Bronte's Park Caretaker Job Still Unfilled

The position of caretaker of the Bronte County Park was thrown wide open again Monday after a meeting of Coke Commissioners Court. County Attorney Frank Dickey and San Angelo attorney, Ralph Wilson, met with the commissioners, and Dickey quoted the law to the court regarding hiring employees who are related to members of the court.

Following his interpretation of the law, in which Wilson concurred, the matter of hiring Marvin Corley never came before the commissioners. Corley is a brother of Commissioner Jack Corley of Precinct 4.

Corley was recommended for the park caretaker job by the local park board, after Aubrey Z. Denman resigned to take a position at a Baptist Encampment facility near Dallas.

The meeting Monday left the caretaker job open and it will be acted on at a later meeting of the commissioners.

Classes will be dismissed at 2:35 p.m. today (Thursday) at Bronte School and will be resumed at 8:10 a.m., Tuesday, April 12. The Easter holiday comes at the end of the fifth six weeks of classes, leaving six more weeks of the 1965-66 school term.

AD-LIB-BEN

Many folks, as they grow old, fail to impress the young. But, we were young when we came to Bronte almost 18 years ago, and we were impressed with the youthful outlook of one of the older men we met the first week we were here. That man was Mr. Ed Cumbie.

Mr. Ed was getting on toward 70 way back then, which to us, was just about as old as a fellow could get. He felt, in 1948, that Bronte had a great future. What, with the new oil development and all, we just couldn't miss — that's the way he felt. We'd almost bet that he felt the same way when he went to bed Monday night.

Mr. Ed was an expert on early day history of Bronte. He lived during most of it and remembered it well. But he didn't bore you with it. He could talk just as expertly about things that happened a few days ago, as he could about the things that happened 60 years ago.

In our book, he was the kind of man who made this town what it is and who made our country what it is. He was a firm backer of our schools, of the town's churches, and of any movement which would mean a better life for our people. He was truly a fine gentleman.

Rawlings and Taylor were running for reelection. Thomas will be a new member of the board, although he served on it several years ago.

Other candidates received votes as follows: Dale Thompson, 89; Clyde Lee, 80; James Wells, 69; Eddie G. Collins, 53; Dolan Mackey, 47; Marvin Landers 45; George Latimer, 35.

Holdover members of the board are Conda Richards, J. B. Morrow, A. E. Bell Jr. and Wayne Arrott.

Sterling City Top Winner in UIL Play Contest

Sterling City was declared winner of the UIL 44-B district one act play contest held here last Thursday night at the school auditorium.

The school also claimed the best actress award, which was given to Jeanie McDonald; the best actor award, which was given to James Morgan; and the best supporting actress award, which went to Elaine Price. Their play was "The Miracle Worker", directed by Mrs. Lynn Glass.

Second place went to Robert Lee High School for their staging of "Riders to the Sea", directed by Garland Davis. Miles took third place with their production of "Riders to the Sea."

Gary Stroebel of Bronte was named one of the best supporting actors for his role as Jim Flannery in "Mr. Flannery's Ocean" directed by Miss Judith Smith. Charles Kirkpatrick of Water Valley won the other best supporting actor award for his portrayal of Luke in their play, "The Brute."

Melinda Percifull of Robert Lee was named the other best supporting actress for her portrayal of Maurya in their production. Other schools who presented plays were Mertzon, Forsan and Wall.

Supt. C. B. Barbee of Bronte was district contest manager and the critic judge was Mrs. Freda G. Powell of the speech department at Odessa College.

Barbee said he was well pleased with the number of entries and performance and that each year there is a marked increase in the number of persons attending the plays.

City Dads Okay; Get All Votes Cast In Tues. Election

The candidates on the ballots used in Tuesday's city election received every one of the votes cast, without a single one being scratched or a single write-in. Four candidates were running for four positions.

Election Judge Noah Pruitt Sr. said Tuesday night he had held a lot of elections, but he couldn't recall one in which there was no mark on a single ballot.

All receiving 65 votes were Mayor Royce Lee, incumbent councilmen, Billy Joe Luckett and Martin Lee, and new councilman, Kenneth (Buddy) Reed.

Mayor Lee, in a statement made Wednesday morning, said, "Speaking for myself and the men elected to serve on the council the next two years, I would like to express our appreciation to the people of Bronte for this unanimous vote of confidence."

The mayor said he will continue to do everything possible to run the city government in a business like manner and like the people want it run. "I am looking forward to further association with Billy Joe and Martin, and to a new association with Buddy on the council. I regret that Elmer Hurley did not seek reelection, but I know Buddy will make us a good councilman in his place."

