Blizzard Band To Brady Event

Winters High School Blizzard Band will go to Brady Friday to participate in the annual Brady Band Festival, and to try for coveted trophies which will be awarded to winning bands in the contests.

Kirke McKenzie, band director, said the band will leave Winters at 3 p. m. Friday and members will be guests in homes of Brady residents Friday night.

Contest will be held Saturday, with the Winters band performing at 4:15 p. m.

This year, there will be only two contests, concert playing and sight reading. In the past, participating bands competed in show band, parade, sight reading and concert.

There will be only about 102 Winters band members making the trip to Brady, McKenzie said. Other school activities, which require the presence of band students, reduced the size of the band which will participate in the band festival.

In past years, the Winters Blizzard Band has won 14 trophies in 5 trips to Brady. The Winters band has never lost in concert, sight reading or in parade competition, in five trips.

Class AA schools taking part in the Brady Band Festival include Coleman, Medina Valley High School, Leander

High School, Ozona High School, Robinson High School of Waco, and Winters High School.

Judges for the competition at Brady will be Dan Gibbs of Monahans, Tom Rhodes of the University of Texas, and Bill Woods of Seagraves in Concert; Douglas Fry, Cisco Junior College, Sight Reading.

Band members attending the Brady Festival will be entertained with a social and dance, and other activities.

Council Okays Certification Of Firemen

Winters City Council Monday night authorized payment of certification of about 15 members of Winters Volunteer Fire Department. Cost to the City will be about $75.

Under State regulations, volunteer firemen now must be certified in order for the city to take advantage of better insurance rates and meet other requirements.

The special fund being collected through public contributions to help buy uniforms for the Winters High School Blizzard Band has risen to $1175, it was announced Tuesday. The Blizzard Band Boosters, sponsors of the drive, had set a goal of $5,000.

Grace Graham	20.00
Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kozelsky	5.00
Mr. and Mrs. Robin W. Middleton	15.00

"Day of Prayer" At Lutheran Church Friday

Special services will be held at St. John's Lutheran Church today (Friday), in observance of the World Day of Prayer. Services will begin at 2 p. m. in the Educational Building.

World Day of Prayer, sponsored by Church Women United, is observed in 169 counties by Protestant, Orthodox and Catholic women.

BICENTENNIAL—Julio Galvan Jr., maintenance technician with the Highway Department, puts finishing touches of paint of the highway sign which tells the driving public that Winters is a Bicentennial City. Bicentennial signs were erected on all five highway approaches to Winters.

Girl Scout Awards Banquet Planned March 12

Winters Girl Scouts will hold an awards banquet Friday, March 12, at 7 p. m., in the Community Center.

Mrs. Charlsie Poe, chosen as the Girl Scout Heroine, will be honored.

Each Girl Scout mother is asked to bring a covered dish for the meal.

All awards earned by the Girl Scouts for this year will be presented during the banquet.

Parents of Girl Scouts are invited to attend.

Electric Rates Are Going Up

A slight increase in electric rates charged by the City of Winters Light Department was authorized Monday night by the Winters City Council, acting under authority of a "fuel clause" in the current rate ordinance, and authority of State regulatory agencies.

The increase will become effective either with the next billing, or the following, City Secretary Buford said. If it is feasible to enter the required information in the computerized booking machines for the next billing, he said, the increase will be immediately; if not, the next month's billing will show the increase.

The increase in electric rate charges is made necessary by the ever-increasing costs of fuel to power the generators in the City's light plant, officials said.

Present rates will be increased by .0065 cent per kilowatt hour, it was said. This will amount to an increase of about $2.50 per month for the average residential consumer, according to calculations by city officials.

The rate ordinance now in effect gives the City leeway to raise or lower charges according to costs, it was said. Fuel costs have climbed rapidly within the past two years, it was said, making it necessary to make adjustments in the charges made to consumers. In 1972, Baldwin said, yearly cost of gas to power the generators was about $35,000. This increased to about $70,000 yearly last year, and projected cost for this year is in the neighborhood of $115,000. The engines driving the generators also burn diesel fuel. Cost for diesel fuel in 1972 was 18½ cents per gallon; this has increased to 32 cents for this year.

In the event fuel costs decline, the rates charged will be reduced accordingly, city officials said. They also said this is becoming a month-by-month situation, and action will be taken according to the costs.

In other action during the regular meeting of the City Council Monday night, the Council authorized a water line easement through Lakeview Cemetery, to connect with a housing area which is being developed north of the cemetery.

