LAND TRANSFERS REFORM.

The Austrian System and the Great Advantages That Would Result From its Adoption in the United States.

From The Boston Transcript.

The marked success which has attended the adoption in this commonwealth of the Australian ballot act should call the attention of all owners of real estate to the great advantages to be derived from the adoption also of the Australian real property act.

The present registry system in Massachusetts is exceedingly defective, and is open to many obvious objections. The vast increase in the bulk of the records in the various registries of deeds is already a matter of serious concern. The number of volumes in Suffolk county alone has thrice doubled within the memory of men now living. In the three counties of Suffolk, Norfolk and Middlesex, there are now more than 4,500 volumes on the shelves, and to this great number additions are continually being made. Where will it all end? A system so cumbersome and unwieldy must of course necessitate long and exhaustive searches of a mass of records, which are constantly becoming more and more enormous, the tedious preparation of abstracts, disputes over titles, difficulties, delays, expense, examinations, and re-examinations without end. Of this system of registration of deeds Lord Cairns says: "It only puts on a formal record all that multitude of deeds and conveyances of the extent and complexity of which we have already so much reason to complain." Moreover, so far from affording security against fraud, it actually opens the door to new and distinct species of fraud.

The Australian system, on the contrary, is not a registration of deeds, but a registration of titles. It avoids, as its originator, the late Sir Robert R. Torrens truly says, "the accumulation of instruments with voluminous indexes, the fatal objection to other systems." An Australian can, if he chooses, continue to convey his land by deed. He has the option. But it is for his interest to adopt the new method. The process is a very simple one. The land owner who wishes to take advantage of the act—and it may be repeated that it is entirely optional with him—makes application to the registrar general and proves his title just as he would prove in a court of law. If his title is satisfactory, there is issued to him a certificate setting forth the fact he is seized in fee of that parcel of land. From this time on that parcel cannot be conveyed by deed. It is "under the act" as it is called. This certificate is conclusive evidence of title in any court of law. It is like a final decree. It is not only a certificate of title, but a government warranty of title. A large assurance fund invested in government bonds has accumulated by the small fees paid in each case by the applicant. When the owner wishes to sell the land he returns his certificate to the registrar general, who issues another to the purchaser. As for mortgages; it is not uncommon for the owner to place a mortgage on a valuable estate in the space of an hour, at the cost of a few shillings. In this way real property passes from hand to hand just as readily as personal property. It is like the transfer of stock in a corporation, and presents no difficulty whatever. The expense is trifling. In fact, as its originator says, "There is no legitimate object which the land owner can accomplish under the existing law, which may not be accomplished more readily, more safely, and at infinitely less expense under the (Australian) system," and "by registration of titles security has been established for insecurity, simplicity for complexity, and cost has been reduced from pounds to shillings."

Nor is it, by any means, a new and untried system. It was first introduced into the colony of South Australia thirty-two years ago, and into the colony of New South Wales twenty-eight years ago. A whole generation of men have grown up under it. It has been fully tested by long experience and has given general satisfaction. So much so, that no fewer than eight British colonies have adopted it. Nor is it confined to the southern hemisphere alone. It has already gained a foothold on this continent. With this system in full and successful operation in British Columbia, how long will it be before our western states become alive to the advantages to be derived from it? But it ought not to be left to the west to begin the work of reform. Inasmuch as Massachusetts was the pioneer in introducing the Australian ballot act, now being rapidly adopted by so many of the states of the union, so she ought to lead the way in the adoption of the Australian real property act. In these days of progress, this age of steam and electricity, when merchants do business by telegraph and telephone, it is an anachronism to find the real estate business—one of the most important of all—carried on in the antiquated fashion that might have sufficed in the days of our great-grand-fathers, but which is sadly out of date to-day. When real estate operators, capitalists, savings banks, holders of trust funds, property owners large and small, buyers and sellers, mortgagors and mortgagees, awake to the fact that other communities are far in advance of us in this respect, they will never rest until this great interest is put on a wholly different basis. This proposed system will do away entirely with such makeshifts as title insurance companies, for no one who has a government guaranty could desire any other. The delays and expense which attend the present method will be heard of no more. There is no good reason why we should not enjoy, in common with other branches of the great English speaking race, all the advantages conferred by this improved system.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SOMETHING LIKE A GOLD MINE.

