THE COUNTY SEAT CASE

Lincoln Citizens' Bond Is Accepted By Judge-Injunction Still in Effect

COMMUNICATION FROM LINCOLN

Judge Edward R. Wright last Saturday December the 10th approved the indemnity bond produced by Lincoln citizens in the county seat injunction case. Judge John Y. Hewitt and Ben Bechtel, contractor were present when the Judge examined the bond. The instrument contained amounts aggregating almost $30,000 and the required amount was but $10,000.

The following is a list of those signing the Bond for Lincoln: D. Gallegos $505, A. Pacheco, $1020; Porfirio Chavez, $1245; F. W. Vanweek; $65, C. Basila, $725; L. Pacheco, $4685, Jesus Maes, $1070; Martin Chavez, $5820; Cornelia P. Sanchez, $1895; Manuel Fritz, $1030; S. Gonzales, $1645; Juanita Sanchez, $220; Louis Sanchez, $160; Chas. Milbourn, $1135; Francisco Sanchez, $1000; Romado de Chavez, $485; Teodora Chavez, $580; E. Padilla, $285; J. C. de Baca, $290, W. P. Blevins, $1175, J. J. Aragon, $475.

The defendants counsel Hewitt and Hudspeth were given forty days in which to reply to Quo warranto after which time the case will presumably be heard in the District court and possibly appealed to the Territorial Supreme Court. The next point to be heard from in the case will be, however, the hearing by the Supreme court of the old injunction case once decided against Lincoln which will be given a rehearing by the Supreme court which convenes early in January at Santa Fe. The latter case will determine whether injunction is the proper procedure or not.

LINCOLN SPEAKS UP

That this paper believes in the rule of the majority and is unquestionably with Carrizozo in the county seat controversy is known without doubt; but we also believe in the minority being 'heard' and for this reason alone we are publishing the following communication received from Jacob J. Aragon yesterday with a request that it be given space. We wish the people to consider our columns open to them at all times for the expression of their opinions. Lincoln has no paper closer at hand than Carrizozo. Being received at such a late date and our space being limited we will not be able to comment on the article until a later issue. But here goes for the article.

COMMUNICATED

Lincoln N. M. December 13, 1910.
Some of the people of this county are beginning to understand that it is not Jacob J. Aragon alone who is worrying the denizens of the windy town lying close to the mal pais, but instead, many tax payers are sustaining the suits to keep the county seat at Lincoln and thereby save themselves and their property from heavy taxation hereafter on account of a proposed bonded indebtedness created to benefit the few at the expense of the many citizens of this county. This awakening is throughly evidenced by the Injunction bond recently made by these tax payers whose aggregate returns of property for taxation shown by the records, amount in value to about $30,000.

Judge Mc Fie first granted this injunction and subsequent events prove conclusively that he was right under the law in so doing, because his action was affirmed by Judge Wright, the only difference being that the latter Judge required a bond to continue the restraining order, now the query arises? Will a mass meeting be called and held in Carrizozo to condemn Judge Wright in the same public manner that Judge Mc Fie was condemned, and will the Department of Justice at Washington be requested to investigate the action of Judge Wright in the premises, the same as was done in Judge Mc Fie's case, if not why not? Another amusing feature which might be designated an antic, i. e., the pilgrimage of leading citizens to Alamogordo to have Judge Wright turn down the Injunction bond; This pilgrimage reminds some of us down this way of the Three Tailors of Tooty street, London, who wrote a petition to Parliament, beginning "We the people of England."

Mass meetings condemning Judges and the influence of leading citizens don't count with the courts in New Mexico.

Taxpayer.

TINNIE POSTOFFICE ROBBED

On last Saturday night the postoffice at Tinnie N. Mex was robbed of $40.00 in cash and the store of Ramond and Murray, containing the postoffice, of quite a quantity of goods. Sheriff Stevens was called to the scene of the robbery but so far no clue has been discovered as to the identity of the robber.

CAPITAN CORRESPONDENCE

Atty. H. B. Hamilton left Monday for Estancia, where the Fall term of the district court for Torrance County convened this week.

The local mercantile establishments have laid in a larger stock of Holiday goods than ever before seen in Capitan, which would indicate that the drouth of the past season, the result of the elections in the east, or the activity among the politicians in the Ter—State of New Mexico, has not destroyed the confidence of the merchants.

Messrs. C. D. Willson, H. B. Hamilton and Allen Johnson made a trip to Ruidoso last Saturday in Mr. Johnson's Buick car.

Marvel Lane of Alto was in Capitan this week buying Christmas goods.

—Mrs. Doc. Tice expects to open a rooming house in the old Henery house at an early date.

—Mrs. T. S. Anderson and son of Pueblo Colo, who have been visiting friends here for several days left Thursday for Capitan to visit relatives there.

WALTON SPEAKS FOR IT

Chairman of the Democratic Territorial Central Com. Favors Constitution

MANY DEMOCRATS ARE FOR IT

Hon. W. B. Walton, of Silver City, chairman of the New Mexico Democratic executive committee, declares himself strongly in favor of the adoption of the New Mexico constitution. In the last issue of his newspaper, the Silver City Independent, Chairman Walton says:

"The principle question before the people of New Mexico in the matter of the constitution is whether or not we honestly and sincerely desire statehood.

"The constitution adopted by the convention which recently adjourned is not all that it should be, especially from a Democratic standpoint, the chief objection being that it does not contain any provision for the initiative and a rather stringent form of referendum. On the other hand it possesses many good features and is as a matter of fact a very fair fundamental law. Such being the case the people, independent of party affiliations are justified in accepting it.

"But for those who earnestly desire statehood there are stronger reasons. If adopted there is every justification to believe that it means immediate statehood as there can be little room to doubt that congress and the president, or the president alone, will approve of the document in its present form.

"On the other hand, should the constitution be rejected by the people of the territory there is no telling what the outcome would be. Under the terms of the enabling act the constitutional convention would again be convened in Santa Fe with the same delegates and another constitution would be placed before the people of the territory, but too late for action at the coming session of congress. The delegates would of course be the same as those who sat in the last convention, and a personal knowledge of the situation makes it certain that very few changes would be made, certainly none of great importance, as about all the concessions that could be expected were made at the recent convention.

"If the second constitution was voted down statehood would in all probability be delayed for years."

LARRAZOLO WILL WORK

That the constitution will have a strong advocate in Hon. O. Larrazolo is shown in a recent interview given out by that distinguished democratic leader.

