Louisiana Affairs Further Muddled, Others Indicted

BATON ROUGE, July 26 (AP)—The parish grand jury late Tuesday returned ten indictments charging L. B. Abernathy, resigned Louisiana Highway Commission chairman, and his business partner, A. K. Kilpatrick of Monroe, with using Abernathy's influence while he was a member of the Louisiana State University board of supervisors in selling the university approximately $40,000 worth of furniture and supplies.

Abernathy also resigned recently as an LSU board member.

The grand jury also reindicted Dr. James Monroe Smith, resigned university president, in connection with an alleged $100,000 embezzlement of school funds.

Smith, already previously indicted 24 times here and several times additionally by the federal grand jury at New Orleans, was charged in the new indictment with obtaining the $100,000 by misusing his authority as a public officer.

The indictments against Abernathy and Kilpatrick assert that as principal owners of the Standard Office Supply Co. at Monroe, they capitalized on Abernathy's official position in order to obtain state business.

Sales of $39,922.14 in equipment were described in the indictments as furnishings for the commerce and law buildings on the L. S. U. campus here and at the L. S. U. Northeast Center, junior college at Monroe.

Each of the ten indictments charged that Abernathy as principal, with Kilpatrick aiding and abetting the principal, violated Act 128 of 1906 by "unlawfully deriving pecuniary interest and profit from a contract as a member of a public board."

That Means YOU, Uncle Sam!

Mrs. Samuel A. Wimsatt, of Washington, was giving postal authorities a large-sized headache when this picture was snapped. Indignant because she claims she and her sister, Mrs. Claude Tschiffely, did not receive their share of the condemnation proceedings for the property on which the new Rockville, Md., Post Office now stands, Mrs. Wimsatt conducted a heckling campaign which included posting a No Trespassing sign on the postoffice lawn.

BY BILL COLLINS.

Wanted: 1000 baseball fans and civic-minded citizens of Midland at City Park this evening at 8:30 o'clock for the "Booster Day" ball game between the Midland Cowboys and the Amarillo Gold Sox.

Date of the "Booster Day" ball game is at hand and this evening at 8:30 o'clock at City Park here the Midland Cowboys, piloted by the popular Sammy Hale, and the Amarillo Gold Sox, managed by the colorful and bolterous Neal Rabe, will tangle in a West Texas-New Mexico League game before what is hoped will be the largest crowd ever to witness a ball game in Midland.

Additional funds are badly needed in order to keep the local team on the field during the remainder of the season and it is felt that the sale of 1000 "Booster Day" tickets at $1.00 each will provide necessary funds with which to operate during the remainder of the current season. Then too, it is felt that a large "Booster Day" attendance this evening will tend to bolster the morale, improving the spirit of the players after a disastrous road trip. Regardless of their recent losses, members of the Cowboy team have been doing their best and they are Taken with her was Mary Ellen Richards, another Ohio fugitive. Detectives arrested them at a tavern where Velma was employed.

Lending Bill Debate Started in Senate Tuesday by Barkley

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The climatic struggle of this congressional session opened on the Senate floor late Tuesday when Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) arose to begin debate on the $2,490,000,000 lending bill and to scout opponents' charges that the big measure was another step toward bankruptcy.

There was "nothing to give alarm" in the fiscal picture, said the majority leader, adding that there was a large amount of unused capital in the country and that because it was not being put to work, the government had to step in and take steps to promote recovery.

Earlier, a special committee on national debt, policy, composed of House Republicans and headed by Rep. Reed (R-N.Y.) issued a report condemning the lending bill as a "device for increasing the public debt by subterfuge." It called the measure "spending by deception" and "state socialism by stealth."

Under the bill, the money would be raised by the RFC through the sale of securities to the public. It would then be loaned on projects which, sponsors of the measure contended, would pay for themselves and permit repayment to the government. Thus the program would be apart from the federal budget, and would not be reflected in the deficit or public debt as stated by the Treasury.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) also attacked the bill in a statement today calling it "a device for cheating the debt limit, for socializing business, and for another tug at bootstrap lifting."

Meanwhile, at a press conference, President Roosevelt said he would have no objection if bonds issued by the RFC in connection with the lending program were subjected to state and local taxation. The President has asked that tax exemptions on all future issues of public securities be abolished, but legislation to do this has not yet passed Congress.

