CAPITAN, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, APRIL 6, 1906.

NUMBER 5

Viewers' Report.

Lincoln, N. M., April 2, '06.
Honorable Board of County Commissioners.

Lincoln, N. M.

We, the undersigned viewers appointed to view and report upon the construction of a county road around the fords of Rio Bonito 3½ miles northwest of Lincoln, lately constructed by Wm. Booth, contractor; have the honor to report that we this day viewed said road and measured the same and report the facts to be:

The said road is nowhere less than ten feet in width. There are three passways whereupon loaded wagons can easily pass. There are no grades upon said road to interfere with heavy traffic and we believe the same to be in all respects a good mountain road.

That, in our opinion, if the road had been constructed along the survey made by the county surveyor, then and in such case the same would have been liable to overflow from the Rio Bonito and defeat the object of its construction, and the terms of the contract under which Booth constructed the road. Furthermore said road if constructed along the line of said survey would have caused irreparable injury to the mother acequia known as the "Sedillo" acequia.

In view of these facts we recommend and believe that the contract made by Booth has been complied with and that the road should be accepted by the Board of County Commissioners.

Respectfully submitted,

S. T. GRAY,

Another Meeting.

The second meeting of the Lincoln County Taxpayers' Association was held last Saturday in the school house at Capitan. The meeting was called to order by the Secretary at 2 p. m. and Mr. Stevens was elected temporary chairman. Mr. Stevens reported that an injunction had been served on the county clerk to stop payment by the board of county commissioners on the road along the Bonito. He further announced that the case against the commissioners will come up at Alamogordo on the tenth of this month.

Correspondence in the Outlook touching on the road matter was read as also a letter from the editor of that paper to Mr. J. Hall of Capitan stating that he had bid under the contract awarded for county printing and offered to do certain work for the county for nothing.

It was decided to call a meeting for last Saturday in April at one o'clock p. m., unless a special meeting be called by the Executive committee sooner.

A New Mining Company.

J. A. Norman passed through last week from Roswell to Nogal, and immediately began operations on some properties in that section.

A new company has been organized, with $1,000,000 capital stock, and contains the names of a number of strong men, who have put up a sufficient sum of money to develop the property.

The company is known as the Nogal Peak Gold Mining Co., and its officers are as follows: A. R. Forsythe, president; C. N. Stansell, vice-president; C. A. Coldren, secretary; H. A. Hedgecoxe, treasurer; J. A. Norman, superintendent.

Roberts-Eaker.

At 12 m. yesterday, at the Capitan Hotel, A. T. Roberts and Mrs. Anna Eaker were married in the presence of a few friends, Justice John A. Haley performing the ceremony.

The contracting parties have been residents of this county for a number of years, and both groom and bride are connected with the oldest families in the county.

Shortly after the ceremony the newly wedded pair left for Carrizozo, where they will reside and where Mr. Roberts is engaged in the livery business. The News joins their many friends in wishing them a long, happy life.

AID FOR DEPENDENT WOMEN

A veritable "old maids' paradise" is located in Scituate. That ancient South Shore town bears the distinction of possessing a fund of which the proceeds are devoted to the care of dependent maiden women.

So far as the Scituate Selectmen know there is not a life fund under the supervision of a town anywhere in the state. More than a quarter of a century ago Miss Eliza Jenkins decided that women approaching the sere and yellow leaf of life, who had, like herself, remained single from choice or otherwise, should be provided for when they became dependent wholly upon themselves. The idea of an old folks' home in Scituate was at that time entirely out of the question. Miss Jenkins straightway did the next best thing and left a fund of $3,000, the interest of which is yearly distributed among the worthy maidens of the town.

The Jenkins fund has always been in charge of the Selectmen. In the last few years they have placed about $20 each in the hands of half a dozen persons. This odd fund has benefited persons in Scituate for so many years that the townspeople have come to regard it as a very common institution; it is available only for native born women, and this is about the only restriction its donor made.

Many a person has been helped in the last twenty-five years to pay off a mortgage, buy fuel for the winter months or purchase seeds for the spring planting through this fund. The Selectmen know pretty nearly every one in the town, and it is comparatively easy for them to discriminate between the worthy and unworthy.