The constitution will be surely carried by the people of New Mexico on January 21, for to the united republican ranks the democrats will lend aid, their own leader, O. A. Larrazolo, former democratic candidate for delegate in Congress, pledging to stump six counties to carry it, and like Chairman W. B. Walton, the territorial chairman of the democracy, pledging himself to work for it.

FOUR GOOD REASONS

Four good reasons are given by the Pecos Valley News for its advocacy of the ratification of the constitution. They are:

1st. It was made by men elected by and representing the sentiments of the majority of the citizens of the various counties in New Mexico.

2nd. It is a document that is fair to all classes and in no way favors any one class above another.

3rd. It is an excellent example of fundamental law, in no way encroaching upon the privileges or duties of future legislative bodies.

4th. It eliminates chances for unfair salaries of county and state officers and places the election of officers with the voters.

NEW MEXICO!

(To the tune of "My Maryland")

E. P. ALLDREDGE.

As sung New Mexico Day at Chicago Land Show.

There is a land supremely blest,
New Mexico, New Mexico
It is a land I love the best,
New Mexico, New Mexico.
Where sun and stars eternal shine;
Where mountains rise in heights sublime;
Where youth and vigor ne'er decline;
New Mexico, New Mexico.

What means the thousands crowding round
New Mexico, New Mexico.

Where homes and hopes and health abound
New Mexico, New Mexico.

They're coming for the sunshine bright;
They're coming for the homestead right;
They're coming for new life and light;
New Mexico, New Mexico.

They've heard the call of the newest state;
New Mexico, New Mexico.

They've felt the grip of splendid fate,
New Mexico, New Mexico.

They've dreamed, they've longed, to feel
The charms;

Of teeming, irrigated farms;
And wear the magic Coat of Arms;
New Mexico, New Mexico.

Come, join the patriotic host,
New Mexico, New Mexico.

And drink to her a living toast,
New Mexico, New Mexico.

The last but greatest commonwealth;
The sunshine land, empire of health;
The home of hope and boundless wealth;
New Mexico, New Mexico.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

The democrats of Lincoln County met last Saturday afternoon in Carrizozo. The Chairman elect was Wm. D. Martin, of Oscuro and Secretary, W. S. Bourne of Carrizozo. A full delegation was not present, but those present went on record with a set of resolutions 'against' the constitution. A. H. Hudspeth made a speech at the afternoon session against the Constitution. Jas. Simms of Carrizozo offered a set of resolutions favoring the constitution but received no second.

—Commissioner W. R. White (Sallie) was down Wednesday and Thursday doing a little pre-Christmas cruising around.

IN THE SOCIAL CIRCLES

Several Whist Parties During The Week—Mrs. A. J. Rolland Entertains.

CANNING-DAWSON-FAIRBANKS

On Friday evening Mesdames Harry Dawson, Harrauld Fairbanks and John Canning united to entertain the Carrizozo Whist Club at Whist, the home of Mrs. Canning being thrown open for the occasion. Only the members and their husbands were present, substitutes filling the required number in lieu of several absentees.

Favors of red carnations were given before the progressive game began. The score cards were hand-painted figures in fantastic costumes. On mantel and stards, clusters of red carnations nodded their pretty heads at the players, who played with zest to the counting of the score.

Mrs. George L. Ulrick held the highest number of points on the ladies side, being presented with a jeweled belt buckle, and Mr. Holmes a guest of a member of the club, won the first gentleman's prize, a handsome brush.

To Miss Boykin and Mr. Doering fell the two booby prizes, respectively, a decorated powder rag, and 'Snookum's,' the latter causing much merriment at Mr. Doering's expense, he good-naturedly joining in the banter.

Sandwiches and coffee, ices and cake were bountifully served to the following guests and club members: Mr. and Mrs. Art Rolland, Mr. and Mrs. John Kimbell, Mr. and Mrs. Will Whittingham, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sager, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fairbank, Mr. and Mrs. John Canning; Messrs Spencer, Butterworth, Doering, Smith, Holmes; Mesdames McDonald and Ulrick; Misses Lorena Sager, Mayo Boykin, Virginia Fenton, Nettie Lee and Frieda Eckman.

Mrs. A. J. Rolland entertained with whist Monday evening at her home. After the card games dainty refreshments were served. The following were present: Mrs. W. C. McDonald, Mrs. H. B. Dawson, Mrs. Kilgore Collier, Mrs. J. F. Kimbell, the Misses Nettie Lee, Thad Collier, Mayo Boykin, and Messrs. A. J. Rolland, Truman Spencer, W. Kilgore Collier, T. F. Davis, Fred Smith and Dr. F. S. Randles.

The prizes for high scores were awarded to Miss Thad Collier and Tom Davis; the two receiving the 'booby' prizes for low scores were Miss Nettie Lee and Dr. Randles.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Whittingham entertained a few of the younger set at cards Wednesday evening.

Mrs. H. S. Fairbank is visiting in El Paso this week.

Mr. Frank Gauchat has left for a brief tour of the east.

HAVE YOU READ IT?

HAVE YOU READ the constitution of the new state of New Mexico?

Read it. Begin now and read a section a day. It won't take you long to read one section. Don't take anyone else's word for what it contains, or whether or not it is worthy of support. It is framed in clear concise English, about the meaning of which there can be no quibble, and if you really wish to know whether it is for the people, the best way to find out is to go to the document itself.

You will find that the constitution provides for a new state wherein the burden of taxation will be more equably distributed and where the abolition of the fee system will reduce the cost of running the government by thousands of dollars. You will find a constitution which is something more than a collection of hastily made laws, to be changed when some coterie of kickers desire, but which may be amended as easily as that of almost any of the older states. You will discover provisions which makes it impossible for legislators to waste the people's money, which assure that public funds will be placed in approved banking institutions where they will make money for the public. You will find stringent provisions for the regulation and control of the great corporations and common carriers, by a commission which you will choose with your votes. You will find provision for the election of your judges; for adequate redress for employes against negligent employers; a fair appointment on the new state; a sensible and rational referendum; that no legislature or municipality may grant exclusive privileges or franchises of any sort. You will find wise provisions for the administration of public lands and the proper conservation and development of resources; provision for a splendid public school system; provisions which guarantee, as nearly as an organic act may, equal rights to all, special privileges to none, and a square deal for every citizen.

You will find a constitution upon whose articles one hundred picked New Mexicans, representative business and professional men, were very nearly agreed. You will find omitted various hobbies supported by small minorities and legislative matter advocated by small groups, which a large majority decided were not suited for incorporation into an organic law, a framework for legislation, a foundation for government. You will fail to discover class legislation under the guise of fundamental laws; you will find only provision for a representative form of government. What you will find is the product of the representative form of government, the work of men elected by the people to do the work, because it is a fantasy to conceive of the three hundred thousand population of New Mexico holding a mass meeting to make a constitution.