Arab Captors and Kidnaped Preacher Kiss Cheeks And Swear Eternal Friendship at Farewell Feast

JERUSALEM, July 26 (AP)—Exhausted and ill as a result of eating tribal food, the Rev. Gerould Goldner, 29, kidnaped Ohio minister, was returned to the Holy City and the arms of his father, just a week after he had been taken captive by a wandering Arab band in the Moab hills.

Describing the experience, which ended in a friendship feast with his captors, the young pastor declared it was an adventure "I'll never forget nor want to do over again."

The overjoyed father, Dr. Jacob Goldner, also an Ohio minister, and the son made no mention of a ransom payment, but it was learned that the Bedouin emissary who conducted the final negotiations, carried $2,500 on his trip into the hills—half the amount that was originally demanded.

District Commissioner Keith Roach, driving his automobile between Bethlehem and Hebron, saw Goldner riding a donkey toward Jerusalem, ascertained his identity and rushed him to his waiting father at the Jerusalem Y. M. C. A.

Government Loses Anti-Trust Suit Against A. M. A.

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The American Medical Association won a victory over the government today when the federal district court held that the Sherman anti-trust act could not apply to the practice of medicine.

Justice James Proctor, ruling out an indictment in which the justice department charged that the association and fellow defendants restrained "trade of Group Health, Inc., cooperative health association in the District of Columbia, said: "Is medical practice a trade within the meaning of section three of the anti-trust act? In my opinion, it is not."

O'Daniel Names New State Board for Handling Pensions

AUSTIN, July 26 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel late Tuesday announced the appointment of Beeman Strong, Beaumont attorney; Marvin Leonard, Porth Worth merchant and Rev. M. E. Sadler, Austin minister, as members of the newly created State Welfare Board to administer old age pensions and other social security activities, effective Sept. 1.

The new board, brought into existence by the Legislature, to centralize state welfare work, said in a joint statement it would name an executive director, who would be in charge of personnel, after it officially organized on Sept. 1.

In announcing the appointments, the governor said "The 46th Legislature . . . enacted a very constructive piece of legislation which consolidated into one department the Division of Child Welfare, the Texas Relief Commission, and the Old Age Assistance Commission (all currently administered by the Board of Control)."

"The Division of Child Welfare will, under the new setup, expand its activities to care for dependent children when the Legislature makes available funds for the expanded service."

"The Division of Child Welfare of the board which also will administer aid to the needy blind, and asserted he expected more efficient service for recipients of aid through the centralized organization.

"This public welfare board," he continued, "will not result in the adding of additional employees to the state payroll."

The chief executive then reiterated previous hints there would be no special session of the Legislature to finance liberalized pensions and sharply rapped the policy of political patronage.

"It is unfortunate," he added, "that the social security program cannot be and will not be adequately financed before another regular session of the Texas Legislature but it is hoped that prior to that time, through careful painstaking work, we will be able to build in this state a well-organized, efficient agency capable of getting 100 per cent value for every dollar spent, an agency ready to function immediately in the administration of the board general program of public welfare when a subsequent session of the Legislature provides adequate finance."

Friendship Bears Fruit

The Good Neighbor policy has suffered considerable criticism as a one-way policy. Those who oppose it have often said that we have been ill-rewarded in many cases by our greater effort to be neighborly to our neighbors to the south.

It is certainly true that in some cases North America cordiality has been abused and has failed to meet equal cordiality in return. But it must be remembered that the North American about-face in southern affairs is only about 10 years old, while the impressions which must be overcome date back a half-century.

Colombia, however, has reciprocated. President Santos, realizing that the security of all South America depends on the safety of the Panama Canal, has given assurance that "no one will be permitted to menace the security of the Canal from Colombian soil." Colombia, from whose territory the Canal Zone was detached, certainly has as much reason as anybody to be sore about it. But the declaration of President Santos is good evidence that his country is willing to "forgive and forget."

More and more clearly it is coming home to all the American nations that we are all in the same boat, and that neighborly consideration and mutual helpfulness is the best thing for all.

'Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight'

Somehow it comes as a shock to learn that an old, old lady out in San Diego who has just died was the author of "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight."

A whole generation has come to regard that phrase as a sort of joke to be flipped off all by itself, without realizing that it was the title and punch line of one of the most famous poems ever written.

"Wild her eyes and pale her features" as Bessie realized that "at the ringing of the curfew, Basil Underwood must die." A whole generation thrilled at the rhythmic description of how Bessie climbed the rickety ladder to the belfry, and then, as the hour approached, "Shall she let it ring? No, never! flash her eyes with sudden light, as she springs and grasps it firmly—Curfew shall not ring tonight!"

