ROOSEVELT COUNTY GETS THE DOUBLE DOUBLE AT FAIR IN ALBUQUERQUE

Awards are Made Under Threats of Future Non-Participation by Other Counties

The Award Has Been Contested by Roosevelt County but Decision Cannot be Reversed

From the best information at hand it appears that Roosevelt county has got the double-double at the Albuquerque state fair this year. We went there with an honest exhibit and had every reason to expect that in the event that we were entitled to first money that it would be ours, such, however, is not the case. The judges, themselves, consisting of H. M. Bainer, of the Santa Fe, the Colorado agricultural expert, and the El Paso and Rio Grande expert, admitted and agreed that Roosevelt county was entitled to the first prize for the best county display, but stated that other counties had threatened to quit the state fair if Roosevelt county was permitted to win two years in succession. Also there are eye witnesses to prove that Eddy county, to whom was awarded first place, had gone to the Chaves county booth and selected their corn and such other exhibits as they wanted, to put with theirs in this contest. Another small piece of business was the circulating of a petition to close all booths Tuesday night so that the electric effects prepared by our commissioners could not be put on. The visitors and, even the contesting counties, freely admit that Roosevelt county was the only one in the running and all other counties had given up any hope they might have had for first money, and the only contest they considered was for second and third places. About this time many of the counties gave out the information that in the event that Roosevelt county was given the first prize they would not again participate in any state fair. Our commissioners did not pay any particular attention to these threats, believing that they were in no danger, but Thursday they were disillusioned and Eddy county was given the decision and Roosevelt county second. This was so clearly wrong that Mr. A. A. Rogers immediately entered a contest and wired for C. V. Harris, chairman of the county commissioners, to get the other members of the board and come at once, which he did. Roosevelt county went to this exposition feeling confident that she could win, because she had the stuff to win with. We went to a large expense to so arrange our exhibits that they would show to the best possible advantage and every one conceded that we had no way in the world to lose, having been assured that awards of the judges would be made exclusively on the merits of the exhibits shown. That the awards were not so made is not even a matter of contention. The sole consideration seems to have been that it would not be possible to permit this county to win the second time; that other counties would not again make any attempt to enter competition against the products of this county and that, in order to con-

those counties it was necessary to give Roosevelt the double-double and to take from her the best fruits of her industry. It is to be the policy of the fair commission Roosevelt might just as well stay home, and also might all the other counties of the state. If the awards are not to be made upon the merits of the products shown at the state fair ceases to be an institution of interest to the people of the state, and becomes only one for the mulcting of certain counties in the interest of others and for the boosting of Albuquerque as a state fair. This state fair is fostered by the contributions of the various counties thereof, as by the citizens of the Albuquerque, and the judges are selected that local products and conditions could enter into their deliberations. That such is not the case is a matter of regret and will, undoubtedly, contribute to the abandonment of the fair as a state institution. Roosevelt county does not need this decision to prove that she has every other county state backed off the ground when it comes to crop products, and the fact that she won her laurels in the manner will not grant the counties participating the wrong any material amount, except the paltry thousands thus secured. It is a matter of some congratulation to know that we have the even though we are not permitted to enter any contest with the chance of receiving what the rights belong to us. As a matter of fact, we should have a vehement adjectival assault on this decision even though the products of all the remaining counties of the state had been bunched against us. It is hoped that this decision will be reversed, for the same influence of C. McDonald, who refused to that inspired the first wrong which was sufficient to make the wrong stand.

E. P. Kuhl Again

Rev. E. P. Kuhl has no conception whatever of humor. Last week he came into the News office with four boxes of the finest, most luscious straw berries a person would want to see anywhere and he pushed them up under the nose of the News man and asked him if they did not look good and smell good. Of course they did but if that wasn't cruelty to animals and punishable as such then this paper much misjudges the law in such cases made and provided. Mr. Kuhl says that he has had strawberries all summer and that he will continue to have them for many days yet. He is some gardner and if there is any such thing as making stuff grow you may rest assured that you will find it at his place.

Ed. J. Neer and Dr. J. L. Reid returned from the state fair at Albuquerque. They report that Roosevelt county was an easy winner over all and that her booths were the center of attraction for all visitors who, unanimously, voted her first money and that with no competitors in any way interesting.

Will Miller, an engineer on the Texas Pacific railroad running from Big Springs to Baird, Texas has been visiting his mother and brothers at this place for the past week, returned to his home at Big Springs Tuesday morning. His mother accompanied him.

REPUBLICAN STATE CHAIRMAN, WHISPERING GILLENWATER, LAUNCHES A VERY WEAK DEFENSE

Manager for Frank A. Hubbell and for Holm O. Bursum Pulls a Political Stunt That, for Simon Pure Assininity, Cannot be Excelled Even by Whispering, Himself

He is Peeved at Summers Burkhart Because He, as an Attorney Appearing for His Client, Asked for a Receiver for the Montezuma Trust Company, of Which Whispering was an Officer. Whispering Enhoisted by His Own Petard

The following was taken from the Santa Fe New Mexican of Tuesday, September 26th, a Republican newspaper which refuses to stand for the past performances of that party in the state affairs of New Mexico:

Mr. Whispering Gillenwater, political manager for Frank A. Hubbell, during whose regime in Bernalillo county the political court became justly famous and Judge B. S. Baker, of the Hubbell ring, was removed from office for malfeasance—

Mr. Whispering Gillenwater, manager for Frank A. Hubbell, whom he bitterly denounced as of "evil purposes" and a traitor from the party, four years ago—

Mr. Whispering Gillenwater, who raged up and down the earth four years ago condemning the Hubbell influence and conducting a vehement adjectival assault on the Hubbell record—

Mr. Whispering Gillenwater, who is managing the Republican campaign because W. C. McDonald, who refused to appoint Mr. Gillenwater's Montezuma Trust company candidate traveling auditor—

Whispering Gillenwater, who has begun to take the closing of his Montezuma company in Albuquerque. It has desired its members on this matter. It is much easier now than it was when Mr. Gillenwater has brought up the subject in view of Mr. Whispering Gillenwater's recent broadcast of the form of a Republican advertisement filled with interesting slander and former traveling auditor, who refused to appoint Mr. Gillenwater's Montezuma Trust company candidate traveling auditor, as appointed in the place of Gillenwater's candidate!

Mr. Gillenwater rushes before the public with his Montezuma company defense, before charges have been put out in a six-page opposition statement. Apparently drafted by the idea of "incidentally" making this defense, is in the form of a "solemn protest," and wishes to see "the in of the courts maintained" by the appointment of a Burkhart as U. S. district judge. Right here it may be said that in view of the judicial record in Albuquerque of District Judge B. S. Baker, member of the ring headed by Frank Hubbell, Mr. Gillenwater's present candidate for the U. S. senate, we may draw our own conclusions as to Mr. Gillenwater's idea of the "integrity of the courts," the sacredness of the judiciary and the immaculateness of the ermine.

We will state in all frankness that this letter is the ugliest, most venomous, most vicious, most malicious, most contemptible attack on the personal character of a man which we have ever seen issued during the progress of any campaign in New Mexico. Fortunately its malice, its venom, its ugliness are at once evident and deprive the letter of any political effect which it might otherwise have.

In the first place the spectacle of a campaign manager for Frank Hubbell pleading for the "integrity of the courts" is conducive to uproarious laughter.

In the second place the spectacle of a Republican campaign manager solemnly warning against the appointment of a Democrat by a Democratic president to a federal position is highly entertaining.

In the third place Mr. Whispering Gillenwater, at once gives the whole thing away by disclosing that he doesn't like Mr. Burkhart since the time that Mr. Burkhart, representing persons having a stock interest in the Montezuma Trust company, succeeded in getting this institution into the hands of a receiver. Whether or not Mr. Burkhart's action appeared to be based on good grounds the reader may conclude for himself after reading Mr. Gillenwater's advance defense of the institution, whose stockholders, he says, exclusive of officers and directors, only stood to lose a mere trifle of some ten to fifteen thousand dollars.

Mr. Whispering Gillenwater also says that Mr. Burkhart filed suit making "general charges of mismanagement" against Mr. Gillenwater; "that I had used the company for personal ends and had, at or about the time the company discontinued business, a large overdraft."

Thus we have the reasons for everything as plain as a pikestaff.

Mr. Whispering Gillenwater is slandering the governor of New Mexico because the governor refused to appoint his Montezuma Trust company candidate as traveling auditor.

Mr. Whispering Gillenwater is slandering the former traveling auditor because he was appointed in place of Mr. Gillenwater's Montezuma Trust company candidate.

Mr. Whispering Gillenwater is violently slandering the U. S. district attorney because the latter is the man who caused his Montezuma Trust company to be placed in a receiver's hands and filed a complaint against Mr. Whispering Gillenwater alleging mismanagement of a bank.

Mr. Whispering Gillenwater, former head of the Montezuma Trust company, is conducting an attack upon W. C. McDonald and Howell Earnest, as the champion of Sound Banking! From our conception of the intelligence of the average citizen of New Mexico, we believe, in view of the foregoing, that there is little need to worry about any charges which Mr. Whispering Gillenwater, advocate of Court Integrity and Frank A. Hubbell, may peddle to the voters during this campaign. As a pure ivory play, this Burkhart letter of Cap.'s has the head of a fossilized mammoth looking as soft as cheese.

