VOLUME 42

BAIRD, CALLAHAN COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 19, 1929

NUMBER 33

AMENDMENTS CARRY

Unofficial returns indicate that the two constitutional Amendments voted on Tuesday have carried by a vote of 2 to 1.

The last compilation approved the measure to increase the salary of the Governor from $4,000 to $10,000 by 21,145 votes to 10,134 against. By almost the same majority the amendment to add six more Justices to the personnel of the State's Supreme court was favorably reported, the vote being 21,670 for and 9,757 against.

Should the official count confirm the unofficial figures, it would mark the end of an effort of a number of years' standing to give Texas' chief executive a salary increase, several other attempts at the polls having been turned down. The measure, however, would not become effective until 1931, or until after the election of a new Governor.

The court amendment advocated by leading bar associations in order that legal procedure might be speeded up was voted upon for the first time Tuesday.

It would become effective forty days from now, the new members of the court to be appointed by the Governor. Five members of the court would constitute a quorum, and it would require the assent of at least five members to establish a decision.

The vote in Baird on the two amendments was as follows:

To raise the Governor's salary 38 for; 103 against.

To increase number of Judges of Supreme Court, 37 for; 102 against. A total of 141 votes being polled in the city.

We were unable to get the total vote in the county, will try to give that next week.

NEW GASOLINE TAX NOW IN EFFECT

The four-cent will remain in effect until changed by action of the legislature. One fourth will go to the school fund and the balance to the highway department for new construction and maintenance.

The motor vehicle registration cut will not become effective until next January, the existing schedule remaining in operation until then.

FATHER RECD. PICTURE OF SON'S GRAVE IN ENGL.

Mr. M. D. Estes, a few days ago received a picture of the grave of his only son, who died in the United States Army during the World War, and was buried in Brookwood, American Cemetery, Brookwood, England. Some few weeks ago, Mr. Estes expressed the wish that he could get a picture of his sons grave and Royce Gilliland with the First State Bank, wrote to the War Department telling them of the wish of Mr. Estes and a few days ago the picture was received. It is a good picture, showing the grave with the modest white cross, bearing the following inscription:

John D. Estes
Pvt. U. S. Army
Texas, Oct. 2, 1918

In front of the cross are two small flags the United States and English flags. The cemetery shows to be well cared for and many rows of similar white crosses are shown in the picture.

The picture was made by S. France's of Maybury Studio Brookwood.

MRS M. L. TEEPLE CELEBRATES 86th BIRTHDAY

Mrs. M. L. Teeple, one of Baird's oldest residents, celebrated her 86th birthday last Saturday July 13th. It was really a double celebration as it was also the 57th birthday of her only son, Addison Teeple, of Oklahoma City, who with his wife, were present, also Mrs. Teeple's daughter, Mrs. W. E. Lowe, and son, Walter, of DeLeon and Mr. and Mrs. France Robertson of Haskell and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Robertson of Clyde were also here to spend the day with Mrs. Teeple. Mrs. Arthur Yonge, of Post, Mrs. Teeple's eldest daughter, was unable to come.

Mrs. Teeple has lived in Baird for nearly 50 years, coming here with her family when the town was just established and has lived here continuously since and all this time in the home built where the family first located in Baird.

Time has dealt kindly with Mrs. Teeple, who is remarkably active for one 86 years of age. She does her own house work and comes down town every day. She has a pleasant smile and kind words for everyone, and many friends wish her many more happy birthdays.

He gave instances where Scouts and Scouting had been helpful and proved a blessing to towns. He then gave a survey of the camp program, which is far wider than the area has ever been able to realize. The camp pamphlets were on hand and distributed to the Scout. Mrs. Shumway accompanied Mr. Shumway.

We were pleased to have a number of the citizens of Baird at the meeting. Judge Blackburn spoke briefly about the advantages that boys of to-day enjoy that of boys of yesterday were denied. Mr. Settle commented on the results that would come from living the twelve laws.

Twenty-one Scouts and twenty-three visitors attended this meeting. Mr. H. M. Dudley and Mrs. Fred Estes surprised the Scouts by sending a large vessel of punch and a bag of cakes. Both Scouts and visitors enjoyed this treat.

BEAMS FIELD AT- TRACTS AT- TENTION

The Drew Beams Lease, 4 1-2 miles north of Baird is attracting considerable attention the past few weeks. Beams has 3 producing oil wells and 3 gas wells on the I. N. Jackson Lease, also 3 as wells on the C. B. Snyder lease. The Jackson No. 5 is making six million feet of gas at 1049 feet.

Location of the No. 1 Jackson is given as 1,320 feet south and 150 feet west of the northeast corner of section 21, E.T.R.R. survey. This well has been completed to a depth of 1120 feet, good showing of oil and two gas sands.

The nearest commercial production is about two miles northeast, just over the line in Shackelford county in the Dyer pool where Mid-west Exploration company, Southern Petroleum Exploration company have a number of good producers from the Cook sand fould around 900 feet.