But don't take our word for it. We urge you to read the constitution and draw your own conclusions. The only stipulation is, that not taking our word for it, you will neither take the word of the opponents of the constitution.

Go to the root of the matter. There is an election next month which will decide whether we are to enter the union. It is important that you be prepared to vote intelligently at the poll.

LAST WEEK just before going to press we received a telephone message from Capitan telling of Lincoln's making the required bond in the county seat injunction case. In hurriedly writing the matter up we stated that Lincoln celebrated the completion of the bond and it might be taken, we noticed on rereading other than in the jocular way in which it was intended. It was not our intention to reflect on anyone personally in anyway; we merely wished to note that Lincoln had celebrated the winning of a point in the case just as Carrizozo would have done. We trust that none of our readers misunderstood the remarks and hope they took the matter in a joking way as written. We would keenly regret casting any reflections on anyone's character and trust the article was not so taken.

THE COUNTY SEAT SCRAP has assumed an appearance of "endurance."

Not Proved.
He was a Russo-Jewish exile, and after being driven from city to pale and then from pillar to post, he arrived in America. Shortly after his arrival in the land of freedom he met one of those large-hearted missionaries who rejoice in the conversion of the sons of Judah.
"My friend," remarked the clerical gentleman enthusiastically, "you ought to be very proud of being one of the chosen people—and this in spite of your sufferings."
The exile thought a while, and then, with a gleam of vindictive intelligence, he murmured:
"Oh, I wish you fellows were the chosen race for just two weeks."

Sorry He Spoke.

"AMERICAN APPLE CONGRESS."

The meeting of the American Apple Congress, to be held in Denver on December 15th-17th is the first step toward the organization of a great congress of American apple growers and dealers. This will be the only national organization of its kind ever proposed and is destined to become of much importance to growers and dealers in all parts of the country.

The initial meeting for the organization of this has been officially called by Governor John F. Shafroth, who has also sent invitations to governors of other apple producing states, asking that they send delegates.
Colorado, as the leading apple growing state in the union, is the logical state to take the initiative in organizing this important congress.

The Denver & Rio Grande railroad takes pleasure in announcing a rate of one fare for the round trip to Denver. Tickets will be on sale from all stations in Colorado on December 14th, except from points west of Blanco and south of Vance Junction, when selling date will be December 13th. Tickets will carry a final return limit of December 18, 1910.

Any Rio Grande agent, or Frank A. Wadleigh, general passenger agent, will be pleased to give information as to rates, etc., upon request.

SYSTEM FULL OF URIC ACID---THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY CURED

Two years ago I was very sick and after being treated by several of the best physicians in Clinton, I did not seem to get any better. I was confined to my bed. Seeing your Swamp-Root advertised, I resolved to give it a trial. After using it for three weeks, I found I was gaining nicely, so I continued until I have taken a number of bottles. I am now restored to health and have continued my labors. My system was full of uric acid, but Dr. Kilmear's Swamp-Root cured me entirely. I am sixty years old.

Yours very truly,
W. C. COOK,
Clinton, Ia.

State of Iowa
Clinton County ss.
On this 13th day of July, A. D. 1909,
W. C. Cook to me personally known appeared before me and in my presence subscribed and swore to the above and foregoing statement.

Benny on Benevolence.
Benevolence is a great thing. When you have benevolence you cannot rest until you do something to make other people feel grateful to you. The other day my mamma went up into the attic to find a lot of old clothes to give to poor people who could not afford to buy any clothing for themselves. While she was hunting around she found a gold-headed cane worth $25 that grandpa had put up there 13 years ago, and forgot all about. Thus we see, dear friends, benevolence brings its own reward.—Benny.

Mrs. Crow—William, have you ever stopped to think what will become of us when we are old?

Mr. Crow—Oh! I suppose we'll wind up as quail on toast at some table d'hote restaurant.

MIX THIS FOR RHEUMATISM

Easily Prepared and Inexpensive and Really Does the Work, Says Noted Authority.

Thousands of men and women who have felt the sting and torture of that dread disease, Rheumatism, which is no respecter of age, persons, sex, color or rank, will be interested to know that it is one of the easiest afflictions of the human body to conquer. Medical science has proven it not a distinct disease in itself, but a symptom caused by inactive kidneys. Rheumatism is uric acid in the blood and other waste products of the system which should be filtered and strained out in the form of urine. The function of the kidneys is to sift these poisons and acids out and keep the blood clean and pure. The kidneys however, are of sponge-like substance, the holes or pores of which will sometimes, either from overwork, cold or exposure become clogged, and falling in their function of eliminating these poisons from the blood, they remain in the veins, decompose and settling about the joints and muscles, cause the untold suffering and pain of rheumatism and backache, often producing complications of bladder and urinary disease, and general weakness.

The following simple prescription is said to relieve the worst cases of rheumatism because of its direct action upon the blood and kidneys, relieving, too, the most severe forms of bladder and urinary troubles: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. The ingredients can be had from any prescription pharmacy, and are absolutely harmless and safe to use at any time.

A good strike is reported from the Neptune mine on Fall River, Idaho Springs district.

Baker & Burns are prosecuting work upon the Black Swan mines in the Adit tunnel, Idaho Springs district.

The old Prussian at Rowena, Boulder county, has been taken over by Wisconsin people and will be vigorously worked.

The Standard mine on Gibson hill, Breckenridge, is shipping high-grade silver-lead-zinc concentrates, the ore averaging in value close to $90 per ton.

The National tunnel on Pine creek near Central City has broken into a nice streak of copper-iron, some of which can be seen on the dump at the mine.

A new strike is showing in the Lucky property on Mineral hill, in Breckenridge district, the ore body being eighteen inches wide and running high in lead and silver.

The Yankee Girl, Ouray district, which is credited with a production of $7,000,000, is taking out ore and shipping a carload a day. The San Antonio is making a similar production.

The Reilling dredge, Breckenridge, has just made a clean-up of over $8,000 in gold as the result of one week's run. This dredge has had a prosperous summer and is handling a large amount of gravel, from which good values are being recovered.

The Wellington mine continues as one of the biggest shippers in the Breckenridge district, its daily output being about fifty tons, and important finds occasionally are being made. A late strike in this property is a five-foot vein of silver, lead and zinc ore, found in the main shaft.