Soon after Miss Jenkins thoughtfully provided for the "old maids," another maiden woman, Miss Lucy Thomas, originated the idea of a similar fund for widows. She left $1,000, also under the care of the Selectmen, for native born widows. Interest has been drawn from this fund nearly as many years as from the Jenkins fund.—Boston Globe.

WOMEN AS BILL COLLECTORS

"For persistent persuasive bill collecting give me a woman every time," said a dunning creditor recently. "I think the future will see women the only bill collectors. There is something in the sight of a woman bill collector that few men can resist. It seems strange, too, that some of the most refined women take to it. There are a handful of women money collectors in Philadelphia, and you can learn from their employers that they make a great success of their vocation. They would not take to it except for pure love of the thing.

"One woman in my employ, conceded to be one of the most tastefully dressed and best looking woman in the business here, is as graceful as a queen in her daily collecting rounds. The most interesting and unique thing about her work is that she never leaves any venom in the hearts of the people whom she duns. I send her especially to the big mercantile establishments and wholesale houses where salesmen are inclined to overlook the matter of long-standing bills. Her entrance always causes a commotion, and she nearly always makes good.

"She walks gracefully up to where the large groups of salesmen are standing and inquires of the first one handy: 'Is Mr. K. in to-day?'

"No," the salesman addressed will reply. He recognizes the woman and thinks to save a fellow worker.

"Well," the undaunted collector will reply, 'Will you tell him that I will drop in here every morning at 10 until I see him?' And sure enough she does. Perhaps for a week the woman will enter that building and exactly at 10 o'clock ask sweetly for Mr. K. until his fellow salesmen, taking pity on her and beginning to resent the evasiveness of the dunned, will smoke him out by the usual stock of salesmen's jokes, and so the woman walks out one fine day with at least half the bill paid on account."

AUTO HAS A FASCINATION

"You'll never find me standing on the curbstone and shouting, 'Git a horse!' You'll never find me scattering carpet tacks in the roadway. You'll never see me wrinkling up my nose and saying, 'Pue!' I rather like the smell of gasoline unless it's too near the gas jet," writes Eugene Wood in Everybody's.

"I always stop and follow with my eyes when one honk-honks apast me. It's no use sending me on errands and telling me to be right back, if my way is near a fine smooth street. I've just got to stand and 'gawp' at them going by. And if there's one on the corner with a man trying to wind up the spring in front (or whatever it is), so that the machine will shudder just right, I join the throng of messenger boys, and men taking home the wash, and fellows out of work, and I stand, with my weight first on one foot and then on the other, trying to puzzle out what it is he does with the handle.

"I look at the folks riding in them, leaning back so grandly with their jaws tied up as for the mumps, and trying their blamest not to let on how tickled with themselves they are, trying to pretend that it's an old story to them, and that they have had autos ever since the machines came out. It is my daily effort to figure to myself how it would be with me if it was me instead of them. I was in one once for a little while. Honest I was. Now that's no joke. I was. Rode quite a ways, too. Anyhow, half a mile. I can't really describe my sensations. The luxury got me rather rattled in my mind. I came as near as scat! to making the worst bargain in my life, just on account of that automobile, because the main thing in my mind was that I ought to have one."

NEVER YOU MIND, MY DEAR

Has the day been dark and the sky been gray?

Never you mind, my lad,
Whistle a bit in a cheery way;
Don't take the time to be sad.
Oh, Worry's a specter of visage grim,
First limp on the fiendish list;
But smile in his face when you look on him,
He fades like the morning mist.

Did the dream that you dreamed go somewhat wrong?
Never you mind, my dear,
Out of the shadow will float a song,
If only your soul will hear,
Ay, Worry's a phantom, and Worry's a ghoul,
And Worry's a goblin of night.
He flees from a smile, but he comes at a scowl,
And a sigh is his cruel delight.

Oh, I know of the hope that is buried from sight,

But bravely we'll bear it, my dear,
For the sunlight is born of the womb of the night,

And the comforter ever is near,
Yes, bravely we'll bear it, my dear—you and I—
And strength to our souls will be given,
Though Worry doth whisper and mutter his lie,
Earth swings to the solace of heaven.