Some shallow shows have been found in the past year or so in tests drilled south and southwest of the Jackson operation. However, none of them have been large enough to cause any excitement.

The new show is on a block of approximately 12,000 acre that has been held by Humble Oil and Refining company for some time. E. P. Campbell & Company have recently contracted to drill six tests on the block, the No. 1 Jackson being the first of the six to be started. All the tests will be drilled to around 1,600 feet to test both the Cook and the King sands.

The location of the other five wells are as follows:

E. P. Campbell & Company's No. 1, Miss Maggie Alexander, in the middle of the east half of the southeast quarter of section 23, E.T.R.R. Survey. This well is drilling at 450 feet.

E. P. Campbell & Company's No. 2, Mrs. Maggie Alexander, in the middle of the east half of the northwest quarter of section 24, E.T.R.R. Survey.

E. P. Campbell & Company No. 1, Robert Hennessy, at the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 72, B.B.B.&C.R.R. survey.

E. P. Campbell & Company's No. 1, W. E. and C. A. Bowman, at the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 90, T.&P. survey 12. This test will be in Shackelford county, about half mile north of the Callahan county line. The other four locations are in Callahan county.

Floyd Holder I. N. Jackson No. 1, Survey 85, drilling at 1065 feet. E. P. Campbell & Company, I. N. Jackson No. 2, location Survey 20.

Howard Petroleum Co., I. N. Jackson No. 2, location Survey 21. Burton Hartly & Co., Dee Davis No. 1, Survey 13, location.

STUDENT DEATH UNSOLVED CASE

Detectives Unable to Clear Up Mystery of Harvard Man's End.

Hartford, Conn.—Despite all efforts of County Detective Edward J. Hickey and his corps of assistants, the death of Walter Treadway Huntington, young Harvard student, appears now as though it will never be solved.

Huntington's body was found May 8 on a lonely road between Windsor and Treadway, ten miles north of this city. A bullet had pierced the boy's brain and his shirt and back were saturated with blood, as were several handkerchiefs found in the hip pockets of his trousers.

Detective Hickey, the man who successfully trailed and brought to justice Gerald Chapman, declares the youth committed suicide. He adheres to this opinion despite Costello's repeated statements Huntington could not possibly have taken his own life.

Medical Examiner Henry N. Costello of Hartford county rendered a verdict of homicide to Coroner J. Gilbert Cuthoun. The latter has not yet announced his findings as the law sets no limit to the length of his investigation.

No Powder Marks. Hickey explains the fact that there were no powder marks as due to the age of the bullet which killed the boy. Shells identical with that found by Huntington's head were found in a box in the dead boy's home.

The detective has two theories regarding the missing gun. He believes it was either packed up by some one not afraid to come forward for fear of implication in the boy's death, or that it was hurried into a swamp a few yards distant by Huntington in his death agony.

The right hand of the boy was clenched, the detective says, in a manner indicating a "conscious act." His thumb was tightly pressed between his first and second fingers.

Every available clue has been run down, Hickey says. The detective states he has found no possible motive for murder. Indications on the youth's part at Harvard provide ample motive for Huntington to kill himself, he says.

Efforts to link up romance with the death have also failed. Hickey has investigated several "women angles" but all have been fruitless. Unless further evidence is discovered the case will go down into the records with the police calling it suicide and the medical testimony homicide.

The Odesa News-Times is a new exchange of the Enterprise desk. It is owned and edited by Ralph Shuffler and his son, the latter is a recent graduate of A. & M. College. Mr. Shuffler was editor and owner of the Olney Enterprise for over nineteen years, and in that time, "sweep the platter clean" of all prizes offered by the Texas Press Association. The News-Times is a seven-column eight-page paper liberally patronized by the merchants of Odesa, and a neat and attractive publication. The Enterprise join Ralph's many friends in wishing him and his son unbounded success in their new field, and Odesa is fortunate in landing as good a newspaper man as Mr. Shuffler.—Olney Enterprise.

Most people think of Ranger as an oil and gas center. They will perhaps be surprised to learn—on turning through the pages of a 64-page magazine section issued by the Ranger Times on its tenth birthday—that Ranger is in the greatest poultry county in the state, has perhaps the biggest rock crusher in the southwest, is in the midst of a farming region where fruits, vegetables, dairying and other activities round out diversification and has the third largest power plant in Texas.

The edition is unique in that the articles were written by men who were authorities on their subjects—a truck farmer writing on irrigated farming, a successful Angora raiser telling of goats, a ranchman writing about cattle, etc. There are nearly 100 pictures and fully as many articles in the issue.

