HITLER ELECTED

Berlin.—Seventeen million voters out of 39,000,000, manifested their confidence in Chancellor Adolf Hitler in Sunday's reichstag election, and demonstrated to President von Hindenburg that he sensed the desires of the German people rightly when he asked the chief of the Nazi brown shirts to take the helm of the ship of state.

Germany now is well on the way to fascist dictatorship. Chancellor Hitler, by the vote of the people, has been given the legal tools to annihilate the last vestiges of the democracy which he considers a failure.

ASSASSINS BULLET FATAL TO CERMACK

A bullet intended for President Roosevelt brought death to Mayor Anton J. Cermack of Chicago in a hospital at Miami, Florida Monday and about ten hours later Guisepe Zangara, the assassin, was indicted for first degree murder.

The mayor died at 6:57 a. m. (EST) after 19 days of suffering with the wound and many complications it caused. Almost immediately the Dade county grand jury met and began hearing testimony on which it based the murder indictment returned about 5:00 p. m.

An autopsy fixed the cause of Cermack's death as gangrene of the right lung which was punctured by the bullet, causing a collapse. "This induced pneumonia and lung abscess, which ended in dry gangrene. This condition caused a falling of the heart, bringing death," the post mortem report said.

Although jailors would not confirm whether Zangara had been informed of Cermack's death, it was learned from a reliable source that the assassin had been told and showed no concern. He was quoted as saying: "me no care, it was fault of that woman be- side me." Zangara has said a woman struck his arm causing him to miss his aim at Mr. Roosevelt.

FARM HOLIDAY ASS'N CALLS STATE WIDE MEET AT PORTALES

We have received the following communication from the New Mexico Farm Holiday Association at Portales:

One of the largest gatherings of citizens ever known in New Mexico will be in Portales, March 17th and 18th, for the purpose of a general election, to elect permanent state officers of the New Mexico Farm Holiday Association. Delegates will attend from every county in the state and have an equal voice in selecting permanent state executives for the association.

Arrangements are being planned by Portales hotels to care for a large attendance. Many farmers and ranchmen are arranging room in their homes for delegates. A welcome committee has been appointed to receive all guests and see that each guest can secure comfortable lodging for at least two days.

The general business of the association will begin Friday, March 17th, at the district court room in Portales, adjourning at 6:00 p. m. until the following morning, Saturday March 18th at 9:00 a. m., then continuing in session un- til 1:00 p. m. at which time there will be speaking from prominent national officials, including Milo Reno, national president of the association, John A. SCRIP MONEY FOR NEW YORK

NEW YORK—Bales of "emergency money," fresh from the engravers lay in the vaults of the New York clearing house Monday night awaiting the official word which would release them to the banks of the metropolis.

The clearing house declined to say how much scrip had been made ready, but the amount was generally estimated at $250,000,000. Mortimer N. Bruckner, president of the association said the certificates were in denominations of $1, $5, $10, $20 and $50. They will be accepted at face value by the member banks.

STATE RECEIVED $81,200 FROM R. F. C. IN JAN.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — How the reconstruction corporation continued to pump out credit and cash in January to the extent of $134,201,000 was shown in its monthly report to congress.

Total loans to states, including all classes, include:

Arizona, $341,500 (all state relief).

Colorado, $991,272.

New Mexico, $81,200.

The Cemetery Association served a very bounteous dinner to the Hagerman Alfalfa Growers Association on Tuesday. About thirty members and guests were in attendance.

Miss Betty Mason was a guest at the Pards dance at the Woman's club on Saturday evening.

WHY BE AFRAID?

People in general are afraid of blessings. Many times they rate them as major catastrophes. The banking situation in America today is eminently encouraging—to the person who thinks.

President Roosevelt has forced the issue. Out of the bank moratorium at hand will issue presently, a uniform banking law as sound as the government itself.

Much the same situation prevailed in our country in 1907 when America was at work building a more stable government, and greater security for the assets of her people. We lived through that, and have forgotten it.

