Tax Law

Tax laws of whatever kind lurnish a splendid example. It has always been true since we have had income tax laws that taxpayers have complained more about bureaucratic regulation, indecision, lack of uniformity in administration and, generally speaking, slow the amount they were required to pay. The same is true about our customs laws despite the fact that they affect fewer persons directly. The other day, the freasury issued a notice to customs inspectors that was "effective immediately." It was a change in policy respecting the quantity of goods an individual may cring in from foreign shores without the payment of the customs tax.

Since 1798 or thereabouts, there has been a law which permitted a returning American to bring in commodities of whatever kind he desired, except narcotics, up to $100 in value but that law permitted the Treasury to make exceptions. The Treasury notice the other day was an announcement of an exception to this $100 exemption. It said that no inbound traveler could carry more than one wine gallon of liquor without the payment of the customs tax thereon. A practice had sprung up since the import duty on liquors has been made so high of returning tourists bringing in almost the full exemption in liquor atone. Probably the practice was getting very bad and no one questions the judgment of in making this change that has may also be worn as a floating

In ordering the new regulation "effective immediately." the Treasury forced upon hundreds e travelers the necessity for paying duty on their personal stocks of liquor in what amounts to a sur; is order. They had left foreign shores under one regulation and arrive under another.

I have no doubt at all that the Treasury's reason for changing the rule while the game was being played will result in a considerable amount of revenue for the government. But there are many who believe, as I do, that the department in all fairness should have issued its regulation to became effective at some fixed date in the future injorder that citizens who must comply with it would be prepared by proper notification of what they were expected to do and the penal-

Jerry was quite right. Early the next morning as he was making his breakfast on a lily root he caught sight of some one coming down the Laughing Brook. It wasn't Farmer Brown's Boy. It was a stranger. This stranger kept stopping and examining every old log in the water and every hole along the bank. He stopped at three of Jerry's favorite eating places and studied them. Jerry knew just what that meant.

"That's that dreadful trapper." thought Jerry. "He's trying to find out where I am in the habit of going so that he may set traps there. It's clear to me that from now on I shall have to watch my step every time I move."

After the stranger had left, Jerry swam to the places where the stranger had stopped. At each one of them his nose was tickled with a delicious smell. At one place he smelled a carrot, and Jerry is very fond of carrot. At another place he smelled apple, and if there is any one thing that Jerry Muskrat likes it is apple. He was greatly tempted, was Jerry Muskrat. It

RY THIS TRICK By PONJAY HARRAH Copyright by Public Ledger, Inc.

Catching the dice is a game that looks easy but proves impossible when people try it, unless they know the secret.

A small cur is held in one hand. The thumb and fingers encircle the cup; between them, they hold a small cube; one of a pair of dice. The second cube is placed upon the first.

The object is to toss each of the dice separately, catching them one by one in the cup; and keeping them there. Thus the fun begins: for after the first cube is bagged the tossing of the second causes the first to jump out.

The way to do the trick is not to toss the second cube at all. Sim ply release it. Swoop downward with the cup and catch the last of the dice while it is falling.

Four salads on every guest's course! plate: there's a hunch for lunch you can play to win! It's no gam-ble, however, it's a sure thing, and four times as good as just one kind of salad!

Make your salads-be sure they offer contrast in flavor, texture and color-and fill little lettuce cups with the mixture; place one of each kind on a largish plate, spaced at even intervals. In the "empty spaces" put slices of tomato, pickle fans, olives, spiced peaches, or whatever you like best; in the center put a mound of salad dressing. Serve with crisp crackers, tiny hot muffins or Melba toast and a tall glass of iced coffee or tea. Your summer lunch is ready and as pretty as a picture! What Kind? For your four-in-one (although there is nothing to stop you from having five or six if you are the ambitious type!) salad place you will want to have a fruit mixture; a vegetable mixture; a fish or meat mixture; and a "greens" mixture. Be sure each one is mixed with its own best-suited dressing or marinated in French dressing. A "dab' of salad dressing may perch atop each salad serving if you want to vary the kind to the salad served.

