN TESTS

Scientists Closely Watching Researches That Are Being Made at Three Boston Hospitals.

To learn what is one man's food and another's poison, experiments are being conducted at hospitals in protein sensitization. Patients are inoculated with proteins from foods and other substances and subsequent cutaneous reactions or absence of reactions indicate whether those proteins are hostile or friendly.

The test is made by the physician scratching the arm—a tiny scratch on the skin. He then applies a drop of a weak solution of sodium hydrate, and in this places the proteins of whatever substance he suspects as the cause of the patient's discomfort.

If the patient is a baker, flour dust may be under suspicion and proteins from that would be tested. In the case of a hostler, proteins from horse dandruff probably would be tried.

Pollen from ragweed, timothy and other plants which are known sources of sneezing distress to many persons comes within the scope of investigation.

QUICK CHANGES OF LANGUAGE

Among Many Savage Tribes of the Pacific the Old and Young Speak Different Tongues.

Arce, the boy who acted as our maid-of-all-work on Yao (New Hebrides group, South Pacific) supplied me with native words until I had a fairly respectable vocabulary, but when I tried to use it, I made the interesting discovery that the old men and the young men spoke different tongues, writes Martin Johnson in Asia Magazine.

Language changes rapidly among savage tribes. No one troubles to get the correct pronunciation of a word. The younger generation adopt abbreviations or new words at will, and incorporate into their speech strange words learned from the whites. Some of the words I learned from Arce were absolutely unintelligible to many of the older men.

The language varied considerably from village to village, and though many of the Yao men were refugees from Malekula, it was very different from that of any of the tribes on the big island. I once estimated the number of languages spoken in the South Seas at four hundred. I am now convinced that as many as that are used by the black races alone.

Early Astronomical Instruments.

The earliest known astronomical instruments of German make have recently been described by Dr. J. Hartmann of Göttingen. They belonged to the philosopher and astronomer, Cardinal Nikolaus of Cusa, who lived from 1401 to 1464, and comprised a "torquetum," for measuring the longitude and latitude of the celestial bodies, an astrolabe and two celestial globes.

Moving Sidewalk for Paris.

THIS COUNTRY "GOLDEN HILL"

Looked Upon as Land of Promise to the Chinese, No Matter What His Status at Home.

When a young man of China looks around him to decide just where he will go to school to finish the lessons the neighborhood schoolmaster has taught him, the chances are—if he is the son of well-to-do parents—that he will choose the United States.

So bright are these tales of returned travelers that this country doesn't go by its proper name in China. It bears a typical Chinese name—"Golden Hill." In this country the youth are told gold may be picked up on any hill. But so eager are the people who live in the land to keep it only for the worthy that no one is permitted to land in the United States unless he wishes to learn and become a wise and great man.

This view of our country seems to be the Chinese to be borne out by the exclusion laws. No Chinese workman, of course, is permitted to land in this country, but those earnest Chinese who wish to attend our schools and take back to their own country the knowledge they gain are eagerly welcomed. So it is that a Chinese youth must be well to do or he cannot afford the trip and the years of studying at one of our schools.

POISON IN RHUBARB LEAVES

Their Use as "Greens," Which is Sometimes Recommended, is Fraught With Grave Danger.

Do not eat the leaves of the rhubarb plant! From time to time one reads or hears advice to economize and also to freshen and purify the blood by eating green vegetables. That is all right with certain important limitations, and one of these limitations concerns the leaves of the rhubarb plant. Green vegetables have a very valuable place in the food schedule, and boiled "greens," such as cabbage, kale, turnip tops and beet tops are wholesome. The eating of turnip tops and beet tops has led to the assumption that rhubarb tops are good.

That is not the fact. There is a danger sign on them. Men have been poisoned by eating them. They contain oxalic acid and death lurks in that acid.

A fatal case of poisoning by rhubarb leaves was reported some time ago in the New York Medical Journal.

The red and rosy stalk of the rhubarb has been proved by generations of cooks and generations of men and women at table to be a wholesome and palatable food. It is good as sauce and as filling for pie. But the green foliage of the plant should not be used as "greens."

