Two Trout Struck Fly At Same Time

BEND, Ore. — Two fighting trout, one a rainbow and the other a five-pound German brown, were landed on the same fly recently by George Buegler, secretary of the Deschutes Sportsmen's Association.

Both fish struck the fly at the same time. The hook pierced the smaller fish's mouth showing it up on the leader and allowing the 28-inch German brown to seize the barbed fly. Buegler fought the two trout 30 minutes before he landed them.

THREE GUESSES

BLANKET CODE AGREEMENT IN EFFECT TODAY

Blanket code agreement became operative throughout the nation today with more than 170,000 employers immediately swinging into line with wage lifting, work spreading agreements, a survey of the United Press showed.

The 24 regional offices of the national recovery administration reported that agreement tabulations were shooting up each hour. The blue eagle, symbol of co-operation, spread its wings over the country. Newspaper advertisements featured the emblem. Cross roads stores and huge department stores displayed the emblem.

Regional offices reporting certificates of agreements included Dallas, 1,128 and Houston, 12,228. More than a million new jobs were opened in the country's retail stores. Steady progress was reported in the campaign to bring the steel and oil industries under provision of the NRA.

Progress in the effort to bring some semblance of order out of the oil industry was registered in a new code drafted by N. R. A. officials and representatives of the industry. The new code proposed a work week of 36 hours in the oil fields generally and a 40-hour week in the marketing end of the industry.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Owners of small stores who tend their shops by themselves and have no employees were granted permission today to display the NRA sign of the blue eagle.

Many such shopkeepers had feared they might be placed at a disadvantage in competing with larger establishments which displayed the emblem. In order to obtain the blue eagle the one man stores must sign the agreement the same as stores with many clerks.

The minimum wage and maximum hours provision will not apply in such cases as the storekeeper has no employees. Other sections of the agreement, such as the pledge to refrain from profiteering, will be binding.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Editorial staffs of newspapers were exempted from the 40 hour week of the voluntary blanket code under an official interpretation by the national recovery administration.

The announcement listed the following as professional workers and exempt from the schedule: "Newspaper reporters, editorial writers, re-write men, and other members of editorial staffs."

Flatwood Revival Meeting Draws a Good Attendance

Rev. Ephraim Conway, circuit rider of the Ranger district, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has just completed a revival meeting at Flatwood, his first revival since he assumed his new duties.

Good crowds attended the revival from the first, with an increase in the number attending being shown in each meeting until toward the last the capacity of the church was strained to hold the congregation.

Six new members were received into the church, three by letter, two being reclaimed and one joining by profession of faith and baptism.

The next revival to be conducted by Rev. Conway will be held at Bullock and will start Aug. 4 and last 10 days.

At the Flatwood revival the other denominations worked with the circuit rider in making the meeting a success, members of other churches taking an active part in the meetings and aiding in any way possible. Rev. Conway said today that it was largely due to the aid given by members of other churches that the revival had been made a success.

Times Publishing Company To Observe 40-Hour Working Week; Advertisers Urged to Co-operate

The Times Publishing Company is tomorrow going on a 40-hour week in keeping with the provisions of the National Recovery Administration plan and beginning tomorrow the office will be opened at 8:30 each morning.

A new schedule on advertising copy from the merchants is necessary in order that the paper can co-operate with the President in working out his recovery plans and the merchants are urged to do their part in getting advertising copy in early.

All advertising copy to go in the Monday edition must be in the office by 10 o'clock on Monday morning and for the remainder of the week advertising copy must be in the office the afternoon before the advertisement is to be inserted in the paper.

On Saturdays, copy for advertisements to appear in the Sunday issue must be in the office by 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

In putting on the new working schedule, as outlined by President Roosevelt in his appeal for co-operation, it will be necessary for everyone to co-operate in making the new working schedule possible.

