SUNDAY SERVICES AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

Judge Wylie Tisdale will speak at the Baptist Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Now you must hear him. The pastor will preach at night and how anxious we are to have every member of the church present and every one else, who can posibly come.

We will have baptism at the close of the services and if there are any who have not been baptised and wish to join our church, then and go the way with the Savior.

We are having a good meeting at Bell Plaine, and will be delighted to have any of the good Baird people to attend. Jesus said: "Why Call Ye Me Lord and do not the things I Say." Let us apply the will of him who died for us.

Indifferent toward local problems and affairs is akin to the idleness being displayed by the reclining character in this cartoon. He expects to receive his share of the wood when it is all sawed up. but he fails to lend a hand to the task, just as the indifferent citizen wants good government and proper administration without any activity on his part. Often he dosen't even take the trouble to vote.

Very often if it were not for a few live-wires in average Americane cities these towns would go backward instead of forward, but what they are able to do is as nothing compared to what united co-operation could do. The busiest and most pros-perous town is the one with the highest percentage of booster residents, or residents who will readily agree there is no better town on earth.

Keeping BAIRD on the road to success is a job which requires the co-operation of every one. Those who sit back and leave it all to some one else should not complain if things do not suit them. Let everybody get busy and take a hand at the saw. and Mrs. Henry Lambert.

Where a person becomes 21 years of age after the primaries of this year he can not vote in the primary election which precedes his twenty-first birthday. If he becomes 21 years of age between the primary and the general election he is entitled to cast his in the general election without having paid a poll tax even though he was not elgible to vote in the primary election.

As to City Poll Tax Mr. Sutton also is making it clear in every instance that it is unnecessary to have paid a city poll tax as a prerequisite to voting in this year's election, primary and general election included. This does not prevent cities from assessing poll tax, but their payment is not necessary to ation for the eight Moon lots, $4,500. vote.

The statute authorizing a poll tax was enacted when men alone voted and was not amended when women were enfranchised. This presented a discrimination and the Attorney General holds that failure to pay a city poll tax can not be enforced to prevent a person from voting.

DOREEN looked wistfully at the lovely face reflected in her mirror and wished with all her faithful heart that she might be going to meet the sweetheart she had lost in the war. Instead she was going to Memory park to meet his spirit and join in the little kind of loving service that was held often in the small park that was a memorial to the men of the town who had found their great cross on the battlefield.

"Mother," she said as she drew on her gloves, "I can't understand why my trees won't grow. This makes the sixth I have planted in memory of Bob; and now it is dying. There's not another tree in the park that has been so unlucky."

"It certainly is strange, dear-I don't understand, either. You have put in firs, silver birch, and that lovely tulip tree—it isn't as if you hadn't tried all kinds. Perhaps—" but Mrs. Lorne refrained from expressing what was in her mind. She kissed her daughter with added warmth. "I do wish, dearle, you could love again-it will be so lonely for you."

But Doreen shook her head. "There never could be another man in my life, mother mine. I loved Bob with all my soul and body."

Doreen went along to Memory park, which was perhaps as lovely a memorial to heroes as any the world could show.

The mayor of the town and his wife had given the two acres in memory of their boy, others a fine hedge There was nothing in the beautiful park that did not bear a small tablet and yet so inconspicuously done as to call for close inspection.

Doreen alone seemed to have failed Each year at planting time she had put in a tree and each one had died. either slowly or at once.

"I will have to put in a carved stone bench," she told herself as she saw that her latest tree had browned and withered. She turned from the dying tree with tears in her eyes to meet Captain Dingle who had come to talk with the group of townspeople gathered there. Every six months they held a little circle in the park in the artistic rustic pavilion which was dedlcated to twin brothers who had fallen. And each time an ex-service man came to talk to them about the aftermath of war and the many interesting occupations and lives carrying on so bravely.

"Captain Dingle," said Doreen soft "I suppose many of our boys are far better off having passed on than some of those who are trying to earn a living under stress of weakened nerves and maimed bodies."

"Very much better," he told her, and his eyes shadowed. "It took a deal of courage to face the guns, but it has taken a great deal more to face the world as it is and strive for a living. In England," he continued, "I met men who should be wearing the Victoria Cross and all other decorations for sheer pluck in fighting tragic odds. There is one American chap-I shall never forget him, who has been blinded. He was reported killed-and has let it go at that.