Miss Nora Fairly

Miss Nora Fairly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Fairly, a graduate of the Portales high school, accepted a position as teacher of Spanish in the fifth and sixth grades in the schools of Hope, New Mexico. While she is, probably the youngest teacher in the state, yet she, this early in the school year has been promoted to the position of teacher of Spanish, Latin and history in the high school. This is a distinct compliment to Miss Fairly, an honor to the Portales schools and a mark of merit that should encourage all young teachers who are just beginning in this profession. Miss Nora is a Portales young lady, having grown from almost babyhood, to young womanhood within the limits of the city and she is well known by almost every citizen of the town. Her friends, which are many, will be glad to know that her ability has been recognized and that already she is advancing rapidly in her chosen profession.

A Golden Wedding

Cards are out announcing the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hardy for October 16th, 1916. Mr. R. Hardy was married to Miss Alanda Isabel Kolb at Aberdeen, Mississippi on October 16, 1860, fifty years ago from the date of the present reception. Handsome engraved invitations announcing the event are out. This will be the first golden wedding to be celebrated since the organization of the town and considerable interest is manifested in it, both on account of the prominence of the parties and of the novelty of being the first event of its kind in Portales. Mr. and Mrs. Hardy have many friends in the city who will wish them continued happiness and long life.

Don't forget the foot ball game next Saturday at 2:30 between the Hereford, Texas, high school team and the Portales high school boys. Give them a good crowd and thus encourage them. There is no reason why Portales should not have as good a foot ball team as there is in the plains country. A little encouragement will do the work.

E. L. Hinton, who has been visiting at Midlothian, Texas, for the past ten days, returned Thursday. He will commence his school at New Hope, this county, Monday.

ROOSEVELT COUNTY EXHIBITS AT THE STATE FAIR ARE THE BEST EVER

They Receive the Highest Praise From the Albuquerque Morning Journal Wednesday

Taste and Ingenuity Displayed in the Arrangement and Crowds Gather Round It

From the accounts in the newspapers Roosevelt county appears to be in a fair way to come home with the mazuma from the state fair at Albuquerque again this year. It was scarcely expected that we could win in a walk the second time against the whole state, but unless appearances fail, that is just what we are going to do. The committee, consisting of A. A. Rogers, chairman, and Carl Turner and Coe Howard, assisted by Charley Goodloe and L. B. Tucker, are in charge, and they certainly have been putting up some show.

From what information there is at hand, it appears that every county in the state except Bernalillo, went to this exposition with an avowed intention to wrest the laurels from Roosevelt county, and should we win again in the face of all this opposition it will be proof positive that we have the goods over every other portion of the state. Of course we have known that there was not another place under the bright and shining sun that had anything on us when it came to dry or irrigated farming, but getting this information before the world was another matter. The question of advertising the resources of this country has been one that has presented many difficulties, but it is believed that the state fair presents more and better opportunities than any other channel for this purpose. The publicity that will be gained should we again win the county prize will be worth many thousands of dollars to the people of Portales and Roosevelt county.

Below is given an extract from the Albuquerque Morning Journal. It will give our people some idea of the nature of display that is being made, and it will also give them some idea of the diligence and ingenuity of the fair committee. Citizens of this neck of the woods should feel proud of the work of their fair committee and they should go to some pains to express their appreciation of their endeavors in behalf of this county. Furthermore, they should remember that this committee has not had the assistance and cooperation from the citizenship that they were entitled to expect. That they have gone ahead and put on a display that can reflect only the very highest credit upon themselves and upon the county as a whole is but another evidence of their patriotism and of their devotion to their home community. If we do win it will be through the efforts of this fair committee and through their efforts almost entirely.

"The county tent was again thronged with visitors yesterday and renewed evidences were given of the keen rivalry between the counties for the first prize of one thousand dollars offered by the fair management for the best county agricultural exhibit. The confusion apparent on Monday

World-Telephone to Level All Barriers and Bring Common Brotherhood of Man

By JOHN J. CARTY Chief Engineer American Telephone and Telegraph Company

There can be no doubt whatever that some day we shall establish telephone communication with every part of the known world. This is the work we are engaged on now. What will be the effect of all this? Where people do not freely communicate with each other they do not understand each other. There is misunderstanding, there is suspicion, there is jealousy, there is war. But when people can freely communicate with each other they are drawn together and a condition is created where all interests are common to all the people. The world-telephone will make a common language a necessity. That does not mean that all languages except one will disappear, but there will be one language which all the world will understand and use for communication. It will be the language that we Americans talk. And with the common understanding of language will come a free exchange of thought and of ideas and a common brotherhood of man. Frontiers will gradually disappear, and we shall evolve into one great family of mankind. That, I believe, is the true mission of the telephone.

What we ought all to be specially proud of is the fact that these achievements are the product of American institutions and reflect the genius of our people. The story of the telephone, the story of its development, is the story of our own country, a story exclusively of American enterprise and of American progress. All the most powerful governments of Europe have tried their best to develop and operate telephone systems, and with what results? Great contributions to the art have not been made by any one of them.

Americans have given a new voice to mankind, have created and perfected an electrical system of communication for the advancement of civilization. Americans have extended without limit the carrying power of the human voice, eliminating barriers to speech, binding together our own people and now reaching out with the great aim of some day bringing all the people of all the nations of the earth into a common brotherhood.

Evil of Economic Inequality Is More Brutal Now Even Than in Ancient Days

By MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY of Boston

Is humanity in the grip of evil? Yes, according to my interpretation as to what constitutes evil. The evil of economic inequality as it applies to the struggle for a livelihood is more brutal in our day than in ancient times because of the subtle character of its concealment.

In ancient times the lash of the taskmaster made death both speedy and welcome for its victim; in our day with three-quarters of the adult male population receiving an average wage of less than $600 per annum, death is slow, but nevertheless welcome because of the inability of the workman from his meager weekly pittance to provide the necessities essential for the prolongation of life.

Of the 300,000 infants who die annually in America more than one-half are victims of malnutrition and the industrial system under which prospective and nursing mothers are obliged to toil in manufacturing and mercantile establishments at a time when they should not only be the objects of tender solicitude but the recipients of the means which it is possible to provide for bodily health.

The fact that 8,000,000 women are employed in the United States, and that more than 50 per cent of these women are engaged in what might properly be termed manual labor, is a most powerful indictment of both our economic and social systems.

Two million children of school age are at work in the United States, and it is not an unreasonable assertion that 10 per cent of these children upon arrival at man's estate will be of little value to the community in which they live.

A livelier patriotism than that which sheds its blood willingly for flag or country is imperative, that motherhood may receive her heritage, comfort and the necessities of life, that children may be clothed with the armor of education to combat ignorance, that man may receive income sufficient to provide for life and not mere existence, to the end that the dread specter of misery may not steal the sunlight in its waking hours and that poverty and pauperism may not make of his slumber a hideous nightmare.

Plain Talk by Fearless Preachers in Pulpit Might Have Averted Great War

By REV. T. F. DORNBLASSER of Chicago

The warring nations of the world stand in great need of prophets at this time. They have had priests and preachers by the thousands, but few prophets like Elijah and John the Baptist. They have had an abundance of expert ministrants at the altar, but few fearless preachers in the pulpit.

How many preachers in Europe have dared to rebuke their sovereigns to their faces? How many chaplains have dared to rebuke their superior officers in the army and navy? The ministry of the state churches has been practically muzzled. The men in the pulpits who should have warned the ruling classes against greed and unholy ambitions confined themselves largely, for the sake of peace and their bread and butter, to the established ritual.

If Europe had been manned by prophets instead of priests and ritualists, this calamity might have been averted. Prophets are not cowed by the threats and chains of rulers. They are not subservient to their wealthy parishioners, who pay them handsome salaries. The high-salaried preacher who boasts of it and looks patronizingly upon his brethren of low degree usually wears a muzzle over his mouth. He knows that pew rents come in much more cheerfully when he prophesies smooth things to the people, and especially from his rich parishioners.

The popular pulpiteers of today are the clerics who dress to suit the ladies, who talk to please their pew holders, and who disport sufficiently to win the favor of the pleasure-loving crowd. I am speaking of the high-salaried, fashionable pulpits, which by their commanding position should be watch towers of national safety, but for lack of courage and conviction on the part of their occupants they are echoes of public sentiment and high priests of popular amusement.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

I do not think there is any other quality so essential to success of any kind, as the quality of perseverance. It overcomes almost everything, even nature.—John D. Rockefeller.

MORE ABOUT FRUITS.

You read occasionally how one tires of serving the fresh fruit, such as berries, peaches, pears and melons, but if the great number of people could voice their opinion in that regard they would say fresh fruit is always acceptable and only wish the season for each was longer.

The everbearing strawberry is one of the fruits that is justly flavored, for we all agree that "God might have made a better berry," but he surely never did. For those who do tire of sugared fresh fruit of any kind the following recipes will be helpful.