They remember the picture of Bessie, hanging firmly to the clapper of the bell as it swung "twixt heaven and earth suspended." And they sighed with relief when assured that curfew not having rung, Cromwell arrived and pardoned Bessie's Basil Underwood.

"In his brave, strong arms he clasped her, kissed the face upturned and white, Whispered, 'Darling, you have saved me,—curfew will not ring tonight!'"

Of course, it is all incredibly hammy today, so definitely of a past era that it seems incredible that Rose Hartwick Thorpe, who wrote it as a schoolgirl, should have lived until July, 1939, a venerable lady of 89.

Yet, long as she lived, her poem, written 75 years ago, has outlived her and lives on. It has become one of those classics, like "The Face Upon the Floor," which keep recurring in anthologies and collections with peculiar power and persistence, because in them is a simplicity and an innocence that is also in every man and woman. It gets covered with a glaze of sophistication of various thicknesses in various people, but it is there.

Just as people laugh today at the simple moralities of the McGuffey Readers because they are crudely expressed, so they laugh at the melodramas and melodramatic poetry of yesterday. But the melodrama still exists, and the McGuffey moral principles persist in popping up right into our faces no matter how we try to laugh them off.

We do not so much change the old and simple truths as to dress them in new garb and present as great new truths things that grandfather knew all the time.

SO THEY SAY

Employers' Rights, Too

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

They are doing it "in the interests of the public welfare and unemployment relief"—so say the persons who are now trying to revive the opposition to working wives which was defeated in Massachusetts recently. They do not supply the specific advantages to the public. To the contention, for example, of Representative Thomas J. Hannon of Dorchester, that "in the public welfare some regulation and restriction should be adopted to control and bar the hiring of women whose husbands are able to support them," Representative Adolph Johnson of Brockton retorts that "it is not in the interests of the public good to employ people simply because they are single and in need of support."

Certainly no just individual is going to approve discrimination against women or against any other class of society. Enough has perhaps been said about the economic fallacy of basing employment on the applicant's financial condition. Thinking people realize that it would be only fair, if the need of the applicant were made the first consideration, to bar from employment men with private incomes, as well as women with husbands.

Are the contestants overlooking entirely another group whose rights are in jeopardy? This is not only a battle over the rights of women but also over the rights of employers. Are businessmen willing to accept legislation which would deprive them of the right to hire the workers of their own choosing? It has for long been the accepted practice in the democracies of the world for an employer to consider an applicant for a job on the basis of experience and qualification and to make his selection in accordance with his own concept of what is beneficial to his particular business. Relations placed on married women in the labor exchange are automatically restrictions upon employers.

Navajo Shrine Found in Cave

ROUND ROCK, Ariz. (AP)

Scientists from Columbia University have just reviewed evidence presented by Dr. William A. Gardner that he had found a giant profile which he believed to be an ancient Navajo Indian shrine and the legendary council chamber of the tribal gods.

The cave was discovered in a remote section of the rugged canyon country near here in a region seldom traversed by white men.

Gardner was led to the cave by Sam Day, an Indian guide, who accidentally discovered the "council chamber of the gods."

Inside, they found a 200-foot mural of Navajo ceremonial figures and symbols. Lying before four clay images were piles of turquoise beads, corn and pollen, which indicated the Indian's used the cave as a holy shrine, Day said.

The paintings were 6 feet high and were done in bright colors—red, blue, green, lilac, yellow, black and brown.

The images, perforated with holes which formerly held painted sticks imitating the sun's rays, were of the Navajo sun god, Jomhanna, Day said.

Ancient Navajo legends tell of a secret rendezvous where tribal gods assembled. The gods, so the legends go, left paintings of themselves to guide the tribe in its rituals.

Gardner is believed to be the first white man to see the holy shrine.

Going to Attempt a High Jump?

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 26. —A few days ago, a prankish member of the House of Representatives chanced to look up at the gallery, where he spied an uncommonly pretty girl sitting all by herself. He bethought himself then of a fellow member of the House, a bachelor congressman who has an appreciative eye for this and that.

So he went to the cloakroom, got notepaper, and wrote to the congressman a mash note purporting to come from the girl in the gallery. He gave it to a page and instructed him to deliver it.

The bachelor soon read the note, rubbed his chin, and glanced casually at the gallery. Then he read the note again, looked up once more—and, finally, sauntered out and made his way to the gallery.