"That boy," said Captain Dingle was reported killed and all I could say to him, every persuasion known to mankind has failed to unseal his lips. In the set of his lips and the curious light that at un sweeps over his face-I know-well Miss Lorne-I know that the light of the world has been taken from himnot the eyes-but," Captain Dingle faltered in trying to express himself to this beautiful girl.

CREEK INDIANS CLAIM MILLIONS

Say Government Owes Them $29,084,500 for Land.

Washington .- Something of interest to students of Alabama history is developing from the suit filed by the Creek nation against the government for money claimed due in payment for lands ceded to the United States in 1814, said lands comprising 23,000,000 acres, "embracing almost all the present states of Georgia and Alabama and a large portion of the state of Mississippi.

This is the wording of the claim, but in 1814 the Creeks had jurisdiction not farther west than the rich country west of the Coosa, though ancestrally they had extended to Natchez land on the Mississippi. The land claim, therefore, appears to be considerably too large. The money value is figured at $1.25 an acre, or a total of $29,084,500. The land was undeveloped, much of it was hill and mountain land. The valuation is declared excessive.

The Creek war was fought not for the land the Creeks owned, but in order to punish those leaders and members of the nation who were aiding Great Britain in Great Britain's war with the United States. General Jackson's military operations were for the purpose of destroying the Creek nation's alliance with Great Britain against the American settlers of the coast region. At the end, when the Creek nation was crushed and the warring Creeks surrendered, a treaty of peace was entered into and Jackson was free to proceed against Pensacola, unhindered by the red man. This suit was authorized by an act of congress in 1924, the Court of Claims being designated to give it a hearing.

Evidence of Spanish Battle Is Unearthed

Los Angeles, Callf .-- Spanish conquistadors, under the leadership of the famous Cortez, fought a desperate battle on the famous golf course of the Los Angeles Athletic club at the Riviera, near Santa Monica, some time in the Sixteenth century. This fact was brought to light a few days ago when Doctor Morton, tree surgeon, unearthed piles of bones, which, cause of their blue color, he declared to be at least 300 years old, says the Los Angeles Times.

Bedded in a giant sycamore tree which he is rejuvenating Doctor Morton first found a stone cannon ball, fired by the Spanish cannon which conquerors of Mexico brought to the the shores of California. This led to the additional discovery of the bones of the soldlers who undoubtedly waged war on the Indians they found here to dispute their conquest of the new land.

Member of 1 Family in 36 on Average Hit by Auto

New York .- Some member of your family has one chance in three in being killed or injured by an automobile this year. That is the risk indicated by figures on last year's motor accidents, gathered by the National Safety council and just made public through the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

Persons killed by automobiles in the United States in 1925 numbered 22,each fatallty, the number hurt was 675,000, making the total casualties $97,500. The one-in-thirty-six ratio is

Rockefeller Foundation in World Campaign.

New York .- More than $9,000,000 was spent during 1925 by the Rockefeller Foundation in its campaign throughout the world against disease. Hookworm, yellow fever and malaria are the enemies of mankind its international health board especially aims to annihilate. This organization follows the policy of working only through governments of the countries to which it lends aid, and helps out only at the invitation of an official agency. It concerns itself only with new methods, one of its primary ends being to help a health official prove to his community the value of an innovation, but the board undertakes cooperation only with the clear under standing that the project in hand is eventually to stand on its own financial feet.

Worldwide War on Hookworm

In 18 different countries and in 220 countles in 26 different states in our country the international health board backed up the local officials in their struggles with the hookworm prob lem, with the result that nearly 1,500,-000 persons were treated.

Around hookworm disease as nucleus the board has a general educational plan to instruct the populace of tropical and subtropical countries in sanitation and preventive measures ngainst all disease. This idea has spread to Europe, and co-operation ing these lines has been extended to France, Austria, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

In 1925 only three cases of yellow fever occurred in all the Americas, whereas formerly this disease made Central and South America, and even New Orleans and other cities of the Southern states, veritable pest holes. Now these same cities are represented to Northern tourists as health resorts with a fair degree of truth.

