Minter W. Uzzell was born in Grimes county, Texas on May 28th, 1873. He came to Baird in 1900, just after having received his discharge from the United States Army, having served through the Spanish-American war. He was with both T. E. Powell and B. L. Boydston as salesman for some time, later being associated with C. C. Ebberson in the gent's furnishing business.

He was married to Miss Ada Cooke on Aug. 3rd, 1908, who with one son, and one daughter, Minter, 21 years of age and Miss Elizabeth, 17 survive him, one son, James Calvin died in infancy. He is also survived by a brother, D. K. Uzzell, of Clyde.

The following beautiful tribute to the memory of his father was written by Minter Uzzell, and was read at the funeral held at Slaton.

MY FATHER
Minter Uzzell

Feeling that perhaps I knew my father a little better than most of you, I want to say something about his life. To me, of course he was a great man. He has been a constant inspiration to a higher life.

He was sincere and helpful, often going against his own interests to help someone in need. He was a great commoner. I marvel at. Conclude on last page

OLD TIMERS AT- TEND RE-UNION

Joe Crutchfield, Jesse Hart, J. R. McFarlane, Buck White, John Boen, J. M. Cummings were among the thousands who attended the Cowboy Reunion at Stamford last Thursday, Friday and Saturday and report having spent the most delightful days since the happy days of yesterday when they were cowboys too. They met many old friends at the reunion.

The Abilene Morning News in speaking of the reunion says:

Stamford is doing something worthwhile in reviving the old West. Not a great while ago the cow camps were the main thing; now one must look for them. They are still there, but they are surrounded by growing towns and fertile fields. The cowboy hasn't changed a great deal, in spite of the old-timer's snorting contempt of flippers and silk shirts. It is still a hard, dangerous life the lads of the saddle lead. They got bunged up as of yore, and most of them are acquainted with hospitals.

They are the same care-free, loyal witty courageous crew our fathers knew. They work with a better bunch of cattle, but a pedigreed whiteface steer can kick just as hard, can be just as contrary and fractious, as a longhorn. As it was fifty years ago, so it is today—the cowboy's special and particular pride is centered on shop-made boots and Stetson hats. He may smolt tailor-made cigarettes and eat ice cream sodas when he gets a chance, but essentially he hasn't changed a bit in fifty years. He still sleeps out in the open, in round-up time; the branding pen is just as nasty, hot and noisy as ever. He still sings the old songs, speaks the same language, and displays the same politeness. On the cow ranches, woman is still on her pedestal.

It's a pity everybody in Texas couldn't be at Stamford this weekend.

W. B. Jones, who has been quite ill the past two weeks was to be down town a few hours yesterday afternoon.

BAPTIST REVIVAL DRAWS CROWDS

Much interest is being manifested in the Revival now in progress at the Baird Tabernacle under the auspices of the First Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Blankenship have charge of the music. They have organized one of the best "Booster choirs" that has ever been in Baird. They sing special songs at every service much to the help of the meeting and the delight of all. Mr. Blankenship is supported in his song service by two pianos. Mrs. Blankenship plays one and Mrs. Dossey plays the other.

Evangelist C. Y. Dossey has been bringing some straightforward gospel messages at every service. He condemns sin, and holds up Christ as the hope of the world. His subjects for the rest of the week will be as follows. Friday night, "Who is responsible for every lost soul that goes to Hell from Baird." Saturday night, "The hand writing on the wall, or weighed in the balances and found wanting." Sunday morning, "Prepare to meet thy God." Sunday night, "The unpardonable sin."

Monday night will be family night. The Evangelist will give a present to the largest family present, and another present to the family that travels the longest distance to the service. The meeting will continue all next week with services twice a day, at 10:00 a. m. and 8:30 p. m.

Hoover Draws Blanton's Ire

Congressman Thos. L. Blanton is supporting the World War veterans relief bill and will fight against adjournment until "a proper relief bill is passed," he wired the Abilene News last Saturday.

"Washington press reports haven't given you real situation. Republicans have refunded $1,191,000,000 of which $96,000,000 went to United States Steel corporation, yet Hoover squeals about granting urgent relief necessary to rehabilitate disabled ex-service men, thousands of whom are helpless on their backs afflicted with tuberculosis and other deadly diseases, and with their families starving. His objection is he is afraid relief bill will cost $100,000,000. If the war had continued 30 days longer it would have cost many times that sum.

"We are going to fight against adjourning congress until a proper relief bill is passed."
"(Signed) Thos. L. Blanton."

Claude Flores Attends Reunion of Army Buddies

Claude Flores returned home Wednesday from St. Louis where he attended the 4th Bi-Annual reunion of the Twelfth U. S. Engineers (Light Railway) at St. Louis, Mo., on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week.

The reunion was held at Jefferson Barricks, the O. M. T. C. area being turned over to them. Tents had been provided for the several hundred men and their families who were in attendance and the Post Exchange building was used as their headquarters.

Claude was a member of Co. "F" and was one of Callahan's first boys to answer the call of his country in the World War. The 12th Engineers went over seas in 1917 and saw some of the hardest service of the war. Claude says only fourteen members of his company were present, but that they spent the time most happily together. The 12th Engineers were made up mostly of men from Missouri and was recruited at St. Louis and each bi-annual reunion is held there. At each reunion memorial services for those of the regiment who died in the service and those who have "gone west" since, are held at The Chain of Rock Park near St. Louis where a beautiful granite monument was dedicated in 1922 to memory of their fallen buddies. This year a Gold Star mother placed the wreath at the foot of the monument and Col. John A. Laird, placed the single poppy.

The 12th Engineers served with the English army in France and had the reputation of being the first foreign unit to parade in London, since William the Conqueror's reign.

Claude took his Texas cowboy regalia, high heel boots and ten gallon hat along and got quite a thrill in wearing it before his buddies.

A Correction

In the rush of getting to press the printers failed to replace a letter "L" in the word July in McElroy's page ad, which makes it read "Juy Clearance Sale" when it should have been "July Clearance Sale." We are sure that the omission of this letter "L" will make no difference to the many well pleased customers who are taking advantage of the wonderful bargains to be found at McElroy's during this big "July Clearance Sale."

COYOTES DEFEAT OPLIN ALL-STARS

The Baird Coyotes, whom you all know, is one of the fastest ball clubs in West Texas, kept up their reputation Sunday by defeating the All Stars from Oplin by the count of 11-3. Old "Flop" Harris was the victim of the on slaught which lasted about two hours. His offerings were slammed to all corners of the field and believe it or not there were some healthy swats.

Beeman Young led the attack with three healthy blows, two singles and a triple, while H. Ray, Farmer, McIntosh and R. Ray, connected two hits each. L. Ray and E. Norman each getting one hit.

There was no scouring at all in the first or second inning, but the Coyotes threatened in both frames, getting three men on in both innings. Then in the third; Baird made one run, Beeman Young first up slapped a single through short. Then R. Ray singled over second, Beeman going to second. No advance was made as Farmer flew out to third. Then McIntosh singled through short, the ball taking a bad hop. This scored Beeman and put two men on but E. Hall ended the frame by going out second to first.

In the next inning the Coyotes went on a hitting rampage and scored five runs before the All Stars realized what was happening Young first up slapped a triple to deep center, H. Ray attempted to sacrifice but Young was out at the plate. H. Ray was safe at first. Farmer then tripled to right center scoring H. Ray. McIntosh struck out. E. Hall hit to short and was safe when D. Preston dropped the ball. Farmer scoring on the play. Mitchell struck out and L. Ray walked. Then Raleigh came through with a triple to center scoring E. Hall and L. Ray. Modessite ended his agony by popping out.

There was no more scoring until the eighth when Oplin scored their first run. D. Preston first up singled sharply to center. Varner went out short to first. D. Preston advancing to second. McIntire then singled to left center scoring D. Preston. W. Johnson ended the frame by striking out.

