JAN SMITH

Sudan Lady Sneaks In With Grid Contest Win

Jan Smith of Sudan, won the top prize of $20 and bragging rights in week four of the Bovina Blade Football Contest. Jan correctly picked thirteen of the fourteen contest games, missing only the California vs. Oklahoma game.

Nine other contestants followed close behind with twelve correct guesses. The Dallas vs. New York Giants tie-breaker score of 31-7 was the deciding factor for those to receive the remaining cash prizes.

J.T. Roach was the closest with his guess of 27-20. The Bovina High School senior also known as "Mustang Man" earned second place and $10. Three contest players landed in third place, still tying, with their tie-breaker guesses that were 21 points off the Dallas game. Blake Clements, also a BHS senior, and the husband and wife team of Doyle and Gilda Garner each collected $5 for their efforts.

Other contestants with twelve games correct this week were Josh Kerby, Blake Sudderth, Oakley Stevenson, Jim Tubbs and Tyler Walling.

The most missed games this week included Whiteface vs. Morton, California vs. Oklahoma, Tennessee vs. Florida, Miami vs. Pittsburgh and Arizona vs. Philadelphia.

Thirteen contestants correctly guessed eleven games. They were Jo Blackwell, Teresa Cary, Cameron

Charles, Peggy Hargrove, Matt Hromas, Frances Johnson, Al Kerby Jr., Susan Kerby, Stacy Roach, Virginia Steele, Dorothy Stowers, Del Ray Sudderth and A.M. Wilson.

For the third week in a row, Scott Sudderth leads the contest with 33 total points. Frances Johnson has 32 points and Josh Kerby, J.T. Roach, Dorothy Stowers, Jan Smith and Jim Tubbs have 31 points.

A complete listing of contestants' weekly points and total game points, is located at the Bovina Blade office. A listing of the contest standings can be found elsewhere in this issue.

Good luck next week to all our contestants!

TWO WINNERS IN the Bovina Football Contest were these BHS students, senior J. T. Roach, who took second place, and junior Blake Clements, who shared third place money. Keep studying too, guys.

HURRICANE SEASON is in full force, with Texas already hit by one bad storm and another, Hurricane George still a possibility for the Gulf Coast at the time of this writing.

Earlier this season, Ye Editor was watching TV coverage of Hurricaines Bonnie and Charlie, when the subject was raised as to what had been the worst hurricane in the nation's history.

My first thought was the hurricane that hit Galveston in 1900, but the "telecasters" didn't even mention that one. They cited some recent storms, including Hurricane Carla which hit Texas--apparently measuring the loss in terms of property (dollar value), rather than deaths.

As you may know, this writer has always had a keen interest in the weather, having been raised a farm boy, and having always realized the role weather plays in our local economy. I conducted a little research, and thought this would be a little diversion from the president and his problems.

Ninety-eight years ago this month, September 8-9, 1900, a vicious storm struck Galveston Island with very little warning. A day or so earlier, the Galveston News reported that a tropical hurricane had done considerable damage to Jamaica and Cuba, and had just struck the Florida coast.

Telegraph lines were blown down at this point, and no further reports were received in Galveston's weather station, which might have sounded an alert about the storm's path. The station's climatologist noticed that the tide was much higher than usual, and hoisted hurricane-warning flags.

Many residents, having endured storms in the past, went about their usual business.

The entire island was covered by 16 feet of water. The previous record from the 1875 storm was 8 feet. The storm made match sticks out of frame buildings. Even brick buildings collapsed, often catching and holding victims under water.

When the storm ended, the survivors emerged from shelters to a horrific sight. Bodies were everywhere. Many victims were buried in the huge piles of rubble that covered the city. Structures in two-thirds of the city were totally destroyed. The rest were badly damaged.

Without modern techniques, it was impossible to identify all of the bodies, or to even get an accurate count as to the deaths.

Historians have estimated that the number of dead in the city of Galveston alone was at least 6,000. Another 4,000 to 6,000 people are thought to have died elsewhere on the island and on the nearby mainland. That would make the overall toll as high as 12,000 lives.

In Galveston's semi-tropical climate, the most urgent task was disposing of the bodies. Due to the stench of decaying bodies, workers wore handkerchiefs, saturated with camphor over their noses. Unable to get enough volunteers, city officials rounded up men at gunpoint or bayonet point.

