Coaches Select 2 Loboes for All-District Eleven

The Cisco Loboes placed two players on the 9-AA all district eleven which was selected by the coaches of the district, none of whom could vote for their own players. The two were Stanley Williams, a unanimous selection, and Melvin Noble. Williams is a backfield player who was shifted from end and who adapted himself remarkably well to his new assignment in the course of one season. Noble is a tackle whose line play was head and shoulders above that of any rival in the district.

eral Wells choices on the two all-district choices were ties for positions with players from Ranger, Brownwood, Weatherford and Stephenville, while all Cisco choices were clear-cut. Following are the selections:

First Team.
Position.	Name.	School.
End	Donahoe	Brownwood
End (tie)	Glenn	Min. Wells
	Fraser	Ranger
Tackle	Noble	Cisco
Tackle	Grissom	Weath'rd
Guard	Long	Min. Wells
Guard	Tobey	Brownwood
Center	Gray	Bekridge
Back	White	Bekridge
Back	Williams	Cisco
Back	Dunn	Steph'ville
Back (tie)	Grissett	Min. Wells
	Murphy	Brownwood
Second Team.
Ends	Alvin King	of Cisco
	Jack Jones	of Breckenridge
	Worth Carlin	of Ranger
	Jerry Fisher	of Breckenridge
guards	T. K. Hardy	of Ranger
	Kenneth Scott	of Stephenville
center	Bob Alexander	of Stephenville
backs	Junior Artburn	of Ranger
	Robert Jones	of Stephenville
	Tom Barnard	of Weatherford
	(tie) Jack McWhorter	of Mineral Wells
	C. Smith	of Stephenville
Honorable mentions from Cisco were Charles Pence, end; Raymond Penn, tackle; Harold Hill, guard; Ted Fields, center; Don Johnson, back.

Cisco Country Produces Greater Volume of High Grade Peaches Each Year

While the peanut leads the field as the chief money crop of the Cisco Country, two other and more recent crops are adding stability and giving promise to the agriculture of this section.

They are peaches and hairy vetch — two farm products as far apart in their characters and end results as the poles, yet which so admirably complement each other that together they promise untold thousands of dollars to agricultural wealth to the sandy, clay-subsoil lands which spread a rolling topography south, southeast and southwest of Cisco.

The area south from Cisco through the prosperous Rising Star section, east through Carbon and west through Seranton and into eastern Callahan county, is admired by fruit experts as some of the finest fruit land in the state of Texas, or elsewhere.

In color and in flavor the peaches grown in this district are rated among the finest anywhere. Cisco growers, who have sold their product to discriminating buyers, report that their markets are eloquent in praise of the quality of their fruit.

This popularity and demand for Cisco Country fruit is not the result of a whim. It is the result of faith, hard work and years of meeting and overcoming the natural handicaps which beset even the most favorable prospects.

With respect to peaches there were problems of frost, proper location of orchards, proper fertilization, orchard cultivation and so forth. Some bitter failures were experienced by the pioneer fruit growers of the district before they were able to find solutions to these problems, and there are still questions to be answered and difficulties to be overcome.

Fruit growing in the Cisco area, as elsewhere, is not a bonanza — it is a business demanding hard work, sound thought and the capacity to take a risk. But it pays off, as some of the men who demonstrated their faith in the possibilities of the territory have proved.

Among these is J. E. Spencer of Cisco, who as secretary of the Cisco chamber of commerce some years ago, plumped so hard and so constantly for the development of orchards that he literally "talked himself into the business." Mr. Spencer owns a large amount of acreage in the Carbon area. Much of this land is admirably suited to orchards and Spencer concluded to plant a considerable amount of acreage to peaches.

In the course of several years he met almost insurmountable difficulties and several times endured bitter losses from frosts. But he persisted with a determination that found answers to these problems. This year his orchards — now numbering into thousands of trees with additional plantings each year — produced a bumper crop. With astute merchandizing sense, Spencer developed a marketing technique that appealed to buyers of quality. His defuzzed, and specially selected peaches brought a premium on the Dallas market, and so popular did his product become that he was able to dispose of his seconds and low grades on the same market.

Of the 6,000 bushels of fine peaches that he sold, 4,000 bushels went to Dallas, where he has established connections that assure him of a year to year outlet for his crop.

Meanwhile he is improving his technique constantly, and plans to offer distinctive packs in subsequent seasons, emphasizing smaller boxes containing a dozen or so of specially selected fruit. Mr. Spencer is one of the foremost of several growers who have in a very real sense pioneered this important new industry here and whose experience and successes are of great benefit to new growers now entering the field.

Prominent among others is H. A. Bible, who has two large orchards, with more acreage perhaps than any other grower, and whose success is similar to that of Mr. Spencer's. Mr. Bible developed an outlet for his fruit through a large chain store company serving West Texas and to whom he sells premium fruit every season. He is engaged this year in planting thousands of additional peach and apple trees. Apples, incidentally are as well adapted to the Cisco Country as are peaches and the quality of apples grown here is exceptionally good.

Another grower, who has had even longer experience and whose fruit is of the most magnificent quality, is J. B. Elder of the Pleasant Hill community, south of Cisco. Mr. Elder sells most of his product on the local market and to customers who come to his farm and he has established a sound reputation for growing some of the finest peaches in the state.

There are other growers whose success equals these examples, and a movement is now on foot to organize fruit growers into an association that will protect them in the market and in the quality of the orchards that are developed in this area. In the Rising Star district there are numerous successful orchard men, and an association has been formed there embracing approximately 1,000 acres of fruit land.