Eighteen inches of solid ore has been exposed in the drift run from the bottom of the eighty-foot shaft on the Star property in Peru district, that runs as high as 800 ounces silver per ton. The ore carries bismuth and yellow copper. The Star is owned by William Jacobs of Georgetown.

What promises to be one of the richest and greatest mineral discoveries made in years in the upper Clear Creek district is reported from the Mendota mine. In ground under lease to the Mendota Mines Company, above the Victoria tunnel level, a body of solid smelting ore has been opened that is twenty-three inches wide and test mill runs show 150 ounces silver per ton, with thirty-six per cent lead. It is stated that the lessee has refused a cash offer of $20,000 for his lease.

James H. Meyers of Breckenridge and General J. C. Overmire of Ohio are promoters of a new enterprise designed to drive a mining drainage and transportation tunnel from a point near the Lenawee mine on the upper Blue river directly through Lenawee mountain to a point in Clear Creek county. The total length of the bore will be something over 17,000 feet. Good ore already has been discovered, which will be removed and shipped simultaneously with driving the tunnel.

New Mexico.

Pete Franson is taking out a six-foot streak of ore in the Alice mine, Mogollon district, which will average $19 a ton. There is ten inches of ore on the hanging wall which will go $60 a ton; this average has held good over 100 feet.

A rich strike of gold ore in the North Homestake mine, Mogollon district, was made on the 900-foot level, in a drift running in the direction of the South Homestake property.

Six thousand troy ounces of refined gold and silver bullion were melted and sixty sacks of concentrates were produced during last week by the Ernestine mine, Mogollon district. Five hundred and eighty-four tons of ore were treated taken largely from development which is being advanced in parts of the mine with encouraging results. It is authoritatively stated that there is now over $1,000,000 more ore blocked out than at the beginning of the year.

Wyoming.

Drilling for oil and gas is actively going on in the neighborhood of Greybull. So far, every well drilled in that vicinity has proven a success.

Considerable development work is taking place on Copper Mountain, notably in the McGrath mines. Those properties are expected to become famous producers. The Fremont development Company are investing about $8,000 and in the same territory.

CARRIZO, NEW MEXICO

NINE MENTIONED FOR HIGH COURT

PRESIDENT HOPES TO GET TWO JUDGES FOR SUPREME BENCH.

COMBINATION FEARED

SUBMITS DESIRABLE TIMBER FOR CONSIDERATION OF THE SENATORS.

Washington.—President Taft is still worrying about his Supreme Court appointments. The refusal of Senator La Follette to go to the White House to consult with the President about the matter has not added to the latter's peace of mind.

It is known that the President fears a Senate combination which will reject any appointments he may make and force the question of filling the Supreme Court vacancies into the next Congress and before a Senate which will probably be controlled by the Democrats and the insurgent Republicans.

In order to avoid this calamity, the President has submitted to a number of senators a list of the nine men he is considering for the Supreme Court. The list has been permitted to reach the press. It is believed that the President is anxious not only to placate the senators but is desirous of sounding public sentiment.

In addition to Justice Charles E. Hughes, who was put down as the probable new chief justice, the list from which the President hopes to select two associate justices follows:

Justice Francis J. Swayze of the Supreme Court of New Jersey.

Joseph R. Lamar of Augusta, Ga., former justice of the Georgia Supreme Court.

Justice Gordon Russell of the United States District Court of Texas.

Justice William C. Hook of Leavenworth, Kans., now a judge of the Eighth United States Circuit.

Justice Willis Vandevanter of Cheyenne, also of the Eighth Circuit Court.

Justice John C. Pollock of Topeka, Kans., United States District judge.

Chief Justice John Bradley Winslow of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin.

Senator George Sutherland of Utah.

W. D. McHugh, an attorney, of Omaha, Neb.

"Drys" Use Bible; Election Void.

Frankfort, Ky.—Because the "drys" of Powell county, Ky., used the Bible as an emblem on their ballots in a recent local option election and carried the county, the State Court of Appeals declared the election void. On each ballot was the picture of an open book with the words "Holy Bible" under it. The "wets" for an emblem used the picture of a whisky bottle and a glass, out of which protruded the head of a snake.

Mob Burns Union Quarters.

Fresno, Calif.—A mob here burned the headquarters of the Industrial Workers of the World, severely beat members of the organization on the streets and surrounded the county jail, where other members are being held. The demand was made that the Industrial Workers of the World prisoners be turned over to the mob, but no effort was made to enter the jail.

Charlton Returns to Italy.

Washington, D. C.—Porter Charlton, young American charged with killing his bride, who was Mrs. Mary Scott Castle, actress, in Italy and burying her body in a chest in Lake Como, will be returned to that country for trial. This is the decision of Secretary Knox.

Retired Officer Suicides

Washington.—Despondent because of ill health, Major General Wallace F. Randolph, U. S. A., retired, aged 69, former chief of the coast artillery corps, committed suicide at his home here by shooting.

Notwithstanding that both are grandparents with grandchildren in their teens, F. J. Evans, aged 65, a wealthy farmer, and Mrs. Eliza Cowley, aged 50, a well-to-do widow of Windsor, eloped to Greeley and were married.

TURNING ON LIGHT

PRESIDENT VAIL'S BOLD MOVE MARKS EPOCH IN FINANCE.

"Accuracy" Reduced Western Union's Surplus $13,000,000.—"Publicity" Inspired Such Confidence That Its Stock Went Up.

Are the great financiers of the country beginning to see a new light? Time was, until recently in fact, when the men at the head of the big corporations "kept their business to themselves," as far as the law would allow. Capable men at the head of the big concerns, long realized the weakness of their position, but what was needed obviously, as in all great reforms, was an unmistakable occasion and a courageous man. The occasion arose in the purchase of the Western Union Telegraph company by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and the man appeared in Theodore N. Vail, President of the purchasing corporation.

It was last December when public announcement was made that the Gould holdings of Western Union had been taken over by the Telephone company.

On account of the high esteem in which the management of the telephone company is so generally held, great things were predicted as a result of the absorption of Western Union. By the press of the country the "deal" was most favorably commented on, it being widely pointed out that under the direction of such men as Theodore N. Vail and his associates, the telephone company was bound soon to work itself into a position where it could offer the public far more efficient service than it had ever before been able to offer.

But a very few months had elapsed when it became apparent to the new management that a modern and up-to-date appraisal of the company's assets would make possible a far greater degree of efficiency of operation. "Here," they said to themselves, "we've bought control of this property and we know it's immensely valuable, but we don't know just how valuable. These appraisals of real estate and securities owned were made a long time ago. If we have a complete inventory made of every thing we've got we can announce the facts to the public, start a new set of books, and begin our responsibility to stockholders right there."

