They came to Artesia, went down the highway and crossed the Penasco at the bridge. Frank was found safe in the sheep camp. He had dismounted in order to attend to some sheep and the mule he was riding made for the ranch home at Hope as soon as he was free.

The noise caused by the fire attracted the attention of the garage men, but they were afraid to enter the room until they were assured that the oxygen tank would not explode.

As soon as they could get in the room and turn off the oxygen the fire went out.

The fire alarm was turned in and in a few minutes the fire truck was on its way to the garage, but before it got far it was signalled to stop, as the fire was under control. Mr. Curry reports that no damage was done.

COLLINS WATERBOUND NEAR CARLSBAD

The high water in the Arroyo was caused by cloudbursts in the mountains.

KELLOGG TREATY IN EFFECT

The Kellogg peace pact was formally proclaimed in effect at noon on Wednesday, July 24, by President Hoover in an impressive ceremony at the White House.
Only a few hours before the treaty was proclaimed in force, five more nations ratified the treaty.

Even before the treaty was proclaimed in effect, it was subjected to its first test in exerting an influence toward peaceful settlement of the threatening trouble between China and Russia.

SHADOWS OF THE PAST

Pedro Garduna's life was taken by Urbano Ortiz at Nambé, N. Mex., July 25. A coroners jury reported that it was "justifiable homicide" and the murderer was not arrested.

This report was based on what Ortiz told the sheriff and the district attorney. He said that he returned home unexpectedly, found Garduna in his home with Mrs. Ortiz and killed him.

The standards involved in this decision which excuses the taking of life reminds one of past ages before governments were instituted.

FAMINE HORRORS IN CHINA

The American Board of Commissioners for foreign missions report that conditions in the famine area of China are so terrible that some of the Chinese have resorted to cannibalism.

In desperation, the starving snatch at the tiniest scraps of food. Dead bodies of hungry victims lie by the roadside. Emaciated forms stagger along until unable to move another step.

The Rev. Earl H. Ballous, a missionary to China has written back to America that the famine is so great that parents dare not let their children out on the streets, for fear they will be stolen and sold and even in what seems to be well authenticated cases, actually eaten.

GOVERNMENT COST TO INCREASE

The intimation has come that after a study of appropriations made by congress and other mandatory obligations the country must face a considerable increase in the cost of government. A four million dollar budget is again suggested. When you talk about economy in government it is not perhaps wise to put the blame for extravagance on someone other than yourself. The average American has a new expenditure sense in his own household. It is only natural that it should get to Washington. Even the Japanese beetle is in the grounds of the national academy of sciences. Spending money is only hard for the really rich and the really poor, the latter having too little for their actual requirements and the former too much for their actual requirements and the former too much for their knowledge of its wise use. The amount that is wasted annually by well-intentioned givers would surprise you. Do not expect too much of any government under the present conditions.

OUR GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT

Greatest of all the achievements of our modern industrial age has been the social and economic progress made by the "common man," the average worker.

It has not been long since labor was regarded more or less as an inanimate commodity, subject to the law of supply and demand, and purchased much in the same way as wheat or cattle or groceries.

Capital and labor, once the cat and dog of the economic battle, now exist together with a fine friendliness and common regard. They have the same objective and they realize that it can be reached only by cooperation. The progressive employer pays good wages for good work, he is interested in improving the living conditions of his employees and he becomes a partner in their progress.

Tyranny and poverty and misery make agitators and incendiaries. High wages and pleasant living and working conditions make good citizens.

During the recent wheat harvest on the panhandle of Texas, the bank deposits in some communities have almost doubled in a single day.

The Town Doctor

(The Doctor of Towns)

ON

DO NOT OVERLOOK THE LITTLE THINGS

To one who doesn't know the little things done or left undone do not make any difference but there are always those who do know and they are usually the ones who count.

It belittles a business a town or a person to overlook the little things.

Overlooking little things is one of the main factors that makes a small town small.

It is the little things that often make the difference between profit and loss in business especially in dull times. With an individual it is refinement courtesy cleanliness; with a store, it is stock arrangement, pleasing, efficient salespeople, tidiness and atmosphere; with a town, it is clean streets, well kept lawns, traffic regulations and progressiveness of the citizens.

The most successful merchandising concerns in the country have built their business on courtesy, service and little things. Your town is a business, and courtesy and service extended by you to your neighbor and the potential customer of your community business will also build. Be funny, make wise cracks, fail to sell your community when you have a chance, and you will tear down.