I would fain hold your head on my comforting breast
Till a smile glimmers out through the tears,
But the battle of each is for each, and the rest
Know little that gladdens or cheers,
So we'll both do our best, whatever it be,
And we'll smile through the pitiful rain,
Till the phantom of Worry forever shall flee,
And we know that e'en Sorrow is gain,
—A. J. Waterhouse in San Francisco Call.

Sending Consumptives West.

The committee on the prevention of tuberculosis of the Charity Organization Society of New York has just sent out a circular letter to 8,500 New York physicians, asking them not to send consumptives to western states like Arizona, Colorado and California unless these tuberculosis patients have (1) physical ability to be self-supporting at employment already assured, at proper salary, in the West; or (2) $250 at their disposal in addition to railroad fare.

Starving Though Rich.

A New York woman is reported to have died from starvation while the possessor of a fortune. She will be severely condemned, and yet is not the world full of rich people who are starving for things that are just as essential for right living and the enjoyment of life as food is to life itself? She only starved the body; thousands, starve the soul and the mind in the pursuit of wealth, and provoke little comment.—Denver Republican.

Bad Stomach Makes Bad Blood.

You can not make sweet butter in a foul, unclean churn. The stomach serves as a churn in which to agitate, work up and disintegrate our food as it is being digested. If it be weak, sluggish and foul the result will be torpid, sluggish liver and bad, impure blood.

The ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are just such as best serve to correct and cure all such derangements. It is made up without a drop of alcohol in its composition; chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol. Now this glycerine is of itself a valuable medicine, instead of a deleterious agent like alcohol, especially in the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion. Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of it:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. It is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs; especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach). It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric acidity. It is useful in chronic intestinal dyspepsia, especially the fatulent variety, and in certain forms of chronic constipation, stimulating the secretory and excretory functions of the intestinal glands."

When combined, in just the right proportions, with Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Queen's root, Blood-root and Mandrake root, or the extracts of these, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, there can be no doubt of its great efficacy in the cure of all stomach, liver and intestinal disorders and derangements. These several ingredients have the strongest endorsement in all such cases of such eminent medical leaders as Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hobart A. Hare, M. D., of Medical Department, University of Pa.; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Medical Department, University of New York; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., and Prof. John King, M. D., Authors of the American Dispensatory, and scores of others among the leading medical men of our land.

Who can doubt the curative virtues of a medicine the ingredients of which have such a professional endorsement?
 Constipation cured by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One or two a dose.

WOLVES ARE HARD TO SHOOT.

Seen for Only an Instant, They Seem to Melt Into the Landscape.

The wolves now found in Jackson county are in size between the coyote of the western plains and the big wolves found in the Ozark region. In general appearance they bear a resemblance to the Scotch collie dog.

They live in unfrequented places, generally in the timber or along the streams, and a favorite abode is in caves or under overhanging ledges of stone.

Scratching out a shallow hole in the ground they line it with small sticks and dry leaves. Here the mother wolf takes care of her young, while the father is scouring the country for miles around in search of food.

He is rarely seen by day, and then only for an instant, for he seems to melt away like a mist into the weeds or brush, his tawny hide making it easy for him to disappear from sight.

His skill in eluding his enemies, especially human, is remarkable, and this is one of the most aggravating things about him. If a hunter succeeds in getting within gunshot of him the chances are 10 to 1 that no damage will be inflicted.

His hide is so thick and tough and is covered with such a heavy coat of fur that an ordinary discharge from a shotgun has little or no effect. With an ease that is exasperating he simply lopes out of danger and is soon lost in the brush.—Kansas City Star.

The Horseless Age.

A Yankee down East thus sizes up the horseless age. "I pity the man who says the automobile will drive out the horse. There is all the difference in the world between the horse and the machine. The difference between the living and dead; between the game, resolute, do-or-die spirit of the horse that compels admiration, and the inanimate machine that does not. Take a clock that has stopped forever, even a faithful clock, and you can't wring a tear out of the children with a force pump; but they'll cry as if their hearts were broken over a St. Bernard that's passed on to the animal heaven. The steam engine and the trolley haven't put horses out of commission and the automobile won't; still, I hope for their sake, that it'll take a few of them out of the hands of the brutal and ignorant who don't know how to use them."—Providence Journal.

The Poet's Dilemma.