BAIRD HIGHWAY

The building of the Baird Road is the next project on the chess-board of progress. With that link welded, then Shackelford county will have the best system, most complete system of highways of any county in West Texas. We are just in receipt of a letter from the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Baird, putting us wise that a move is on foot to stage a million dollar bond issue for the building of roads in Callahan county, with a north and south road as its main objective. That means the Albany and Baird road. This is not just talk on the part of Baird and Callahan county, but petitions are now being circulated to that end. Not only will Baird build this north and south road, but will build a complete system of lateral roads throughout the county. We are assured that this road will be designated as a State and Federal road, which will mean two for one in the construction of this highway. Now here is a vast territory to the south of us, untouched, undeveloped, just waiting for a paved road to penetrate it. It can be said that this will be a very important highway, as it will give Shackelford county an outlet to the south, Baird, Coleman, Brownwood, Brady, San Antonio, and on down to the border of our sister Republic, Mexico. Then at Albany it will connect up with the Albany and Throckmorton road on to Wichita Falls, the State of Oklahoma and on to Canada, giving us direct connection with a vast territory. Yes, indeed it will be an important highway, turning the tide of tourist travel that naturally belongs to us. It will be the great cut off from Oklahoma to the Gulf of Mexico, and the border of the Republic of Mexico. Just look on the map, and you will at once see the importance of this highway, and the part that it will play in the handling of the tourist travel sheeking an outlet to the Great Southwest, Gulfward, etc.—Albany News.

ROUTING THE SUMMER SLUMP

Last year many businesses exploded the myth that a presidential year is bad for business. They worked a little harder for business and, instead of losing the preceding year's gain, they added to it.

It was years ago that a progressive freed himself from the hypnotic powers of the "summer slump" complex, by proving with the aid of new ideas in merchandising and more advertising that hot weather need not be unhealthy for business.

In the years before newspaper advertising became such a tremendous power, summer was quite a dreary period for retail trade. It was taken for granted that there was no business to be had, so no one attempted to get it. Business accepted its long siesta because it saw no way of avoiding it.

Half holidays are allowed salespeople today, not because there is no business to keep them at their counters, but because summer business is so heavy they must have a respite. The mercantile world has discovered that it is possible to make business where none grow before, so the traditional summer slump period has become a new buying season.—Exchange.

There would be more incentive to success if successful men seemed to enjoy life.

LAST MONTH FOR SCHOOL TRANSFERS

According to official announcements by county superintendents. All applications for transfers of pupils from one district to another must be made during his month, the law providing that July 31st is the last day. In regard to the transfers you will note the following:

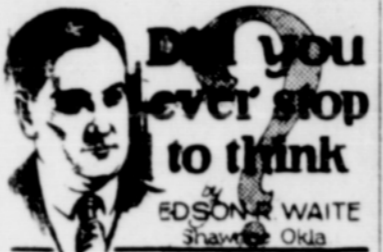

A child in order to be eligible for transfer must have been lawfully enumerated in the district. A child can be transferred only one time. The application for transfer must be in writing, signed by the parent or guardian. The application asking for transfer must state in his application that it is his bona fide intention to send his child to the school to which the transfer is asked. Scholastics may be transferred from one county to another only when the districts are adjoining. Scholastics may be transferred from one district to another for High School purposes provided if their grade is not taught in the home district. Likewise i.e., pupils from 18 to 21 years of age, may have their names transferred from one district to another for high school purposes. All of the propositions herein mentioned should be attended to before the first day of August.

Callahan county public school children, who are expecting to attend schools next term in districts other than those in which they were enumerated last Barch should be transferred this month. Care should be taken by parents and guardians of pupils for next term in observing the proper registration proceedings.

All parents who wish to transfer their children to some other school district in the county should do so at once—

This transfer is made through County Supt. B. C. Chrisman.

Walter C. White, president of the White Motor Company, says:

That during the 30 years I have been engaged in the truck and bus transportation industry, I have learned that if one wants to be a producer, must build solidly and be a worker. The secret of having is in the getting. The man who gets things without work does not appreciate and evaluate properly, and is not nearly so likely to hold what he gets. If success is to be lasting and permanent, it has to be won, not merely accepted as a gift.

Another big point—if success is to be lasting and permanent it has to be builded on a foundation of service and public interest. The more selfish and narrow the viewpoint of a man is, the more likely he is to go off on a wrong track. If he looks at things from a broad social and economic viewpoint, his prosperity is much more likely to be sure and lasting.

No man develops a lasting success without successfully assuming responsibility and discharging it. It is all very well to theorize, and to study theory, but the man who would have a lasting success has to learn to apply theories, to work. Theorizing alone doesn't get far. Combination of plan and work is the thing.

The more training a man can get the better, if he is to make his success permanent. I believe in training just as I believe in work. You can't get too much of the right kind of training. I believe further that true merit does not remain undiscovered. I believe that in most instances the outstanding man gets the job for which he has proved his fitness.

From my experience in employing men, I am much inclined to favor the man whose aims in life are something more than mere position, salary and individual achievement. There is a kind of unselfish personal achievement is undertaken for its own sake and not for the sake of the reward. The men that most nearly measure up to this kind of achievement are those who reap the greatest benefits for themselves, for their company, and their community.