At first, the remains were transported on barges into the Gulf, weighted with heavy rocks and dumped overboard. When some of the bodies floated ashore later, funeral pyres were used to cremate the victims.

About 70 victims a day were found during the first month following the storm. The funeral fires burned into November. A final list of 4,263 dead was published in the Galveston News, but many bodies were never identified.

Besides the toll of human lives, property damage caused by the storm was estimated at from $30 to $40 million--and this estimate is in "1900 dollars." Over 3600 homes, many very elegant for that time, were destroyed.

While this particular storm was overlooked by the TV "experts," who don't usually do much research before taking to the air waves, I wanted our readers to know these facts as I easily found them.

Hurricane Carla of 1961 is termed the "largest hurricane of record," and did over $300 million damage. The death toll was just 34, small compared to Galveston, although the evacuation of an estimated 250,000 people kept the death toll low.

Galveston's entire history has been dotted with destructive hurricanes, which have been documented as far back as the year 1766, when a storm destroyed a Spanish mission in the town.

Another hurricane in the year 1818 destroyed most of the town's buildings and the ships which were docked. Famed pirate Jean Lafitte landed his ship at Galveston and offered his ship to be used as a hospital for treating the storm victims.

Mustangs Outrush Hart But Lose 35-12 On Turnovers

BY RON CARR

It was some kind of night for the Bovina Mustangs.

They took an 0-2 record over to battle the 2-0 Hart Longhorns.

Before the night was over, they had more first downs and yards of offense than Hart. Nose guard Jesse Fuentes made a trip to an Amarillo hospital. And Hart quarterback Jared Aven earned 1A Player of the Week honors from the Amarillo Daily News, as the Hart Longhorns beat the Mustangs 35-12.

According to head coach Bruce Scroggins, "We played good enough to win but turnovers killed us." Stats show that Bovina lost 5 out of 8 fumbles and had 3 passes intercepted, one of which was picked off at the goal line.

With the Longhorns ahead 21-6 at halftime, the Mustangs pulled within 21-12 in the third quarter when Bovina's Lucas Ramos scooped up a fumble and rambled 21 yards for a touchdown.

Quarterback Derrick Vanegas scored on a one-yard run in the second quarter. Both attempts at two-point conversions failed.

Fuentes' injury during the game caused trainers and EMS personnel to stabilize his neck and transport him to a Hart clinic and later to an Amarillo hospital.

However on Tuesday this week, Coach Scroggins said that Fuentes was "alive and well and back on the squad during workouts. He is fine now."

The Mustangs managed 334 total yards gained, compared to 299 for Hart.

Junior Josh Quintana had 12 carries for 48 yards and caught a pass for 7 yards.

Team offensive leader Lucas Ramos gained 147 yards on 7 carries and had a 30 yard pass reception and the 21 yard fumble return for a touchdown.

Eric Shufelberger carried 7 times for 37 yards, Billy Chisum was 9 for 40, and Derrick Vanegas was 5 for 28.

Freddie Quiroga also caught 2 passes for 14 yards.

Coach Scroggins said that the team is improving each week. They take an 0-3 record against 0-3 Smyer tonight in Parents Night at Mustang Field.

Smyer has a new coach as does Bovina. One of them will get their first win tonight. We think it will be Coach Scroggins and the Bovina Mustangs. Go Mad Maroon!

Four former leading citizens of Bovina have confessed to nabbing a jailhouse in Friona and sitting it in front of the Bovina bank Friday with a bale of cotton sitting on top. Friday about 10 a.m., the prank was reaching the serious stage, when Friona policeman Ben Moorman insisted that the jail be returned or charges would be filed. So, the four, Cecil Osborne, Lee Kimbrough, Grady Sorley and Jack Jeter, returned the jail to Friona.

Ex-Friona Teacher Is Sentenced To Prison

By JIM McBRIDE
Globe-News Courts Writer
A former Friona school teacher was sentenced to federal prison Wednesday for embezzling $326,000 from a now-defunct credit union.

Cynthia Smith, who once was treasurer of the Parmer County Teacher's Credit Union, was sentenced to 32 months in federal prison and five years of supervised release.

Smith also was ordered by U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson to pay $326,227 in restitution.