I've been for at least ten years, in verse, Admiring golden curls; Though the songs were vapid, and oft-times worse.

They fitted so many girls Whose hearts, for the moment, I sought to win—

But Fortune has thrown me down! It's to Dorothy, now that my hopes I pin, And Dorothy's curls are brown!

I'll alienate all of the other girls If I sing of "the charms untold That hallow a cluster of chestnut curls." I've said all that of the gold!

I've sung of a sunbeam's being caught, And of wearing "a halo crown." But can I now? Ah, perish the thought! For Dorothy's curls are brown.

I can't insist that I wrote for pelf, For it's known that my verse rang true—

Although a court may reverse itself, For a poet that course won't do! And I'm fearful some verse to her may be shown (There's scores of them here in town), So "yellow" that Dorothy won't condone, Since Dorothy's curls are brown! —Roy Farrell Greene, in New York Press.

Changed the Subject.

The young divine touched his glasses nervously and leaning forward took her hand.

"Miss Milvain," he said, "Mabel, I can no longer conceal the sentiment that glows in my breast. The time has come when I must divulge the hope that has long been cherished the burning devo—"

But at this moment the parrot, trained by the bluff, football playing brother, interrupted:

"Cut it out," said the bird. "None of that rot old man."

And the minister, drawing himself up, said stiffly:

"To continue the topic of a few moments ago, I repeat, Miss Milvain, that Mommsen's 'History of Rome,' etc."

TERRIBLE SCALY ECZEMA.

Eruptions Appeared on Chest, and Face and Neck Were All Broken Out—Cured by Cuticura.

"I had an eruption appear on my chest and body and extend upwards and downwards, so that my neck and face were all broken out; also my arms and the lower limbs as far as the knees. I at first thought it was prickly heat. But soon scales or crusts formed where the breaking out was. Instead of going to a physician I purchased a complete treatment of the Cuticura Remedies, in which I had great faith, and all was satisfactory. A year or two later the eruption appeared again, only a little lower; but before it had time to spread I procured another supply of the Cuticura Remedies, and continued their use until the cure was complete. It is now five years since the last attack, and have not seen any signs of a return. I have more faith in Cuticura Remedies for skin diseases than anything I know of. Emma E. Wilson, Liscomb, Iowa, Oct. 1, 1905."

LATIN AMERICA ESSAYS.

Prizes Offered by American Minister to Columbia.

Appreciating that few Americans have anything like as much knowledge as they should possess concerning South America and Central America, Mr. John Barrett, American minister to Columbia, has offered three prizes through President Butler of Columbia University for the best papers or essays on the relations of the United States to the Latin American Republics, to be competed for by students of American colleges.

The subjects are divided into classes, the first of which bears on the relations of the United States to the Latin American republics, while the second pertains more directly to the historical and political development of Latin America without regard to the United States.

The following is a statement of the two classes of subjects upon which essays are invited:

Class 1, Political and Economic—(1) The Monroe doctrine and its influence on the political and economic development of Latin America. (2) The influence of the Panama canal on the commercial and political development of Latin America. (3) Present conditions and future possibilities of the trade of the United States with South America. (4) The present material and economic progress of South America. (5) The practicability and utility of the proposed Pan-American railway.

Class 2, Historical—(1) The influence and conditions that worked for the independence and establishment of the South American republics. (2) The influences and conditions that worked for the independence and establishment of the Central American republics and Mexico. (3) The character and achievements of Bolivar as shown in the struggle for the independence of northern South America. (4) The character and achievements of San Martin as shown in the struggle for the independence of southern South America. (5) The conditions surrounding and circumstances influencing the overthrow of the empire and establishment of the republic in Brazil.

Every housekeeper should know that if they will buy Defiance Cold Water Starch for laundry use they will save not only time, because it never sticks to the iron, but because each package contains 16 oz.—one full pound—while all other Cold Water Starches are put up in ¼-pound packages, and the price is the same, 10 cents. Then again because Defiance Starch is free from all injurious chemicals. If your grocer tries to sell you a 12-oz. package it is because he has a stock on hand which he wishes to dispose of before he puts in Defiance. He knows that Defiance Starch has printed on every package in large letters and figures "16 ozs." Demand Defiance and save much time and money and the annoyance of the iron sticking. Defiance never sticks.