Down in Mississippi.

Irvin S. Cobb, the humorous lecturer, on a recent southern tour stopped for dinner at a tiny railway restaurant in a Mississippi village.

"Well, uncle, what's the bill-of-fare?" he asked the aged colored man who came from the kitchen to look after him.

"De bill-o'-fare," said the old man, "am ham, eggs, corn bread and coffee."

Legend of the Great War.

In the early days of the World war, when the brave little band of British soldiers was compelled, by the overwhelming number of the enemy, to retreat from Mons, a report was put in circulation, and telegraphed all over the world, to the effect that an angel, with a flaming sword, stood in the path of the pursuing host of Germans, and thus allowed the British to retire in comparative safety. How the report originated was not known at the time, but it was discovered later that it had its origin in an imaginary poem entitled "The Angel of Mons," written by an English clergyman.

COPIED OLD ENGLISH BARREL

Pennsylvania Man Made First Standard Size Receptacle for the Transportation of Oil.

When crude oil was discovered in Pennsylvania in 1859, barrels commonly used for wine, beer, whisky, cider and other liquors were utilized by oil men as containers for their product. Anything that resembled a barrel was used and sizes differed so radically that there were many opportunities for fraud.

As an instance, it was discovered that frequently the staves were made extra thick, with the result that the content of the barrel was less than represented, and purchasers often found that they did not get as much crude oil as they were paying for.

In 1894-95 the first standard-size barrel was made by Samuel Van Syckle, at Miller Farm, near Titusville, Pa. It was of 42 gallons capacity, the size fixed in 1461 in England for the herring barrel during the reign of Edward IV.

Van Syckle specified the size of the staves to be used and made an honest 42-gallon barrel. Almost immediately he had practically a monopoly of the business and the odd-size barrels gradually disappeared.

The present system of gauging oil tanks was started in 1895, when F. E. Hammond of Miller Farm, Pa., was asked if he could figure the amount of oil contained in each vertical foot of certain tanks. In a few days Hammond prepared a table of one of these tanks, showing the amount of oil it would hold per inch from bottom to top, based on a measurement of 42 gallons to the barrel. Hammond's table came into general use, and this method of measuring tanks never has changed.—Oil News.

SOME MEASURE OF SUCCESS

Collector Got His Half of Debt, but Creditor is Wondering Where He Comes In.

A Vancouver man tells of a sea captain who, ashore, makes his home in that city, and who had loaned a sum of money to a neighbor. The latter, after the loan was a year or two old, made no effort to pay it.

Now, the captain began to look upon the debt as a bad one, indeed. On one occasion, however, upon his return from a voyage, he heard of a debt collector noted for his ability to extract money from such delinquents. Accordingly, the captain called upon this collector and advised of the circumstances.

"If," said the skipper, "you can collect that debt, I'll give you half of it."

The collector promised that the thing would be done. The captain sailed away on another voyage, and, on his return, sought out the collector again. "Any success with that bill?" he asked.

"Well," said the collector, "I haven't collected the whole of it; but I did collect my half. He hasn't paid me a cent since. I keep after him, but it's just as you said when you gave me the bill—he hasn't any conscience about it."

Modeling in Rags.

It was the fashion of a little time ago to think scorn of the woodwork screens, the paper flowers, or the wax figures made by the women of the past, but now they are eagerly sought and added to collections of articles illustrating home life.

History repeats itself, and to this busy athletic age has come a wave of the old finger-work fashion. Lately it is pictures made with feathers, now it is little figures made from rags.

These last were the ideas of Mme. Wolkoff, nee Princess Troubetzkoy, formerly of the Russian imperial court, when at Petrograd, where the little figures were sold for the benefit of Russian soldiers. Since Mme. Wolkoff has been in England she has modeled little statuettes of well-known people, all in characteristic attitude and lifelike appearance. Odd pieces of rag have been manipulated to make these charming little figures, which vie with the paper modeling and the wax groups of the past.—Christian Science Monitor.

An important advance toward the emancipation of Japanese womanhood was made recently when the house of representatives in Tokyo adopted a bill granting women the right to attend political meetings.