New Regime Takes Over R. F. C. Work Today with E. A. Ringold and S. J. Dean In Charge of Administering the Relief

The Ranger Reconstruction Finance Corporation committee, appointed last November to administer relief and allot work in Ranger, today turned over to E. A. Ringold, newly appointed director of relief work in the city, and S. J. Dean, local administrator, the books, accounts, and all records of the relief work done in the past and the registration blanks of men who are now on the rolls of the old committee. This transfer was being made under provisions set out by the new county committee, appointed by the Texas Relief and Rehabilitation commission, created by an act of the recent legislative session.

In November, 1932, the local committee, appointed under the old system, took over the task of providing work for the unemployed of Ranger and continued this task through July 31, when their term of office expired. At first the federal funds were received by Gov. R. S. Sterling, who divided the check into three smaller checks, sending these smaller checks to the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, South Texas Chamber of Commerce, and West Texas Chamber of Commerce for distribution in the counties in each.

Only Three Weeks Left In Contest For Chicago Trip

Announcement is made today that only three more weeks remain in the World's Fair tree trip—this contest is being sponsored by ten of Ranger's leading merchants and they are offering votes at the rate of five for one on all merchandise or money paid on accounts.

The ballot box will not be opened until after six o'clock Tuesday, August 22 and the winner will be announced in the next day's issue of the Times.

The following contestants are in the race: Misses Lois Landtroop, Pat Coughlin, Doris Williams, Opal Carter, Ethel Aishman, Effie Mae Williams, Messames D. E. Pulley and Mae Heald.

The merchants in the contest are making this trip possible and are offering special inducements to the buying public by giving extra votes and are urging that the votes given by each of them be deposited at the Oil City Pharmacy where the ballot box is located for their favorite entrant.

MAN RESCUED AFTER SHARKS GET PARTNER

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Aug. 1.—Jack Davis, 33, of Kissimmee, Fla., who drifted 11 days in the Gulf of Mexico in a water-logged 19-foot sloop, trailed by hungry sharks who fought over the body of his companion, William Bell, 13, when he slipped from the deck, was rescued today by coast guardsmen.

Surfman Harry Page of the coast guard came upon the battered sloop and the half-conscious Davis before dawn today on the beach near Port Aransas. Davis, suffering from lack of water and food, told the guardsmen Bell slipped from the deck several days ago. He was unable to determine when his companion fell victim to a school of leopard sharks which followed the ship night and day.

Louisiana Will Probe Election

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 1.—New Orleans was under theoretical martial law today as Senator Huey Long and other leaders of his political empire prepared to squelch an investigation into last fall's election, which his enemies charged was honeycombed with fraud.

COURT NAMES AUGUST 26TH FOR ELECTION

Petitions of Voters Not Needed As Court Decided To Give People Vote.

At a meeting held by the commissioner's court Monday a policy was agreed upon that would be followed in regard to prohibition in Eastland county. It was determined to order a county wide local option election to be held August 26th to decide whether or not the people want 3.2 beer sold in the county.

The law provides that the Commissioner's Court, whenever they deem it expedient, may order an election to be held in the county or in any justice precinct, incorporated city or town to determine whether the sale of beer containing not more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight.

The court is ordering this election for August 26th on their own motion and not requiring a petition. Judge Garrett stated that the court desires to give any of the above mentioned sub-divisions the opportunity to vote on this proposition at any time they may wish to do so, and that, if any subdivision of the county wishes to vote on the question as to whether or not beer shall be sold within its borders, the court will be glad to submit the proposition as the law authorizes, but will do so only upon a petition signed by the required number of qualified voters of the justice precinct, incorporated city or town.

Judge Garrett explained that the law further provides that the election shall be ordered not more than 20 days nor less than 10 days prior to the date of the election, which is August the 26th.

In commenting on the county-wide election, Judge Garrett said that the court is ordering this without requiring the petition for the reason that it is convinced that the names of more than 500 qualified voters could be secured in the county, that being the required number, and that when such petition was presented the court would be compelled to order the election; therefore, the court deemed it unnecessary for that requirement to be made.