New Ruling On Harvesting Hay

W. A. Wunsch of State College, executive secretary has recently sent out a letter addressed to all county agents regarding the changes made in the nursery crops under the soil conservation program. The letter: Gentlemen:

The following wire has been received from George E. Farrell, direstor western region:

"Because of national emergency drought consideration administratively determined that nursery crops may be harvested for hay and such acreage shall be classified as soil conserving provided good stand soil conserving crop is attained stop also now possible plant emergency forage crop such as sudan grasses spring grains sorghums millets when such crops are cut for hay or pasture without such action being regarded as changing the prior classification of such acreage.

As you notice, the classification applies only to the soil conserving crops, which would be the fifteen per cent of general crops or thirtyfive per cent of cotton diverted.

This means that in all the counties mentioned under section 3, bulletin 2, the crops in the substitute practices for soil conserving crops, where it states that the crop must be plowed under or left standing unharvested, these crops can now be pastured or cut for hay and the producer would receive his unmber 1, or diversion,

In all counties where winter cover crops, summer cover crops, or annual legumes were required to be plowed under for green manure in order to qualify for soil diversion payment, these crops can now be pastured or cut for hay and the producer would qualify to receive his number 1, or diversion, payment.

There have been no changes in the soil building crop requirements. In order to qualify for soil building payment, the producer must meet the requirements as set up in section 1, WR bulletin 2,

There was a spot of blood on it!

Still, Tony couldn't swear there was anything wrong with that bundle. It might contain nothing more damning than a hundred by crab grass, to encourage a pounds or so of meat from a butcher shop.

UNLESS the protests of Poland are effective, all opposition to Nazi power in the Free City of Danzig is due to be crushed. Dr. Arthur Karl Greiser, president of the Danzig senate, which is controlled by Nazis, has issued administrative decrees ordering:

1. Dissolution of any organization whose members, with knowledge of its executive board, spreads news 'endangering the state interest." 2. Prohibition of review by the courts of police measures of a political nature, including those aimed at the right of assembly, the press, and free speech. 3. Prohibition of Jewish ritual slaughtering for food purposes. 4. Imposition of three month protective custody on persons declared y is located to be "endangering the public peace." Thus the city's constitution is virtually set aside, and the Poles especially, having extensive economic interests there, are indignant. The League of Nations, which holds a protectorate over Danzig, may be called on to act in the matter. Of course there is talk of Poland resorting to arms, but this is not likely at present.

Rearm the Dardanelles EIGHT signatories to the Laugranted to Turkey the right to remilitarize the Dardanelles, and they, with Turkey, have signed a convention covering the matter. Only Japan made slight reservations because it is no longer a member of the League of Nations.

The convention grants complete liberty to merchant marine passage through the straits in peacetime and wartime, even with Turkey at war, provided the commercial vessels do not assist the fighting powers.

The Russian navy is granted complete freedom in peacetime to leave and enter the Black sea through the straits, but nations outside will be subjected to limitations on passage of fighting ships through the channel.

During wartime belligerents will be prohibited from using the straits unless acting for the league or under the obligations of a regional pact of which Turkey was a signatory.

Sex Education "Our children know more at twelve than we did at thirty. Sometimes it even looks as if they might know a little too much." So writes my distinguished fellow columnist, Mrs. Walter Ferguson, who always says just what she thinks.

Not long ago I spoke to the boys of a New Mexico high school on the venereal diseases. It was an illustrated talk lasting little more than half an hour. At the end I invited the boys to write out and submit questions. At first the questions came up very slowly but, just as soon as the boys discovered that I was doing by best to give an honest answer to every question, their slips of paper came much faster than I could answer the questions. I still have fiftyfive of those slips of paper some of them asking two or three questions. These all came in during an hour and at the end of that time the questioning was stopped not by failure of curiosity but because my time was up. Knots of boys surrounded me with spoken questions all the way to the door.

I shall be glad to send those slips of paper to Mrs. Ferguson. I believe they would convince her that there are some children at least who do not know too much.