NACOGDOCHES TRADITIONS

(By J. E. Mayfield, M. D.)

As to Melrose again, the half has not been told, and there is some danger of twice-told tales not being entitled to credence, or being disputed by the few old-timers yet living, who were witnesses of those days, along about the year 1850, and before and after, August Teutsch, Jim Curl, Van Fall, B. M. Hall and others of that period are supposed to know better.

The famous Old San Antonio Road as it has recently been marked out, was then a vacillating route. It changed about from side to side to get better ground, but it kept its general course. It passed through Melrose from its beginning to very nearly as it now does. But when it passed on westward it veered to the north, taking the shortest and was way across the Atascosa creek about where it now does. But it wen just north, taking the shorter and west on down the hill above its present location.

From Kit Patton's on to Melrose, a distance of about two miles, the land is, or was very fertile, red soil, and therefore it was cleared up, fenced and cultivated long before 1850. It would be interesting to know who were the first settlers on these old farms.

The names of the original grantees of the land would probably show this. One of these was Jesse W. Walling. Another was B. M. Hall, another was J. M. Mora. The San Antonio road was often the dividing line between them, but when the lanes and fences were made in some instances, this road was deflected to suit the settlers. It was, in one instance, changed to the south to pass by the Tom McDaniel place, lately Bob Stripling's, a mile west of Melrose.

From the Atascosa westward the old road, as now revealed by the official survey, crossed the ridge towards the Carriso creek, inclining north of the present road, passing through Henry Halderman's premises, probably also by the old-time Neal Martin home, which may have been first located on the old road.

It crossed the Carriso creek up near the Dr. Englewood old place, since known as the Sisco place, and thence on westward through the Graham prairie, where a primitive dwelling stood on the eastward hill.

The old-time surveyor, A. A. Nelson, spent his first night in Nacogdoches county at this place, about the year 1840. He was traveling afoot to Nacogdoches where his brother, Horatio Nelson, had previously located as a surveyor.

In those days it came to pass that John J. Simpson and Daniel Akins had big plantations down on what is now known as Oak Ridge and Helen Crain had one that afterwards became the Morgan home. M. L. Patton later settled his homestead over there, and David Muckleroy settled at Fairview. He built his home near the spring, as was usual, and he cleared and cultivated an extensive plantation there. His children were born and raised there. Matt Muckleroy was the youngest. Travel to Nacogdoches from these big farms necessitated a more direct road. These big planters pulled together and made the road, which is now the main Melrose road extending on eastward to Melrose via other planters' homes. It was first known as the lower Melrose road, and became a rival of the upper road. This rivalry of the two roads became lively, and heated. The settlers along each road got busy and laid out and improved their favorite, making short cuts, etc. They also measured them accurately, and the lower road friends placed a big signboard in the edge of Melrose where the two roads forked, reading "To Nacogdoches, 10 miles." The other road folks to trump this placed a blazing signboard there, too, reading "To Nacogdoches 9 1/2 miles." The lower road had the strongest teams to pull the load. So they elected Akins county commissioner and got the lower Melrose road officially established and worked. This made it popular. "Money makes the mare go," men make the money. Before this the old planters going to town went the original route via Graham prairie. The two roads forked in Melrose at Hardeman's store. That is to say they came together at the store, and Hardeman built his big dwelling house between them, out in the suburbs of the Great Melrose, so that he was on both sides as if to catch them coming and going. San Antonio, Texas, July 20, 1921

Pains Were Terrific

Read how Mrs. Albert Gregory, of R. F. D. No. 1, Blufford, Ill., got rid of her ills. "During . . . I was awfully weak. My pains were terrific. I thought I would die. The bearing-down pains were actually so severe I could not stand the pressure of my hands on the lower part of my stomach. . . I simply felt as if life was for but a short time. My husband was worried. . . One evening, while reading the Birthday Almanac, he came across a case similar to mine, and went straight for some Cardui for me to try.