From Official Report of C. W. Griffin, American Consul at Sydney, N. S. W., Australia.

One of the most interesting facts in connection with gold in Australia, and one that reads more like romance than history, is the marvelous development of the Mount Morgan gold mine, near Rockhampton, in Queensland. There has been nothing like it in Australia, or, indeed, in the world, and it is believed to pay larger profits than any other investment in the range of commerce. During the past year the directors report that dividends have been paid to the amount $5,353,150 while the dividends during the two previous years, 1887-'88, were $3,284,888. The capital represented in the mine is $4,866,500, and the mine, machinery, and plant are valued at the enormous sum of $72,997,500. Chlorination and other works are said to have cost $4,866,500. In view of the exhaustion of the local supply of fire-wood in the near future, 1,000 tons per week being required at present, the company have under consideration the construction of 15 miles of railroad to connect the mine with the seaboard. Yet, strange to relate, the Mount Morgan mine was bought a few years ago for less than $3,115 and the original owner did not get anything from it. The mountain is about 3,500 feet above the level of the sea, and from its base to its summit is perhaps 700. During the year ending November 30, 1889, 75,415 tons of raw stone returned 323,522 ounces of gold, equal to 4 ounces 6 pennyweights 4 grains per ton for the total stone raised. The general manager lately reports that after driving 200 feet through the mountain, the "Lady Musgrave" lode was struck. This body of stone is said to be 84 feet wide, with a back of 47 feet. It carries an average of 5 ounces of gold to the ton and opens out a new feature in Mountain Morgan.

Colorado Silver Mines.

The unsettled condition of the silver markets is causing serious trouble among Colorado smelters and those mines producing low grade ores, and unless something is speedily done by Congress, hundreds of low grade mines in the state will be compelled to close down. When the price of silver went up under the present silver bill the low grade producers sent thousands of tons of ore to the smelters, which was purchased at the advanced price. The smelters are now loaded down with low grade ore which cannot profitably be treated at the present price of silver. They figure their losses since the decline at ten cents per ounce on $4,500,000 worth of mineral. Hundreds of mines in the west are expecting to shut down.

Comment.

For utter disregard to the expressed wishes of the people the republican politicians of Santa Fe are entitled to receive the highest award, in the matter of the recent election held in that county. The board of county commissioners met as prescribed by law to canvass the vote. It appeared to them that the democratic candidates to the legislature were elected, whereupon they were promptly served with an injunction from the Republican judge of that district restraining them from issuing certificates of election to the Democratic candidates, and a writ of mandamus commanding them to count certain irregular returns which would elect the Republican candidates. This the commissioners refused to do, and the judge put them in jail. They were released under the habeas corpus act by three justices. The judge commanded the sheriff to rearrest them, but only one could be found. Acting Governor B. M. Thomas then appointed two of the old county commissioners in place of the absent ones, and the judge issued an order commanding the new board to meet at once and count the votes and issue election certificates, as directed by the court. The two illegal commissioners met and carried out the programme, as directed by the bold bosses. This, in brief, the history of the Santa Fe county political muddle.

Washington, Dec. 12.—The reapportionment bill based on the representation of 356 members of the house of representatives as originally proposed by Mr. Frank of Missouri, was favorably acted on by the house committee on census and it will be reported to the house to-day or to-morrow by Chairman Dunnell.

LITERARY NOTE.

In the New York Ledger of November 29, Robert Grant begins a brilliant and entertaining social satire under the title of "Mrs. Harold Stagg." The story is told with amusing and quiet cleverness which has made the author's reputation, and contains many striking ideas which will cause society's backbone to creep. Like "The Anglomaniacs," it places its heroine under a cross-fire from a wealthy swell and talented youth to fame and fortune unknown—a situation which allows Mr. Grant a coveted opportunity to bombard New York society.

[Washington Cor. in St. Louis Republic.]