Baird also did some scoring in the eighth. Young first up went out third to first. H. Ray then slapped one into the mesquites for a home run. Farmer, not to be out done smacked one into the same spot for another home run. McIntosh was out when the right fielder took his grounder and threw him out at first. E. Hall was safe on an error. Then Norman hitting for Mitchell singled to center. E. Hall going to third R. Ray doubled to left scoring E. Hall and Norman.

Oplin scored two runs in the ninth. W. Preston first up flew out to center. McKinley singled to right field. Wagner struck out. Then Harris hit a home run over the left field fence. Preston then ended the game by grounding out.

A Statewide Industrial Program

By Geo. I. Seitz
Editor, "Editorials of the Month"
The time has come when Texas must think about repairing and reinforcing the foundations upon which she builds her prosperity. Heretofore she has relied almost exclusively upon agriculture, but she has grown too populous to impose so great a burden upon one form of industry. Moreover, agriculture itself is beset with a multitude of ills and is in poor position to carry an ever-increasing load.

Too much dependence upon agriculture has placed Texas at considerable disadvantage in the economic competitions between the states. A natural wealth so great as to be almost incomprehensible has carried her into the fore ranks, it is true; but where might she be had she properly balanced and diversified the production of field and factory?

Cotton, for instance, has been the nucleus about which Texas built a system of splendid deep-water ports. Cotton in bales, cotton-seed oil and cotton-seed cake have comprised the major items of Texas commerce. The cotton crop, however, fluctuates widely; this year there may be an enormous production, next year a comparative failure. In consequence, activity of Texas ports has been lopsided, and shipping has been preponderantly of the "tramp" variety.

A statewide industrial program therefore appears necessary and desirable from many viewpoints. Not only would it relieve agriculture of a burden which has become unbearable, but it would provide Texas ports with a steady flow of varied import and export cargo. Industrial payrolls would tend to fill the valleys which now characterize Texas business graphs, and if the peaks were leveled a little in the process no harm would result.

A well-balanced program of industrialization would stimulate prosperity to a remarkable degree. Indeed, because it would provide new, strong markets for agricultural products, industry might prove to be the very remedy for agriculture's ills.

That the future prosperity of the state depends upon some such program of industrial expansion and development, most Texas editors agree. This agreement does not extend, however, to the ways and means by which that development and expansion should be fostered.

Recent newspaper editorials have emphasized the fact that Texas possessed or produced raw materials sufficient to maintain a gigantic manufacturing industry. More than that, she has also an abundance of cheap fuel with which to turn the factory wheels. The latter fact is brought home to us by announcement of the fact that Texas gas is being piped to the Chicago industrial area.

In this connection, it is difficult to justify the logic which ships Texas raw materials to Chicago and pipes Texas gas to Chicago only to manufacture products which are promptly returned to Texas for purchase and consumption. In point of fact, there is no economic justification for such a condition. That it persists is due to our toleration of an economic absurdity—an absurdity for which Texas pays an "unconscionable" price.

Probably no commonwealth in the Union enjoys such a happy combination of industrial advantages as does Texas. On the other hand it is quite as probable that no state has made so little effective use of such advantages.

To the problem there seems to be but one answer. Texas should create, either by voluntary association or by official appointment, an industrial board to discover, identify and broadcast to the world the industrial opportunities which lie hidden within the state.

Some time ago such a program was suggested by the Dallas News. Though commented upon with much favor by other Texas newspapers and magazines, it was never accorded recognition at Austin. Today, even more than at the time the Dallas newspaper voiced the suggestion, Texas should welcome the benefits which accrue from some such program. Texas needs the uniform, consistent and uninterrupted prosperity which would result therefrom.

That Texans have become "industrial minded" is quite beyond dispute; and, peculiarly enough, industry has become more or less "Texas minded." If we would achieve our desires and become genuinely prosperous again, it is necessary only to organize; and that, too, seems simple enough.

Why not begin by organizing a competent, effective industrial board?

Did You Ever Stop To Think?
By Edson R. Waite,
Shawnee, Okla.

William H. Hodge, vice-president of the Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation, says:
THAT if anyone is interested in developing a broad market for almost any product in this day and age, neglect of advertising is no-thing short of folly.

The notion that advertising adds to the price of a product is still a persistent one. The sophistry that utility companies advertise in the newspapers to insidiously influence editorial opinion is still advanced by those anxious to tear down these industries. Both are fallacies and as fallacies should be attacked at every opportunity.

The demagogues devoting themselves to the utilities would like to have every editor feel that his readers believed him bought if his paper carried gas or electric company advertising. They would cheerfully deprive these industries of the right to advertise at all, if they dared to propose such a thing. Meanwhile they sow what suspicion they can in the hopes that the utilities will be discouraged from advertising, and the publishers will be afraid to solicit such business.

It is common knowledge that the lowest priced articles in respective classes are the ones most largely advertised. Whether it is soap, shoes, automobiles or gas, this is generally true. Mass production of sales must use advertising. It is a contrast between popular and class appeal. Compare the Chevrolet and the Rolls-Royce.

If there is anything wrong, morally or commercially about utilities company advertising today, it is simply its inadequacy. In other words, there is not enough of it being done. The industry can employ to advantage advertising in its various forms to a much greater extent than is the case at present. If this were done, the pace of development would be accelerated, the maximum benefits of gas and electricity brought to many additional people in quicker time, and volume of output built up so that the price per unit of service could be more rapidly reduced.

Sunset Musings
By J. Marvin Nichols

Idleness never fails to demoralize the body, mind and conscience. Men blush over things they are not ashamed to do.

"SUBSTITUTE"—substitute; a lap dog.

In the realm of love, to expand means to expend. Dig for your coin, and dig hard; that's all right. But be master of your dollar, not its slave.

Because you've never been in jail is no sign that you are just as good as old John Bunyan.

We know a great many saints who are experts in committing you to the mercy of God and ignore-muses in showing any mercy them selves.

Break your alabaster boxes on the bleeding hearts of friends. When broken on dead bodies, even the sweet perfume is a jeering mockery.

Every man's life is a romance, but it takes a Dickens of a pen to put it on paper.

The drift of Time has brought with it the shifting sands. Rivers sometimes change their courses. Vast territories, far removed from seas and oceans, have in their soils deposits that puzzle the brain. The Great Gorge is but the history of Niagara. The Grand Canyon of the Colorado is but the caprice of a water-way among the wild and scenic fastnesses of the Rockies. What we call Time is only a halt in the march of the eternities—a period that grants a human being the moment to fashion destiny. The river of life moves always in the staliest grandeur. Today, a frantic torrent; tomorrow, a limpid stream. Things do not really decay—they change, they shift. It is a thing crowded with pathetic sadness! Some day our child will begin its pilgrimage to a far away land. Some other child will romp and sport on our baby's old playground. Thus, the shifting scenes are set for the new who come to play their part in life's great drama.

Denotes Burial Place
The word "columbrum" is derived from the Latin word "columba," meaning a dove. The word was originally applied to rows or niches in the walls of sepulchral chambers in Roman burial places from their fancied resemblance to the dove-cote. Eventually the name was applied to the chamber itself; hence its use at the present time.

Durability of Leather
The durability of leather is proved by the discovery in the course of excavating for the foundations of the new Bank of England of soles of Roman shoes, one of which bears clearly the impress of the official Roman eagle.

Only Hollanders "Dutch"
The name "Dutch" or "Dutchman" is properly applied only to the people of Holland, though the people there call themselves "Netherlanders." The word is a corruption of "Netherlands" and was formerly applied to "Netherlands" in general. Now, except in slang or colloquial usage, it is limited to the Low German or Hollanders.

Unworthy American

Tomb of Spanish Kings
A short distance from Madrid, the temple of the Escorial was built by Philip II in memory of the martyr, St. Lawrence, who met his death on this spot. Here many of the Spanish kings are buried.

