SCHOOL LUNCHES

The diet of growing children should be a balanced one, rich in protein, carbohydrate and minerals, with a fair amount of bulk.

Good sources of protein are: milk and milk products, eggs, beef, lamb, mutton, veal, liver, chicken and fish. Carbohydrates will be found in bread, desserts, and stewed fruits.

The mineral properties needed by the body are largely calcium, iron, and phosphorus. Some of the foods rich in these minerals are: Calcium and phosphorus: milk and milk products, spinach, carrots, celery, onions, string beans, beets, asparagus, fresh peas, dried beans, beets, eggs, figs and whole wheat bread. Phosphorus is especially strong in beef, fish, oatmeal and graham bread. Iron is generously supplied by: lean beef, eggs, greens, potatoes, peas, tomatoes, beans, milk products, figs, raisins, dates, prunes, strawberries, apricots, oatmeal and graham bread.

Foods which are valued for bulk are: apples, oranges, pears, dates, figs, prunes, raisins, asparagus, cabbage, lettuce, celery, string beans, spinach other greens, onions and corn.

The foods for the lunch box can with thought and care be made as balanced, nutritious, appetizing and inviting as a dainty home lunch. It is well to remember that variety, preparation and service of foods go far in alleviating capricious appetites.

In attempting to meet the dietary requirements outlined above, it is suggested that sandwiches given or sold school children meet the following requirements: 1. All sandwiches be made at least every other day from bread other than white—whole wheat, graham, cracked wheat or raisin. 2. Both sides must be buttered. 3. All sandwiches must contain fresh lettuce or tomato, or both. 4. No fried foods can be used as filling of sandwiches. 5. Only mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing to be used as condiment (no pickles, vinegar-relish, pepper, chili, etc.) 6. Meats to be used: roast beef, lamb, veal, fowl, fish, baked meat loaf, ground cooked meats, grilled bacon, and occasional baked ham or minced ham. (No pork or fried meat cakes.

Other approved sandwich fillings: 1. Chopped hard boiled eggs with salad dressing. 2. Peanut butter, plain, or combined with raisins, bananas, etc. 3. Cheese, plain or combined with hard boiled egg, ground meats, peanut butter, chopped nuts, etc. 4. Ground nuts combined with ground raisins, prunes, dates, and salad dressing. 5. Jelly or jam. 6. Salmon or tuna fish, plain or combined with hard boiled eggs, or olives, or celery, minced and salad dressing. 7. Grilled bacon, tomato and lettuce. 8. Ground cooked meats Ground cooked meats (chicken or roast meats) and celery with salad dressing. 11. Coconut, chopped dates, nuts and orange juice. 12. Cottage cheese and jelly or jam.

First American Stamps The Post Office department says that the first postage stamps were made under contract in 1847 by Rawdon, Wright, Hatch & Edson of New York.

Still Better for Them "Crying is good for the complexion," says an English physician. Wonder if he didn't mean the complexion makers?—Boston Transcript.

Taxpayers' Coin Over in Hedjaz they have a coin called the "grouch," which is probably the favorite money for tax-paying.—Nashville Banner.

Permanently Incoag An advertisement in a New York paper offers for sale a picture by "an unknown famous Italian painter."

Pretty Thought Gray hairs seem to my fancy like the light of a soft moon, silvering over the evening of life.—Richter.

Antiquity of Horse Fossil remains more than 4,000 years old have been identified as those of a horse.

Adapted From Battle Cry Often the motto used in heraldry was in early times the battle cry of its owner.

In a Nutshell The bitter past, more welcome is the sweet.

It was the height of something or other which one Hagerman kid reached a few days ago when he jogged down the sidewalk astride a stick horse and smoking a cigarette.

Right this way ladies and gentlemen! Take a ride on Hagerman's roller coaster. It's free. Turn in at the highway corner and get the thrill of your life. You can do the falling leaf, the barrel roll, tail spin and loop on Hagerman's highway leading into town. Then, when you hit the railroad at more than ten miles per hour, you get the same sensation that a 2,000 foot drop in a parachute would give you. It's free, ladies and gentlemen—as free as the gasoline it takes for the ride. It is no novelty to the residents of this community. In fact, Hagerman's half mile of thrills has been popular for over a year, but outsiders, such as prospective citizens, and tourists never fail to fall heavily for the new sensation. Come one, come all. Enjoy this breath taking experience while you may, because in the winter of 1936 the state highway department is sure goin' tuh fix it!

Another thing that never fails to bring forth sarcastic comments from passers through, is Hagerman's open air theatre. The editor was sitting in the lap of a carrot topped lady in the stage a few days ago—right after the stage had crossed the railroad—and the questionable lady, or lady in question, as you please, suddenly cried shrilly, "Ooh, lookie even the shows in this burg are free, you can see the picture without ever going into the building." The ed said, "Pardon me lady, but I have to get off here." The lady said, "Do you live here? Tell me, are all the buildings like that here? Can you see everything that goes on in all of them?" The ed was constrained to reply, "No, ma'am, some of them have four walls and roofs on them like in any other town. We were going to have that building condemned, but we hoped that it would fall all the rest of the way down, and smash some of our undesirable citizens."

Frank McCarthy awoke at midnight and sat bolt up-right in bed with a startled expression on his moon-lit countenance. "Say," he asked his wife, "what has happened to Mahatma Gandhi?" Mrs. McCarthy says that her hubby was unable to sleep the rest of the night. Sleep on, now Frank, because we'll tell you what happened to him. He had to go to bed while his wife had his bed sheet changed. That's the difference between the Mahatma and the ed. of the Mess. The latter stays in bed while his wife sends his clothes to the cleaners, but Mr. Gandhi stays in bed while his wife sends the bed clothes off.

