Attempt Made to Assassinate Pres. Martin

RANGER WILL BE HOST FOR VETS NOV. 11

Plans for a big Armistice Day celebration in Ranger have already been started, though many of the details have, as yet, to be worked out.

As Armistice Day is the one big day for the American Legion, the Carl Barnes Post will have charge of many of the activities.

Coupled with the American Legion celebration will be a reunion of the veterans of Ambulance Company 359, which saw service overseas during the World War. Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, captain of the company, will be host to the veterans, and letters from members of the company have been received by him indicating that between 40 and 60 members of the original unit will be present.

"All the civic organizations of Ranger are joining in making this a most unusual celebration," a letter sent by Dr. Logsdon to each surviving member of the company states. "The city commission, chamber of commerce, American Legion, Elks, Lions, Rotary, National Guard and others have expressed a desire to help welcome you."

The tentative outline of the program for the reunion includes a sectional parade at 11 o'clock in the morning, followed by a barbecue for the members of the company. In the afternoon the guests will attend the annual Ranger-Cisco football game at Cisco in a body, returning to Ranger for the annual Company 359 banquet and business meeting at 6:30 and the American Legion celebration that night.

The Legion is making plans for their part of the entertainment that night, which will be open to the public with no admission charge.

The reunion has been held annually in Fort Worth for several years and it was through the efforts of Dr. Logsdon that the site for the meeting was changed to Ranger this year.

MAGNOLIA IS WINNER OF SECOND HALF

The Magnolia team from Olden defeated the Elks Monday afternoon by a score of 14 to 13 in one of the wildest games of the season to win the championship of the second half in the Twilight league.

Magnolia got off to a good start, making 11 runs in the first inning on five hits and a flock of errors, any one of which should have been an easy out and two of which allowed home runs on dropped fly balls. It looked as though Magnolia was going to run up a tremendous score, as the Elks had scored but one run in the first and two in the second innings. Magnolia picked up one more tally in the second, and then the Elks ran wild and Magnolia furnished the errors.

To open the third eight men in a row got on base on errors, most of which were on hit balls that went between the legs of Shortstop Smith, who had an off day in the field, and part of which were dropped throws at first base. Eight men faced Kindred before an out was made when Blackmond fanned. Sloan was forced at third and McCister flew out to third base. Two hits, 10 runs, 10 errors.

Like the Elks, Magnolia made all their errors in one inning, after which they tightened up and held the Elks scoreless, no man getting past second base.

With the score 13 to 12 against Magnolia in the fifth, Wyatt flew out to left field, Smith doubled and Anderson hit his third home run of the game to bring in the tying and winning runs. Anderson's second home run, like the one hit by Snyder and Downtain, might have been scored errors on the part of outfielders, each of whom made a long run to get within reach of the ball, only to fail to make the catch.

Magnolia will now play the Barber team of the first half of the season at some time to be determined between the two managers, the winner to be champions of the Twilight league.

Dollfuss Shot In Attempt on Life

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 3.—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was slightly wounded today by a swarthy assassin.

The attempt on Dollfuss occurred at 2:15 p. m. in the corridor of the parliament building. Examination by doctors at a first aid station showed two wounds, both from small calibre bullets. One was a flesh wound in the right upper arm and the other a slightly deeper wound near the left breast, where the bullet was halted by a rib.

Dollfuss is a powerful leader who has held his government together by main strength against bitter Nazi and Socialist factions.

Battle Return To Chain Gang

The film story, "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," pales beside the real life drama of Ben Jones, cinema projectionist, shown in jail in Los Angeles in the upper photo. Jones escaped from a South Carolina chain gang in 1923 after serving three years for a murder he says he did not commit. He fled to Los Angeles, prospered, married, South Carolina now demands his return for a life term. His wife, Mrs. Irene Jones, shown below, pleads with Governor Rolph of California against extradition.

KELLY, BATES SAY TRIAL IS "JUST A BLUFF"

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 3.—Two Urschel kidnapers today scorned death penalty charges filed against them in state court as a "bluff" by the government to get us to talk.

Young Stripling Dies of Injuries

Macon, Ga., Oct. 3.—W. L. (Young) Stripling, colorful heavyweight boxer, who at one time was near the top of his class, died today. He succumbed to injuries received in a motor accident Sunday after a courageous fight to live.

Death came at 6 a. m. He had been at the point of death all night.

