Yes, Uncle Frank Opened the Hotel

Lockney's New Hotel and Cafe Formally Opened Saturday and Hundreds of People Are Present

The Baker Hotel and Cafe, Lockney's newest institution was formally opened to the public Saturday of last week and many people of the town and surrounding country took advantage of the occasion to go through the hotel and look it over, and also many people visited the cafe for the luncheon at noon.

"The Finest Hotel of Its Size in the West" is unquestionably true, as can be verified by every one who has visited this neat, cozy little hotel, and every traveling man that has passed through this structure has voiced his highest praise for the effort that has been put forth by Mr. Baker to take care of the needs of the traveling public while within our gates.

We deem that most of the credit for this wonderful addition to our hotel facilities is not wholly due to the efforts of Mr. Artie Baker, who financed the proposition, but in a big way they are due to the efforts of the venerable "Old War-Horse," and "Habitual Town Booster" Uncle Frank Ford, who was superintendent of the construction of the building, and who made it a point to see that nothing but the best of everything was used in the construction, and getting ready for the opening of this hotel. Uncle Frank has been on the job from the day the first brick was removed, when the remodeling job was begun, and he was there on the official opening day to see that every thing went off in the very best of style and to see that all the guests were treated courteously and well taken care of.

The cafe department is all that could be asked for by the traveling public, and Mr. Crews and his able force have convinced those who have been served in their cafe, that they can hope to always find this a place where they can be well taken care of on all occasions.

The people of Lockney are proud to direct the traveling public to this hostelry, with the assurance that nothing better can be had in this section of the state. The hotel has been enjoying a nice business for the past two weeks, the house was practically full of traveling men fully a week before the doors were opened to the public, and no longer will the traveling man have to hurry through with his business in Lockney in order to get to some nearby town to spend the night, as now Lockney can take care of him in the most up-to-date manner.

Explosion Wrecks Quality Bakery

Ruins Bakery Oven and Breaks Glass From Front and Rear of Building

An explosion in the oven of the Quality Bakery, owned by Lawrence Hill, badly demolished the building and oven about six o'clock Wednesday morning.

According to Mr. Lawrence Hill, when he entered the bakery on Wednesday morning, he went back to the oven to start up the heating apparatus, which is operated by gas, and upon striking a match and applying it to the gas jet, the explosion occurred. Mr. Hill stated that he applied the match from the corner of the oven, instead of kneeling down in front of the oven door, and when the explosion occurred he was hurled back against the wall, but was unhurt. However, if he had knelt down in front of the door, which was the way he generally does in lighting the oven, he would have been instantly killed. The explosion was so terrific that it completely ruined the oven and the concussion was so strong in the building that the plate glass window in the front of the building was blown out and the common window in the rear was partly blown away. The utensils in the plant were scattered about the house.

The cause of the explosion, or why the oven was full of gas, is unknown, but Mr. Barlow Hill, father of Lawrence, and deputy sheriff and night watchman of Lockney, believes that the house had been broken into during the night and the gas jet turned on, stating that the screen had been torn on the screen door and a tin panel had been removed from the main door in the rear of the house, before the explosion happened. Mr. Hill is night watchman, but had gone off duty about an hour before the explosion occurred. Jim Hill, brother of Lawrence was in the house when the explosion occurred, but neither of the boys were injured.

Henry of Floydada, was appointed to collect the delinquent taxes on insolvent property in Floyd county, and a commission of 25% of the taxes collected will be paid him for his efforts. He will maintain an office in the court house and all those who owe delinquent taxes will be called on to pay same, all taxes for 1928 and years previous to that year have been placed in his hands for collection.

$5,000,000 For Rural Aid Agreed On

Amount Is Largest in History of the State—Other Appropriations

Austin, May 29.—The largest appropriation for rural aid in the legislative history of Texas was agreed upon Monday by a subcommittee of the house, which drafted a measure carrying $5,000,000 allotment for the biennial period. This will be submitted at the second called session of the Forty-first Legislature in June, along with four other major appropriation measures.

Announcement of the $5,000,000 aid program was made by Representative W. T. Graves of Stephenville, subcommittee chairman, while serving with him were Representative J. B. Snelgrove of Henderson and Representative John A. Long of Lovelady. The measure includes $500,000 for high school tuition for a period of six and a half months for each student, such a high school to receive $7.50 for every rural scholastic, compared to a $5 fee under the old law.

Increase of $1,600,000. The total aid sought is $1,600,000 in excess of that appropriated by the Fortieth, while the amount for high school education is $300,000 more. Two more weeks of schooling is provided for in the bill.

Representative John F. Wallace of Teague, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, is a strong advocate of rural aid and has been favoring a larger amount for such purposes.