THE NEW TEXACO MOTOR OIL LONGER- LASTING, "CRACK-PROOF"

THE Texas Company again demonstrates its leadership in the petroleum field with the introduction of a vastly superior, new product—a motor oil that lasts longer—that is crack-proof—a motor oil that meets exactly every requirement of the high speed automobile engine of today! This new oil revolutionizes lubrication values as completely as the new and better Texaco Gasoline, the original "dry" gas, revolutionized motor fuels in the Spring of 1926.

An Oil Without Precedent

There have been oils that gave remarkable mileage. There have been oils that flowed freely at zero. There have been oils that kept your engine completely free of wax and carbon troubles. But—never until now have all these advantages been combined in any one single lubricant. That motor oil is ready for you today. It is the new Texaco—longer-lasting and crack-proof. Road tests—laboratory tests have proved it.

Available in all our 48 States
Fill your crankcase with this new crack-proof motor oil today. It will more than pay you, not only in greater value for your lubrication dollar but for your car dollar as well. It is manufactured in five grades: C, D, E, F, and G, corresponding in body to Society of Automotive Engineers (S. A. E.) viscosity ratings. 30¢ a quart everywhere (35¢ for grade G).

THE TEXAS COMPANY
Refiners of a complete line of Texaco Petroleum Products including Gasoline, Motor Oil, Industrial Lubricants, Railroad and Marine Lubricants, Farm Lubricants, Road Asphalts and Asphalt Roofing.

THE NEW FOURTH

Year by year the old-fashioned Fourth of July with spitting cannon and sizzling rocket against a blue-black sky is becoming more and more a memory.

The Fourth of July which small boys and girls awaited as eagerly as Christmas itself, a day of toy torpedo, of celluloid-collared orators, and ice cream socials, has been transformed into an Independence Day of quite and dignity.

But how can we teach our children what Fourth of July really means? a mother asked not long ago, adding, "you must meet a child on his own ground—things
must be explained to him in terms
that he understands."

This mother, who is fortunate enough never to have been forced to the tragic task of binding up nagged little fingers shredded by innocent fire-crackers' is arguing that a child must be taught the meaning of liberty and freedom and independence by lighting
a pin wheel or hurling a torpedo cane upon the pavement.

It is difficult for who have passed childhood in the old-fashioned noisy Fourth of July decade
to remember that our Roman candles and flower pots, means anything lofty and inspiring to us—
anything but a rollicking holiday.

Safe and sane Fourth are pretly well established but the argument that some way should be found to make clear the meaning of what those periwigged builders
of our nation did back on July 4, 1776, is a worthy one.

The great purpose of a Fourth of July observance is not only to pay respect to the early farmers of this government but to measure the patriotism of this with that day, to determine whether this nation has been true to the faith, whether it has kept aloft
the torch, whether its willingness to sacrifice for the common good,
deserves a place with the sacrifices of the fathers of the nation. Such speculation is in order in these times and a quite, dignified observance, such as this city has in find will be helpful.—Exchange.

AUTOMOBILES AND THE WORLD WAR

The annual death rate due to the automobile, according to Robert amont, Secretary of Commerce,
now close to the total American casualties in the World War.
Fatalities have increased from 500 in 1920, to 31,000 in 1929,
and while in 1926 there were 107
deaths for each 100,000 cars in use, last year the rate was 117.

The rising toll has been blamed
on such factors as the increased utilization of the average motor car and the high speeds at which it is driven. These have undoubtedly had some effect. But of far greater importance is the general disregard of traffic regulations and the fact that most of our states
are now attempting to control 1930
conditions with 1915 laws.

Only 17 states require examination of drivers. The other 31
allow persons to use the public highways irrespective of their competence and responsibility. Almost no states have modernized, adequate and rigidly enforced traffic codes. Last year a few cities, such as San Francisco, St. Louis and Chicago, recorded decreases
in their automobile accident records through concentrated attention to traffic problems.

That the rising death and injury rate caused by automobiles
is one of the gravest of our national problems goes without saying. It is the opinion of experts that improvement in the situation
will only come when every state
requires examination of drivers,
keeps the reckless and incompetent
from using the public highways
and rigidly enforces traffic codes
in keeping with modern conditions.
"I heard a mocking bird singing the various songs he had learned from other birds, giving back to those who cared to listen the happiness that found judgment in his heart. If we mortals would be more like the mocking bird we could make the sunshine shafts
more numerous, for music and laughter are like a microscope if their effect upon our sentiments.
They make happiness, joy and contentment greater than they are."

STATEMENT ON THE POLITI-CAL SITUATION BY LYNCH
DAVIDSON

To The People of Texas:

Houston, Texas, June 30.—With a background of long business experience and a close student of State government for twelve or fifteen years, during the time left between now and the July primary
I shall try to make helpful observations on the political situation.
It has always been the belief of the people that the office ought to seek the man. Concurring in that principle I shall never again seek office. This statement is made so that the people may understand I have no partisan or personal interest in the candidates for office
and am only concerned in securing for ourselves good government administered by officials of integrity.
Our laws enforced; our judiciary effective; our schools well provided for and our labor gainfully employed. To promote, protect and conserve the welfare of the farmers
in this State—our basic wealth producing industry. One more than all, to prevent additional tax burdens being placed on our people.
In my judgment these results cannot be obtained by the election of
R. S. Sterling, Ferguson, Love or Mayfield. Sterling, with his long Standard Oil association and viewpoint, could not possibly do justice to Texas. Using the Highway Department as a nostrum by which to advance his political interest is a precept the people should destroy by their votes immediately. Last but not least, advocate of the most vicious taxing scheme ever proposed—the Highway Bond Issue!
Promising to relieve other taxes
by the Bond Issue is a promise that can never be performed. A vote for Sterling means a vote for the Bond Issue. The Bond Issue means but one thing—more and greater taxes and no relief from existing taxes! Sterling is a hang-over of and sponsored by the Moody administration. He would inherit and carry into the legislative halls all the factional fights and feuds of the Moody administration. He is a good man in many particulars but Nature endowed him with an awkward blundering mentality untrained in the diplomacy necessary
to bring about harmony between the executive and legislative branches of government.

Ferguson, Love and Mayfield.
Political triplets and tricksters. All things to all men. Professional office seekers and office holders.
Worn out politicians. It is my solemn belief that if any of these four men are elected to office their administration will give us more cause for regret than all of those we have endured during the past several years. I urge upon the people to eliminate these candidates from their consideration and select others upon the ticket for whom to vote. There are no personal differences between myself and these men nor do I have any personal interest to serve. To as
and her people are my first and only thought. I could serve my own interests far better by saying nothing.

The lesson was valuable. I
ought to have learned it much
earlier in life, for I had been given
plenty opportunity to observe the
ways of successful men in such
matters.
One of my first bosses made it
a rule every morning to ask for
the bad news first. He said: "I want to get the tough things off
the calendar while I am fresh. I never deal with the same thing twice. When I pick up a paper
from my desk I don't lay it down
until it's settled. Procrastination
is poison."
An acquaintance of mine is a prominent operator in Wall Street.
I asked once if it were true at different times he has taken tremendous losses.
"Losses," he exclaimed, "I've taken millions in losses. Any man who tries to get through life without taking losses will never make any money. The trick is to take 'em quick and forget 'em. Amateurs worry about them in advance
and brood about them afterward.
The worry and the brooding break
their nerve."
The Book of Proverbs, which said
pretty nearly everything that can be said—and much better—has this verse:
"The slothful man saith, There is a lion without, I shall be slain
in the streets."
Worrying about the lion, the
slothful man is eaten by fear,
which is more terrible death.
The wise man steps out body.
And more often than not the lino
proves to be just a motion picture lion, with his claws cut short and his poor old teeth all gone.