War on the mosquito that carries yellow fever has driven this former plague to a last stand in western Africa, where experts sent out by international health board, at the invitation of the countries concerned. are hard at work holding it in check lest it gain access to other regions of the continent when the trans-African rallways under construction are completed

Fight Malaria With Paris Green.

A new use for paris green has been found in the contest with the malarial mosquito. Experience has shown that only by exterminating the insect that sprends the infection from person to person can malaria be stamped out, since, in the majority of cases, patients will not continue doses of quinine long enough to be completely cured. Paris green has proved effec-tive, cheap and safe as a means of eradicating the fever mosquitoes.

In co-operation with the Italian gov-ernment the board has been experimenting with the arsenic comp in-Calabria and Sardinia, sprinkling the breeding areas with a powder com posed of 99 parts road dust and one part parls green. The small quantity of polson killed the wigglers without harming the fish native to the waters and mosquito breeding was stopped at very low cost.

Work on malarla was carried on in twelve states in the United States, and in the West Indies, Brazil, Argentina, 500. At an estimate of 30 injured for Palestine, the Philippine islands and Ceylon.

VAST TERRITORY IS BISHOP'S HOME

Aided Tenderfoots in Alaskan Gold Rush.

Seattle, Wash .- A vast territory towards the top of the world is "home" and "workshop" to Peter Trimble Rowe, who for thirty-one years has extended a helping hand to residents of the frozen North as missionary bishop of Alaska.

Today, at seventy years of age, the Episcopalian bishop looks forward to several more winters, extending the outposts of civilization farther to the north, ministering to his flock. Then he says he will give way to a younger man inbued with ardor for a difficult mission. Bishop Rowe makes his headquarters here.

Friend of explorer, Indian and Eskimo, Bishop Rowe's life is closely interwoven with the most interesting chapters in the history of Alaska. He was on the march with the "boys" in the gold rushes of the Yukon and Dawson and admits frankly his hope that there will be one more good find of gold.

He recalls how some gazed in amazement as they rushed along the trail to Dawson. He taught many tenderfoots, many of them lured from the city, how to fashion their own boats

Aptitude for carpentry has served the bishop many times in his varied experiences. Various missions that dot the horizon of the north country bear testimony to his handlwork. Several were fashioned by his hands. It was in one of these missions that Stefansson, the explorer, was nursed back to life after being gripped by pneumonia and typhold fever.

Bishop Rowe is proud of his record in never losing a dog in the thousands of miles he has traveled over the broad expanse of the Alaskan territory, much of it unknown to white men. For years he has piloted his own sledge in getting from mission mission and ministering what he calls "practical Christianity."

Turns Buddhist and Bars Meat Eaters as Tenants

New York .- The secret of the "Hermit of Stanton Street," which for six years has been locked in the fourstory building at No. 99 on that thoroughfare, has just been revealed.

Sam Doonleffsky, forty-two, who dwells alone there, explained that for six years, although tenants have clamored for rooms in the building, he has refused them all because they "meat eaters." are

When Doonteffsky purchased the building he ordered every one out. He admitted that he had forsaken the orthodox Jewish religion to become a Buddhist, and that one of the tenets upon which his life is now based is that it is wrong to kill. The building, situated in the heart of the East side, had long provided a mystery.

Doonieffsky, who sells linen, has lived a hermit's existence on the top floor, subsisting entirely on cabbages and potatoes, and poring over great tomes on science and religion. His only companion is a pet mouse. He will not keep a cat because, he said, he fears it would kill the mouse.

"Captain Dingle," said Doreen breathlessly, "take me to the sandy-haired boy-he's my boy-my own Bob-I know it. Please take me to him."

The journey was arranged swiftly and Doreen arrived in London as if on the wings of dawn. She knew now why her trees would not grow. They were telling her that Bob was not dead, but living.

Captain Dingle took her to the blg workshop where the man who called himself John Wade was handling tools with an efficiency and surety that belied his sightless eyes. When the door opened he turned toward the sound and his tools dropped from him and he stood up.

"Doreen! Doreen!"