How Inventory Was Taken.

The most expert accountants and appraisers to be had were put at the task. Their labors lasted over eight months. Their report and its publication by the company marks an epoch in finance.

It began by recommending an adjustment of the difference between the appraised and book values by a charge of $5,595,089 against surplus. Book values of securities held were reduced to market values, bad and doubtful accounts were "charged off," an allowance of $2,000,000 was made for "depreciation," another of $500,000 for "reserve," and so on, until the old surplus of $18,867,000 came down to $5,136,000.

It required courage, the publication of this statement to stockholders, saying in effect: "The property of your company has been revalued; the surplus isn't nineteen millions, as you have been led to believe, but five millions," but it was the truth, and President Vail did not flinch. "Accuracy and publicity," he declared, was essential. "The stockholder has a right to know. The shares of this company are scattered from one end of the Union to the other. This is more than a private corporation. It is a great national enterprise. The public is entitled to the facts."

The report was ordered published forthwith. Financiers of the old school and speculators generally were aghast. What would happen? Would the bottom drop out of Western Union when the shareholders realized that their property was worth $13,000,000 less than they had supposed? But the amazing thing happened. The stock went up and stayed up. The public had responded to this remarkable display of frankness and confidence; to the new motto, "Accuracy and Publicity."

The full significance of the action of the new board is stated concisely by Harper's Weekly in these words: "Is this policy of publicity and of open-handed dealing with shareholders and public the forerunner of a similar movement on the part of other big corporations? Certainly it is to be hoped that it is. In the case of these big companies, dependent upon public patronage and doing business under public franchise, can there be any question of the right of the people to know?"

"That right is being recognized. It is recognized now in this epochal act on the part of the telephone and telegraph interests. It is the dawn of a new era in corporation finance."

Word was received in Santa Fe that the postoffice at Bluewater, Valencia county, was robbed of $296. The alleged thief was taken off a Santa Fe train and lodged in jail at Albuquerque.

The homes of nearly 2,000 people will be inundated when the water is finally turned into the big Elephant Butte reservoir, and six villages whose history runs back 200 and 300 years will be obliterated.

The Elephant Butte dam will not only supply the life giving waters of the Rio Grande to the chain of valleys along its course, but it will also supply power for operating machinery, for lighting and transportation in these valleys.

Fred Muller, receiver of the Santa Fe land office, reports that in November the rush for New Mexico's public lands, of which there is still 36,000,000 acres, was not affected by the cold weather. More than 25,000 acres was filed upon during the month, the fees exceeding $12,000.

The fourth annual meeting of the Mountainair Chautauqua will be held August 2 to 13 next year. The normal in connection with the Chautauqua will begin two weeks earlier and last four weeks and the Santa Fe has granted a rate of one and one-fifth fare for thirty days, beginning with the date of the normal.

Under Thomas P. Gable, the office of territorial game warden has become self-sustaining. Last month $3,800 were collected in fines and licenses. The balance in the treasury to the credit of the office at the beginning of the last fiscal year was $5,000; this year it is $8,700, and that despite the fact that $2,000 was expended for fish during the past season for stocking New Mexico streams.

The average precipitation for the Territory, determined from the records of 135 stations, was 0.72 inch, or 0.33 inch below the normal, and 0.9 inch less than the month of October, 1909. The greatest monthly amount was 2.76 inches at Swastika Ranch, extreme northwest Valencia county, and the least none at seven stations, while but a trace occurred to seven others. The greatest amount in any twenty-four hours was 1.66 at Aspen Grove Ranch in eastern Rio Arriba county, on the 20th. The average snow fall was 2.2 inches, almost three times that of October, 1909. There was an average of three days with precipitation.

LATE NEW MEXICO EVENTS

Santa Fe Bridge Destroyed.

Roswell.—The Santa Fe railroad bridge over a tributary of the Pecos river, fifteen miles north of Roswell, was completely destroyed by fire.

Ex-Governor Leaves State.

Santa Fe.—Ex-Governor Charles A. Reynolds, who has been a resident of Santa Fe about eighteen months and during this time associated with the United States general land office, has gone to Denver, having been transferred by the Washington authorities to the United States general land office there.

Where Women Can Vote.

Santa Fe.—The women of New Mexico will be granted the permission of voting at school elections and may hold office of school director or county superintendent, if they so desire, but cannot vote at municipal elections. The qualifications imposed on them as to residence and age is the same as those imposed on men in this respect.

Throw Dice for Estate.

Albuquerque.—An unique document was presented for record here being the will of the late Carl Schroeder. Unable to make up his mind to which of his two sons, Carl and Julius, he should leave his property, the will provides that they shall throw dice to see which has first choice of the property, which consists of two houses and lots and a slaughter house.

New Mexico Leads Them All.

Washington.—The population of Oklahoma is 1,657,155, an increase of 242,978, or 17.2 per cent over 1900. A recapitulation of census returns covering the detailed figures for eighteen states, shows that Iowa only suffered a decrease. New Mexico made the greatest percentage of gain, then came Arizona, and then Florida with 50 per cent less than New Mexico.

New Mexico Cotton.

Carlsbad.—The cotton crop under the Carlsbad project is nearly all gathered. The total yield will be about 1,000 bales. The two gins have been working over time all fall. The price of cotton is very satisfactory. The last sale was made at 15½ for middling, netting the grower here about 14½ cents. The seed is worth $25 a ton, making a bale of cotton worth anywhere from $88 to $90 to the grower. The growers who have given their cotton proper attention are making a bale and a half to the acre. The cotton grown here grades very high most of it better than middling. The acreage of cotton next season is likely to be larger than in the history of the project.

Appointments and Estimates.

Washington.—President Taft sent to the Senate the following recess appointments: For associate justices of the Supreme Court of New Mexico, Clarence J. Roberts, of Raton, and Edward R. Wright of Alamogordo; for register of the United States land office at Fort Sumner, Arthur E. Curran of Clovis; for receiver, E. H. Salazar of Las Vegas. For U. S. district attorney for District No. 2, Bernard S. Rodey of Albuquerque.