Stripling was 28 years old, but had engaged in more than 300 ring battles. He reached his peak in 1931 when he fought Max Schmeling, then the heavyweight champion, for the title. He lost on a technical knockout.

Business Classes To Be Formed At School Thursday

Classes in business administration will be started at the Ranger high school Thursday night at 7 o'clock, with C. C. Davie in charge. Those interested in attending these business administration classes at night are urged to be at the high school building Thursday night when enrollment will be completed and the classes organized.

INDICTMENT OF DALLAS JAILOR IS QUASHED

DALLAS, Oct. 3.—Attorneys for Tom Manion, discharged Dallas county deputy jailer, accused of aiding Harvey Bailey in his jail escape here last Labor Day, scored in the first skirmish with the government when his trial opened in federal court here today.

Federal Judge William H. Atwell, before whom Manion and Grover Beville, butcher and co-defendant appeared, quashed the indictment drawn against Manion.

The former peace officer was placed in the custody of J. R. Wright, United States marshal, pending reconvening of court this afternoon.

At his arraignment Manion pleaded not guilty. Beville pleaded guilty at his arraignment.

Cotton Ginned in County by Sept. 16 Totals 1,073 Bales

Much more cotton had been ginned in Eastland county by Sept. 16 of this year than on the same date last season, according to a report received from the department of agriculture by L. H. Gaskins of Moran, who checks up on the amount of cotton ginned in this section of the state for the department.

By Sept. 16 a total of 1,073 bales had been ginned in Eastland county, compared with only five bales on the same date last year.

The report did not indicate whether the cotton crop would be much larger this year, in spite of the fact that much of the acreage was destroyed in accordance with the administration plan to cut down the surplus or whether the crop was maturing much earlier this year.

Bleacher Fans Riot At Polo Grounds

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—About 15,000 world series baseball fans on a double line stretching six blocks from the bleacher entrance to the Polo Grounds, rioted today when the 4,000 available seats were filled and the gates were closed to the thousands still in line, many of whom had waited through the night.

More than a score were injured in the wild scramble in which police and fans were trampled. Fists flew and clothes were torn to shreds.

