GEORGE BOWLES

Discusses the 'Raising' of Children, and Raises the Question of Whose Job It Is to Make Men and Women of the Boys and Girls.

HERE was a fellow came out to this country from Boston once, who made fun of me for talking about "raising" children. I didn't quarrel with him, for I thought it was ignorance on his part. He said folks "reared" children and "raised" cotton and other things "not fitten ter be printed." I know he was wrong about that, because I have been used to hearing old men and women, good Texas people too, mind you, say when a fellow acted ugly, "well, that shows his raisin'." That is evidence enough for me that folks "raise" children, and other things, and "grow" cotton. But we have nothing to do with the matter of making grammars and rhetorics, what we want to do now is to discuss the matter of raising children in such a way as to make men and women of them.

I heard a woman once who was the mother of a flock of "kids" express herself very forcibly about the matter and I expect some of them will criticize this article, in about the same way. The woman referred to was one of those women who are so versatile in their language and emotions that she could cuss a "kid" and call it an angel in the same breath. She would tell one of her children, "go away from here and let me alone, I'm busy. If you say anything more to me about cookies I'll wear you out." Finally she would whip the child and then go and get a cookie to make it stop crying. Upon the occasion referred to she was requested to read an article that had been prepared by a school teacher of experience upon the subject of training the child mind. The good woman, who was really good at heart, but was just ignorant, said, "What do I want to read that for. What do a old maid know about raisin' children anyway?"

Now raising children in such a manner that they will become useful citizens is just as much a study as any other one thing in the world. It is deplorable, yet it is true, that if the average merchant gave the same attention to balancing the character of his son as he gives to the balancing of his books, if the ranchman would give the same attention to putting the "brands and flesh marks" of a gentleman on his sons before starting them on the road of life, that he gives to putting the road brand on his cattle before he starts them up the trail, if the farmer and his wife would only put the same care and consideration upon the raising of their boys and girls that they devote to raising cotton, corn, chickens, turkeys and other things, the citizenship of the country would be greatly improved.

Now, no one should get the idea from this that I think a home should be made a school for children to be taught dignity, because that is a crime against nature. If there is a choice between the man or woman who puts spectacles on a 4-year-old child, constantly nags him about proper behavior, insists upon his memorizing a verse of Scripture each week, feeds him on "sterilized" food, and insists in a hundred other ways upon dwarfing his body, ruining his life and wrecking his soul, and the man or woman who is fool enough to think that "he is my son, blood will tell, and I am never uneasy about what will become of my children," I believe it lies with the latter class.

I child, "just turned loose on the range," so to speak, has at least some chance of becoming physically strong, and it is a well known fact that physical strength will go a long way toward correcting lack of mental development, even in after life. But, thinking parents try to combine good example and noble precept, with wholesome living, as a means of making men and women of their sons and daughters.

The most unnatural thing in the world is for a man or woman to get too tired or too busy to make an effort toward the happiness of a little child. There are men and women in the world who sometimes say of their own children, "he is just naturally mean." Who has not heard such expressions from parents? If your child has a tendency to do things that are wrong, continual nagging at him will not cure the trouble. It is not that you do not love your child, but is because you are guilty of the one thing that leads to more sorrow than all other human frailties combined, that is "You do not think."

In order to become acquainted with the nature of your little one it is not necessary that you take a special course in psychology. The Great God, who made it possible for you to be a parent, gave you that occult sense, that prescience, which should enable you, through love, to know every tortuous turn of the intricate path trodden by baby footsteps. To put yourself in the place of your boy or girl when a great disappointment has been encountered. To know their very souls, and to do your whole duty in the matter of raising your children.

There are many people in the world whose behavior toward their children would lead one to believe that they felt no parental love for their offspring. There are some people who seem to think that this fault is most often found among wealthy classes who have many other things beside their families to distract their attention from their little ones. The fact, probably, is that the habit is confined to no class, but it is a crime perpetrated by people who "do not think" in every class in the human world.

However, there are many valuable lessons to be learned from the lower animals, even, in regard to the parent's love of offspring. There is a strong disposition of parents to love their children best when they cannot have them near. Sometimes we see a mother who was forever nagging and scolding her child, almost overcome with grief at its loss. I do not believe in trying to scare people into doing things. There is just as much probability that your child will live to ripe old age as there is of any other child doing so. There is as much probability that he will make a good citizen, die regretted and mourned by his neighbors, and be eternally saved if you train him right, or die in the penitentiary and go to hell, if you neglect him, as there is of other children doing the same thing.

I do not want to frighten either children or grown people into "being good," but I am going to tell you a story about an old nigger that I once knew who seems now to me to have had considerable judgment in regard to the matter of raising children, and a great deal of "human feelin'" in the matter of loving them. Uncle Ike was a gardener, and had done the gardening in the same family "since a time to which the memory of man runneth not back." The master of the house had died and left a single little son. The child was the pet and playmate of the old nigger. He was a little orphan, his mother was nervous and complaining, so the child took up with Uncle Ike. Sometimes the little fellow would "muss up his Sunday clothes" and the mother would scold him and tell him he never would do any good, that he was sloven "Just like father had been." She didn't mean anything, she "just didn't think." At last the little boy died. The next morning the sun came up bright, the air was crisp with an early October frost. Uncle Ike put on his coat and went out to the coop to feed the Thanksgiving turkey. When he had finished his chores, he stood leaning on the fence watching the old Buff Cochon rooster scratch for grubs in the chip pile. After a while he began to talk to himself as old negroes are apt to do. "I dunno ef I can feel thankful this year er not," muttered the old man, "pears lak I ain't never gointer git useter little Bill being gone. Miss Margaret, she sets thar in the big house er eryin' an' I been wonderin' ef she feels the hurtin' lak this old nigger do." The old fellow wiped his eyes on the back of his hand and continued mumbling:

Bill wus sholy lak his pap,
Jes' es much es he could be,
Ridin' hossie on de saw buck,
An' peepin' frow de fence at me.
I kain't see what makes him gone,
An' leave ol' Ike to weep an' cry,
Jes' close dem laughin' eyes ter sleep.
Ne'mine, I'll jine him bime-by.

Dey's a powerful lot er little chaps,
Jes' sweet es Little Bill,
But I don't know the yuthers
An' I never, never will.
'Cause that'll boy rid on mah back,
An' pulled mah ol' grey wool,
Dey ain' no room in dis ol' heart,
'Cause Bill done made it full.

I 'member lots er times when he
Wus des de very baddest kin',
He frowed rocks at his Uncle Ike,
An' cut de gyarden line,

But since he gone it don't seem bad,
I wish he'd frowed some more,
I hope he's frowin' rocks right now
On de shinin', golden shore.

De good Lawd tuck Marse John er way
An' jes' lef' Little Bill,
An' now my Little Bill's asleep,
In his bed, so white an' still.

Dey use ter scold him lots er times—
He didn't have no pap—
An' den he'd come to Uncle Ike,
An' crawl up in mah lap.

White folks is got a lot er sense,
But they don't know a child
An' when he wants a little fun
They think he's awful wild.

I wish Little Bill was back agin,
Ter pull my kinky wool;
I'd let him tear the wood pile down
An' fill my water jug plum full

Er nails, an' rocks, an' things,
Ef I jes' had 'im in my lap.
Marse John wus a good ter me,
An' Little Bill was like his pap.

Voice of the Hills.

Peace is the message of the hills—
Peace that silently broods
Upon their mighty heads, and fills
Their forest solitudes.
The leaping, mountain waterfalls,
Loosed from their lofty poise,
As each unto the other calls,
Blend in a murmuring voice
Whose silvery, rushing music stirs
The petty play of human moods,
And bids the candid soul rejoice
In the deep secrets of the woods,
The majesty of Nature's voice.

E. CHRISTIAN.

TOO MUCH RESTRAINT.

The cause of the suspension of the Peking Gazette after bearing the whips and scorns of a thousand years of press censorship is no longer a mystery. It was when the editor received command not to use vigorous language in discussing the boycott that he forever laid aside his ancient and honorable marking brush with the remark: "We are done! We can moderate our language on the subject of transfers, the tariff, Denis Kearney and the Peking Expedition looting, but when it comes to the boycott, as for us it is vigor or bust! With this issue we bust!"—New York Sun.

SUNBEAMS.

People should always bear in mind that the fact that some one disagrees with them is not proof conclusion that the other fellow is wrong and they are right.

There are some communities in Texas where the absolute right of local self-government would result in a man being hung for possessing the requisite number of clean shirts to have fresh one each day.

The man who never does anything except for his own personal benefit is unable to give other people credit for patriotic impulses; he is also unable to perform the simplest function of a good citizen of the community where he lives.

Talking about the "Awful Fright" of a hat that your neighbor is wearing, will never have a tendency to put feathers in your own cap. Knocking your competitor in business, or your opponent in politics, is likewise wrong; worse than that, it is dishonest.

When it becomes a crime for men to want a legitimate profit on their business, for laborers to want reasonable compensation for their work, the country is in a bad way indeed. When men want more than a fair compensation for anything, the country is in just as bad a condition.

Readiness to believe evil things of you neighbor is evidence that you possess a small soul; undue alacrity in the matter of swallowing all the ridiculous rot that you hear in praise of other people is an indication of poor judgment; but promptness in peddling either is proof positive that you possess a small, narrow soul, and an unbalanced mind.

Isn't it strange that so many men in the world who desire to hold office for the good of the Nation, are so willing to lie in order to have a chance to save the country.

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 4—Poultry Day will be one of the special days at the San Antonio International fair which opens this year on September 26 and closes on October 11, but that will not be the only day that the money making hen will be the center of interest at the big exposition.

L. M. Samuels, superintendent of the poultry department, is receiving so many inquiries and entries from poultry raisers that he expects all the available space in the poultry building will be taken up long before the fair opens.

The judge will be H. B. Savage of Belton, who acted in the same capacity at the fair three years ago and who is known as an able, experienced and impartial judge. His little talks concerning the points of the bird that he happens to be passing judgment upon, are interesting even to the laymen who know absolutely nothing about the fine points of a fowl.

Prizes aggregating more than a thousand dollars have been authorized by the Fair Association for the poultry department, and the competition promises to be exceedingly keen. It is certain that any raiser who wins a ribbon at this year's fair or who carries home first, second or third money in any of the classes, will have something to be proud of for the birds already entered are from all parts of State, and from a great number of owners. Single birds, pairs and pens will all have their innings, and there will be a large number of poultry lovers on hand to offer fancy prices for the birds which show up well in the competition. So noticeable is this, that the poultry department at the Fair often resembles a market, so many of the birds are sold in the exhibition building.

