NO. 2

THE LATE CAPT. JOSEPH A. TIVY,
For whom the High School is named

ALUMNI BANQUET

Tivy High School Alumni Association
Feasts and Toast at

ST. CHARLES HOTEL

Covers Were Laid for Eighty, and the Affair was Scene of Pleasure and Source of Much Happiness

The first Alumni Banquet of the Tivy High School Alumni Association was held at the St. Charles Hotel, on Friday night of last week. At the banquet a member of the first graduating class responded to a toast, along with a member of the class of 1909.

At the conclusion of an extensive program of music and other features, which took place in the tastefully decorated parlors of the St. Charles, the guests were invited to the dining room. Here the eye was met on every hand by a pleasing spectacle. The room was beautifully decorated with colors of the different classes, and with ivy, the flower selected by the Association. The table formed a hollow square, and seated at it were the flower of Kerr county, from the youngest member of the class of 1909 back through the years to the stately matrons, who represented the first graduating class of the school. Had this assembly been held upon the old campus, where the walls of the Tivy

High School building had echoed the voices of those present in their childhood, it would not have seemed a miracle if the gray old structure had found voice and said: "These are my children, have I not cause to be proud," and had it been so, ringing cheers would have mingled with the answer, "Aye, perhaps you have such cause, Alma Mater, but have we not greater cause to be proud of you."

The banquet, which was a feast for the gods, was presided over by Judge Lee Wallace, as toast-master, who, in his happy and entertaining manner introduced the speakers and made himself generally agreeable.

The alumni address was made by Senator Julius Real. In the course of his remarks Senator Real paid high tribute to the memory of Capt. Jos. A. Tivy, whose name the school bears, and who was its first great patron and benefactor.

The following members of the Association responded to toasts as representatives of the classes:

- 1895, Mrs. J. L. Vining.
- 1898, Mrs. Chas. Real.
- 1900, S. Ernest Rees.
- 1902, Mrs. R. A. Shelburne.
- 1904, Mrs. Herbert Rawson.
- 1905, Miss Ida Pfeuffer.
- 1906, Julius Noll.
- 1907, Miss Ruth Robinson.
- 1908, Miss Sue Combs.
- 1909, Miss Rosa Pfeuffer.

At the close of the entertainment, Judge Wallace delivered an address, a combination of pleasantry and pathos, a jest for the happy hour at the festal board, and a sheaf of ennobling thoughts for the alumni and the guests to take home and treasure up in their hearts for all the years to come. At the close of the address Mrs. J. L. Vining led the class song, "Auld Lang Syne," and the assemblage sang it, as they marched out of the dining room to say good night to the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. George Morris and to express again and again the pleasure they had received from the evening's entertainment.

Throughout the evening a Mexican orchestra played that soft, sweet music that, trembling like a dew-drop in the pearly chalice of a lily bloom, was the true type of that sweet mingling of joy and sadness that filled the hearts of the guests,—joy at smiling faces, sadness at the "break in the ranks," caused by those "who had worn the cap and gown, but had discarded them to wear robes of white in another clime."

The officers of the Association, of which Mrs. Chas. Real was president and Miss Hazel Hamilton, secretary, all the various committees and the host and hostess deserve great credit for the splendid success of the entertainment, but if special praise be due any, it is to the ladies who supervised the preparation of the feast, Mrs. C. C. Lockett and Mrs. F. L. Fordtran. Under their instruction and through their untiring energy, the banquet was as near a perfect success from the viewpoint of eatables as such an event can be made.

During the banquet Prof. H. W. Morelock proposed a toast to the two great patrons and benefactors of Tivy High School, Capt. Jos. A. Tivy, from whom the school took its name, and Capt. Chas. Schreiner, which was drunk with a rousing cheer.

A brief sketch of these two men is not amiss at this time.

Capt. Jos. A. Tivy was born February 25, 1818, at Toronto, Canada. In 1837 he came to Texas. In 1844 he was a member of Jack Hayes' famous company of Texas rangers. Capt. Tivy took the gold fever, and was a "forty-niner" in California. In 1858 he returned to Texas and in 1872 he located on a tract of land in the Guadalupe valley, upon which a great part of the city of Kerrville now stands and where stands today the quaint old home known as the Tivy cottage.

Having accumulated considerable property, and being desirous of advancing the interests of education, in 1888 Capt. Tivy donated a school campus and a large number of city lots to the public school. The city built a handsome stone school building on the lots and in token of the appreciation of the people for Capt. Tivy's generosity, called it the Tivy High School, and it is so-called today.