Atlas Engines

Many prospective purchasers of engines and boilers are under the impression that because the Atlas Throttling Engine is of such high grade, and because it is fitted with a balance valve and a main bearing, such as only Corliss engines of other makes contain, it is necessarily of such price that it is quite out of their reach. This is not true. An Atlas engine is no higher in price than any other engine, except, perhaps, one that is made entirely in a foundry.

For your information, therefore, we give for the present an approximate price upon a 12x16 Throttling Atlas Engine, range 43 to 60 Horse Power of $350.00

This includes engine complete with band wheel, governor, throttle valve, and all regular trimmings and represents the price delivered f. o. b. cars factory, or, if in stock at our Agencies at any of the following points:

CAPITAN NEWS.

Published every Friday at

CAPITAN, - NEW MEXICO.

Entered at the post-office at Capitan, New Mexico, for transmission through the mails as second-class matter, August 14, 1903:

JNO. A. HALEY, - - - Editor.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

One Year, - - - - - $1.50
Six Months, - - - - - $1.00

A Statement.

The fact that the editor of the NEWS was called upon to preside at the mass meeting of the taxpayers, an honor that he by no means coveted; and the further fact that this paper is the official paper of the county, and to a certain extent a beneficiary of the board, though giving value received, led some to believe this was a time to get even; and the ball was set in motion last Saturday during the absence of the editor.

In reply to matters filed, we will say: The board of county commissioners, at their regular meeting in January, 1903, awarded the printing contract to the White Oaks Eagle for a term of four years, the bid filed by the Eagle being the only one before the board; the Capitan Progress, which afterwards became the Capitan NEWS, was owned by the same parties as were then conducting the Eagle.

The Eagle discontinued publication about August 1, 1903, and a reference to the minutes of the July, 1903, meeting of the board will show that the contract was transferred from the Eagle to the Capitan NEWS on the same terms and for the same period as that formerly given the Eagle.

It is obvious, then, that having the printing until January, 1907, it would be superfluous for this paper to again submit a bid for something it already possessed; and naturally, it stood on its original contract with the board; and notwithstanding the writer who complained at last Saturday's meeting of unfair treatment, etc., did submit a bid, the contents of which we do not know to this day, the NEWS filed none, and has continued to do printing for the county at rates contracted for before its competitor was born.

This explanation is made for the benefit of the taxpayers association who are entitled to it, and for the purpose of clearing up a proposition that is ancient history to a great many of them, though, apparently, not understood by all.

These are the facts, that may be verified by the record; and it is also a fact that our competitor submitted his bid for the printing TWO YEARS AFTER it had been awarded to the NEWS and TWO YEARS BEFORE the contract was to expire.

The governor is having trouble with his official family, and is trying to clear the whole roost for the purpose, it seems, to put non-residents in office. The people of New Mexico have become accustomed to seeing the federal positions largely filled by outsiders, but this is carrying the idea to the stretching point when territorial positions must be given, also, to non-residents. There certainly are plenty of good men, residents and taxpayers of the territory, to fill these positions, and the failure of the governor to recognize this fact plainly indicates his opinion of New Mexicans generally and of his party particularly.

The railroads, through their several attorneys in the United States senate, are putting up a strong fight for a court review in the rate bill. It seems quite likely that they will win out, despite the earnest efforts of the president and the supporters of the measure. The court review clause, it is hardly necessary to state, is for the purpose of nullifying the original intention of the bill.

Peace again reigns in the Philippines, but no prophet is bold enough to say it is lasting. The Spaniards might give some advice on the question, in view of the fact that they tried for 400 years to assimilate the inhabitants of the archipelago.

The Hopeful mine, at Parsons, which has been hampered the past winter by a shortage of fuel, will soon be crushing ore on six Huntington mills. The financial condition of the company operating this mine has been materially improved, and all indications seem favorable for successful operations. This property has long been recognized as a good low grade proposition, and its capacity for profit is bounded only by the amount of ore handled.

RAISED FROM A DEATH-BED.

Mr. Pitts, Once Pronounced Incurable, Has Been Well Three Years.