The Judge further stated that the court was not advised as to what any political sub-division wished to do in this matter, hence petitions would be required and, further, that the law is not clear as to whether or not the court may order local option elections in these sub-divisions at the same time as the county-wide election is held, but if it can be done, it will be the purpose of the court to do so when properly petitioned.

It is hoped that as far as possible, each and every issue be determined at one election, due to the saving of expense in the holding of all of them at one time, Judge Garrett said.

ROOSEVELT TO START DRIVE ON RACKETEERS

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 1.—President Roosevelt turned today to federal action for suppression of the kidnaping racket.

It was learned a recent cabinet meeting discussed a government drive against racketeers and it was reported Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state, would concentrate on drawing up a program to be submitted to the next congress.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 1.—Charles F. Urschel, America's richest kidnap victim, today told how he was released by his kidnapers on the main highway near here last night.

Calmly, he related full details of the abduction from the sun porch of his mansion a week ago Saturday midnight, but he and members of his family steadfastly refused to reveal the amount of ransom paid.

Officers began search for the Underhill gang. Members of the gang are under Wilbur Underhill, the "tri-state terror."

AN AMENDMENT NOT TO BE OVERLOOKED

An amendment to the constitution all importance to the taxpayers of Texas will be submitted to the voters Aug. 26. It is known as the county-city home rule amendment. If adopted, it will give to the taxpayers of Texas the American privilege as well as the constitutional right to bring about the consolidation of county-city governments where the majority of the voters of a county or city "are moving with the passing show."

If it affects the pocket of the taxpayer. If adopted and put into operation in the larger counties it will make a sweeping reduction in the cost of government as it is today. For years it had the backing and progressive support of Rep. Walter Beck of Tarrant county, now a resident of the city of Austin. It is known to its supporters as the county home-rule amendment. It covers all the ground. It carries with it many manifold blessings for taxpayers in the years to come.

Rep. Emmett Morse of Harris county, ever a loyal supporter of the proposal, has established headquarters in the city of Austin. Rep. Morse is here to conduct as much as a campaign for the adoption of the amendment as resources will permit. Former Rep. Beck is giving Mr. Morse all the help he can. It is for the press of Texas to push along the cause. It hasn't anything to do with prohibition. Its hasn't anything to do with beer, either of the mild brand or the heavy home brew brand. It is a non-partisan proposal, and it should be adopted by the forward moving men and women citizens of the Lone Star commonwealth. Tax burdens in all the units of government are growing oppressive. Unless the signs are misleading, they will grow more oppressive in the years to come.

Mark you, it is not a political issue. If it is not a moral issue. It is not a fad issue. New York blazed the way years ago. Virginia followed in its wake. Georgia advanced to a high place in this battle for efficiency and lesser taxation. Why not Texas? North Carolina covered a lot of territory in the forward movement, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland has made a record that is most inspirational to those who believe in efficiency of the highest at the lowest cost to all the people.

JUPITER PLUVIUS ON THE ROAD IN TEXAS

Jupiter Pluvius is on the road in Texas. He scattered his favors from the Gulf to the foothills of the Rockies. On the Texas Gulf Coast he let loose a water spout in certain sections. He covered East Texas and North Texas and the principal cities of the upper country. He invaded the range country where the cattle and the sheep and the goats are ever seeking lush sustenance. As an Old Soak said in West Texas in the long ago, "Man may be able to make whisky, but only the Lord can send the rain."

And while the war is on for the repeal of the 18th Amendment water makes the world go round and plenty of moisture in the earth maketh glad those who till the soil to produce the staples that feed and clothe mankind.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

HENRY T. EWALD, president of Campbell-Ewald Company, advertising counsel for General Motors and other large corporations, says:

"There is plenty of latent purchasing power in this country, once we get it rolling—and that is one thing that the administration at Washington is accomplishing even beyond expectation.