GOVERNMENT MAY HANDLE TEXAS KU KLUX CASES

Dallas, Texas, July 22.—The United States government probably will take a hand in alleged operations in Texas by masked white men, it was learned from authentic sources this morning. Federal authorities believe that whipping of persons by bands of masked men is a violation of a federal statute enacted in 1911. This statute takes the place of an old statute enacted shortly after the close of the civil war.

While no action has yet been taken by government authorities against activities of masked bands, it is known that numerous complaints have been received by government agents here. Scores of complaints also have been received by federal officials of the Eastern District of Texas.

The federal statute under which prosecution probably will be made was enacted by the Sixtieth congress, and is as follows:

"If two or more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten, or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the constitution of the United States, or because of his having exercised same, or if two or more persons go in disguise on the highway or premises of another, with intent to prevent or hinder his free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege so secured, they shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than 10 years and shall, moreover, be ineligible to any office or place of honor, profit or trust created by the constitution or laws of the United States."

The Houston Chronicle of Friday morning adds the following to the above information:

Agents of the department of justice at Houston admitted Thursday afternoon that many complaints have been received by them as a result of the activities of masked bands and that the department has conducted investigations.

At the office of D. E. Simmons, United States district attorney, it was stated that no particular instructions along these lines have been received from the attorney general at Washington, but that the district attorney's office naturally stands ready to prosecute under any violation of a federal statute if the evidence justifies it.

EDUCATING THE ENGLISH

London, July 22.—English children are rapidly becoming Americanized through seeing nothing but American moving pictures, is the contention of A. G. Granger, manager of an educational series who holds that film education ought to be part of every school curriculum.

"Millions of children go to the pictures regularly," he said to an interviewer. "In American films no opportunity is lost to introduce the American flag; American motors are shown and popularized; American ideas in dress, furniture, habits and customs are being continually put before the children, with the result that they know more about Lincoln and the North and South wars than about Oliver Cromwell and Nelson.

"Where did the fashion for bobbed hair come? From America, and by the film," he added. All English teachers are now in favor of introducing the film into the schools, Mr. Granger says.

The message states that thirty men of the clan's department of investigation have been detailed to investigate the activities of the organization and its members in Texas and Oklahoma. Colonel Simmons expressed the belief that the recent alleged lawlessness in the two states are the acts of the enemies of the clan. The imperial wizard asked that federal and state authorities report to him any evidence of alleged lawlessness by members of the clan. He said the activities of every member will be carefully watched and violators of the constitution and by-laws will be punished.

Marlin, Texas, July 22.—When facing the gallows here yesterday, Jordan Israel, negro, contradicted the testimony he gave at the trial for the murder of Hal St. Clair, and implicated two men besides himself, who were originally held for the crime, but were released later, in an eleven-hour confession at Marlin jail before he paid the death penalty at 5:15 o'clock for the murder last November of Deputy Sheriff C. O. Sharp.

After having been pronounced dead at 1:58 o'clock, eight minutes after the death trap had been sprung on him, Jose Flores, Mexican, who was also hanged for the murder of Deputy Sharp, showed signs of returning to life, and was again taken to the tower where he was hanged again. The trap was sprung the second time at 2:14 o'clock, and after 10 minutes Flores was again pronounced dead.

HAS A Ouija board.
AND SHE believes it.
AND TALKS to Noah.
AND I think she talks.
TO HER best fellow.
WHO'S DEAD but doesn't know it.
AND I used to give her.
THE LOUD, rude laugh.
BUT I'M sorry now.
BECAUSE LAST night,
I WAS home alone,
SO I got the board.
AND PUT in a call.
FOR JOHN Barleycorn.
AND OTHER departed spirits.
BUT THE line was busy.
FOR NOTHING happened.
THEN I cheated a little.
AND IT spelled this.
"GRAMMASHOTTA SEVEN."

SO I shut off quick.
TO HEAD off any.
FURTHER FAMILY scandal.
THEN I stopped to smoke.
A CIGARETTE.
AND AFTER a while,
I CRANKED up weejee.
AND ALL of a sudden,
IT STARTED off.
AND QUICK as a flash,
IT SAID something.
"THEY SATISFY."