Today, our patriots hear the call of the land of the free—minds free from panic, and fear—and the call of the brave—hearts made courageous to face the future.

There is no reason for fear. New Mexico banks are in excellent condition, and their leadership is unquestioned. A little reflection on the part of the average individual will reveal this to his own satisfaction.

Conservatism on the part of local bankers has called for a lot of criticism during the last few months, but now, their wisdom has become apparent to the most skeptical, and those who have their money in the institutions feel that it has been safeguarded.

Hagerman has one of the strongest banks in the state. It has successfully weathered the storms for more than a score of years. The president of the First National Bank of Hagerman—past president of the New Mexico Bankers' Association, and honored throughout the state as a brilliant business man, and leader in state affairs, merits the good wish of this community—and has it.

Dr. Garrett A. Verkuyl one of the Leadership Training Experts of the Presbyterian Church will spend a whole day next Wednesday with the local church and Sunday school discussing the problems of Leadership Training with the workers and members of church and Sunday school. The meetings will be open to the members of other churches and Sunday schools who may desire to use the opportunity for expert instruction. In the evening Dr. Verkuyl will give a popular lecture on some phase of Christian Education. You will want to hear him. Remember the date Wednesday, March 15.

132 MEXICANS ARE ADMITTED TO U. S. DURING JANUARY

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Only 132 natives of Mexico received immigration visas for admission into the United States during January, according to figures made available Saturday by the state department.

The following table taken from the annual reports of the commission general of immigration, shows the immigration of aliens of Mexican birth into the United States during the first eight fiscal years of the operation of the immigration act of 1924:

Year	Number
1925	50,692
1926	77,162
1927	58,456
1928	39,501
1929	12,352
1930	2,627
1931	1,674

In analyzing the immigration of Mexicans during January, of 1933," said the state department, "132 visas were issued to natives of Mexico which represented 22.5 per cent of those who applied. In this connection, it may be stated that 77.5 per cent of those who applied for visas during the month, were refused. This does not take into consideration the large numbers of Mexicans, who, recognizing their inability to qualify for admission under the 'likelihood of becoming public charge,' 'illiteracy,' 'contract labor' and other excluding provisions of the law, withheld their requests for visas.

132 MEXICANS ARE ADMITTED TO U. S. DURING JANUARY

The problem of new immigration from Mexico through legal channels would, therefore, appear to be solved."

The proclamation is not mandatory authorities said, while others claimed that it was, and that it said that no business could be conducted.

N. MEX. THREATENED BY DEER OVERPLUS

ALBUQUERQUE—New Mexico has regions more overstocked with deer than the notorious Kaibab region of Arizona, M. E. Musgrave game specialist for the southwestern forest region said following an inspection tour.

In the southern end of the Sacramento mountains deer are so plentiful many of them would have starved to death for lack of grazing ground had the winter not been mild, the game officer said. Other overstocked areas are in the Gila, Apache and Olbola forests.

Musgrave recommended a longer open season and an increased bag limit as one means of correcting the condition.

RED CROSS NEEDS SHOES

The Red Cross Committee is in need of some second hand shoes for the needy of the community, and asks that all those who have any, please bring them to the Messenger office, or to the bank. All sizes are wanted.

U. S. SURVEYS SUPPLY WORK FOR 30 NEW MEXICO MEN

U. S. surveying parties to various parts of New Mexico have afforded employment to at least 30 additional men, it was announced recently by Guy P. Harrington, U. S. cadastral engineer. The parties have taken to the field under the auspices of the U. S. public surveys.

Anthony C. Kimmell and William H. Teller are in charge of the parties which will work around Pinon, Otero county. They arrived recently from Denver. There are 14 surveyors in this party, which will be in the field many months.

Charles W. Devendorf of Santa Fe is conducting the surveys of the public lands near El Paso. Andrew P. Warner and Wendell G. Hall are surveying lands near Lordsburg and Deming. These are lands of New Mexico and the surveys are to be made to enable this state to make selections. Thomas D. Daley is making surveys with a party near Roswell.