Capt. Tivy died July 5, 1892, and was buried on an eminence known as Tivy Mountain, where the morning sun first kisses the marble shaft that marks his grave, then gilds the turrets of the school building that stands a monument to his memory.

Capt. Chas. Schreiner was born at the village of Riguevuir, France. He came to Texas with his parents when a boy, and at the age of sixteen joined the Texas rangers. He enlisted in the Confederate army when the Civil War broke out and gave the Confederacy four years of faithful service. Returning to Kerr county after the war he engaged in the mercantile business and has, since that time amassed a fortune of several millions, from his mercantile, live stock and other interests.

Capt. Schreiner has held many positions of public trust and has always taken a lively interest in educational matters and the public welfare in general. A few years ago, desiring to do some permanent good work in an educational way, Capt. Schreiner established what are known as the Chas. Schreiner scholarships. Under this arrangement two graduates of Tivy High School, each year are given a scholarship, which includes two years in college, with all expenses paid. As a result of this there are four young men or women constantly in college, the University at Austin, the A. & M. College, or any other state school they may select. No estimate can be placed upon the good that will accrue from this act of generosity, on account of enabling young men and young women who are otherwise unable to do so, to secure a college education.

No toast of the evening was more worthily made, or more heartily cheered, than that of Capt. Jos. A. Tivy and Capt. Chas. Schreiner.

Married.

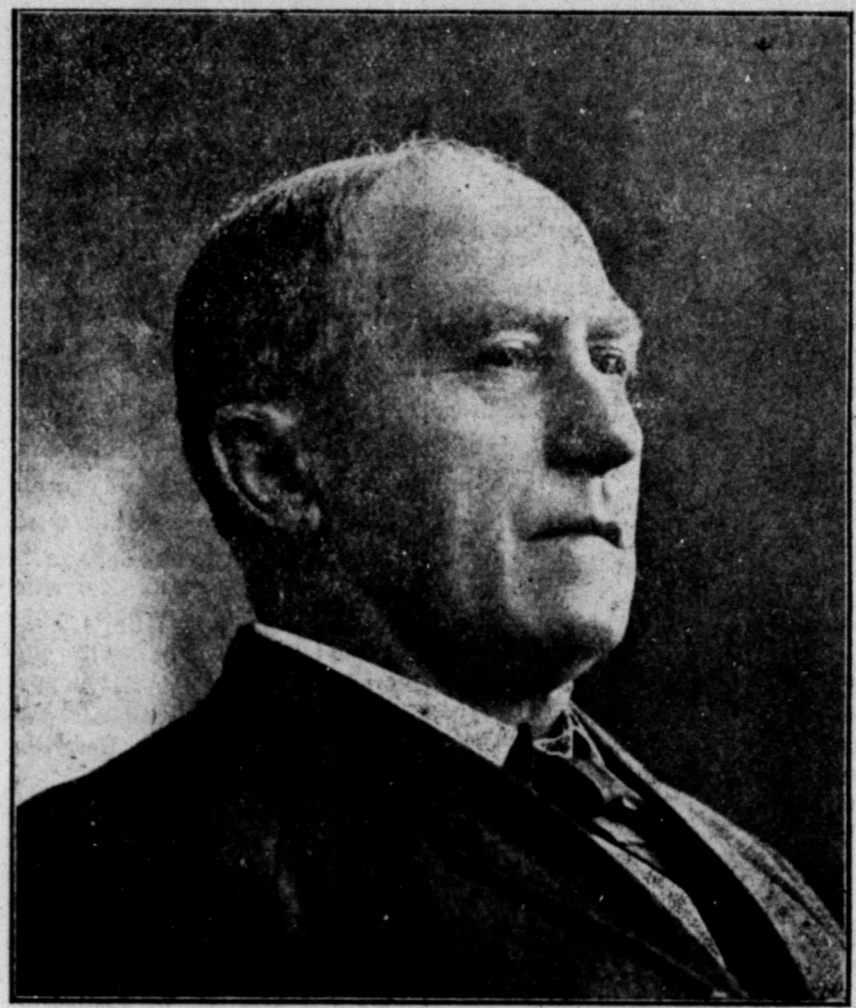

J. H. Giles and Miss Cora Brown were married at the bride's home near Harper, Tuesday, June 22, at 9:00 a. m. They were guest at the St. Charles hotel at noon, and left on the 1:40 train for San Antonio.