"SATISFY"—that's the good word. Just light up a Chesterfield and see what experts can do with fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos when they blend them in that can't-be-copeed Chesterfield way. You'll say "they satisfy."

HOUSE MEMBERS FAVOR WHITECAPPING BILL

Austin, Texas, July 21.—Representative Len Small and Lieutenant Governor Fred E. Sterling, the state's two highest executives, were indicted by the Sangamon county grand jury late yesterday. They are charged with embezzlement and conspiracy to misappropriate public moneys. Verne S. Curtis, president of the Grant Park Trust & Savings Bank, was hit in two other indictments, charging similar felonies. In all four indictments were returned. Two were joint indictments, charging the three with embezzling $700,000 of the state's money and the third charges conspiracy and confidence game by means of which the defendants unlawfully obtained $2,000,000 of state funds. Governor Small and Lieutenant Governor Sterling were also named in separate indictments, charging the governor with embezzling $500,000 while state treasurer from 1917 to 1919, and the lieutenant governor with misappropriation of $700,000 while holding the office from 1919 to 1921. Springfield, Ill., July 21.—Governor Len Small and Lieutenant Governor Fred E. Sterling, the state's two highest executives, were indicted by the Sangamon county grand jury late yesterday. They are charged with embezzlement and conspiracy to misappropriate public moneys.

Verne S. Curtis, president of the Grant Park Trust & Savings Bank, was hit in two other indictments, charging similar felonies.

In all four indictments were returned. Two were joint indictments, charging the three with embezzling $700,000 of the state's money and the third charges conspiracy and confidence game by means of which the defendants unlawfully obtained $2,000,000 of state funds.

DROWNED NEAR FORT WORTH

Fort Worth, Texas, July 22.—Edna Link, 13-year-old school girl, drowned at Katy lake, two miles south of here, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, before the horrified gaze of a number of her playmates, before she could be rescued. The child stepped into the water and was caught in a whirlpool. Cries to her companions brought persons to the scene of the tragedy, but too late to render assistance.

HOPES ARE BRIGHT

London, July 23.—The outstanding feature of the government's Irish peace proposals is the concession of fiscal autonomy, it was learned on high authority today. The position of Ulster is amply secured. A Dublin dispatch states that the hopes of a settlement are increasing in Dublin. General Smuts, the South African premier, is expected to leave for Ireland early next week to place his services at the disposal of Valera and Craig during the critical consideration of the proposals for peace.

MISSISSIPPI MURDERER EXECUTED BY MOB

Hattiesburg, Miss., July 23.—Casey Jones (white), recently convicted of the murder of Mrs. J. E. Mosley and sentenced to be hanged July 18, but whose case was pending on appeal in the state supreme court, was taken from jail by a mob early today and hanged in the courthouse yard.

ANOTHER TAR AND FEATHER EPISODE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

Parties in the vicinity of the Cotton Belt depot yesterday afternoon witnessed the novel sight of a rapidly driven Ford pause just long enough for two masked men to alight and seize a young man by the name of Sherwood Vinson, who was loaded into the car where two other masked men were seated.

The driver lost no time in going out North First street and within about thirty minutes a car came back from that direction at a rapid rate, slowing down at the Burke drug store corner just enough to allow the young man mentioned above to be dumped out into the street, the car and its occupants soon passing from view. Vinson had been treated to a coat of tar and feathers, and went immediately into a nearby tailor shop, where hundreds of citizens quickly gathered to witness such a spectacle for the first time in their lives.

The identity of the masked parties could not be established, neither the identity of the car, other than it was one of the fastest moving tin Lizzies that Henry Ford ever turned out of his factory. It is alleged that the victim yesterday afternoon had been previously "opportuned" to leave the city, and perhaps the episode mentioned grew out of his failure to comply with such a request.—Lufkin News.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Do Your Headaches Make You Ashamed?

(Thursday Health Talk No. 14.)
(By R. W. Zilar, D. C.)

Do your headaches come at times that cause you embarrassment and annoyance? The victim of headaches is nearly always sure to be "knocked out" just at the climax of some efforts, as in the hurry and get ready for daughter's wedding, or a lawn party, or a vacation trip.