When a merchant, an organization, or your newspaper does anything for your community, tell them about it, write them a letter, call them on the phone, or stop in and see them and express your appreciation. You get as much good out of anything they do for the community as they do. No one can do anything for the town but what you won't benefit. If you don't or won't do anything yourself, the least you can do is to thank those who are doing something through which you will benefit.

It is a little thing to do but it will pay you a profit.

WEEDS DO NOT CAUSE HAY FEVER

Hay and weeds—even golden rod, the national flower—have been definitely cleared of the charge that they are the sole cause of hay fever. Dr. N. B.
Herman, of the Johns Hopkins hay fever clinic has announced that for the first time the annoying disease can be decisively checked by immunization.

Hay fever can be contracted from horse dandruff, pigs, dogs, cats, feathers and even furs, he declares in an article in Farm and Fireside. Certain kinds of meat also bring on the malady, he adds. For a long time it was thought that hay fever was caused only by pollen and that asthma was in some way associated with colds and bronchial infections. Now, however it has been definitely proved that the two maladies are closely related and that they may be brought about by many other things.

In one of the early tests, the case of a farm boy proved puzzling. By the process of elimination, however, it was finally discovered that the pollen of corn tassels was his botanical enemy. He was immunized and his recovery was speedy. The magazine relates another case in which a woman's hay fever was traced after exhaustive research, to an expensive fur coat.
She paid dearly for her cure, however for the expensive coat was found to be only rabbit fur which is one of the sources of the disease.

After isolating the cause of the fever, scientists of the clinic insert a small portion of the pollen, cat or dog hair, pig bristles, or whatever the offending material may be, beneath the skin of the patient. If a hive forms in ten or fifteen minutes the test is positive and the procedure is clear. The next step is to immunize the patient with an extract of the material that causes the fever. Usually one part to ten thousand parts of water are used for hay fever patients and one to one thousand for asthma sufferers. Immunization from pollen last for a year, while other treatments give permanent cures.

MR. WILSON ANGRY

Frances C. Wilson, Santa Fe attorney and member of New Mexico executive committee of the Colorado Springs oil conference is angry, peeved, mad, aggravated and undone apparently because he was not consulted when the majority report was submitted and approved and signed by Governor Willon. Mr. Wilson, who knows just about as much about the problems of the oil operators relative to the development of government land, as a "hog knows about a side saddle," wants to tell the oil men what they must do to keep the state in good standing with the powers that be politically. It is more than apparent that Mr. Wilson is principally interested in his political fortune rather than trying to aid the state in adjusting itself to the orderly development of its natural resources.

THE HIT AND RUN DRIVER

We often hear of tragic accidents on the highways caused by the hit and run driver, who runs away and leaves his victim without offering aid. We wonder if such folks are normal in every respect and if they are "all there." Accidents such as reported occasionally where the victim is left to perish by the road side, shows not only a murderous intent, but that the hit and run driver possesses a cruel and atrocious heart.
Punishment ordinarily meted out to the murderer is too soft for this sort of fellow.

CAN THE FARM BOARD HELP

THE COTTON MARKET?

Many local cotton growers are hopeful that the farm board of Mr. Hoover will be material aid in stimulating and stabilizing the cotton market. While one has to be rather optimistic to expect the board to play a major part in holding the market to a price that will be profitable to the growers, good may come from the activities of the board eventually. It is a difficult thing for any organization to control the law of supply and demand.

L. L. Garton of Alamogordo owner of an artesian lake has recently received a dozen pairs of frogs from Arkansas. He will have frog legs and frog music if his project is successful and the Arkansas frogs like the New Mexico climate.

While sustained airplane flights are constantly being made and broken, we look for some of these young married couples to start an endurance contest to see how long they can live together without a divorce.

NOW IS THE TIME

How much can happen in a day!
A letter, a telegram, a telephone call,
announcing death or other catastrophe, can tear us from our path and send us spinning down a new by way.

A sharp word, a frown, or an utterance of an unsuspected thought, upsets our fortunes, our hopes and our ideals. A moment ago we were rich in our emotions of happiness and love; now we are sunk to the blackest pits of despair.

When we thus reflect, how important is the present moment if we are to enjoy life to its fullest.

If we have kindly thoughts to express, now is the time to express them. If we have energy for achievement, now is the time to release
it. If we have worthy emotions involving others, now is the time to liberate them.