A Traveling Man's Experience.

"I must tell you of my experience on an East bound O. R. & N. R. R. train from Pendleton to Le Grande, Ore., writes Sam A. Garber, a well known traveling man. "I was in the smoking department with some other traveling men when one of them went out into the coach and came said, 'There is a woman sick unto death in this car. I at once got up and went out, found her very ill with cramp colic; her hands and arms were drawn up so you could not straighten them, and with a death like look on her face. Some ladies were working with her, giving her whiskey. I went to my suitcase and got my bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy (I never travel without it), ran to the water tank, put a double dose of the medicine in the glass, poured some water into it and stirred it with a pencil; then I had quite a time to get the ladies to let me give it to her, but I succeeded. I could at once see the effect and I worked with her, rubbing her hands, and in twenty minutes I gave her another dose. By this time we were almost into Le Grande, where I was to leave the train. I gave the bottle to the husband in case another dose was needed, but by the time the train ran into LeGrande she was all right, and I received the thanks of every passenger in the car." A Paying Investment.

Mr. John White, of 38 Highland Ave., Houlton, Maine, says: "Have been troubled with a cold every winter and spring. Last winter I tried many advertised remedies, but the cold continued until I bought a 50c bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery; before that was half gone, the cough was all gone. This winter the same happy result has followed; a few doses once more banished the annual cough. I am now convinced that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best of all cough and lung remedies." Young Hutchings Saves Boy.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 1.—Henry Hutchings, Jr., son of Gen. Henry Hutchings, saved the life of Leslie Carpenter, 9-year-old son of an Austin druggist, R. J. Carpenter, last evening. The boy was swimming at Deep Eddy and got beyond his depth. The Hutchings boy, although but 17 years of age, swam to the rescue and saved him.

NATURAL MONUMENTS.

This term has recently come into use to describe remarkable features of the earth's surface and of vegetation which possess sufficient scientific attractiveness to warrant efforts for their protection. In Prussia a special state department has been organized under the control of the minister of education for encouraging and directing such protection. Among the objects mentioned as especially worthy of preservation are unique specimens of trees and particular types of woodland and of marshes, and heaths often containing peculiar species of animals and plants.

Prohibitionists Will Force Fight in Legislature.

Austin, Tex., Aug 31.—Talk of the plans of the prohibition organization in Texas during the next session of the Legislature is current here, and while the plans have not fully developed, it is said the prohibitionists are to send a large delegation to Austin to remain until the Legislature shall have acted on the submission question.

It is the plan to force the Legislature to submit the question early in the session, the idea being to get an early place on the calendar and force the fight early in the game. The intention is to get the amendment through the house during the first two or three weeks, if possible, and then put the question to the Senate immediately. The Senate is where the prohibitionists expect possible defeat of submission.

The story is that the prohibitionists expect to send a thousand delegates to Austin, all to wear white streamers, the emblem of the prohibition movement. The purpose is to keep the delegation of 1000 in Austin until the question is submitted.

How To Get Strong.

P. J. Daly, of 1247 W. Congress St., Chicago, tells of a way to become strong. He says: "My mother, who is old and was very feeble, is deriving so much benefit from Electric Bitters, that I feel it's my duty to tell those who need a tonic and strengthening medicine about it. In my mother's case a marked gain in flesh has resulted, insomnia has been overcome, and she is steadily growing stronger." Electric Bitters quickly remedy stomach, liver and kidney complaints. Sold under guarantee at Rock Drug Store. 50c.

Doves Have Two Months Yet.

On account of previous game laws in Texas opening the season for wild doves on September 1, some people have the impression that, beginning with September 1, they can lawfully shoot those birds, seemingly forgetting the fact that the 30th Legislature changed the season for doves to make it conform to that fixed for quail and other such game birds. It will be two months yet before the season will open for the shooting of any native game bird, and those who shoot them prior to November 1 will be liable to prosecution and the infliction of such penalties as are prescribed by the law.

On account of the erroneous impression that the dove season opens September 1, the game wardens in this section of the State have been instructed to use utmost diligence in detecting violations of the law and to prosecute them in the courts. Ignorance of the terms of the statute does not excuse its violation, and it probably will be better for all hands to keep the guns in their cases until the bird season is legally open.—Houston Post.

ROYAL MURDERESS.

During the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, when the gentle art of poisoning was so greatly in vogue, that arch poisoner, Catherine de Medici, introduced into France, together with poisoned gloves, rings in which poison was concealed, and it is said these rings attained a great popularity among such folk as wished to rid themselves of troublesome or rich friends or relatives. Catherine herself is said to have made use of her rings, which she had brought from Italy, where the process of ring poisoning originated. Many a hapless courtier, stooping to kiss the hand of the queen, received in his mouth the poison which the ring concealed and a spring released.

Don't be afraid to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to your children. It contains no opium or other harmful drug. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

THE WEDDING TOLL.

The village of Blackwell has just witnessed the revival of the old Somersetshire custom known as wedding toll.

This consists of stretching a rope across the road as the bride and bridegroom are returning from the church and demanding toll before they are allowed to pass. A young Londoner who was proceeding with his bride to her home thus found the pathway obstructed, toll being asked and cheerfully given on four different occasions.