"Bobby-Bobby-oh, my precious," she flung across the room and into his arms. A great sob shook her as his arms closed in a giant grip about her. His lips went down against her neck

Captain Dingle closed the door softly behind him and choked down the great hard lump in his throat. As he went along the corridor he tried to whistle a tune.

And inside the room Doreen had slipped down on her knees and was clinging to the only man she would ever love.

"It's the only selfish thing you ever did to me, Bobby," she said, when she could summon a voice. "You're coming right back to America with me and you'll have to love me enough to make up for these six years that you have robbed me of-sh: long years that we might have had together."

Frosts Affect Flowers: Perfume Prices to Jump

Grasse, France.-The price of per-fume is destined to mount. Grasse, the perfume center of Europe, with 29 distillerles, will run short of 600,000 pounds of petals this year as a result of the late frosts and inclement weather which destroyed a fifth of the Riviera flower crop.

Manufacturers say this shortage will cause at least a 25 per cent increase in the cost of French perfumes.

The flower-growers, through their co-operative society, are able to force the distilleries to pay their prices. Rose leaves are now quoted at the equivalent of ten cents a pound, and orange flowers sell for fifteen cents.

Woman in Business

of Catching Insects Miami, Fla.-Collecting and beautifully marked breeding of butterflies and specimens moths is a business with Mrs. Elizabeth O. Groves. She has one of the largest laboratories of its nature in the country.

She recalves orders for rare butterflies from scientific institutions and colleges that specialize in nature study, from jewelers and collectors.

During her first season she sold more than $400 worth of the tiny blue-winged butterfly that feeds on the coontie. This is said to be a rare specimen in other sections, but common in Florida. Mrs. Groves also col-lects grasshoppers. One order was for 10,000 grasshoppers.

Reports Man-Ape Tribe Akin to "Missing Link"

London .- A dispatch to the Daily Express from Johannesburg, South Africa, tells of an unnamed traveler who reports having encountered in the northern Katanga district of the Belgian Congo, a curlous tribe of natives whose physical characteristics suggest "the missing link."

The traveler described one individual as half man and half ape. He was six feet tall and had an exceptionally long arm, a projecting jaw and a re ceding forehead. He had the normal negroid nose, woolly hair, startling black eyes, a straggly beard and was of exceptionally powerful physique.

California Man Possesses Smallest New Testament

San Francisco.-Possession of the world's smallest New Testament is claimed by Charles Benjamin of 3243 Sixteenth street, San Francisco.

Clearly printed and containing the entire New Testament, the book is but five-eighths of an inch in length, half an inch wide and a quarter of an inch thick

The miniature book was given by Samoan islands beachcomber as his most valued possession to the wife of a sea captain, who in turn presented it to Benjamin. It was printed in 1895 in Glasgow, Scotland.

South African Tables to Get Novel Steaks

Capetown .- Shark steak, like whale meat, which became popular on the western coast of the United States some years ago, has been placed on the South African market as a side issue of a scheme to gain cheap sup-plies of shark leather. The tall is considered the best cut for steaks.

considered the best cut for steaks. Fins have long been eaten in China, the Archipelago, the Gold Coast, New Zealand and Japan. The chief draw-back to shark meat is its ofliness, but dealers here say a process has been conceived to extract much of the oil without much expense.

In street frays have grown quite common, not due to the police growing more feroclous but because they are unable to distinguish between rioters and reporters. French news writers are beginning to appear on the scene of manifestations rather than remaining behind police lines and waiting for the news to reach them-as once was the custom.

Austrian Boy Is "Checked" to Indiana

Rushville, Ind .- The hands on the clock of time were turned back thirteen years for Morris Frisch, merchant, of this city, when he welcomed his son Leon, whom he had not seen since his birth in Austria, at Ellis island recently.

The boy was "checked" through and "insured" and arrived safely from the long voyage.

He was brought here by his father and expresses his delight at being in the "new world," though he speaks not a word of English.