"President Roosevelt and his aggressive reconstruction policies have definitely removed the shackles of fear that have held us helpless during the past few years. Confidence is coming back. We are looking into the future with renewed faith. The National Industrial Recovery Act is stimulating employment. People who have been idle for months are getting back on the payrolls.

"Commodity prices are advancing so that industry and commerce may make a profit on what is produced and sold. This in turn makes possible an increase in wages and salaries.

"And as these evidences of returning prosperity materialize, fear for the future is eliminated. Money that has been hoarded for months and years comes back into circulation—and as inevitably as day follows night, good times return.

"Above all other people in the world, we Americans have come to appreciate, and to demand, as our normal heritage the comforts and conveniences of life. The restrictions of the last few years have irked us beyond reason. We are accustomed to make money—and to spend it. We like to spend, and just now with the piled up needs of three lean years confronting us, we are going to spend.

PREPAREDNESS

HOOKS and SLIDES
 BY BILL BRAUCHER

Rider of Equipoise
 WHEN the combination of great horse and great rider meet, records go to smash. That is the situation this year with Raymond "Sonny" Workman astride Equipoise.

In more than one great race, Workman has beaten the best horses with the next best. It is not far back to the Pimlico Futurity of 1930 when Sonny brought Equipoise from far back in the mud to beat Twenty Grand and Mate. The distance Equipoise had to make up to win that one seemed impossible. But Workman, like Garrison of old, is known as a great whip finisher, and he got up with Equipoise in a lashing, rousing ride, shaking everything out of the horse but his breakfast oats.

With Top Flight
 ONE year later he repeated that Pimlico Futurity triumph, this time with Top Flight. Horsemen still insist that Workman stole the race, that Tick On, which finished second, and Burgoon King which showed, were better horses than the Whitney filly. Workman is classed among the "older" jockeys now, though he's only 24 and has been in the saddle something like nine years. As a tot in West Hoboken, N. J., he rode hobby horses while some of his brother jockeys were astride broncos on the western plains. As a schoolboy he spent his idle moments around the barn at the old Bennings track in Washington, D. C.

His First Winner

FREDDY HOPKINS, trainer of part of the Whitney string, gave odd jobs to the eager lad. In 1925 Hopkins sent him to the half-mile tracks. Workman didn't ride a winner until 1926 when he booted home a brute named Utah at Akron, O. Workman went on to ride 95 winners that year—not bad for a youth who had found out only two years before that horses ran.

Workman's contract with Cornelius V. Whitney in recent years has called for $10,000 a year plus 10 per cent of the purses won. In his biggest year with the stable, 1930, Workman is reported to have earned about $50,000. This year, it is said his contract calls for $10,000 but with only 5 per cent of the winnings.

Reach for a Lucky

—for always Luckies Please!

I feel closer to my cigarette each time I smoke

I really can't help it. After all, one does develop a personal regard for a thing that comes in such intimate contact with one's lips. And since I am a woman, I do appreciate the fact that my Lucky Strike never offends my fastidious sense of daintiness. Men smile at my feminine reasoning. To them the character of Luckies' fine tobaccos seems more important. But my woman's intuition tells me that the purity of "Toasting" is never to be forgotten. And so, the more I smoke, the closer I feel to my cigarette.

of Mrs. Roy Jameson.
These questions and answers rounded out an interesting program of study which has engrossed the attention of members for the past two sessions. As a special compliment to the organization, the president, Mrs. Leslie Hagaman introduced Miss Fredda Morton, deaconess, of Nashville, Tenn., niece of Mrs. Ira Goforth, who visited at the Goforth home over the week-end. This very pleasing young woman, outstanding in her line of work through her magnetic personality, held the marked attention of each individual throughout every second of her wonderful talk based on interesting details covering her recently completed line of work in the Nashville community sentinry house. Different divisions of her work were touched upon in a far-reaching manner, clearly explaining various assignments made to care for the classification of the under-privileged children. Every detail of Miss Morton's talk was covered in a splendidly composed form of thought emphasizing more the capable qualities of this delightful person.