The revival of the custom brought together a large number of the residents of the district, and the newly married couple received quite an ovation as they passed down the village street.—London Standard.

PRAISES AMERICAN WOMEN.

Lady Henry Somerset has taken up the cudgels in defense of American women against the too hasty criticism of them credited to Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson. Lady Somerset has been acquainted with prominent women in this country and has passed many months in America since she first joined Miss Frances E. Willard in the temperance movement. Visiting Miss Willard at her home in Illinois and entertaining her in her own home in England, she has formed no hasty judgment of women in this country, who, she says, are the most progressive women on the globe.

A Sure-Enough Knocker.

J. C. Goodwin, of Reidsville, N. C., says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve is a sure enough knocker for ulcers. A bad one came on my leg last summer, but that wonderful salve knocked it out in a few rounds. Not even a scar remained." Guaranteed for piles, sores, burns, etc. 25c at Rock Drug Store.

OIL PAINTINGS.

Artists sometimes use a raw potato for cleaning oil paintings. Cut off the end of the potato and rub the painting very gently with the cut end. As fast as the potato becomes soiled cut off a thin slice and continue to use it until the whole surface is cleaned.

Another method is to rub the soiled surface with the finger wet in warm water. If the dirt is very hard and old, use oil instead of water. Let it rest for a few hours, so that the dirt may be softened, then wash off with a sponge and tepid suds.

WANTS MARRIED TEACHERS.

In his latest lecture on the training of girls for family life Prof. Earl Barnes, the university extension lecturer, took strong ground against the prevailing tendency of limiting our public school teaching force to celibates. He insisted that married men and women should be placed in charge, if humanistic principles of family life are to be instilled. He particularly scored the modern exclusively feminine colleges, which he said were preparing women to live apart from men.

HAVE WOOD CARVING FAD.

Women of late are much interested in wood carving, possibly because one of the European monarchies has lately adopted the art and it is quite a fad in foreign countries for both men and women to chisel pretty bits of woodwork for the home. With the regular carving tools and soft wood it is possible for women to design some very handsome articles. Now that the pyrography needles and colors can be added, we may expect some masterpieces in wood, perhaps clever imitations of Celtic or Norse designs.

QUEEN'S OBJECT LESSON.

On one occasion, says Cassell's Saturday Journal, Queen Amelia of Portugal nearly caused a revolution at her court by photographing with Roentgen rays one of her ladies who was celebrated for her wasplike figure. The queen, after developing the picture, gave a lecture on the evils of tight lacing, and held up her unfortunate sitter as an awful example. All the ladies were ordered to let out their waists, and the grumbling and discontent threatened severe trouble.

DEPENDENT UPON IGNORANCE.

There will very probably be a bill introduced in the next legislature looking to the repeal of the full rendition law. That will be a great mistake. There has been taxes paid on more property that has heretofore escaped bearing its full share of the burden of government, under this law, than has ever before been brought to justice. There is but one means of passing such a bill. Governor Campbell will not sign it, and it would be impossible to pass it over his veto, unless the people raised such a clamor for its repeal that the political cowards in the legislature would all go over to the opposition against honest rendering of taxable property. There is but one hope to bring this about, and that is to appeal to the ignorance of the rank and file of the people who are busy at work producing the wealth of the country and leave others to do their figuring. We have tried to demonstrate in these columns that the small property owner is the gainer by the operation of the full rendition law. Land owners of this section, in some instances, are complaining that the law has put the tax higher on their lands. True enough, and that which is right and has always been the law ought to be good enough for any honest man. While your land has been increased in taxable value from one-fourth to one-third, the law has compelled other sections to render land at $75 per acre that was formerly rendered at $12. The law is making a harder burden on the fellow who was robbing the State out of a big lot of money, than on the one who was just dodging a little tax, and that is right. Every citizen of the State should make an effort to inform himself on these matters, and when the legislature meets be in a position to discuss them intelligently with their representatives.

The people of the great Texas port, and of the State in general, ought to be proud of the special trade edition of the Galveston News of September the first. It was an edition that will do the publishers good, and it ought to do them good, because it has done, and will continue to do the people of the city of Galveston, of Texas, and of the entire nation good. When a good thing happens in a great city it is good for everybody in the country, and thinking people are always proud of it.

The greatest Boosters in Texas today are her newspapers. The greatest boosters among the papers are the great dailies, not because they are in any degree more willing than the small papers, but because they are more able. The Houston Post came out on the first day of September with an annual trade edition that was a bumper. Such publications are a credit to the publishers; and are inestimable value to the country.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK.

Congressman Slayden Expresses His Views.

Congressman James L. Slayden, of this district, spent a day or two in Kerrville this week. He was on his way to the fair at Fredericksburg and busy talking good roads and politics. As is quite natural with a man whose own political fortunes are perfectly secure he put just a little more emphasis into the good roads side of his talk.

Asked by the reporter of the Sun what was doing in that line, Mr. Slayden said:

"The Commissioners' Court of Bexar County, in response to public sentiment—a sentiment, by the way, that is well nigh unanimous—has about determined that at the November term of the Court it will submit to the people a proposition to issue bonds to develop the road system of the County.

"We have learned from experience that macadam roads increase the convenience of the farmer, double land values, or more, and enlarge the income of the County at the same time that they reduce the tax rate.

