SOUND REASONS FOR LOW-HEADED TREES

Prune Fruit Trees In Season and Have a Profitable Harvest as Shown in Illustration

(By E. F. WHITE, Mississippi Agricul-tural College.) At this season of the year an extraordinarily large number of young orchards are being planted throughout the southern states All these young orchards should be headed back right now.

Truly a stitch in time saves nine in this heading back operation, for it life of the tree.

Peach and plum trees should be headed back to a single stem 15 to 18 inches above the ground.

Apple and pear trees should be headed back to 18 to 24 inches from the ground.

Care should be taken to make sure that six to eight healthy buds are left below the heading back cut, for the best of these will be the future major limbs of the tree.

There are five reasons for having the trees close to the ground instead of "trimming them up" skyward, It keeps best on the cob, and spread where only an agile climber armed out on the floor of granary. GUERNSEY GAINING IN FAVOR

Deep and Prolonged Milking Qualities Make This Type of Dairy Cow Valuable Acquisition.

The average Guernsey cow will weigh about 1,000 pounds, with the bulls weighing 200 to 300 pounds heavier, says the Agriculturist. The head of the Guernsey cow is long, with a slender neck. The body is large and deep, showing ample capacity for disposing of roughage. The flanks are thin. The muzzle of the Guernsey cow is usually small, curved and wavy and may show yellow at the base One of the distinguishing characteristics of the Guernsey is the large se cretion of yellow coloring matter in the skin, showing particularly where the hair is white, as around the ears and eyes and on the udder and flanks.

The Guernsey has no pronounced weak points. The addition of Guernsey blood in crossing with cows of mixed breeding will result in a higher milk flow and in a richer milk. The deep and prolonged milking qualities of the pure-bred Guernsey, together with the adaptability to the conditions of the average farm, make this type of dairy cow a formidable competitor to the breeds which have a wider and greater distribution. The production of milk that tests 4 per cent., and even 5 per cent, and sometimes 6 per cent, means much when taken in connection with the fact that the Guernsey is an economical producer. High production, low cost, high test, adaptability hung up in the granary. Oats and with no pronounced weak pointsbarley for seed should be run through | these are the factors which make the Guernsey increasingly popular.

REMOVING ODORS FROM MILK

Federal Investigators Have Discovered Method to Remove Unpleas ant Smells and Tastes.

A method has been discovered by the federal investigators for removing disagreeable odors and flavors from milk. The taste caused by cows eating wild onions or garlic can be removed by blowing filtered and washed air through the milk for thirty to sixty minutes, according to the strength of the flavor to be removed.

It is necessary to heat the milk to temperature of 145 degrees, as air blown through cold milk in a similar manner does not remove the disagreeable flavor. It also has a tendency to turn the fat into butter. It was found that the onion flavor is removed more quickly when milk is heated to 160 degrees, but this tends to produce a cooked taste and also reduces the cream line. In the case of cream with flavors of this kind, the same method can be used, except that it requires a slightly longer treatment. The loss in evaporation by using this method amounts to two or three per cent.

Benefits of Silage.

The silo makes it possible to raise more feed and to keep more cows on the same acreage and substitutes cer tainty for uncertainty in the manage ment of the herd to an extent impos sible in any other way.

Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Prescription, Overcomes Kidney Trouble

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

The Lidneys should receive some assistance when needed. We take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich, heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than nature intended. Evidence of kidney-trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles smarting or burning, brickdust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism maybe weak or irregular heart action warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trou-

IF HAIR IS TURNING

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dan-

Another Boost for Berger.

W. C. Berger, manager of the Pampell Opera House, announces some more improvements for his popular play house in the way of comforts for his patrons. He will put in eight more fans and three air ducts, or shafts, each 36 inches, and with this arrangement he will be able to keep fresh outside air passing through the hall constantly. The air will be cooled by passing over ice, and will be regulated to such a degree that it can be made absolutely comfortable in the hottest weather. Says Mr. Berger, "I want notices and other free matter. to make my place so comfortable that people will just naturally come this way when they want comfort, as well as the best entertainment that money can buy."

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling lust right, begin drinking phosphated hot water. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract Do your Inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like purities, get from your druggist or storekeeper a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish tinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach. liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.-Adv.

REQUIRED BY SHEEP

Different Animals May Be Pastured in the Various Fields for the Good of All.

One of the first essentials for suc cessful and pleasant sheep growing on any farm is to have the farm and all fields inclosed with woven-wire fencing of a substantial kind.

The same fencing used for sheep will also serve for cattle, horses and hogs. all of which in limited numbers may be grown on the same farm with sheep if the owner understands the habits and needs of the different animals and is a good manager of live stock.

With a complete set of outside and cross fences the different animals may be pastured in different fields for the good of all. Permanent success with sheep will come when the farm is so divided into fenced fields that the sheep may be turned from one clean pasture to another every few months or weeks of the year.

They will not thrive and remain healthy confined for all the year in sary on the average farm.

JACK LONDON SYNOPSIS. --8---

Humphrey Van Weyden, critic and dilettante, is thrown into the water by the sluking of a ferryboat in a fog in San Francisco bay, and becomes unconscious before help reaches him. On coming to his senses he finds himself aboard the sealing schooner Ghost, Captain Wolf Larsen, bound to Japan waters, witnesses the death of the first mate and hears the captain curse the dead man for presuming to die. The captain refuses to put Humphrey ashore and makes him cabin boy 'for the good of his soul.' He begins to learn potato peeling and dish washing under the cockney cook. Mugridge, is caught by a heavy sea shipped over the quarter as he is carrying tea aft and his knee is seriously hurt, but no one pays any attention to his injury. Hump's quarters are changed aft. Mugridge steals his mioney and chases him when accused of it. Later he listens to Wolf give his idea of life—'like yeast, a ferment... the big cat the little. 'Cooky is jealous of Hump and hazes him. Wolf hazes a seaman and makes it the hais for another philosophic discussion with Hump. Wolf entertains Mugridge in his cabin, wins from him at cards the money he stole from Hump, and then tells Hump it is his Wolf's by right of might. Cooky and Hump whet knives at each other Hump.