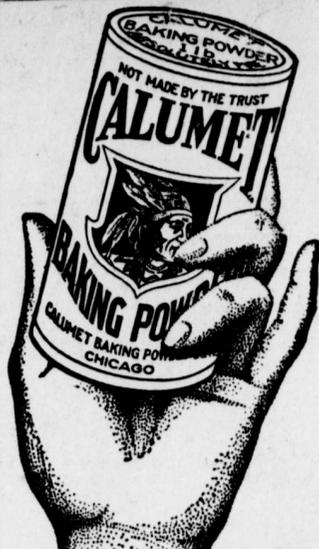

The following are estimates for appropriations: Indians in New Mexico and Arizona, $330,000; Indian school at Santa Fe $58,500; Albuquerque $60,000; an increase of $4,000; salaries $26,300; governor $3,500 an increase of $500; secretary $2,500, an increase of $700; contingent $1,500; legislative $2,400; reduced from $24,000; surveyor general $22,000, an increase of $8,000; inspector of coal mines $6,000, an increase of $2,000.

Saloon License Raised.

Dexter.—At an adjourned meeting of the town board the board voted to raise the saloon license from $360 per year to $800 per year. The ordinance became a law by a unanimous vote of the members present to suspend the rules and advance the ordinance to the third reading. The figure determined upon was a compromise measure. A part of the board holding out for $1,000, while another faction thought $750 ample. As the territory requires a $400 license, a total of $1,200 is required for the privilege of running a thirst parlor within the confines of Dexter.

New York-to-Pacific Project.

Santa Fe.—The arrival in Albuquerque of T. DeWitt Cuyler, a director in both the Santa Fe and the Pennsylvania railroads and a number of Santa Fe officials, headed by Vice President J. W. Kendrick, in charge of operations, caused an immediate revival of the report made public some months ago that the Pennsylvania road planned to operate trains from New York city clear to the Pacific coast, using the Santa Fe from Chicago.

"And so your father refuses to consent to our union?"
 "He does Rodolphus."
 The sad youth swallowed a sob.
 "Is there nothing left for us, then, but an elopement?" said he.
 "Nothing."
 "Do you think, Clementine, that you could abandon this luxurious home, forget all the enjoyments of great wealth, banish yourself forever from your devoted parents' hearts, and go west with a poor young man to enter a home of lifelong poverty and self-denial?"
 "I could, Rodolphus."
 The sad youth rose wearily and reached for his hat.
 "Then," said he, "you are far from being the practical girl I have all along taken you to be."
 And with one last look around on the sumptuousness that some day he had hoped to share, he sobbed and said farewell.—Browning's Magazine.

16 YEARS OF SKIN DISEASE

"For sixteen long years I have been suffering with a bad case of skin disease. While a child there broke out a red sore on the legs just in back of my knees. It waxed from bad to worse, and at last I saw I had a bad skin disease. I tried many widely known doctors in different cities but to no satisfactory result. The plague bothered me more in warm weather than in winter and being on my leg joints it made it impossible for me to walk, and I was forced to stay indoors in the warmest weather. My hopes of recovery were by this time spent. Sleepless nights and restless days made life an unbearable burden. At last I was advised to try the Cuticura Remedies [Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills] and I did not need more than a trial to convince me that I was on the road of success this time. I bought two sets of the Cuticura Remedies and after these were gone I was a different man entirely. I am now the happiest man that there is at least one true cure for skin diseases. Leonard A. Hawtof, 11 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., July 30 and Aug. 8, '09."

ARCHIBALD'S AGATHA

By EDITH HUNTINGTON MASON
AUTHOR OF "THE REAL AGATHA"

COPYRIGHT 1910 BY W.G. CHAPMAN. COPYRIGHT IN GREAT BRITAIN

SYNOPSIS.

Archibald Terhune, a popular and indolent young bachelor of London, receives news that he has been made heir to the estate of his Aunt Georgiana, with an income of $20,000 a year, on condition that he become engaged to be married within ten days. Failing to do so the legacy will go to a third cousin in America. The story opens at Castle Wyckhoff, where Lord Vincent and his wife, friends of Terhune, are discussing plans to find him a wife within the prescribed time. It seems that Lady Vincent is one of seven persons named by the will. Later she decides to invite two of them to the castle and have Archie there as one of the guests. Agatha Sixth strikes Archie as a hand-painted beauty. Agatha Sixth is a breezy American girl. Lady Vincent tells her husband that Agatha Sixth already cares for Archie. He gains from Agatha Sixth the admission that she cares for him, but will require a month's time fully to make up her mind. Agatha Sixth, neglected by Terhune, receives attentions from Leslie Freer. Four days of the precious time have passed when Terhune is called to London on business. Agatha Sixth, on the plea of sickness, excuses herself from a motor trip planned by the Vincents. Later she sees Agatha Sixth picking flowers with a strange man. The Vincents discuss Agatha's seeming duplicity. The following day the party visits the ruins of an old convent. Terhune continues his attentions to Agatha Sixth. Then suddenly he transfers his attentions to Agatha First. Vincent scolds him for his apparent fickleness. The last evening of the time allotted in which to become engaged arrives. The following day Solicitor Burns will arrive from London, and the Vincents are anxious to consummate the engagement. Vincent discovers Agatha First and a man with his arm around her waist. Vincent decides that the man must be Terhune. The next morning Terhune and Agatha First are very friendly at the breakfast table, while Agatha Sixth seems somewhat displeased. Solicitor Burns arrives. The Vincents are anxious. In an interview of Vincent and his wife the latter cries in desperation over the puzzling condition of affairs. Solicitor Burns arrives. The Vincents are anxious. Will Terhune report an affianced or a free man? Terhune tells Lord Vincent that he proposed to Agatha Sixth and that she had refused to marry him. Terhune declares that if he cannot have the woman of his choice that he will sacrifice his aunt's fortune. An automobile arrives.

"So you were the man in the drawing room the other night?" she exclaimed, when he had finished telling her, and she opened her beautiful gray eyes very widely at young Murray.

"By Jove, yes!" I added, "and it wasn't old Terhune, after all!"

"And it wasn't old Terhune, either, who was with Agatha First the day you saw the red automobile in the woods," she said.

"By Jove, no!" I said excitedly. "I knew I'd seen that machine of Brancepeth's before." And as I glanced at it again the whole significance of the mystery we had made in regard to Agatha First and Arch came to me with the force of revelation. I turned to explain it all to Dearest, but, as usual, she was ahead of me.

"It was you all the time!" she said to Murray, but with a smile of such ineffable relief that I wondered, until she turned to Arch and I saw what bearing that fact had on the situation in regard to Agatha Sixth and Terhune's aunt's property.

"I'm so sorry!" she said, holding out her hands to the old boy. "We did you an injustice, Mr. Terhune!" And she told him briefly of the scene she and I and Agatha Sixth had been witness to the other night in the drawing room and our suspicions of him in connection with it.

It took him a moment or two to grasp what she meant, and what her discovery that our suspicions were unjust might mean, and I spoke before he did.