Headaches are due to various causes, and the Chiropractor who knows his business will not promise immediate relief, though he is quite often able in one adjustment to stop the ache. There are stomach headaches, bilious headaches, etc., and in each case the cause is the same, namely, weakened transmission of nerve impulses to the organ at fault. By Chiropractic spinal adjustments the cause is removed and the victim of chronic headaches once more enjoys health.

CONTINUAL HEADACHES ENTIRELY DISAPPEAR

"Constant belching of gas made my life miserable. I was told I had heart trouble. My left arm at times felt asleep. I had headaches almost continually. Chiropractic adjustments for two months and the belching of gas is gone, heart symptoms have left, and the headaches also. For this I thank Chiropractic."—Mrs. L. Seeger, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1270-L.

THE STATE OF TEXAS To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Nacogdoches County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon J. L. Kimbrell by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Nacogdoches county, to be holden at the court house thereof, in Nacogdoches, on the 1st Monday in September, A. D. 1921, the same being the 5th day of September, A. D. 1921, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 8th day of July, A. D. 1921, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 776, wherein Lorene Kimbrell is plaintiff and J. L. Kimbrell is defendant, and said petition alleging that the residence of defendant is to plaintiff unknown. And that she is an actual bona fide resident and inhabitant of the State of Texas, and has resided in said state for more than twelve months and said county for more than six months preceding the filing of this petition.

Plaintiff and defendant were lawfully married to each other on or about the 19th day of January, A. D. 1915, and thereafter lived and cohabited together as husband and wife until on or about the 14th day of September, A. D. 1918, when the plaintiff was forced to and did leave the defendant because of the heinous after described acts; that at all times while married to the defendant plaintiff has conducted herself with propriety, doing her duty as a helpmate; that defendant disregarded the solemnity of his marriage vow, and about two years after their said marriage commenced a course of unkind, harsh and tyrannical conduct which continued with slight intermissions until she finally separated from him.

During the marriage of said plaintiff and defendant there was born to them a boy whose name is Travis Kimbrell, who is about four years of age, and who is now living with plaintiff; that she is able to care for and educate said child and is willing to do so.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer this petition, and that upon final hearing hereof plaintiff have judgment dissolving said bonds of matrimony now existing between them, for the care and custody of said minor child, for cost of suit and such other and further relief that she may show herself entitled to both in law and equity, as she will ever pray.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid regular term, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Nacogdoches on this the 11th day of July, A. D. 1921.

(Seal) I. E. Prince, Clerk, District Court Nacogdoches County, Texas. 14-4w

COULD BEAT HANDS SHUCKING HIS CORN

At Least J. A. White Would Bet So, After Being Relieved of Dyspepsia by Tanlac

"My wife and myself have had stomach trouble," says Mr. J. A. White, residing on the Leestown Pike, R. F. D. No. 6, near Lexington, Ky., "and have both been nervous and run down."

"We could not see anything without suffering afterwards and could not sleep at night. We were regular nervous dyspeptics. We tried many remedies without permanent benefit until we heard of Tanlac. I got this medicine and began using it. We noticed immediate results. We are both greatly improved by Tanlac. We give all credit of the change of health to Tanlac. It is a remarkable medicine."

"I personally feel so good that I told my hands a day or two ago that I could beat any of them shucking corn. I meant it and I believe I could have beat 'em all."

Of all the maladies that affect humanity chronic dyspepsia, such as Mr. and Mrs. White suffered from, is probably the most prevalent and hours might be consumed in describing the sufferings, mental and bodily, of the victims of chronic dyspepsia.

A morbid, unreal, whimsical and melancholy condition of the mind, aside from the nervous physical suffering, is the usual state of the average dyspeptic and life seems scarcely worth the living.

Tanlac, the celebrated medicine, was designed especially for overcoming this distressing condition and millions of people have taken it with the same astonishing and gratifying results. It seems to go straight to the spot, toning up and invigorating every organ of the body.

Tanlac is sold in Nacogdoches by Stripling, Haselwood & Co., and in Garrison by the Dale Drug Co.