DAY-DREAM A WASTE OF TIME

Precious Hours Lost to Those Who Are Prone to Wait for the Mood to Strike Them.

If you have a particular piece of work to do, get it done. Don't wait for the mood to strike you. Don't dream! There are more precious hours wasted in day-dreams than any of us would care to think about if we counted them. The queer thing about day-dreams is that so few of them ever amount to anything. The dreamer is only semi-conscious, when building his air castles, so as a rule they have no practical foundation. While you are at work, keep your mind on what you are doing, and do not let it wander off to what you would like to be doing. Only by keeping your mind on what you are doing now can you bring it fresh and keen to the things you like doing best when the time for doing them comes. Thinking too much about even a great happiness takes the "edge" off it. The best time for day-dreams is after you have gone to bed.—New York American.

One of Two Mysteries—The Circus.

So long as the hearts of men contain one chamber which does not grow with them beyond childhood, so long as women bear children, the circus will live—which will be forever. The circus is immortal! The circus is an elusive thing; a clear-skied-morning, and it is here, filled with boasting and noise, laughing at our troubles from out of a Falstaffian mirth. Then in the murk of night it slips away again, as if it knew that we are but children and would be gone without farewells. Rough men marshal it, grimy with its labor; rude are its jests and coarse its people seem at times; but down under the crust of them and the dust of the world's highway is that touch of tenderness which no circus man has ever been without, since they grew wise and left the rest of us children still. There are two things in life which are full of magic and mystery—the circus and the sea.

TRAINING OF TURKESTAN GIRL

"Education" That Seems to the Western Mind to Be of Little Real Value.

Dismounting before the uprolled felt door of one of the round tents, I peered into the smoke-blackened interior, and found an old white-turbaned "khoja" teaching three rosy-cheeked little girls to read. "How is this?" I asked in Turki, surprised at such a reversal of Mohammedan customs. "Aren't there any boys in this camp?" "Oh, yes," answered the teacher, with a shrug of his shoulders; "but what can we do? We are poor. The boys must be off tending the sheep." The pretty, black-haired girls were evidently a rich man's daughters, for the broad brims of their caps were made of imported fur, and their shapeless gowns were of red, green and yellow silk, woven in preposterous flowery patterns. I asked one of them to read where I pointed. She did not even glance at the book, but began reciting something as fast as possible. It was the day's passage from the Arabic Koran, which neither she nor her teacher understood. That was the extent of her education.—Ellsworth Huntington, in Harper's Magazine.

At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." Of Interest to Farmers and Mechanics.

Farmers and mechanics frequently meet with slight accidents and injuries which cause them much annoyance and loss of time. There is no danger of blood poisoning resulting from an injury when Chamberlain's Liniment is applied before the parts become inflamed and swollen. For sale by all druggists.

THE HIT DOG HOWLS.

The frantic effort that is being made by a certain little political ring in Texas to defeat R. V. Davidson for the Democratic nomination for Governor of this State next year would be amusing, if it was not disgusting. They are raising the cry that A. B. Davidson, the lieutenant governor, will be a candidate, and that the Davidson strength will be divided. Men of intelligence know that is twaddle. These effusions emanate from Jake Wolters, Judge Poin-dexter, and a few other corporation lawyers, all dear friends (?) of the people, who are howling against R. V. Davidson because he has compelled, and is still compelling corporations to behave with a degree of decency toward the people of Texas. We are not inclined to blame a corporation lawyer for howling for his employer, any more than we would blame a "long eared, yaller bellied hound dog" for howling for his master, but the people have a right to be represented, also, and R. V. Davidson, who has so faithfully represented them as attorney general, will represent them as governor, beginning in January, 1911.

THE plea of the New York exporter, who sold the Nicaraguan government cartridges loaded with saw dust, that if he had used real powder they might have started something, is at least a novel one. On the same theory it would be legitimate to sell people gourds and call them cucumbers. They might eat the cucumbers and have colic.

THE average "nut" looks into the muzzle of an unloaded gun and unlooked for things occur, so far as he is concerned. The master politicians, just at this juncture, are looking into the muzzle of a "loaded" tariff bill and most of them appear to be afraid that some unusual thing will happen, as regards themselves. A man, one eye upon his duty as an official, and the other on the maneuvers of the voter at the next election, makes a very poor public servant.

THERE is some hope for the country when the populace of the effete east have become sufficiently enlightened to pass up the oratorical fireworks of Emma Goldman.