"And now it will be all right, Dearest," I said, "about Agatha Sixth. She will see that she was unjust to Arch and you will tell her, won't you?" And I looked at her eagerly. But to my surprise, just as I thought everything explained, everything arranged and the road clear to a reconciliation and engagement between my friend and my wife's friend, toward the accomplishing of which object we had invited both parties to come to Castle Wyckhoff, Dearest seemed inclined to spoil the whole thing by refusing to act as mediator between the two. And a mediator was necessary, that is if they were to be brought together in time to make the engagement a fact before the fatal hour had arrived, for Miss Lawrence was still locked in the fastness of her room.

"I say!" I implored, seizing Dearest's hand, "don't hesitate now! At such a crisis. Go and tell Agatha Sixth the news and get her to come down before it's too late! By Jove, it is hard on poor old Terhune to lose a fortune because you choose to have whims!" I was so earnest I was almost angry. "One would think a fortune was a matter of no importance to him at all!"

"That's just it!" replied my wife sadly; "it's of too much importance! The only reason that I hesitate to do as you ask is because I've seen all along that the fortune has been the only important thing to you men! What a pity!" And the eyes I love best in the world filled with tears. And it was then that the whole thing came to me and I saw at once what was the other obstacle I had to face in my attempt to obtain a fortune for my friend. Now that Agatha Sixth's mistake in regard to his fondness for Agatha First had been dissipated by Brancepeth's revelations, the only impediment to the satisfactory conclusion of Arch's affair was Dearest's refusal to co-operate with me at this crucial moment because of her belief that Terhune's wish to marry Agatha Sixth was purely a mercenary one. And as I at length comprehended what I might have seen a long time ago if I had only stopped to think, I understood in a second her scornful and almost resentful attitude toward myself on several occasions, for apparently supporting my friend in his meretricious designs. With this new grasp of the situation suddenly given to me, I couldn't begin fast enough to try to make my wife understand what I had so lately learned myself, that Terhune sincerely loved Miss Lawrence. As quickly as I could speak I began to tell her, as proof, of Arch's repudiation of my suggestion in regard to asking Agatha First instead, a moment ago in the hall. I judged, and judged rightly, as events proved, that the recital of this incident from my lips would convince my wife as nothing else could, that I was right in believing that Terhune had come at length to see that love, more than anything else in the world—even fortune—was the only thing worth considering when it came to a question of getting married.

"Don't you see," I ended, "he refused to do as I suggested, refused to go and ask Agatha First, although he believed thoroughly that she would accept him, solely because he was in love with Agatha Sixth, and would rather have had no fortune at all than a fortune with any other girl?" I laid my hand on her arm appealingly. My last trump had been played, but not in vain. Grasping my meaning with lightning-like rapidity, Dearest was on the instant all action. "The time, Wilfred, the time!" she urged, her cheeks aflame, her gray eyes black.

"Six minutes of one," I answered, as she pulled the watch from my hands. "Archibald Terhune! Do you hear that?" she almost shouted to Arch in uncontrollable excitement. "It's six minutes of one! Find Agatha Sixth and ask her to marry you, for heaven's sake!" Then, as Terhune only stood and stared at her with dropped jaw, she stamped her foot vehemently.

"Don't stand and stare like that!" she cried. "Do as I say! Hurry! Run for your life!"

And Arch was gone at the word, though I don't think he had until then any idea that there was still time to retrieve the day and a fortune.

To do him justice, I don't think he had any other thought subsequent to Brancepeth's story and the revelations that followed in regard to Agatha Sixth's reason for refusing him, than that she was more likely to change her mind and marry him after all, since her suspicions had proved unfounded. And this thought, to give him all his due, had been sufficient to make him happy without any thought of his aunt's property. In fact, I think he had forgotten the latter in the first bliss of the moment, but when Dearest raised her warning and inspiring cry he had realized that after all a fortune like that his aunt's property represented was quite well worth the having. I'm not attempting to deny, you see, that there was enough of his old self left, in spite of the changes love had brought about, not to make him rather certain, now that Dearest had reminded him of it, that Aunt Georgy's Australian farm would not make half a bad sort of wedding present. At least I noticed that he lost no time in obeying her mandate, for no sooner were the words out of her mouth than Terhune was in full cry for the staircase, with Dearest and myself hard after him, while a couple of fox terriers that had sprung from dear knows where added to the confusion by yapping at our heels and otherwise impeding our progress, in a praiseworthy attempt to be in at the death. And even as I tripped and stumbled over them and laughed and whooped with Dearest, I heard that chump of a Brancepeth out on the stoop shrieking, "Gone away! Gone away!" as if he were possessed. It is no wonder, then, having admitted the childish state of excitement in which Terhune's last throw for a fortune against time had thrown us, that in the confusion we all three succeeded in running into Agatha First, as she came round the corner of the hall on her way, I suppose, to find out what all the noise was about. Dearest stopped a moment to explain things to her and I could see over my shoulder, even as I hurried after Arch, that the two had given each other a swift embrace before Agatha First hurried on to meet her lover.

We had just reached the staircase, however, when Dearest overtook us.

"What are you going to do?" she asked Arch, who was just about to ascend.

"Go up and find Miss Lawrence," replied the distracted lover, "as quick as I can."

But Dearest glided past me and stood in front of him on the stairs, barring the way.

"Wait!" she commanded. "She's in her room, you can't do that! You can't go and scream the good news through her door very well. It wouldn't do at all! You must have more regard for the appearance of the thing!"

"But, good heavens!" cried poor Terhune, "this is no time to think of appearances—it's three minutes of one!"

But my darling paid no attention to him. "Hold him, Wilfred," she ordered me, and as I sprang to obey was gone in the shadow of the hall above.

Two and a half minutes later, and not a second after, she appeared, leading Agatha Sixth by the hand, though it is true the latter looked weepy-eyed, to say the least, and gave every appearance of reluctance.

This vanished, however, at sight of Terhune, red-faced and somewhat warm from his vain efforts to free himself from my embrace, and she flew down the stairs to meet him and by sheer force of arms, not to be factitious, compelled me to relinquish my position in her favor. Something I was jolly well pleased to do, by the way. Arch is a hard man to hold when he's rilled, and that two and a half minutes of suspense had made me his debtor for a couple of knocks and one well-kicked shin.

But just how the miracle of Agatha Sixth's change of heart had been accomplished, or in what manner Dearest had so presented her case as to achieve such speedy results, I am not prepared to state. I only know that it was nothing more than I had expected of the cleverness of my wife, and as for Terhune, I think he was too happy to know or care.

CHAPTER XIII.