A moment later he took a vacant seat beside the young woman and opened conversation with her.

The real author of the note, meanwhile, with two or three cronies he had let in on the gag, was watching jubilantly from the floor. But the thing didn't work out quite as the master had expected. Instead of getting into an embarrassing jam, the bachelor presently arose and departed from the Capitol — with the lovely visitor on his arm.

Maybe the Senate has found a successor to the late James Hamilton Lewis in the matter of sartorial splendor. One of the things Senator Lewis was famous for was wardrobe; especially striking was a cut-away suit of rich browns.

Comes now Senator Matthew Neely of West Virginia, in a double-breasted suit of pale green, set off with dark green buttons, a green handkerchief, a light green shirt, and a dark green tie.

PADDLES FOR POLITICIANS

Favorite game played in the House gymnasium, where athletically inclined members of Congress go for exercise, is paddle ball. It was invented on the premises; it was like handball except that a paddle is used instead of the hand, while the ball is an ordinary tennis ball with the cover ripped off, which gives it more bounce.

Next most popular diversion is bike riding. The bikes are stationary; you can get on and pedal furiously for an hour without ever moving from where you started.

Some members occasionally inquire about boxing. By mutual agreement, it is barred. Long ago, the members found out that even in a friendly sparring match you can easily get a black eye — which doesn't look so good next day when you're solemnly legislating and some of your constituents are in the gallery.

HOUSE DEATH DRAMA

Congressman Joe Byrns, Jr., of Tennessee, is one of this session's freshman congressmen, and he made his maiden speech recently under rather unusual conditions. Along with other members of the House, he arose to pay tribute to the late Sam McReynolds, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, who died after a long illness.

Byrns recalled that it was just about three years ago that McReynolds had arisen in the House to inform his fellows of the death of Byrns' father, who was then

Texas Today

You can bend to it or crawl on your knees, but it still hurts—this cotton picking business that has started again in Texas, the biggest of all cotton producing states.

They're picking cotton in the Rio Grande Valley. On the South Plains around Lubbock, Tahoka, O'Donnell and Plainview the cotton is just about knee high to a duck. But between the high country, the Brazos' gumbo bottoms and the Rio Grande the cotton is in various stages of development, and that forms a strange path strewn with back aches, neck aches, finger aches, muscle aches, head aches and heart aches.

For the cotton picking which starts in hot July in the valley lasts in Texas through the Turkey Day grid classics and the blue northers that precede Christmas on the plains.

The aches never cease, for some of the pickers who drag the first sacks in the valley still are dragging when the last bales are picked.

Exactly the same phrases—but, so far, none from the folks back home.

on the plains. They follow the opening bolls across Texas in a jagged line that takes in East and North Texas and up the Red river to Childress, Paducah and Quanah.

Men, women and children follow the bolls. American white, Spanish-American and negroes—all sizes—harvest the biggest crop in the biggest state.

There usually are aches in statistics because of their detailed boring qualities, but in cotton statistics in Texas there are aches of other origin.

In 1934, the year they struck gold in California and prior to some years to the birth date of the person holding this newspaper, Texas produced 58,000 bales of cotton.

In 1938, about 9,153,000 acres of cotton produced 3,125,000 bales in Texas. There are 500 pounds of lint cotton in a bale, 1,500 pounds of seed cotton (as the picker snatches from the burl) to the bale. There are approximately 50 bolls to the pound and each boll represents at least one snatch. A day's use of the multiplication tables would bring a fair estimation of the work required in harvesting 3,000,000 bales of cotton.

The 1938 cotton in Texas was valued at about $129,000,000 but it would be a bit difficult to trace the path those dollars followed away from all persons actively interested in the crop.

The major part of the cotton is picked by Texas' army of migratory workers, some 200,000 persons who follow the crops, working in the onion fields, the bean patches, the spinach fields, to tomato farms and between the cotton rows.

The Texas State Employment Service made 362,480 placements in the cotton fields last fall. Since turn-over in the service is approximately four to one, about 90,620 migratory workers were handled by the service during the season. That number, the service reported, approximately 45 per cent of the estimated total number of workers on the road during the peak season.

Average wage rate for the season was 50 cents per hundred pounds of seed cotton, or $7.50 per bale of lint cotton. The average amount harvested per picker was five bales (2,500 pounds of lint cotton, 7,500 pounds of seed cotton). This means the average gross income per picker was $37.50.