According to a bank-fraud charge filed in federal court, Smith devised a scheme to defraud the credit union during several years, starting in 1985.

According to court records, Smith maintained two sets of books to hide the theft of credit union funds.

Thomas Word, a certified public accountant, testified that a bonding company had covered credit losses resulting from the money Smith embezzled.

The bonding company also covered dividends and interest on credit union accounts, but the company did not reimburse loss of earnings, officials said.

The credit union later merged with the Friona, Texas Federal Credit Union, testimony showed, and technically was insolvent for a brief time.

Credit union officials kept the matter a secret to prevent investors from withdrawing large amounts of money after the theft was discovered, court testimony revealed.

During sentencing hearings, character witnesses testified that Smith was a positive influence to students she taught during her more than 20-year teaching career and that she prompted one former student to become a teacher herself.

Character witnesses included Danny Kendrick and Randy Dickson. Kendrick is a former employer of Smith's, and Dickson is a former co-worker. Both gave very positive testimony on Smith's behalf.

Defense attorney Dan Hurley told Robinson that Smith had offered the bonding company a 573-acre tract of land and agreed to hand over government subsidy payments for several years to pay for the losses, but the company did not accept the offer.

The company, he said, has said it will consider cash payment from the sale of the land, estimated to be worth $80,000 to $90,000.

If the company agrees to accept cash from the land sale, Smith might not be required to pay full restitution if the company requires no further payment, according to court testimony.

Hurley told the court that the embezzled funds had been spent on a lifestyle that exceeded her family's means.

"There's nothing left of that money," he said.

Monica Lewinsky stopped by. Do you want me to call her?

Starr Report Pg. 78

I looked up the word slut in my Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary. Since so many otherwise pious folks, especially women, had been calling little Monica Lewinsky a slut, I needed to find out what it meant. You might be surprised.

Lots of words have multiple meanings. My Ninth says that slut means a slovenly woman (slattern); a lewd woman (prostitute); or a saucy girl (mynx). You can also use sluttish as an adjective, sluttishly as an adverb, or sluttishness as a noun.

Slattern comes from German and means to hang loosely, or an untidy, slovenly woman.

Mynx (or minx) is defined as a pert or saucy girl. So I suppose one could find some sort of description of Monica Lewinsky attached to the word slut.

Personally I think that term is too harsh for Monica. I feel she has been judged too

Ex-School Nurse Carroll Passes Away

Marie Carroll, 95, passed away Tuesday, September 22, 1998 at the Hereford Care Center.

Funeral services were under the direction of Parkside Chapel in Hereford and were held Friday morning, September 25, at the West Park Cemetery in Hereford with Rev. Paul Lands of the First Christian Church of Canyon officiating.

Ms. Carroll was born October 7, 1902 at Champaign, Illinois, the daughter of J.W. and Irene Davidson. She graduated nursing school in 1928 from Burnham City Hospital in Champaign, Illinois.

Marie moved to Hereford after graduating nursing school and married Tom Carroll in 1929. He preceded her in death in 1980.

She was one of the first registered nurses to work at the Old Deaf Smith County Hospital in Hereford and worked there for over 30 years.

She was also the school nurse in Friona from 1956 until she retired in 1967.

Ms. Carroll loved to knit and crochet and at 93 years old, entered an afghan in the "Art Is Ageless" craft show in Austin. She won the show and her afghan was displayed in the State Capitol for over a year.

Survivors are a sister-in-law, Mary Ann Carroll of Hereford, and two nephews of Illinois.

The family requests Memorials to the Hereford Regional Medical Center Endowment Fund.

Nurse Aide Class Is Set At So. Plains

An 80-hour Certified Nurse Aide course begins October 19 at South Plains College, Levelland.

"This 80-hour course teaches students the necessary skills to work in long-term care, home health and hospital environments," said Jim Walker, dean of continuing and distance education.

Classes will meet from 5:30-9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday through December 11 in the Technical Arts Building, room 112. Clinical instruction is scheduled 8 a.m.-5 p.m. for three Saturdays at a location to be arranged.

Tuition is $250 and state exam fee is $64.75. Instructors are Phillip Bray, L.V.N., and Karen Daniel, L.V.N.

On completion of 56 hours of classroom and 24 hours of clinical instruction, students will be required to take the State of Texas Certified Nurse Aide Competency Exam. Students must provide proof of immunization for MMR, tetanus and have a current TB test.

