JUNIOR PLAY A SUCCESS

The Junior play held in the school auditorium Friday evening was a huge success. The class realized over forty dollars, even at the reduced prices of admission. This money will be used to finance the Junior-Senior banquet.

The production showed talent on the part of the cast, and spoke highly of the ability of Miss Clemons as sponsor.

The special features were extraordinarily good. Mrs. Welborn played a violin solo, two numbers were given by the girls glee club, a beautiful dance number was given by Misses Loula Denham and Bernice Denney between acts, and Miss Denham entertained with piano music during the changing of the scenes.

CONTROL OF PUBLIC RANGE IS URGED

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Immediate federal regulation of grazing on the unallotted and unreserved public lands in the west in order to check overgrazing, erosion and damage to watersheds and irrigation districts, was called for by the national land use committees as they completed a four day meeting in Washington Saturday.

The two committees—the national advisory and legislative committee on land use and the national land use planning committee—approved the principles embodied in the cotton bill to provide the necessary protection for these lands, but did not pass on the controverted question of final disposition of the public domain now totaling 176,000,000 acres.

A committee of 35 experts familiar with public land problems submitted to the national land use committees a survey of the present status of these lands and reported in part:

"The public domain," including the remaining unappropriated, unreserved public lands in question, has always been a grazing commons for unrestricted use by all comers. No public control has ever been exercised. Fencing is not lawful.

"Without regulation as to numbers of stock, time of grazing, and management of stock, range deterioration was inevitable. Today large areas are greatly reduced in grazing capacity, some areas are depleted until they are practically unfit for grazing in present condition. Erosion has increased and the problem of range improvement is thereby made more difficult. Increased tendency to floods and silt in some localities had added to the problems of the undeveloped territory and of reclamation."

The committee also reported: "The need of some form of regulation which will prevent further avoidable deterioration of this vast resource is generally recognized. Likewise there is general recognition that as a general principle such improvement as is brought about should be accomplished without depriving the livestock industry of the use of these lands. About 50 per cent of the sheep and about 16 per cent of the cattle of the United States are raised in the public land states involved."

THURSDAY CLUB

The Hagerman Thursday club met on last Thursday afternoon at the Willis Pardee home with Mrs. W. L. Heitman as hostess. Meses. R. M. Ware and A. M. Ehret were leaders and the lesson on "Municipal Government" was very interesting, bringing out the facts about city and county government.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was the decorations, which were vases of "California holly," a gift to Mrs. Pardee from a former member of the club, Mrs. F. D. Mitchell, of Los Angeles, California.

About seventeen members were present and a guest who was a former member, Mrs. W. P. Woodman of Santa Anna, California.

ZONE MEETING

The quarterly zone meeting of the Methodist Missionary Societies met on Friday with Mrs. Edmund McKinstry at 11:30 o'clock.

A covered dish luncheon was served at 12:00 o'clock and the business session opened at 1:00 o'clock. Election of officers during the business session was as follows: Mrs. F. G. Rowell of Roswell as chairman; Mrs. E. A. Paddock of Hagerman as leader; and Mrs. J. W. Sharp of Dexter, secretary. There were twelve Roswell ladies present; four from Dexter and sixteen from Hagerman.

THE VALLEY BANKERS MEET IN ROSWELL

The bankers of southeastern New Mexico held a regular quarterly meeting of the regional clearing house No. 3, a division of the New Mexico Bankers Association, at Roswell on Saturday evening. A banquet at the Nickerson hotel preceded the regular business session, which was conducted by J. E. Robertson, of Artesia, president of the association.

Matters pertaining to the activities of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation, were discussed and much information of great value was obtained by members present. The First National Bank of Roswell; Bank of Commerce, of Roswell; Carlsbad National Bank; Lea County State Bank of Lovington; First National Bank of Artesia and the First National Bank of Hagerman were represented.

DUCKS COMING INTO VALLEY IN LARGE NUMBERS RECENTLY

The storms and cold waves which have swept the north and northwestern portion of the U. S. recently have caused a migration of great numbers of wild ducks into the valley, hunters say. Canadian geese are seen in greater numbers than in several years according to hunters. Sportsmen who know the game should have little difficulty in getting the bag limit, if all reports are true. The migration of the water fowl to southern points has been slower than usual this year and up until recently, duck hunting has not been as good as in former years. The duck season will end on December 15th.