As for the rest of us, including Solicitor Barnes, who had been rescued from the library by some maid or footman, we repaired immediately to the dining room, where the wedding luncheon, of Dearest's creation, awaited us, and had all taken our places before the big clock on the mantel quite ceased booming the hour. Of course the bridal nature of the table decorations made a hit—as my Americanized wife persists in saying—with those two ardent lovers, Brancepeth and Agatha First, and they admired and exclaimed quite as if the whole thing were gotten up for their especial benefit. And it was during this meal that we gathered fuller details of the trials and tribulations that had beset the path of this now happy pair, which explained and accounted for many hitherto unaccountable happenings of our own experience.

Among other things it appeared that Brancepeth was, of course, the owner of the checked coat I had seen in the automobile in the woods, and that the coat we had found in Terhune's closet later had only borne a resemblance to it. The young man had run down from his uncle's place in his machine that day, he told us, to meet Agatha First in the woods, by prearrangement with her, which, of course, explained the business of her assumed headache and refusal to go to Northbury with us.

They had been obliged to keep their attachment a secret evidently enough, on account of Brancepeth's uncle's determination to marry him to Miss Simplin. But when we protested against their having left us out of their confidence, Brancepeth explained they had thought it best because they feared that Cecil Chiltern, who, it seemed, was a great friend and political ally of his despotic uncle, would find out from us, probably through my wife's friendship for his wife, about Brancepeth's engagement to Agatha First, in which event Brancepeth felt convinced Chiltern would feel it his duty to inform said despotic uncle, "Thereby," as the young man himself put it, "raising the deuce of a row for nothing, don't you know?"

Carriage Makes for Beauty.

A graceful, dignified carriage undoubtedly sets off beautiful clothes. There is little use in having them if we cannot set them off in that way. But the old clothes, the simple, plain, everyday clothes—why not give them that same benefit? Better the simplest clothes with a fine carriage than the most elaborate clothes with an awkward carriage. One forgets that the clothes are plain if the figure inside them is carried with grace, dignity and poise. One can even forget a figure that is far from perfect in proportion and a face that has no claim to beauty. To carry oneself well morning, noon and night, indoors and outdoors, is to make the most of all the beauty one possesses, to make others forget the beauty that does not exist, and to make the best impression possible everywhere. That is surely worth while.

Your Thoughts.

Don't go to sleep with a frown on your brow. A drawn-down mouth and screwed-up eyes help to bring wrinkles. But really one needs to think pleasant thoughts in the daytime, too. Pleasant thoughts bring a serene expression to the face, which, as the years go on, becomes permanent. The people you meet who have pleasant faces are the ones who have never allowed hard or unkind or discontented thoughts to find a resting place in their minds, and there is urgent necessity for cultivating serenity to fall asleep with.

Too Valuable.

"What you want to do is to have that mudhole in the road fixed," said the visitor.

"That goes to show," replied Farmer Cornstossel, "how little you reformers understand local conditions. I've putty nigh paid off a mortgage with the money I made haulin' automobiles out o' that mudhole."

Out of Place.

"Everything a woman has she puts on her back."
"Then my wife will look funny wearing that new breastpin I gave her yesterday."

Assistance Refused.

Doc—Well, you'll certainly find it a safeguard to boil the water.
Blinks—Dern the water! Let it boil itself!

RED CROSS SEAL IN HISTORY

First Used During the American Civil War—Now an Aid in Fighting Tuberculosis.

Red Cross Christmas seals date back in their origin to "charity stamps," first used for the soldiers' relief funds in Boston in 1862, during the Civil War. After the war, this method of raising money was discontinued in this country for a generation, although it found vogue in Portugal, Switzerland, Australia, France, Spain, Denmark, Norway, Russia, Sweden and other European countries. There are now several hundred different types of charity stamps used in all parts of the world.

Stamps or seals were first used to get money for the anti-tuberculosis crusade in Norway and Sweden in 1904. After being used in these countries for three years, as a direct result of the interest of Jacob Rills in Tuberculosis association, headed by this movement, the Delaware Anti-Miss Emily P. Bissell, and the Red Cross society of Delaware combined in issuing a tuberculosis stamp. So successful was this campaign that nearly $3,000 was realized, and the next year, in 1908, the American Red Cross was induced to issue a national Red Cross tuberculosis stamp. From this sale, $135,000 was realized, that amount being almost doubled in 1909. This year, for the first time, the sale is organized on a comprehensive basis, taking in all parts of the United States. A million for tuberculosis work is confidently expected.

Saw Only Physical Idea.

One of his friends once asked Mr. Darwin's gardener about his master's health, and how he had been lately. "Oh!" he said, "my poor master has been very sadly. I often wish he had something to do. He moons about in the garden, and I have seen him stand doing nothing before a flower for ten minutes at a time. If he only had something to do I really believe he would be better."

Discouraging.

"George," said her husband's wife, "I don't believe you have smoked one of those cigars I gave you on your birthday."
"That's right, my dear," replied his wife's husband. "I'm going to keep them until our Willie wants to learn to smoke."

THEY GROW Good Humor and Cheerfulness From Right Food and Drink.

Anything that interferes with good health is apt to keep cheerfulness and good humor in the background. A Washington lady found that letting coffee alone made things bright for her. She writes:

"Four years ago I was practically given up by my doctor and was not expected to live long. My nervous system was in a bad condition.

"But I was young and did not want to die so I began to look about for the cause of my chronic trouble. I used to have nervous spells which would exhaust me and after each spell it would take me days before I could sit up in a chair.

"I became convinced my trouble was caused by coffee. I decided to stop it and bought some Postum.

"The first cup, which I made according to directions, had a soothing effect on my nerves and I liked the taste. For a time I nearly lived on Postum and ate little food besides. I am today a healthy woman.

"My family and relatives wonder if I am the same person I was four years ago, when I could do no work on account of nervousness. Now I am doing my own housework, take care of two babies—one twenty the other two months old. I am so busy that I hardly get time to write a letter, yet I do it all with the cheerfulness and good humor that comes from enjoying good health.

"I tell my friends it is to Postum I owe my life today."

Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

During This Meal We Gathered Further Details.

After The Grippe

"I am much pleased, to be able to write and thank you for what Cardui has done for me," writes Mrs. Sarah J. Gilliland, of Siler City, N. C.

"Last February, I had the Grippe, which left me in bad shape. Before that, I had been bothered with female trouble, for ten years, and nothing seemed to cure it.

"At last, I began to take Cardui. I have taken only three bottles, but it has done me more good than all the doctors or than any other medicine I ever took."

Take CARDUI

J 42
