Local Team Defeats Voca 10 to 6 Tuesday Afternoon

To the tune of 10 to 6, a team composed of local players took the Voca team into camp at the cotton yard grounds Tuesday afternoon in a loosely played exhibition of the national pastime.

The game was devoid of features.

Batteries: Brady—Lynch, Chapman, Tipton and Winfrey, Von Rosenberg and Chapman;

Voca—Harris and Spiller. Umpire, Ogden.
A fairly good crowd attended the game.

Just received, a car of Disc Plows; get our prices and terms. E. J. Broad.

BARN BURNED.

Building Struck by Lightning Last Friday Afternoon

A barn at the old C. D. Allen home place in the southern part of the city was struck by lightning last Friday afternoon during a heavy shower and the building and contents were almost totally destroyed.

A quantity of household goods, together with about five tons of hay, were stored in the building at the time, and although the hay was a total loss, practically all of the other contents were saved.

The barn was the property of Mr. Allen and was valued at $500.00. The hay belonged to the Texas Co., and the loss on this is estimated at $50. No insurance was carried on either the building or contents.

Mr. Allen considers himself extremely fortunate in getting his car out of the burning building. Dr. B. L. Craddock rolling it out before others reached the scene. This is the second fire from which the car has been saved, it having been stored in the Brady Auto Co.'s garage on the night their building burned, and Mr. Allen is afraid the next blaze will get it.

Better see Brady Land Co. about that fire insurance policy today.

Father Very Ill.

A telephone message to J. C. Woodward here yesterday advised him of the serious illness of his father, H. Woodward, of Lung Mountain, in Mason county. Little hope is entertained for his recovery, owing to his advanced age, and the fact that he has suffered for the past year or more from Bright's disease. Mr. Woodward is 78 years of age, and is one of the pioneer settlers of Mason county.

Mr. Woodward left yesterday afternoon to attend the bedside.

E. H. ALLCORN DEAD

Succumbs to Attack of Heart Failure Yesterday Morning.

E. H. Allcorn, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of the county, died yesterday morning about 1:00 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. B. Ramsey, in this city, death being superinduced by an attack of heart failure.

Mr. Allcorn has been a resident of the county for many years, residing in the Nine community until a few months ago, when, on account of feeble health he and his aged wife decided to come to Brady and have since made their home with Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay.

Deceased was a veteran of the civil war, serving throughout the conflict with a regiment of Texas cavalry. He enjoyed the distinction of having lived under three flags in Texas, and delighted in relating the many thrilling experiences through which he passed in the early days of Texas history. He possessed a large and interesting collection of relics, and only a few months ago, brought a number of these to The Standard office and exhibited them to the editor and related many interesting incidents connected with their history.

Mr. Allcorn is survived by his wife, one son, W. R. Allcorn of Christine, Texas, and three daughters—Mesdames J. W. Wilder of Nine, E. B. Ramsey of this city, and Ell Scruggs of Willfamson county, all of whom were here when death came.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay, followed by interment in the city cemetery.

Mrs. Mathis Dead

Mrs. W. S. Mathis died at her home in the eastern part of the city Monday afternoon, about 2:00 o'clock, following a long illness.

She is survived by her husband and several children, all of whom are grown.

Funeral services and interment were held at the city cemetery Tuesday afternoon.

HELPLESS AS BABY

Down in Mind Unable to Work, and What Helped Her.
Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Belle Emey, of this place, says: "I suffered for 15 years with an awful pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctored lots for it, but without success. I suffered so very much, that I became down in mind, and as helpless as a baby. I was in the worst kind of shape. Was unable to do any work. I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 bottles, my health was completely restored. I am now 48 years years old, but feel as good as I did when only 16. Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak in its favor. I wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them."
If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. It has been helping weak women for more than 50 years, and will help you, too.

IMPORTANCE OF HEALTHY KIDNEYS.

Brady Readers Should Learn to Keep the Kidneys Well.

The kidneys have a big work to do. All the blood in the body is coursing through the kidneys constantly to be freed of poisonous matter. It is a heavy enough task when the kidneys are well, but a cold, chill, fever or some thoughtless exposure is likely to irritate, inflame and congest the kidneys and interrupt the purifying work.

Then the aching frequently begins, and is often accompanied by some irregularity of the urine—too frequent passages, sediment or retention. Thousands testify to the wonderful merit of Doan's Kidney Pills, a remedy for kidneys only, that has been used in kidney troubles 50 years. You will make no mistake in following this advice. It comes from a resident of this locality.