NO MORE PERMITS FOR DOE SEASON

Elliott Barker, state game warden, said Friday that no more permits for the special doe season on the Shelton range will be issued.

The game department set the number of permits to be issued at 700 and that number was reached Friday.

Barker left Friday morning for the Cimerron country to investigate reports that beavers were causing considerable damage by damming irrigation ditches and cutting down trees. If the reports are found to be true a special season may be declared on beaver and special permits may be issued for them.

Miss Lucy Thomas of Roswell spent Monday night with Mrs. Harry Cowan.

Mrs. Floyd Childress visited on Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wimberly.

DEAN OF THE HOUSE

With the defeat of Representative Gilbert N. Haugen, veteran Republican leader from Iowa, the leadership of the lower house in length of service passes to Representative Edward W. POU, Democrat, of North Carolina, who has served 16 consecutive terms in congress.

M. E. ASSEMBLY ROAD PROJECTS START

Satisfactory progress has been reported on the road projects leading to the Sacramento Methodist assembly site, west of Weed. The survey has been completed and work has been started on the stretch of road from Mayhill to the Denny bridge. A state highway crew has been working and clearing the road from Denny Bridge to Weed. The crew is now blasting and widening the Denny hill road. With this complete work will be continued to Weed and on to the assembly site. Construction will be necessarily slow on both projects during the severe winter months, but it is hoped that both projects will be opened for travel by June 1.

HAGERMAN BOY IN "TIGER SHARK" AT THE YUCCA FRI. AND SAT.

It will be interesting to Hagerman residents to know that a Hagerman boy of other years, figured in the filming of the movie classic, "Tiger Shark," showing at the Yucca Friday and Saturday nights.

This boy was Carl Anderson. The fishing boat pictured in the film belonged to him, and he actually caught the shark himself, that contributes a major part to the plot of the picture.

Carl will be seen in the crew. He was a brother to Gust Anderson, and lived for many years on a homestead east of Hagerman.

NATION'S GINNINGS 10,532,245 BALES

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Cotton of this year's growth ginned prior to November 14 was reported Monday by the census bureau to have totaled 10,532,745 running bales, including 474,442 round bales, counted as half bales, and 5,073 bales of American-Egyptian. To that date last year 14,207,613 bales, including 484,680 round bales and 6,148 bales of American-Egyptian, had been ginned.

Partial ginnings this year to November 14th by states were: Arizona 36,860; California, 83,102; New Mexico, 41,571; Texas, 3,448,736.

Bales of cotton ginned to November 13 in other years follow, for comparison with those ginned this year to that date: 1931—14,207,613; 1930—11,962,827; 1929—11,890,006; 1928—11,320,688 and 1927—10,894,912 bales.

A ROSWELL RUMOR SAYS NEUMANN MAY BE NEXT DIST. JUDGE

Attorney General E. K. Neumann may resign his position as attorney general to accept the appointment of judge of the fifth judicial district, according to rumors coming from Roswell. Previously it was said that Mr. Neumann would not consider the appointment. The appointment would be contingent on the resignation of Judge G. A. Richardson, who is now on a vacation in California. The Chaves county bar association, which recently appointed a committee to contact Judge Richardson has made no announcement relative to further developments in the case. The Chaves county bar association also agreed that the organization would take no action in the event of the resignation of Judge Richardson unless requested to do so by Governor Seligman. Five other Lea, Eddy and Chaves attorneys have been mentioned as a possible successor to Judge Richardson.

OILING CAVERN ROAD

Seventeen miles of the cavern highway between Carlsbad and the cavern will be oiled. Work on the project is expected to start soon. Eight Carlsbad men were given employment in unloading equipment. An oiling project near Portales of ten miles was also included in the contract let at Santa Fe in September.

BAPTIST W. M. S.

Women of the Baptist church held their regular weekly meeting in the church rooms Monday afternoon, at which time, a very interesting missionary program was given, and as a special attraction, Mrs. L. L. Brewer, national evangelist of the W. C. T. U., spoke on prohibition.