The Way of Life

By BRUCE BARTON

LIONS

There was one year in my life
when it seemed as if everything went exactly wrong.

The resulting accumulation of worries and problems loomed up like a range of mountains. It hardly seemed worth while to try to get on top of one of them because there were so many others beyond.

Wise old Talleyrand, when he could not see his way clearly
through a difficult situation, used to take to his bed and give out word that he was ill. It was his experience that many difficulties solved themselves if one only let them alone for awhile.

Adopting his example, I went away for a couple of weeks and played golf. When I got back the troubles and problems had not disappeared, but I was a different man.

I went down to the office, made a list of all of them, and decided to tackle the toughest one first.
I cleaned it up in one day and
started after the others.

An amazing thing developed.
Some of the worst situations proved to be the easiest, and not one of the whole lot turned out to be worth half the worry I had given
it.

The lesson was valuable. I
ought to have learned it much
earlier in life, for I had been given
plenty opportunity to observe the
ways of successful men in such
matters.

One of my first bosses made it
a rule every morning to ask for
the bad news first. He said: "I

I was born in Georgia 55 years ago and was reared principally in Tennessee; came to Texas and Dallas County in 1896 and since 1899 have been editor and publisher of The Texas Mesquiter at Mesquite. Have a family of a wife and four children; two sons
who are newspapermen, one son
in the U. S. Navy and a daughter at home.

I feel that I am qualified to fill the office I seek in an acceptable manner and if thushonored by the people of Texas, I pledge myself to an honest, painstaking, fair and faithful performance of the duties
thereof.

JOHN E. DAVIS CANDIDATE FOR STATE TREASURER, VISITS BAIRD

JOHN E. DAVIS
Editor The Texas Mesquiter, Mesquite.

John E. Davis, editor of the Texas Mesquiter, at Mesquite, Dallas county, who is a candidate for State Treasurer, was in Baird Monday in the interest of his candidacy. Mr. Daves made The Star a pleasant call. Mr. Davis was accompanied by his son, and they went on to Abilene from here.
Mr. Davis will make an extended tour through West Texas.

The following is taken from folders distributed by Mr. Davis.

The people of Dallas County have honored me with election to the Legislature nine times, giving me longer service in the House
than any other person in the history of Texas. I was first nominated with a plurality of about 2,400 over my nearest opponent,

the plurality system being in effect at that time, and at the last general primary I had a majority of more than 14,000 over the combined votes of two opponents.

Since the first primary I have never failed to have a large majority over the combined vote of all opponents. This I regard as a testimonial from those who know me best as to my character as a man and my devotion to my duty
as a Representative.

During the last five terms in the House I have served as chairman of the Committee on Contingent Expense, having charge of the purchase of all stationery,
supplies and equipment and the payment of all bills covering the contingent expenses of the House,
and Speakers Ewing Thomason,
Chas. G. Thomas, Lee Satterwhite,
Robert Lee Bobbitt and W. S.
Barron, who appointed me, have commended me for the careful and painstaking manner in which I have handled that work, and I have often been referred to as
"the watchdog of the contingent
expense fund."

As a member of the Legislature,
I have been faithful in attendance
upon the sessions and have voted consistently for economy and with the moral forces. I have never introduced a "by request" bill, prepared for and designed to benefit
some special interests or small group of persons, keeping in mind
the fact always that I was elected by the people, and trying to be their representative in fact as well
as in name.

Prior to my election to the House, I served two terms as a clerk in the House and once in the Senate and also served four terms as mayor of my home town.

My long service in the Legislature and my contact with the various departments has given me
experience that I feel will be of value to the people of Texas if I am elected to the office of State Treasurer, and has also given me
a wide acquaintance over the State, for my friends include practically all State officials and members of the Legislature since 1903, many newspaper men and others, and fortunately for me,
some of these friends live in almost every community in the State. Ask them about me.

I hope those who read this will pardon me for having referred to the confidence expressed in me
by the people of my county and the words of commendation for my work in the Legislature. I have not done so in an egotistical or boastful spirit. For myself I make no claim other than that I have been honest and have tried to be faithful to the trust reposed
in me.

I am for direct election of our Highway Commission. We need
two men, one commissioner for each section of the state and one
at-large to act as chairman.
I stand for a better Public School system in order to give our rural boys and girls the same opportunity as they get in cities.

I am against the proposed three hundred and fifty million dollar
road bond. I say we can not pay the interest on it at 5 per cent.
It will cost us 17 1/2 million dollars per year, or $47,500 per day. I do not think it wise policy to do
this thing.

I am against any county official receiving more than $4000 a year.
I am against selling or removing our penitentiary system as we are not able to spend the cash at this time.

I am for a better banking law,
to protect the interest of bank
depositors and to have them put under a sound, business-like system.
I favor more business men and farmers in our legislature and fewer politicians.

I favor any reasonable law that will protect our farmers and working class of people.

I ask your support upon these principles on which I stand for.
I will thank you for your consideration, as I feel that this your fight as well as mine.

Elect A Business Man
For Business Office

CECIL A. LOTIEF

In this campaign for the office
of Representative of the 107th District, composed of the counties of Callahan and Eastland counties, I wish to state that there is no personal issue between my opponent and I. I am asking for the office on my own qualifications as a business man of experience and an American citizen.

I believe the main issue in this race is Regulation of our PUBLIC UTILITIES, especially ELECTRIC and GAS Companies and they must be regulated by our next Legislature, as this matter affects the welfare of every home in Texas and their charges are entirely too high, unreasonable. I hold a letter from the R. R. Commission of Texas,
dated June 23rd, 1930, advising me
that Gas companies of this state are paying only 3 1/2 cents per 1000 cubic feet of gas at the wells. How much are we paying them for like amounts? I say we are paying from 65cents to $2.00. Think it over.

Gov. Moody called the last Legislature into special session and submitted this question to them and they voted it down. Ask your present representative, my opponent how he voted, "For it" or "Against it." I pledge you my honor that I will fight for your rights to the last ditch.

I am for direct election of our
Highway Commission. We need

SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY

We are going fine in the meeting I want to say to the people that I am highly pleased with the work being done by the evangelist. The preaching is just the kind I think ought to be given. It is clear cut, full of pep, and no one can hear it and not be bettered by it. The singing is up to the standard too. We can see in brother and sister Blankenship what masters can do. I have never seen better work done with that part of the meeting than they are doing here. Now we have another member of this team, Mrs. Dossey, my how she takes care of that piano, just the finest in the world. Yes, we have the best with us in their team.

Here is what I am concerned about, I want the people to get in this meeting, I want every body to be benefited by it, I want that christian who has been having a hard time fighting the battle with sin and Satan to get in this meeting and get some strength to help put old Satan to rout, consequently I insist on everyone coming. I care not what church you are affiliating with or whether you are with or whether you are with any church or not, you love the Lord you can find a place to work and help in this meeting and if you will come and help us we will do you good.

I am hoping that our stores will close each day next week from 10 to 11, for the service. I crave this cooperation and I feel sure that it will be given. Several have told me this week that they were willing to close if the others will. I am again asking my brethren and neighbors to help this meeting this much by bring your force to the meeting every day next week.

Just here let me insist on every one who does not go to Sunday School some where else and especially the members of the Baptist church to be in Sunday School at the tabernacle next Sunday and remember that we are expecting the christians all over Baird come out to help us put it over.

Joe R. Mayes.

The Methodist Sunday Schools of Cross Plains Circuit met at Victoria, Sunday, June 29th, for their second regular fifth Sunday rally. A good crowd was present, each of the churches of the circuit being well represented. At ten o'clock, and interesting talk was delivered by Rev. B. L. Nance, field superintendent of rural Sunday schools for the North West Texas Conference. Brother Nance was followed by Rev. L. H. Davis of Cisco, who preached one of those able sermons for which he is noted.