MARK TWAIN'S private secretary squandered the great humorist's funds. Mr. Clements should be able to make a joke of that.

It is a noteworthy coincidence that neither Capt. Joseph A. Tivy nor Capt. Charles Schreiner were natives of the United States, both were Texas rangers at the time when the name Texas ranger meant a great deal, and the two have been the chief benefactors of the Tivy High School and the educational interests of Kerrville.

A HEAD-LINE says, "Tariff on Hides Engenders Heat." It has been pretty plain to most people for some time than the hot current had been turned on somewhere.

THE "butter-in" we have all had to contend with but the butter out was peculiar to Kerrville yesterday and caused Mine Host Morris at the St. Charles not a little uneasiness.

Reward of an Old Negro.

New York, May 24.—William Henderson, a negro, for forty years the faithful coachman of the John A. Morris family, can lean back on the cushions of his own carriage now and order his own coachman to drive him along the shores of the sound.

Such is the reward which comes when he and his wife are seventy and well enough to enjoy many a drive. Perhaps the reward, which in addition to horses and carriage and coachman, includes a house and land and income for life, was hastened by Mrs. Morris' conclusion that the automobile is the proper carriage for the modern woman of fashion. Mrs. Morris was persuaded by her sons, Dave Hennen Morris, former president of the Auto Club of America, and Alfred Hennen Morris that the horseless carriage is the thing. So last week she took her last ride behind her favorite bays, and upon the return from that drive the negro was retired on his pension and the bays became his. The astonished negro was told that a fine cottage on the estate, with its stable and enough land to grow all his vegetables, were also his and his wife's; and that he has a good income in cash. The papers transferring all this wealth and luxury to the aged negro had been drawn up before the last drive, and his benefactress told him of it briefly as she stepped from the carriage.

Henderson was born in the service of the Hennen family. The freeing of the slaves offered him nothing so attractive as staying with the same old family where his father and mother had served. So when Miss Hennen married John A. Morris and came North, Henderson came with her. He is known all over Westchester county almost as well as the Morresses themselves. Several years ago he saved Mrs. Morris' life by stopping a pair of runaways and nearly lost his own life doing it.

Interesting Analysis of Snow.

The London Lancet once made an analysis of London snow on a weekday and on a Sunday. The Sunday snow showed roughly a fifth of the amount of impurities present in the weekday snow. But the most significant difference was that while the weekday snow contained as much as 3.36 grains of sulphuric acid in ten pounds the Sunday snow contained practically none.

Bulkheads Quickly Closed.

On one of the new trans-Atlantic liners twenty-four bulkhead doors, each weighing half a ton, can be closed from the bridge in 30 seconds by hydraulic power.

Fashionable Styles in Politics.

Many literary men in France adopt a political opinion because it suits their style and attitude. They choose a party as they would a necktie.—Paris Figaro.

Chief Industry of France.

Flour making in France is the most important industry in the country in amount of capital invested and value of annual output.

EXPECTS BIG SUCCESS

Preparation Going Forward Rapidly for the Big Encampment Which Will Open at Kerrville, July 22

The encampment feature of the summer normal at Kerrville has been a success in two ways. In the first place, it assures to Kerrville a permanent summer normal and encampment, if the citizens desire it and will pull for it—and that means that the progressive people of Kerrville will do all that is needful. Secondly, the encampment feature has been a success in point of paving the way to the big Presbyterian encampment, which will open at Westminster encampment grounds, July 22.

Rev. Hugh W. Hoon, the business manager of the encampment, states that there are already more people booked for the 1909 encampment than have attended, all told, in the past three years. He says it is only the result of the three years of persistent advertising that the assembly has done. Texans did not know that they possessed right here at home in the confines of the state, one of the most beautiful play grounds in the world. They are learning this, and it is but a question of a few years until Kerrville will be known far and wide as one of the most prominent summer assembly grounds and encampment meccas in all the southwest.

The handsome booklet sent out by the committee recently is attracting a good deal of attention and inquiries are coming in daily.

Wisdom in Old Adages.

"Strike when the iron is hot" and keep it hot by striking. "Take time while time is, for time will away," the English say. The Spanish proverb has it: "When the fool has made up his mind the market has gone by." The old Latins said: "Opportunity has hair in front, behind she is bald; if you seize her by the forelock, you may hold her; but if suffered to escape, not Jupiter himself can catch her again."

Fletcherizing.

"Yes," said the newly fledged Fletcherite, addressing his wife. "I have fully and firmly determined to turn over a new leaf and eat only two meals a day hereafter."