Let us live worthily now. In five minutes the tide of affairs may be moving us in another direction.—Na-

FAST DRIVING OVER SLICK ROADS IS SEMI-SUICIDE SAYS REPORT

SANTA FE.—Calling fast driving on roads made slick by summer thundershowers "semi-suicide" a highway safety bulletin which comments on the recent flurry of accidents in the state points out that many of them could have been avoided had the drivers reduced speed and used chains.

"When the summer showers make a road slick there is nothing maintenance employees can do but wait for dryer weather before working the muddy section," the bulletin declares. "During the worst of the muddy time, to put road machinery to work would not help traffic, but would ruin the road when the drying out process starts in as the entire top course would be cut off by the blades.

"While all highway employees are instructed to render every aid to travel during wet weather, as well as dry, there is little they can do when drivers insist on trying to break speed records on slick roads. Cars stranded will be aided by the first employee along the section or will be hauled out if word is taken to the maintenance man in charge of the patrol."

The work of erecting caution and warning signs, daylighting curves and building guard rails goes on continuously, the bulletin states. But with all this the road system of the state is so large that it is obviously impossible to have all spots made driver proof at once.

"If the driver will cooperate with the roadmen to the extent of handling his car with care and driving at a slow speed during bad weather," the bulletin concludes, "the work of bringing all roads up to engineering safety standards will be given a chance to catch up with motor vehicular advance. It is probable, however, that the time will never come when built-in safety features in the road will entirely eliminate the steady stream of accidents caused by faulty or careless driving."

SOAPWEED VALUABLE FORAGE FOR CATTLE

Soapweed, (Yucca elata) is a perennial evergreen belonging to the lily family. The stems vary from three to six feet in height altho some specimens as all as thirty feet have been observed says R. S. Campbell of the U. S. Forest Service.

The soapweed is regarded by stockmen as a valuable forage plant, since cattle may graze entirely upon the green leaves during the spring months, when grass is short. The tender flower stalks and flowers are eaten with considerable relish by cattle, while the succulent stems and leaves were chopped for ensilage and used extensively in southern New Mexico for supplemental feeding from 1916 to 1919.

When winter and early spring rains are abundant, the majority of soapweeds send up flower stalks from three to five feet long which, in four to six weeks after starting, produce great pinacles of large, cream colored flowers, usually in full bloom during May and June.

It is quite common for old soapweeds to produce young sprouts from underground, and from one to five or more new stems may spring up if the old plant is cut down. The sprouts grow faster than seedlings for the first few years, but none of the plants grow very fast. From measurements made since 1925, the growth of sprouts and of mature plants may vary from one-half to two inches per year, so that a soapweed five feet tall might easily be fifty years old.

Since soapweed is such a slow growing plant, any plan for its continued use should provide for cutting only the plants above certain size, say three feet or more, which would leave enough plants on the ground to maintain a good stand, and protect the area from excessive wind erosion.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENT RATE ALMOST DOUBLED OVER THE PAST YEAR

SANTA FE—Figures have been compiled on the auto accidents in New Mexico and released Monday by the State Highway Service Bureau which shows that the accident rate has nearly doubled over 1928.

In the first six months of 1928 there were 83 accidents reported upon by highway employees as happening on maintenance patrols. For the first six months of this year 170 accidents have been reported. These figures do not include accidents which happen in cities, towns or off maintenance patrols.

The figures on accident causes maintain approximately the same ratio as last year. Inattention, which includes recklessness, carelessness, incompetence and like causes, still heads the list with 65 accidents charged against it. Speeding as a cause maintains the same ratio as 1928 but intoxication is only about one half as much again, instead of double.

In the column physical causes defective vehicle is away out in front with 27 accidents resulting. Strong lights as a cause has increased six times as much as last year. Defective road has increased in ratio with the total increase to double last year.

The statement which is made nationally as well as locally that most auto accidents are preventable is borne out by the data on "place of accident" which shows that 120 of the 170 accidents happening so far this year were on stretches of good road and 17 on fair road. Nine were reported on new work, 1 on bad road and 23 unknown. Allowing for a goodly portion of the "unknown" happening on bad roads the ratio of accidents on good road, and presumably preventable accordingly, is so high as to point the finger of blame at the driver himself again.