The Senate Finance Committee, known to be more liberal in its educational allowances than the House, is expected to concur in the $5,000,000 and at the same time insist that its own recommendations for additional college funds shall be adopted. The House committee, it is announced, has eliminated nearly all of the building programs of the various institutions.

"Such being the situation, the Legislature will settle the controversy in free conference and upon the floor," Graves said. "Appropriations will be the paramount subject of the coming session."

Senator Tom Pollard of Tyler, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Monday said that this committee had completed all hearings, had agreed upon all bills and that they are to be printed during the coming 10 days interim. While he declined to divulge the difference between the total House and Senate appropriations, he admitted it would be no slight figure.

Legislators who have been keeping in touch with the appropriation activity, say that the difference will run between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Co-operation Wanted

"It is possible that we will have to go to the constitutional limit, 35 cents on the ad valorem tax, in order to obtain sufficient funds for all demands," Graves asserted, "but we want to confine this to 30 cents on the $100 valuation. Should we go to 35 cents it may have the effect of inducing the public to co-operate with us in making taxes more equitable and yet obtain more. It is a problem the Legislature and public can not escape."

Some of the appropriations to be asked for, aside from the five major bills, include $1,000,000 to purchase property surrounding the Alamo in San Antonio; $400,000 for an office building for the Highway Department; $250,000 to purchase more campus land for the State University; $125,000 for an experiment station within 50 miles of Abilene; $75,000 for a nautical school, the Federal Government to put up a similar amount.

The five "majors" are the rural aid, departmental, collegiate, judicial and eleemosynary appropriations.

George W. Brewster Answers Last Call

Veteran Westerner and Plainsman Dies of Heart Leakage Tuesday Night

George Washington Brewster, age 72 years, 2 months, and 29 days, died from leakage of the heart at his home in Lockney Tuesday night at 10 o'clock, from an attack that began earlier in the day, while he was working in his garden.

In the death of George W. Brewster marks the passing of one of the fathers of Lockney, and a man that has played probably the most important part in the building of Lockney from a cow camp to a thriving city of any man now living.

Mr. Brewster was born in the state of Ohio on the 22nd day of February, 1857, immigrating with his parents to Yolo County, California, when a mere lad, where he remained until he reached the age of nineteen years, when he came to Stephenville, Erath County, Texas. He was married in Stephenville to Miss Ellen Dupuy on May 10th, 1877, and to this union were born seven children, all of whom survive their father, except one, who died in infancy. The children are: Will A. Brewster, of Lockney; Mrs. Ben Dodson, of Oolton, Texas; Miss Ethel Brewster, of Lockney; Mrs. V. N. Dillard, of Lubbock; Grady Brewster, of Perico, Texas; and Clarence Brewster, of Lockney. All the children were present at the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewster have been engaged in the hotel business for thirty-three years in Lockney. They reached the Plains on June 1st, 1890, settling in Hale county where they lived for about six years, moving to Lockney in 1896. Mr. Brewster was also engaged in the real estate and insurance business in Lockney for many years. He was a member of the Church of Christ, having joined that church forty-three years ago at Stephenville, Texas. He had been a member of the Masonic Lodge, having joined the Masons in Lockney, about twenty-five years ago.

He is survived by his good wife, six children, and seventeen grand children, all of whom were present at the funeral, except two grand children. He was buried in the Lockney cemetery by the side of his mother, Mrs. Mary Brewster, who died in 1917 at the age of ninety-eight years.

George Brewster, as stated before was one of the fathers of Lockney, coming here in the early days when there were very few people living in Floyd county, he and his good wife, began caring for the people who were immigrating to the West, and fed and housed those who came this way, and sold to them the advantages and resources of this great country, he was filled with optimism at all times, favored everything that he deemed would help to upbuild the country and town, spent his money freely to help secure every enterprise that could be induced to locate here, and made a place for the people that was home like and to which they were glad at all times to be guests. No civic improvement ever attempted in the town was a success unless George Brewster had a part in it, and he was at all times ready and willing to give both time and money to every worthy cause that presented itself. He was one of the donors of the Old Christian College, one of the men who secured the Santa Fe Railway, one of the men who spent large sums of money trying to build the Altus, Lubbock, and Roswell Railway, one of the men who helped to secure the Denver Railway; he favored every issue that came up for the betterment of schools, betterment of city building, good roads, etc., and was found at all times to be on the firing line, to work and give of his money to help every person and every enterprise for the town and community. George W. Brewster will be missed in Lockney and his wit and humor and optimism will be remembered in the years to come by both old and young in this community. There was no man more highly respected in this community than this man, and the town and community at large mourns with his family the passing of the husband, the father, and the friend.