"Which will you omit, dear—breakfast or luncheon?" sweetly inquired his better fraction.

"Neither—I hadn't considered that point yet. It is going to be quite a long stretch between meals, isn't it? Let me see; how shall we arrange it? Only two meals a day; we've got that point settled, but—er—yes, now I've got it! Not to have too much of an interval in between times I think I will divide the two meals up into three installments, same as at present."

Russian Legal Regulations.

Twelve hours, with two hours' rest, is the legal laboring day at Odessa, Russia. Workers under 17 must go to school for three hours daily. Christians are not required to work on Sundays or feast days, nor Hebrews and Mohammedans on their religious holidays. Those who have to work on Sunday, have the next day for rest.

Satanic.

"Satan is represented as rumin' after folks wif a pitchfork," said Uncle Eben, "when de truth is dat so many folks is pullin' at his coat tails dat he ain't got time to chase nobody."—Washington Star.

Willing to Send a Hand.

Everybody in this part of Texas knows Theo. Metter, the Pennsylvania Englishman, who speaks Deutsch so fluently. On Friday morning of last week a neighbor of Mr. Metter called him up and asked if he would help thresh.

"Not me," said farmer Metter, "I can't come, I am too old, but I will send you a hand."

"Send a hand?" queried the neighbor.

"Yah, I send him right away, now."

"Who is he?"

"Who is, vy he is a stranger, and he don't like this climate, and is kicking and howling about it since he got here last night."

"What's his name?"

"Name? He is name Theo. Metter, Jr., and he iss a fine fellow."

And then Mr. Metter explained that a fine boy had been born to him and his good frau and that the lady and boy were both getting along nicely.

Indignant at Loss of Beard.

Samuel Stiegler, a barber in that section of Brooklyn known as East New York, appeared in court the other day to explain why he cut off Morris Kreutzer's 49-year growth of whiskers without orders. Kreutzer climbed in the barber chair after instructing the barber to trim his beard and dozed into a gentle slumber. When he awoke he screamed with rage and mortification when he saw that he was clean shaven. As he is 66 years old and his beard was the pride of his life and part of his religion, he had the barber arrested. Stiegler declared he understood Kreutzer to say he wanted a shave and as the customer slept soundly during the operation he did not learn of his error until the work was done.

The Man to Be Watched.

Always suspect a man who affects great softness of manner, an unruffled evenness of temper, and an enunciation studied, slow and deliberate. These things are all unnatural, and bespeak a degree of mental discipline into which he that has no purpose of craft or design to answer, cannot submit to drill himself. The most successful knaves are usually of this description, as smooth as razors dipped in oil, and as sharp. They affect the innocence of the dove, which they have not, in order to hide the cunning of the serpent, which they have.—Colton.

For Blood Poisoning.

When it is found that blood poisoning has set in, or when it is feared, use the following: To the juice of half a lemon add one teaspoonful of sugar and half a teaspoonful of water. RECALLS FAMOUS GOLF MATCH

Projected Game Brings Back Contest in Which Royalty Was Involved.

The projected golf match between two well known amateurs and a leading member of the London stock exchange for a stake of $2,500 recalls to the Westminster Gazette the famous foursome in which the duke of York, afterward James II., took a prominent part on the Leith links in the year 1682. It was really an international contest, in which the duke, with John Paterson, a golfing shoemaker of great repute, championed Scotland against two noblemen of England, a heavy wager depending on the issue. The duke and the cobbler had an easy victory, thanks largely to the man of the last, and John Paterson's share of the stakes was so substantial that he was able to build a goodly house in the Canongate, in a wall of which the duke caused a stone to be placed bearing the Paterson arms with the motto, "Far and sure," a tribute to the cobbler's driving powers. Paterson's house survives to-day.

WANTED MORE COMMON FARE

Daily Meals of Oysters Had Begun to Pall on Palate of Tramp Printer.

An Oregon editor once got a big advertisement from a place which sold nothing but oysters. The place had just opened, and while the proprietor was willing to advertise he didn't have the cash to spend; so the newspaper man took a card which entitled him to ten dollars' worth of oysters. "A few days later a tramp printer strolled into the Gazette office and wanted a job," relates the editor. "I had nothing to offer him, but told the man he might sleep back in the composing room, and as he had no money to buy food, I gave him the meal ticket on the oyster parlor. I didn't hear from him again for more than a week. One day he came into the office looking a bit drawn and worn. 'I don't want to seem dissatisfied with what you've done for me, Mr. Carter,' he said, 'and I'm willing to admit that the luscious bivalve is a wonderfully fine bit of food; but for heaven's sake, can't you get an ad. from a ham and egg emporium?'"