Enrollment is limited to 16 students. To pre-register or obtain information, call the SPC Office of Continuing and Distance Education at 806-894-9611, ext. 2341.

harshly in this "indiscretion" as the Democrats call it.

No doubt she was determined. She found herself at the White House which to any 22-year-old pert and saucy girl would be an awesome experience.

You have to admit that she is cute. Bouncy black hair, big round eyes, bouncy, uh, well, you know. It is not illegal to be a flirt.

It should, however, be illegal to flirt with Billy Jeff Clinton. It could be dangerous. He has about as much resistance to flirting as a drunk has to a cheap bottle of Mad Dog wine.

If threatening a president's life is a federal crime, flirting with Billy Jeff should be considered a terrorist act.

Snapping your thong at him should be in the same category as sighting him through a sniper's scope.

Monica was impressed with herself, no doubt, when she managed to make eye contact with the president. He noticed me. Wow! She flirted, he fell for it. The power she felt, enticing the most powerful man in the free world, had to be the most exhilarating feeling this youngster had ever imagined.

The rest of the saga is played out in The Starr Report book. I have a copy and have not read the entire story yet. I might buy the video just for that one historic quote Billy Jeff made: "It depends on what your definition of the word 'is' is."

You do not have to read the entire report to get a feel for how Billy Jeff treated this young lady, especially when he found out she had told some people about her conquest.

Just read pages 78 through 93. It is not even 20 pages. Yes, some of it is salacious (another favorite Democrat word of the moment).

This is the part where he had his secretary Betty Currie hang out across the hall for 20 minutes while he, well, you know, this was the time when he finally went all the way and made the blue dress famous.

It is between pages 78 and 93 that he tells Monica that a foreign embassy was tapping his phone so they need cover stories. (Nice story Billy J.)

It is between these pages

he tries to assure himself that Monica has not told anybody about their hallway aerobics. She said she hadn't said a word to anybody, which was a lie.

He is so dumb at times. How can a 22-year-old girl that infiltrates the White House and scores with the President of the U.S.A. keep it a secret? No way. She told her mother, among others. That is why they brought her mother before the grand jury.

He finds out she has told and starts his attack to cut off the affair, influence the people that knew about it, and send Monica packing to New York or some other foreign country.

So here was the president, chief law enforcement officer of the U.S., in a pickle where a 22-year-old girl could blackmail him, spill the beans to the world, raise hell with Hill Rod, or any number of other embarrassing options.

And here is the important part: Ken Starr did not put him in this pickle, it was his own pickle that got him in the pickle, if you know what I mean.

He began this affair in 1995 when he was already under investigation by the independent counsel. How smart is that?

I have no doubt that he told Monica he loved her, might marry her some day, and made other promises that Monica won't reveal until she writes her book.

She ain't through with Billy Jeff yet, buddy. She ain't goin' away. In fact I think she has only just begun.

You read only pages 78 through about 93 in the Starr Report. You tell me then that Billy Jeff Clinton is fit to be president of the U.S.

And here is another fact: The Republicans have Billy Jeff where they want him and they are not about to let him off. Take that to the bank. They would love for him to testify before the Senate so they could tear apart his lies.

But personally I feel sorry for Monica Lewinsky. She is cute. She was not the mean little aggressor, she was a flirt. The world likes a flirt. She is pert and saucy.

The only thing I think she is guilty of is endangering a child.

Spelling Bee Names Wiseman Chairman

The Amarillo Globe-News and West Texas A&M University will once again sponsor the National Spelling Bee for students in the area, grades eight and below.

Directors are being named in the various counties. The director for Parmer County is Kevin Wiseman, principal, of Friona Junior High, Friona.

The contest is open to students in public, private and parochial schools. A contestant cannot be higher than the eighth grade or older than 16 by the date of the national finals, May 30, 1999.

The deadline for naming county champions to Jeane Bartlett, spelling bee editor, Amarillo Globe-News, will be March 27.

The two levels of competition in the AGN-WTAMU bee, are junior (for students in grades six and below), and senior (for grades eight and below). Any director has the option of combining the two levels if he/she so chooses.