STATE WARRANTS ARE STILL BEING ISSUED

State warrants were still being issued it was said at Santa Fe Monday at the state treasurer's office, to pay state officials and employes.

"The state's credit ought to be good," said Deputy State Treasurer R. L. Ormsbee. "We believe that employes can use these warrants to get credit for groceries and other necessities. The state never yet has issued a warrant when no funds were available. It will mean that the merchants will have to hold them a while, it is true."

Relief work was being carried on among the distressed, said Miss Margaret Reeves, state director of child welfare. Groceries are being supplied to them and the merchants are being paid with state warrants. The money to make the warrants good is in the treasury, said she, having already been transmitted to the state by the federal government.

AMERICA VICTORIOUS

The United States has started on another lap of her victorious march upon the enemy of her people, the unseen forces of Depression.

The lesson has been cruel, but it has proved worthwhile. A nation cannot become great without hardships, and manhood will die without a challenge.

We were fast becoming a nation of pot bellied fat heads and lounge lizards, crying for luxuries, and flinching for softness.

Certainly, there are many battles ahead before the victory is ours, but under a new leadership, with a new psychological suggestion on our side, it seems that surely, we can forge out for ourselves a new nation, economically stable, and gloriously content.

GROWING OLDER

A little more tired at the close of day; A little less anxious to have our way; A little less ready to scold and blame;

A little less care for bonds of gold; A little more zest for the days of old; A broader view and a saner mind;

A little more love for the friends of youth; A little less zeal for established truth; A little more charity in our views;

A little more leisure to sit and dream; A little more real the things unseen; A little nearer to those ahead, With visions of those loved and dead.

A little more laughter, a few more tears And we shall have told our increasing years. The book is closed and the prayers said, And we are part of the countless dead.

Tennis Terms

The term deuce in tennis was used as early as 1598, if not earlier. In 1878 Julius Marshall in his "Annals of Tennis," page 134, has the following: "Scalmo (in 1565) then tells his readers that (the scoring is) 'at two (a due),' as it is called when the game is reduced or 'set' to two strokes to be gained, in order to win it.

One-Foot Forest Found

What is believed to be the most remarkable forest in the world has been found on the west coast of Africa. Although the trunks of the trees are as much as four feet in diameter, they attain the height of only one foot. No tree bears more than two leaves, which attain a length of six feet and breadth of two feet.

JACKSON OIL BILL PASSES THE SENATE

Although Governor Seligman is sponsoring a severance tax on oil, the state senate Friday passed the Jackson bill tightening up the present output tax plan, 14-10, says the Santa Fe New Mexican.

The idea of those who backed the bill was that if the severance tax passed it would repeal this act; if the severance tax failed, the state would have a much better system than it has now.

Senator J. H. Jackson, author of the bill, took at crack at William J. Barker, democratic state chairman, who was on the floor during the course of a long speech for his bill and against the severance tax.

The Jackson bill was amended by Senator Fred Wilson to make 100 per cent of the production taxable, at the rate prevalent in the county, after the deduction of royalties to the state and United States.

The 50 per cent bill was enacted when the oil business was just getting a foothold in New Mexico. Senator J. H. Mullis said State Land Commissioner Frank Vesley endorsed the Jackson bill.

MAKE FARM CHEESE AT HOME EASILY

In times like the present it is especially important that the farm family obtain as much of its own living from the farm as possible says E. E. Anderson of the New Mexico State College.

Making American cheese, or the type usually bought in the grocery store, is a tedious process in the average home. It is usually difficult to get a uniform product and one that is properly cured.

To make this cheese, curd is obtained from clabbered milk as in making cottage cheese. To this is added butter and sour cream so the finished product has the same butterfat content as American cheese, also the desired acid flavor.

HEALTH COLUMN. Conducted by Dr. J. R. Earp, Director, New Mexico Bureau of Public Health.