Frisch owns several retail es tablishments in this part of the state. He has laid aside business cares for several days while he entertains his son with automobile rides to spots of in terest in Indiana.

colors-red, green almost-purple. She had spent three hard days out of pure neighborly kindness making the red silk poplin for the eldest Jackson girl, whose black eyes and olive skin, it had, to her mind, greatly set off. Mrs. Glass was truly kind-also as truly shrewd. With four younger Jacksons coming on like stairsteps, she wanted them married off as they came to eighteen-especially Polly, whom the good lady had predestined for her nephew, Doctor Ware, A good and a wife. Major Jackson said firm-ly, each of his girls would have a home to take her young man to. Their home. He will spend several weeks and ears for her now this five years, in all matters of style and color.

Josey's revelation was a bomb to Mrs. Glass. She could hardly credit It. For she had seen Polly, peacocking before the big mirror, at the last trying-on, smiling at her image and saying joyously: "Why! This can't be me! I never looked so before." She must look deeper into the Willie Willcoxen, of Cottonwood, matter-hence she asked carelessly: "Did Polly or your mother find any

Mrs. Glass got up, her face working, and took from a bureau drawer a length of the scarlet poplin. She had kept it to make a quilted hood for the ungrateful Polly. "How'd this do?" she asked grimly, as she unrolled the remnant before Doc. He seized it and kissed it, crying rapturously: "Maria'll look a queen in that color. It's the prettiest I ever saw."

A was a wonderful piece of acting-her descent upon the Jackson household, with a plea to buy the despised new frock, for some other body needing it so badly. Polly deeply contrite, withal shrewdly suspicious of Josey's tongue, thrust it upon her, crying joyowsly: "Oh, I'm so glad to give it to you. You're always so good to us."

"We are all glad," said Ma Jackson, suppressing a kindly chuckle. The major, from the chimney corner, demanded, pretending to frown: "Tell the whole tale, Almira, I know it's worth hearin'."

She told it-to a kindly sympathetic audience. After a sort, they knew Ann-Maria. As a ministerial grandchild, she was entitled to heaps of things. With the red dress went slippers, silk stockings-also a gold-coin brooch, par value five dollars. "And do please make the hood for her," Polly entreated, "With the her," Polly entreated, "With the white satin lining be sure—she has so much color it will be more becom-

Wholesale Destruction of Trout Caused by Storm

Cumberland, Md. - Wholesale destruction of trout in a mountain stream near the headwaters of the south branch of the Potomac, in Pendleton county, W. Va., is reported by local anglers who had motored to the stream for an outing. A cloudburst robbed them of the pleasure an hour before they arrived on the scene. The cloudburst made the stream a small river of thick mud and sediment in an instant, and the trout were literally choked to death. Thousands of trout, the anglers said, lined the bank, dead, while others, their distended mouths filled with mud, were ying on the surface of the water.

The floods of March and May, 1926. fishermen say, killed all the bass in the north branch of the Potomac, which was rapidly being restocked.

Could You Save a Life ?

This is the time of year when the old swimmin' hole is at the height of its popularity. There is nothing quite so refreshing as a plunge into the cool water in the heat of dog days. It is great sport. But, like most other sports, swimming is fraught with danger. And in your newspaper nearly every day at this season of the year you may read where some life has been lost through carlessness or mischance in the water.

Many, many of those who are lost in this manner every year could and would be saved if prompt and inteiligent rescue and first aid were at hand.

Every boy and girl, every man and woman should know first of all how to swim. And in addition every one of them should know how to rescue others from the water and what to do to revive a drowned person.

If you do not know how to go about reviving a victim of drowning, learn how. Learn how by all means! On your knowledge may depend some day the life of a friend or a brother or a little child.

Every regular employee of this company knows how to apply the prone pressure method of artificial respiration. And that method will save a victim of electric shock, drowning, or gas asphyxiation if anything can save him. Ask any of them to show you how it is done. You can learn it in five minutes so that you will not forget. Then practice until you are expert.

BUREAU CLEANS UP WAR FRAUDS

Ten Millions Collected in Three Years.

Washington .- Many millions of dollars are involved in war fraud cases attil pending before the Department of Justice. The war transactions section of the department, organized in 1923 to prosecute war frauds, has been disbunded, and the work will be completed by other branches of the gov-ernment. Cleaning up war frauds will have cost the government $3,000,-000 when it is completed.