MAKING MEN OF BOYS THROUGH BOY SCOUTS

When General Baden-Powell started the Boy Scout movement he was quietly ridiculed by many incredulous people.

Today he is regarded as a benefactor of the human race.

Everyone knows that you can take a weakling, put him in the army and keep him there for a few years, and he will come out a reasonably strong and healthy man. It is the rigid and systematic military training that does it.

The training accorded the Boy Scout is much along the lines of that pursued in the army, with sufficient variation to appeal to the juvenile mind.

There is a surplus of enthusiasm bottled up in every boy's chest that requires an escape valve.

The Boy Scout organization affords the necessary outlet.

Where this opportunity is not granted, the boy will find an outlet elsewhere—on the street, "with the gang," or possibly in some kind of mischief dear to the young heart.

Boys will be boys until they grow to man's estate. The manner of their growth, however, depends upon the manhood and the womanhood of today.

Every town should have a boy scout company. Santa Anna has hers and is very proud of it.—Santa Anna News.

'WHIP-POOR-WILL' CALLS—IT'S JUST A TRAIN WHISTLE

The lonesome, eerie cry of "Whip-poor-will! Whip-poor-will!" echoes frequently among the low hills and rolling fields of Mitchell county.

Strange that it should, in view of the fact that the bird of that name is not known in these parts.

But not so strange when one learns that the call comes from the iron throat of a black freight locomotive speeding along the T. & P. tracks through Colorado. Many Coloradans have noted the strange whistle, and that particular train has come to be designated as the "whip-poor-will train."

The bird call comes most any time of the day or night—just whenever Eddie Merrill of Big Spring gets hold of the throttle, or maybe Roy Simmons of Big Spring, who is also said to be getting adept at giving the call.

Originality, the wise ones say, can be exhibited in any line of work. The job of engineer on a freight locomotive appears at first sight to be one of those things where signals and schedules curb outbursts of this characteristic. And there is still the whistling, and Eddie Merrill, described by those who know him as a jovial fellow with a broad smile, discovered that at least he could whistle a different way, just so he whistled as many as four times.

There is an engineer in East Texas, they say, who plays, "Dixie" on the whistle of his locomotive whenever a band of Confederates veterans happens to be on his line. And there is another engineer on a train coming into Fort Worth from the north who has a whistle which reminds one, especially at night, of the tormented cry of a lost spirit. The story goes that he ran over his own wife and child, and killed them, quite accidentally of course, many years ago.—Colorado Record.

WAGNER-HOLT WEDDING AT MORRISSET HOME

Miss Gladys Beatrice Wagner, of Clyde, became the bride of Mr. Clarence Holt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Holland Holt, at the home of the grooms uncle, R. H. Morrisset, near Hamby last Sunday. Pot plant and cut flowers made a pretty setting for the wedding.

Miss Nina Mae Butler and Erastus Conlee served as attendants for the ring ceremony read by Rev. Joe Mayes of Baird. Little Opal Morrisset was ring bearer.

During an informal reception, held immediately after the ceremony, Mrs. Holland Holt presided at a punch bowl, and was assisted in serving punch and cake by Isabel Holt, Donnie Bell and Jewel Morrisset. Blue and white were emphasized in an effective way in a color scheme used for the wedding, and the punch table.

Mr. Holt, who was graduated from the Abilene high school, is a farmer living near Hamby, and the couple will reside in a new home there.

MISS COLA B. RAMSEY AND C. G. ATKINSON WED AT ABILENE

Simplicity characterized the early morning wedding Wednesday, July 10th, when Miss Cola Beatrice Ramsey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Ramsey, became the bride of Charles Gaston Atkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Atkinson, in a service at 7:30 in the Ramsey home, 430 Victoria street.

Rev. Willis P. Gerhart, rector of the Heavenly Rest Episcopal church read the service in the presence of more than thirty relatives and friends of the couple.

Gladioluses in pedestal baskets flanked an arched gateway, covered with trailing greenery, and dotted with summer blossoms, which formed a background for the wedding party. Slender tapers of pink in brass holders on the mantel, back of the arch, and on the piano, shed a soft light over the scene.

Entering from opposite openings into the spacious living room, Miss Ramsey on the arm of her honor maid, Miss Mattie Merle Middleton of Stamford, and Mr. Atkinson, with his best man, J. D. Willard of Fort Worth, were joined at the altar by Mr. Gerhart, who came in from still another entrance.

Sisters of the bride, Miss Comette

Ramsey and Mrs. J. R. Horn, Jr., gave the nuptial and pre-nuptial music. Miss Ramsey sang "Because to the accompaniment of Mrs. Horn, who also played the Lohengrin wedding music for the entrance of the bride party, and a soft nuptial number during the reading of the service.

The bride was wearing a modish ensemble of peacock canton crepe with Braceburn tweed coat, lined with crepe of the same tone as the frock. Bows of the material stitched flat on the blouse front, and used to finish a closely-fitting low girde on the full pleated skirt were smart trimming notes. Reptile shoes and a swathed turban of silk tulle, with small rhinestone ornaments, were pretty costume accessories. She carried an arm shaft of pink rosebuds showered with sweet peas.