Peach Delight.—Pare, cut in halves and remove the stones from a dozen ripe peaches, reserving a few of the pits. Boil the pits in half a cupful of water for 15 minutes and strain. Mix together a half cupful of sugar and a tablespoonful of flour; butter a baking dish and put in a layer of peaches, sprinkle with the sugar and dot with bits of butter; cover with another layer of peaches until all are used; pour over the water in which the pits were boiled and cover with a rich crust and bake. Make several openings for the steam to escape. Serve with cream.

Peach Compote.—Scald two cupfuls of milk in a double boiler and add one-half a cupful of farina gradually, while stirring constantly. When the mixture thickens, add a fourth of a cupful of sugar and a half teaspoonful of salt and cook for 20 minutes; then add the whites of two eggs, beaten, and pour in a buttered dish. Remove the skins from six peaches, put into a saucepan with six tablespoonfuls of sugar and four of water, cover and cook slowly until the fruit is soft. Cut the farina in squares and on each place a peach and pour peach sauce over all to serve.

Peach Sauce.—Mix a half a tablespoonful of cornstarch with one tablespoonful of water. Add to the peach syrup remaining in the saucepan; boil two minutes, then pour slowly, stirring constantly over the yolks of two eggs beaten until thick. Add two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice and a few grains of salt.

The time we now so profusely lavish away, and which flies from us so imperceptibly, will fall us; and we would be willing to give any price for one or two of those days we lose now with so much insensibility.

THINGS WORTH TRYING.

There are so many people these days who are using coarse breads that the following recipe may be found useful for variety.

Health Bread.—Take a quart of nice fresh bran, half a pint of graham flour, and the same amount of white flour, one teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, all sifted and well mixed together. The coarser parts should be added to the mixture from the sieve. Dissolve half a teaspoonful of soda in a tablespoonful of hot water, then stir it into a cupful (half a pint) of good New Orleans molasses, put a pint of sweet milk, one tablespoonful of melted butter and the molasses over the dry mixture and beat thoroughly. Place in pan, giving room to rise and bake for 35 minutes.

Salad Dressing That is Different.—Take a cupful of boiling water and a quarter of a cupful of vinegar and lemon mixed; when boiling hot stir in two tablespoonfuls of flour, rubbed to a paste, with two tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Stir and cook for five minutes, then remove and pour over the well beaten yolks of two eggs, stir and mix thoroughly. Cool, stirring occasionally. When cool add a cupful of olive oil, beginning to add it by tablespoonfuls, beating with an egg beater to blend thoroughly. When it is all added the dressing should be thick and smooth. Mix in a small bowl one-half teaspoonful of salt, the same of mustard and a few dashes of cayenne, add a little of the salad dressing and stir to a paste then mix well in the dressing and put in a covered glass jar. Keep in a cool place. If the oil rises to the top, pour it off and give the dressing a vigorous beating, when it will be smooth again.

Date Torte.—Beat two eggs, add a cupful of sugar and a cupful of finely cut walnut meats, one small cupful of finely cut dates, one-third of a cupful of flour and a teaspoonful of baking powder, a dash of salt. Mix and put into a layer cake pan and bake in a moderate oven. Serve sprinkled with a little lemon juice and cover with whipped cream.

Swiss Omelet.—Cut in eighth-inch pieces a large handful of chives, add one egg, a little salt, one tablespoonful of flour and a half a cupful of milk together, and stir into a hot frying pan with a tablespoonful of hot fat. Cook and stir until ready to serve.

The best prize that life offers is the chance to work hard at work worth doing.—T. Roosevelt.

High aims form high characters and great objects bring out great minds.

PORCH PARTY.

When one is giving a porch party the appointments do not resemble the picnic equipment for one is at home and has access to the fine linen and silver which always adds to such a feast.

The attractive willow porch furniture, chairs and tables as well as the wheeled tray may all match; the lunch cloths and napkins, too, may follow the same color scheme, making a harmonious whole in the decoration.

One may serve at a porch party just about the same dishes that would be appropriate at a function of the same kind inside. A cocktail of fruit, creamed chicken, new potatoes and peas, a salad, an ice and coffee.

The kitchen being within reach, hot dishes, soups and meats of various kinds are easily served. One large table or small ones out under the trees may be so arranged by decoration, to give variety in color if desired.

Jellied Chicken.—Cover two four-pound chickens with boiling water, simmer gently until tender, remove the chickens and while they are cooling add to the liquor in which they were cooked one onion, half a dozen cloves, a bay leaf, half a teaspoonful of celery seed and reduce it to a quart and a half by boiling. Add a box of gelatin that has been soaking in a half cupful of cold water, the juice of a lemon and strain. If not perfectly clear, boil up with the whites and well-washed shells of two eggs, strain through a cheese cloth and add salt and red pepper to season. Cut the chicken into dice. Arrange over the bottom of a dripping pan thin slices of hard-boiled eggs, then a layer of chicken, a sprinkling of chopped olives (the ripe olives are delicious for this), then another layer of eggs and chicken until all is used. Pour over enough of the jelly mixture to cover the ingredients and let stand overnight. Serve cut in slices with mayonnaise and tomatoes. This may be molded in individual molds and served on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

To be what we are, and to become what we are capable of becoming, is the only end of life.—R. L. Stevenson.

We judge ourselves by what we feel capable of doing, while others judge us by what we have already done.—Longfellow.

GOOD THINGS FOR TABLE.

Salads and light foods appeal to the taste these sultry days, and though we do enjoy meat at dinner, it is not a necessity.

Grilled Breast of Lamb.—Score the top of a breast of lamb and cover with beaten egg yolk. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and cover with breadcrumbs. Roast in the oven until brown, basting with butter frequently. Serve with caper sauce and currant jelly.

Combination Salad.—Cut into small pieces three cold boiled potatoes and an equal quantity of beets and of celery. Make a dressing by mixing together the hard-cooked yolks of the eggs and a tablespoonful of anchovy paste. Put through a sieve, and the quarters of a cupful of olive oil, a teaspoonful of mixed mustard and pepper to taste, one and a half teaspoonfuls of vinegar. Oil and egg are to be added very slowly into the salad and serve on lettuce.

Maple Custard.—Beat five egg yolks till light. Add to them three of scalded and cooled milk, a maple sugar or ordinary sugar, a little maple in flavor may be added, a pinch of salt. Stir all together, strain into custard cups, in a pan of hot water until firm in the ice chest, and when set mold and sprinkle with nutmeg and maple sugar.

Banana Croquettes.—Use firm bananas. Peel them and well lemon juice and let them stand covered for an hour. Beat with breadcrumbs on a plate; on salt, paprika and powder; and another plate put a well a tablespoonful of pieces, mixed. Cut the bananas, undip in the egg then dip deep fat till well covered; the and serve hot.

Rhubarb Sauce.—A little water place in a stone dish the jar ter and sugar as water and or dish in a pan of water and cook in the oven.

Skirts of this kind are worn with plain waists of crepe de chine or of cotton materials. The combination of plaid skirt and plain colored coat, to match the dominant color of the skirt, is among the best of the new showings for fall. The well-tailored separate skirt is a joy to its possessor and gives months of good service. SUBSCRIPTION ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR

A Gentlemanly Campaign

At the beginning of the campaign the Republicans were almost unanimous in demanding that this year the campaign should be conducted in a gentlemanly manner, in fact, one unacquainted with Republican methods, would have been led to believe that the party of Bursum and of Hubbell were desirous of conducting their canvas this year something after the manner of an old lady's tea party, where nothing but sweet and honeyed language would be tolerated. How different, though, were the actual facts immediately upon the nomination of Messrs. Bursum and Hubbell. Upon the night following the day of their nomination, Mr. Bursum hurled his defiance at Governor McDonald and gave the world to understand that he intended to go into the campaign strictly on a platform of abuse and vituperation. He gave his hearers to understand that he expected to wage a campaign based wholly upon personal abuse and billingsgate and that is one promise that he has come very nearly fulfilling. Had Governor McDonald been guilty of any considerable part of the many things charged against him by this delectable pair he would be a creature entitled only to the contempt of all good citizens, but such is, happily, not the case. It is a sad commentary on the human race, especially that portion of the genus homo which boasts of its intelligence and of the high moral plane of its citizenship, that politicians may, with impunity, resort to the campaign methods adopted, first by Judge Hughes, and then aped by Bursum and Hubbell. The gauntlet was first thrown down by the Republican party leaders of the nation and then followed by those of New Mexico. President Wilson has very properly ignored both their methods and their candidate for the presidency, and the Democracy of this state has confined itself to the absolute record, or at least so much of it as has not been destroyed by the Republican office holders and their henchmen. Candidate Hughes has traveled from ocean to ocean in a mad scramble for votes, and the only excuse he has offered for receiving those votes has been personal abuse and misrepresentation. He has carried this line of harangue to such an extent that he has alienated large numbers of intelligent Republicans who would otherwise have supported him. And all this abuse and misrepresentation has not won so much as a cross word from President Wilson. The chief executive of the nation has wholly ignored the little gentleman and therein contributed the last straw that will break the camel's back. It must be humiliating to be thus frigidly ignored after such strenuous efforts to, at least, give sufficient offense to warrant some attention from the party against whom the attacks were hurled, yet all the poisoned darts fell harmless. Governor McDonald and the Democratic leaders of the state have confined their activities exclusively to the proper presentation of the Democratic claims upon the electorate for its suffrage, and have gone into the record only so far as it was actually necessary to prove that the people of New Mexico could not hope for any remedial legislation from any other source than that of Democracy. It was necessary to quote from the record in order to prove that the past history of the Republican party did not entitle it to the respect and support of the people. There has been no misrepresentation nor falsehood; there has been no past to bury; no previous sins to condone by any man nominated at the Democratic state convention. Had the Republicans always traveled in the straight and narrow path there would have been no past record for them that, like Banquo's ghost, would not down. The Democratic party is not responsible for that Republican past; it has nothing to do with the making of that record; it is in no manner to blame that they have this skeleton in their closet. They had much better have been content to let the dead past bury its dead than to have hurried on to the day of resurrection and judgment. It is just possible that they now realize their mistake and that they would like to call off the dogs of war, but they have yet to learn that it is much easier to keep out of trouble than it is to get out once you have gotten in. A gentlemanly campaign. If what they started is their conception of a gentlemanly campaign then may we be delivered from one that might be classed as ungentlemanly.