Twice as many accidents occurred on tangents, or straightaways as on curves. Over a dozen took place at structures which when investigated shows that the drivers hit the white painted guide posts on spillways or tried to cross on one-way bridges when another car had rightofway, or else because of defective vehicle swung off the road and into the concrete headwalls over culverts.

In the 170 accidents 180 cars were damaged, many accidents being collisions. Of this bunch 21 were completely wrecked and 88 damaged over $75.

The only light in the darkness of the figures, which the highway employees find is that the death rate has been reduced over last year, which is a phenomenon noted in the national figures compiled by the National Safety Council. In New Mexico during the first half of last year 32 people met their deaths in auto accidents by Bureau of Public Health figures, while in the same period of this year the figure has dropped two units with 30 fatalities chalked up so far.

THE AVERAGE DAILY POPULATION OF STATE PENITENTIARY IS 422

SANTA FE—New Mexico's penitentiary was operated during the 17th fiscal year at a net cost of $103,547 according to a financial statement filed with Gov. Dillon Friday by Warden Pat Dugan.

The daily average population totaled 422.4 with the peak 487 on June 20th. The prisoners were maintained at a net cost of 67.1 cents per man per day, which is a little higher than the average during the 16th fiscal year, due to the increase in the price of commodities, the report states.

Convicts earnings totaled $60,701, of which $38,002 represents the sale of brick and tile.

Due to the closing down of the brick plant for a couple of months while new machinery was being installed revenue from this source decreased $14,000 over the previous year.

During this period 111 prisoners were paroled, 24 pardoned conditionally, 4 granted complete pardons and one died.

Mr. Dugan, in his report, states that two pieces of land adjoining the penitentiary wall on the northwest have been purchased at a cost of $750 and state that he is setting aside a sum in the new budget for the purchase of two additional pieces of land abutting the prison walls on the north and south.

A new laundry is being equipped at a cost of $15,000 for machinery and setting, he states.

The prison according to the report, is filled to capacity. The basement of the new hospital houses 60 trusties, and should the population increase new quarters will be found with difficulty.

Miscellaneous information contained in the report shows that of the six prisoners who escaped during the year only the two trusties who walked away from the garage are at large.

Health of the prisoners is reported as good. Only one new case of T. B. is reported.

Of the 442 prisoners now in the penitentiary 167 are from New Mexico, 63 from Texas, 50 from Mexico and 8 from foreign countries. Thirty-five states are represented.

The most popular crime, according to the report, is second degree murder. Eighty-three are confined for the offense, 63 for burglary, 55 for larceny, 38 for grand larceny, 23 for forgery, and 1 for bigamy. Numerous other crimes are represented.

The report states that 73 of the prisoners have a college or high school education, 261 a common school education and 106 no education at all.

One hundred and eighty-six are married.

Only four religions are represented. There are 249 Catholics, 153 Protestants, 1 Hebrew and 1 Buddhist. Thirty-six have no religion at all.

The report states that 25 negroes are confined, 18 Indians and 1 Japanese.

Warden Dugan says that he is expecting a heavy yield from his truck garden.

Make me too brave to lie or be unkind.
Make me too understanding, too, to mind
The little hurts companions give, and friends,
The careless hurts which no one quite intends.
Make me too thoughtful to hurt others so.
Help me to know
The inmost hearts of those for whom I care,
Their secret wishes, all the loads they bear,
That I may add my courage to their own.
May I make lonely folks feel less alone:
And happier ones a little happier yet.
May I forget
What ought to be forgotten; and recall Unfailing, all
Thought ought to be recalled, each kindly thing,
Forgetting what might sting.
To all upon my way,
Day after day,
Let me be joy, be hope! Let my life sing!

MEAT STEWS

The meat stew has been the popular and savory dish as far back as history records cookery. It is in many cases a meal in itself, as with it may be combined vegetables, cereals and dumplings, making a most sustaining main dish.

French cooks offer many combinations of meat which instead of stew is called ragout.

Ragout of Lamb.—Take one and one-half pounds of the breast or shoulder of lamb, six slices of bacon, eight small onions, six medium-sized potatoes, one stalk of celery, three sprigs of parsley, a bayleaf, a sprig of thyme tied together, four small turnips, three tablespoonfuls of flour. Cut the meat with a damp cloth and cut it into inch cubes, dredge with flour. Dice the bacon and cook crisp. Brown the onions in the bacon fat, remove and add the cubes of lamb to brown. Pour off the fat, except three tablespoonfuls, add three tablespoonfuls of flour and brown. Add one pint of boiling water and stir until smooth and thick, then add seasoning and one onion stuck with cloves. Cover and simmer one hour. Then add the vegetables cut into quarters and continue cooking another hour. Remove the bunch of herbs and serve.