MRS. H. P. CUMPSTEN INJURED IN CAR WRECK

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cumpsten returned late Sunday night from Yeso, this state, where they went to get Mrs. H. P. Cumpsten, Robert's mother, who was injured when the car in which she was riding, struck a cow on the highway, Monday, a week ago. Mrs. Cumpsten had gone to Yeso, to visit her son, Harry and wife, and was riding in their coupe at the time of the accident. The auto struck the cow, and the door flew open, throwing Mrs. Cumpsten out at the side of the road. Her left eye was badly hurt, and she was knocked unconscious by the impact.

It is hoped that Mrs. Cumpsten will get along well.

EXTENSION PROGRAM BROADCASTS ON KOB

The extension service is broadcasting more material over radio station KOB this season than last. The features now being broadcast include: "Housekeepers" Chats, which go on the air in connection with the home science program at 9:30 a. m. each day, except Saturday and Sunday; the "Farm Flashes" which are broadcast daily at 12:05 p. m. except Sunday. Every week day evening at 8:00 o'clock, a five minute informal talk in regard to the college, extension service or the experiment station is being broadcast. Each Thursday State College Chat features extension work. On three evenings each week talks are given by college, experiment station or extension service workers. Plans are being made for broadcasting a 4-H club program one evening each month as was done last year.

While the proportion of families owning radio sets in New Mexico was only 11.5 per cent in April 1930, the number has been increasing rapidly and a much larger proportion of the population may be reached by radio as time passes.

In a survey made last year, it was found that rural people were protesting the large amount of advertising programs on the air and insisting on more educational material. Radio education, under New Mexico conditions, offers a greater opportunity than it does in many other states. The problem of the extension service is to prepare and present radio programs that will meet the needs of the rural people and become an effective part of extension work.

CRUCES MAN ASKS SALOON LICENSE

If an applicant for a saloon license at Las Cruces makes good his threat the attorney general will be called upon for a ruling whether such permits can be issued under New Mexico dry laws. Paul Roach, tax assessor, said a man, whose name was not learned, demanded the license on the grounds that "they are doing it everywhere else, why not here?"

He became indignant when refused a license, Roach said, and threatened to take the case to the attorney general. He expressed confidence the attorney general would take favorable action on the application.

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE TONIGHT IN CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Hagerman churches are meeting again this year in their union Thanksgiving service, which will be held in the Christian church at 7:30 o'clock.

Rev. J. A. Hedges will bring a message suited to the occasion, and special musical numbers have also been arranged for. Everyone in Hagerman is invited to this service.

METHODIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETING

The Methodist Missionary Society met last week at the home of Mrs. Ben F. Gehman with Mrs. Jim McNamara as leader.

During the business session, officers for the coming year were elected which were as follows: Mrs. Charles Michelet, president; Mrs. Harry Cowan, vice-president; Mrs. C. W. Curry, re-elected secretary; and Mrs. Orvis Atwood re-elected treasurer.

Cake and coffee were served to the seventeen members present.

BRIDGE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Losey were hosts to the bridge club Thursday evening. There were four tables of players. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sweatt won high score. Refreshments of fruit salad and cup cakes with coffee were served.

CHAVES CO. DRAINAGE HEARING INVOLVES THREE DISTRICTS

A case of tremendous importance in the Pecos valley, involving more than $165,000, that of a hearing on an alternative writ of mandamus in the suit of the Gerald Parker et al vs. the Roswell Drainage District, is the first case to be heard when federal court convenes in Roswell next Monday morning under Judge Colin Neblett, says the Roswell Record.

By stipulation between the attorneys representing the two sides of the case, the results of this case shall govern the suits of Gerald Parker et al vs. the Dexter-Greenfield and the Hagerman Drainage Districts. There have been six judgments granted to the plaintiffs, two against each of the three drainage districts, and by stipulation the outcome of one of the suits against the Roswell Drainage District shall govern the other five judgments involved, since they are all identical in everything except the amounts involved.

On the 18th of last March a judgment was granted to the plaintiffs, Gerald Parker, Fred L. Dickey and J. Gist, who are a committee representing the bondholders of the three drainage districts, for defaulted principal on these bonds, for interest on this principal, for interest coupons which were attached to the bonds and have not been paid, and for interest on these interest coupons. The total amount of the judgment on all these items against all three districts was $15,157.91 plus interest on this amount from January 1, 1932 until the judgments are paid.