Pest Control in Plants

Gardening enthusiasts and homeowners can enjoy freedom from plant insect and disease pests with reasonable safety by following the rules for safe pesticide use.

A lot of time, money and effort will be expended on lawns, flowers, shrubs and vegetable gardens with the coming of spring. These investments should be protected from insects and plant diseases.

A planned spray schedule using recommended pet pesticides is an excellent supplement to good horticultural practices. You plant less and harvest more with a combination of good cultural practices and pesticide applications.

Insect and disease problems on plants may be increased by unfavorable growing conditions which can be expected every growing season. Plants are severely affected when pests and disease organisms attack them during these periods of stress.

Plants protected with insecticides and fungicides may escape such damage. The degree of control over the environment of plants which can be maintained by cultural practices and pest control is evidenced by fine food products and flowers we enjoy.

Extension bulletins which may help you control unwanted pests include: "Controlling Insects in the Home Garden," L-642; "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects on Ornamental Plants," L-199; and "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects on Commercial Vegetable Crops," MP-675. Ask for these and other information from my office. These bulletins describe the pests and give recommended control practices.

Check Stripe Design for Balance

Colorful, gay and interesting stripes may have an influence as you choose spring and summer garments. A few guides can help you whether you buy stripes by the yard or as a ready-to-wear-garment.

Know how to recognize the two types of stripe designs, balanced and unbalanced. To tell whether a stripe design is balanced or not, fold the fabric in half along the main or dominant stripe to see if the stripe color and width are the same repeat. If the design, coloring and width repeat exactly, the stripe is balanced.

An unbalanced stripe design varies in the pattern, spacing and color. You need special care in layout and cutting a garment from unbalanced stripe design.

Lay the pattern pieces on the striped fabric so that the tops of the pattern pieces point in the same direction, just as you would on a napped surface fabric. Be certain that notches to be matched fall on identical portions of the stripe design.

Balanced stripes on fabrics without nap are easy to work with. The stripes are evenly spaced and can be folded lengthwise or crosswise when you lay out your pattern. Use the cutting layout for fabric without nap.

Have the corresponding pattern notches on identical portions of the stripe design.

Today's teenagers—on the average—are heavier and taller than their parents, thanks to better nutrition.

Recent research shows that not only are there more teens in sheer weight of numbers — but there's more of them in sheer physical bulk. They enjoy more freedom from infectious diseases as a result of antibiotics and vaccines, and they learn at an earlier age than their elders because of new educational techniques and mass communication.

The accelerated growth and earlier maturity of today's teens are a reflection of better nutrition for most pregnant women and their children.

Yet despite these nutrition advances, poor eating habits are still common. Many teens still order their favorite "hamburger and French fries, and go heavy on the ketchup, please," or they take part in dietary faddism, particularly skipping meals. Others have chronic cases of sweet tooth.

This high consumption of sweets, most dentists suspect, may account for what the American Dental Association calls the "appallingly bad" state of teens' teeth. In one group surveyed, 84 per cent of them needed fillings and more than a third needed to have teeth extracted.

From 10 to 15 per cent of American teenagers are too fat, pediatricians estimate. Obesity stems not so much from overeating as it does from physical inactivity. Research at the Harvard School of Public Health found that obese girls consume 300 fewer calories per day than classmates of normal weight.

The importance of physical inertia was shown by photographing some of the fat girls as they played tennis. They tended to remain motionless 50 per cent of the time. If the ball came near them, they would whack it—but if it didn't, they would not run after it.

Life Insurance for Servicemen

If your husband or son is entering the armed services—or already in service—encourage him to think twice about canceling any existing personal life insurance policies.

The new group life insurance program for servicemen, now provided by the armed services, gives $10,000 coverage for a $2 monthly premium. Consider this as an inexpensive supplement to policies already owned.

Reasons prompting the purchase of personal life insurance probably still hold true, making the civilian policies still desirable. The civilian policy was designed to protect one's dependents. Your son or husband may be planning to use the cash values which build up with each premium as a potential source of borrowed funds, or as a savings for future needs such as retirement or college expenses.

Premium rates on the civilian policy are based on a younger age, his age at the time he took the policy. The civilian policy can't be canceled if something happens to his health.

For young unmarried servicemen, civilian life insurance may form the nucleus of the enlarged life insurance program he may want when he marries. When the serviceman returns to civilian life, his insurance may be more expensive, or he may be unable to obtain personal insurance because of health reasons.

Old-fangled star-spangled savings scheme

There's nothing new about U. S. Savings Bonds. Millions of Americans have built their savings plans around them for years.