5 reasons why STEEL ECLIPSE WINDMILLS run in lightest breeze

Why does the Steel Eclipse run when other mills are motionless? The answer is, scientific design and fine workmanship. Note these five reasons—

- (1) Wheel is tilted to take advantage of lightest breeze.
- (2) All working parts run in oil.
- (3) All wearing parts are made of the right materials and surfaces are machined.
- (4) Mill starts on two-thirds load—not full load; quick downstroke and slow upstroke means less effort required on the lift or pumping stroke.
- (5) All bearing surfaces are in line, reducing internal strain and power loss.

Tomatoes, fresh raw, or canned, are a good source of vitamins A, B, and C. Include them very frequently in your menus. Young children and even babies may be given tomato juice.

Variations of the V-shaped neckline are usually becoming to the round and plump face, rather than the round neck-line which repeats the lines of the face. A square neck is also becoming at this type of face.

Be careful not to cook corn on the cob too long or it will be tough and tasteless. Have a large kettle of water boiling rapidly and drop the corn into the water for from 8 to 10 minutes, if there are not many ears.

To clean burners on a gas stove, take them out of their sockets and brush off all loose dirt. Boil in a solution of washing soda made by adding ½ pound of soda to each gallon of water, for ½ hour. Rinse and wipe dry, then put back and light the gas to finish drying off.

Shirred eggs are a pleasant change for breakfast or lunch. Drop the eggs into a shallow buttered baking dish, sprinkle buttered bread crumbs on top, and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set. Individual baking dishes may be used, and the eggs sent in them to the table.

PORTALES MAN KILLS WIFE AND DAUGHTER AT PORTALES HOTEL

PORTALES. — Despairing over family troubles which had brought a breach between himself and his wife and children, B. F. Bouldin, 65, a farmer who lives seven miles northwest of Portales, Monday morning shot and killed his fifty-five year old wife, and his daughter, Mrs. Ed Baker, 34, in a hotel here.

Bouldin was arrested before he could carry out his intention of killing himself. Officers have gone to the Bouldin farm home to find out whether Bouldin also killed his son, Jasper, 16, who lived at the farm with his father. Mrs. Bouldin had left her husband to come to Portales to live with the daughter.

The bodies of the two women were found in the hotel room and between them was the twenty-one months old daughter of Mrs. Baker which had not been harmed. The two women were shot through the head.

"Our family troubles had become so bitter I could no longer stand it," Bouldin told Sheriff Jernigan as he pleaded with the officer either to kill him or give him a revolver so he could kill himself.

Bouldin came to Portales from his farm Monday morning, went to a hardware store bought a .22 calibre pistol and six shells and went to the hotel.

He fired six bullets into the bodies of his wife and daughter, went out a rear door of the hotel and returned to the hardware store to buy more bullets so he could kill himself.

The hardware dealer became suspicious of Bouldin's actions and would not sell him more shells for the revolver. As Bouldin started to leave the store, three citizens of Portales grabbed him and held him until the sheriff arrived.

Bouldin would not talk to the officers about the young son, Jasper, and deputies were sent to the Bouldin farm to determine whether the boy was alright or had also been a victim of his father's despondency. The shooting at the hotel occurred about 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Bouldin did not explain the nature of the family troubles, but said the quarrels had started over the children, and that Mrs. Bouldin had taken the side of the daughter.

Upon going to the hotel, Bouldin went to the room of Mrs. Adams and asked the number of Mrs. Barkers' room. Mrs. Adams told him that Mrs. Barker and Mrs. Bouldin were in room seven.

He entered room seven and locked the door. Shortly afterward several pistol shots were heard, and Bouldin ran from the room and out of the hotel.

He was captured by Frank Shaw, H. D. Adams and Frank Warnica who followed him from the hotel.

Mrs. Barker was shot in the neck and left cheek and Mrs. Bouldin was shot in the head just above the right ear.

Dr. F. W. Dabbs of Clovis was summoned to make an examination of the body and a coroner's jury was summoned to prepare an inquest verdict.