We don't know what the various state and national legislatures would have done this year if it hadn't been for prohibition. Such insignificant things as the tax situation must wait while the beer lovers fight for something to drink. 12,000,000 men in America out of work, and their families asking for bread, and all the shining lights of state and national governments can become interested in is the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. And to think that some of us preachers still insist that mankind is not brother to ape.

It takes more than a pitiful little four year old depression to make John Emerson forget his jokes.

Artistic Eras Some writers have distinguished the early Italian revival of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth centuries as the Risorgimento (literally "new arising"), applying the term Renaissance to its development in western and northern Europe in the Sixteenth century.

Revealed by the Tongue Study your tongue, declares a French scientist, who declares that if it is long it denotes frankness; if broad, expansiveness; if narrow, concentration, and if long and wide, a weakness for gossiping.

Not Altogether a Joke For years James D. Lloyd of Talgarth, Wales, told friends he was "banking his money with the angels." Every one thought he was "off" until it was revealed that he had $2,500 hidden in a cemetery.

Well, Not So Strange! Esthonia, the little Baltic republic, still continues one of the strangest marriage customs in history. Brides, when first entering their new homes, throw money in the fire.—Collier's.

Have Historic Names There are 26 cities by the name of Madison that have post offices, 23 with the name of Monroe, 18 with the name of Jackson, 11 with the name of Jefferson and 9 with the name of Sherman.

Long Words Win Jud Tunkins says some folks use such long words that they naturally have the best of an argument. All you can say to them is, "Oh, well, have it your way!"—Washington Star.

Link-Side Story Told by John D.

"Once upon a time" goes the story John D. Rockefeller tells to his great grandchildren, John and Bessie De Cuevas, who are ardent listeners. Sitting on the steps of the starter's hut on the Ormond Bench golf links, the elder Rockefeller takes a little time off between holes to favor the children with a tale.

Library of the Vatican

Make a trip to the Vatican Library and it will reward you in many ways. Your eyes may be glad to look at Dante's "Divine Commedia," dedicated to Boccaccio, or the Fourth century Codex Vaticanus, which has uncial writing as its perfection. There is here also an Augustine Virgil of the Second century, and a large collection of autograph letters from Petrarch, Tasso, Raphael, Anne Boleyn and even Martin Luther. Here are frescoes and bronzes from the catacombs and about 500,000 books to fill many an odd hour.—Exchange.

Skyscrapers "Not Human"

When John Boynton Priestley, English novelist, visited New York, he was not favorably impressed with the tall buildings. "I cannot believe," he told the interviewers, "that the people are happy who live in these buildings. It is not human. They are intended for the use of another race of men, about 12 feet tall of a dark green color."—New York Times.

Selecting a Ring

A London jeweler in describing the beauty side of selecting rings said: "Long tapering fingers demand a ring with a large stone in a square or oval setting. This tends to make the fingers look even more slim. Women with short fingers should wear heavy wide rings."

Buy American

If American industry is ever to come back Americans must learn to insist upon American made products when they buy. Especially this true of hardware. Why purchase steel made in Germany or Switzerland, paints manufactured in Europe, or attempt to fight the American markets with products from Japan?

You will find that our merchandise is American made, American distributed, and should be consumed by Americans.

Turks' Laughable Error St. George's Cathedral, Jerusalem, for which a new bishop was consecrated by an Old Catholic prelate in St. Paul's cathedral, has some distinguished canons, writes a columnist in the Manchester Guardian. During the World War the Turks jumped to the conclusion that these "big guns" of the church were formidable pieces of artillery hidden for future use by perfidious Albion. So they dug up the entire interior of the edifice in a vain search for concealed cannons. This ludicrous story sounds incredible, but is true, and corroborated by existing photographs which show the state of the cathedral after the Turkish excavations.

Absolute Pitch We hear wonderful children, and adults, who are said to possess what we call the gift of absolute pitch, that is, the faculty of naming any note, high or low, which may be sounded on an instrument, and this without any previously sounded note to act as a guide, from which they might deduce the pitch of the given note. Naturally, there are many skeptics, as well as believers, that this is possible. The gift (if anybody possesses it), is no sign of outstanding musical ability, although people look upon it as something little short of miraculous.

They've Never Tasted a Tonic

THESE are not patent medicine children. Their appetite needs no coaxing. Their tongues are never coated, cheeks never pale. And their bowels move just like clockwork, because they have never been given a habit-forming laxative. You can have children like this—and be as healthy yourself—if you follow the advice of a famous family physician. Stimulate the vital organs. The strongest of them need help at times. If they don't get it, they grow sluggish. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is a mild, safe stimulant. When a youngster doesn't do well at school, it may be the liver that's lazy. Often the bowels hold enough poisonous waste to dull the senses! A spoonful of delicious syrup pepsin once or twice a week will do this. It contains fresh laxative active senna, and pure pepsin does a world of good to any—young or old. You can always get this fine prescriptional prep at any drug store. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Get some syrup pepsin today to protect your family from bilious days, frequent sick and colds. Keep a bottle of medicine chest instead of cat that so often bring on constipation. Dr. Caldwell's pepsin can always be relied on to give clogged bowels a thorough cleansing, with none of that griping, or burning feeling ward. It isn't expensive.