A Washington evening paper not remarkable for much character or reputation published a sensational article a few days ago, the tenor of which was that Senator Vest of Missouri had a letter from ex-President Cleveland announcing that the ex-President had changed his views upon the silver question and had become an outspoken advocate of free coinage. The story went on to say that in one of the Senate cloak rooms a discussion occurred between a number of senators regarding Mr. Cleveland's position on the silver question, and that Senator Vest declared that he had a letter from ex-President declaring his adherence to the free coinage idea. There is nothing in the statement. Senator Vest has no letter from the ex-President on the silver question, nor did such a conversation ever occur between the Missouri Senator and other Senators in the Cloak room of the Senate or elsewhere such as was set forth by the Washington paper. Senator Vest is convinced, however, from a conversation he had with the ex-President that Mr. Cleveland has changed his views very materially on the silver question.

The conversation between Senator Vest and Mr. Cleveland, which convinced the Missouri Senator that the ex-President had changed his views, occurred while Cleveland was yet President. It came about this way: While Secretary Manning was still to all intents and purposes the head of the Treasury Department a communication was sent to Congress on the coinage question signed by Mr. Manning, in which very strong grounds were taken against free coinage of silver. This was about the third year of Mr. Cleveland's administration. The day following the receipt of this document in Congress, Senator Vest had occasion to go to the White House. He found President Cleveland in a towering rage, and the President asked him if he had seen the communication signed by Manning on the coinage question sent to Congress. The Missouri Senator answered in the affirmative. Mr. Cleveland then said that was a terrible outrage, that Manning was sick, was not himself, that he was suffering from brain fever and not responsible for the document sent to Congress to which his name was attached. The President further said that Manton Marble, at one time the editor of the New York World and known to be a very warm friend of Mr. Manning, had come on from New York, taken advantage of Mr. Manning's illness, prepared the anti-free coinage document sent to Congress, induced Manning to sign his name to it without investigation, and sent it to Congress without showing it to the President or to any member of the Cabinet, "and" continued Mr. Cleveland, "I am totally opposed to the views expressed in that document, and so is a majority of the Cabinet.

Mr. Cleveland went on to explain that Marble had taken a mean advantage of Mr. Manning's illness and temporary irresponsibility and fired off to Congress a document for which the administration was in a measure held responsible without letting a single member of the administration from the President down see it in advance. In further conversation with Senator Vest, Mr. Cleveland said that when he assumed the presidency he had very decided views against the free coinage of silver, but intimated that he had since changed his mind very materially, and left the impression on the mind of Senator Vest that he was then ready to approve in fact, as the chief executive of the country, a free coinage bill if passed by Congress. At the same time Mr. Cleveland intimated that he did not think it would be good politics to make an issue of the coinage question, as there was what he thought a serious division of sentiment on the question between democrats of the Eastern and Western states, and he did not think it would be prudent to push the question to the front under such circumstances. He left no doubt in the mind of the Missouri Senator, however, that personally he had become a convert to the free coinage idea, and that a free coinage bill, if passed by Congress, would meet with his approval.

This is the true story of Vest and Cleveland's conversation on the silver question, and it will be seen that it differs materially from that published a few evenings ago by the Washington paper and subsequently reproduced in more important journals throughout the United States. At that time Bayard, Endicott and Manning were opposed to free coinage and Mr. Cleveland and all the other members of his Cabinet were in favor of free coinage. It was the surreptitious sending of this document to Congress which caused the dispute between Manning and Cleveland which resulted in the withdrawal of Manning from the Cabinet when he recovered from his illness,

They are having a lot of fun at Santa Fe arresting democratic commissioners. They took in two of Santa Fe—now they are after two more of Taos county. We recollect when they went for all three commissioners in Lincoln county, and alike in all cases, wind and intimidation. Democrats do not scare worth a cent this year. The next job of arrest they undertake will be to arrest the legislature if it goes the off side. Shackles and cold tea are awaiting those who do not do the correct thing by Catron, Frost, et al.

A GOOD SIGN,

It is gratifying to see in a Republican paper, paragraphs like the following from the Las Vegas Optic:

Postmaster-General Wanamaker is entirely too paternal in his ideas of the functions of government. He wants the government to do the telegraph business and the savings bank business of the country. Then the railroading, tailoring, baking and all other lines of business would follow.

The tendency to paternalism—the concentration of all power in the General Government, to the consequent and corresponding deprivation of the people of the right of local self-government, or Home Rule—has in the last few years become a distinctive feature of Republican administration, and it is a cheering sign to see occasionally a note of warning like the above from distinctly Republican newspapers like the Optic.—Headlight.