A Democratic Year

That this is a Democratic year in New Mexico; that the Democrats of the state are alert, determined and aggressive, and that independent Republican men who refuse to stand for machine rule and corruption regardless of the fact that it bears the party label are with them in their fight for public decency and good government, had been conclusively shown by the first speaking tours of the Democratic candidates. At every point visited the candidates were received with the greatest enthusiasm, and record breaking audiences turned out to hear them. The Pecos Valley was invaded by Governor McDonald, Lieutenant E. C. de Baca, Democratic candidate for governor, and former Governor M. A. Otero, Democratic candidate for state auditor, and their trip was a series of ovations. In his speech at Roswell Lieutenant Governor de Baca, the able, honest, upstanding, fearless American that the people of New Mexico are going to place in the executive office, made a tremendous hit. Among other things he said:

"Enemies of mine say I am too partisan to be a fair governor. In my home county of San Miguel to be a Democrat is to be a martyr. I have always fought for honesty and fair dealing and have always fought for my party because I believe it the most honest and just party, and for my friends, who have been persecuted for their political principles. I propose to fight for the principles of honesty and justice, and to stand by my party and my friends when they are right."

Former Governor Otero, the territorial executive who separated Frank Hubbell from office in Bernalillo county on charges preferred by Frank W. Clancy, then district and now Republican attorney general of the state, scored the indefensible records of Hubbell and Bursum and said:

"Five years ago I went out with Governor Hagerman to do what we are going to do today defeat a corrupt political gang that is trying to foist on the people of the great state of New Mexico two men who are unworthy of filling the exalted places they seek. 'I have known Mr. Bursum many years, knew him when I was governor and a senator from Socorro county, and I had to watch him all the time to keep him from putting over such bills as the infamous Hawkins railroad damage suit bill, which was annulled by congress after they had passed it over my veto. There is no comparison between Mr. Bursum and Mr. de Baca. There is not a blot on the eschutcheon of E. C. de Baca, and he is going to make you the best governor New Mexico has ever had."

In his speeches in the Pecos Valley Governor McDonald drove home the fact that the Republican candidates cannot get away from the records they have made, that they must stand on them in this campaign. Not a vote less than 5,000 Democratic majority in the counties of Eddy, Chaves, Roosevelt, and Curry is the declaration of the enthusiastic Democrats of southeastern New Mexico. They expect to make it much larger.

On the trip through Taos, Rio Arriba and San Juan counties eight of the Democratic candidates A. A. Jones, Antonio Lucero W. B. Walton, H. L. Hall, Felix Garcia, Harry L. Patton, George A. Davison, and J. L. G. Swinney were together for much of the time, and the receptions tendered them were splendid. New Democratic history will be made this year in Taos and Rio Arriba counties, and in San Juan county larger Democratic majorities than ever before will be rolled up for A. A. Jones and the rest of the Democratic candidates.

The northern trip ended at Gallup, where Jones, Walton and Lucero spoke before the greatest political meeting in the history of McKinley county. The Democrats of McKinley are this year confident of placing the county in the Democratic column and purging it of political rotteness by electing a Democratic county ticket.

In San Juan county the voters are laughing over Bursum's desperate attempts there to garner a few votes by extravagant promises of road construction, and by admitting that the outrageous county salary law, which he had passed over the governor's veto after he had prepared the way by throwing out four duly elected Democratic members of the house, was a hold-up, stating that it was the best possible "under the circumstances," and that if the people would only elect him governor all would be remedied. The people of San Juan, along with the people of every other section of the state, know Mr. Bursum as the Great Promiser—who never fulfills. They knew that he and his crowd have been in control of every New Mexico legislature for many years; they know that he could have secured the passage of any law that he desired; they know that the laws he desired have been passed; they know that every piece of Republican machine legislation—measures inimical to the interests of the people of New Mexico—bear the Bursum brand; they know his record as penitentiary superintendent and as Republican boss. In a word, THEY KNOW BURSUM.

The sandbagging county salary law was the best possible "under the circumstances." Bursum was one of the chief "circumstances."

In Taos and Mora counties Frank Hubbell has evidenced his fitness for the dignified position of United States senator by personal abuse of Democratic candidates; by mud-slinging of the rankest sort; by referring to Governor McDonald as a "devil with horns." Even the nerve of the Republican press bureau has not been equal to putting out anything that Hubbell has said.

The Republican gang of New Mexico is without an issue in this campaign. It has nothing to fight with but misrepresentation and political slander, falsehood and intimidation, its cuttle fish press bureau is desperately endeavoring to muddle the waters. But the people of New Mexico are not to be deceived. They have been hoodwinked for the last time. They are determined this year to repudiate, decisively and finally, the Republican gangsters who are seeking power solely with the object of exploiting the state for selfish and unscrupulous ends.

The Hughes Tactics

The Republican, of Springfield, Massachusetts, is an independent Republican paper, widely read throughout the United States. No paper in the country is better edited or more carefully. It might be well, then, to read what an independent Republican paper has to say regarding Candidate Hughes and the methods he has used in his campaign, the most startling of which, the Republican indicates, is that Hughes has not admitted any of his opponent's virtues. The editorial is well worth reading, especially by Republicans who are inclined to be fair, and is as follows. —Albuquerque Herald.

The fact that since Judge Hughes became a presidential candidate he has not recognized a single virtue in the Wilson administration, nor conceded a single good act in the record of his opponent, has apparently impressed itself upon the public mind. The peculiar aspect, of this situation is that people should be taking note at all of such a phenomenon. Was there ever a time when 100 per cent presidential candidates paid compliments to their rivals? Tributes to statesman by their opponents are usually delivered after they are dead.

It is difficult to account for the complaints against the Republican candidates many of which come from thoroughly independent sources unless two salient features of the present period in our politics be recognized. The present standard bearer of the Republican party was a justice of the United States supreme court before his nomination and the swiftness of his transformation into a partisan critic of President Wilson came as a surprise owing to the fact that the public mind was prepossessed with a conception of judicial fairness which the suddenly made candidate could not satisfy in the least if he were to meet the ordinary tests of the political campaigner. Even now two months after the conventions, the readjustment of values in the public mind to Mr. Hughes's now role is hardly complete. Many people still think of him as a judge and the shock of his steady assault on his opponent, without the slightest recognition of that opponent's good qualities and record of positive achievement, takes on the character of an affront of those who love fair play.

"But there is another phase to this peculiar tendency to chide the Republican candidate for a lack of generosity to his opponent and manly appreciation of that opponent's accomplishments. It is not simply that the public mind was not fully prepared for such a blast of fault finding from one who had worked for years in the atmosphere of the greatest of courts of justice and law: the circumstances of the time to an exceptional degree predispose the public, one must believe, to the idea that the president of the United States deserves fair treatment. Down in their hearts the mass of Americans know that, whatever his assailants may charge to his discredit, few presidents in our history have had more numerous or more formidable difficulties to encounter than Mr. Wilson has encountered during his administration. They know that only the callous brutality of an overheated partisanship can ignore the avalanche of special problems and crises which has swept down upon him. And, in recognizing this aspect of the case, there are people who experience a feeling of indignation and disgust at the spectacle of the president being harried and hounded by political enemies who, for partisan reasons, have undertaken to destroy him.

Wilsonphobia

"The climax of the reaction that is felt against the manifestations of Wilsonphobia comes, perhaps, when one surveys the president's secure record of achievement—secure for all time in history despite the passing terms of condemnation and destruction. If a man who was suddenly turned from a 100 per cent judge into a 100 per cent candidate finds his eyes temporarily blinded, not like those of justice holding the scales in order to keep the balance sensitive to every element of truth, but like those of a creature of ill will and passion, there remains a tribunal before which the whole record may be heard and weighed and from which in the course of time a calm verdict may be demanded.