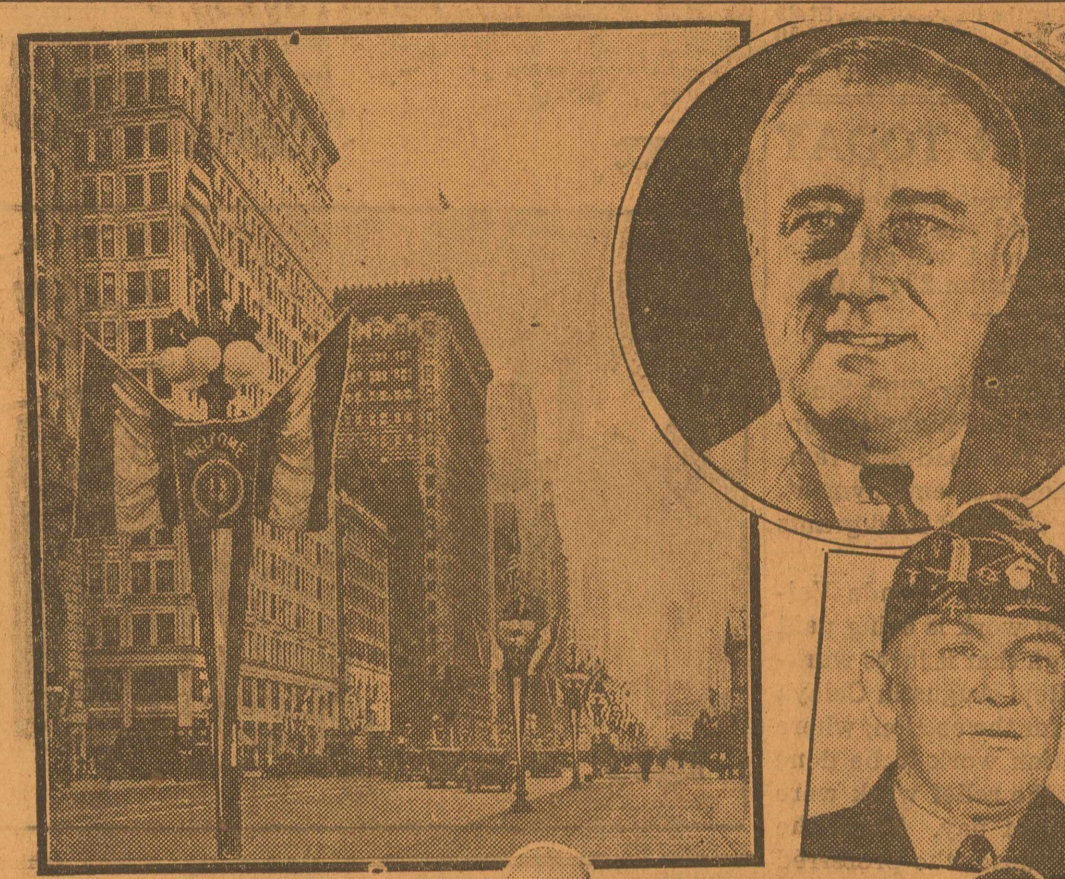

HUGE CUCUMBER
SEATTLE.—Eugene Boutan raised a cucumber 14 inches long and 3 1/4 inches wide and can't figure out "how it got that way." He never grew one that big before.

RELIEF BOND BILLS GIVEN TO THE HOUSE

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—The senate relief investigation stretched into its 10th day as members sought to gather in random threads of the evidence they may consider in regulating issuance of state relief funds.

The house state affairs committee already has reported out two bills, each embodying a different system. Opposition will be sought on the house floor. One bill is the administration's. It proposes a commission to issue the bread crumbs when and as needed, and places such relief funds in the present relief commission for distribution. The other bill would limit state relief funds to $9,000,000 for the present and would create a new relief commission.

The Giants took the lead in the first inning when Mel Ott drove a home run into the right field bleachers, scoring Moore ahead of him, and were never overtaken.

STATE LAW AND NRA CONFLICT COUNSEL SAYS

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—Interstate and intrastate oil business are so interwoven that they cannot be separated, oil company attorneys argued here today in support of a contention that the NRA oil code automatically bars the state's $17,850,000 anti-trust law penalty suit.

In support of their contention that the NRA code supercedes the state anti-trust law, they declared that if both are in effect, oil companies are penalized inevitably.

"If we do not obey the NRA code we are subject to $500 a day penalty," they said. "If we do obey it we are subject to state penalties from $50 to $1,500 a day."

The NRA code and the oil code of 1929 have identical provisions, it was argued. This was challenged by Assistant Attorney General Looney, who contended the NRA code omits a lease and agency system which the state, in its suit, said major oil companies used to eliminate independent service stations.

BULLETS HIT ESCORT CAR BEHIND HIM

Heavily Armed Soldiers Patrol Streets After Fighting of Yesterday.

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 3.—An attempt to assassinate President Ramon Grau San Martin failed when a volley of bullets struck around his automobile today in a sensational aftermath of many hours of strife in Havana. The president narrowly escaped death.

The president was driving on a street when the attack was made on his automobile. He was returning to the presidential palace after visiting hospitals where wounded had been taken after the battle at the National hotel and in fighting throughout the night.

His machine was not struck by the bullets, but his convoy car, which was immediately behind the presidential car, was struck several times. Soldiers and guards were endangered.

Bodies of anywhere up to 100 persons, soldiers, sailors, officers, revolutionary students and civilians, were on morgue slabs, victims of the National Hotel battle between rebel officers and their own enlisted men.

Government officials conferred with one another, not knowing themselves what today and succeeding days might bring. Opposition to the government was intensified by yesterday's fighting but respect for the government increased.

Arguments Heard In Suit To Stop Federal Oil Control

TYLER, Oct. 3.—Arguments were presented today before Federal Judge Randolph Bryant in the injunction proceedings in which the Panama Refining company and others attack federal regulation of the oil industry.

The plaintiff company alleges national control of the industry is unconstitutional, seeks to restrain federal agents from interfering with operation of oil property.

Heavy Vote Cast In Virginia On Repeal Question

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 3.—A heavy vote was being cast here today in Virginia's referendum on the 18th amendment and state prohibition, indicating a possible state wide poll of 100,000 to 200,000. Richmond appeared likely to vote repeal 3 to 1.

Dry forces conceded defeat. Virginia was the 32nd state to vote and if the wets win, it will be the 32nd to repudiate national prohibition. The approval of only four additional states then will be needed to put the repeal amendment into the constitution.

Eleven Girls Sue To Enter A. & M.

