A NATION HELPING

No president in the history of America ever had the whole hearted support which has been given to President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Entering upon a black period of universal depression, the nation looked to him as a God given leader.

President Roosevelt has made some mistakes. He will make others. But his mistakes have been taken with more charity than those of any predecessor, and his efforts to change things have met with the universal approval and support of our citizenship.

If Roosevelt fails, it will not be beacuse of lack of support from the men and women of America.

Odd-but TRUE

Corn Preserved For Winter Use Corn may be canned or dried to be preserved for later use. Either is equally delicious though they differ in flavor, according to W. A. Wunsch, county extension agent. The dried corn has apleasant nutty flavor, and is an excellent way of preserving corn if one does not have a pressure cooker. Even though one does have, dried corn adds variety to winter meals.

CORN RECIPES

Canned Corn Corn is one of the more difficult vegetables to process and should not be canned unless a pressure cooker is available. It is very important to select corn in the milk stage. Cut corn off of cob and all boiling water to cover. Boil ten minutes and pack medium tight into pint glass jars or No. E-enamel cans. Plain tin cans will darken the corn which does not injure the food value of the corn, but spoils its appearance. Add one-half teaspoon of salt to each pint of sugar if desired. Corn should not be canned in quarts as the heat penetration is slow. Process for 80 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

Dried Corn

Select corn that is in the milk stage or just right for eating from the cob. Cook in steam for 5 to 7 minutes. Plunge into cold water, so it can be handled, cut down each row of kernals, cut from the cob and scrape with a thin sharp knife. Be careful not to cut too near the cob. Spread the kernels evenly in the trays to a depth of onehalf inch and start frying at once.

The corn shrinks rapidly in drying and when partially dry, the Frank Phillips, administrator of contents of three or four trays the estate of Milton H. #### STATE LOSES ON OIL SEVERANCE TAX

SANTA FE-The state lost its second attempt to overcome a referendum petition when District Judge M. A. Otero, Jr., Thursday overruled a demurrer to the attack on the oil severance tax.

The state contended the act was beyond referendum because it carried an emergency clause, because its revenue went partly to schools, and further that it was an excise tax.

Foes of the measure contended the bill was liable to referendum because the emergency clause meaneth nothing, that only a percentage of the revenue was apportioned to schools and that it his teacher. was unconstitutional property tax in that it was not flexible, equal or just.

The state announced it would everybody. appeal and that it would pass the transcript on to the state supreme court Friday. TISITORS to A Century of Pro V gress can tell you how hot it is by glancing at this huge ther-mometer which can be seen by day or night from long distances. The thermometer is 200 feet high and has numerals three feet high cut out of pressed wood on each of its three sides. The columns that indicate the temperature are made of neon tubing electrically operated by a master thermometer, Ten miles of wire, 3,000 fect of tubing, sixty tons of steel and several hundred feet of pressed wood were required to build this largest thermometer of them all.

PATROLMEN NAMED

Saturday nine patrolmen were named for the New Mexico motor patrol

The patrol membership is: Earl E. Irish, Albuquerque, chief; M. G. Benavides Albuquerque; Phillip E. Coyle, Clovis; Henry Eager, Tucumcari; E. J. House, Jr., Roswell; Ivan L. Johnson, Roy; Chas. H. Miller, Santa Fe; Carlos G. Salas, Las Cruces; Lacy Short-ridge, Santa Fe and Ivan Gilbert Beckner, Clayton. The patrol membership has four transportation to widely separated western regions.

Acting upon proposals already approved by President Roosevelt the public works board allotted $63,000,000 for the Grand Coulee dam project on the Columbia river for power and irrigation; $22,-700,000 to the Casper-Alcova reclamation project in Wyoming and $11,500,000 for the nine foot channel on the upper Mississippi, which will permit deep draft river boats to navigate the river as far as St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The upper Mississippi allotment was designed to carry forward work already started and will keep the project moving for a full year. Between three and four years will be required to finish the channel. Its total cost may reach $124,000,000 although there have been estimates that it could be completed for $116,000,000.

Total allocations from the $3,-300,000,000 public works fund have now passed the one billion dollar mark in the move to give jobs to unemployed.

7,000 BASS PLANTED

Seven thousand bass ranging in size up to four inches were planted in the Kaiser lake Tuesday evening from the Dexter Fish Hatchery. Twenty thousand bass have been planted from the Dexter hatchery between Lake McMil lan dam and Lake Avalon.