"Of all public men this may be said. Not one of them who has borne the heaviest responsibilities in government escapes the buffeting of bitter enemies, and all of them may hope to be judged by disinterested critics in the end. Whether their merits be recognized by opponents in the heat of conflict is immaterial so long as the labor they were called to do is finally performed. Yet there may be times when a little more generosity in treatment of an opponent's work, a little more recognition of an opponents saving virtues, becomes an asset rather than a liability, even in political campaigning. That this is one of those times can readily be believed."

HUGHES DODGES ISSUE ON EIGHT HOUR LAW

Attacks Wilson's Plan but Won't Tell Public What He Would Have Done.

ONLY WAY TO AVERT STRIKE

Republican Nominee is Asked to Declare if He Would Have Vetted the Bill With Certain Assurance of Industrial Disaster.

So busy has been Charles E. Hughes criticizing the deeds of the Wilson Administration that he has had little time, or has purposely evaded, telling the public what he would have done had he been President under similar circumstances.

Lately Mr. Hughes has turned his attacks upon President Wilson's successful settlement of the crisis in the railroad world by causing to be passed by Congress the Adamson eight-hour bill. Mr. Hughes has characterized this action as a "surrender to force"; he is "opposed to being dictated to by any power on earth before the facts are known"; and he would not act until he had had a "fair investigation and candid treatment."

Taking issue with the Republican candidate's attitude the New York Times, in an editorial, asks:

"WHAT WOULD MR. HUGHES HAVE DONE?"

"Well, what would Mr. Hughes have taken?" continues the Times. "What would he have done? Here was Mr. Wilson's position: 'The brotherhood refused arbitration, the railroad presidents would not accept the settlement Mr. Wilson proposed, granting the eight-hour standard day with provision for an impartial inquiry into its working. There was no law on the statute books to enforce arbitration.'

"The President knew, knew with certainty and beyond question, that he could not get such a law from the Congress now in session. The sure and inevitable alternative to his acceptance of the eight-hour standard day measure was a strike, the suspension of railway service, freight and passenger, all over the country, beginning on the morning of Sept. 4th. WOULD HUGHES HAVE DONE IT?"

"Mr. Hughes would not surrender to anybody in the country." Then he would have surrendered the country to the disturbance, immeasurable loss, and peril of a strike. "What did he, in fact, have done that? Had he been President, confronted by that situation, would Mr. Hughes have brought on a strike by refusing to sign the bill granting a wage increase? There was the strike in plain sight, a few hours away, sure to come. Would Mr. Hughes have vetoed the bill? On the contrary, would he not have done just what Mr. Wilson did, sign it?"

"The Republican candidate stands for two things: First, for the principle of fair, impartial, though, candid, arbitration; and second, for legislation on facts according to the necessities of the case." Mr. Wilson stands for those two things and, much more, has pledged himself to use all his influence to secure them.

"What more could Mr. Hughes do? Would it be too much to ask the Republican candidate to put a little common fairness into his speeches? Is he afraid to tell his audiences what the President actually did upon Congress?"

"As a true champion of arbitration, President Wilson recommended that arbitration judgments be made records of a court of law, in order that their interpretation and enforcement may not lie with the parties to the dispute, but with an impartial and authoritative tribunal." It was his purpose in this recommendation to provide against future emergencies, to prevent the recurrence of such dangers as then confronted him and the country.

ADVICE TO RAILROADS

"The people of the United States are not going to be put off with the misinformation as to what the President did to avert a strike and to prevent the threat of future strikes. We have reason to believe that the full revelation of what he did, what he tried to do, and what he nearly succeeded in doing in the White House conferences would put such a face upon the matter that Republican efforts to make an issue of it would fall entirely flat.

"But the people do know, for it was before them in the President's address to Congress, that he proposed, not a single emergency act, but a broad program of legislation to meet a public need and permanently remove a public danger. It was a program which we are convinced the railroads would be very wise to accept in its entirety.

"Certainly it seems to us that they are ill advised to pray for the election of Mr. Hughes, who, if we take him at his word, would have brought on the strike, with all its irreparable injuries to the country's business and peril for the country's peace."

Convincing testimony to the wisdom and justice of President Wilson's Mexican policy is brought from Mexico itself by Luis Cabrera, one of Mexico's commissioners at the joint Mexican-American Conference now in session at New London, Conn. "I do not care to discuss political or international questions of any kind," said Senor Cabrera in a recent interview. "but I will say that in official circles of Mexico President Wilson is looked upon as one of the greatest men the United States ever has had as a leader. He is calm and considerate, and his much abused watchful waiting policy has probably saved the life of my nation and prevented your country from entering into a needless struggle."

DEMOCRATIC PROMISES TO FARMERS FULFILLED

Benefits Under Wilson Set Forth in Official Pamphlet.

The Democratic platform of 1912 made this promise to the farmers of America:

"Of equal importance with the question of currency reform is the question of rural credits or agricultural finance. Therefore we recommended that an investigation of agricultural credit societies in foreign countries be made, so that it may be ascertained whether a system of rural credits may be devised suitable to conditions in the United States; and we also favor legislation permitting national banks to loan a reasonable proportion of their funds on real estate security.

"We recognize the value of vocational education, and urge Federal appropriations for such training and extension teaching in agriculture in co-operation with the several states."

These pledges, with many other services to the farmer, have been completely fulfilled in the legislation of the present Administration. The record of Democratic Performance is offered in comparison with the Republican record of broken promises to the farmer, in an attractive pamphlet issued by the Democratic National Committee. Copies have been furnished to every Democratic State Committee for free distribution.

BURBANK OUT FOR WILSON, "THE GREATEST STATESMAN"

Announcing his support of President Wilson, Luther Burbank, the horticulturist wizard of California, said: "I believe him to be the greatest statesman we have ever had."

Mr. Burbank, the Edison of scientific horticulture, declared that without reserve he endorsed the position announced a week earlier by Thomas A. Edison. Both Burbank and Edison have been life-long Republicans. Edison put it this way:

"Times are too serious to talk in terms of Republicanism or Democracy. When it's America that is at stake men have got to vote as Americans. A fool or a coward would have had the United States in all sorts of trouble. As it is, we are at peace, the country was never more prosperous, and we have the strength that comes with honor and integrity of purpose."

"What Would You Have Done? The People Have A Right To Know"

SUFFRAGISTS CERTAIN OF DEMOCRATS' HELP

Leaders Resent Efforts to Turn the Cause into an Adjunct of Republican Party.

WON OVER BY PRESIDENT

"I Have Come Here to Fight WITH You," He Tells Them—"Wilson Voted for Suffrage; Has Hughes?" Asked One.

Western women who have had the ballot equally with the men for several years resent the interference of one of the factions of suffragists and the attempt to turn the suffrage cause into an adjunct of the Republican party. They believe they know how to vote without being told by women who never had the vote; and they refuse to turn against the Democrats who have done so much for their cause in their respective states.

This attitude is brought out clearly in an interview by Nicola Greeley-Smith, nationally prominent as a writer on the staff of the New York World, with Mrs. Alexander Thompson, Democratic National Committee-man from Oregon, and Mrs. Theresa M. Graham of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

"One would think," observed Mrs. Thompson to Miss Greeley-Smith, "that if any instruction in suffrage matters had to be given it would come from the women who have won the vote and do vote rather than from Suffragists in the East who are still disfranchised. I am a young woman, but I have been through three campaigns for the vote in Oregon. In the final campaign we won through the co-operation and help and belief in us of the men of Oregon.

Aided by Democrats. "We have been voting only five years and we are still grateful to our men. So, when the Congressional Union sent speakers to Oregon to tell us to vote against all Democrats we laughed at them. Why, at the last election they campaigned against George E. Chamberlain, who introduced the first Suffrage bill in Oregon and who had been the friend of the women all through their fifteen years' fight.

"I agree with every word that Mrs. Thompson has spoken," declared Mrs. Graham. "The conditions in my State are the same as in Oregon, except that we have had the vote for twenty years, and it was given to us without our having to fight for it. The Congressional Union has speakers in Idaho now urging us to slaughter the Democrats and free our sisters in the East. How silly that is! Are women in the East so foolish as to be led away by the mere declaration of a candidate, unsupported by his party, that he's personally in favor of a Federal amendment? Woodrow Wilson voted for Suffrage. Has Charles E. Hughes ever voted for Suffrage? Wilson has done everything consistent with a belief in State rights, one of the fundamental principles of Democracy. Suffrage can never win as a partisan issue. Alienate the Democrats en masse and you have killed every chance Suffrage has."

Won by Wilson's Speech.

It is admitted by practically all suffragists that their cause has been helped greatly by the speech President Wilson made before the convention of the National Woman's Suffrage Association at Atlantic City recently, on Sept. 8th. When the President told them he had "come here to fight with you" the 4000 suffragists gathered in Nixon's Theatre arose and cheered him enthusiastically.

This pledge by the President led

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the association, to say:

"You touched our hearts and won our fealty when you said you had come here to fight with us."

