UCRA HEAD REPORTS TO BCD ON DAM

G. C. Allen, Robert Lee banker and Chairman of the Upper Colorado River Authority, discussed the proposed Robert Lee dam at some length at Tuesday's noon meeting of the BCD.

Allen explained to the 16 members present that the death this week of Col. E. V. Spence of Big Spring, long time head of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, would not have any effect on the location of the dam here. Allen pointed out that letters have been sent out to neighboring counties requesting their cooperation in pushing the Robert Lee project to approval by the State Board of Water Engineers.

W. E. Jacoby, of the Soil Conservation Service, spoke briefly on a proposed program to honor outstanding conservationists and organizations which have pushed soil and water conservation in this county.

Joe Pickle, editor of the Big Spring Herald and secretary of the Colorado River Municipal Water District told The Observer Wednesday that he can see no change in the situation regarding the Robert Lee damsite because of the death this week of Chairman E. V. Spence.

"Of course the death of a man of his stature and influence will not help us any," Pickle said. "Right now the whole thing is still in a state of suspended animation," the secretary said, "and we are still waiting on a ruling by the water board."

Oklahoma Man Killed Thursday In Fiery Crash Of Light Plane

A fiery airplane crash took the life of a Pauls Valley, Okla., man last Thursday afternoon. The crash occurred about 4 p.m., 7½ miles north-northeast of Robert Lee on the W. M. (Bill) McCutchen place in the Graham Valley community. Victim of the crash was Clarence E. Smith, who was alone in the Piper Tri-Pacer, four passenger craft. It crashed into a hillside.

According to J. W. Service Sr., who was plowing in a field about a quarter mile from the crash scene, the pilot apparently was not having any trouble with the plane, as the engine was running all right. Service said the plane banked in a circle and might have been caught in a downdraft, since it kept gliding downward until it crashed into the hill.

Most of the plane remained in one section and caught fire, but some small pieces were strewn along the crash path. The plane was registered to Smith Flying

Service of Pauls Valley.

Williams Funeral Home ambulance rushed to the scene of the crash, and removed the body which was completely burned. The body was shipped Friday to Griffin and Leggett Funeral Home in Little Rock, Ark. Services were held Monday, with burial following in Edgewood Cemetery in North Little Rock.

Survivors are unknown here, except for Mr. Smith's wife of Pauls Valley.

A project was plugged back and recompleted as a gas well in the Jameson (Strawn) field, 16 miles northwest of Robert Lee.

The venture is Sun Oil Co. No. 4 B. Anderson, 1,980 feet from the south and west lines of W. A. Stepp Survey 254.

Calculated, absolute, open flow was four million cubic feet of gas daily with a gas-liquid hydrocarbon ratio of 23,310-1 of 73.4 gravity.

It is producing from perforations at 5,745, 48, 51, 54, 82 and 85 feet after being treated with 15,000 gallons of frac and 1,450 gallons of acid.

The 5 1/2 inch casing is set at 6,467 feet and the hole bottomed at 6,527 feet.

The drive for funds to help sustain the Screwworm Control Program continues to show results. But, we still lack a sizeable amount of our quota.

As of Monday afternoon, 126 operators had contributed $1955.83 to the program. This represents approximately 72% of our quota and 35% of our operators.

Willis Wayne Smith, drive secretary, has forwarded the fund to the Southwest Animal Research Foundation. The Foundation directors requested the drive be this week if possible and the balance of funds be forwarded next Monday. They are virtually without funds and must present matching funds to receive additional Federal assistance during the balance of this program year.

Leroy Elliott, government trapper working for and with Coke County and the Coke County Trappers Association, removed six bobcats, one coyote and two red fox during the past reporting period of two months. Also, four places were baited and approximately 30 varmints taken. He is working five places now, has worked three others this period and has answered three calls.

A discussion during a recent

The Observer, Robert Lee, Texas

April 8, 1965

Trappers' Association directors meeting revealed, in the six and a half years in Coke County, Mr. Elliott has removed 52 coyotes, 250 red fox and 300 bobcats. He estimated the number of varmints taken to be between 1400 and 1500. These figures do not include any predators or varmints that may have been removed by poisoned baits.

Applying a complete fertilizer to lawns soon after spring growth begins has many advantages, according to Neal Pratt, an Extension agronomist at Texas A&M University.

Pratt says spring lawn fertilization encourages early growth and early green color, improves water-use efficiency, and increases hardiness and drought resistance because fertilizer helps the grass to develop a stronger, deeper root system.

Complete fertilizers are those containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. Common examples are 12-12-12 and 10-10-10. Pounds of nutrients in each 100 lbs. The numbers represent the pounds.

The rule-of-thumb in applying fertilizer to lawns is to use two pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet, according to the agronomist. With the complete fertilizer recommended for early application, the other two nutrients will naturally be applied at about the same rate.

During summer an application of fertilizer that is high in nitrogen should be made every eight to ten weeks.

The Coke County Field Crops committee plans to give increased attention to soil testing and the use of fertilizers this year. They believe that fertilizers can increase net profits in many situations in Coke County.