"Personally, I am most anxious to see Gillespie, Kerr, Kendall and Bexar tied together by a system of highways that will make us almost independent of railways. When we consider the advantages in contrast with the cost, anyone can see at a glance that good roads are a good investment. Indeed, they are the best investment that the people can make. The saving in the cost of transportation is an economy of the widest possible distribution. It puts the saving into the pockets of the producers who are by odds the greatest number in our State. Thus, you see, my good roads propaganda squares with the Democratic rule of the greatest good to the greatest number.

"Get your people into line," Mr. Slayden continued, "and we will soon accomplish this work.

"Evidently the people of Kendall are of the right mind and I do not doubt that Gillespians will do their duty in the premises. Interlace these mountains with good roads and hundreds of summer residents will build homes and pay taxes to help keep them up.

What is the outlook for National politics, Mr. Slayden, asked the Sun reporter.

"For Democratic Success it is good now, and better every day," was the answer of the representative.

"I am in receipt of letters from Illinois, Delaware and Ohio of the most satisfactory and encouraging nature. The Ohio member of the National Executive Committee writes me that he is confident that Ohio will this year give her electoral vote to Bryan and Kern. He told me of one Bryan club in his own neighborhood that numbered at the time he wrote me 600 members, of whom 86, or slightly more than 14 per cent were Republicans. Now take 14 per cent away from the Republican and add it to the Democratic vote and you see what a tremendous difference it will make. Of course, we do not expect that difference to obtain throughout the State. If it did Bryan's majority would be stupendous.

"Condition in Ohio are peculiar. Bryan has always been popular there. He had more votes there in 1896 than any candidate for any office ever had in the State before. McKinley carried the State, but at the most tremendous cost of money and decency. Millions of dollars were spent and thousands of people debauched. This year the Republicans have no great sum of money to spend in buying votes. The demand for the publication of contributions and the frank expression of the Democratic platform and candidate has forced Mr. Taft to make a sort of halfway declaration on the same subject. The trusts that have always supported the Republican party, and want to do so now because it is their interest to do so, are a little scared of the statutes and a good deal scared at public sentiment. So the cash is not rolling in as in the days of Mark Hanna, when the trusts were forced to contribute to the campaign fund and the people were to repay them.

Then the Foraker row has not been settled yet. He will nominally be in line, but that he will sincerely and effectively support Mr. Taft nobody in Ohio believes he dislikes Mr. Taft and Taft reciprocates.

There are two Republican tickets in West Virginia and even if one of them gets out the feeling produced by the row will not be allayed.

The Democracy of the country is united for the first time since 1892. On the other hand the enemy have quarrels on in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, West Virginia, New York and both Dakotas.

"In Indiana the Democratic candidate for Governor, a Mr. Marshall, is popular and making a winning campaign. Even the New York Sun, the most able and stalwart opponent of Bryan, says that Marshall will win and—to use the language of the Sun—may pull Bryan through."

"It is a Democratic year, young man, and if you will come to Washington on the 4th day of next March I will get you a front seat at the inauguration of W. J. Bryan."

"What about your own campaign?" asked the Sun reporter.

"Well," replied Mr. Slayden, "the district is Democratic by a large majority and if I can keep reasonably upright until after the election, I will win by 8000 to 15000 majority, the first if a light vote is polled and the latter if a full vote is cast. I think at least fifty stalwart Republicans in Bexar County have come to me with the statement that they would vote for me. These statements were unsolicited but flattering. However they are a very good sign of how the district will vote."

In the Lowry Addition.

A contract has been let to Bruno Schott to erect a new bridge on Lowry street in the new addition. The streets are now all graded and everything moving along nicely. Since last week the following lots have been sold:

L. B. Miller, 2.
Miss Mabel Davey, 3.
Bruno Schott, 5.

These choice lots are going very fast and those desiring to invest in city property will miss a very profitable investment if they fail to get in on this.

FUNNY THINGS

FROM THE PAPERS.

The Minister's Announcement.

A gentleman in Durban made a present of a beautiful baptismal font to the church of which he was a member. As the old font, which was situated at the door, was in a pretty good state of preservation, it was decided to erect the new gift at the other end of the church. One Sunday morning, after the new font had been put up in the allotted place, the clergyman from the pulpit thanked the generous benefactor for his kindness in making such a handsome gift, and ended by making the following startling announcement: "In the future, children will be baptized at both ends."

An innocent man nearly caused a riot on a New York elevated car the other day. He saw something in the aisle and stooped and picked it up. "I have found a diamond brooch," he announced to the other passengers. There were forty other passengers in the car besides himself. "It's mine!" sang out the forty, in unison, making frantic dives to get at the finder. In an instant there was a scramble and a fight to get near the brooch and grab it. The guard of the train had to blow a riot call for the police, and the finder of the brooch took it to the police station. Not one of the forty claimants went to the station house to prosecute his or her claim. The inference to be drawn is that there were forty liars on the car who were willing to be forty thieves.

Six of a Kind.

Some people here are very familiar with the expression, "two of a kind," but here is six of a kind says an exchange.

A man "down east" thought he could cross the track in front of an advancing locomotive. The services at the grave were very impressive.

A darkey in Georgia tampered with a steam boiler. They found the largest piece of him in the next township.