"The astonishing thing about this movement," said President Wilson, "is not that it has grown so slowly, but that it has grown so rapidly. . . . I get a little impatient sometimes about the discussion of the channels and methods by which it is to prevail. It is going to prevail, and that is a very superficial and ignorant view of it which attributes it to mere social unrest. It is not merely because the women are discontented, it is because the women have seen visions of duty, and that is something which we not only cannot resist, but, if we be true Americans, we do not wish to resist."

"I have felt as I sat here tonight the wholesome contagion of the occasion. Almost every other time that I ever visited Atlantic City I came to fight somebody. I hardly know how to conduct myself when I have not come to fight somebody, but with somebody.

"I have come to suggest, among other things, that when the forces of nature are steadily working and the tide is rising to meet the moon, you need not be afraid that it will not come to its flood. We feel the tide; we rejoice in the strength of it."

PRaises Wilson's Stand IN BEHALF OF SUFFRAGE

The action of the National Suffrage Association at Atlantic City, N. J., in rejecting by an overwhelming vote the proposal to make the suffrage movement a partisan annex of the Republican campaign, was further emphasized by Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, "the sage of suffrage," in an interview published in the Philadelphia Press, a staunch Republican organ.

"The President, in his speech to the convention, promised all he could carry out," said Dr. Shaw. "If he had promised more we would have known that he could not carry it out.

"Not the Republicans alone, nor the Democrats alone, can bring suffrage. If it could be done that way I would favor it. But it can't. We must get enough Democrats and Republicans together to do it."

BURLESON'S "THREE STRIKE"

"The Democratic party seems to have enough capacity to run the Post Office Department. Postmaster General Burleson has deposited a check for $5,200,000 with Secretary McAdoo, being the profits of the fiscal year of 1916."

Sounds like a Democratic campaign orator, doesn't it?

But it isn't; it is the Philadelphia Public Ledger, a paper that is supporting Hughes, telling its host of readers about merely one of the deeds of the Wilson Administration.

Continues the Ledger:

"The Secretary of the Treasury replies that his department has experienced the sensation of receiving a postal surplus only three times, and those three times have been under the Administration of President Wilson and Mr. Burleson. But we have no hope that this will satisfy Mr. Hughes. He will tell the next audience he gets hold of that the service is not nearly so good as it used to be when Postmaster Generals were Republicans and there was a deficit every year, the amount being something over $17,000,000."

WOULD THE "CROOKS OF 1912" LET HUGHES KEEP PLEDGES?

Candidate Hughes is running on a platform of promises. The safest—the only trustworthy—method of judging the future is by assessing the past. Candidate Hughes' promises should be weighed in the light of his past performances as an executive. Here are some of his promises made when he was a candidate for Governor of New York and set opposite them are his performances to correspond with them:

CANDIDATE HUGHES SAID: "I believe in labor legislation and the great benefits that have flowed from the wise conduct of labor organizations."

GOVERNOR HUGHES DID: Refused to appoint a practical railroad man to the State Public Service Commissions, although urged to do so by organized labor.

"I want to see fair justice done to everybody who works."

Vetoed the bill, giving women schoolteachers equal pay with men for equal work.

"Every practical measure for the real benefit of labor will have my support."

Vetoed the full-crew railroad bill.

"I promise the enforcement of the law with equal severity and in equal justice to all—corporations and individuals."

Vetoed bills urged by State Tax Commission to compel corporations to pay their franchise taxes promptly and to authorize the Tax Board to equalize special franchise tax valuations.

"The conditions of transportation in New York City are a shame and I purpose to find out the proper method of procedure and whether legislation or administrative action is necessary."

Vetoed Coney Island five-cent fare bill which would have saved the people of New York city $1,500,000 a year. Accomplished nothing to correct street-car overcrowding.

"I shall devote myself with renewed zeal to the people's service. My administration shall be an unbossed administration."

Blocked in his efforts by the bosses of his party, Gov. Hughes resigned in his second term to accept appointment to the United States Supreme Court.

Mr. Hughes is not the Republican party. He would be no more able to make good his promises as President than he was as Governor of New York. If he were elected President he could deliver only so much as the Republican bosses—the "Crooks" denounced by Roosevelt in 1912—would permit him to deliver.

FARMERS IGNORED BY REPUBLICANS

But Democratic Administration Quickly Gave Them Justice in Rural Credits.

Don't forget Mr. Farmer, that through your Farmers' National Congress, National Grange, National Farmers' Union, American Society of Equity, and similar organizations you have for years demanded and long implored Republican administrations for legislation you needed.

WHAT DID YOU GET?

Through all the years since 1864 the Republican Party was deaf and blind to the farmer's financial needs. This in the face of the fact that successful systems of Rural Credits were in operation throughout Europe for a century. When this great Democratic measure was put to vote in the Senate on May 4, 1916, only five Republicans dared vote against it! Three of them were on the sub-committee who wrote the Republican Platform of 1916.

Was it because you were not Big Interests? You were, many of you highly financed, and High Finance held the mortgage—and to that extent you belonged to High Finance. But you paid big interest to associate with Big Interests. A stack of wheat wasn't as good collateral as a sheaf of scraps of paper held by a stock gambler. Nor did the Political Bosses of the Republican Party care to give you financial justice. They were too busy "protecting" themselves.

THE PROMISES OF THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM OF 1912—written in courage and honesty and with sympathetic understanding of the needs of every honest American interest—HAVE BEEN KEPT.

The Republican Party refused to do these things, which the prosperity of the American Farmer required.

The Republican presidential candidate, Charles E. Hughes, denounces the Democratic party and President Wilson for having done these things.

Where Does Your Interest Lie? (From Farmers' Pamphlet issued by the Democratic National Committee.)

IF THE G. O. P. ELEPHANT COULD SPEAK THE TRUTH

VOTERS of the U. S. A.—We, the Republican party, being at our wits' end and desperate, put it up to you:

For nearly four years now a Democratic Administration has been in power. Contrary to every law of reason, every principle of progress, the country is at peace and alive, nay, humming with prosperity. Business is rushing. Wages are high. The only discontent is the discontent of those who are reaching for bigger chunks of plenty.

We are flabbergasted. All this has happened during a period when the rest of the world has been impeding on all sides, when we would have sworn only Republican statesmanship could pull the nation through.

No war has engulfed us. No panic has paralyzed us. No nation has with impunity continued to infringe upon our rights.

We can't deny what has been done. All we can do is take our oath we could have done it better. How, we do not know. If only we said it loud and long enough we hoped the country would believe us.

But the country is busy and our voices grow hoarse. We are having a hard time.

Woodrow Wilson has nothing to show but what he has accomplished. He has none of the glamour of the what-might-be. We, on the contrary, have our old promises and policies, mellowed by age, but still bearing the stamp of the nation's solid interests. Protection, privilege, government by influence—surely the country has not given them their last trial.

Wall street is with us. Big business is with us. But O, Voters, we confess it, we need you. Don't keep looking at the peace and prosperity around you. Try to get our point of view. Whatever Wilson has done, the man is a Democrat, and neither Federal Government nor Federal offices were meant to be forever in such hands.

Let's forget issues and talk as friends. Turn him out and give us a chance!

CABBAGE RESPONDS QUICKLY TO CULTURE

SAMPLE OF WHAT ONE FIELD PRODUCED.

(By W. A. FREEHOPF)

I have seen a good many farmers grow cabbages on a more or less large scale; but with the exception of most of those who were really commercial market-gardeners, they made a failure of the venture.

Many farms which now raise considerable tobacco as a side line may profitably be changed over to cabbages, to give the soil a variety.

Habits of Plant.

At the very outset, it is necessary to know something about the habits of the cabbage before planting any considerable acreage. It is essentially a gross feeder, requiring not only a great abundance of the ordinary soil-fertility elements, but also great amounts of water always at hand.

MILK SECRETION IS PUZZLING PROBLEM

Good Reason for Believing That It Goes on All the While Between Milking Periods.

(By PROF. O. C. CUNNINGHAM, Ohio State University)

There is good reason for believing that milk secretion goes on all the while between milking periods, but that it is more intense during the process of milking and that the larger part of it takes place then.

Another conclusive proof that a large part of and probably more than one-half of the milk is secreted during milking is found in the fact that when a cow is slaughtered just before time for milking, the udder does not contain the amount of milk that could be secured had she been milked as usual.

care to practice any of the intensive culture methods.

Preparing Land.

Thus, such a rotation as oats, wheat, clover, corn and cabbage may be very convenient, this rotation being capable of modifications to suit individual needs and preferences.

Mistake in Transplanting.

The second big mistake is made in the transplanting itself; in fact, more plants are ruined by this process than by any other means. Doubling back of the roots is what causes most of the trouble.

HIGH-GRADE BUTTER BRINGS BEST PRICE

Farmer With Small Herd Often-times Is Careless—Quality Is Large Factor.

(By PROF. O. C. CUNNINGHAM, Ohio State University)

One reason the farmer with a small herd does not make more money from butter is that he does not take pains to make a high-grade product.

Use nothing but new and clean vessels in which to keep the milk. Musty grain or feed if fed to cattle will taint the milk.

At this season and all through the summer and fall when butter is scarce at the local store, and private homes find out that a farmer is making a good grade of butter there will be no trouble for that farmer to market his butter.

