AD-LIB-BEN

We were much remiss last week; we were also negligent, dilatory and inattentive to the sacred duty and trust of our profession; we inexcusably fell down on the job. We failed to mention in last week's Enterprise a story going around that James L. Golson made a hole in one at hole number one of the local golf course.

We were a little doubtful of the authenticity of the story until Mr. G. produced a witness, a person of no less veracity and reputation than J. T. Henry. J. T. said it was a fact. He added that inasmuch as he was playing with the hero of this tale, he certainly would not tell it if it were not true. J. T. turned a little peaked as he told us he had never experienced an attack of nausea to equal the one which swept over him when that ball rolled into the cup.

So far as has been reported to The Enterprise, Mr. G's hole in one is the third to be made at the course in Bronte. Ronnie Lee accomplished this practically impossible feat a few years ago and Charlie Brown also made one.

Classes To Start Monday For Area Pre-School Kids

Special classes for pre-school children of Bronte School District will begin Monday, May 30, on the local campus, it was announced by Supt. C. B. Barbee.

Bronte School officials hope to enroll all children of the district who will be eligible to enroll in the first grade next September. If the class is not overcrowded, Barbee said, some five-year-old children who will start to school in 1967, may be enrolled for the special instruction.

Participation in the program will not cost the child any money. All instruction and materials used will be furnished. Parents of children will be responsible for getting them to and from classes.

Funds for the program will be provided by the federal government under its Title I program of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

The classes will meet three hours a day, from 8 until 11 a.m., five days a week, for six weeks. Mrs. C. B. Barbee, local first grade teacher, will instruct the class. Supt. Barbee and Prin. James L. Golson will supervise the program.

Barbee said the purpose of the program is to get the children ready for first grade work before regular classes begin in the fall.

Anyone who wishes to enroll his child in the class should see one of the persons mentioned above.

Seniors Given Diplomas, Hear McMurry Dean

There are three ways to face the future, according to Dr. Howard Ramsey, who delivered the main address at the Bronte High School commencement Tuesday night.

The dean of McMurry College in Abilene told the 19 graduating seniors that they could look at what lies ahead of them like Zero (in the comic strip), like Nero (who fiddled while Rome burned), or like a Hero, (who does his best at all times).

Dr. Ramsey said the Zeros are people who have to be told every move to make and have no initiative or imagination of their own. He said the Neros have plenty of

Bond Prospectus On Robt. Lee Dam Is About Ready

Information for a bond prospectus for the new Colorado River Municipal Water District issue — possibly for $30,000,000 — is about complete.

O. H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD, completed the last of the narrative about member and customer cities, and Freese, Nichols, and Endress, consulting engineers, were almost finished with statistical and engineering data. Possibly within a week all this will be in the hands of Richard Locke, who is shaping up this portion of the financing for Eastman, Dillon, and Union Securities, Inc., the fiscal agents.

It is not improbable that everything can be ready for receiving bids in late June.

Meanwhile, the district is edging forward on plans for construction of a four-mile long dam across the Colorado River just above Robert Lee. Last week another small tract of land was acquired, and negotiations were under way for two other parcels. CRMWD so far has acquired over 3,600 acres, almost all in the dam site. The entire project will require nearly 17,000 acres.

Contacts have been made with oil companies relatives to getting some three dozen oil wells in the basin "in the dry," and with the state highway department for relocation of about eight miles of SH 158.

Engineers have been pressing for a completion of plans by the fore part of July, but they will be hard pressed to do this.

County Agents News Column

By STERLING LINDSEY

The pecan nut casebearer situation or infestation is still not well defined enough for us to say on exactly what day a spray control program should be started. Too many factors are still indefinite.

State-wide, according to reports received this week, the casebearer is behind his normal schedule and his first generation is spread over a longer than normal time period. The combination of the two factors makes positive control more difficult.

Our finds indicate the same situation exists in Coke County. I have found a few eggs, but not enough to positively say when the peak egg hatch will occur. If what I have found is representative, I now think the time to spray for maximum control will be between May 27 and June 1.