After the sermon, dinner was spread under a group of large live-oak trees, and to say that this feature of the day's entertainments was a success, is to put it entirely too mildly. In the afternoon a varied program was rendered, consisting of singing, readings, and other Nance.

Another interesting lecture by Bro. Ministers present, Rev. B. L. Nance, Rev. L. H. Davis of Cisco, Rev. W. C. Howell, Pastor of Cross Plains M. E. Church, and Rev. G. C. Williams, pastor of the circuit. Sunday school superintendents present, George Baum of Victoria, Ernest Riggs of Burnt Branch, and V. L. Pulton of Cottonwood. Marvin Nance, superintendent of the Cross Plains Sunday school was present in the afternoon.

The next rally will be held at Burnt Branch on the fifth Sunday in August. This occasion will celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the church at that place, during which time the church there has not been without a pastor. An enviable record for a rural church, it seems to us. All former pastors of all denominations at Burnt Branch during the last forty years are to be invited, as well as all members of any church who have have at any time had their membership there. These good people anticipate a great day and extend to you an invitation to be present, no matter who you are or where you live.

GRANT BOWLUS JR. OPENS GOLF COURSE IN ALBANY

Grant Bowlus Jr, who recently opened "Sunny-Dell" miniature Golf course in Baird, which is proving a decided success, furnishing a pleasant pastime for many every afternoon and night, has opened a course in Albany and Col. Dick McCarty, has the following to say about it in last week's Albany News:

Mr. W. G. Bowlus, popular citizen of Baird has come over to Albany and is operating a miniature golf course. The course which Mr. Bowlus has constructed is one of the best possible to build. He has spared no expense in getting one of the finest locations available, and is building one of the sportiest and most difficult little courses you will find. Instead of the usual sand greens, or cottonseed-hull greens, Mr. Bowlus brings a new wrinkle and a patent all his own in the way of a chat green that puts like a grass green, the peak of all golf greens.

Mr. Bowlus' course is located just southeast of the court house on the L. H. Hill lot, and the way he has laid the plot out in and among the big shade trees is indeed an inviting layout. The course is attractively lighted, eighteen holes being laid out on the large lot of 150x75 feet. That gives Albany two miniature courses and one large course. A person ought to get all the putting he wants, and in any shape he wants it in now.

Have you tried our fresh home killed baby beef? It is fine. Let us send you up a roast, stew or a good steak. Northington's Market.

WHO ARE THE 'RUBES'

It is about time the city people and the city newspapers quit referring to the American farmer as a 'Rube' and caricaturing him as a low-brow European peasant, only slightly Americanized by a set of chip-whiskers a la Uncle Sam.

The trouble with city folk, especially in New York and elsewhere in the East is that they get their impressions of the farmer, as of everything else, from European sources. Because the mass of people tilling the soil in Europe are uneducated, unintelligent peasants, tenants for the most part and tied to the soil as no American has ever been so tied, the city-bred, Europe-conscious people who have never penetrated any farther into America than the shores of the Atlantic Ocean think American farmers must be the same type.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. No individual or class of our people has been more prompt to apply new methods of science new inventions, new ways of doing old things, than the American farmer. The implication when he is referred to as a Rube is that he is a stupid, unprogressive person, content to do everything as his father and grand father did it before him. As a matter of fact, practically nothing is done on American farms today the way it was done a generation ago.

One of the things that has brought about the change has been the development of the numerous Colleges of Agriculture. Nothing like them is known in any part of the world. Old-time farms used to sneer at the idea that college could do a farmer any good; but the progressive farmers of today are practically all college graduates, and the leadership in every movement for the betterment of farm conditions comes from these schools.

Our National and State departments of Agriculture have enlisted in their service—the service of the American farmer—more men of high scientific attainment, engaged in vital research into the manifold problems which the farmer must solve if he is to succeed, than are engaged in any other field of scientific inquiry. Our agricultural experiment stations have taught the 'man' with the hoe' not only new and better ways of doing things but the reason why they are better ways.

First Settlement Abandoned
The first English settlement in New England was made at the mouth of the Kennebec river by the Popham colony in 1607. A storehouse and fortification called Fort St. George were built. Popham was elected president of the colony, but died the following year and the Colonists becoming disheartened by the severity of the winters, abandoned the settlement.

Gambling Never Provides Providence
Cradle Training More Land for Us

Charles S. Waters, his savings gone, killed his wife, his daughter and himself. The money went in stock gambling. Gambling causes suicides, ruin, poverty, sorrow. Bootleg whiskey causes some suicides, many murders. Leave stock gambling and bootlegging alone.

The kindness of Providence supplies us with things when we need them. "The ravens fed Elijah. After the Napoleonic wars Europe, heavily in debt, faced long poverty. Then came steam power, debts were paid, prosperity was great. Kings and nobles in steel armor enjoyed leading miserable peasants to war. The latter were left dead, the nobles in their armor rode back. Then gunpowder and bullets went through the armor, nobles and kings went home, wars became less frequent.

The automobile made gasoline supplies of gasoline necessary. The country yields so much of the oil men don't know what to do with it. Finally, in flying, clouds and fogs, out of sight of land, make necessary information in midocean.

And the radio supplies it. The flyers arriving from Ireland say that without the guiding radio they could not have made the flight. As we need things we get them.

Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt says: "Character building begins in the cradle." Parents should train children from their babyhood.

An old English horse trainer, asked "When should I begin training my colt," and told that the colt was three weeks old, said: "You have lost the three most important weeks."

Children should be trained with kindness and explanations, never with whipping or other brutality, from babyhood.

But don't waste too much time correcting and nagging concerning faults that the child will outgrow with time; and not otherwise.

The United States considers claiming ownership of great areas over which Commander Byrd flew recently in the Antarctic. We may follow the example of Great Britain and other nations, saying: "That land is ours, for we saw it first." It would add 150,000 square miles to our possessions.

The land and open sea in those regions are valuable already, the water for whale fishing and other live crops, the land for its mineral possibilities.

In years to come, with the shifting of the poles, those lands will be warm and fertile. But that will be thousands of years hence. By that time the earth's governments may think only of making land useful to all human beings, not about grabbing and owning.

Important news is the arrival of the courageous air travelers from Ireland. For the second time men have succeeded in flying the Atlantic, coming westward.

Soon, of course, regular flights at stated hours will be provided for passengers. And only a little while ago the idea of any flying was ridiculed. Men progress quickly, once they start.

Two kinds of bad news from India. In the Madras presidency police firing at a crowd of "rebels" wounded seven.

More serious, from the imperial point of view, is the disastrous slump in cotton prices on the Bombay markets. Price restrictions have been withdrawn and many failures of cotton merchants are expected.

Wall Street wit which describes a broker opening his order book, releasing several moths, now says, "Constructive forces are now in the saddle, but the saddle is not on the horse."

That talk is pleasing to the busy bears, but saddle and horse may be together soon and bears less happy.

Allan Hoover, son of the President, bought a set of union overalls and has gone to work in a New Jersey plant of the American Radiator company. He wants to "learn the manufacturing business from the bottom."

The best way to do that would be to get a job as office boy with Mr. Clarence Woolley, top head of the American Radiator company, and listen to observations made by that gentleman in the course of business. He really does know the business from the bottom up.

You can learn more about a man or a business by paying attention to the head than by spending time on the feet.

The prince of Wales, thirty-six years old, ordered himself, as a birthday present, a new airplane, described as "luxurious, with a totally enclosed cabin, making it unnecessary for his royal highness to wear a flying kit."

The prince sets a good example in flying. And the world likes him. For him, you might rewrite the text to read, "Seest thou a prince, diligent in his business, he shall stand before men."