Two fertilizer tests have been planned to date. Fred McCabe, Jr., plans to test three different application rates on cotton. Pat Johnson will conduct similar tests. A field tour to view the tests and other programs will be held this summer.

Joe and Douglas Pierce of San Angelo spent the weekend with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Davis.

If you use pesticides, use caution.

Here are some pesticide "do's" and "don't's".

Do protect the skin with appropriate washable or disposable covering and wash or dispose of the covering promptly.

Wash with soap and water and change clothing immediately if you spill a pesticide concentrate on skin or clothing.

Don't let pesticides come into prolonged contact with your skin.

Read the label before you buy a pesticide. Then buy the correct product for your purpose. Check whether it's effective against the insect or pest you want to use it on.

If you plan to use it in your home, make sure the product can be used safely there.

Wurlan Treatment Strengthens Wool Fabric

Wurlanized wool, which appeared on the consumer market slightly more than a year ago, is a scientific development in the shrinkproofing of wool which is gaining in popularity.

This treatment was invented in the Wool and Mohair Laboratory of the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Albany, Calif., and is technically known as an interfacial polymerization treatment of wool.

In this chemical finishing process, an extremely thin film of polymer forms on the surface of the wool fibers. Wurlan differs from most previously used chemical treatments in that it does not weaken the wool. Instead, it appears to strengthen the fibers and should provide better wearing qualities and increased durability.

Total usefulness of any treatment or process to manufacture shrinkproof wool fabric also depends on other properties of the treated and laundered fabric. Adding shrinkproofness and laundering capability must not create undesirable fabric properties for the wearer.

These properties of wurlan-treated fabrics have been determined by observations of many different weights, weaves, and colors of fabrics that have been treated under both laboratory and mill operating conditions:

1. Hand—the hand of fabric treated in this manner is considered good to excellent.
2. Shrinkage—yard goods have shown less than five per cent of directional shrink after continuous machine washing in 140 degree water five hours.
3. Permanence—indications are that it will last the life of the garment.
4. Colors and shades — a slight change in dye-bath necessary to compensate for the darkening effected by the wurlan treatment.
5. Permanent pleat—no problem to apply these to wurlanized fabrics.
6. Strength—treated fabrics are from 5 to 10 per cent stronger.
7. Wearability—laboratory tests indicate a significant improvement over untreated goods in abrasion resistance.
8. Drying—there is no essential change in the drying rate after treatment.
9. Air permeability—is slightly

April Plentiful Foods List

The "budgetwise" homemaker will plan her menus during April to include many of the foods from the Plentiful List. The April Plentiful Foods List includes eggs, prunes, broilers-fryers, turkeys, canned pink salmon, fresh cabbage, fresh carrots, fresh onions, dry peas, honey and canned pears.

Cabbage

Cabbage really gets around. It's grown commercially in 34 of our 50 states—and it's eaten and enjoyed in all of them.

Farmers in the four major winter cabbage production states — Florida, Texas, Arizona and California—expect to harvest larger-than-average crop this season — about 680 million pounds.

Give color to your meals with the rich green of cabbage. The secret in maintaining the color of the fresh cabbage is to cook it uncovered in a minimum amount of water. Enjoy colorful Shredded Cabbage. Wash the cabbage, cut into quarters and shred, using a Frenchstyle knife or a very coarse grater. Cook uncovered in a minimum amount of rapidly boiling water for about five minutes. As soon as tender, but still crisp, add butter, salt and pepper. Serve immediately.

Here's a recipe for enough

Braised Cabbage to serve six adequately. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in a heavy skillet and add 1½ quarts (6 cups) shredded cabbage. Cover tightly and cook until cabbage is just tender, about five to seven minutes. Stir frequently, adding water if necessary. Season with salt and pepper.

Scalloped Cabbage. Cook shredded cabbage uncovered in rapidly boiling salted water, for about five minutes. Drain, and add medium thick white cream or cheese sauce. Pour into buttered baking dish, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes. For bright color, sprinkle with paprika.

Sheepmen to See Educational Film On Worm Control

Coke County people interested in sheep and the sheep industry will have an opportunity to see a new full-color sound motion picture on internal parasite control at 7:30 p.m., Monday, April 12, in the Recreation Hall.

Titled "Winning the Worm War", the 25-minute educational film will be presented by Key Feed Store.

The motion picture, newly released by Merck & Co., Inc., was filmed in the United States and Australia. Parts of the film, which deal with the life cycle of worms, are considered so outstanding that these sequences were given special recognition at the World's Veterinary Congress.

The film story tells vividly why worms are a major problem in sheep, and how real help in solving this problem is now available through the science of modern agricultural chemistry. Thiabendazole, the compound described in the film, is the first new wormer to be made available to the sheep industry since before World War II.

Worms rob the nation's sheep industry each year of 22 million dollars worth of meat that never goes to market, and of 4 million dollars' worth of wool that is never worn, according to authoritative sources. The film shows how each sheepman can do his part to help prevent these losses.

All sheepmen and other interested in this vital problem are invited to attend the film showing. — Adv.