Where Nell Gwynne Lived.

Brent house, standing on the banks of the River Brent at Brentford, which was once the residence of Nell Gwynne, is about to make way for two modern villas. While residing there Nell Gwynne often entertained Charles II., and it is said that he once rode his horse up the great oak staircase.—London Daily News.

Intellect Ruled by Superstition.

A man more absolutely governed by pure reason than Lord Macaulay could not well be found, but in his diary he refers to an after-dinner talk about the feeling which Johnson had of thinking one's self bound to touch a particular rail or post and to tread in the middle of a paving stone, and he adds: "I certainly have this very strongly."

Taunting Him.

It was housecleaning time, and Mr. Stubb was removing the dusty pictures from the walls. The frames slipped, the step-ladder creaked ominously, and the perspiration rolled from Mr. Stubb's brow. In the humor to bite a nail in half he turned and discovered Mrs. Stubb laughing.

"That's it!" he roared, as the step-ladder swayed. "Laugh and show your gold teeth."

And still she laughed. "Do you think there is anything funny in my moving these pictures?" he sputtered, in fierce tones.

"No, indeed, John," said Mrs. Stubb, soothingly, "but you know you look so funny it looks like a moving picture show."

Attitude Toward Death.

The normal attitude of men toward death seems to be one of inattention or evasion. They do not trouble about it; they do not want to trouble about it, and they resent its being called to their notice. On this point the late Frederick Myers used to tell a story which I have always thought very illuminating. In conversation after dinner he was pressing on his host the unwelcome question, what he thought would happen after death. After many evasions and much recalcitrancy the reluctant admission was extorted: "Of course, if you press me, I believe that we shall all enter into eternal bliss; but I wish you wouldn't talk about such disagreeable subjects." This, I believe, is typical of the normal mood of most men. They don't want to be worried; and though probably, if the question were pressed, they would object to the idea of extinction, they can hardly be said to desire immortality. Even at the point of death, it would seem, this attitude is often maintained.—Atlantic.

An Error in Philanthropy.

One of the first lessons that philanthropists must learn is that it is not always easy to do good. There is a perversity of human nature, even when inspired by the best intentions, which sometimes seems to operate invincibly in favor of wrong. If the mischief that is done by those who mean nothing but good could be eliminated from the world the sum total of error would be noticeably reduced.

Not a Question of Ideas.
"I think," said Miss Cayenne, "that in the course of time we shall be communicating with Mars."
"What of it?" inquired the professor. "We won't be able to exchange any ideas of importance."
"Perhaps not. But the conversation at teas and receptions should fortify us for a little disappointment like that."

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Two Prominent Citizens of Kerr County Hold Joint Celebration of Their Natal Day

HOME OF OSCAR STROHOCKER

Is Scene of Festivities, and Feasting, Dancing and Merriment With Joy from Fleeting Hours

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Strohoecker, on Turtle creek, ten miles from Kerrville, was the scene of festivities on Saturday night, June 19, that were unique and unusual in the social annals of that community. The event was in honor of the celebration of Mr. Strohoecker, and his neighbor, Clark S. Burks, their natal day coincidentally falling upon the same date.

The entertainment was a real old time country house party, supper and dance, where guests were urged to come early and stay late. The feature of the occasion was the birthday feast, which consisted of an abundant, varied and excellent menu. Mr. and Mrs. Strohoecker are famous entertainers, and assisted by Mr. Burks, they saw to it that not a moment hung heavily upon the hands of any guest. There were games, dancing and happy conversation and everyone enjoyed the evening to the fullest extent.

The music for the dance was furnished by B. F. Denton and Burt Denton.

The guests were:

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Denton, Mr. and Mrs. James, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ridgeway, Mr. and Mrs. H. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Tompkins, Mr. and Mrs. M. Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. H. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Burks, Mr. and Mrs. Shifford; Mesdames Gibbens, J. Burks; Misses Vida, Ida and Lena Gibbens, Edna Morrow, Jessie Denton, Carrie, Nellie and Rose Ridgeway, Hattie

At a late hour the guests parted mingling goodnights with expressions of gratitude for the hospitality of this pleasant country home, and wishes for many happy returns of the natal day of the hosts.