Miss Middleton, who was a classmate of the bride, when they attended the College on Industrial Arts, Denton, where both graduated in 1927, was wearing an attractive ensemble of navy blue with blouse and trimmings of canary crepe. Accordion pleated ruffles artfully placed, and rows of buttons formed an effective trim for the costume, with which Miss Middleton wore a velous hat of canary shade. Her shoes were of black satin, with gold buckles. She carried a bouquet of gladioluses.

Miss Comette Ramsey was wearing a shamrock green ensemble of basket weave, and Mrs. Horn wore a rose crepe frock ornamented on the shoulder and at the waist line with bows of the material.

While a student for four years at C. I. A., Miss Ramsey, who also served as swimming instructor, won many honors, especially in athletic events. In 1925 she was "Miss Venus," representing West Texas in the bathing beauty pageant at Atlantic City, an honor bestowed upon her in a revue held on July 4 at Lytle Beach, Abilene, an event in which many prominent West Texas girls were entrants.

Following her graduation from C. I. A., Miss Ramsey taught in the home economics department at Hagerman, New Mexico, and last year she was head of the home economics department of the Raymondville high school. During the summer of '28 she was an instructor in the clothing department of Simmons University.

Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson left immediately after the ceremony for Galveston, Houston and other Texas points where they will spend two weeks. On their return they will reside at 2102 Clinton avenue, where a completely furnished home awaits them.

Mr. Atkinson, who is a graduate pharmacist, having received a degree from the pharmacy school of Baylor University, Dallas, is associated with his father in the drug business. Their store is near the Simmons University campus.—Simmons Brand.

MISS DONNELLY OF CLYDE BECOMES BRIDE OF MR. JOSEPH W. JOERIS

Miss Joan Bernice Donnelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Donnelly, of Clyde and Mr. Joseph W. Joeris, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Joeris, of Abilene were married at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Abilene, Monday morning Father Knufer, officiating.

Summer flowers made a pretty setting for the wedding which took place in the parlors of the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, had as her only attendant, Miss Annie O. O'Loughlin.

The groom was attended by Harvey Kinde.

Mrs. Alex. Miller played Lohengrin Bridal Chorus for the couple to enter and Miss Annie Morris sang "Ava Maria" and "O Promise Me" softly during the ceremony. Mrs. Homer Sullivan also sang "I Come to Thee," accompanied by Mrs. James Middleton. The recessional was played by Mrs. Jack Goulding.

Mrs. Joeris is a graduate of Our Lady of the Lake College in San Antonio and has been a member of the faculty of Ursuline Academy in Dallas.

The couple left immediately after the ceremony for San Antonio where Mr. Joeris is superintendent of the Von Rosenberg and Key Construction Co.

Members of the bridal party and the immediate families were entertained with an informal wedding breakfast in the red room of the Hilton hotel at 9 o'clock.

Pink roses decorated the table where a four course breakfast was served. The bridal cake, a beautiful tiered confection, was cut by the bride.

Guests for the breakfast were Mr. and Mrs. R. Donnelly of Clyde,

Mrs. J. A. Joeris, Miss Annie O'Loughlin, Mary Joeris, Henry Lindel, Martin Joeris, Fred and Leo Joeris, and Rev. Knufer.

THE SMALL FARM DOOMED

The Lockhart Post-Register asks this question and then proceeds to answer it:

The small farm is not doomed but is coming into its own. Under conditions as they exist today a man must either work for a corporation or go to his own farm. The man working for a corporation can hope for nothing more than to be shelved when he has reached the age of forty or at most fifty years. This individually owned business seems to be doomed. The only place that guarantees life-long employment is the man's own farm. This case is cited; The owner of a quarter section farm was the father of three sons. The eldest became a farmer and lives on his own land. The other two went to work for corporations and a few years ago were relieved of their jobs. One went to the home of the father who is now past ninety years old, and the returned son manages the old home farm; the other went to a little farm his wife had inherited. Had it not been for the farms, these two men in their latter day would be working at common labor. Instances of this kind are becoming more common. It will occur to the man starting in life that he farm, the small farm, furnishes a living through all his days, and is a place where with proper management comparative ease and a measure of luxury may be enjoyed.—Selected.

MISS LUCILLE LOVLESS WEDS MR. B. D. RAY

An interesting event of last week was the marriage of Miss Lucille Lovless to Mr. Buford D. Ray, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride here, the Baptist parsonage. Rev. Charles A. Loveless, father of the bride and pastor of Eupora Baptist church, performed a quite ceremony in the presence of a few friends and relatives Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. The groom had been a patient for several days at the hospital in Greenwood where Miss Lovless was visiting him. Upon his discharge from the hospital they motored to Eupora to get married. Immediately after the ceremony the happy young couple left for a motor tour.