Madame Secretary Amazes Washington With Tirelessness

Editor's Note: For the first time in American history, women now are taking a large part in the administration of the United States government.

The five most important feminine holders of key positions, as appointed by President Roosevelt, are charged with such diverse duties as administering the labor department, supervising the mint, handling diplomacy with Denmark, running the civil service commission, and being personal representative of the president himself.

The United Press has interviewed these women, scrutinized their lives, talked with their fellow workers and examined reforms they have made in the few months since their appointment.

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Madame Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins is the enigma of Washington.

As the first woman cabinet member in history she has astounded, startled and surprised officialdom in her operation of the labor department.

Her first revolutionary act was the publishing of figures showing unfavorable employment trends. Under William Nuckles Doak, her predecessor, such figures usually were suppressed.

She then dived into the gargantuan task of weeding politics out of the department. She reorganized the federal employment service. She virtually abolished Doak's "deportation squad" which had been gaining notice by packing foreign movie stars off to Europe.

She helped draft the 30-hour week bill which just missed becoming law. While she was in the midst of trying to shorten working hours for all Americans, her chauffeur quit.

He said he was tired of working 17 hours a day!

The chauffeur spoke at length for publication. Washington chuckler, but Miss Perkins didn't. "There is too much talk and not enough work around here," she said, in making herself inaccessible to newspapermen. She issued orders that the department should give out no information whatever, without her personal okay. She never was available herself to give this approval.

The situation came to such a pass that one of her employes commented:

"A man asked me what time it was the other day. I told him I couldn't tell him because Madame Secretary had not approved."

The employe was discharged a day or so later. Simultaneously Miss Perkins issued orders that news men could NOT use labor department telephones to send in their stories.

"Let them go to their offices and use their own typewriters," she said.

The weather by then was getting hot. So were the scribes. Whereupon Miss Perkins held one of her infrequent press conferences and mollified her critics by serving them iced ginger ale.

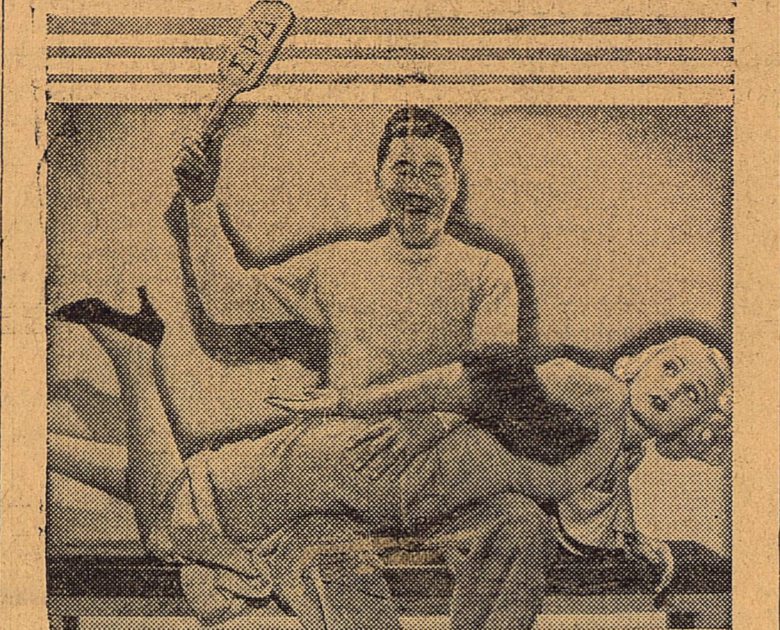

She is 50, a Bostonian and a Lucy Stoner. Her husband is Paul Wilson, an attorney. He has been called "Mr. Perkins" upon occasion.

Some of Madame Secretary's photographs flatter her. Some are most uncomplimentary. None look like her.