R. D. Johnson, Coleman, Texas, says: "Some years ago I began to have pains across my back. Nothing seemed to bring me any great benefit until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. I continued taking them and was cured. I have since enjoyed good health. I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to my friends." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Johnson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Preparing for Visitors

The city and county of Los Angeles are getting ready for 1915 Panama Expositions by arranging to spend a million dollars for beautifying private grounds, school grounds and public highways.

Outside the city, alongside the cement and asphalt "good roads," more than a hundred miles of rose borders will be planted. These climbing bush roses, in all colors of the rainbow, will be supported by iron trellises, and will be specially cared for. In the San Fernando Valley there are twenty-five additional miles of roses already planted.

The school children will compete for $25,000 worth of prizes for the best floral effects along ordinary country roads and on the school grounds. A similar system of prizes will be offered within the city itself. Owners of private homes will have a chance to compete for tempting bonuses.

It purifies the system, stimulates the vital organs and puts the body in fine vigorous condition. Price 50c. Sold by all druggists.

Rural Free Delivery.

Editor Brady Standard: Through the columns of The Standard I would like to call the attention of our people to what I consider a very important subject, that of rural free delivery routes.

I consider the rural free delivery of mail as one of the most important factors of development of the rural or farm life of our country, yet, at the same time, it is a matter, the importance of which, has been sadly neglected in this particular section of the state. This division of the postal service was designed and perfected primarily to add to the attractiveness of farm life, and to enable the farmer and his family to keep abreast of the city brother in the matter of information as to progress and development in all lines of the world's activities, as well as to keep himself informed of the happenings in his neighboring towns and communities.

Since the government has devised this convenience for the farmer, it seems to me that we should avail ourselves of the service, since it adds so much to the contentment and happiness of ourselves and families, and at little or no cost to us.

In the establishment of these rural free delivery routes the government prescribes certain conditions which must be complied with by the people who are to be benefited before the service will be established. One of the foremost requirements for the establishment of these routes is the placing of the roads in good condition, and also an agreement, the failure to comply with which is the abandonment of the service, to keep them in a good state of repair under all conditions of weather. Another consideration is the number of people to be served by the proposed route, the government being loath to establish the daily service where less than 100 person are benefited thereby.

In our county we only have two of these routes—one out of Rochelle and one out of Brady—and in view of the fact that it is so easy to secure this service and when you consider the benefits to be derived therefrom, it seems to me that our citizens should feel a deeper interest in the matter, and work for the establishment of a network of these routes throughout the county, and thereby add to the pleasures and beauties of the rural life. In this manner we may, in a great measure, cause the phrase "back to the farm," now so commonly used, to become obsolete, and create a desire in the hearts and minds of our boys and girls to stay with the farm rather than desert it for what appears so alluring and inviting to them now—the city life, where they may have just such advantages as are provided by the rural free delivery routes.

HAPPY MOTHERHOOD

The happiness of motherhood is too often checked because the mother's strength is not equal to her cares, while her unselfish devotion neglects her own health.

It is a duty of husband or friend to see that she gets the pure medicinal nourishment in Scott's Emulsion, which is not a drug or stimulant but nature's concentrated oil-food tonic to enrich and enliven the blood, strengthen the nerves and aid the appetite. Physicians everywhere prescribe Scott's Emulsion for overworked, nervous, tired women; it builds up and holds up their strength. Get Scott's at your nearest drug store.

Getting Attention!

Did you ever notice how a man usually gives close attention to a telephone conversation—especially if it is a long distance call? With the receiver at his ear, he is concentrating upon one thing—what the man at the other end is saying. Isn't that the important thing in a business transaction?

Transact out-of-town business by West Texas Telephone. It is the economical and up-to-date way, and assures you prompt attention at the other end. Try it.

MAKING TOO MUCH ADO OF OUR EMBARRASMENTS.

An unfriendly critic of the people of the United States would probably be at no loss for material with which to support a thesis that Yankee pluck, enterprise and courage do not rise to the high level that we have been wont to boast. He would find his material in facts and circumstances that have arisen since the outbreak of war in Europe threw our economic machinery into disorder. He would say, for one thing, that we have suffered ourselves to become much more demoralized than the conditions warrant. He would accuse us of having become more perturbed, more excited than the occasion justified. He would taunt us with a lack of both vision and fortitude, in that we have allowed the distress of the moment to blind us even to the bright future which is assured by the very facts which cause the momentary distress. He would say, in fine, that although gameness is a virtue which Yankees boast in superlative degree, that boasted "gameness" has not been equal to the test it has been subjected to during the last three or four weeks.