E. E. Pitts, 60 Hathaway St., Skowhegan, Me., says: "Seven years ago my back ached and I was so run down that I was laid up four months. I had night sweats and fainting spells and dropped to 90 pounds. The urine passed every few minutes with intense pain and looked like blood. Dropsy set in and the doctors decided I could not live. My wife got me using Doan's Kidney Pills, and as they helped me I took heart, kept on and was cured so thoroughly that I've been well three years."

Nature's Balance.

The question may be asked, "What is to prevent the foe of these insect pests from becoming in turn an enemy itself?" In nearly every case the beneficent insect depends upon the injurious insect for its own subsistence. It will not thrive if it is robbed of its prey. So, whenever the foe insect becomes very numerous in an orchard, it does not do harm to the orchard, but only to the particular pest of the orchard which it antagonizes. It may never entirely destroy the pest, but it reduces it below the danger line, and keeps it there—the inevitable balance of nature. If the pest were wholly destroyed, its force also would disappear.—From W. S. Harwood's "Saving California's Fruit Crops" in the February Century.

Trans-Atlantic Traveler's Record.

Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, the veteran high commissioner of Canada, probably adds to his other distinctions that of being the holder of the record as a trans-Atlantic passenger.

"I really have not kept count," he said, "of the number of times I have crossed. I believe I have voyaged to and from at least 150 times."

"According to the steamship companies this is something near the record for a passenger."

"I have seen many changes, indeed, am amazed at the wonderful advance made in the speed, size and comfort of ocean traveling. These new turbine steamers are marvelous."

Truly the self-made man relieved his ancestors of a great deal of responsibility.

UNDER WHICH KING

"The More Postum the More Food—the More Coffee the More Poison."

The Pres. of the W. C. T. U. in a young giant state in the Northwest says:

"I did not realize that I was a slave to coffee till I left off drinking it. For three or four years I was obliged to take a nerve tonic every day. Now I am free, thanks to Postum Food Coffee."

"After finding out what coffee will do to its victims, I could hardly stand to have my husband drink it; but he was not willing to quit. I studied for months to find a way to induce him to leave it off. Finally I told him I would make no more coffee."

"I got Postum Food Coffee, and made it strong—boiled it the required time, and had him read the little book, 'The Road to Wellville,' that comes in every pkg."

"To-day Postum has no stronger advocate than my husband! He tells our friends how to make it, and that he got through the winter without a spell of the grip and has not had a headache for months—he used to be subject to frequent nervous headaches."

"The stronger you drink Postum the more food you get; the stronger you drink coffee the more poison you get." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

CZAR MIXED A COCKTAIL

"The present czar of Russia learned the art of making an American cocktail from an American physician," said a man in an uptown saloon where he was sipping the old-fashioned tippie. "I have that from the physician himself."

"Not only that, but I sipped a cocktail made from the same formula, out of a handsomely carved cup which bore an inscription from the donor, who at the time was czarvitch, and which had contained the stirrup cup drunk at the last meeting between the Russian heir apparent and the American doctor."

"The doctor was a few years ago practicing in a city in western New York. He was once an attache of the Russian court and had some appointment, I have forgotten what, later on."

"One evening when he had been called to see the czarvitch the talk ran to American drinks. The new doctor carried his own stock of American liquors. He spoke of the American cocktail, which, at that time, was the most-called-for mixed drink at the bar."

"The czarvitch was amused at the name. He thought it was a joke. The Yankee doctor assured him it was not."

"The czarvitch said he would like to try the drink. The doctor brought in his ingredients and prepared a cocktail in the presence of the czarvitch, who was intently interested. When he had tasted it he went into ecstasies and called for more."

"After he had sampled several cocktails he proposed to make the mixture himself, and learned with much more ease than he has learned some other things since."

"When the American doctor was leaving St. Petersburg the czarvitch had ascended the throne. The physician asked leave to pay his respects and was accorded an audience."

"The emperor reminded him that he was an expert in mixing the American tippie, and thereupon they repaired to a private room where the czar of all the Russias produced the ingredients necessary to work out a cocktail. The czar mixed drinks for the two like a regular barkeep and enjoyed it."

"The czar assured the doctor that it was the greatest bracer he ever took. But then, you know, royalty lays on its praise and compliments with a trowel."

"However, the doctor was probably the only American who ever had the ruler of Russia to mix and give him a cocktail."—New York Sun.