SOME ANCIENT HISTORY

Anytime that you give or take a mortgage on real estate you do something which originated over 4,000 years ago. Records which have been unearthed on the site of ancient Babylon show that real estate mortgages were known in the time of good old King Khammuragas, who was quite an important personage some 2100 years before Christ. Careful calculation will prove that 4,000 years is a longer span of time than it will take to pay off your present mortgage, although you may have your doubts about that.

Taking a little jump of 1600 years we find that the great banking house of the Egibi family, which was founded in 600 B. C., dealt extensively in mortgages on both city and farm property. It was probably just about that time when some far-sighted real estate man first sub-divided a piece of someone's farm, installed gas, water, electricity, etc., and sold the leading Babylonians the idea of living near a first-class golf course.

These mortgages by the way were recorded on bricks which were stored in huge earthenware jars and then buried in the ground. They were dug up a few years ago, still intact and quite legible. That idea of using bricks had some advantages over the present method. A man could have built himself a house with the cancelled deeds, using first mortgage bricks for outside walls and common second mortgage variety for cellars and other hidden work. Then, too, when the villain came along to get the cash or foreclose the mortgage—ala the movies—the beautiful heroine had something substantial to hurl at his wicked head.

METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL

Do you take time to go to Sunday school? Is our time to be used almost wholly in pleasure and acquiring material things? A writer in a late periodical states: "Often the greatest possible losses in church work are sustained by the lack of a conscientious use of time. For example, Sunday school classes, composed of pupils at strategic periods in their lives, are often lost to the church because of the teacher's failure to give the necessary time to the work. No program of stewardship can be adequate to modern needs without rendering a considerable portion of the Christian's time available as an asset of the kingdom. Certainly one can render no important service to the kingdom when the claims of religion are put on the basis of convenience."

"A long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether."

Why Zoo Pets Are Costly

Sunshine is at such a premium in England that valuable reptiles in their new house at the Zoological Gardens of London are supplied with the artificial variety. In addition to the electrical supply of ultraviolet light the cages are equipped with heating apparatus controlled by automatic thermostats so that the current is shut off when the temperature rises above 83 degrees Fahrenheit and is turned on again when it falls below 77. Glass separates the public from the cages and helps conserve the summer atmosphere necessary to the health and happiness of snakes. As if this were not luxury enough, windows made of glass that admit ultraviolet light help the big box constrictors and their formidable brethren enjoy life when the real sun shows his face.

PORTALES MAN KILLS WIFE AND DAUGHTER AT PORTALES HOTEL

PORTALES. — Despairing over family troubles which had brought a breach between himself and his wife and children, B. F. Bouldin, 65, a farmer who lives seven miles northwest of Portales, Monday morning shot and killed his fifty-five year old wife, and his daughter, Mrs. Ed Baker, 34, in a hotel here.

Bouldin was arrested before he could carry out his intention of killing himself. Officers have gone to the Bouldin farm home to find out whether Bouldin also killed his son, Jasper, 16, who lived at the farm with his father. Mrs. Bouldin had left her husband to come to Portales to live with the daughter.

The bodies of the two women were found in the hotel room and between them was the twenty-one months old daughter of Mrs. Baker which had not been harmed. The two women were shot through the head.

"Our family troubles had become so bitter I could no longer stand it," Bouldin told Sheriff Jernigan as he pleaded with the officer either to kill him or give him a revolver so he could kill himself.

Bouldin came to Portales from his farm Monday morning, went to a hardware store bought a .22 calibre pistol and six shells and went to the hotel.

He fired all six bullets "into the bodies of his wife and daughter, went out a rear door of the hotel and returned to the hardware store to buy more bullets so he could kill himself.

The hardware dealer became suspicious of Bouldin's actions and would not sell him more shells for the revolver. As Bouldin started to leave the store, three citizens of Portales grabbed him and held him until the sheriff arrived.

Bouldin would not talk to the officers about the young son, Jasper, and deputies were sent to the Bouldin farm to determine whether the boy was alright or had also been a victim of his father's despondency. The shooting at the hotel occurred about 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Bouldin did not explain the nature of the family troubles, but said the quarrels had started over the children, and that Mrs. Bouldin had taken the side of the daughter.

Upon going to the hotel, Bouldin went to the room of Mrs. Adams and asked the number of Mrs. Barker's room. Mrs. Adams told him that Mrs. Barker and Mrs. Bouldin were in room seven.

He entered room seven and locked the door. Shortly afterward several pistol shots were heard, and Bouldin ran from the room and out of the hotel.