The war transaction section since its organization has handled 770 cases. It has collected $10,912,871, and further payments totaling more than $400,000 are due during the present fiscal year. Judgments now on appeal before the courts total more than $700,000. About 250 cases are yet to be handled. Of the 770 cases handled by the section, 401 have been definitely closed since July, 1924. Of these 16 cases have been paid in full, 47 compro mised, 37 closed as uncollectable, 83 dismissed, 153 transferred to other sgencles, 42 ordered sudited. 4 paid in part, and 12 closed for miscellaneous reasons.

It is expected that at least 50 more cases will be closed before the end of the present fiscal year, June 30. It is likely that by the same time 50 more will be ready to be transferred to federal district attorneys for prosecution. About 150 more have been investigated and placed in suspended status pending decisions in test cases now in the courts.

PAL OF JAMES BOYS A CHAMPION FIDDLE

Kineman of Stonewall Jack son Recalls Early West.

Denton, Texas.-He used to shoot marbles and later Jayhawkers with the notorious James brothers, and now, going on ninety-three, he lays claim to the title of the eldest fiddler in the United States who is a Confederate veteran.

J. B. Jackson, Little Elm, Dentos county, kineman of Stonewall Jackson, Indian fighter, member of Quas-trell's band in the Civil war, and collector of antique violins, has figured in the ploneer history of a dozen states.

For the last 30 years he has traveled by horse and buggy across Texas, and even into the mountains of New Mexico, selling shrubs and trees. This year is the first he has spent at home, and it is broken into by faunts of many miles to play "Billy of the Low-Ground" and "Rose of Edinburgh" for the effete youth who gather round while he calls the figures of an ele fashiozed square dance.

Chafes at Inactivity.

But he chafes at inaction. The wanderlust has enthralled him since his old raiding days with Quantrell's band, side by side with Frank and Jesse James. When the war was over he was one of the young men that went West in the wake of the gold rushing "forty-niners."

Boarding a clamsy river steamer mounted with cannon fore and aft, he journeyed up the Missouri river. It was a perilous voyage, plercing the Indian country, and the crew and passengers, about forty in all, amused themselves by shooting buffalo, antelope, deer and mountain llons from the deck.

Jackson escaped the Indian arrows until he landed at Fort Benton, from which terminal he made a stagecoach trip of 250 miles to Helena. While in a South Dakota Indian fight he was wounded. He bears the scar, as well as marks of hand-to-hand conflict, a depression in his temple and a bent wrist.

He went through the Civil war unscathed.

After six years as metal expert in the Southern Pacific raliroad shops at Sacramento, Calif., he returned to Texas.

Connoisseur of violins, Jackson has in his collection three valuable instruments, one said to be a Stradivarius; another, black with age, which bears the date of 1620, and his favorite, said to be 225 years old.

Jackson has been a fiddler from early childhood. His hands, slender and flexible, are as nimble as those of a flapper typist, although his back is bent nearly double.

North Texas has been Jackson's stamping ground since his return from California, about 1894, when he stopped at Forth Worth. He lived more than a year near Garland and later spent several years at Rockwall, He was married at Knobnoster, Mo.,

40 years ago, to Miss Rosa Keene. Three children are living-Mrs. R. B. Flowers, Little Eim, with whom he makes his home; Mrs. May Willoford, ton, Tenn., who won the coveted title Dallas, and Ira B. Jackson, railway man, of Montana.

Defende James Boys.

Born at Burksville, Cumberland county, Kentucky, April 28, 1834, Jackson spent his youth in Clay county. Missouri. He recalls Kansas City when it was no more than a river boat terminal. It was in this vicinity that he was companion of the James boys, whose father was a Baptist minister, he recalls, "of a fine old Kentucky name before the ceremony at the Roman Catholic church was Miss Rose DiConco.

Three years ago Ragone set out from his restaurant in Spring street for the Chatham and Phenix bank on Broadway, carrying a wallet contain ing $2,500 to deposit. When he reached bank the wallet was gone.

With little hope that so much ready cash would be returned he advertised in newspapers, offering a reward for its return. The next day a girl called at his restaurant. It was Miss Di Conco. She had found the wallet.

Ragone produced the promised reward of $300 and offered it to her. She refused to take it. She agreed, how ever, to go to dinner with him. Friend ship in the course of time ripened into love.

"And the rest," Ragone stated, "is history."