The question of law to be decided in this hearing is briefly as follows: There was not enough money realized from the original assessment against the drainage district to pay the bonds issued by the district because the assessment on part of the lands in the district could not be realized upon. This left a deficiency and the question is whether or not the lands which have already been assessed and whose owners have paid the assessments may be reassessed to make up for the landowners who have not realized enough benefit from the drainage project to pay the assessments against their land.

AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION ARE BOTH RATIFIED

SANTA FE—Both amendments to the state constitution apparently were ratified at the election November 8th if official returns from 18 of the 31 counties can be taken as a basis.

The certificates from the 18 counties show the following vote: Amendment No. 1: for, 19,166; against 8,648.

Amendment No. 2: for, 16,350; against 7,450.

Amendment number one providing for an exchange of state lands which lie within national forest areas, has been before the voters on several occasions but heretofore has always met defeat.

The second amendment would prohibit the introduction of bills in the state legislature after the 45th day, except appropriation bills to carry on the state government and such bills as the governor may recommend in special messages.

IN WATERMAN'S SEAT

Karl C. Schuyler, a Republican, who came through the Democratic landslide safely, was elected in Colorado to serve out the unexpired term of the late United States Senator C. W. Waterman. Mr. Schuyler is an attorney. He will take his seat at the December session.

GIVE THANKS TODAY

The hog roots around a tree and eats acorns—but the hog never looks up at the tree which fulfills his needs. Some humans are like that. Many good things of life come to us all, but we seldom notice them, and give thanks for our good fortune. We forget the compliments which come into our experience, but the criticism of others rankles in our hearts and forever haunts our souls. Every day brings for most of us three square meals, a shelter from storms, and sufficient clothing—but we never think of those things.

This day of days, let us give thanks for the blessings which have fallen our way. We overheard a man say, a few weeks ago: "I'm the richest man in the world. I have a million dollar pair of eyes, two ten thousand dollar legs, two one hundred thousand dollar hands, a billion dollar body." There was a man who deserved to be healthy, and whose optimism enriched his neighbors. He was thankful.

Young men and women, give thanks for your homes, and the parents who have made life glorious for you. In Russia, one million boys between the ages of nine and twelve, migrate from the north to the south like birds, following the climate. They have no shelter; they have no place to call home; and since the abolition of civil marriage, they are unacquainted with their own parents.

Men, and women, give thanks today that your children are appreciative of you; that they have never disgraced your name in crime; that you have had the privilege of building in them, your own life, made better, made richer, made fuller with the things that count.

In every way, let us give thanks on this Thanksgiving Day.

PIONEER EDUCATION

(By E. A. White)

America was discovered about twenty-five years before Martin Luther posted his ninety-five theses. This country has been settled largely by protestants. Protestants have had a large influence in shaping our entire educational system. They have formed a government based upon personal initiative, and personal responsibility. Hence, matters to a great extent have been left for the individuals and the state to work out. Much of the work has been crude. However, there are a few very important and notable things happened in the development of the American system of education.

Education in American comes from religious impulses. Education was given in the home for the purpose of teaching children to read the Bible and to participate in the religious services in the home and public. Later "Dame" schools were organized. These were taught by women who had a little extra time from their kitchen duties and were fortunate enough to know how to read and write. There was also another kind of training, the English apprentice system, which was practiced in America. The family which had too many boys, farmed them out among the neighbors, who undertook to train them for some trade. They also assumed responsibility for the religious training of the apprentice whose services at times lasted a period of seven years, from the ages of 14 to 21. The master, of course got the reward of the apprentice's services. While we do not wish to go back to the old plan, still it had much to commend it. It simplified the education for the parent. It was a sure way for the boy to become economically independent.

Not only was the religious element predominant in our public school, but early colleges were founded upon religious principles and served the people well. Harvard was founded for the purpose of educating ministers "before these that live, lie in the dust."

It might be interesting to you who elbow with hundreds of pupils in Hagerman school to know that for a number of years, there were only twenty scholars at Harvard. One college professor did all the teaching.