That appears so small one might think the cost of harvesting was very little. But the service estimated that at least $3,398,250 was returned to the cotton pickers for the season.

From now until Christmas the southward traveler will meet trucks loaded with cotton pickers. Some of them travel in their own vehicles, but a majority is hauled in the trucks of contractors who take the pickers in tow and handle the "business end" of cotton picking deals. The contractor system is also used in the state's varied and widely-separated vegetable patches.

Here are some figures which show the movement of pickers:

During the 1938 season, the employment service records show, 100 trucks hauling 2,228 pickers departed from Brownsville, Harlingen, and San Benito; 280 trucks hauling 6,792 pickers departed from Edinburg, McAllen, Mercedes, Mission and Weslaco. Total figures for the valley—404 trucks hauling 12,801 pickers.

Many of the trucks haul dozens of pickers, who are crowded, in some instances, they have to stand up. In these trucks are woman and children, little tots who have to stay at the wagon, truck or cotton pile with the baby. No few families bury children en route.

Ralph Shuffler's Odessa competition, in his column, said: "I'll promise not to steal news nor to get drunk." Now, Jack, you don't really think your public expects all of that, do you?"

An Associated Press dispatch tells of a WPA worker who was shaken down after a tavern robbery and the following articles fell out of his pants: six cartons of cigarettes, five quarts of whiskey, one carton of chewing gum, six candy bars, six packages of cigarettes and one small cash box. That amount of merchandise could have displaced a lot of lead.

An Ohio paper gave one of its town's physicians a lot of credit in the following paragraph: "Fifty-nine years he practiced medicine, being responsible for most of the babies born in the community."

unprotected pickers.

The employment service is striving to keep the labor movement orderly. Before the service started its farm placement work many pickers flocked here and there, following reports of "whiter fields" and higher wages. These frequent moves caused loss of time.

The service also has been successful in obtaining shelter for many of the workers. In some instances, camping centers have been erected and the service has insisted that farmers aid with the housing problem.

There seems no immediate answer however, to the migratory labor problem, the service says in effect in its annual report, for the number is increasing. Addition of 99,000 tractors to the Texas farm scene since 1930 has contributed to the displacement of more than 60,000 farm families, says a bulletin (Progress Report No. 579 of 1938) issued by A&M College.

Te mechanical cotton picker such as the ones invented by the Rust brothers and machinery companies has been little used in Texas. Cotton picking remains the same. As the Rust brothers have pointed out, the effect of general use of the mechanical picker is a question without an answer. It reads something like this: "What would happen to the thousands who follow the opening bolls should be mechanical picker be put into general use?"

At least, there wouldn't be so many back-aches.

Local persons interested in birth control work might get some propaganda from the following paragraph taken from an Indiana newspaper: "There is a lot that could be said about this man... He and his wife produced 22 children, every one of which was assisted into the world by a county doctor. Fifteen children died, every one of whom the county buried. Of the married children there are two who have lost children, and the county paid the bill. The old man was an old-age pensioner and the whole damned raft of them are supported by the county. Ordinarily you wouldn't think of a sheep man shooting the bull, but the San Angelo Times this morning said:

"W. E. Wallace of Midland brought three rams down to sell in the Angelo sale, and has Woodrow Mills of Sterling City taking care of them. Wallace said that he came to Midland 33 years ago during a dry period and they have been needing rain ever since."

Clay Floyd got a night letter from Bank Stocks about some sheep they sold on the Fort Worth market and Bank used all fifty words to tell what a loss they took. Clay said the good thing about it was that the telegram didn't come collect.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Kathleen Eiland

The glassmakers certainly are persistent. More and more they are displaying glass furniture, battling the stubborn conviction of yours truly and a few million others that a glass chair just could not be comfortable.

In recent displays of glass furniture we noted an occasional table that seemed to be a single wide pane of glass bent down at the ends to support the center part as a table. Simplicity, at least.

Maybe we're just old-fogy but we still have a kind of inner conviction that glass furniture is not for the likes of us.

It's a kindly government we have here and an all-seeing one, taking notice of such small things as lady's lipstick along with the neutrality legislation and the rearmament program.

The Food and Drug Administration reports for June show the seizure of 30,757 lipsticks—not because Uncle Sam thinks his daughters immoral to paint their lips but because he wants the painting done with the correct kind of rouge.

These lipsticks, which were imported, were seized because they contained cadmium and selenium, which the government judged dangerous to use.

After all, it is something to live under a government which has its people's interests so much at heart.