The bride is a beautiful and talented daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Loveless, of Eupora, and is numbered among the most popular of local young people, being possessed of a lovable personality. She has been a student at Webster County Agricultural High school for several sessions where she always was a leader in student activities.

Mr. Ray was connected with the engineering department of Hartman-Clark Bros. Co., contractors who constructed the recent large paving project for Eupora, and is a young man of exceptional ability and sterling character. Since leaving Eupora he has become associated in business with his father, Mr. J. W. Ray, formerly of Winona, but now a merchant in Greenwood. His family is regarded as one of the most prominent in this section of Mississippi.

The young people will make their home in Greenwood. — Eupora (Miss.) Progress.

Rev. Chas. A. Loveless and family formerly lived in Baird, where Rev. Loveless was pastor of the Baptist church and many friends here extend congratulations and good wishes to the newly weds.

Hugh Ross, Jr., accompanied by three young men, Mr. Brooks, of Fort Neches, Frank Jones and Joe Spradlin of Dallas, former class mates in the Southern Methodist University left a few days ago for Los Angeles, California to attend the Conclave of their fraternity Kappa Sigma, which meet in that city next week. The boys are making the trip in a Ford sedan and went out on the southern route via San Diego, and will return via the northern route.

Mrs. W. O. Miller has returned from a visit of several weeks with relatives in Indiana and Missouri.

Finding of Ancient Cannon Off Cuba Excites Treasure Hunters.

Havana.—Four more antique cannons have been discovered at Cayo Coco, a small key off the south coast of Cuba, submerged in the ocean.

A number of discoveries of cannon have been made along various parts of the Cuban coast, and it is known that years ago the West Indies were practically the headquarters of a number of pirate craft.

Seven cannons were recently dug up at Cayo Largo, off Databano, 30 miles from Havana, and are thought to contain pirate treasure.

The question of ownership has been discussed between the Fisherman Cortez, who made the find, and the customs house authorities at Databano.

Four More to Be Raised. The finder, while admitting that this rule might apply to anything found inside the cannon, held that should the cannon be empty they could not be considered "treasure."

There are seven pieces in all in the Databano find, three of which have been raised and taken to Databano, where they are being held by the customs house authorities.

Kiddies' Evening Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Children's Talk

One little girl was talking. "I heard the story of Mrs. Heron's talk to Mrs. Bird of Paradise," she told some of her friends.

"Ah," Mrs. Heron was saying. "It does seem so bad that just when our little ones are born, just then, they shoot us, and leave our little ones to starve."

"Yes," said the heron, "for sometimes I do believe people don't know or understand, or they wouldn't do such cruel things."

"I am sure a great many must be ignorant, for don't believe so many would be cruel, especially just for fashion and style," said Mrs. Bird of Paradise.

"I hope," said Mrs. Heron, "that children will remember when they grow up themselves not to wear feathers which destroy the lives of birds who want to live and care for their little ones."

"They strike us down when we're dancing and happy and have chosen our mates," the Bird of Paradise said sadly.

"And mothers wear us on their hats," said Mrs. Heron. "They wear other mothers whose babies have died of starvation because of a cruel, cruel fashion."

"Let's hope for better times ahead for our families," Mrs. Bird of Paradise ended.

"Let's hope so," said Mrs. Heron. "This was the story I heard."

"I know now, and I could never forget."

"But I've made up my mind to start a club of other little girls who'll all promise to never wear the feathers of birds such as the heron or the birds of paradise or any other feathers where the birds have to be killed."

"We'll wear ostrich feathers and plumes only which come out naturally."

"And I'm going to ask as many of my friends to come together and we'll have meetings and at each meeting every member will tell an interesting story of some bird she has seen."

"Once a month we'll have some refreshments."

"And all the little girl's friends decided to join the club, and other members came in, too, so there was happiness among the birds of paradise and the herons, for they felt that something had been started which would mean so much to their families for the years and years to come."

"And they hope, and I hope, that no one who has heard the stories the herons and the birds of paradise have to tell will ever wear such plumes or such feathers."

Building a Home for Greta

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

JOHN LAMBERTON had fallen in love with Brenda Peters in spite of himself. Brenda had brown eyes and brown hair and John, who was dark himself, had vowed to marry only a blonde.

But propinquity—they had grown up together in the small village of Berryton—and a certain amount of pursuit on Brenda's part had brought John one evening to an impulsive proposal.

After the first few months each proved the accuracy of the old adage about true love not running smooth.

John, on the whole, milder-tempered, was frequently astonished at the importance some issue could assume for Brenda once it became apparent they did not think alike about it.

There was, for example, the trifling matter of the pronunciation of the first name of the well-known author, Greta Anderson, who, according to rumor, was presently coming to make her home in Berryton.

"I wonder when this Greta Anderson," said John one evening, "is coming?" "You mean 'Gretta,'" said Brenda sweetly. "Don't you dear?"

"I said 'Gretta,'" said John stiffly, annoyed at Brenda's interruption. "I'm sure it's 'Gretta,'" insisted Brenda.