A bet won in New Hampshire not long ago by a man who ate 15 dozen oysters. The trimmings on his coffin cost $27.50.

A Texas man warned his wife not to light the fire with kerosene. She didn't need the warning. Her clothes fit his second wife remarkably well.

A man in Canada attempted to dry gun powder in the kitchen stove. His afflicted family would be glad of any information as to his whereabouts.

A Missouri man thought he could handle a rattle snake the same as a snake charmer. By reason of the undertaker demanding his pay in advance, the funeral was delayed four days.

Got the Items Mixed.

The local paper in a Mississippi town recently had occasion to describe a wedding. On the same day an article was written concerning two impudent tramps who had visited the town. The new boy in the office managed to get the slugs mixed, with the following results: "The bride entered the right, escorted by her brother, who knocked at the door demanding something to eat. She was beautifully gowned in a gray costume. The groom wore the conventional suite for such affairs a ragged corduroy suit, a soiled shirt and a battered derby hat, and was accompanied by a fierce-looking bull dog. Both were dirty and unkept. They left town in a side-door sleeper of a local freight train, followed by showers of rice, old shoes and good wishes. If they should be caught here again they are likely to be roughly handled by indignant citizens.

It was a fly young man, who when he proposed to a newly rich snob's daughter was met with the query, "So you want to marry my daughter. Got any money?" answered, "Yes, I have a little, how much do you hold her at?"—Ex.

"Now that we are married," he said, "we are one and I must insist that this be the last time that you appear in low-necked gown." "We may be one," she responded with asperity, "but you are only half of us, and I shall dress my half as I please."—Young's Magazine.

He Could Be Trusted.

A train from the north pulled into the station at Charlottesville, Va. An elderly man thrust his head out of a window of a day coach and summoned a little colored boy. The following colloquy ensued:

"Little boy, have you a mother?"
"Yassah."
"Are you faithful to your studies?"
"Yassah."
"Do you go to Sundayschool?"
"Yassah."
"Do you say your prayers every night?"
"Yassah."
"Can I trust you to do an errand for me?"
"Yassah."
"Well, here's five cents to get me a couple of apples."—Ex.

A Candidate's Bill.

Below is given the expense account of a West Texas candidate, who says he will never be a candidate again. Here is the way he puts it down:

Lost three months and 33 days canvassing; 1340 hours thinking about the election; five acres of cotton; 23 acres of corn; a whole sweet potato patch; 5 sheeps and 1 beef given to barbecue; 2 front teeth and a considerable quantity of hair in a personal skirmish. Gave 79 plugs of tobacco, 2 pairs of suspenders, 4 calico dresses, 7 dolls and 13 baby rattlers.

Told 2889 lies, shook hands 43,569 times; talked enough to have made in print 1000 large volumes of patent office reports; kissed 124 babies, kindled one kitchen fire, cut two cords of words, pulled 747 bundles of fodder, toted 27 buckets of water, was dog bit six times.

Loaned out 3 barrels of flour, 58 bushels of meal, 150 pounds of bacon, 36 pounds of butter, 12 dozen eggs, 3 umbrellas, 14 lead pencils, 1 Bible, 1 coat, 5 paper collars, none of which have been returned.

Called my opponent a tabulated liar—doctor's bill $10. Had 5 arguments with my wife—result: 1 flower vase smashed; 1 broom handle broken; 1 dish of hash knocked off the table; 1 shirt bosom ruined; 2 handfuls of whiskers pulled out; 10 cents worth of sticking plaster bought besides spending $1,276.13 on the campaign.

Got 4 votes (myself, father and two brothers) and have come to the conclusion that there are more liars to the square inch during the campaign than any other time.—Ex.

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 3.—

Out of $50,000 in premiums for all departments at the big International Fair, which will open in this city on September 26th and close October 11th, almost $15,000 has been set aside for premiums in the live stock department alone. This has attracted cattle breeders from all over the United States in even larger numbers than before, and this year's cattle exhibit will be the largest and best ever seen in the state of Texas, or perhaps in the South. So great is the interest in the live-stock department that the Texas Shorthorn Breeders' Association has contributed $500 and the Fair Association another $500 additional for prizes in the shorthorn class, making $35,000 for this class alone.

Nearly all the space in the barns in the live stock department has already been contracted for and before the Fair opens there will not be an empty stall in the vast section which has been set aside for the cattle.

Horses, swine, sheep, goats and other live stock divisions are also well represented in the list of entries, and before the big Fair opens, all the available stalls in those classes will be taken. The poultry department will have the finest exhibit ever seen here, this year, and several expert judges of state-wide reputation, have been selected to award the premiums which are numerous and large.

The lowest rates ever offered by the railroads of Texas for a Fair of this kind have been granted, and the greatest crowd ever gathered together in San Antonio at one time for any purpose will be seen here during the Fair. Thousands of dollars are being expended by the San Antonio International Fair Association for the improvement of the spacious grounds, and the securing of numerous free amusement attractions.

To Unveil Reagan Monument.

Palestine, Tex., Aug. 31.—At a meeting of the John H. Reagan Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy, the question of arranging for the unveiling of the monument being erected here to the memory of Judge John H. Reagan was taken up.