Perhaps the thesis could not be made out conclusively. But it could be made out at least plausibly. We have allowed ourselves to sink to a depth of pessimism which not even existing conditions excuse and which the certain conditions of the near future translate into a confession of ingratitude. We have set up a wail and shown an excitement, as is attested by the favor which ill-considered and radical measures of relief have won, that would not ill befit the calamities that have been visited on the people of Europe. Indeed, seen as best they can be from this distance, the people of Europe, under the infinitely greater excitement and provocation of war with the long years of poverty and depression which war makes certain, have seemed to show courage and fortitude that rivals ours, notwithstanding we have only a temporary stagnation in trade to complain of. If we view our existing situation in contrast with theirs, our little misfortunes, instead of moving us to lamentations, ought to send us to our knees in prayers of thanksgiving. And if we lift our eyes from the occasions of our distress to view the future which that distress assures to us, we shall gather the fortitude to endure our present and transitory embarrassments with much better patience than we have yet displayed. For the future—and it is no distant future—is brighter than the present seems dark, even to the gaze of the pessimist. About the most that any of us suffers just now is a season of enforced self-denial. Expected profits have not materialized. The flow of business for which we had prepared has suddenly been turned into an ebb. Debts we had expected to banish persist and press on us even more harshly than they did. Anxieties of which we had thought ourselves soon to be relieved have been intensified. But all these consequences, distressing as they undeniably are, will prove disastrous to few if any of us, and more than compensate us, for all that is denied us today. However paradoxical, it is nevertheless true that tomorrow was never richer in promise for this country than it is today. We have lost nothing, nor will. We are suffering merely a deferred prosperity, which is the more assured, and will be the greater, for having been deferred. There is not need to cite the facts which make this so. They stand forth plain and palpable to the man who can lift his gaze above his feet. Indeed, he who raises his vision to a level that casts it into even the immediate future will discern signs to arouse anxiety, not lest we suffer a lack of prosperity, but lest it come upon us in such a tidal wave as will sweep us from our moorings. A gaze into the immediate future should give us in plenty the courage and fortitude to endure with good grace much greater ills than those with which the present afflicts us, and turn us from repining into the work of preparing for the unprecedented harvest that is assuredly to be ours. The man who does not do that, but who, instead, spends his days bemoaning his present plight, is merely disqualifying himself for participation in the prosperity that is being stored up for those of faith and courage. —Dallas News.

STORING COTTON

As a class, the farmer is a mighty poor business man. This may be a rather broad assertion, but nevertheless true. The statement is not made in a spirit of criticism, but rather with a view of calling attention to a matter which we believe would be termed "bad business" even by the farmer himself when he sees it in the proper light.

One day this week the attention of the editor of The Standard was called to the manner in which the average farmer handles his cotton crop after it has been made, gathered and ginned ready for sale. If the market is not satisfactory when a bale of cotton is offered, the average farmer will haul the bale home and dump it off onto the ground, and he usually manages to pick a low place in which to dump it. As a result, the water from each rain runs under the bale and damages it anywhere from $2.00 to $5.00 per bale. If he has ten or fifteen bales "stored" in this manner, his loss is a considerable sum.

Personally, we have seen much cotton treated in this way, when, with the expenditure of a very small sum in comparison to the loss to be sustained, all this needless waste can be so easily avoided. It seems to us that it would pay every farmer, whether landlord or tenant, to build sheds in which to store his cotton, or else place it in a public warehouse, where it will be properly cared for until market conditions will justify a sale.

Instancing the loss sustained in improperly caring for cotton is one consignment of cotton now stored in a local warehouse. A price of 14c was refused by the owner early last season, and the cotton "stored" in the open. At present prices the owner has already suffered a loss of approximately 7c per pound by decline in market, and in addition to this, will lose from $2.00 to $5.00 per bale on account of damage from exposure to the weather, when for a small sum of $1.20 per bale, the cotton could have been stored in a warehouse for a year, and thereby avoid this loss.