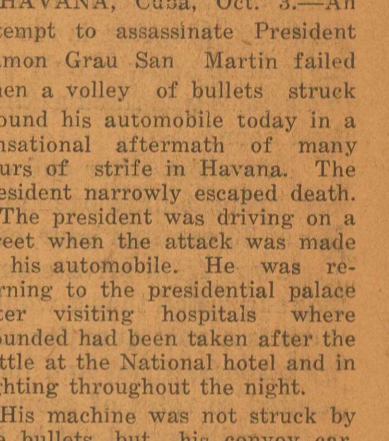

BRYAN, Texas, Oct. 3.—A legal technicality today caused District Judge W. C. Davis to continue until Oct. 21 the hearing of a suit brought by 11 young women for the right to enroll at Texas A. & M. college.

Judge Davis ruled that all directors of the college, who constitute the defense, must be summoned and must appear in court before the trial can proceed. None of the directors appeared today.

RATES OF RELIEF PAY

Protests have been telegraphed to Senator Clint Small hat the allowances for labor on a Panhandle highway construction program is too small, in that the head of a family will be allowed only $6 to $20 a month of employment. This basis was fixed as the same as direct relief food grants had been.

From the other end of the state, the Rio Grande Valley, protests have been made that relief work is being paid for at 30 cents an hour, or a rate so high that it lures workers away from private employment. Rep. Augustin Celaya has suggested that it would be better for the section, where here is a vast quantity of reconstruction work to be done by business firms and individuals, if the relief work were limited to rates of around $1 per day of pay. Then, the relief rolls would not be increased by those who preferred the high hourly rates of pay to what they can earn in private employment. Cotton picking is practically over in Southwest and South Texas, but the relief wages were a hindrance to employment of labor for that work.

These problems, of too low pay on public works, and too high pay on public works, are a few of the many complicated troubles that surround relief employment.

IN THE NAME OF DEFENSE

Whatever else you may say about naval armament races, you can't deny that they at least have a whimsical illogicality which, if it were not potentially so dangerous, would be nothing less than delightful.

A brief survey of the situation as it affects the United Britain will show what we mean.

The United States government takes some $238,000,000 to bring its fleet up to treaty strength. It does this, as everyone knows, because heretofore no effort has been made to attain treaty strength. The country has voluntarily maintained a smaller navy than it is entitled to.

Consequently, as any American naval expert will tell you, the American fleet has suffered by comparison with those of Great Britain and Japan. Shipyards in those countries have not been idle. Their naval strength has not been permitted to lag.

However, the United States no sooner begins to spend money on its navy than the authorities of England and Japan wake up and announce that times are getting parlous. English naval authorities announce that their cruiser strength will be hopelessly below par as soon as the American program is completed.

In sheer self-defense they have got to build more ships. The admiralty experts even cook up a new kind of warship, a 5000-ton "sloop" armed with six-inch guns, which won't come under treaty restrictions at all.

As with England, so with Japan. Obviously the island empire cannot allow the United States fleet to get too big a margin of superiority. In the most peaceable manner imaginable, they can do nothing else than put new keels on the ways. If they don't, their national security will be threatened.

So we find the three greatest naval powers on earth beginning a good old-fashioned armament race—from the purest motives of self-defense!

Each must spend millions upon millions of dollars on the race simply because it is afraid of its neighbors. Each one devoutly believes that one or both of its rivals are at fault. Each is afraid that one of the others may get an advantage and then start a war.

It weren't so expensive and so dangerous, it would be good for a fine laugh.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT the modern store is a store of service; it serves the whole community.

Stores that do not advertise do not serve.

The kind of advertising that gives real service to both buyer and seller is newspaper advertising.

Communities where the business men do not use newspaper advertising are the communities where the mail order house sells the goods.

It is never too late to make a start on the right road.

Those who have not been advertising had better begin at once.

Good advertising increases turnover.

It lessens selling expense.

It moves stocks at a time when they should be moved.

It moves shelf-warmers and keep stock up-to-date.