It has been decided to have at least three addresses, and Mrs. Reagan will name one of the orators. Miss Kate Daffan, State president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, will be invited to talk. All the chapters of the Texas division will be invited to participate. It was suggested at the meeting that the daughters all dress in uniform, gray presumably, and march in a body, carrying flowers, and deposit these offerings at the foot of the monument. The school children will be present and sing appropriate songs.

A morning reception will be held by the Daughters in honor of the out-of-town visitors, and a band will furnish music for the occasion. Miss Bessie Ferguson, a granddaughter of Judge Reagan, has been selected to unveil the monument.

Brumby Will Modify.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 30.—Dr. Wm. M. Brumby, state health officer, has notified the members of the International Club of this city that he will modify the quarantine regulations now placed against Mexico. The directors of the club showed Dr. Brumby where the reports of yellow fever in Mexico had been exaggerated. Just what modifications will be made are to be announced this week. The modifications of the quarantine means much to the San Antonio International Fair.

EGYPTIAN COIN FOUND IN ANCIENT MOUND.

THOUGHT TO PRESENT EVIDENCE THAT ANCIENT NILE RESI-DENTS FOUND THEIR WAY TO THIS CONTINENT.

Victoria, Tex., Aug. 29.—P. H. Fagan, a well known stockman of this county, has an Egyptian coin in his possession of possibly inestimable value. He bought it from a Mexican cotton picker, at Fannin, Goliad County, last week for a trifle. The Mexican says he unearthed it in a mound on the Driscoll ranch in Nueces County.

How the coin got there is a mystery. Some think it might have been lost by Gypsies, but the fact that it was found in an undisturbed dwelling place of a prehistoric race dispels that theory.

Possibly the mound builders themselves were Egyptians or a kindred people. They formerly inhabited the Ohio and Mississippi valleys and Texas. The best known group of mounds is near Newark, Ohio, and consists of elaborate earthworks in the form of a circle, octagon and square, enclosing an area of about four square miles. There are a number of mounds in this county, but probably more in Aransas county than any other section of the State.

The human remains found in these mounds are usually so much decayed as to preclude the recovery of a single bone entire. The fact is regarded as evidence of the great antiquity of the mounds. Mr. Fagan says he has dug up the remains of several of these people and found only the teeth intact, which he has among his relics.

The coin is made of brass and on one side is shown the Sphinx near Gizeh, which the Egyptians adored under the name of Harempkhus, that is Sun on the Horizon, and in the background is shown the rising sun and four pyramids. There is a line of hieroglyphics at the base, which probably states the age of the coin. On the reverse side is the likeness of some Egyptian deity, probably Theth, the chief moon-god, which is generally represented as ibis-headed, and is on the coin, surmounted by the man. At the feet of the figure are two cat heads, the cat being considered sacred in Egypt, and on each side are a number of hieroglyphic inscriptions.

The coin was probably struck during the reign of Ramses II, about 200 years B. C. The writings of the ancient Aztecs were in hieroglyphics, but the Sphinx and other Egyptian figures on the coin is proof positive that it is not of Aztec origin.—S. A. Express.

The Sun is of opinion that the coin referred to in the above correspondence is spurious. That is that it is a possible reproduction of some coin discovered by archaeologists in the land of the Pharos, but not an original Egyptian coin. The coin is said to be made of copper, which this writer knows will become thick coated with "kanker" in a few years if exposed to weather. According to the description given in the correspondence the converse side of the coin bears an image of the Sphinx, which in the religion of the ancient Egyptians was known as Harempkhus, the earthly representative of the sun, which they worshipped as a representative of deity. In the background are four pyramids and the rising sun, while beneath this design, in position corresponding to the position occupied by the date upon our coins, are certain characters which signify the date of the coin.

On the reverse side of the coin is the image of, not Theth, as suggested by the above correspondence, but Bast, who was the goddess of the old Egyptian calendar of deities, and who was always guarded by two mammoth cats. A close observation of the coin will disclose the fact that there is a cat's head showing upon each side of the image, about the knees. On the same side of the coin, toward the top, at the right, is shown a smaller image of the Egyptian god of labor, with hammer in hand. Opposite this, at the upper left side two fishes are shown with heads reversed. There also some hieratic emblems upon this side of the coin.

Our reason for questioning the antiquity of these coins, of which there are several in America, is that there has been no Egyptian government to issue coins of any description since about 300 B. C. At that time the Greeks, under Alexander, took control of the government of the ancient pharos, and Greek coins were used. About 51 years before Christ, Egypt became a part of the Roman Empire, and from that time on to A. D. 337, when the Roman Empire was divided, Roman coins were used. After the division the country was in a measure abandoned by the Romans, and became a prey to the nomadic bands of Western Asia. The government was changeable as the power of the different tribes, or factions, waxed or waned. The Egyptians still erected temples to their gods, and perhaps still made coins, but there has been no coin passed current in Egypt, bearing these characters, since at least 500 years before the birth of Christ, or about 25 centuries ago. These coins do not show evidence having existed many years. Another reason for our skepticism is that Mr. W. H. Rawson, a prominent druggist of this city found one of the coins in the street, near his place of business about a year ago. The reasonable conclusion, therefore is that these coins were brought to America by certain Assyrian peddlers, for the purpose of working upon the credulity of the American public, and were lost by them, or by other persons who had purchased them.