Another piece of "bad business" on the part of the farmer is in holding his cotton for better prices—no matter what the prevailing price may be. If cotton is worth 15c per pound, the farmer will figure that it ought to go to 16c, and if circumstances will permit, he will hold for that price. It seems to us that it would be a better plan to estimate the cost of production, and when the price will give him a fair profit, then sell. So long as the price is such that a fair return on the investment and the year's labor is guaranteed the farmer has no good cause for holding the cotton for better prices, and cannot figure a loss in case of advance in the market one time in ten. Unless the staple is properly stored and cared for, he will not only gain nothing by holding, but will actually suffer a loss in the end.

We believe that when the cotton farmer uses the same sane business judgment required of the successful banker, merchant or professional man, then—and only then—will he come into his own, and reap a just recompense of reward for the hard labor he puts in year after year in producing the crop.

 Some time ago Smith and a friend were discussing the dog question when the friend remarked that the most vicious dog might be utterly subdued merely by a person sitting down and staring at him.
 "Right you are, old pal," was the ready response. "I know, for once I tried it on one. Dog was coming at me at the rate of a mile a minute, and all that I did was to sit down and stare at him."
 "I am glad to hear you say that," responded the friend. "It is a confirmation of what science has always maintained."
 "Yes, old fellow," grinned Smith, "but I should have added that when I sat down I tree.—Rocky Mountain News.

Regarding School Books.

A matter has been called to the attention of the editor of The Standard, which, if not thoroughly understood, will cause considerable confusion to patrons of the schools of the county.

A change was made last year in the adopted books to be used in the schools, the new series being chosen for a period of five years. The prices of these books are fixed by law, as well as an exchange price for new books. The books which were used last year, however, are not exchangeable for those to be used this or any other year of the 5-year term, but those which were used previous to last year which are in good condition will be accepted at the exchange price for the newly adopted series.

CLAUDE CALLAN'S COLUMN "CRACKS AT THE CROWD"

From Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Avers the Dallas Times-Herald: "In these days of tight skirts it is almost impossible to say whether a gentleman stands back and lets a young lady get on the car first through motives of true Southern chivalry or whether—fine nights we're having, are they not?" Yes, they are, and we suppose you took time to observe the lovely night when some elderly lady was stepping into the car.

Russian Romance

Even while mobilizing on the edge of Russia, there is yet time and opportunity for Russian romance. Here is one where a lovesick lady schemes to carry off a six-foot Muscovite. Countess Irma Chorvatoff is the daughter of a millionaire Russian noble. She was at a boarding school in Kieff when she fell madly in love with the blond mustached son of a local brewer named Roszdin. Though two years older than the countess, he dared not accept her proposition to elope as he had not completed his military service. The enamored lady determined to carry him off, though he was six feet high and she only five. She was a strategist. She sent him a telegram ostensibly from his father to meet him at a hotel in Albenstein. He took a room at the hotel, awaiting the father. Suddenly the door was locked from the outside. When Droszdin went to the window he saw the countess in the courtyard. She furnished a key and swore that if he did not marry her she would commit suicide. Droszdin gave the promise and was released. He then made his way to the police station instead of to the altar.—Picayune.

A Correction.

The Standard's good friend, Howard Broad, told us yesterday that we had prevaricated in the Tuesday issue regarding the amount of rainfall in McCulloch county since January 1st, and what's more—proved it by our own figures.

The total precipitation, as shown by the report, was 18.90 inches, when it should have been 23.30, thus making the rainfall for the first eight months of this year 8.87 inches more than that of a like period last year.

We are always glad to give credit where credit is due, and especially in the matter of rainfall in West Texas.

New Manager Arrives

J. B. Whiteman arrived Wednesday afternoon from Goldthwaite to assume the management of the local exchange of the West Texas Telephone Co., succeeding D. F. Hubbard, who has accepted a responsible position with the Texas Light & Power Co., with headquarters at Brownwood.

Mr. Whiteman has been manager of the company's business at Goldthwaite for the past three years, and comes to Brady highly recommended by the citizens of that city, as well as by his company. He is a very pleasant gentleman, and will doubtless receive a hearty welcome from Brady citizens. His wife and daughter are visiting in Ft. Worth at present, but will join him here in the near future.

Mr. Hubbard, the retiring manager, expects to leave today for Brownwood, where he has accepted the responsible position of assistant engineer with the Texas Light & Power Co. in the plant at that place. During the residence of Mr. Hubbard and family here for the past year or more, they have won a wide circle of friends, all of whom will regret their departure.