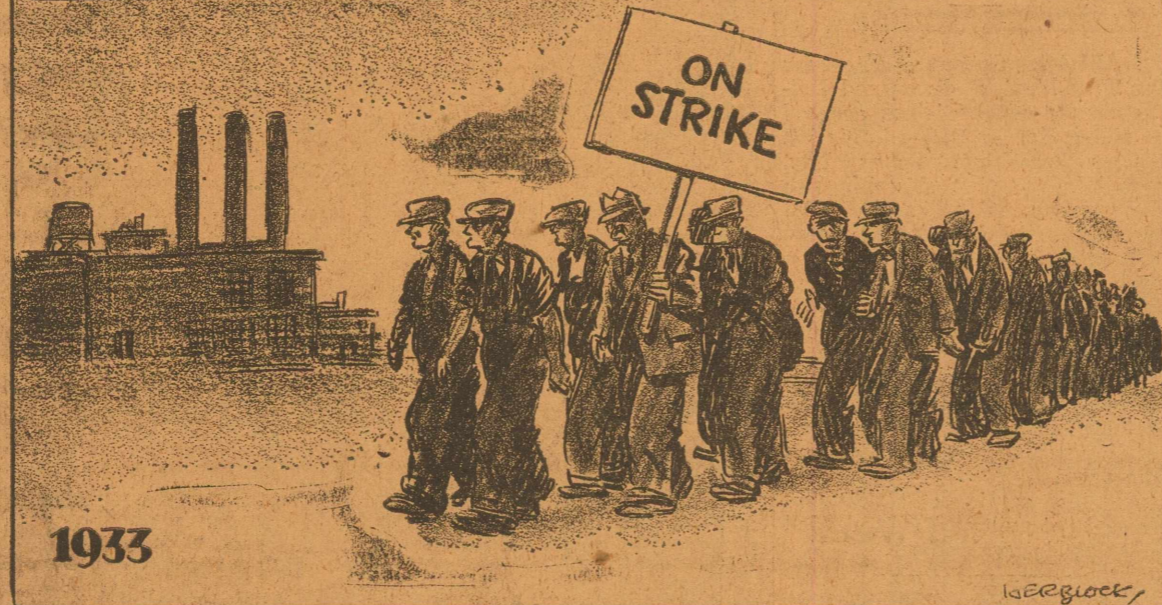

Live business concerns advertise; dead ones don't. Be a live one!

Everybody reads the newspaper ads; they like to buy from live concerns.