FROM ALASKA

Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Hamilton and Douglas, Kimberly and Marta of Anchorage, Alaska, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Williams.

Miss Winters Pageant

Thirty-three young ladies, all students of Winters High School, are entered in the annual Miss Winters Pageant, scheduled for Saturday evening, March 13, in the high school auditorium.

The Pageant is sponsored by the Winters Lions Club, and the young lady chosen as "Miss Winters '76" will represent the local club in the Lions District contest later in the spring.

Contestants in the Miss Winters Pageant are sponsored by Winters businessmen and individuals. Each of the contestants will receive a charm, and "Miss Winters '76" will receive a loving cup.

The young ladies will meet with judges in an informal get together Saturday afternoon in the Homemaking Building, at which time they will be interviewed.

Judges will be persons from out-of-town.

Contestants in the Pageant were nominated by the boys of Winters

High School.

Genealogy Club Searching For N. Runnels Pioneers

The Genealogy Club of Winters High School is searching for information on all pioneers of North Runnels County, with plans to publish a book during this Bicentennial year.

Residents, or any members of their families, who have lived in the Winters and North Runnels area since 1927 are to be considered pioneers by the club.

Those who can qualify can help the club by filling out a form provided by them, and returning it to a club member or Mrs. Edward Bredemeyer by April 1.

Forms may be found at many of the local churches, at Winters High School, or at the Merrill Nursing Home.

Mel Swoyer Chairman For MH Campaign

The Rev. Mel Swoyer, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church in Winters, has been named Mental Health chairman for the May '76 campaign, Carroll B. Bryant, president of the Texas Association of Mental Health, has announced.

As chairman, the Rev. Swoyer will recruit volunteers to go house-to-house during May, Mental Health Month.

The Texas Association for Mental Health is strictly a volunteer association, with members dedicated to informing the public about mental illness and mental health, while helping the mentally ill and their families.

As citizen advocates, the association works to see that government funds are spent effectively.

TREES—Twenty-four trees—20 mulberry and 4 pecan—were planted on the campus of Winters Elementary and Junior High Schools last Friday by students. This was a "Bicentennial" project promoted by the students and members of the faculty. Students brought small donations to help buy the trees; teachers also donated. The students and teachers collected $128.00; the school board offered to provide the rest of the $311.00 cost of the trees. Members of the school maintenance department, Cecil Sudduth, Manuel Esquivel and Carson Easterly, assisted the students in planting the trees. The City of Winters provided a backhoe to dig the holes for the trees. (Staff photo by Marvin Moore).

Merrill Nursing Home News

It has been a happy week so far at the home, because the flu bug has pretty well stayed away from us. Many have been enjoying long walks during these beautiful days, and Mrs. Wylie Hinds has improved so much, she was able to return home. The February decorations have come down and the St. Patrick's decorations have gone up. Also we are so proud of our Bicentennial door mats. They are so colorful and pretty that most of us find ourselves walking around them.

Sunday afternoon the residents enjoyed singing with Rev. Steinberg leading, and Mrs. Steinberg at the piano.

Sister Woelker had charge of the service.

We wish to thank Margurite Mathis, Mrs. F. R. Anderson, Rev. Bob Lindsey and other members of the Methodist Church for bringing the Wednesday morning Bible study for the month of February.

The Winters String Band will be here Friday evening at 7 o'clock. You are invited to come and listen to them.

O'Connor's Column

Prevent Accidental Poisoning From Household Cleaning Products
Thousands of children each year are accidentally poisoned by "eating" medicines and household chemicals, Mrs. O'Connor said. In their eagerness to explore, children may touch and taste everything including medicines, drain cleaners, furniture polishes, bleaches, pesticides and other household products.

But adults can prevent most household poisonings by putting harmful products used in the house, garage and garden into a locked cabinet. Always keep these products in the original container with the label intact. If a child is accidentally poisoned, the first things a doctor needs to know is the identity of the poison. The label also gives immediate first aid measures.

Mrs. O'Connor advised not placing hazardous products in cups, soda bottles or other containers that would normally contain food or drink. If you are using a product or taking a medicine when the doorbell or telephone rings, take it with you—it only takes a minute for a child to swallow a harmful product. Read labels on all products and heed the warnings. Keep telephone numbers of the nearest doctor, poison control center, hospital and police close at hand. And be sure babysitters know where to find this information.