IF ICHABOD CRANE HAD A FLASHLIGHT

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

WE ALL remember the story of Ichabod Crane and the headless horseman. There was the dark form by the side of the road—thundering hoofs on the Sleepy Hollow highway—and Ichabod facing in confused terror before this terrible monster. If Ichabod had only known that his hobgoblin was an inventive rival disguised with a pumpkin head, he would have had a good laugh and gone on with the business of vanquishing his competitor.

John G. Lonsdale

What Ichabod really needed was a modern flashlight. Then he would have discovered the trickery at once. Many business men need the flashlight of analysis to uncover the hobgoblins in their business and then they might sit back and laugh at their rivals who hesitate to investigate and learn the truth.

At this time, when business and banking are making strenuous efforts to have a clear vision ahead, it is especially important that the power of research and analysis be employed to their fullest extent. When these twin brothers of good management have been pressed into service in all fields, I am confident we shall see a further lessening of periods of stress. However, I believe business in general has learned the valuable lesson that any prosperity that is not leavened with a little adversity would not seem basically safe or sound.

Washington Stirred Up

Over Van Buren's Coach
Van Buren arrived in Washington toward the end of the second week of the session. It being traditional for the Vice President to absent himself until the senate committee had been appointed. On December 18, he made his first public utterance as the second officer of the land. It was short and one such as others before and after him have made; totally devoid of significance. It provoked no comment; but the coach he had brought over from England did. The adverse journals described it as an English coach of state—"a very splendid carriage, drawn by two beautiful blooded horses, their heads and tails full of a great deal more of intellect, passion, feeling and sublimity than their owner. . . . It is of a dark-olive hue, with ornaments elegantly disposed, shining as bright as burnished gold" and "far more superb than the equipages of royalty."—From "An Epoch and a Man," by Dennis Tilden Lynch.

RESERVE SYSTEM'S DIVIDENDS ANALYZED

Bankers Find Increased Payments to Member Banks Would Be Small Inducement.

Various proposals that member banks in the Federal Reserve System should participate more largely in its net earnings through an increase in the dividend rate above the present fixed 6 per cent "would be a very small financial inducement" to them, it is declared in a recent study of this subject by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. This is shown, the commission says, by a theoretical forecast, on the basis of the past six years, of additional earnings that would be disbursed to member banks during the next six years under two plans introduced in bills before the United States Senate.

"The Fletcher bill provides that Federal Reserve Bank earnings, after present 6 per cent dividends to members and completion of a 100 per cent surplus, should all be distributed as extra dividends to the stockholder banks," the report says. "If the earnings of each Federal Reserve bank were distributed among its own members there would be no extra dividends in the Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco districts during the next six years, but the other six Federal Reserve Banks would pay annual extras at the following rates: Richmond, 6.08 per cent; Atlanta, 4.69 per cent; St. Louis, 3.50 per cent; Minneapolis, 9.51 per cent; Kansas City, 5.48 per cent; Dallas, 4.83 per cent.

"If the earnings were pooled and paid out to all members in all districts each member would receive an average annual extra dividend of .58 per cent. Under this plan no franchise tax as now would be paid by the Federal Reserve Banks to the Federal Government.

Another Plan Analyzed
"The Glass bill would provide that, after present 6 per cent dividends, one-half the remainder should be paid to member banks as an extra dividend with the residue going to surplus and Federal Government as franchise tax. The average annual extras to members would be as follows: Boston District, 2.51 per cent; New York, 48 per cent; Philadelphia, 2.05 per cent; Cleveland, 2.09 per cent; Richmond, 3.26 per cent; Atlanta, 4.67 per cent; Chicago, 3.20 per cent; St. Louis, 2.62 per cent; Minneapolis, 4.75 per cent; Kansas City, 2.74 per cent; Dallas, 3.31 per cent; San Francisco, 1.87 per cent. "If these extra funds were pooled the result would be an extra average annual dividend of 1.73 per cent for each member. Under this plan the system would still pay as now an annual franchise tax, amounting to $1,941,596 on the average."

By way of concrete instance, the report says, a member bank having capital and surplus of $200,000, therefore holding Federal Reserve Bank stock amounting to $5,000 on which it is receiving $500 under the present 6 per cent dividend arrangement, would with the addition of 1.73 per cent to the dividend rate receive an additional income of $80 a year.

"If each member bank will figure out for itself the dollar-and-cents gain it would enjoy we are confident it will be agreed that the gains are small as against the economic disadvantages which can be pointed out," it concludes.

Scottish Abbey Holds Relics of Robert Bruce

Subject to the fulfillment of certain conditions, the trustees of Prof. Noel Paton handed over the following articles to the kirk-session of Dunfermline abbey: 1. A portion of the skeleton of King Robert Bruce, namely, the metatarsal or bone of the great toe. 2. A small portion of the outer tendon of King Robert the Bruce. 3. A small portion of the tulle d'er in which the body of King Robert the Bruce was wrapped. 4. The remains of one of the iron nails which were found among the remains of the coffin in which the body reposed. 5. The remains of one of the six iron rings, or rather, handles, which had been filled in with lead into the largest of the two stones protecting the vault of the Bruce when first discovered on February 17, 1818. 6. Twelve fragments—white marble and calm stone—"believed to be portions of the magnificent monument of King Robert the Bruce at Dunfermline destroyed by the Lords of the Congregation." The relics are preserved in an oak glass-fronted cabinet placed alongside of the abbey vault of the Bruce.—London Mail.

Derivation of "Bible"

The word "Bible" is from a Greek word meaning papyrus plant

Simple "Charm"

Natives of Bengal believe that evil spirits will not touch anyone who is protected by wearing a piece of iron.

Avoid Excuses

Excuses are our favorite alibis when telling the truth might hurt. No successful man has them in his equipment. For it is usually the case that the best man at making excuses is the poorest man at making a living.—Grit.

Uses for Pecan Wood

The forest service says that pecan wood is used very little for furniture. It is not in the same class with oak and mahogany, but it is about the same as gumwood. It is used for miscellaneous purposes where great strength is needed.

Metal Requires Rest

Metalurgists have now learned that metals become tired out in much the same manner as living creatures. When they are fatigued by constant small shocks, they may break without apparent cause and there is no way to prevent this collapse except by giving the metal a rest!

Clocks in Odd Shapes

Clocks in the forms of heads have appeared in Europe. One is a human skull, another a monkey's head and another a grotesque dog's cranium. One eye of each head represents the hours and the other the minutes. The numerals are painted around the optics like large eyeslides, while the orbs revolve and serve as hands.

Foiling Counterfeiters

The medallion, rulings and circular ornaments on genuine paper money are mathematically correct, and are made from a machine upon which $150,000 was spent in the production, and is therefore beyond the reach of counterfeiters. Engraving by hand can never equal this work.

Wild Bison Increase

Sweden's stock of wild bison is now the largest in Europe, if not in the world, according to Alarik Behm, director of the open-air museum of Skansen, in Stockholm. By means of protective legislation these animals are thriving in the vast bison park at Aenzelsberg, in the province of Vaerstmanland, and are rapidly multiplying.

Brownwood Carpenter Tells Experiences

"I Think Argotane is a Wonderful Medicine And Gladly Recommend It To My Friends," Says Hays.

"When I tell you I have been relieved of several years awful suffering and feel better in every way, you can readily understand why I am so strong for Argotane," was the statement made by C. M. Mayes of 815 Malone Ave. Brownwood, Texas, while talking with the Argotane representative at his home. "I always felt tired, and worn out, no energy and good for nothing. I had a lazy, sluggish feeling and had the worst case of constipation you ever heard of. This bothered me for several years, and my only relief was to take strong laxatives, and then this only gave me temporary relief. At times, I had bloating spells and had a depressed feeling, and grew dizzy and had terribly headaches. I always had that tired feeling, and would wake up in the mornings, feeling tired and no-account, and didn't want to do my work at all. I have just taken one bottle of Argotane, and my condition has improved, my bowels are regular now, and I haven't had that case of constipation, and feel better than I have in several years. I don't have that tired, worn out feeling and wake up in the mornings feeling refreshed and ready for my day's work. I have energy and pep than I have for years. That full, bloated feeling has left me, and I have a hearty appetite. I think Argotane was just what I needed and think it is a real medicine and I gladly recommend it." Genuine Argotane may be bought in Baird at the Holmes Drug Co.