RABBIT FEVER. "Why should chickens and rabbits be included in an ordinance for meat inspection?" I was in conversation with a chance acquaintance on the Santa Fe's famous health code of the city of Albuquerque was the subject of discussion. "What about tularemia?" I said. Although he is in a business which handles large quantities of meat my fellow traveler had never heard of tularemia. Perhaps you have not either? Tularemia (rabbit fever) is a disease which affects many rabbits but also other animals including man. It has been found in the common sheep, in certain game fowl, in many of the little animals that run in western woods. It has been conveyed to man by the bite of the deer fly. But the greatest danger to us comes from dressing the flesh of wild rabbits.

Beware especially of rabbits when they are sickly and cannot run away rapidly. It is wiser to handle all rabbit meat with rubber gloves and to boil the gloves as soon as you take them off. Cook the meat thoroughly. Thorough cooking kills the germs. Meat inspectors recognize the disease by a characteristic speckled appearance of the liver and spleen. The disease can be recognized in human beings by a blood test. The disease was first recognized not so many years ago in the United States. In fact the very first case was reported from Phoenix, Dr. Francis of the United States Public Health Service was first to find the germ. Now the disease is being recognized all over the world. In Sweden the first case was recognized in 1931. Now they are finding as many as five cases in a single house, and in the little town of Lindsberg no less than twenty cases at one time.

BASKETBALL
Well, even if Hagerman did not win the tournament, they gave Dexter, who placed second a try for their money.
Harold and Alan Hanson had the job of covering the two fastest forwards in the valley. Believe me, Stone and Garrison are plenty fast. Ask anyone that saw the game how good the job was done. Our center, Sandy Knoll, had to buck the guy that made the All-Valley team. He was none other than John Burr. Mr. Burr was in the habit of making a good many points in each game. Well in this game he made one field goal.

Was Knoll's job well done? This may sound a bit sarcastic but it's a fact. The only thing that beat Hagerman was Lady Luck. Mr. Knokendall slapped a goal in the last moment of play. We think that if you will ask Dexter who worked them the hardest until they got on Carlsbad that they will unhesitatingly say Hagerman. That Guy, George, sank a long one late in the game that surely looked good. Everett Lankford did some mighty good work in scoring four points. Sandy also made four points.

Dressed for Dinner

By JANE OSBORN

WREN BALDWIN felt a species of self-consciousness as he strode into the boarding house dining room that second night of his residence there, dressed in his tuxedo. He assured himself that there was nothing out of the way in his appearance. No one, of course, would know that the reason he was thus formally dressed was because he had but one business suit at present in which, after he had returned from the office a quarter of an hour ago, he had discovered a ripped seam that made it quite necessary to take it to the tailor.

The ten boarders at Mrs. Havens sat at one long table, and to hide any slight embarrassment Wren began to talk of the weather.

As he was talking he noticed that Miss Ames cast preoccupied glances across the table and when she could politely turn her attention from him she looked brightly across and said: "Go in' out tonight, Miss Drew?"

"Why, no, Miss Ames," said the girl addressed as Miss Drew. "What made you ask that?"

"Then you are expecting company," announced Miss Ames with the familiarity that she seemed to think living under the same boarded house room permitted. Wren Baldwin eating the watery soup before him felt a surprising twang of jealousy. He had noticed this girl—Miss Drew as they called her—that morning in her trim dark business frock and noticed, too, the lovely gray eyes.

After dinner the boarders adjourned to the boarding house parlor.

"I suppose you're going out," said the old woman.

"Oh, to be sure," said Wren, remembering the suit at the tailor's and wondering somehow whether Miss Ames knew of his errand there. "I do have to go out for a few minutes later on."

Then a pleasant man of sixty named Brown approached Wren.

"If you weren't going out I'd ask you to make up a table at bridge," he said. "There'd be my wife and I and Miss Drew if we could get a fourth. It's too chilly to go up yet."

"I'll play," said Wren, and then, "only I imagine Miss Drew will have another partner presently."

But apparently Miss Drew had no other partner. The table was opened, Mrs. Brown went upstairs for the cards and the four sat down with Miss Ames constituting an invited audience with her chair drawn up between that of Wren and Miss Drew.