The HOME BEAUTIFUL Flowers and Shrubby Their Care and Cultivation

To Have Beautiful Roses Like This, Care Must Be Taken of Them in Fall.

LATE SUMMER WORK NOTES

By E. VAN BENTHUYSEN.

Watch the tender greenhouse plants that are in the open and take them up before the last days of summer have passed.

Have the pots ready for the bulbs which must be taken up soon. Insects will now begin to attack the scarlet runner and other flowers of that nature and they must be watched carefully.

The dahlias, gladioli and other rank-growing plants are likely to be blown down by the wind and should be staked.

Unless chrysanthemums are shaded during the hot month of August they will be injured by the sun.

Drench the ground around the tea roses, but do not spray the bushes.

Roses of all kinds should be thoroughly manured with well-rotted cow manure and mulched with lawn cuttings and leaves.

Liquid manure should be applied only when the ground is moist enough to absorb it.

It is fatal to some plants to fertilize them with rich manures when the ground is very dry.

Never allow roses to remain on the bush when the petals begin to fall.

All plants that are intended for winter-bloomers should have the buds pinched off now.

When the lilacs have finished blooming, all the seed clusters should be cut away.

Not all the pile will have decayed, but along the edges and underneath it will be found ready for use.

Add to it every bit of available vegetable matter during the year, including the annual flowers pulled up after their season of bloom.

Throw the top of the sods in a heap in some out-of-the-way corner, and add the rakings of the yard in fall and spring.

When there are waterworks the hose may be turned on frequently to hasten composting.

If it is impossible to replace all poor soil in the garden with better, by the addition of leaf mold and manure much may be accomplished in the way of building up and rendering it suitable.

USE FOR HOUSE SLOPS

Any house slops that are free from grease or acids may be poured around the roots of plants to their advantage.

Water the ground liberally, always watering in the evening.

In a dry season don't mow the lawn as often as in a showery one.

Early in August is a good time to sow

MAKING RAPID STRIDES

Canada Improving in Every Way —Agriculturally, Commercially and Financially.

The reports coming to hand every day from all branches of industry in Canada speak highly of the constructive ability of that country.

Recently the managing directors of the Canadian Credit Men's Association gave out the statement that business in Western Canada was good. In every branch it is better than in 1913, and everyone will remember that in that year business was excellent. He says:

"The beauty of it is the way in which payments are coming in. Merchants all over the West are taking their cash discounts. Such a transformation I never saw."

"From the records in the office I knew it was getting better. We clear every retail merchant in the country every three months, and we are therefore in the closest touch and have intimate knowledge of the way trade is going and how payments are being made. Conditions at the present moment are better than I had dreamed it was possible that they should be."

"The statements which we are receiving with reference to the standing of country merchants indicates that there will be very few failures this fall. It is quite remarkable. Men who have been behind for years and in the hole are actually paying spot cash for everything, and taking their cash discounts. Banks and loan companies this fall will have more money than they know what to do with."

"This is about the condition of trade, and I am glad to say there is no exaggeration in what I have said. The business of the prairie provinces is in splendid condition."

Crop reports are also good. From all parts comes the word that the crop conditions were never better, and the situation at the time of writing is that there will be fully as great a yield as in 1915, when the average of wheat over the entire country was upwards of 80 bushels per acre. The harvest therefore will be a heavy one—and, following the magnificent harvest of last year, the farmers of Western Canada will all be in splendid shape. Old indebtednesses, much of which followed them from their old homes, are being wiped out, improvements are now being planned, and additional acres added to their present holdings."

During the past year there was a large increase in the land sales both by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern land companies, as well as by private individuals. A great many of the purchases were made by farmers who thus secured adjoining quarters or halves, the best evidence probably that could be had of the value of Western Canada land when those who know the country best are adding to their holdings. A number of outsiders have also been purchasers, but very little land has changed hands for speculative purposes."

An evidence of the prosperity of the country is found in the fact that such a large number of farmers are purchasing automobiles."

Alleged hard times in Manitoba have not dampened the ardor of motorists or prospective ones. The automobile license department reported a few days since that there are 1,600 more private owners of cars in the province this year than last. The number of licenses issued this year was 10,400, as against 8,800 last year. At an average cost of $1,000 each the newly purchased cars represent a total outlay of $16,000,000, while the total number of cars in the province are worth approximately $10,000,000. The new cars are of modern types."

Many people, for some unexplained reason, have feared and continue to fear that this country will experience a period of industrial and business dullness after the war. There seems to be no justification for such a speculation."

On the contrary, there are sound reasons for belief in the prediction of Mr. Kingman Nott Robins, vice president of the Farm Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, who, in the Monetary Times, declares that Canada will experience her greatest proportionate development in production immediately after the conclusion of the war. The country will certainly have exceptionally favorable commercial conditions to take advantage of."

There will be the great need of Europe in the work of reconstruction, and along with this, the natural tendency of the allies to trade among themselves, and perhaps special trading privileges. Mr. Robins points out that the greatest development in the United States followed the costly and destructive civil war.

Mr. Robins, in an address before the Bondmen's Club of Chicago, expressed the opinion of a far-thinking mind and the review of an experience of the last of his numerous trips through the Canadian West. When he said he regarded the spirit of the Canadian people, as he found it, the most admirable and encouraging feature of the entire situation. They are facing the sacrifices of war courageously and with calm confidence as to the result, and in similar spirit they face the economic future, confident, but expecting to solve their problems only by dint of hard and intelligent effort.

An important part of Mr. Robins' address, which invites earnest attention, is that in which he refers to the land situation, and when his remarks are quoted they carry with them the impression gained by one who has given the question the careful thought of a man experienced in economic questions, and especially those relating to soil and its production. He is quoted as saying:

"Agricultural Canada was never so prosperous, and immigration of agricultural population both during and after the war seems a logical expectation, finding support in an increasing immigration at present from the United States. In spite of numerous cardinals spread broadcast throughout the United States to discourage emigration to Canada. The lands of Western Canada, however, as long as they are as at present the most advantageous for the settler of any on the continent, must continue to attract, despite misrepresentation, and on the increase of its agricultural and other primarily productive population depends the economic future of Canada. All other problems are secondary to this, and the large interests of Canada, recognizing this fact, are preparing to secure and hold this population both during and after the war. They are content to let city development and other secondary phases and superstructure follow in natural course. This recognition of the true basis of economic development is an encouraging augury for the future."

"The war has brought the United States and Canada nearer together economically than ever before. The total investment of United States capital in Canada doubtless exceeds $1,000,000,000, of which $300,000,000 has been invested since the war began. Except for Great Britain, Canada is the United States' best customer. Our exports to all of South America in the last three years were less than a third of our exports to Canada in the same period, although Canada has been rigidly reducing her imports since the war began. Even France, a good customer of the United States, bought $70,000,000 less than Canada during 1913, 1914, 1915. And yet Canada's purchasing power is in the first stages of development only. It has been estimated that the United States can support a population of 600,000,000. Using the same basis of calculation in reference to natural resources, Canada can support a population of 400,000,000."

"Canada is potentially the most populous, and, in primary production, at least, the richest unit of the British empire, and it behooves us in the United States to know our Canada."

The social conditions throughout Western Canada are everything that could be desired. Schools have been established in all districts where there may be ten or twelve children of school age, and these are largely maintained by liberal government grants. A fund for this purpose is raised from the revenue derived from the sale of school land, one-eighth of all lands being set aside as school lands. All the higher branches of education are cared for, there being high schools at all important centers, and colleges and universities in the principal cities."

The different religious denominations prevail, each having its separate church, and religious services are held in every hamlet and village, and in far-off settlements the pastor finds an attentive congregation. The rural telephone is one of the great modern conveniences that brings the farm home nearer to the market."

It is not saying too much to state that in matters of social importance in the most remote settlements they carry with them the same influence as is to be found in the most prosperous farming districts of any of the states of the Union.—Advertisement.

INDEPENDENCE HALL

AMERICAN independence was not an act of sudden passion nor the work of one man or assembly, according to George Bancroft in his "History of the United States," and the declaration which was made July 4, 1776, was the climax of a long series of deliberations. In the building which had been erected as a state house for the use of the colony of Pennsylvania in 1736 the Continental congress had sat discussing the vital matters pertaining to the prosperity of the colonies, says a writer in the New York Herald. Here, on motion of John Adams, George Washington had been placed in command of the American army, and here, on the most eventful day of all, the great declaration of rights and intentions was presented by Thomas Jefferson, signed by the men whose names are inscribed high in the rolls of American history and read from the steps of the famous building to the crowd waiting outside. Here, too, the Constitution of the United States was adopted.

Most Americans are familiar with the present external appearance of this "Cradle of Liberty," few know so much about its interior, which is nobly inspiring. The land for the building was purchased in 1730 and a committee was appointed to carry on the building operations, one of the members being Dr. John Kearsley, who had been so successful with the building of Christ church.