Simmons U. To Play Nite Football

Contract for lighting equipment which will give Simmons University night football for the coming season has been let by the athletic committee. Delivery of the equipment will begin in August and installation will be completed by the 20th of August, it is announced. It will consist of 20 standards fifty feet high placed around the field. Each standard will have on it a 2,000 watt globe. Cost of the project will be approximately $3,000. The Cowboys will play at least three games under the flood lights. Daniel Baker, St. Edwards and Austin College are scheduled for games in Abilene. Simmons also plays Trinity here November 11 and Tech Thanksgiving Day, but under present plans the holiday games will be played in the afternoon.

This will be the second trial of night football in Texas and the first in the Texas Conference or Southwestern Conference. The Simmons athletic management hoped for better playing conditions at night and better attendance.

THE VALUE OF SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE good performance of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance. Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, the simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

Texas and Texans

By WILL H. MAYES
Austin, Texas
"All Texans for all Texas"

Hurrah For Ft. Worth

Fort Worth has set an example small it is true, but still an example, for other cities and towns. That city has spent $110,557 less than its budget appropriation. Now let the state government in every department and every city and town in the state see if it is not possible to outdo Fort Worth in reducing budgeted expenses. The people everywhere are simply howling about expenses of government. They are losing confidence in all promises made by candidates and in most office holders, denouncing government for at least winking at graft.

Talking About Texas

The New York Herald Tribune, presents a summary from the report of a survey made by an Eastern company as to conditions in Texas, part of which reads: "Hardly a section in the entire history of the world has witnessed an expansion as rapid and far reaching as that of Texas within the recent decade." There is much more along the same line, indicating that the world is beginning to realize something of the great resources of Texas.

Looking to The Centennial

Governor Moody has suggested that Texas build a great centennial highway to be dedicated in 1936, the centennial of the independence and founding of Texas, and this causes a writer in the San Antonio Express to say that he King's Highway, Camino Real, or Old San Antonio Trail is the logical route to perpetuate Texas independence because that road was the vanguard, the gateway, the propaganda, the political highway of four nations. This leads to the remark that whatever Texas does toward a centennial celebration should have a two-fold purpose: to commemorate the great Texas struggle and growth of the preceding century and to promote the progress of succeeding centuries. We need to combine in sensible proportions patriotic pride with economic advancement.

Texas Great Wool Crop

Representatives of the National Wool Marketing Corporation state that between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000 has been advanced on the Texas wool crop; that approximately $0,000,000 pounds of wool has been acquired by dealers, and that between 120,000,000 and 130,000,000 pounds remains to be bought, of which Texas has about 7,000,000 pounds of 12 months and 6,000,000 pounds of 8 months clip. None of the mohair accumulated by the association has been marketed, it is said, but it is all being held for the better price that is expected with the settlement of the tariff rates.

Caddo Lake Park

The object of the recent motorcade to Caddo Lake was to investigate the advisability of and project a plan for making Caddo Lake a national or major State Park. Caddo lake winds between two ranges of hills, comprises some 57 square miles and is located about half in Texas and half in Louisiana. The hills are covered with native pine trees, while numerous varieties of cypress are found all through the body of water. It is called a veritable sportman's paradise, because it is especially productive of fish and game. If dedicated to the public use it would become a great resort not only for Texas and Louisiana, but for recreating sportsmen of the entire country.

Heart of Texas Cavern

The wonderful cavern near Richland Springs has been formally opened and is said to be all in beauty and magnitude its promoters have claimed for it. It has been called, Gibbons Cavern, in honor of the ranchman under whose land it was discovered. Its extent is as yet unknown, though some 50 separate rooms have been explored. Instead of being called Gibbons Cavern, which has too much of a commercial ring, it should be named the Heart of Texas Cavern, to assist in perpetuating of that section. By all means, Heart of Texas Cavern, if you please.

Moving Watermelons

The Texas watermelon crop is on the move. The Bee-Picayune at Beeville has printed 200,000 Texas Sweetheart, watermelon labels for the Southwest Texas Watermelon Growers' Association, to be placed on melons grown over a wide area from Alice and Falfurrias to Eagle Lake. The value of the labels will depend altogether on whether the growers see that the melons come up to expectations created by the name. Side tracks at many stations in Texas are crowded with cars for moving the crop, and the shipping stations in some sections are busy places these days. Texas is getting a reputation for its melon crop as enviable as that Georgia has been holding.

Gas For State Use

The Board of Regents of the State University have started something new—getting the people to use gas from University owned lands and especially for state institutions to do so. It is 300 miles from Austin to the Big Lake field in Reagan county. The proposal is to secure the building of a pipe line from the gas wells to Austin. It is said that 90,000,000 cubic feet of gas is daily being produced by University wells and is going to waste, while State institutions at Austin are spending $100,000 a year for gas, the University alone spending $20,000. It is estimated that the line would cost about $10,000 a mile. The question is would it pay? Doubtless the lessees of the University oil lands will study the proposal with much interest.

Increase in Summer Schools

The increased attendance at practically all the summer schools of Texas is something to evoke thought. It seems that Texas has nearly reached the point where its schools should be open all the year. It is wasteful to have buildings and teachers idle a great part of the year, and while it would not be advisable to require students of scholastic age to attend school all the year, they should have some option in attending at such times as may be most convenient for them, and all the year if they wish. It is as harmful to be idle several months in the summer as for the same period of time in the winter. Long vacations from school, from work, or duties of any kind are not productive of good.

Talk Texas And The Southwest

DALLAS, Texas, June 20.—Striking a note of confidence in the plans drawn recently for the navigation of the Trinity River from here to the Gulf of Mexico, the reclamation district officials have announced that construction on a turning basin will start in the very near future. The basin will be constructed near the Commerce street viaduct and will be of sufficient depth to float craft drawing 30 feet of water.

It was also declared here this week that Roy Miller, of Corpus Christi, will act in the capacity of general manager of the Trinity River association. The acquisition of Mr. Miller, which was effected by John Carpenter, president, and Walter Scott, vice-president, of the association was received enthusiastically here. Mr. Miller's success in handling the Intra-coastal canal is regarded as outstanding.

At a recent Chamber of Commerce meeting here, Mr. Miller pointed out that additional transportation facilities must be provided to meet the requirements of our rapidly growing commerce. He also said that transportation costs on basis commodities and raw material must be reduced as a measure of necessary relief both to industry and agriculture. Mr. Miller also declared that while our population has increased 300 per cent in the past fifty years, commerce has increased 1800 per cent in the same time. He advocates that whenever possible our natural heritage of inland streams and rivers should be translated into instrumentalities of service to the American people.

In speaking of the relationship of the Trinity River to the Mississippi river system, Mr. Miller said, "The construction of the Intra-Coastal canal which has been authorized with a nine-foot depth and 100-foot bottom width from the Mississippi River to Corpus Christi, a distance of 600 miles, is progressing satisfactorily. The Trinity will connect with this canal as a feeder, and therefore have a through water connection to the Mississippi River system, to the Chicago sanitary canal, to the great coal and steel regions of the Great Lakes and Pittsburgh.

Albert Reed, commerce counsel of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, declared recently that inland waterways under a recent Interstate Commerce Act are protected by the government which guarantees the waterways a fixed differential in competing with railroads. He also said that inland waterways today are of greater necessity to metropolitan development than ever before in the history of the country.