ALLEGED ROBBER CAUGHT

About 2 o'clock Wednesday morning several negroes appeared at the home of Deputy Sheriff Booth and informed him that a robbery had been committed at the railroad passenger station. Hurrying to the scene, Deputy Sheriff Booth found that a negro brakeman, who was taking a nap in the depot, had been robbed of a fine watch while asleep. Ernest Whitaker, colored, was at the station when the officer arrived and was taken in charge on suspicion. Reaching the jail the prisoner was turned into the corridor, Mr. Booth informing him he would turn the electricity on him unless he told where the missing property might be found. Whitaker had protested hotly that a great injustice was being done by arresting him on such a preposterous charge, but fear that the officer might carry out his threat to "put the lightning to him" caused him to weaken. He produced the watch chain from under the entrance platform at the rear of the Willard Battery Station, across the street from the courthouse, and then led the officer to the watch, which he had hidden on a sill of the floor of the W. T. Wilson Grain Company. It was quick and effective work on the part of the alert deputy, who is to be congratulated upon the success which attended his efforts in running down this lawbreaker. There is a flattering prospect that Ernest may do considerable work for the state, which probably will cause him considerable pain, as work is said to be about the last thing in the culprit's scheme of things.

An interesting ceremony was performed this morning when Judge Huston united Paul Saldata and Eliana Vasques, two Mexicans, in marriage. The young man, who was only fifteen years old, applied for his license Saturday and was placed in jail until further information could be obtained about him. This morning the girl's mother arrived on the scene and stated that the couple's parents consented to the marriage, whereupon the boy was released and the marriage ceremony immediately performed.

DEAD SOLDIER BOY WAS BURIED WEDNESDAY

The body of Corporal Floyd Arthur Force, who died for his country in the Champaign sector in France in October, 1918, arrived Tuesday night and was taken in charge by the undertaking department of Cason, Monk & Company and held in state until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, when it was taken to Fairview cemetery and laid to rest by the side of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Force, who had preceded him to the Great Beyond.

A troop of the American Legion formed at the store of Cason, Monk & Company and acted as pallbearers and guard of honor to their dead comrade, and, followed by a number of relatives and friends of the deceased, entered automobiles and drove out to Fairview cemetery, where Rev. S. D. Dollahite of the Baptist church conducted the religious service and the members of Baxter Duncan Post paid the last soldierly tribute. Volleys were fired and "taps" sounded over the grave, and tear-blurred eyes gazed their last upon the casket which held all that was mortal of our patriot and our hero.

Hon. S. W. Blount, on behalf of the American Legion, delivered an address at the grave, and those who heard it say it was a tribute of unusual beauty to the young man who had made the supreme sacrifice for us.

Deceased was born in San Augustine county in 1890 and the family moved to Nacogdoches county, locating in the Trinity community, about 15 years ago, and were and are recognized as among the best people of East Texas.

Mrs. Linda Harrod Endorses Chamberlain's Tablets

"I suffered for years with stomach trouble and tried everything I heard of but the only relief I ever got was only temporary until last spring I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and procured a bottle of them from our druggist. I got immediate relief from that dreadful heaviness and pain in the stomach after eating. Since taking two bottles I can eat anything I want without distress," writes Mrs. Linda Harrod, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Stripling, Haselwood & Co. c

Suffered Intense Pain

"A few years ago when visiting relatives in Michigan something I had eaten brought on an attack of cholera morbus," writes Mrs. Celesta McVicker, Macon, Mo. "I suffered intense pain and had to go to bed. I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, and one dose relieved the pain wonderfully. I took only two or three doses but they did the work." Stripling, Haselwood & Co. c

Geo. T. McNeess, J. Thos. Hall and Thomas J. Maroney were in Austin last week in interest of the experiment stations that had been dropped from the list of thirteen in the state, our station being one of these. The result was that the joint house and senate committee amended the bill reinstating all six stations, allowing the appropriation as recommended by the board of control. There was no difficulty in showing this committee that it was pound foolish and penny-wise to endeavor to save $30,000 in appropriations and lose $150,000 in crops and property valued easily at this amount, to say nothing of the loss to the agricultural interest of the state.