Medicine Cabinet Safety
A medicine cabinet can be a source of health—or a collection of poisons. It's every consumer's responsibility to maintain a safe place for storage and to discard old medicine regularly. Medicine should be stored according to directions. Always read the labels and packaging of both prescription and over-the-counter drugs to determine what storage conditions are best for that medicine.

Some medicines should not be kept in the bathroom medicine cabinet. For example, if the label says, "Keep in a cool, dry place" the bathroom will be too warm and steamy. Some drugs must be stored in the refrigerator.

If children live in the house, extra precaution is necessary. Drugs need to be locked and placed high out of a child's reach. Children often climb on a chair or box to get at a wall cabinet. Always buy safety packaging and be sure to close the bottles properly after each use. Don't leave pills in a drawer or purse where children can easily get to them, Mrs. O'Connor stated.

Medicines often stay in the medicine cabinet long after their usefulness, has expired. Some medicines don't change over time—but others may lose quality within a matter of months.

A pharmacist can say how long a particular medicine stays good. It's a good idea to go through the medicine cabinet once or twice a year to clean out and destroy old medicine. Be sure to flush it down the toilet—don't just throw it in a trash basket.

CONFLICTING PRESSURES AND THE CLEAN AIR ACT

One of the most difficult tasks facing a legislative body is striking a reasonable balance between the conflicting pressures that come upon it, making decisions that serve the needs of the full nation rather than only part of it.

Currently, the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, on which I serve, is dealing with a bill revising the Clean Air Act. No one wants to oppose clean air; it has been given us by nature, and we wish to preserve it for our own benefit and that of the next generation. Unfortunately, the air is constantly changing, and the scientific community has not yet agreed upon which changes are dangerous and destructive and which changes are reasonably harmless, the inevitable byproducts of an increasingly industrialized society.

One of the more controversial provisions in the bill now before us is the "significant deterioration" section, which attempts to balance the needs and demands of continued industrial growth and power generation with the need to protect our health and environment. Under the proposed amendments, however, the state and local governments would determine in most areas the levels to which pollution could increase, up to the already existing national standards. Of course, the difficulty in devising this type of legislation is that a situation must be avoided which would force industry to remain in those cities which already have high levels of pollution, since the air quality in industrialized parts of the country would be protected against further deterioration. Such a bill would cripple industrial growth, and the entire nation would suffer as industry stagnated and national productivity decreased.

Over the past five years, the population in America has been shifting noticeably to southern and western states; Texas has become one of the fastest growing states in the nation. Many communities, large and small, in the 21st District would like to bring in additional industry in order to supply more jobs and expand the local economy, but legislation of this sort, if poorly drafted or recklessly enforced, could prevent such desirable growth. Small towns prevented from expansion will probably decline, and we must encourage, not discourage, the further development and growth of this vital segment of American culture. We must reinvigorate our small communities, and I will be watching my committee's actions of Clean Air Act Amendments to make certain that the bill promotes this objective. Of course, I would appreciate any comments on this subject which my readers might have, since this will increase the chances for legislation in the best interests of the 21st District and the nation.

INSECT CONTROL VITAL FOR GARDENS

Don't let insects spoil your vegetable garden this year, says C. T. Parker, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Following a few cultural practices and using effective control measures can help establish an almost insect-free garden, contends the agent.

"Insects are attracted to areas of garbage and rotting plants so be sure to get rid of all trash and plant debris. Keep the area next to the garden clean and well mowed and turn under plant residue in the garden or use it as compost," advises Parker.

"If possible, destroy plants that have been infested with insects so as to prevent an insect buildup."

If you must use chemical control, select a pesticide designed for use on the particular vegetable you are growing and the insect that's causing the damage. Be sure to follow all the directions on Pesticides recommended for insect control in the home garden include carbaryl, diazinon, dibrom, dicofol, dimethoate, endosulfan, malathion, methoxychlor and sulfur.

ROTATE VEGETABLES TO IMPROVE PRODUCTION

A lot of things go into a successful garden, and one item that should not be overlooked is that of rotating crops, points out Parker, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Vegetable production often declines when the same crop is planted in the same location year after year. This is due to numerous factors such as soil borne diseases, nematodes, soil insects, organic matter, toxic chemical residues and the levels of essential mineral elements.

Each family of vegetables has unique effects on the soil, notes the agent and most kinds of vegetables within a given family fall prey to the same diseases and insects. Most vegetables planted in home gardens belong to nine distinct families, and care should be used to grow these groups in different locations within the garden from one year to the next.