It is estimated that the Trinity, if navigable, would handle approximately 6,000,000 tons of freight per year. Statistics also prove that the Trinity River project strikes through the heart of the territory producing America's principal export commodity—unmanufactured cotton. For many years cotton has led the list as the leading export commodity. Navigation of the Trinity would enable cotton to move to the port of exportation at a saving of approximately 75 cents per bale. This would leave, in the territory of production, several millions of dollars which is now paid out for transportation costs.

The hydraulic dredge, which will construct the turning basin, is unique in its operation. Engineers call it "the dredge that walks like a man." Giant stilts are provided which enables it to shift position as the operations demand. A massive "spider"—or propeller—at the end of a draw pipe, dips deeply into the river and draws the mud and water into receptacle chambers where it is sent out through feeder pipes onto the uneven waste lands. A gradual fill is thus accomplished.

Three Acres And Liberty

By Wm. A. Black

Our one great state of Texas alone could strip other states as bare as a bone, could take in all of America's swarm and sell each man a Three Acre Farm.

Bolton Hall, New York, lawyer and author, has caught the vision of Texas' bigness. Three acres is a lot of land to a New Yorker and Mr. Hall has proved what can be done with three acres. Texans are so accustomed to measuring land by sections and leagues that they feel crowded if they have to talk in terms of acres. As a matter of fact we have too much room and are scattered too widely. We could furnish a half acre home lot to every family in Texas in one of our large counties and have the other 252 counties to grow food and prepare our raw materials for market.

Yet with all this expanse we are crowded for room in spots, and the majority of our people are homeless. We boast of richness of soil; our immense herds of cattle, our rank as a cotton producer and our growth in the field of industry. Our annual production bulks large but for some reason we fail to realize that fondest hope of civilization, a people of contented home owners. Something stands in the way.

We were better off forty years ago. Land was then cheap and easy to buy and pay for. The mortgage debts were light, not more than one fourth of what they are today; men kept and enjoyed more of what they produced. We now broadcast invitations to the world to come to Texas. Good. But as they come each adds to the speculative price of land that in turn adds to the cost of living.

This fault is not confined to Texas? It is the high price of land in the north and east that forces men to migrate. We invite them here to sell them land—at a profit. We are a race of land speculators and incidentally try to produce enough wealth to live on until some of us can realize financial independence out of the necessities of the rest.

One Point of View

Many men owe the grandeur of their lives to their tremendous difficulties.

Nightingales

The nightingale is not particularly an English bird, but is found in many parts of the Old world. It has often been imported as a cage bird, but is not an American native wild bird. The name has been applied in various American localities to other sweet singing birds.

Economic Law

The law of diminishing returns is an economic law, which states that in any given stage an increase of labor or capital applied beyond a certain point in the cultivation of land causes a less than proportionate increase in the produce raised from a given area. This law is generally attributed to Ricardo, but it was discovered considerably earlier.

Nonconformity

Who so would be a man must be a nonconformist. He who would gather immortal palms must not be hindered by the name of goodness, but must explore if it be goodness. Nothing is at last sacred but the integrity of your own mind. Absolve you to yourself, and you shall have the suffrage of the world.—Emerson.

EULA

Patsie

Well, how is The Star force? We are still working out this way. We have fine late crops, but need rain again.

Most farmers are about up with their work and if we get a few good rains this summer we will make good feed crops and we sure need it. Cotton is growing fast.

We are having some sickness but nothing serious. Uncle Doc Miller of Brownwood, who is visiting his brother, W. P. Miller and family is quite sick. I guess most of the old timers know him.

Nunnally Stephenson left today for Decatur, where he will teach.

Well we will soon be called on to cast our votes for governor. I don't know who will be the best for us.

Bob Tollett, of Putnam, was in Eula last week shaking hands with the voters.

Robert Edwards and J. F. Hampton went to Fort Worth this week with a load of sheep.

HAPPY MOTHER ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT KONJOLA

Relates How New And Different Medicine Did Wonders For Her Little Boy of Twelve.

HARMON GLAZE

Results are what count, and Konjola can be counted on for results. Sufferers want relief, not promises. Konjola has made a matchless record simply because it does the things it is designed to do. Take, as a typical example of Konjola at work, the case of Harmon Glaze, 12, whose mother, Mrs. Annie Glaze, Route 4, Lonoke near Little Rock Ark., says:

"My boy, Harmon, 12, had typhoid about five years ago, and his health since then was not good. He frequently had fever and had attacks of nausea. He had no desire to play and his appetite was poor. Nothing I gave him seemed to do any good. Konjola had helped me so much that I decided to give it to Harmon. Today, he is like a different person. He eats, sleeps, and plays like other children and is no longer subject to fevers. I am still giving him Konjola for it has done so much for both of us.

So it goes: victory after victory wherever Konjola is given the chance to prove its merits. You can put your faith in Konjola feeling that you will be rewarded abundantly.

Konjola is sold in Baird at City Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

the many friends he had. No one was too great or too little for his friendship.

He believed his God and when arose a problem too great for him to solve, he sought the constant companionship of that truest Friend.

"His life was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him that nature might stand up and say to all the world, 'This was a man!'" Knowing him as I do, I feel that he felt with Stevenson, "Under the wide and starry sky, Dig the grave and let me lie, Glad did I live and gladly die, And I laid me down with a will. And this be the verse that you grave for me,

Home is the sailor, Home from the sea, And the hunter is home from the hill."

He was one of the most Christ-like men I ever knew. Always I shall think of him when I am tempted to falter in my life's calling.

He yearned to do great things, to be a blessing to humanity. His constant admonition was, "Don't lose the common touch."

When I recall the ambition that he had, I think he, too, felt with Browning and asked,

What hand and brain went over paired.

What had alike conceived and dared.

What act proved all its thought had been,

What will but felt the fleshly screen.

His constant aim was to forward the kingdom of Christ.

"He is not dead, but alive," and he goes on serving in a greater and fuller capacity in the eternity which for him has begun. His frequent observation was, "It yet remains to be seen what God can do with a wholly consecrated life."

It was his wish that we not sorrow for him. He wanted us to rejoice. The songs sung today are those of his own choice.

Great was his life. Only the light of eternity will reveal its extent. Proud as I indeed to point to his life and say, that was my father.

His death is but the climax of his earthly existence. His life has only just begun. He was ready to die, and ready for the life to come.

When the great scorer comes to write against his name, he'll write, not that he won nor lost, but Well he played the game!

I shall not remember his as these cold ashes before us, but to me he will always be a living, dynamic personality, rare in quality and rich in experience.

His greatest wish for me was that I might be the greater projection of his life, achieving where he was prevented, and complete what he left unfinished.

I can hear him calling to me now:

Live, live, not for the short span of mortality, but ever onward, in contemplation of a long eternity.

My own prayer is that we, the living, may be dedicated to the great tasks that face us. Let us from henceforth be more consecrated, more loyal, more helpful, that the kingdom of our Lord and his may be made greater, nobler, and higher.

May God's blessings abide upon us that we shall live fuller and more gracious lives, until we, too, shall cross the river into the land of greater experience.

Rabies can be transmitted only by animals that are actually diseased at the time. There is no foundation for the belief that persons bitten by a dog which subsequently becomes rabid may contract the malady.

The Housewife's Hand

Directs A&P's buying

If you hired a personal agent to buy food in the markets of the world for your own table, you would give him, first, money for the purchase and shipping costs; second, money to cover his expenses; and, third, a salary for his services. You, yourself, would choose the kind of food he would buy.

That's just what you do when you trade with A & P.

Of every dollar which you pay over A & P counters, 83 1/2 cents go to food producing communities in exchange for the food you ask for.

A & P's part is to find out what you want--by what you order in its stores--and to spend your 83 1/2 cents as you direct. Of the rest of your dollar, 14 cents stay in your neighborhood to run A & P stores.

All you pay A & P for its services is the remaining 2 1/2 cents.

Another article will tell how your massed buying helps American food producers as much as it helps you--fair bit for fat.