"Well, 'Gretta or 'Gretta,'" declared John crossly. "I hope I get the job of drawing her plans. It's to be some 'Hitts' house."

"And if you do," cried Brenda triumphantly, "you'll see I was right about her name."

The rest of the evening passed with some constraint on both sides and John went home early. "When you meet Miss Greta Anderson," was Brenda's parting shot, "be sure you don't call her 'Gretta'."

Three days later the person in question walked into John's office. Rising, he found himself looking into the loveliest pair of brown eyes he had ever seen. They belonged to a slender person exquisitely gowned and furred, beneath whose small smart but escaped curly tendrils of tawny gold hair.

"I am told," she began, "that you're the best man in town to help me realize just what I have in mind for my new home. May I sit down and explain just what that is?"

The next month passed quickly for John. So engrossed was he in his latest commission that he actually neglected Brenda, making of his work an excuse to spend many hours in his office that once he had spent with her.

If Brenda felt badly over this defection, she at first gave no sign. The site for Miss Anderson's home had been chosen and it was but natural that John should wish to study the peculiarities of location the better to adapt his building to its surroundings.

Brenda, driving past one afternoon in her runabout, saw the site of them seated on a flat-topped rock on the crest of a gentle rise, but so engrossed were they in the stack of blueprints that they did not see Brenda.

That evening Brenda took counsel with herself. Was there any chance that she might lose John to the undoubtedly fascinating Greta?

She telephoned him early the following morning. "I have been wondering, John, whether you are planning to go to the 'Gretta' party?"

It seemed to Brenda that John's "yes" was somewhat hesitant. It was probable, she reflected (and with truth), that John would have had some formidable pleasure out of escorting Miss Anderson and acting as her guide through the Claverford's wonderful estate.

Each year this garden party held when the Claverford roses were at their magnificent best, marked the high spot of Berryton's social season. Brenda, who had annually gone with John, scanned his face when he called for her to detect any signs of waning affection. He seemed quieter than usual, she thought, but otherwise she could find no difference in his manner.

She could not know that John's one hope was that he would find Greta at the party. In spite of loyalty to Brenda each moment spent with the maturer woman so appreciative of his ideas, so deferential to his judgment, found him yielding more and more to an admiration, that, given opportunity, could rapidly become something deeper.

He and Brenda were standing on the outskirts of a group watching the dancers imported for the occasion when John felt a soft touch on his arm and turned to see his client and a tall, middle-aged man beside him.

"I want Mr. Lumberg, who came on from New York yesterday, to meet you, because—well, he and I are to be married some day and live in the house you are so beautifully designing for me."

Later, when Brenda, too, had been introduced, and they had chatted together for a few minutes she turned impulsively to the older woman.

"Would you mind, Miss Anderson, telling us just how your first name should be pronounced?" "Why, surely not!" flashed Miss Anderson. "How should it be called but 'Gretta'?"

FRISCO'S TELEGRAPH HILL SOON WILL BE BEAUTIFIED

Famous Place Played Important Part in Early History of California.

San Francisco.—Telegraph hill, which played an important part in California's early history and in its latter days became a retreat of the intelligentsia, is about to dress up and be formal.

Looking over San Francisco bay from its lofty perch above the Italian district, Telegraph hill long has been a spot of intense local interest.

It was from the crest of the hill, years ago, that the then new "whispering wires" of telegraph carried the first message across the continent. But before that—back in the pioneer days when sporting editors wrote of local happenings—Telegraph hill was the signal point from which slides were guided through Golden Gate.

In latter years, because of its seclusion, writers, artists and the intelligentsia in general selected the bayward side of the hill for their tiny cabin abodes.

Now the hill is to become formal, carrying with the change the danger that another of old San Francisco's distinctions is to pass. The North Beach Business Men's association is sponsoring a beautification contest and improvements, long spurned, are likely to be made.

This beautification idea, following the construction of a winding road up the hill, is in recognition of the lure the old hill has for tourists. Already boys in the Italian district line the streets and for a dime show motorists up the winding roadway to the crest of the hill and point down the side where, in the heart of a great city, nestle numerous cabins of the mountain type.

Through the years Telegraph hill has defied the age of stucco and retained much of its natural beauty. The Italian district has crowded around the base on three sides while on the other ships tie up and commerce flourishes. A memorial to the first cross country telegraph line adorns the peak and between it and the bay are the artistic cabins, wild flowers, trees and a profusion of natural bush growth, almost burying the small homes with their rocky steps, ledges and winding paths.

The beautification and improvement plan is generally accepted as a threat that the city, hemmed in by water on three sides, at last is going to swell up over the sides of the hill, wiping out a unique mountain-like fastness which is within sight and hearing of the noisy roar of Market street.

COSMOPOLITAN CORN

THE word "corn," specifically applied in this country, refers to "Indian corn," or maize. It is native to tropical America and was used as food by the Indians centuries before the era of Columbus, and probably even by the civilization which antedated the Red Man.