Robs Fiancee's Home Day Before Wedding

Francisco.-Private William San Jensen, medical corps, U. S. A., and stationed at the Presidio here, was scheduled to appear before a minister to wed Miss Helen Hoeing. But all wedding plans temporarily were suspended when Jensen appeared in the police court to plead guilty to a charge of having burglarized the home of his prospective mother and father-in-law the night before.

Jensen confessed that after taking his fiancee and her parents to a theater he had escorted his guests home and later had returned and stolen some jewelry and an overcoat be-longing to a brother of his flancee. He called at his flancee's home with part of the stolen articles. He told his fancee and her family that he had observed a man trying to burglarize the premises and had overpowered the intruder and recovered part of the loot after a terrific struggie.

treatment during the war," the surviving playmate asserted. "Eat sparingly" is the health formula of the nonogenarian, whose alnost invariable menu is a biscuit with honey or molasses, a cup of coffee at breakfast and milk at other meals. He partakes of snuff and tobacco, the latter being smoked and chewed, but only occasionally.

Although both parents died in early naturity of tuberculosis, recent examination showed Jackson to be ar sound as any person the physicians ever tested, they declared.

Odd Buildings Traced to Roman Occupation

Efforts have been made for centuries to bare the mystery that hangs over the unique "Rows" at Chester, England, but their efforts have been In vain. These rows consist of street lengths of covered arcade, not on the street level but several feet above it. One walks in front of shops and on the roofs of shops at once, looking down upon the traffic in the street and upon pedestrians. Visitors say that the mystery of the origin of these structures causes them to give a pleasant, creepy feeling to those who walk through them and that buying a collar stud in the rows is almost like buying a bronze or picture on pavement level.

Chester was the great Roman millitary station of Deva. The central point of the Roman station was exactly where the rows now converge. The principal streets of the modern were the principal streets of city Deva and the principal streets of all subsequent towns on that site.

The Romans left Deva about 400 A. D. and for two centuries afterward burning Chester was a favorite game with the powers of the time .- London Times.

Scientists Plan War on Destructive Anis

In an effort to combat the ravages of ants in tropical regions, scientists of the bureau of agriculture are studying various preparations for the extermination of the pests. The white ants, which travel in great armies, exist on wood and heavy roots and deyour fence posts, house pinning and even totally destroy small buildings, says Popular Mechanics Magazine Not only are structures attacked, but cultivated vegetation by the acre is consumed by the cutleaf or umbrella ants. These insects often clean out an entire garden in a night, leaving nothing but the bare stalks of the plants. In Colombia, where great colonles of these ants are found, they build large, cone-shaped mounds of a white claylike substance, which in many cases rise to a height of 20 feet and at a distance look like Indian tepees. Once started on a building, or piece of furniture, it is said the woodeating species cannot be stopped by any method now known until the material is completely destroyed

Monarch as Yachtsman

The work of Charles II on behalf of the navy has been undervalued, it is claimed : let us then give him full credit for his services to yachting. The Merry Monarch acquired a knowledge of the sport during his exile in Holland, and soon after the Restoration acquired a couple of small yachts, in which he and his brother, the duke of York, competed in the first yacht race on record in British waters between Greenwich and Gravesend in the au-

Rubber Important in Destinies of Nations

Almost from the hour when Colum bus, the first European to see rubber, served it used as a plaything by the Indians, who bounced it back and forth-hence the original name of India rubber-the substance has been bound up in romance and fiscal adventure, writes Isaac F. Marcosson in the Saturday Evening Post.

In every sense it is another black Golconda, because it has affected the economic destiny of nations and individuals,

It was not until the discovery of vulcanization in 1830 by Charles Good-year, a Connecticut hardware merchant, that the commercial era of rub ber began. It is worth noting that Goodyear's only reference to tires was a suggestion that they might be used lessen the noise of barrows used for wheeling luggage at railway stations

Rubber got its name in business be cause it was originally used to rub out pencil marks. In London half a cubic inch of it once cost the equivalent of 75 cents. This is said to be the highest known price recorded for raw rubber.