Acting Governor Thomas appointed two county commissioners who should find a majority of one for Reed over Charley Easley, for representative. Of course as soon as appointed they were sworn to do their duty—That was count in republicans.

Can it be possible that Governor Prince departed for New York and remained away on purpose to avoid doing any dirty work for his party. Democrat.

Speaker Reed, the patron of the Force Bill, accuses the Farmers' Alliance of "Impertinence" in its resolution denouncing that bill, while Lodge, its author, says the farmers are "ignorant and don't know what they are doing." The trouble with Reed and Lodge, and all of that ilk, is that they have a very exaggerated opinion of their own "statesmanship," and too little of that of the people, who constitute the court of last resort in legislation and public affairs—the breath of whose mouth makes and unmakes "statesmen" of the Reed and Lodge calibre. They are born aristocrats, who have no faith in popular government as organized in the American constitution.—Headlight.

Overcoats and Cloaks, in large variety, at G. Z. & Co's.

By aside from pensions a grand raid on the treasury is imminent. Steamship subsidies are to be provided as they find both administrative and legislative support, and schemes without number are coming in with the tide. This is the last chance for a republican whack at the treasury so rest assured it will be hit hard this winter.

The situation in Illinois on the Senatorial question is indeed very encouraging to Hon. John M. Palmer. The legislature of the state on a joint ballot stands 100 republicans, 101 democrats and three farmers' alliance. Two of the latter have signified their intention of voting for Palmer. This will make him senator.

The coming legislature should pass a law giving the voter a secret ballot. The Australian System or something like it is demanded and we believe it will be enacted; however, nothing like a secret ballot can be expected if Catron and his pals steal seats in the legislature as they are trying to do.

The present attempt to defeat the wishes of the people of Santa Fe county by Tom Catron and his partners in crime is without a parallel in political history. If Catron wins this time there is no crime that a republican and member of the Santa Fe Ring cannot do under a republican administration.—Springer Banner.

A bill has been introduced in the House at the request of Secretary Noble, reducing the attorneys' fees for obtaining an increase of pension from $10 to $1, and the army of pension attorneys are in arms to defeat the bill.

The free coinage men are certainly making themselves heard in Congress, if they don't do anything else; but it is confidently believed that a bill embodying that idea will be passed during the present session, even if it does meet with a veto at the White House.

The first bill to be reported this session is the pension appropriation bill, which Representative Morrow yesterday presented to the House. The bill, which was referred to the Committee of the whole, carries an appropriation of $135,099,885. The details have been previously published. When this bill is taken up for consideration, a lively debate is expected. The republicans will probably make the statement that no more general pension bills will be passed this session, the sentiment of the pension committee being against such legislation. A strong fight will be made to secure the enactment of the prisoners-of-war bill, but even the majority is not a unit on the advisability of this action.

All of the contracting parties are well known at White Oaks—their many friends join with us in our congratulations.

The office of County School Superintendent, we learn from reliable sources, that Mr. Corbet, the gentleman elected has left the county and will resign. It will devolve upon the Commissioners at their January meeting to make an appointment to fill the vacancy. The present superintendent, J. K. Byers is in the field for the position and a petition is being circulated asking for the gentleman's appointment. Mr. Byers has made a good officer and has many friends hereabouts. T. B. McCourt has been solicited by his friends to seek the position and notwithstanding the early appearance of the Byers petition has allowed his name to be used. Without undue haste, both petitions will be presented now that it is positively known Corbet will resign.

A few days since, Las Vegas gentlemen extended an invitation to White Oaks to send a delegation to Denver on the 15th, in company with delegates from El Paso and Las Vegas. The notice or request came to hand too late to execute, hence the absence of White Oaks. The El Paso and Las Vegas people sent a strong delegation who have set in motion the new R. R. enterprise from Colorado to El Paso via White Oaks. The people here are anxious and will render all possible aid to further the good work. Keep the ball rolling.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

MASONIC BALL AND SUPPER,
At Athletic Hall.

Do not forget the Grand Dance and Supper of the Masons on Christmas night. Preparations are made on an extensive scale to have a big time. Good music and plenty to eat is the order of the program.—All are invited. Admission to ball and supper $2.50 a couple, for supper only, $1.50.