So they played, and as they played and no caller arrived for Miss Drew, Wren's jealousy abated, and as it abated his admiration for her increased. All at once he looked at the clock and saw that the hands pointed to half-past nine. He happened to be playing dummy at the time, so without much ceremony about it he rose and made some excuse about having to go out for a few minutes. Then seizing his coat and hat in the hall he hurried around the corner to the tailor shop, the terrifying thought that it might at any minute close for the night quickening his steps. Back in the boarding house hall he tucked his suit under his coat and hastened to his room, then back to the card table.

"Did you get what you went after?" asked Miss Ames, and Wren with all the nonchalance he could command said that he did. Then when it was eleven and time to go to bed, Mrs. Brown said that it had been a very nice party, and a very dressed-up party, too, she added significantly. Brown took his wife's arm on one side and Miss Ames on the other and started for the stairs. "We old folks will go along and let you youngsters put up the table," he said, almost dragging the unwilling Miss Ames with him.

Then over the table Wren felt that he ought to make an explanation—perhaps a complete confession to begin with would be best.

"So that's why I had to hurry out at half-past nine," he finished his explanation. "I would have explained then only that little Miss Ames was so anxious to know..."

Miss Drew laughed delightedly. She explained, too, "I'm terribly poor myself," she said, "but before we lost everything I did dress for dinner, and my first position was as a resident social secretary where I was expected to dress. Now I am working in an office, but it seemed so dingy here and I just made up my mind that I'd feel a lot more cheerful if I dressed as long as I have the old evening dress on hand." Their hands met as they were folding the card table cover.

"Please dress again tomorrow night," said Miss Drew. "Just so Miss Ames won't suspect you had a special reason."

"I'll dress for dinner every night," said Wren, "if you want me to. It will give the boarders something to talk about."

But before many months had passed the boarders had more than that to talk about. Wren and Miss Drew were married and went to live in an inexpensive little apartment a few blocks away—where they didn't dress for dinner.

ENGRAVING at The Messenger

CHICAGO'S FIRST LOCOMOTIVE TO BE EXHIBITED AT FAIR

Contrasting the "Pioneer", first locomotive to run out of Chicago, against the city's most modern engine, the "Class H", the Chicago & North Western Railway will give a vivid picture of almost a hundred years of development in railroading in Chicago in its exhibit in the travel and transport building at "A Century of Progress."—Chicago's 1933 World's Fair.

Ninety-seven years of railroad history in the middle west and west will be combined in that display, a history starting when the legislature of the state of Illinois authorized the incorporation of the Galena and Chicago Union Railroad, parent road of the present Chicago & North Western Railway System, to "build a railroad out into the prairie country and on towards, if not to, the Mississippi River, near the lead mines at Galena, Illinois and Dubuque, Iowa."

It was not until October 10, 1848, when the "Pioneer" was unloaded in Chicago off the brig "Buffalo" that Chicago saw her first railroad locomotive and 14 days later, October 24, that little engine went into service between Chicago and the Des Plaines River on strap rail.

The exhibit, which is being built by Marshall Field and Co., will have the "Pioneer" as its focal point. Across the back of the space an actual size reproduction of the "Class H" engine will be shown. The "Pioneer", which can be lost in the tender of this locomotive, will occupy space on the floor in front of the tender portion of this reproduction.

The flooring of the exhibit will give the effect of railway tracks. There will be a booth in the front part of the exhibit to disseminate information to the public.

The color treatment of the exhibit will be, for the most part, in harmonizing shades of blue and chromium, while effects on the locomotive and on the "Pioneer" will be achieved by the most scientific methods of lighting.

Anesthesia Long Practiced
The use of anesthetics, which has now reached a fine point of perfection, has its forerunners in the days of the early Greeks and China as far back as the Third century.