We, The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

It's about time someone broke down and confessed that it's no job at all for the average woman to hold on to a husband. About all it takes is determination. Not determination to hold him, but determination to make him happy.

The wife who honestly wants her husband to be happy and uses fifth grade common sense to bring it about, can have him as long as she wants him.

Wanting him to be happy eliminates such things as:

Letting him think for a minute that any woman in the world is luckier than she.

Ever seeming to care more for her possessions than for his comfort.

Keeping up a continuous stream of chatter.

Pulling a long face when he comes home too tired to go out.

Saying without spirit: "I don't care; whatever you want to do," when he says, "How about a show?" or "Would you like to go for a ride?"

COMMON SENSE IS SOLUTION

Expecting him to worry about the little things that go wrong around the house.

Making him feel that he isn't providing as well as other men who be just that.

There's small excuse for any stay-at-home not knowing how all the showplaces of America look just from viewing the snapshots brought back by his wandering-footed friends.

Well, it's a healthful pastime, we'd say, and more power to it.

Newest use for the multi-useful zipper is as a closing for swanky quilted satin pillow covers. The zipper might work just as well on a work-a-day covering. And we always did have trouble getting the pillow in straight when we had to pull the case over the end of the squashy thing.

happen to earn more money. Talking money and economy constantly.

Considering their house her special domain instead of looking on it as a place that can be her biggest ally in making him want to come home—if it is run with his comfort in mind.

A woman doesn't have to be smart to figure those things out, or work hard to avoid them. They won't trip her up, if she's too busy making her husband happy to worry about holding him.

Singapore Life Chafes Soldier

SINGAPORE (UP)—British soldiers in Singapore, the great fortress in the Far East, are complaining that army pay is inadequate to meet the cost of living in one of the most expensive countries in the world.

According to the Singapore Free Press, many soldiers complain that they are "fed up" with life in the army in Singapore, that the colonial allowance for the extra cost of living is farcically low, and that the inhabitants of Singapore look upon the rank and file as outcasts.

Recently there has been an outbreak of civil crimes by soldiers, and the Singapore Free Press made an investigation into the causes. Several of the soldiers told magistrates that they committed a crime—usually stealing a car, assaulting a taxi-cab driver, or smashing a

SOUTH COMES FROM BEHIND TO WIN ALL-STAR THRILLER BY 10-9

Fullenwider of Lamesa Is Timely Hitter for Southerners in Game

BY COLLIER PARRIS.

LUBBOCK, July 26. (AP). — A single by Emmitt Fullenwider of Lamesa, followed by a wild pitch and a double by Billy Capps of Big Spring scored the winning run in the last of the eleventh that gave the South a 10 to 9 victory over the North in the West Texas-New Mexico Leagues first All-Star game here Tuesday night.

The Southerners came from behind in the ninth with a five-run rally to tie the score at 8-all, due largely to Fullenwider's home run with two on base. Each side scored in the tenth, and Lee Harris, pitching for Lubbock, let the northerners down in order in the eleventh, after which Fullenwider and Capps nicked Roscoe Hunt, Clovis pitcher for two hits in succession to win with no outs in the home half of the inning. Lefty Lamesa and Frank Grabek of Pampa engaged in a three-inning pitching duel for the first three innings, each allowing a hit but no runs.

Fans of the Northern and Southern sections of the league elected by popular vote the players appearing in the All-Star game.

Tennis Tournament Starts Friday on Sweetwater Courts

Tennis players of Midland have been invited to compete in a district tennis tournament at Sweetwater Friday and Saturday of this week, according to a message to The Reporter-Telegram.

Nine cement and asphalt tennis courts are available. Entrance fees are 50 cents per player, to cover cost of the tournament. Reasonable rates are promised at several cafes in the town. The committee will assist in housing arrangements. Entries must be made before Friday morning, it was announced.

ing out a program of this type, in the opinion of the Farm Security Administration, would consist of either two or three sections of grass land, depending on the location, type of soil and grass available, in addition to the cultivated land which should be around a quarter of a section. On this size farm the farmer could easily care for fifty cows, which is the maximum number considered as a foundation herd by this administration, in addition to his work stock and milch cows. Hogs and chickens, as well as the family garden, are considered a very valuable part of the program.

Farmers who are able to make adequate lease arrangements, consisting of from three to ten years, will be considered for a loan of this type, provided they meet the requirements of the Standard Loan under PSA. The length of the lease has considerable effect on the loan, since the repayment schedule can be made over the length of the lease, but no longer than the lease. The interest charges are 5 per cent.