Universities Have Long and Glorious Records

The university, in the modern se dates to the Tweifth and Thirteenth centuries as an outgrowth of earlier schools in connection with cathedrals and monasteries. This despite the fact that a number of European universities have legends carrying their origin considerably farther back-as for Instance Oxford, whose tradition is that it was founded by King Alfred about 872.

Oxford dates, however, to early In the Twelfth century. The universities of Paris and Bologna, which exercised the greatest influence upon the later institutions, were founded about 1200. The oldest Spanish university is that of Salamanca, dating to 1240. The earliest Italian universities, besides Bologna, were Padua, 1222; Naples, 1224; Genoa, 1243, and Perugla, 1276 About ten others were founded in that country before 1550, and Italy was the greatest resort of students for the igher education during those times. The University of Prague was established in 1348; the first college at Cambridge in 1257, and the University of Jaglelle, in Cracow, Poland, in 1364. The University of Copenhagen dates to 1479, and of Edinburgh to 1582.

Old Travel Maps

Motorists who use the ingenious strip maps of today, which are a cross between a map and a picture, prob-ably imagine that the idea is an exremely modern thing, invented in response to an equally modern demand, says the Wall Street Journal. But one user thereof was startled the other day on coming across an exactly identical treatment of important highways in Great Britain, dating back some two or three hundred years. Instead of being in any wise crude or incomplete. the older strip maps were more detailed and explicit than the modern. Each milepost was indicated by figures and landmarks along the route were noted in such useful phrases as: "A large stone," "An oak tree," "Narrow gate into a meadow," etc. Nor were any of the inns or branch roads omitted.

Inherited Mentality

According to a new theory on the mode of inheritance of mental traits there are at least five pairs of hereditary characters that have to do with the passing on of intelligence. If both parents are persons of high intelli- social resort, a beautiful woman with gence and possessed of all five pairs of these characters, their children will also average very high. If they are idiots, having none of the pairs of ers, their children also will be idiots. Intermediate conditions representing people of good average intelligence, but not genluses, will pro- be burled there. That night she was duce a mixture of offspring types, with occasional exceptional children, and Springs hotel and the next morning once in a while also offspring of low mentality.

Well's Threat Verified

In San Jacopo, Italy, is a courtyard belonging to an old and now ruined mansion, and in this yard is a deep and ery ancient well, of which it is said that strange noises resembling groans come from it whenever death threatens one of the great family who once owned the property.

In 1904 such strange sounds came from the well that the neighbors were frightened. Yet nothing happened. The sounds ceased and were beginning to be forgotten when news came from America that the last survivor of the old house had died in San Francisco.

Dutch Improved Cabbage

The cabbage was taken to England from Holland about the year 1510, although it is said that this vegetable was grown in England before that time, but that in that year improved varieties were taken from Holland to England by Sir Arthur Ashley of Dorset. Cabbage was introduced into Scotland by the soldlers of Oliver Cromwell.

Stars Cast Shadow There

The atmosphere in certain parts of northern Australia is so clear that the stars often cast shadows equal to that of the moon. On the Barky tableland in Northern territory, cattle may be seen on hills 30 miles distant, according to a correspondent of the Sydney Bulletin, "a mirage throwing reflections under them, giving the impres sion of water lying there."

One day while wandering in the grounds she came upon a spot of such scenic loveliness that she exclaimed that when she died she would wish to the belle of a brillfant ball at the was found dead in her room.

There were no railroads then, no telegraph or telephones in Kentucky, so the hotel management could not communicate readily with the town she had given as her home on the hotel register, and she was buried in the spot she had designated the day before.

Letters of inquiry to the faraway town she had given as her home brought back the information that no such person had ever lived there. A fictitious name and a fictitious address, apparently had been given by the beautiful stranger, who had danced herself to death," so the oldtimers sold. The identity of the unknown lady is still a mystery.

Sarcophagus Never Marked

The stone sarcophagus in which she was buried was never marked with a name or date. Years ago the stone pillars fell and some were broken and the flat stone was later raised on a concrete support by order of the city officials,

The box-like tomb is often mistaken by tourists in the park for a seat or a table and has been considerably marred by vandals. So the Woman's club has erected a temporary marker, notifying visitors to the park that it is "the last resting place of the dead." A permanent marker with a suitable epitaph is to be erected by the club later.