And that's the beauty of it. Bonds are a proven way to save—and they carry a guaranteed rate of interest. You'll get back $4 for every $3 you invest when your Bonds are held to maturity.

Just the tax angle alone is pretty enticing. You pay no state or local income tax on E Bond interest—and you can defer federal tax until you cash your Bonds. What's more, your Bonds convert easily into cash when you need it.

There's nothing old-fashioned about the way your Bonds go to work for your country. Every penny invested helps to keep America strong and promote the cause of freedom.

Make U. S. Savings Bonds a regular part of your family's savings scheme. It's the old-fangled, star-spangled way to insure your future.

Omar Burleson Makes Statement For Re-Election to U. S. Congress

Omar Burleson, veteran Congressman from the 17th District, today pledged a vigorous, active campaign for the Democratic Primary nomination for re-election.

In announcing his plans to seek re-election, Burleson stated that he will base his campaign on his record of nearly 20 years in Congress.

"In that time, I have never been a 'yes men' to anyone or any group, but have fulfilled my responsibility to vote on each issue for what I thought was in the best interest of our Country, our State, and our District; people have the right to expect no less," Burleson said.

Burleson is among the senior members of the U. S. House of Representatives in point of service.

His seniority has carried him to the Chairmanship of the potent House Administration Committee, and to the second position to the Chairman on the powerful House Foreign Affairs Committee. In addition, Burleson serves on two important Joint Committees formed from senior members of the House and Senate, as Chairman of one and Vice-Chairman of the other.

"In all my years in Congress," Burleson said, "I have followed two guiding principles: First, to know the views of my constituents and reflect their sentiments to the greatest degree possible in my actions as their Representative. Second, to inform and advise as closely as I can on those issues which affect our District, our State, and the Nation."

Burleson termed his approach to government as one of "common sense," gained through his years of public service.

Burleson is a former County Attorney and County Judge of Jones County. He was appointed an FBI Agent, and served in a number of assignments over the U. S. He resigned from the FBI to join the Navy in World War II, with duty in both the Atlantic and the Pacific.

As a leader in Congress, Burleson has consistently urged the return to a sounder fiscal policy and the cutting of unnecessary and extravagant federal spending.

"I have tried to see that your tax money is spent as wisely, and as judiciously, as you would have spent it had you been in my place," Burleson said. "The record will definitely show that on many occasions I have found myself with the minority — especially on needless spending of the taxpayers' money. I am proud that I have never failed to exercise the right to vote and to do as I thought best."

"At every session of Congress, I have voted for expenditures below that recommended by the Executive Department, and far below that actually appropriated by the Congress, except in the field of National Defense," Burleson said.

"When it comes to the defense of this Country, I have always voted for those things calculated to make and to keep our Nation stronger than any other in the World," he said.

Burleson said he feels there are those other things for which the Government was designed and, of course it costs money. "Such things as conservation of our natural resources — caring for God's gifts to people that they may be preserved for future generations," he said.

Burleson also said that the individual, groups of individuals or local governmental entities are unable to cope with matters of flood control and, in many cases, an adequate water supply. "We have got to look to the future if our area progresses. For one thing, this means water is a priority concern."

"The Federal Government has assisted our area in numerous respects in coping with some of these problems. We have our share of flood control projects and our share of attention to those now in the planning stage. An example is the effort to find an answer to the flood threat in Abilene and several other places."

"An example of other Federal activity in our area is, of course, our military installations, new Post Office buildings and other Federal interests which are proper and needed."

Further, Burleson said that he "certainly subscribes to the idea that the Government should help the elderly and those people who are unable to help themselves."

Burleson has been an implacable foe of the constant encroachment of the Federal Government into the area of State and local affairs.

"As the Federal Government has grown to its colossal proportions, the threat of centralized power in Washington has increased," Burleson pointed out. "To this, I am opposed, as my actions have proved."

"Big Government and high taxes are the result of many activities of the Federal Government which should be reserved to the States. Big Government with its far-flung operations has created needless waste and extravagance."

Burleson stated he was proud of the "trust and the confidence placed in me by the people who send me to Congress — and to violate that trust in any respect would be unthinkable."

He urged residents of the 17th District not familiar with his background of service to investigate the record he has made — "And if you believe I have been faithful to duty and worthy of your continued support, then your active participation in my campaign will be greatly appreciated."

Well-known throughout Texas, Burleson is a native of the 17th District. He was born and raised on a farm between Anson and Stamford in Jones County. He attended rural school, and graduated from Anson High School. Following graduation, Burleson attended Abilene Christian College, Hardin Simmons University, and graduated from Cumberland Law School. Later, he studied postgraduate law at the University of Texas.

Burleson married Ruth DeWeese,