She is a small plump woman, with dark skin a pleasant smile and circled eyes, from many years of really hard work. She gained her first fame as the efficient labor commissioner of New York state. Her tricorn hat became famous celebrated simultaneously.

President Roosevelt liked her work so well that he appointed her secretary of labor from a list of distinguished possibilities. Miss Perkins wore her notorious hat to Washington, but it occasioned so organization.

Under this plan the three regional organizations worked under a similar system. When the checks were received from the governor they were deposited in a bank and checks for each county's allotment was made out and mailed to the county chairman. This work and all other work performed in the administration of the federal fund was carried on by the regional offices without cost.

Upon the election and inauguration of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson this more or less loosely formed system was changed. A state relief administrator, Col. Lawrence Westbrook of Fort Worth, was appointed to carry on the work previously done by the regional chambers of commerce. With him was appointed a commission of seven, who in turn appointed county committees to replace the committees appointed under the Sterling system.

The county committee, which was approved by the commissioners court, then hired a county administrator and a county auditor or bookkeeper to keep the books and records for the entire county. In Eastland, Cisco and Ranger, as well as in other towns of the county, a member of the county committee was appointed to administer all relief work. A. E. Ringold was named for this post in Ranger and S. J. Dean was hired by the county committee to look after the work in Ranger.

The new system, taking the relief work from the old committees and putting it under the direction of the new committee, the county administrator and the local committees and administrators, went into effect today and all the records of work done in the past nine months were turned over to the new regime.

In notifying the new and old committees of the change in system, Gov. Ferguson complimented the old committee highly, saying that it had done some wonderful work, especially in view of the fact that this kind of work was new to everyone and no specific system was outlined for them to follow. She pointed out that the reason for making the change was to systematize the work under a more closely knitted organization.

No work crews were posted by the old committee Monday as the books were being checked over, records gotten into shape and everything in readiness to turn the detail work of the administration of the fund over to the new organization today.

Vote on Repeal Will Contain Many Provisions That Can Be Voted

By GORDON K. SHEARER AUSTIN.—Merits and demerits of the proposals to vary the national and state constitutional provisions on alcoholic beverages will be argued from many a platform in Texas this month in preparation for the vote Aug. 26. The proposals will be voted upon separately. One can be carried and the other be defeated, each without affecting the other. It is generally conceded, however, that if one wins, the other will, and that if one loses both will lose. The question of ratification of the 21st amendment to the national constitution is really a double-barreled measure as it was discovered when the ballot was prepared. It calls both for repeal of the present 18th amendment under which the Volstead act limited alcoholic content and it also calls for an affirmative enactment of an amendment forbidding the transportation or importation of intoxicating liquors into any state in violation of state laws. Texas ratified the 18th amendment on March 4, 1918. U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard of Texarkana, now arranging a speaking tour in opposition to repeal, was a co-author of the 18th amendment. The vote on the national amendment applies to hard liquors. The vote on the amendment to the state prohibition code does not apply to whisky, gin or other drinks of high alcoholic content. It proposes to amend the existing state constitution only to the extent of authorizing sale of vinous or maltous liquors of not more than 3.2 per cent alcoholic content by weight. In other words, it deals only with beer and very light wines. Adoption of the state beer amendment will put Texas in the same status regarding its sale as Louisiana and other states that have no law conflicting with the federal 3.2 beer law which became effective last April. Adoption of the 21st federal amendment will still leave sale of beverages over 3.2 per cent alcoholic content by weight prohibited in Texas. The state constitutional provision against them will be in effect and also the severe penalties of the Dean liquor act, calling for prison sentences on first offenses. If the beer amendment carries, service which opened with invocation by Rev. Sam G. Thompson. A sing-song followed with the choir led by M. M. Collie and Mrs. Stewart, with several assisting and Mrs. May Harrison at the organ, placed on a rostrum that had a background of flowering vines over the double windows, sparkling with small electric lights through the leaves. About the old fashioned organ, chairs were arranged in a wide circle seating the hearers of the mock trial, when J. Frank Sparks was brought before Judge Robey, there to answer the complaint of driving a "Lizzie," whilst under the intoxicating influence of 3.2 goats milk, and the offense of keeping a nanny goat in the city. A regular trial proceeded, with the state represented by Mrs. C. C. Robey and Turner M. Collie, and the defendant represented by Milton Lawrence. The gags, parodies and witticisms, that sprinkled the trial convulsed the audience. The antics of the defendant who barged in riding a stick horse and chewing weeds in his role of mentality of three years, was perfect. The star witness were Mrs. T. J. Haley and Mrs. C. G. Stubblefield, who had her toenail cut off in the crash of her Pierce Arrow into the Lizzie, a tearful and pathetic scene. Other witnesses who brought tears from laughter were B. M. Collie, Dr. R. C. Ferguson, Mrs. J. C. Stephen, Milton Newman, and the defendants' plaintive wife, Mrs. J. Frank Sparks, who, when asked how long they had been married, counted the heads of four children and replied "five years, your honor." The charge of the States Attorney, Mrs. Robey, to the jury was dramatic in her weeping plea that the women stand together and have the defendant hung. Lawrence's plea for his client was based on his inability of knowing right from wrong when under the influence of 3.2 goat's milk. Hizzoners charge to the jury involved an immediate decision stating many a man had been sentenced in a day and hung the next morning. The jury: Messrs. May Harrison, T. M. Johnson, C. C. Ligon, W. E. Coleman, Miss Aline Walker; Messrs Sam G. Thompson, W. C. Campbell, W. W. Kelly, Joe C. Stephen, E. Hinrichs and Mrs. W. K. Jackson, foreman of the jury, retired for their decision, and brought in a verdict that the defendant be drowned in goat's milk which would be furnished by Milton Newman, goat-man. The evening will long be remembered for its many pleasant features and the beautiful setting of