Every merchant in Kerrville has agreed to receive and take care of any articles the farmers will deliver them to be placed in the Kerr County exhibit at the San Antonio Fair. I am going to do what I agreed to do when I took charge of the exhibit and that is to make the very best showing possible for Kerr County. To that end I earnestly request every citizen of the county, who has the interest of Southwest Texas at heart, to join us in this enterprise and to bring anything he may have to Kerrville and leave it at the store where he trades.

Eastern Star Entertainment.

At the regular annual installation of officers of the local chapter O. E. S., held on Monday night last, a large number of relatives and friends of members were present. The installation, which was conducted by Past Worthy Patron, H. Renschel, was a very impressive ceremony. The newly installed officers were:

Mrs. H. Renschel, W. M.; H. Renschel, W. P.; Miss Lizzie Thomas, Asso. Matron; Miss Nina Shelburne, Sec'y.; Mrs. J. L. Vining, Conductress; Mrs. Geo. Morris, Asso. Conductress; Rev. J. H. Green, Chaplain; Mrs. T. B. Elder, Martha; Miss Callie Shelburne, Eva; Miss Thorne Renschel, Esther; Miss Clara Herzog, Ruth; Miss Mary Gowan, Martha; Miss May Rees, Electa; Mrs. Otto Dietert, Warden and Otto Dietert, Sentinel.

After the installation a bounteous banquet was served. The event took place in the Masonic hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The tables were decorated with roses and other flowers, while a perfect bevy of Ruths, Esthers, Marthas, Adas and Eletas, each of whom seemed bent upon outvying the other, exerted their ability as entertainers in an effort to make the guests of the evening happy. The praise merited by the entertainment would, if given in these columns, appear to be flattery. Pilgrims upon the journey of life rarely pitch their tents for a little while at a more pleasant spot than was afforded by that entertainment.

C. C. LOCKETT.

Elsewhere in this issue of the Sun will be found the announcement of C. C. Lockett as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Attorney of Kerr county. Mr. Lockett has held various public positions in Kerr county in the past and has given such service as has heretofore warranted his re-election. Mr. Lockett is so well known to the voters of Kerr county as a good citizen and as a fearless and well qualified official, that encomiums from any source would be superfluous. He requests further preferment to this position upon his records and his merits, and will appreciate the kindly consideration of the voters of Kerr County when they go to the polls in November.

Center Point Has Business Men's Club.

Center Point now has a well organized Business Men's Club. Organization was perfected at an enthusiastic meeting of the business and professional men of the town at Crotty's hall Tuesday night. The membership roll contains the name of almost every business man of the town.

The Club will look after the general business interests of Center Point and promote public enterprises that will be for the upbuilding of the town and adjacent territory.

Officers elected are as follows: Frank Coker, President; Geo. E. Thomas, Sec. and Treasurer.

An Executive Committee of five was appointed to serve for three months, as follows: Frank Coker, J. W. Nelson, G. F. Thomas, S. D. Killough and James Crotty.

This committee will have the entire management of the Trades Day.

Woman's Club Meeting.

The Kerrville Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. C. A. Schreiner, Jr., Wednesday afternoon. This was the most important meeting of the club for many months, on account of the work that was undertaken for the coming winter. After the routine work was disposed of the club took up the matter of special work for the next six months. The subject was discussed for a short time when it was decided to take up "The Crusade for Health," and make the matter of a Tuberculosis Sanitarium for Texas special work for the club. Accordingly plans were formulated for the prosecution of the work. A letter will be written to the secretary of every organization belonging to the Texas Federation of Woman's Clubs requesting the earnest cooperation of every club in the State in this great work. Letters will be written by members of the club to their personal friends among the prominent club women of the State, and an appeal made to the Texas Federation of Woman's Clubs to take up the matter of help for the consumptives of the world as a special work for the coming winter.

The purpose of this action on the part of the Woman's Club is to begin a course of education for the people, to give the matter of care and treatment of Tuberculosis, the frightful ravages it is making upon the health of the world, and especially upon our State and Nation, such wide publicity that the people will become awakened to the crying need for prompt action in the premises, and by direct appeal to their representatives, secure such legislation as is necessary for the erection of a State sanitarium.

Representative J. E. Grinstead, who was the author of the Tuberculosis Sanitarium bill that passed the Lower House of the 30th Legislature, was made an honorary member of the club, and will work in cooperation with the Woman's Club for the attainment of the purpose in view.

In a short time the club will give an entertainment for the purpose of raising money for incidental expenses. Mr. Grinstead has donated all stationary necessary for the use of the local club, and will take the matter up with the Employing Commercial Job Printers, of Texas, of which organization he is a member. He thinks the local printer in the various cities and towns of the State will furnish the clubs the needed stationary for this great humanitarian work. The other expenses of the clubs, such as stamps and other items can be met by entertainments under the auspices of the clubs.

The Kerrville Woman's Club has "passed the Rubicon" in this matter, and like the organizers of all truly great and patriotic movements they will not look back, but will keep looking steadfastly ahead to the consummation of the great work that has been undertaken. The cooperation and hearty support of all the people of this community, and of Texas, is earnestly requested.

Pythian Sisters Entertain.

At the close of the regular meeting of the Pythian Sisters Tuesday night, a banquet for members was served by the ladies. The feast was in honor of four new members who were initiated at the meeting:

Our new fall stock of men's women's and children's shoes have arrived. We handle the celebrated Brown's Star, five star shoes. None better.