Many a tear was shed in town on Wednesday morning. Dogs without number were poisoned, and as usual in such cases, the good dog suffered with the cur. "Old Cap," Dr. Lane's big newfoundland. Butcher Treat's dog and two or three others are dead. Now that the majority of good dogs have met their fate, the numerous curs will absent themselves for a few days, until the desired slaughter is at an end.

Many years practice has given Messrs. C. A. Snow & Co., Patent solicitors, opp. U. S. Patent office, Washington, D. C., unsurpassed facilities for obtaining patents. They give the same courteous attention to a request for information from a stranger that they do to their client's business, which accounts for much of their success.

As the year 1889 is nearing its close, we hereby respectfully remind subscribers and others who are in arrears to the INTERPRETER, that they would confer a favor by calling and settling, or remitting their arrearages before the close of the year. We wish to commence the new year with books as nearly balanced as possible.

The inspection of mining properties by experts which is now of daily occurrence is the result of confidence in the late discoveries. Be on the lookout for some big transactions now in progress. Were we permitted, would like to announce what is in store for White Oaks. But wait and see what you will see, is all we can say at present.

With all the mines under full headway and the mills running, new, permanent, rich discoveries, White Oaks is wearing a happy smile, and in a short time the South Homestake mill and mines will be on deck. The persevering people and those who have unbounded faith in the outcome are meeting with a well deserved reward.

The following additional particulars of the Cavanaugh-Gehrken shooting we clip from the Socorro Advertiser:

Tuesday evening a telegram was received at the sheriff's office announcing the probable fatal shooting of Jos. Gehrken by one Dick Cavanaugh that morning at the Mountain station ranch, on the Carthage and White Oaks stage road, and asking that an officer be sent to the scene.

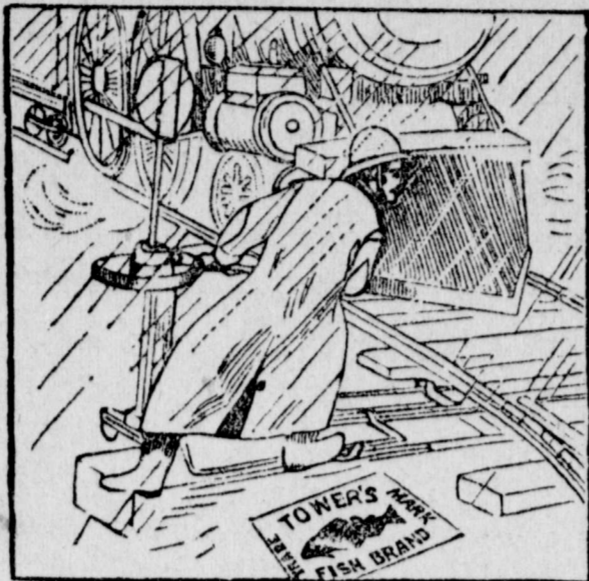

Deputy Sheriff Fischer immediately departed for the scene of the shooting, returning Thursday with his prisoner. From him we learn that Gehrken was still living when he left for Socorro, but with no chance of recovery, as brain fever had set in. The stories told Mr. Fischer by the two men differ materially, although bearing some resemblance.

Gehrken's side of the affair is that he left Cavanaugh in charge of the station while he went into Carthage on business. When he returned he found Cavanaugh in his bed, drunk, with several beer glasses full of whiskey within easy reach. It made him angry. He told Cavanaugh that business had to stop and that he wanted him to get out of his bed. Cavanaugh got up suddenly, and catching up a pistol belonging to Gehrken that was lying near, said: "you Dutch _____, I'll just kill you," or words to that effect, and started toward him. Gehrken ran outside, followed by Cavanaugh, picking up a spade as he ran and turning struck Cavanaugh across the arm, breaking it and knocking the pistol from his grasp. Then they fixed up their trouble and went into the house together. After talking a few minutes Cavanaugh again caught up the pistol and shot Gehrken in the right side of the head above the ear.