The main difficulty at the present time seems to be in obtaining grass land at a reasonable rate. This program is not set up on a speculative basis, therefore it is necessary for grass land to be obtained at a rate which is consistent to a long time price range of cattle and not up to correspond with the recent higher cattle prices.

If grass land can be obtained for a five year period in large blocks, this administration will consider making several loans in order to serve more people, with the same amount of land. If the lease period is long enough, it would be profitable to the borrower to provide the fence himself. Water systems can also be obtained under the Water Facilities Program to provide water supply for the cattle when needed.

Buffalo Riding Is Rodeo Feature

Here are some of the buffalo at the Double Hart ranch, ten miles south of Sweetwater, where Ollie Cox will have his ninth annual rodeo August 4, 5 and 6. Cox owns his rodeo plant, has a substantial grandstand and splendid arena. His rodeo each year is okayed by Sweetwater civic organizations and draws crowds from all over the southwest. Total purses over $2,500 will be distributed to contestants who are restricted to cowhands, with saddles, boots, spurs and other prizes also offered. Besides his string of bucking horses, he has 200 Brahmas, a herd of buffalo, to be used in a buffalo riding contest, and other wild stock.

Trim and well preserved at 47 for all his baseball warfare, the Cracker will enjoy the novelty of a summer vacation with his family, but wants to get back in the thick of baseball as quickly as possible and doesn't expect that he'll have a long lay-off. He doesn't have to worry, however. He is well fixed and owns a prosperous bowling alley.

Engineers Okay Grant For Harris Project
HOUSTON, July 25 (AP)—Army engineers have approved "in principle" an application by Harris County (Houston) for a $1,895,000 WPA grant for drainage work engineers claim will eliminate hazards in this section.

The grant would be supplemented with a $500,000 bond issue already approved and a $42,000 contribution by the city.

Plans call for the expenditure of $1,000,000 in draining outlying sections of the country. The remainder is to be spent on the improvement of drainage of small streams, which feed water into the larger Bayous including Buffalo Bayou (the Houston ship channel).

FAMOUS CATCHER WOULD BRING BACK SPITBALL

Nor is the pastime today much better off in other departments. "There isn't one player in the American Association this season who even approximates the Ted Williams or Whitlow Wyatt standard," asserts Schalk, who was discharged as manager of the Indianapolis club, July 14. "Kansas City, the Yankee farm, is leading and it hasn't anyone good enough for the American League." According to Schalk, Vince DiMaggio is still not a big league hitter. He slays one in the groove, but the smarter hurlers fool Yankee Joe's older brother.

Schalk would bring back the spitball to give the pitcher without a curve more of a chance. "The club and I just had a couple of different ideas, but Leo Miller and I are still the best of friends," adds Schalk, explaining the break-up of the club executive-manager team that worked harmoniously and successfully through eight years in Buffalo and Indianapolis.

The Indians had copped seven in a row and were in third place when the famous peppercot receiver was let out.

Livestock Program On Small Ranches Is Fostered by the FSA

It is the objective of the Farm Security Administration Livestock program to enable the small rancher or farmer to better adjust himself to the changing agricultural condition. In recent years general crop production in this area has not been profitable to the majority of the lower income farmers. Therefore, it is the aim and purpose of his administration to finance the farmers in establishing themselves in a diversified farming program that will supply them with a sufficient cash income to pay the cost of the foundation herds and in the meantime, supply a living for his family, above what he is able to reduce from a well rounded live-at-one program, which in all cases could be carried on in connection with any type of farming program of any section of the nation.

Bottoms Up!

A BARREL ROLL!... Hard on the dare-devil air devil... Safe for his engine, because it's still well-oiled though it's upside down. Just think: Your motor car—newest model or veteran—would actually get better engine lubrication if somehow you could always park it upside down!... Silly notion?... Just the same, you can see that by standing "bottoms up" your engine would have to stay oiled to the top! Then it certainly couldn't start dry—oil-starved. And that one worst source of engine wear would be ended for you.

Get this same great benefit for your car without any "topsy-turvy"... Get your engine OIL-PLATED. And that takes patented Conoco Germ Processed oil, with its "magnetic" power of mating to the working parts as intimately as chromium-plating is mated to the bumpers. Chromium-plating can't drain down; OIL-PLATING can't either. All the way up in your engine—all the while it stands or runs—all the time you use Germ Processed oil—you've got durable OIL-PLATING.