Prof. Holloway Is Back From Trip to Historical Points

Supt. R. F. Holloway returned today from a two weeks trip into Colorado and New Mexico. In company with Mr. Holloway were Mrs. Holloway and Miss Sue Hassler, Mrs. Holloway's niece, of Stephenville.

Superintendent Holloway left two weeks ago expecting to spend the remainder of his vacation in the University of Colorado at Boulder. He reports that on account of the small attendance due to the depression and the fact that the teachers were drawn to the University of Chicago and neighboring schools because of the World's fair, the attendance at Boulder was cut in half and consequently much of the higher courses were not given for lack of sufficient demand.

After a couple of days in Boulder and about the campus Mr. Holloway reports a wonderful trip west over the Continental Divide to points of especial interest including western Colorado and New Mexico. His trip included Estes Park, Grand Lake, Loggout Mountain, Royal Gorge, Buffalo Bill Museum, Santa Fe, N. M., Taos, and many other points of historical and human interest.

Lions Win Game From Rotarians

The Lions club defeated the Rotarians in a soft ball game Monday afternoon by a score of 9 to 8. The game was played before a good crowd at the diamond at Lillard field.

By the terms under which the game was played the Rotarians are to furnish a watermelon feast, with entertainment, for the members of the Lions club and their wives at some future date, which is to be decided upon by the two clubs.

The Rotarians took the lead early in the game, but a five-run rally by the Lions upset the lead and changed the outcome of the game.

Many Advertisers Call Attention to Their Cooperation

In today's issue of the Times appears a number of advertisements of merchants and business firms of Ranger which are announcing they have met the requirements of the president and are co-operating with the NRA.

The Times advertising staff made an attempt to reach everyone who has signed and it is possible that some have been missed as they were out at the time the representative called. The fact that they are not on the co-operative pages does not mean that they are not co-operating with the president.

As the fixed price variety store code has not been worked out as yet it is impossible to definitely regulate hours, wages and other matters in connection with the management of the store, but as soon as the president signs the code the local store is instructed to observe local closing hours and regulate working hours according to the code.