I wish to quote an introduction to one of the early education laws so you may know why learning was encouraged. It follows: "One of the chief projects of our Deluder, Satan, is to keep men from a knowledge of the scripture by persuading them from the use of tongues, and obscuring the true sense and meaning of the original by false glasses of saint seeming deceivers."

When people became more and more interested in education for its economic value, the job got too big for the church, and when the state took over the early education, it had the catechism taught. One statement by an educator of the time was: "Education's chief design is the giving of knowledge for the practice of religion."

Besides the largeness of the task of educating the many, there were other influences that made the people look to the state for fulfillment of educational needs. The frontier conditions made the task more difficult for the church, besides fostering the frontier spirit which placed undue responsibility in their own hands. The rise of civil government was another; the necessity of each individual to cast his vote intelligently, caused our educational system to take on a political aspect. As evidence of the condition one has only to read from such men as Washington, Madison or Jefferson. They would place the responsibility of educating all children upon the government. Not only this, but they, and modern thinkers, especially, would enjoin the duty of free education upon the wealth of our country. The need of an educational system was voiced by another statesman later: "A cultivated mind is the guardian angel of democracy. It is the only dictator that wise men acknowledge, and the only protection that brave men desire."

Hence the working out of a democracy and the working out of free educational system have gone hand in hand with the past century.

Wonderful Cheddar Caves
The caves of Cheddar and Wooley Hole are beautiful beyond words. Beneath the rugged slopes of Mendip, in a vast network of subterranean passages, may be seen stalactites and stalagmites of wondrous shape and color; translucent pools, crystal clear and cold, curtains of dazzling whiteness, hanging folds of coral-pink—all hidden there in the ice-cold depths, now lighted by electric light! The drive to the caves through Cheddar gorge is a remarkable experience. At the bottom of the steep road, in the little white village of Cheddar, a rushing stream comes bubbling from the very heart of Mendip. At Wooley Hole, too, there are some wonderful caves. The story goes that the caves were once inhabited by a witch who was turned into stone by "an ancient clerk of Glaston"—London Times.

Place of Tragic Memory
The Black Hole of Calcutta is the popular name of a cell in Fort William, Calcutta, formerly used as the guard room. On the night of June 19, 1756, the season when the tropical heat of Calcutta is most oppressive, Suraj ud-Dowlah, the nineteen-year-old nabob of Bengal, who had broken with the British authorities, thrust 146 employees of the British India company into this cell, a room 15 feet long by 14 feet, 10 inches wide. It had but two small windows covered with iron bars and obstructed by a veranda. The heat and lack of air killed 123 of them before morning. The site of this cell is now covered with a black marble slab, and the event is commemorated by a monumental shaft erected in 1902.

Witty Response to Toast
There is a good story illustrating the simplicity and silence of the late Wilbur Wright or the "Bird Man," as he was known at the time. The brothers were given a banquet to celebrate the winning of the Michelin prize, and Wilbur was forced to say a few words in reply to the toast of his health. He remarked that they had alluded to him as a bird man: "The only bird that car talk," said Wilbur, "is the parrot—and he can't fly any." With that he sat down.

Submerged Land Charted
Georges Bank, a 200-mile neck of submerged land which identifies a popular fishing area off Cape Cod was part of the American continent 25,000 years ago, in the opinion of United States coast and geodetic surveyors. The submerged land has several hills that come almost to the surface and are a constant menace to navigation. For this reason the surveyors charted the strip. The survey revealed several submarine valleys, which may have been river beds.

Belgium is said to be the most densely populated country in the world, having nearly 8,000,000 residents occupying an area of 11,752 square miles.

Australia consumes more sugar in proportion to its population than any other country in the world, with America second and Great Britain a close third.

With an area less than two-thirds as large as the United States India contains one-fifth of the world's people, its population being estimated at 320,000,000.

DO EAGLES FLY?

What was that the coach had said about wanting first and second out of you two? Oh, yes, where was Gooch anyway? He glanced over his right shoulder and saw Gooch four men back. He had plenty of confidence in himself now. He let those four men pass so that Gooch came up with him. As he ran he said something to Gooch. At any rate, they ran side by side for four laps, neither gaining or losing.

Only one more lap to go now and six min to pass. Had to do some running to win now. Mac gave Gooch the hurry sign with his thumb and began to speed up some himself.