Independence Hall First Built. The first portion to be finished was Independence hall, a room 39 by 40 feet and almost 20 feet high. The work dragged, and when the legislature was ready to occupy it the south wall was unfinished and there was no glass in the windows. The room was not really finished until 1745. The next part of the building to be completed was the judicial chamber, of the same size as Independence hall, and separated from it by three arches. The tower was built in 1750, the people being added in 1753. After the revolution there was considerable dissatisfaction with the wooden steeple and it was finally declared to be dangerous and was taken down. In 1813 the wings were altered to provide a greater amount of space which was needed by the county commissioners, and in 1818 the entire portion was purchased by the city of Philadelphia.

A few years later a survey was made of the tower to determine whether a new bell could be mounted upon it. All of the walls were found to be thick and stanch except for a slight crack in the wall over the arch of the large Palladian window, probably due to the great width of the window opening and its arch. This was not considered a serious objection, however, to putting up a cupola similar to the original. A bell weighing 4,000 pounds was placed in the tower and, beginning with December, 1828, struck the hours by means of a new sort of clockwork. Another bell was hung in the tower in 1870.

Not Injured by Restorations. Whatever changes or restorations have been made, the spirit of the old architects and builders has been respected and today, as in Colonial days, the state house typifies the refined simplicity and sincerity which has been left as a precious legacy. Architects take their lessons from it, and patriots take theirs.

But, satisfactory as are the proportions and the panelling, the treatment of doors and windows and the simple furnishing which leaves the interior unspoiled, there is one object, with no artistic claims, which yet eclipses all the others—the Liberty Bell, which rang out the glad tidings that the Continental congress had dared to sign the Declaration of Independence. Parents bring their children to gaze upon it and to tell them the story of how it was cast in England but cracked in landing, so that it had to be recast in Philadelphia, when the inscription "Proclaim liberty throughout the land to all the people thereof" was inscribed upon it.

When the British occupied Philadelphia in those dark days of the war the old bell was sunk in the Delaware, but it was brought back and hung in its old place to proclaim liberty to the citizens of Philadelphia on many Fourth's. It was broken when tolling for the funeral of the great Chief Justice Marshall in 1835.

MUNITION TOWN OF FRANCE. Le Creusot and the Immense Ordnance Factories Started There by the Schneiders.

Le Creusot is the center of France's war munition works. Like the famous Krupp works of Germany, Le Creusot's vast ordnance factories owe their origin to the organizing and inventive genius of one family—the Schneiders. At the outbreak of the war the Schneider Iron works employed more than 15,000 workmen and their great shops, covering hundreds of acres of ground, were connected by a network of nearly 40 miles of railroad tracks. Since the war this plant has been enormously increased, says a National Geographic society bulletin.

MR. WEGE RECOMMENDS LUNG-VITA. Mr. Leo D. Wege, manager of the Ideal Laundry of Nashville, writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Lung-Vita and of its results. I never used it myself, but I bought four bottles of you to give to different parties, and the results are remarkable. One case of asthma was entirely cured. If they will take the medicine as directed and stick to it, they will never regret it." Take Lung-Vita for consumption, asthma, whooping cough, colds, coughs, and bronchial troubles. If your dealer cannot supply you, send $1.75 for a thirty-day treatment today. Nashville Medicine Co., Dept. B, Nashville, Tenn. Adv.

Truthful Wife. A detective was praising the truthfulness of women. "If war bulletins were as truthful as women," he said, "we'd have a better idea of how this world struggle is really going." "I remember a case the other day—it's interesting in its revelation of woman's truthfulness—the case of a husband who had disappeared. "Questioning the wife, I said to her: "And now, madam, tell me—this is very important—tell me what your husband's very last words were when he left?" "His last words," the truthful creature answered, with a blush, "were, "For heaven's sake, shut up!"

What She Wanted. Lydia Virginia was having her fifth birthday prepared for her. Grandma baked her birthday cake and made her a little sample cake. Lydia Virginia on breaking the sample apart exclaimed: "Why, grandma, this is not the kind of a cake I want." Questioned what kind she wanted, she answered: "Why, I want my cake when you cut a piece of it to look like a spotted cat." Her grandma baked a marble cake and when cut Lydia Virginia was delighted, and said: "This is it, grandma; this is the kind of a cake I wanted."—Cleveland Leader.

Both in Danger. At a certain mill there is a notice on the elevator which reads as follows: "No one allowed to use this elevator except the man in charge. Anyone doing so will be discharged." One morning Billy, a rather witty fellow, was waiting to go up from the second room, when who should step off the elevator alone but the manager. Billy was stepping on to go up when the manager turned round and said: "I say, can't you read?" "Yes," said Billy. "Well, what does that notice say?" asked the manager. "By gum, we'll both be sacked if we're caught."

"Officer, what is the charge against these two men?" asked the court. "Disturbing the peace by scuffling." "Your honor," piped one of the accused. "We wasn't scuffling. I was tellin' him 'bout a fight dat de Roosmans won, an' he sez dat I didn't pronounce de name right. Den I called him a liar, an' den he hit me, an I hit him back. Dat wuz all, your honor." "Discharged. But hereafter when you fellows have a dispute about a foreign name delete it. That's the way the censors do, and they never get hit."

HOW MRS. BEAN MET THE CRISIS

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Nashville, Tenn.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I had a tumor as large as a child's head. The doctor said it was three years coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city for some time. Of course I could not go to him then, so my sister-in-law told me that she thought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure it. It helped both the Change of Life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need the doctor. I took the Pinkham remedies until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are welcome to use it." —Mrs. E. H. BEAN, 525 Joseph Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a pure remedy containing the extractive properties of good old-fashioned roots and herbs, meets the needs of woman's system at this critical period of her life. Try it. If there is any symptom in your case which puzzles you, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

No Comeback. "I received a letter from Aunt Mattie asking if we would like to spend our vacation out on her farm." "We can't possibly accept her invitation, George. If we do, we'll have to ask her to visit us next winter." "That will be all right. We can move into a two-room apartment in the fall, and then there won't be room for her."

"Lickers" Worth While. "My papa can lick your papa," boasted Johnny, aged six. "I don't care; my mamma can lick your mamma," came back Jimmy. "Both of you make me tired," chimed in Sammy. "My papa and my mamma can both lick me, and the worst part of it is they take turns about doin' it!" —Indianapolis News.

Roosevelt County at the State Fair

due to the delay in putting up the exhibits, was not so pronounced yesterday, though there is still some work to be done in putting the final touches on some of the booths. Carpenters and exhibitors were again at work last night, however, and by the time the fair gates open this afternoon every exhibit will be in place and the entire county tent will have a spick-and-span appearance.

"It is quite apparent that Roosevelt county is not content to rest on the laurels won last year, and already visitors are saying that the winner of first money will have that county to beat. A. A. Rogers, of Portales, is again in charge of the exhibit and if anything the showing of Roosevelt county this year is more elaborate than that of a year ago, which easily took first honors.

"Indeed, the Roosevelt county booth is one of the most remarkable and artistic that has ever been seen at a state fair. The distinguishing feature of the exhibit is a large arch lighted with different colored incandescent lights that completely surmounts the entrance to the booth. The arch and its multitude of lights represents the rainbow, at each end of which is a metaphorical pot of gold. In front of the rainbow is a screen decorated with flowers, three thousand garden blossoms being sent from Roosevelt county each day to keep up the floral supply. An illuminated waterfall displaying the American flag is not the least artistic and attractive feature of the exhibit.

Among the other notable points of the Roosevelt county exhibit are the display of slides showing actual scenes of the county, a cow made of butter produced by the Roosevelt county creamery, two pigs of different sizes showing the growth of the swine industry from 1915 to 1916, a fountain throwing the Roosevelt county grain high into the air, and innumerable displays of the different varieties of vegetables, grains and other products of the county."

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights are free nights for the ladies at the skating rink.

A. A. Jones Honored

Andrieus A. Jones, late first assistant secretary of the interior and next United States senator from New Mexico, has been designated by President Wilson to act in his stead at the formal dedication of the great Elephant Butte dam.

That is the kind of honors that come unsought to A. A. Jones, so aptly termed "The First Citizen of New Mexico." Mr. Jones is to represent the president of the United States at the dedication of one of the greatest engineering accomplishments of the age because the caliber of the man corresponds to the importance of the occasion and the size of the honor.

It is peculiarly fitting, in view of Mr. Jones' signal service to the west in matters of reclamation and development and in the solution of the west's great problems, that he should be chosen to officiate as the representative of the chief magistrate of the nation at the formal launching of one of the greatest government enterprises in the west. Mr. Jones will preside with dignity at the ceremonies; he will rise to the occasion as he always meets every demand upon him, whether it be to take temporarily the post of the secretary of the interior or to present the issues of the campaign to the people of a New Mexico hamlet. Mr. Jones is that kind of a man; the kind of a man who will fit any office of trust and honor which the people see fit to bestow upon him; the kind of a man who could step into the highest office in the nation and not shrink from the responsibility nor fail to measure up to the standard of ability and statesmanship demanded.

The people of New Mexico will be privileged in having the opportunity of sending such a man to represent them in the greatest law-making body in the world. — Santa Fe New Mexican.

Stephen Sawyer, of Eldora, Iowa, was here last week and this looking after his irrigated farm along the Bethel boulevard.