— about Cigarettes

Of all the ways in which tobacco is used the cigarette is the mildest form

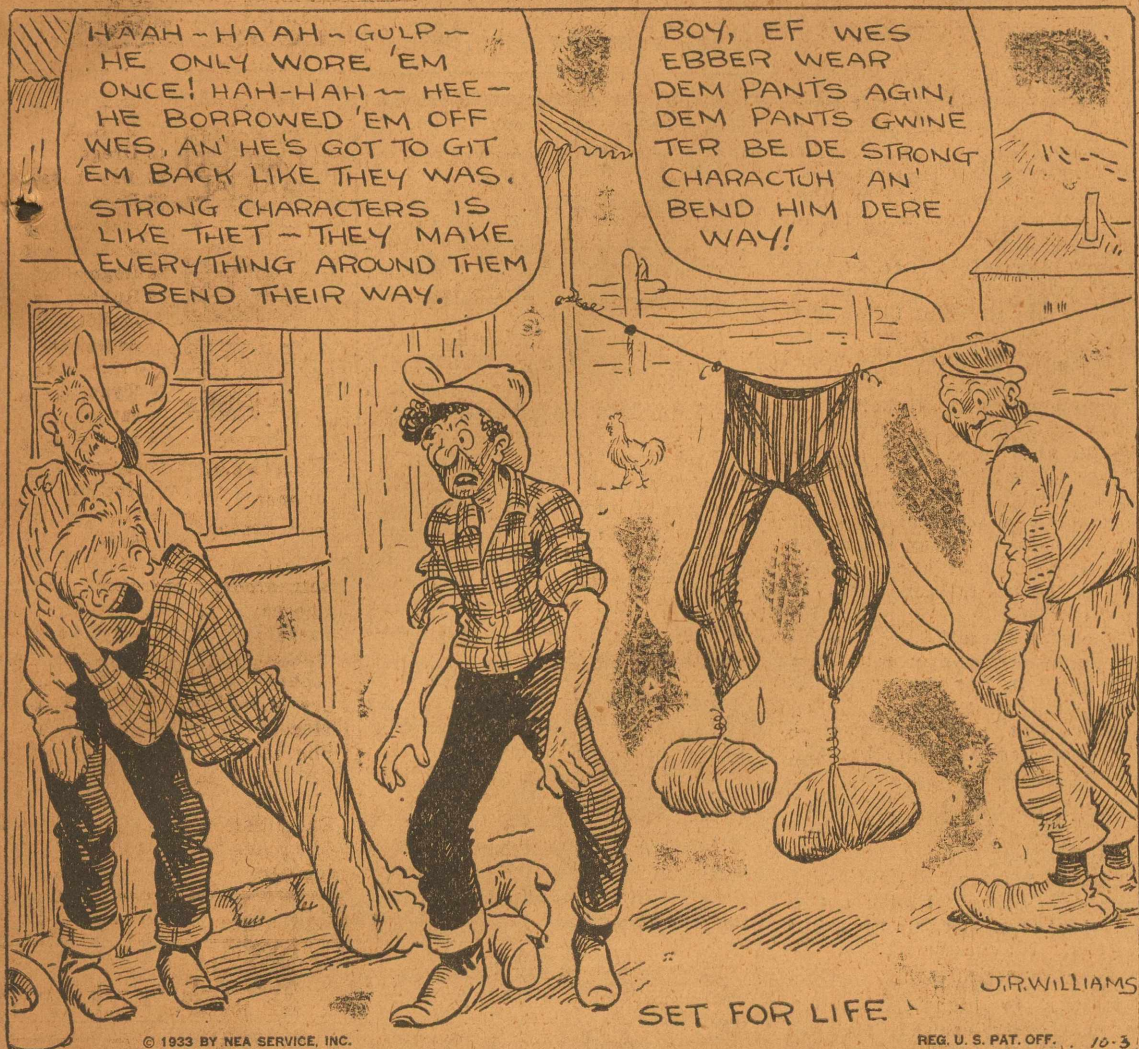

YOU know, ever since the Indians found out the pleasure of smoking tobacco, there have been many ways of enjoying it. But of all the ways in which tobacco is used, the cigarette is the mildest form. Another thing—cigarettes are about the most convenient smoke. All you have to do is strike a match. Everything that money can buy and everything that science knows about is used to make Chesterfields. The right home-grown tobaccos—seasoned with just enough aromatic Turkish—are blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way. Then the cigarettes are made right—firm, well-filled. Chesterfield uses the right kind of pure cigarette paper. There are other good cigarettes, of course, but Chesterfield is the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better. Chesterfields satisfy—we ask you to try them.

Advertising Gets Unusual Results For Ward Week

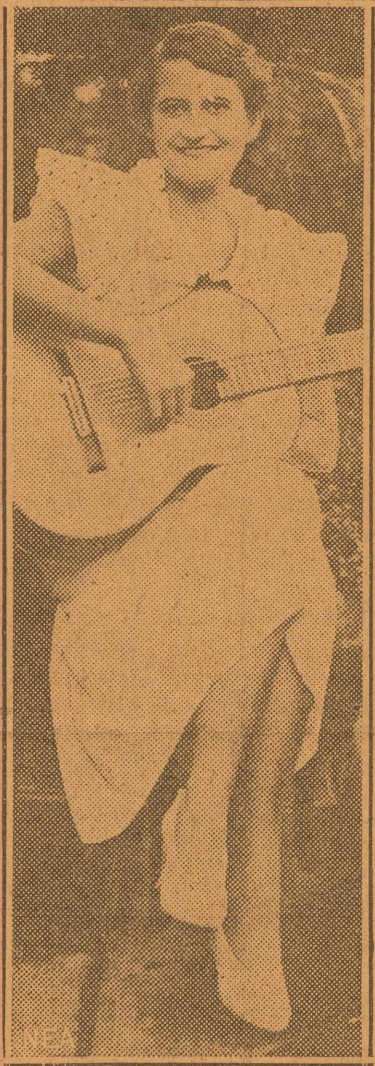

"It pays to advertise," is a well known business adage which gets better as it gets older. The faith of great retail organizations in newspaper advertising has plenty of evidence, but none more convincing, perhaps, than the promotion of Ward Week. Nationally, Montgomery Ward & Co. is devoting 85 per cent of its Ward Week publicity to the purchase of newspaper "space." The amount of expenditure for the single week is approximately $150,000.

As to Ranger, the use of liberal advertising in the Times has proved its value in the most convincing manner, it was stated today by Mr. Fesmire, manager of the Ranger store.

During last Ward Week, the two Saturdays in the event were the biggest trade days in the history of the local Ward store. A survey of the checks made out showed that shoppers came from distances as great as 125 miles from Ranger.