However, each county can have only one representative in the senior bee, to be held on April 10 on the WTAMU campus. Each county is free to select a junior winner in addition to the senior champion, but the elementary student will not compete in regional unless he/she should win the county event.

The county champions will be guests at a luncheon preceding the regional bee.

The top prize for the 1999 district winner will be an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. on May 30 to represent the area in the 1999 national bee. The trip, provided by the newspaper, includes expenses for one parent.

The study booklet "Paideia" has been redesigned and words are now listed in 29 categories at three difficulty levels--beginning, intermediate and advanced. The booklet, priced at $1 each, is available from the personnel department of the Amarillo Globe-News.

Amy Porus, instructor, division of education, WTAMU, serves as bee coordinator for the Amarillo Globe-News.

Irrigation Efficiency Is Evaluated By High Plains Water District #1

(From the Cross Section, a monthly newsletter of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District #1)

The 1998 drought has emphasized the fact that irrigation application efficiency is necessary for profitable irrigated farm management in today's agricultural economy.

Irrigation application efficiency is defined as the amount of water stored in the soil available for crop use following an irrigation application, compared to the amount of water pumped, expressed as a percentage.

Water losses occur during irrigation applications as a result of evaporation from the surface of water flowing down an open ditch or set of furrows; from water sprayed into the air above the soil surface by a sprinkler system; from plants that are wet during the irrigation application; from the wet soil surface area following irrigation; from irrigation tailwater; and from deep percolation when more water is applied than the soil plant root zone can hold.

The efficiency of all types of irrigation application systems used in the 15-county High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 service area have been evaluated under all weather conditions by Water District and USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service (USDA-NRCS) personnel.

Climatic conditions at the time a system is being evaluated affects the results of the evaluation by several percentage points when compared to an evaluation on the same system under different climatic conditions. Temperature, wind velocity and humidity are major factors in water loss. Other contributing factors are nozzle pressure, nozzle type, and wear as it affects water drop size and distribution patterns.

Maximum irrigation application efficiencies can be achieved by utilizing a buried drip line irrigation system where no water migrates up to wet the soil surface. This system is usually considered to be 98 to 100 per cent efficient.

The second most efficient irrigation system available is the Low Energy Precision Application (LEPA) center pivot system. This type of system delivers water through drag hoses or drag socks that wet a narrow band of soil in the furrow in every other row of the crop. Furrow dikes hold water applied at a rate greater than the soil infiltration rate until it soaks into the soil. This type of system is 95 to 98 per cent efficient.

The following efficiency values are approximates based on the average results of hundreds of on-farm evaluations performed by Water District and USDA-NRCS personnel.

systems, which have been modified by removing the drag hoses and/or drag socks in order to spray water near the land surface in an effort to wet the total soil surface area for germination of seeds of crops planted in dry soil or to provide a moist soil for planting seeds, have an application efficiency of about 90 per cent.

Partial drop center pivot systems, which deliver the water with spray nozzles approximately four feet above the soil surface, have water losses of about 20 per cent. The water losses increase when the crop is two to three feet tall and the crop canopy is wet during irrigation. When the crop grows above the height of the discharge nozzles and shades the ground, the water losses decrease a few percentage points.

Center pivot systems with drops five to six feet above the land surface generally have water losses of about 30 to 35 per cent, depending on crop size, water drop size and climatic conditions.

Side roll sprinkler systems are about 50 per cent efficient, as are hand-moved systems.

Water losses of 50 per cent or more have been measured where old mortar joint cement pipe is used to transport water from the well to the field. Most of this water loss is caused by leaks at the joints, allowing water to seep below the pipeline.

Although much of the water will eventually return to the aquifer, the fuel, labor and replacement cost for equipment to pump the recirculated water, plus the loss of yield potential, is likely to equal the cost to replace the pipe in a short time.

Furrow irrigation where gated pipe is used in conjunction with high quality underground pipe or surface pipe and with no irrigation tailwater loss is about 60 per cent efficient.

Furrow irrigation using a surge valve with gated pipe in conjunction with high quality underground or surface pipe and no irrigation tailwater loss is about 80 per cent efficient.

In the High Plains Water District, groundwater is pumped from the Ogallala Aquifer to make up the difference between the crop water demand and precipitation captured and stored in the soil prior to and during the crop growing season.