Then every start is well-oiled—wear-proofed. Every stroke of your engine, every mile you go, takes place on lasting OIL-PLATING. And you're not adding oil every other time you stop, once you change to the only Germ Processed oil... at Your Conoco Mileage Merchant's. He knows your correct Summer grade. Today have him drain and refill, and at once your engine's OIL-PLATED. Continental Oil Company

Huge Wardrobe Used in "Goodbye Mr. Chips" Film Coming to Yucca

Three hundred overcoats for snowy Christmas scenes; 2,000 boys' suits in four different periods in the history of England; 300 flat-topped bowlers, straw hats and top hats; and 500 cloth caps with specially designed colors and badges.

These are just a few of the items the wardrobe department had to deal with in outfitting the 2,000 boys who appear in the school scenes of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," filmization of the famous James Hilton novel, in which Robert Donat is starred on the Yucca screen, next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Biggest item in the wardrobe list was a duplicate set of 1,800 Eton collars and 900 school ties that went with them. The duplicate set was necessary to allow for breakages. Then, for the sporting scenes, there were complete sets of rubber togs of the dashing, long-knickered 1870 period and the rather more select whites of the cricketing teams of all periods.

Masters' caps, gowns and hoods provided another large item, for during the sixty years in which "Mr. Chips" is at his school, nearly a hundred masters pass through its ancient gates. Old boys who came back during the World War needed khaki uniforms and the staff at the school, pictured in the story, the porters and the housemaids all required distinctive uniforms.

But the wardrobe men took it all in their stride, and apart from a few outside schoolboys whose trousers just refused to fit, a few bent collars and a split seam or two, they regarded the job as a straightforward bit of tailoring.

Missing Boy Scout Found in Mountains

SHERMAN, Maine, July 26. (AP)—Donn Fendler, 12, Rye, N. Y., Boy Scout lost on Mount Katahdin for more than a week, was found, naked and exhausted, Tuesday in woods near here.

The boy, sought in a widespread manhunt since he became lost on the summit of the lofty mountain a week ago Monday, had wandered 35 miles away from the point where he was lost.

Nelson McMoran, owner of the Munkasoo sporting camps at Sherman, found the emaciated boy walking aimlessly in the thick underbrush across the East Branch River from his camps. Thin screams attracted McMoran's attention and he immediately crossed the river in a boat. He found the boy in a wild, uninhabited section.

previous donations this year have been secured mainly from business firms and a few individuals and it was their belief that all baseball fans and other citizens of the city would be only too glad to purchase one or more of the "Booster Day" tickets to keep the Cowboys on the field during the remainder of this season. It was felt that purchase of a one dollar ticket would not hurt anyone and that every citizen would be glad to make a small contribution to the ball club.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rain! To Go

The liver should pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Seek Two Others in Desert Death Probe

PHOENIX, July 26. (AP)—Maricopa county sheriff's deputies and Phoenix police started a "shake-down" of tourist courts and small hotels in the Salt River valley Tuesday seeking two young motorists in connection with the robbery-slaying of Walter J. Dickson, 64-year-old Spur, Tex., merchant.

Dickson was found badly beaten near Holbrook, July 18. He died that night.

Leland King, 22-year-old former soldier of Blackwell, Tex., arrested in Portales, N. M., was charged with murder in connection with Dickson's death, but Sheriff Dan Divilbess of Navajo county expressed belief someone else might have robbed the merchant after he fought with King.

Sheriff Lon Jordan said the men sought here were suspected of having taken $500 and a watch from Dickson. King claimed he took only $50 which had been involved in a poker game.

Highway Carelessness Re-Appears In Texas With 133 Deaths in June

AUSTIN, July 25—Julian Montgomery, State Highway Engineer, pointed to an apparent reappearing carelessness on the part of the Texas public as a probable answer to the increase in traffic fatalities during the month of June as compared to the number in June of last year.

"While there has been a 9.22 per cent decrease in fatalities in the first six months of this year as compared to the same period of last year, there were 13 deaths on Texas highways and city streets last month," Mr. Montgomery said. "That was an increase of 20 fatalities or 17.7 per cent over the same month last year, the first increase for any one month in 18 months." Along with the constant work of engineers, enforcement officers, and educators to bring about safety on the streets and highways, the public must not let down in its efforts to reduce traffic accidents, the Highway Engineer cautioned, pointing out that safety is largely an individual problem.

The Texas traffic toll for the first six months of this year stands at