The legume family includes all peas and beans. Beets, chard and spinach belong to the label, cautions Parker. the goosefoot family while the mustard family includes such crops as cabbage,

Living Presidents
Between March 4, 1861, and the death of ex-president Tyler on Jan. 18, 1862, there were five ex-presidents living — Van Buren, Fillmore, Pierce, Buchanan and Tyler. This was the greatest number of ex-presidents living at any period in our history.

and the lily family features onions, garlic, leeks and chives. Sweet corn, also a garden favorite, belongs to the grass family.

Timely rotation of vegetable families along with a preventive fungicide will control most common vegetable diseases, points out the agent. Where disease problems persist, home gardeners should select resistant varieties if available.

A knowledge of the different vegetable families can be helpful when evaluating their performance. Diagram the garden plot and keep a record of where crops are planted this spring, advises Parker. Then attempt to rotate the crops regularly in coming seasons to improve production.

"These are the sorghums I'd plant if I farmed in this area."

Jim Higdon
AGRONOMY SERVICE DIRECTOR

"Drouth, disease, insects, wind storms... taking everything into account that can plague a crop in this area, these are the sorghums I'd go with."

It's my job to know which are the best varieties for each locale in the states of Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. For the last five years I've had Crop Information Centers, Standard Comparison Tests and Uniform Strip Tests in this immediate area. In these carefully controlled tests, I've evaluated most of the sorghum varieties a farmer might consider planting. I've had the same headaches and frustrations you've had. My plantings have suffered the same weather conditions, epidemics and infestations yours have.

Based on these tests, there is no doubt in my mind what I'd plant in 1976 if I farmed hereabouts.

8311 is a champion producer of high test weight, yellow endosperm grain. Pioneer introduced this golden bronze hybrid three years ago and it's been setting yield records in this area ever since. One reason is its ability to yield in the face of too wet or too dry weather, insects or disease. Another reason for the high yields is that 8311 tends to adjust its maturity to the growing season in a particular area. Whatever else you plant... put in some 8311.

"Old faithful" is the best name for this Pioneer variety. It has been producing profitable sorghum yields for farmers in this area for many, many years. Though medium maturity, it produces with full-season varieties in good years and still does well under stress. It resists drouth, smut, rust, MDMV and tolerates secondary downy mildew infestation. It makes a good planting partner.

Performance of seeds or the crop produced therefrom may be adversely affected by factors beyond our control including environmental conditions, insects and diseases. The limitation of warranty and remedy attached to each bag of Pioneer brand seed is a part of the terms and conditions of the sale thereof.

BY CHARLSIE POE

ORGANIZES THE 7.H.4. COMPANY

Jim Johnson tells what happened after the cattle drive described in last week's paper.

"That was a hard drive and I had a good dose of the trail, a plenty for the time being. It looked a whole lot more romantic and fascinating from a distance than it proved to be with close association. When I got back to Gonzales, Tom Matthews was ready to start to Coleman County with some of their cattle and wanted me to go along. He branded the House F on all that we drove with us from our range, but we put T. 7. on all that we bought to go to Coleman. I stayed with Tom after we got there until I heard that Jim Parramore, who owned a ranch on Bluff Creek, five miles north of Runnels City, was needing a foreman and I went over there and landed the job."

"There is a story that has been handed down to us, as told by Bill Gee, another young cowboy who went with Johnson to find a job. 'We rode across the prairie through grass that was belly high to our horses. Parramore told us we could go to work for him. 'Just put your horses in the corral and you can stay in the bunk house. Pay is $30 a month with board and keep and I'll furnish the remuda.'"

"As we started walking away, Parramore said, 'Boys, I have a bad habit that I think I should tell you about. When I get mad I start cussing, but I don't mean anything by it.'"

Jim Johnson turned around and said, "Well, I'm glad you told me. I've got a bad habit, too! When a man cusses me, I just knock hell out of him!"

Mr. Gee said that Parramore never lost his temper with Jim Johnson.

"Jim Parramore ran between 6,000 and 7,000 head of all the time and was one of the finest men on earth to work for, but for that matter every man I ever held a job with was as good as the sun ever shown on," said Johnson.

"One day Van S. Lewis, Luce Wood, Dudley Tom, Jim Parramore and myself were squatted down talking about cattle in general and the cost of running small herds in particular."

"We all had several hundred head of cattle apiece, but with the exception of Parramore none of us ran more than 1,000 or 2,000 and we agreed that they kept a fellow down at work so that he could not accomplish anything, just as much as ten times that many would do. I don't remember who made the suggestion now, but it seems to me like it was Luce Wood who said, 'why not all of us throw our herds together, hire one man apiece, form a company and work like hell to get somewhere?'"