CRITICISM OF FOOLISH RICH

It is exceedingly difficult to comprehend, says Leslie's Weekly, the moral and mental make-up of that class of men and women who compose the so-called fashionable set in our larger American cities and who in days like these can find no higher or saner purpose for the expenditure of their time and money than in feeding their vanities and indulging their pampered appetites. With millions dying from starvation in Russia, with hordes of men and women desperate with hunger and privation marching through the streets of London, with a thousand appeals for help and service arising from every quarter of our own land, what but a heart incrustured with selfishness and filled with greed and foolish pride could remain obdurate and unresponsive! Such must have been the character of the rich and fashionable family in Louisville, Ky., who gave a birthday luncheon to a pet dog the other day, with all the accompaniments of a high-class social function. The beast was the guest of honor and around the board, we are informed, "were persons prominent in society." An elaborate menu was provided and the dog was served from a silver platter. Of course no blame can be attached to the dog, which apparently had the wisest head of all engaged in this silly business, but as to the other creatures who surrounded "the board" there can hardly be but one opinion among intelligent and conscientious men and women. Their proper status, we should say, was several grades below that of the dog. It is precisely such exhibitions as these and such a use of wealth that furnish ample fuel to the anarchist and other enemies of the existing social order.

NEW YORK SUPPERS COSTLY

In all the world nowhere do so many persons enjoy after-theater dinners, or spend so much money upon them to the individual, as in New York. If the earth were canvassed, Paris would probably be found to come next, with London third; but in the latter two cities, as in Vienna, Berlin and St. Petersburg, most of the money is spent in what is known as the "season." In New York the "season" is practically the year around. Never in New York does the round of gayety cease, although at times it may appear just a trifle relaxed.

Twenty-five thousands restaurants feed New York. Of course, many of these, indeed, thousands of them, are not open at night; but the ones that do remain open manage to make it pay. If you were to strike an average, it would be found, according to a standard authority, that twenty restaurants, including the St. Regis, the Astor, the Waldorf-Astoria, the Holland, Delmonico's and the Imperial, around the theater center of New York, realize on an average of $5,000 apiece an ordinary night from persons who have been to the theater.

It is by no means out of the ordinary for a party of twenty-five to spend $1,000 for music and flowers and supper. The supper is mentioned last because it really costs the least. The food rarely costs more than $4 a cover; the wines from $3.75 to $10 more; while the charge for flowers is frequently from $15 to $25 for each member of the party. One will cease to wonder at the floral cost when men will pay $1.50 apiece, as they are doing now, for a single white gardenia to be worn in the buttonhole.

THE TWO GREAT MYSTERIES

We know not what it means, dear, this sleep so deep and still; The folded hands, the awful calm, the cheek so pale, and chill; The lids that will not lift again, though we may call and call; The strange, white solitude of peace that settles over all.

We know not what it means, dear, this desolate heart pain; This dread to take our daily way and walk in it again.

We know not to what other sphere our loved who leave us go, Nor why we're left to wander here; nor why we do not know.

But this we know. Our loved and lost, if they should come this day, Should come and ask us, "What is life?" not one of us could say.

Life is a mystery as deep as ever death can be, Yet oh, how dear it is to us, this life we live and see.

Then might they say, these vanished ones, and blessed is the thought, "So death is dear to us, beloved, though we may show you nought, We may not to the quick reveal the mystery of death; Ye cannot, if ye would, reveal the mystery of breath."

The child who enters life comes not with knowledge or intent; So those who enter death must go, like little children, sent. Nothing is known; but I believe that God is overhead, And as life is to the living, so death is to the dead!

Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Female Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Can we dispute the well-known fact that American women are nervous?

How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly;" or, "Don't speak to me." Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep. you are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children.

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in woman is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Fits of depression or restlessness and irritability; spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps; pain in the abdominal region and between the shoulders; loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia; a tendency to cry at the least provocation—all these point to nervous prostration.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. M. E. Shotwell, of 103 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot express the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, headache, loss of appetite. I could not sleep and would walk the floor almost every night."

"I had three doctors and got no better, and life was a burden. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has worked wonders for me."

"I am a well woman, my nervousness is all gone and my friends say I look ten years younger."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick, weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.