We would again suggest that you check your trees for casebearer signs. The only way to be sure of casebearer activity in a given place is to check all trees at that location for eggs and the tiny casebearer larva. Look for small, pale white or brownish white eggs on the blossoms or on the side of the nuts.

If you wish to spray twice, I would suggest spraying around the 26th and again May 30 to June 1. Be sure to add zinc sulfate to your spray solution. Also use ample pressure to force the spray through the leaves to the nut clusters.

Coke County has had several samples of worms sent to the screwworm laboratory for identification lately. All have returned checked non-screwworm. State-wide Texas had six cases last week.

Cow No. 84-41, a part of Texas A&M University's Pasture Station near Lufkin for 25 years, died recently. Her last calf was born when she was 22 years old. She raised a total of 18 calves with a total weaning weight of nearly 9,000 pounds. Her mother was a full-blood Hereford and her sire a pure-bred Brahman. Thus, she was a first cross. E. K. Crouch, superintendent of the station, kept detailed records on 84-41 and her calves. She left 5 daughters, 2 grandsons, 7 granddaughters and 1 great granddaughter in the station herd. She is described by Crouch as the perfect mother cow.

Approximately 21,000 landowners leased 33,000,000 acres for all types of hunting in '65. The total income to landowners was approximately $13,177,000. The total income from leasing increased by approximately one million over 1964.

Of the 21,000 landowners leasing for hunting, 16,700 leased for deer hunting. Eighty percent of these landowners used season leases and 20% used day leases.

The state average charge for annual leases for deer hunting is 46c per acre. In Extension District 7, which includes most of the Edwards Plateau, the average charge was 80c per acre.

For day leases, the state average return was $1.10 per acre. Although this is more than twice the return per acre for season leases, it should not be assumed that the day method of leasing is more profitable since increased labor and other costs are involved.

San Antonio Man Writes To Mayor

(Editor's note: The following letter was received a few days ago by Mayor Royce Lee after the writer saw a picture taken at the regional track meet held at Big Spring. The picture, which was of David Glenn rounding the track filled with water, was sent out over the wire services.)

City Mayor
Bronte (Coke County)
Texas

Dear Sir:

Being an avid track fan — in my days a middle distant runner from Northwestern University — my attention was called to the enclosed clipping (showing one of your boys) which by the way you might care to forward on to him. It appeared in the San Antonio Light newspaper.

I am particularly interested in the name of your community since it is BRONTE — for in 1961 I made a trip to Haworth in Yorkshire, England, to tour the Bronte country. It was here that Charlotte and her literary sisters lived — in the rectory from which they composed their famed novels, poems etc. Of course, Charlotte Bronte's JANE EYRE is possibly the best known, though WUTHERING HEIGHTS by Emily Bronte, according to some authorities, is the best English novel ever written.

Would you be so kind as to let me know if your city is named after the Bronte from Haworth, England, since beside myself several English friends would be interested in knowing? I note on the road map that the town of Tennyson is nearby — so possibly settlers from England named these communities, would you think?

Congratulations to you for residing in BRONTE.

Thanking you very much.

Yours sincerely,
Harry Hotchkiss, Oil Geologist

Boys Ranch Week Being Observed

The week beginning May 23 is being observed in Coke County and West Texas as Boys Ranch Week, according to J. O. Rudd, Coke County's wagon boss for the annual round-up for the ranch.

Director of this year's round-up is Roddy Peeples, well known farm and ranch news commentator.

A successful round-up of donated livestock is doubly essential this year. The funds brought in by sale of the stock are needed to carry on normal operations of feeding, clothing and caring for boys at the ranch; besides this expense, a devastating fire last week destroyed the boys' recreation building and all their equipment. Rudd said, "This misfortune makes a donation from everyone even more important than usual."

Rudd is being assisted in his wagon boss chores this year by C. E. Arrott of Bronte.

Anyone who has an animal or the money equivalent to donate to Boys Ranch is requested to contact Rudd or Arrott. Arrangements will be made to pick up animals and cash.