"Well, we discussed it at length and Parramore said that it was all right, and a good plan, but as he would have twice as many cattle to work as the rest of us, he thought it was nothing but right that he should furnish four men and the boss, and as he was more than satisfied with my work himself he moved that I be elected to the same position, call it what they wanted to for the company, foreman, manager, secretary or just plain ranch boss. Well sir, before we knew it hardly we had formed the 7. H. 4. Cattle Company, taking the name from the Parramore brand, because Jim owned the controlling interest.

NEW FIRM STARTS BUSINESS

"Dudley Tom had brought 1,010 cattle with him when he came from Guadalupe County to Runnels; Luce Wood, whose herd wore the W. F. Bar, had something near 2,000; Van S. Lewis had about 1,000 head and I had possibly as many again, with Parramore, as I said before, running something like 7,000 in all. These, when put together, made a pretty good-sized herd. I was to apportion the work for the members of the company and the hands just as I saw best. My pay was to come from Parramore, as hitherto, with the privilege of running my cattle along with the others. I reckon it was because I had always been sort of quiet, not given to carousing and drinking like most cowboys of that day who had any fun, since it was about the only amusement we had, but one in which I found small comfort, for the 'day after' proved too much balance for me for the fun of the night before, so it must have been on that account that the boys in our outfit took orders from me without question and everything ran along as smooth as glass without friction of any kind, with nobody taking exception to anything that was said or done.

"I made Dudley Tom superintendent of the 'cut', because he was an expert with the branding iron and marking knife. Luce Wood and Van S. Lewis were delegated to rope and see that the calves were there when Tom was ready for them; they were also allowed to have all of the hands that could be spared from any other part of the work, to help at that time, for Dud could keep a dozen busy at once. And I am right here to tell you that they put on some work that so far out-distanced anything I ever saw at one of those fancy rodeos, where the boys wear silk shirts and Mexican sashes, that it couldn't be classed as the same thing at all. They didn't have even a corral, nor anything else to help hold the cattle, either, excepting the regular cowboys with the 'cut.' And believe me, they worked with 'shorenough' wild longhorns, too. And we all worked, I'll say we did. I have seen Dud's shirt so wet with blood from holding the calves against it that he marked and castrated, that you could have wrung a bucketful out of it.

"We didn't just brand our own stuff, either, often there were more O. H. and D. calves, O. H. Triangles, Deuce of Hearts and other brands put on for outfits neighboring in our county, or adjoining ones, sometimes on cattle from a hundred or more miles away, than were burned for ourselves. But that was the custom all over Texas then, wherever and whenever a round-up was held, no matter whether we had ever seen one of the men from a ranch or not, if we ran across any of his stuff that was unbranded, to put it on for him. And what we did in our neck of the woods others were doing for us in their section."

Next week: The biggest round-up Texas ever staged.

No Political Signs Allowed On Property

Candidates for political office may violate the law if they erect campaign signs on some private property.

Candidates or their campaign managers are urged to contact Supervising Right-of-Way Engineer Franklin Jordan of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation for further information if they are considering erecting campaign signs. Jordan may be reached at the District 7 offices near the intersection of Knickerbocker Road and Loop 306, telephone number 944-1501, mailing address P. O. Box 1841, San Angelo, Texas 76901.

The Highway Beautification Act which became law in 1972 controls the erection of signs on property adjacent to Interstate and Primary highways. Anyone desiring to erect a new sign must have a State license to engage in outdoor advertising and a permit for each sign. The law does not apply to Farm to Market Roads.

Existing signs may be repainted or repapered; however, they may not be enlarged nor may lighting be added unless approved by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation or the city which issued the sign permit. Subject to city ordinances, signs may be erected in front of stores or homes used as campaign headquarters.

No signs except official traffic control signs are permitted within the rights-of-way of State highways. Maintenance crews will remove any signs not conforming to State law.

Runnels County FB is holding a special membership enrollment drive during this period as a part of a statewide effort to exceed last year's total of 180,470 families. Runnels County ended the 1975 year with 1071 members.

"Recycle" Clothing For Economy

Fashionable shirts and dresses are hanging unworn in many closets—simply because they're too short for today's styles.

But many of these can be "recycled" at little expense to become useful and enjoyable additions to a wearable wardrobe, Mrs. Becky Culp, area clothing specialist, suggests.

She's with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System.