Ward Week is a semi-annual event of the Ward stores, and the Sale this Fall will attract a greater number of buyers than ever, according to Mr. Fesmire. For weeks, the local store has been preparing for the sale, and when the doors open Tuesday morning, the regular selling force will have been enlarged, all from this town. Mr. Fesmire pointed out that with Ward Week savings over Ward's usual low prices, the shoppers of Ranger will meet the Ward Week event with an enthusiastic response.

CHAIRS CHAINED By United Press OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray became tired of having importunate visitors "get right up in my face" to make their pleas for whatever the ywanted, so he had his clerk think up a way to stop the bother. The two chairs nearest Murray's in his private office now are chained to the wall and can be hitched over only a certain distance toward the chief executive. The closest approach is three feet.

THE POET'S... CORNER...

A BROKEN CONFIDENCE When you've loved someone deeply, When your trust has been complete, When you felt you could fairly worship At the shrine of their very feet.

And you feel that they are worthy Of your confidence and love That you could trust them implicitly And hold them all others above.

To have them utterly fail you, Break the faith you've held for years; Leave you wounded and broken-hearted, To be absorbed in grief and tears.

To me it's the saddest picture Nature's artist could ever paint; Pulls your heart-strings so tautly You become physically sick and faint.

Give me a sense of honor, Make me loyal to my friends; Let me know and feel forever They can trust me to the end.

Let me feel and share their sorrow, Let me rejoice in their delight; Let me be a ready servant For their needs in day or night.

Help me to be faithful, To those whose faith I hold; Always kind and thoughtfully gracious, Never founting, sarcastic or bold.

May I never break the confidence My friends may feel in me; And never cause the sorrow That a lost faith can be.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after. The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys. Doctors are generally agreed that senna is the best laxative for everybody. Senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore, ready for use. Member N. R. A.

Monday's Menu BREAKFAST. Grapes, cereal, cream, broiled pan fish, spider corn bread, milk, coffee. LUNCHEON. Savory celery and oysters, green beans, salad of Chinese cabbage and red and green sweet peppers, peach cottage pudding, milk, tea. DINNER. Roast shoulder of lamb, mint sauce, browned potatoes, creamed carrots and cauliflower, fresh fruit salad, cheese cups, milk, coffee.

Tomato and Macaroni Neapolitan makes a splendid luncheon dish that I'm sure you will like. Spaghetti may be used in place of macaroni if you prefer it. Do not break the sticks but put the ends in the boiling water and as they become soft they will curl up and the whole lengths can be put under water. Dot with bits of butter, sprinkle with more grated cheese and bake in a moderate oven until the tomatoes are soft but not broken and the top is a rich brown. Savory Celery and Oysters Two cups diced celery, 1 cup white sauce, 8 large oysters, 3 thin slices bacon. Cook celery until tender, letting water cook away as much as possible. Drain and combine with white sauce. Place in the center of a deep platter and surround with oysters rolled in bacon slices. To prepare oysters from liquor, sprinkle with white pepper and lemon juice. Wrap each oyster in a slice of bacon fastening the bacon with small skewers or wooden tooth picks. Put into a COLD iron frying pan and cook slowly until the bacon is crisp, turning often and pouring off the fat as it cooks out.

OR GOOD LIGHTING Boys and girls have enough unpleasantness during their school careers without deliberately adding to it with difficult study periods due to improper lighting. Eyes grow tired and weak, dispositions are ruined, little bodies fail to develop and there is trouble all the way 'round, unless particular notice is taken of school lighting facilities. It's so simple—so easy to have good light in proper proportions. All you have to do is add a globe here, change one there and keep all sockets filled. Inadequate lighting is nothing but false economy—there is no reason for it. Here are a few general rules to follow: Have light in adequate quantity and correctly diffused. All lights should be shaded so you are unable to see the light bulb. All lights used for reading or study should be so arranged that there is adequate illumination on the work without any semblance of glare in the eyes of the child.

JOAN, outside the tea room, was taking her excited self in hand. Well, that was that! She told herself it was ridiculous to feel so let down and disappointed.

It was just as she had thought. The train episode had been a train episode and nothing more.

He had forgotten all about her, even though she was wearing the same costume she had worn when he had talked so absurdly and looked as though he were ready to do something dramatic like picking her up and dashing off with her.

It was foolish to have expected anything else. He had wanted to flirt with her on the train and when she wouldn't flirt he had put her out of mind.