Of great importance to the success of orchard culture in Eastland county is the introduction of hairy vetch, a legume cover crop whose adaptability to this climate and soil is so remarkable that Eastland county is among the few areas of the nation where it can be grown for seed. Original plantings of the vetch here require seed inoculation and fertilization of the soil with phosphates, but when these imperatives are complied with, its response is wonderful.

Used in the orchard as a winter cover crop and for green manure in the spring, it is really the answer to the fruit man's prayer for a cover crop that will protect the soil, enhance its humus content and fertilize it without excessive cultivation or cost. Added to peanuts, grain, poultry and livestock, Eastland county fruit — and particularly peaches — are an additional reason why the agricultural prospects of the Cisco Country are so well insured by a diversification of farm products among the most remarkable in Texas.

HARGIS VISITS CISCO.

Felix L. Hargis, manager of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance company, with headquarters in Ft. Worth, was a Cisco visitor today. In company with Glen Boyd, local representative of the company, Mr. Hargis called at the Daily Press office to renew acquaintance with an old friend, A. E. O'Flaherty, Jefferson Standard's Cisco and Eastland county business is steadily growing, and we are about ready ready to further increase our efforts in this prosperous oil, fruit and general agricultural area, Mr. Hargis stated.

Natural Gas Now Flowing Into Little Big Inch Line

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (U.P.)—Ralph K. Davies, acting director of the interior department's oil and gas division, announced today that natural gas started to flow through the Little Big Inch Pipeline at 12:45 p. m. CST.

This gas, however, will give only minute relief from the coal crisis. Davies said the gas will not start moving into the Big Inch Pipeline for a few days.

Oakland Demoralizes Relent and Return to Work

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 5. (U.P.)—The general walkout of AFL unions that froze metropolitan Oakland to a standstill, ended in its third day today and employees began returning to work almost immediately, reopening factories, shipyards, restaurants and unfreezing the city's transit system.

Campaign to Raise Funds for Lobo Band is Under Way

The campaign to raise funds to buy badly needed new uniforms for Cisco's splendid Lobo band of 63 pieces, is now under way.

Sponsored by the Band Parents association, intensive efforts will be made to secure sufficient money to put this serviceable organization on a sound basis generally and as well and comfortably dressed as the members of adjacent high school bands.

It has been more than five years since the Lobo band was fitted out in new regalia. Charles S. Sandler is chairman of the finance committee, J. R. Deen heads the soliciting committee and Cisco Daily Press will look after the publicity. Contributors may make checks to either Sandler, Deen or the Daily Press. War Department Extends Draft Holiday Thru Jan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (U.P.)—The War Department today extended the draft holiday through January. It indicated it was uncertain whether selective service calls will be issued for February or March.

The draft holiday began last October. The selective service act terminates March 31, 1947.

The army said the results of recruiting would determine whether a draft call would be made in February or March. Enlistments have fallen off sharply since early October.

HELEN KELLER ABROAD—During her trip to Europe to study conditions of war orphans, Helen Keller visits these invalid and sightless children at a private villa in Rome, Italy. Miss Keller, American-born blind author, has written many books, published in Braille for the blind.

MANY KIND PEOPLE.

The world is full of kindly, generous people who really care about their neighbors.

In Detroit a new home was built with funds raised by friends of a young married woman paralyzed by polio. Doors were made wide enough to permit her being wheeled from room to room in the iron lung in which she must live. Mirrors were hung about aiding her to see every angle of the new home, and to permit her to supervise its care for herself and her young husband.

An Ohio couple who had lost their meager old age pension, their entire means of subsistence, found their kitchen table piled with contributions of food as well as money donations adding up to several times the sum lost. The gifts, coming as a result of a newspaper account of their misfortune, were largely from strangers, many of whom preferred to remain anonymous.

A little army of disinterested mountain climbers risked their lives recently to rescue the passengers of the airplane that crashed on an Alpine glacier. Expressing the gratitude of the survivors, one of them said: "You can't understand why there are wars when you see so many people willing to help you when you need it."

Interspersed with the headline news of crime and greed and strife it is heartening to find so many stories of human unselfishness.

CHILD ASLEEP.

TO WHAT mute god shall we make tribute now,
What flower lay upon an idol-stone?
What gift will be commensurate with this?
Shall we propitiate the fates with a single shell
Wet from the sea or lay a new-fallen wing
Against the idol-feet?
Or will your voice, so small, so sweet,
Be the light flute that tramples down the dark;
Your open hand that rests upon my arm
Becomes the talisman that checks the sinking sand?
—Sara Van Alstyne Allen, in New York Times.

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Back-stage Behind the Curtains---
... in every organized business, large or small, there is a mass of preparation, works, skill, experience and expense before any thought can be given to profits from the finished product. For example, the cost of typing a 100-page abstract is a trifle compared to that of assembling, classifying and posting the records day after day in preparation for your next order. The abstract, therefore, can't be cheap like dirt, but always there is the element of safety and a saving in including it in every real estate transaction.

Meats A-Plenty
When the little pigs went to market... along with cattle and sheep... your A&P meat experts were on hand. There they selected fine-quality... top grades of meat... and plenty of them, too. That's why when you shop at your A&P "Super" you'll find plenty of fine meat for your table. We've thick, juicy steaks, magnificent roasts, and flavorful chops, and they're all real values, too! So come choose your favorite cuts at A&P today!