"Spend a few minutes visualizing possibilities on the too-short clothes. Would the hem allowance add enough needed length? If so, check to see if the old hemline would show. If it does, consider whether or not rows of trim or narrow tucks could be used for camouflage and still look as though they were planned as part of an original garment.

"Once the hem allowance is successfully let down, think through ways the hem edge could be finished. Is it best to add a facing, bind the raw edge, or turn under a narrow width and topstitch?" she said.

She suggested some other possibilities if letting down the hem allowance doesn't provide enough needed length.

—Is the garment design and fabric design suitable for adding a contrasting ruffle or band at the hemline?

"To avoid looking 'tacked on,' contrasting fabric or trim added at the hemline often also needs to be positioned higher on the garment—for example, as pockets, belts, cuffs, trim or applique."

—For straight or gathered skirts, cut without A-line seams, one or more rows of fabric bands or trim inserted above the hemline may work.

—Dresses without waistline seams can be successfully lengthened by adding fabric inserts at the waistline for a mock belted look or as a midriff to be worn either belted or unbelted.

—Long and closed vests, tunics or overblouses are excellent lengthening accessories. Adding a yoke or lightweight fabric to the underneath section of the skirt or dress easily lengthens the hemline.

Tips For Outdoorsmen

Cold, wintry winds drive many anglers off wind-swept waters and back to the warmth of the home.

Some fishermen, not to be denied, hie to the heated fishing docks to be found on most large reservoirs, nearly all lakes and on many sizeable rivers. Here they find comfortable chairs, live bait, specially food-treated water that tempt fish into this comfortable setting and a smorgasbord of fish-loving delicacies.

What the angler sees is fish. Fish for the table is his goal and in this particular setting it could be either perch, crappie, white bass, small-mouth, an occasional lunger largemouth black or a bewhiskered blue cat.

So, before you decide not to go fishing simply because the weather is inclement—rainy, snowy, too hot or too cold—give a thought to fishing those enclosed docks. There you can enjoy arm-chair comfort at its very best, including radio and tv, a coffee shop, a cold drinks stand and more often than not a clean, well-stocked quick-lunch restaurant.

Bringing home the bacon is man's prime job. But bringing home fish filets is father's special delight. This, whether success comes from the middle of the lake or in the center of an enclosed, close-to-shore, out-of-the-weather, floating barge of fishing barn.

If you want to be "where the fun is", coupled with fishing success, and a comfortable day or night of fantastic angling, give the enclosed fishing barge serious consideration. It's an outing you will thoroughly enjoy!

Hershal Hall Candidate For County Sheriff

I, Hershal Hall, would again like to inform the citizens of Runnels County that I am a candidate for Runnels County Sheriff on the Democratic ballot.

After serving as a criminal deputy sheriff for almost five years in South Runnels County, I am fully aware of the responsibility and obligations of the County Sheriff's Office.

I have served as Constable in Miles and have worked in various aspects of law enforcement. I have attended schools sponsored by the West Central Texas Council of Governments in Abilene and I am a certified Peace Officer.

Because of being a Criminal Deputy Sheriff in the South Runnels area, I regret that I have not yet met many citizens in the northern area. It is my intention to try to meet as many citizens as possible and I urge everyone to ask any questions that they might have regarding my attitude and the various changes that will be made to up grade the efficiency of the Runnels County Sheriff's Department. It is my intention to be a working sheriff for ALL OF RUNNELS COUNTY.

Through your vote for me on the democratic primary ballot, I hope to be able to serve the citizens of Runnels County as their County Sheriff. I need your vote and support.

THANK YOU,
Hershal Hall

Bomb Threat Thought Hoax At Dry Plant

A bomb threat, which company officials think was a thoughtless prank or a possible reaction on the part of some disgruntled person, emptied all offices and plants of Dry Division, Wallace Murray Corp. in Winters Monday afternoon.

A few minutes before 4 p. m., according to a company spokesman, some person, presumably an adult, called the main switchboard in the offices of the company and warned the operator that "this is a bomb threat," and that a bomb would explode in about "13 minutes."

Steps were taken immediately to evacuate all offices and plants, and law enforcement officials were notified.

After a waiting period, most personnel returned to their jobs, and work was resumed.

Company spokesmen said they felt the call was a prank, or possibly from some person who is dissatisfied with the company for some reason, and wanted to disrupt normal operations. Even though this was the thinking of company heads and most personnel, precautionary steps were taken, in the event it could have been the real thing, it was said.