For a moment she wanted to speak to Duke Turner. He had glanced up as she passed. If she had, Duke probably would have wondered who she was.

It was Molly Davis speaking. She and Joan had been good friends the last year at Miss Barlington's, before Joan had got the chance to earn her tuition by coaching and assisting as practice teacher at Holbrook.

"Hello, there, Joan Waring. When did you come home?" "Oh, Molly I'd love to!"

Joan thanked her warmly and walked away, lifted out of the sober mood of a few minutes before. The chance encounter had been fortunate.

"It's nice to see you, Molly. I was beginning to think I didn't know a soul in Memphis."

"Town's getting grown. And full of strangers. Have you seen our new skyscraper? The Sternes Building?"

"Yes, I think it's wonderful." "Our office is on the top floor."

"I didn't know you were working, Molly."

"Don't tell me you hadn't noticed the arrival of a 10-pound boy this morning at 6 o'clock. Mother and son are reported doing nicely."

A slender girl in white, her eyes brushed by an ineffable charm and wistfulness, her dark hair like wings against her cheeks, stepped out on the platform. Bob stared at her, amazed, incredulous.

Then Joan lifted her strong young voice, the clear, sweet notes soaring upward, filling the room. There was a burst of applause as she concluded the number.

"That's my girl, Duke," Bob said. "Your girl?" "Joan, Joan!"

Duke stared. Then he laughed. "What do you know about that Joan, of course. Funny I couldn't remember her first name. She's the girl I was talking about at the tea shop."

"She was there?" "You would have seen her when she left, but you were buried in a blueprint."

"It doesn't matter now since I've found her. You said her last name is 'Warren'?"

"Yes," said Duke. "Waring," he pronounced it "Waring." "Nice kid, too."

"Joan Warren," Bob said, laughing softly. "That's not a wonderful enough name for a girl like that. I'll change it!"

HE was in high spirits, tremendously excited. He had found her again and she was not only beautiful and sweet but talented as well.

Again the audience applauded enthusiastically but Joan left the stage. Bob hurried to the door, scanning the fashionably dressed women and girls as they thronged through. The mezzanine floor was suddenly swarming.

Duke came nearer. "Well, Mr. Doorkeeper, what luck?" "She's still inside. Hasn't come through."

"There's another door." Bob turned, startled. It was then he saw Joan. She was standing in a small group and the blond girl he had seen at the train was with her.

Duke followed his eyes. "Well, you won't need me around, I guess. See you soon, Bob!" "Thanks, Duke. I enjoyed the show."

The mezzanine still milled with people, groups gathering, the girls who had appeared on the program being stopped by admiring friends.

"Barbara! Wait one moment, will you? I'll be back!" He dashed for the elevator and reached it just as the door slammed and the lift dropped downward.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

I met the fellow when he was just a long-legged creature enduring the agonies of a freshman year in college.

Three years ago I saw him again . . . sitting on an ice box in front of a sandwich joint . . . kicking his heels aimlessly at the box.

Two years ago I picked him up on the highway and gave him a few-miles lift . . . a grinning, tousled-haired hitch-hiker.

Last year we met by chance at a carnival in Abilene . . . standing in front of a two-headed woman or snake-baby or something. I don't remember. I only recall that he was terribly dirty . . . quickly I gathered he must have a day or two of work with the tents and clowns and things.

And yesterday he happened to be in Ranger . . . in a professional suit, plus dignified glasses, plus combed hair, and a smile full of self-confidence.

At first I didn't remember him, having never known him well . . . the change was impossible to grasp for a moment.

As tactfully as my dazed senses would allow, I gathered:

Some company took a chance on him. They snatched him from ice boxes and highways and chance carnivals . . . they put a pressed, double-breasted suit on him . . . and buttoned the vest.

They drew out the nicer things about him and forgot the amateur. He learned to comb his hair and found a surprising wave thereabout.

Someone introduced him to a shine parlor and he became familiar with the scent of polish.

He learned to control the grin and coax a smile.

A company did it all for him . . . within a year.

He didn't call out a gleeful "hi, there . . ." to me (that was three years ago).

He didn't jerk an exploding thumb highwayward. (That was two years ago.)

He didn't bat his eyes in a maze of dust and candy papers and chewing gum wrappers, and mutter a careless "Hullo . . . wheredja

He faced the danger of Death . . . with Love in his heart