When they reached the first obstacle Mac sprinted around him and took the inside track until Gooch came on around so Mac moved over to the outside track, the longer track, and gave the shorter one to Gooch. The crowd had begun to take notice now. "Come on, you Eagles! Come on, you can do it! Be on your way," they shouted.

They had passed everyone except that Tiger that started so fast. Listen to that Tiger pant. More like a steam engine than a human being. Mac stepped around the Tiger as usual and Gooch followed. Again as usual, Mac gave him the inside track. They were ahead now and only fifty yards to go. Ho! What is this? Mac looked around to Gooch on the verge of crashing in ahead of him. A storm of sudden rage overcame Mac. After giving this cur the inside so he might place, he tried to take advantage of Mac. He would show him. So with every muscle in his body doing every ounce it could, Mac went for the ribbon. As Mac neared the ribbon it seemed to glow in welcome for him, but try as he would his feet would move no faster. But they did. Mac stretched his keen chin and fine shoulders high as he broke the ribbon about ten inches ahead of Gooch.

The crowd went wild. Invitations came from every direction only to be rejected. Mac, all embarrassed, went to the dressing rooms for a shower and fresh clothes.

When he opened the door to leave a tall well built man of about forty introduced himself as the President of the Athletic Association of the State University. But Mac had other plans. Just over there was Babe with that queer smile again. Mac shrugged his shoulders and turned to the man who interrupted him. "My dear sir, if you will meet me at ten o'clock at this place in the morning, I shall talk with you. Until then I shall be very busy." And Mac left him where he stood. He had other business to see after now, so he took Babe's hand as she gave him one of those I-told-you-so looks that all of that sex know so well how to do.

"Shall I see you tonight, dear?" he asked.

She said, "Yes, if you'll do away with that inferiority complex for good."

"Done," he answered.

LIVELY FIGHT IS SEEN OVER PRO LAW IN MANY STATES

Announcements that state officers in various states would in the future discontinue all attempts to enforce the prohibition law, rumors that President Hoover will sign a bill legalizing beer if congress passes it, statements by dry organizations that President-Elect Roosevelt's victory is in no sense a "wet-victory"—these are the latest additions to the vortex of the volcano sprung up over prohibition since the election.

A decided leniency is to be noted in the courts of the nation since the election toward liquor law violators. Statements have been made in several states which repealed their state liquor laws that persons now in jail because of liquor law convictions will be released.

Fifteen states in the union can actually sell beer the day the Volstead act is repealed as they have either repealed their state prohibition acts or never had any.

In the face of all this the federal prohibition officers are being urged to more stringent efforts toward enforcement. Director Amos W. Woodcock issued the following statement to bureau employes in the weekly bureau publication:

"You have fought a good fight during the last twenty-eight months. I am proud of you. You face now a seemingly, but not actually, harder task. The real test of this organization will be its ability to go forward in the same degree of loyalty, devotion and skill you have shown in the past. I ask you even to exceed it. This is all the election must mean to any of us—a stepping stone to a greater opportunity to do our duty."

Whether the short session of the congress meeting next month will repeal the Volstead act remains to be seen. The same congress decisively defeated anti-prohibition measures last spring but it is predicted by many leaders that the tremendous support given the democratic ticket which has promised to repeal the prohibition law and more particularly the fact that the voters in eleven states through referendum have repealed their state liquor laws will cause the present congress to repeal the Volstead act.

So far as repeal of the eighteenth amendment is concerned—that is a different matter. Even with the strength gained by the democrats, they may have to get support from the republicans to put a repeal resolution through due to the 2-3 vote required before a change in the constitution may be submitted to the approval of 36 states.

Several of the democrats who will be in the next congress have announced themselves publicly as being "dry." Whether their party's victory on a wet platform will change their views or not also remains to be seen.

There are a number of militant "wets" among the republicans who may vote with the democrats on such a repeal resolution.

Of course after the repeal resolution is actually passed—if it can gain 291 votes in the house of representatives and 65 votes in the senate, it must be approved either by the legislatures of or by constitutional conventions specially appointed for the purpose in at least 36 states.

The word that President Hoover would sign a bill legalizing beer came from the federal dispensary-tax reduction league, devoted to opposition to the dry law. The statements issued by it follows:

"We are informed by three officials very close to President Hoover that he will sign the beer bill if it comes before him."