Cavanaugh's story is in effect that he was left in charge of the ranch while Gehrken was absent in Carthage on business. They had trouble when he returned, Gehrken striking him with a spade breaking his arm. They then made it up and going into the house sat down at the table. After talking for a few minutes Gehrken got up and started for an axe that was standing in one corner of the room, when he caught up the pistol and shot him. He made no resistance when arrested, but stated that he was coming in to give himself up to the officer had he not come after him.

The wounded man was attended by the company physician from Carthage and received all the care and attention possible under the circumstances. No later news has been received in regard to the condition of the wounded man, but it is not thought that he can be alive.

Throwing a Switch

is tough work in stormy weather, and the switchman cannot be too well protected if he wishes to preserve his health. Every railroad man's life is full of hardship and exposure. The only garment that will fully protect the man whose business calls him out in stormy weather is the "Fish Brand Slicker." They are light, but strong as iron, hand-made throughout, and good for years of service. They are worth ten times their cost, and will save you many a sickness. No other article of clothing will stand the wear and tear. Rubber is frail, will rip, tear, and let in the wet. Therefore get the right sort of coat. The "Fish Brand Slicker" is the only one for your purpose. Beware of worthless imitations, every garment stamped with the "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. Particulars and illustrated catalogue free.

Mr. Lee. "Why, Addie, you needn't cry about it! I only said Mrs. Allen was a very well-informed woman, and I wished you would follow her example."

Mrs. Lee. "Yes, and last week you said you wished I could manage to look as stylish as Mrs. Allen, and she makes all her own clothes. But she has what I haven't."

Mr. Lee. "What is that?"

Mrs. Lee. "Well, she gets all of her information from the Magazine they take. I admit that she knows all that is going on, and is bright and entertaining in conversation; but I could do as well as she does if I had the same source of information. She lent me the last number of her Magazine lately, and I learned more in one hour's reading, about various social matters and the topics of the day, than I would pick up in a month by my occasional chats with friends. It certainly covers every topic of interest, from the news of the day down to the details of housekeeping; and everything is so beautifully illustrated, too. Every time Mamma goes over to the Allens' she comes back and teases me to get you to take Demorest's Family Magazine, as the stories are so good. Even the boys watch for it every month, as a place is found for them also in its pages; and Mr. Allen swears by it. It is really wonderful how it suits every member of the family!"

Mr. Lee. "Well, perhaps I had better send for a Specimen Copy; for, if it is anything like what you say it is, it will amuse and instruct the whole of us."

Mrs. Lee. "I see that W. Jeanings Demorest, the publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York, is offering to send a Specimen Copy for 10 cents, so we can't lose anything, as each number contains a 'Pattern Order' entitling the holder to any Pattern she may choose, and in any size—which alone makes each copy worth 30 cents; and I just want a jacket pattern like Mrs. Allen's. The subscription price is only $2.00 a year; and I must say I can't see how they can publish so elegant a Magazine for so little money."

A State to be Run on Business Principles—Offices to be abolished.

A movement is in progress among the members-elect of the South Dakota legislature, looking to the abolishment of many of the state offices in the interests of economy.

Independents and Democrats will control the state legislature and they propose to abolish the office of commissioner of immigration, railroad commissioners, state veterinary surgeon, and to cut off the militia appropriation and to reduce the legislative expenses from $125,000 to $75,000 for the session.

An effort will also be made to reduce the representation to about 100 members. The legislature now contains 165 members, a greater number than many of the wealthy states possesses.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies, Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

In 1863 a Cancer developed on my lower lip. I went under treatment at once, and from time to time since that have had medical aid in New Orleans, Boston and New York, with no benefit at all. It has progressed right along, and involves my jaw and cheek. One thousand dollars would not cover the loss sustained through the medical and surgical aid I have received. I have certainly tried everything and was benefitted by nothing until I took S. S. S. It has done me more good than all else put together, and I believe I will soon be sound and well. Swift's Specific is certainly a great boon to humanity.

DISGUSTED WITH A DOCTOR.

I contracted a severe case of Blood poisoning in 1883, and my physicians put me under mercurial treatment of three months without doing me any good, in fact I was gradually growing worse. I then consulted another physician, who tried me with potash and sarsaparilla but with no better result. I then became disgusted with doctors and their remedies, and commenced taking Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) After taking seven bottles I was entirely cured, and I have not had any symptoms of a return since. I have recommended S. S. S. to others, who have used it with the same good results.