In 1998, the amount of precipitation received so far is four to eight inches below average. Therefore, most producers have attempted to make up the precipitation shortfall through irrigation. This has been almost impossible without efficient irrigation systems. Also, most irrigation systems do not have the capacity to produce this much extra water.

We are thankful that 70 per cent or more of the irrigated farms in the Water District have irrigation systems with application efficiencies of at least 80 per cent. We salute producers who have prepared for this drought by upgrading their irrigation systems. Without this massive effort and expenditure, irrigated crop yields would have been much less.

Research results from the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Centers at Amarillo and Lubbock indicate average crop production per acre-inch of timely

LEPA center pivot sprinkler systems equipped with droplines and drag socks (as shown above) can achieve irrigation application efficiencies ranging from 95-98 per cent. AutoCard drawing by Keith Whitworth irrigation water on a three-to-five year running average is 700 pounds of corn; 500 pounds of grain sorghum; 100 pounds of cotton lint; or five bushels of wheat.

At a minimum, the loss of one acre-inch of water causes a decrease in potential yield by 50 pounds of cotton lint per acre; 250 pounds of grain sorghum per acre; five bushels of wheat per acre; or 350 pounds of corn per acre.

Also, it is important to remember that three to four dollars of energy costs are paid for each acre-inch of water pumped and lost to evaporation. Pumping water when no benefit is received by the crop costs the producer money and wastes the landowner's ground water resources.

Water use efficiency yields big dividends during drought years. We invite you to contact our office to learn more about the latest advances in irrigation technology that can help you improve your irrigation application efficiency and make the most of your water resources.

PHILISTINE WARRIORS! WE MUST TELL DAVID OF THIS AT ONCE!

O, DAVID, THE PHILISTINES HAVE MADE THEIR CAMP IN THE FIELD AND THEY ARE STRONG IN NUMBER!

THEY ARE AS MANY AS THE BLADES OF GRASS IN A HUGE FIELD!

HOW THEN SHALL WE BE ABLE TO PREVAIL AGAINST THEM!

DO WE NOT FIGHT THE LORD'S BATTLE—AND WILL HE NOT SUSTAIN US?!

BUT COME LET US LOOK OVER THE LAND THAT LIES BETWEEN US AND THE PHILISTINES!

HERE NOW IS A GOOD AND GENTLE SLOPE, WHERE THE PHILISTINES CAN CHARGE AGAINST US WITH CONSUMING SPEED!

The wastewater treatment facilities and disposal site are located 4,000 feet east of the City limits of Friona in a northeasterly direction on U.S. Highway 60 and on the south side of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe (A.T.&S.F.) Railroad in Farmer County, Texas. The disposal site is located in the drainage area of Upper Prairie Dog Town Fork Red River in Segment No. 0229 of the Red River Basin.

The Executive Director of the TNRCC has prepared a draft permit which, if approved, would establish the parameters and limitations within which the facility must operate.

The Executive Director will issue the permit unless a written hearing request is filed within 30 days after newspaper publication of this notice. To request a hearing, you must submit the following: (1) your name (or for a group or association, an official representative), mailing address, daytime phone number, and fax number, if any; (2) the name of the applicant and the permit number; (3) the statement "I/we request a public hearing;" (4) a brief description of how you would be adversely affected by the granting of the application in a way not common to the general public; (5) the location of your property relative to the applicant's operations; and (6) your proposed adjustments to the application/permit which would satisfy your concerns and cause you to withdraw your request for hearing.

If a hearing request is filed, the Executive Director will not issue the permit and will forward the application and hearing request to the TNRCC Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting. If a hearing is held, it will be a legal proceeding similar to civil trials in state district court.

Requests for hearing on this application must be submitted in writing during the 30-day notice period to the Chief Clerk's Office-Mail Code 105, TNRCC, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087. Written public comments may also be submitted to the Chief Clerk's Office during the notice period. For information concerning technical aspects of the permit, contact Firoj Vahora at (512) 239-4540. Wastewater Permits Section, Mail Code 148, the same address. For information concerning hearing procedures or citizen participation, contact Blas Coy, Public Interest Counsel, Mail Code 103, the same address. Individual members of the public who wish to inquire about the information contained in this notice, or to inquire about other agency permit applications or permitting processes, should call the TNRCC Office of Public Assistance, Toll Free, at 1-800-687-4040.