He was captured by Frank Shaw, H. D. Adams and Frank Warnica who followed him from the hotel.

Mrs. Barker was shot in the neck and left cheek and Mrs. Bouldin was shot in the head just above the right ear.

Dr. F. W. Dabbs of Clovis was summoned to make an examination of the body and a coroner's jury was summoned to prepare an inquest verdict.

SOME ANCIENT HISTORY

Anytime that you give or take a mortgage on real estate you do something which originated over 4,000 years ago. Records which have been unearthed on the site of ancient Babylon show that real estate mortgages were known in the time of good old King Hammuragas, who was quite an important personage some 2100 years before Christ. Careful calculation will prove that 4,000 years is a longer span of time than it will take to pay off your present mortgage, although you may have your doubts about that.

Taking a little jump of 1600 years we find that the great banking house of the Egibi family, which was founded in 600 B. C., dealt extensively in mortgages on both city and farm property. It was probably just about that time when some far-sighted real estate man first sub-divided a piece of someone's farm, installed gas, water, electricity, etc., and sold the leading Babylonians the idea of living near a first-class golf course.

These mortgages by the way were recorded on bricks which were stored in huge earthenware jars and then buried in the ground. They were dug up a few years ago, still intact and quite legible. That idea of using bricks had some advantages over the present method. A man could have built himself a house with the cancelled deeds, using first mortgage bricks for outside walls and common second mortgage variety for cellars and other hidden work. Then, too, when the villain came along to get the cash or foreclose the mortgage—ala the movies—the beautiful heroine had something substantial to hurl at his wicked head.

WEALTH WON BY UNSOUND MEANS SELDOM PROVES OF LASTING VALUE

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Successful men who have built up large enterprises, in the majority of cases, owe their success largely to thrift.

Thrift gave then the start they needed and it was the development of this characteristic that imparted the combination of courage and cautious judgment without which there can be no substantial success in money matters.

Although the ability to make money is, to considerable extent, a matter of natural aptitude, the still more important accomplishment of thrift can be acquired by anyone. There is no excuse for not saving money.

Thriftlessness is an indication of weakness. It is indecision of character.

Thrift requires steadfastness and the martialing of the last ounce of moral strength that we possess. But it does not require any special genius or brilliant gift of mind.

No matter how shrewd a man may be or how keenly developed his instincts for acquiring wealth, he will never be successful unless an element of thrift is woven into all his activities.

The so-called plunger—the meteoric financier—may at times seem able to defy prudent practices and the principles of thrift. But such success is seldom permanent. Wealth thus gained rather than through the working out of sound business practices nearly always proves transitory.

Lack of thrift has caused more financial afilures than anything else.

How many men there are to-day who might have become wealthy had they only known how to save money! During the course of their careers they have earned large sums but these have slipped through their fingers from day to day. They had the natural gift of making money, just as their successful rivals, but they lacked the quality of permanent success—which is thrift.

"Ever been held up by outlaws?" inquired his friend.

"No, but for the past ten years I've been held down by in-laws," sadly replied the man who'd married his wife's entire family.

Experience Not Required

"Does your small boy annoy you by asking questions?"

"No," answered the patient parent. "What annoys me is his calm and confident assumption that he knows the answer to everything."

METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL

Do you take time to go to Sunday school? Is our time to be used almost wholly in pleasure and acquiring material things? A writer in a late periodical states: "Often the greatest possible losses in church work are sustained by the lack of a conscientious use of time. For example, Sunday school classes, composed of pupils at strategic periods in their lives, are often lost to the church because of the teacher's failure to give the necessary time to the work. No program of stewardship can be adequate to modern needs without rendering a considerable portion of the Christian's time available as an asset of the kingdom. Certainly one can render no important service to the kingdom when the claims of religion are put on the basis of convenience."

"A long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether."

Why Zoo Pets Are Costly

Sunshine is at such a premium in England that valuable reptiles in their new house at the Zoological Gardens of London are supplied with the artificial variety. In addition to the electrical supply of ultraviolet light the cages are equipped with heating apparatus controlled by automatic thermostats so that the current is shut off when the temperature rises above 83 degrees Fahrenheit and is turned on again when it falls below 77. Glass separates the public from the cages and helps conserve the summer atmosphere necessary to the health and happiness of snakes. As if this were not luxury enough, windows made of glass that admit ultraviolet light help the big boa constrictors and their formidable brethren enjoy life when the real sun shows his face.