Of the modern anesthetics, nitrous oxide or laughing gas was the first discovered. It was used at Hartford, Conn., in 1844 by a dentist named Horace Wells, who employed it for the painless extraction of teeth. Sulphuric ether was used for the same purpose two years later by a Doctor Morton of Boston. This in turn was followed in 1847 by the discovery of chloroform by Sir James J. Simpson of Edinburgh.

Predaceous Larva
The horrors of predaceous animals which lie in wait for their prey are no greater, except in relation to their size, than the horror of the ant lion, which lies in wait for hapless ants and other insects which fall victim of its trap. The ant lion is the larva of an insect common in the United States known as Neuroptera. The larva has long jaws and pincerlike claws. It constructs a funnel-like hole in the sand about two inches across at the top. It lies at this funnel with its pincers extended up into the funnel. The victims slide down the sides of the funnel to the waiting larva.

Sun Hatches Eggs
All turtles lay eggs, the shells of which are white and generally of a parchment-like character. They are deposited in the ground or in the sand, and hatch either by the warmth of decaying vegetation or by the heat of the sun.

Denied Burial Honors
The burial of an ass means no burial at all. The expression is derived from Jeremiah 22:19, which says: "He shall be buried with the burial of an ass, drawn and cast forth beyond the gates of Jerusalem."

Rope Fire Escape
A life-saving device which can be attached to any window is in use in Germany. Two ropes are thrown to the ground, where passers-by catch them and control the descent of the escaping person.

Eggshell's Resistance
To prove how delicate was an eggshell, pressure was applied on eight eggs and it was found that a shell 13 thousandths of an inch thick could withstand 400 to 675 pounds of pressure.

SURFACING FINISHED
Nineteen miles of the new highway from Carlsbad to the mouth of Walnut canyon has been surfaced and the New Mexico Construction Co., has moved its machinery to Albuquerque. Work of oiling this stretch of road will be delayed about sixty days to allow the road bed to settle.

They'll Take Care of the White House

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nesbitt, neighbors of the Roosevelts in Hyde Park, N. Y., who accepted Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's offer to be custodian-chief clerk and housekeeper, respectively, of the White House. Mrs. Nesbitt was once the manager of a co-operative market in Springfield, Mass. Mr. Nesbitt was formerly chief clerk for the Northern Pacific railroad in Minnesota.

Few persons reach adult life without having measles, and one attack is usually the limit. In view of these facts many people have the idea that one might just as well expose himself to it and be through with it, as he is bound to get it sooner or later, anyhow.

While measles is not a serious disease we never know what case may terminate fatally. Its general mortality rate is about 5 per cent. Very brief exposure will communicate the disease to others; nor is it necessary to come into close contact with the patient.

Most people think of measles only in terms of the rash, whereas the disease is much more than skin-deep. The changes in the mucous membrane lining the mouth, nose, eyes, throat and bronchial tubes are just as much a part of the disease as are those of the skin. There is virtually always a marked inflammation of these parts, which causes all the complications and after-effects that go with measles. And the unfortunate part of it is that these complications occur mostly in children under four, who are the least able to cope with them.

The most common complications are broncho-pneumonia, inflammation of the bowels, disease of the ear and membranous croup. The most dangerous of all is, of course, pneumonia—which occurs most often in children under two years of age.

Measles, as a rule, develop gradually, the first symptoms being those of a "cold in the head"—redness of the eye-lids, watering of the eyes, aversion to light, sneezing and "runny" of the nose.

This so-called invasion period lasts three or four days, and is followed by the appearance of the rash, which is first seen behind the ears, on the neck, and at the roots of the hair along the forehead. The next day the rash shows up on the face, front of the neck, upper part of the chest, and the back. On the third day the remainder of the trunk is covered and scattered spots appear on the extremities. By the time it has fully covered the face, and it continues to fade in the order of its appearance.

FIVE FAMILY IDEA EXPLODED
The U. S. Department of Commerce reports that the "average family of five" is a myth and in 1930 the size was actually 3.81 persons. The average private family is 4.01 persons. That includes boarders, kept relatives, et al. But cities have 6.8 per cent families of 6 persons; rural 3.8 per cent and rural 7.1 per cent.