The statement has had no confirmation as yet in any other quarter.

DEMOS TO HAVE MAJORITY IN NEW HOUSE

WASHINGTON.—The democratic party will have a majority of 198 over the Republican and Farmer-Labor membership in the house in the new congress after March 4, as a result of the election.

Results of close races in Minnesota and California now having been cleared up, the standing of the next house is:

Democrats, 314.

Republicans, 116.

Farmer-Labor, 5.

Total, 435.

On election day the standing of the house was Democrats, 217, with four Democratic vacancies, or a total of 221 in Democratic membership; Republicans, 209, with four Republican vacancies, or a total of 213. There is one Farmer-Labor in the present congress.

The Democratic gain in the election was 93 seats and the Republican loss was 97 seats.

The Democrats will have a majority of 22 senate members in the next congress, having elected 28 members as compared to 6 by the Republicans.

The new senate will be: Democrats 59; Republicans, 36; Farmer-Labor, 1.

HEALTH COLUMN

Conducted by Dr. J. R. Earp, Director, New Mexico Bureau of Public Health.

COLDS ARE CATCHING

Of course we all know that. But do we behave as if we knew that? Do we go to bed and keep our sneezes to ourselves? Do we wash our hands frequently when colds are all about us? Do we avoid the person with red eyes and a running nose?

Why do we neglect all the obvious precautions? Because we think that colds do not matter or because we think they are inevitable. We are wrong.

Colds may, and often do lead to dangerous and fatal complications, especially when neglected. They may lead to bronchitis and broncho-pneumonia, to middle ear disease, brain abscess and meningitis or they may arouse to activity a latent tuberculosis. Besides a running nose and red eyes may be something else than a common cold. It may be whooping cough or measles or influenza. Isolation in bed is the safe place.

It may not be possible for everyone to escape all colds. But it is certainly possible to reduce the number of colds. This can be done by avoiding infection and by building up resistance to infection. Resistance to colds is lowered by a reduction in the alkali reserve of the blood stream. It is raised therefore by a diet containing plenty of fruit and vegetables. Resistance to colds is probably increased by a sufficiency of vitamin A. Vitamin A is found in foods that are yellow or green and in the fish oils, such as cod, salmon and halibut.

The feet should be kept warm and the head cool. Draughts of cold air are to be avoided. Indoor temperature should not be much above 70 degrees and that temperature will be found comfortable if the air is kept sufficiently moist. Take plenty of sleep and avoid fatigue.

Inner Tube Boat

Probably the most unusual form of transportation employed so far by any visitor to the Exposition is the inner-tube craft in which Captain Joe Bellocq, 52, paddled 1,200 miles from Detroit, Michigan, in thirty-nine days.

Unable to swim and inexperienced on the water, "Captain" Joe fashioned his unique craft out of four old automobile inner-tubes, some canvas, a few boards and the back of a wooden chair. An old bicycle supplied him with the motive power for a propeller.

Early on his cruise, however, the propeller became tangled in some weeds in the Detroit river and broke. For a whole day "Captain" Joe combated a storm on Lake Erie with a single oar, until a yacht overhauled him and the owner presented him with a second oar.

The rest of the way "Captain" Joe, who is incidentally of French birth, rowed, following the shore of Lake Erie to the mouth of the Maumee river, then up the river to the rapids near Fort Wayne, portaging to the Elkhart river, following this into the St. Joseph river and down to Lake Michigan.

Under Six Feet

The tiny craft measures less than six feet in length and about half of that in breadth and carries a slender mast bearing the national standard and a pennant with the name "Angeline" and the slogan "Detroit to Chicago 1933 Worlds Fair." "Captain" Joe wore only a stocking cap, sweater, two pairs of trousers and a pair of rubber boots on his unusual voyage, despite squalls and cold.

In this Depression Year

One good thing about the depression this year is the fact that all of our relatives and friends will understand that we are not able financially to send them wrist watches, silk shirts, boxes of candy, and other presents.

However, these same friends will feel slighted if we ignore them. Send them a distinctive, personal, artistic Christmas card . . . the most inexpensive gift which would always be in good taste.

We shall be glad to call and display our samples of lovely cards.