In the early days of the English colonies, corn was not confined to yellow and white ears, with an occasional red variation, as it is today. Though yellow and white were even then the most common, they were interspersed with red, blue, olive, greenish, black, vari-colored, speckled and striped ears. Today its consumption has become so universal in this country that this grain can fairly be called cosmopolitan, and practically all of it is packed in sanitary enamel lined cans.

Corn is lower in protein than wheat and oats, but it is fully equal in that respect to other grains and it surpasses many in the proportion of fat and oil. The starch of corn, its main food component, is of excellent quality, and it lends itself to combinations with so many other foods that it has been called by many first-aid to the housewife.

can of corn, five cups milk, two and one-half teaspoons salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper, bring to scalding, and serve. This recipe will make sufficient chowder for ten people.

Hamburg and Corn Scramble: Sauté one medium chopped onion in two tablespoons butter a few minutes, add three-quarters of a pound of Hamburg steak, and stir until well browned. Add one No. 2 can of corn, two teaspoons salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper, and heat. This will serve eight.

Corn and Salmon Fudding: Mix one No. 2 can of corn, one tablespoon melted butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one small can of salmon and one tablespoon heavy cream or evaporated milk in the foregoing order, being careful not to break up the salmon too finely. Bake in a buttered baking dish in a moderate oven (350° F.) thirty minutes. This, too, will serve eight.

With Fresh Vegetables: Canned corn combines excellently with fresh vegetables that are in season. Here are some sample recipes:

Escalloped Corn and Eggplant: Sauté one coarsely chopped green pepper, two coarsely chopped pimientos and one-half a medium eggplant, diced (about three cups) in three tablespoons butter until slightly brown. Add one No. 2 can of corn, one cup of thin cream or rich milk, two teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and one-fourth teaspoon celery salt, and pour into buttered casserole. Cover with buttered crumbs, and bake, covered. Remove cover at last to brown the Use of Term "American" Canada, Mexico and Alaska form part of the continent of North America. The people of those countries might be called Americans, but as they already have names and the use of the name "Americans" is generally restricted to the people of the United States, this would be confusing. The people of Canada and Mexico are foreigners with regard to us, just as we are foreigners with regard to them.

BAPTIST NEWS

The Midway Meeting closed Sunday night with three fine services Sunday. All voted the meeting to be a mighty good one. Some fifteen or more conversions and re-claimations and four additions to the Baird Baptist church. Some good help was given by Bro. Morgan Evans, of Abilene, who worked with the young people and Mina Mayes playing the piano.

I think I have never seen a community do better than the Midway community did in this meeting. Every service was well attended, and the finest cooperation given throughout the meeting.

The pastor is in a meeting this week at the Colony school house, north of Putnam and we hope that we will have a good meeting there.

In spite of the fact that we had no preaching last Sunday at our church, the Sunday school was well attended and a report indicated fine interest.

I will preach at Baird next Sunday morning and am urging a large attendance. Do not fail me good people, come and let us honor the Lord.

Joe R. Mayes.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
S. F. McCaffity, Pastor

All the regular services will be held Sunday, July 21, and the week following at the usual hours.

After missing two Sundays because of sickness and two attending the Encampment, the pastor is real anxious to meet all the members of the Sunday School and every member of the church in the services, and earnestly covets your presence. And those who attended the Encampment have some thing for each service that we hope will be of service to each department of the church.

The pastor feels in deed proud that the Baird Church tied with Slaton for the Highest number of Conference credits, 15 each. He hopes that next year that the church will receive double that number and knows no reasons why it should not do so, except indifference and lack of work.

I trust you will be present and with your prayers and Christ-like living help to exalt and make real our Lord and Savior. Will you not do so?

All are cordially invited to worship with us and are assured of a welcome.

WHEN WORK IS PLAY

There is a lesson for grown-up men and women in that felicity of childhood to make play out of work. Many adults can recall when the "a-bringing home of the cows" was made the occasion for a buffalo stampede and the real wild west and lasso sort of cow punching, and the fun which made play of the harvest labor, and the snow house and snow man which made walk shoveling great sport, as well as the many play games that came to raking the leaves, raming errands, beating rugs. Was there anything men call work which those same men as boys could not have made a rip-snorting good game of?

Making play of work is the real secret of happiness. Happiness is never attained through slaving today in the anticipation of being able to, financially, to play tomorrow. The man who takes a pleasure in his work—makes a play of it—is enjoying life in its full. He does not need to depend upon financial independence for his happiness. He is the man or woman whom the world has always mistaken for the inspired genius because "love of work, ambition and aspiration" are terms foreign to a world finding in work nothing by toil, slavery, labor, struggle, and drudgery and working for nothing but repose, relaxation, and a perpetual holiday.

Love of work is possible either in digging ditches or sculpturing eternal marble, but good work is only possible from men and women who make play of their work. To the eye and ear it seems paradoxical, but the mind has long conceived that human beings who make play of their work play less at their work.—Selected.