The family of the writer has been personally acquainted with the Brewster family for more than fifty years, having resided in the town of Stephenville, Texas, at the time the Brewsters and Shafers lived in that town, and being neighbors, and we can truthfully say that there were never better people in Texas than these people. They were people of the frontier type, willing to share everything they possessed with their friends, willing to deprive themselves in order to help both friends and strangers, passing happiness on to those who came in contact with them, never hording money or practicing selfishness. These people never accumulated riches, for

Chamber of Commerce Luncheon Monday

Discuss Hard-Surfacing Streets of City and Ask that Experiment Be Made

The Chamber of Commerce held its meeting Monday at the New Baker Hotel, the Baker Hotel Cafe serving the lunch. A resolution was adopted in which the body thanked Mr. Hugh Counts, of the Cozy Cafe, for the courtesies shown in the past several months by taking care of the luncheon club, and also complimented Mr. Artie Baker on the completion of the new hotel and cafe, and expressed their appreciation to Messrs. Baker and Crews for arranging to take care of the chamber of commerce in their future luncheons.

The subject that took up most of the discussion of the business meeting Monday was the one of hard-surfacing the streets of Lockney. Material for the construction of good hard-surfaced streets was said to be in abundance at the M. M. Day sand and gravel pit, about five miles southwest of Lockney, on the Denver railroad, and this material can be delivered in Lockney and put on the streets at about one-third the cost of regular street paving. Mr. H. M. Mason, manager of the Lockney Cotton Oil Co., stated that he had examined this pit and found the material to be the very best for this kind of work that could be had, and favored the paving of a block in the town with the material to give it a thorough test, the property owners on the test street to pay one-third of the paving on each side of the street, and the city to pave the center third. Artie Baker made a proposition to make the test on the half block on College street, beginning at the pavement near the post office and going to West 1st street, and that the Baker interests would pay for the third of the street adjacent to their property on the south side of the block. The matter will be taken up with the city council, and it is hoped that the test will be made. In case the test is made and the hard-surfacing with this material proves a success, practically every street in town can be hard-surfaced at a very low cost to both the city and the adjacent property owners.

The same kind of material is now being used extensively in the north Panhandle for the hard-surfacing of roads in the oil fields, and is said to be a success and much cheaper than concrete paving.

Plumbing Contract for High School Awarded

Lubbock Firm Cuts Price of Plumbing Nearly One-Half of Bids Submitted Last Week

The school board awarded the contract for the plumbing and heating of the new high school building to Young & Pratt at a meeting of the board in this city Tuesday. The contract bid was $13,260.

At the time the school board let the contract for the construction of the school building last week, all bids for the plumbing and heating of the building were rejected on account of the architect and board being of the opinion that the bids were entirely too high, and out of line for such a building. They asked for new bids and the consequence is that the bid accepted was from four to nine thousand dollars cheaper than the bids rejected last week. The bids submitted last week ranged from $17,700 to $22,400.

No reason was given for the action, other than they had to stay at home and entertain other trade excursions.

They were to have visited Lockney today at noon.

Sone, alleging murder. Responsibility, thru criminal neglect, is charged against Mrs. Creed for the death of her 18 month old child, which died on Jan. 12 of this year and was buried in Lockney cemetery following an attack of pneumonia.

Following the death of the child the mother and father both left this section and Mrs. Creed was arrested Monday in Van Zandt County, and held on Sheriff Stegall's warrant. The Floyd county sheriff reached home Wednesday morning.

Home Trade is Vital to Town

Pouring of Trade Resources Through Home Channels Builds Up Success and Prosperity in Community

The chief argument in favor of home trade is the fact that it not only rebounds to the benefit of all residing in the adjacent trade territory which is a part of every community but pays in dollars and cents. Every dollar sent away to build up business in some big city is just that much taken away from the resources of the home community.

If people will only figure up the incidental costs and conveniences occasioned by sending out of town for anything that can be purchased in their home town they will readily see that it pays to trade at home. It is customary to ignore such items, but they are there just the same and are purchased in that manner. For instance the cost of a trip to the city, hotel bill, time wasted away from employment, goods bought that are not really needed, higher prices actually paid for the goods on account of the stupendous overhead of the big city stores. All this means cost and must be charged up against the purchases if one is honest with oneself.

In case of mail order purchases there are money order and postage fees, express or freight charges, time wasted and delay in waiting for the goods, annoyance of exchanging the goods that do not fill the bill, or that do not measure up to the grade expected—these and many other charges of like nature should honestly be figured up against the purchases. If this is done and quality of goods compared it will be found that it is a case of trying to lift yourself by your bootstraps. There is no easy way to secure goods for a less figure than they can be supplied by the experienced business man of Lockney.

Perhaps nothing is studied any closer than the retelling of merchandise and you can safely figure that your live home merchant is working hard to secure the best of merchandise to place before his customers at the lowest possible figure consistent with sound business principles. And in this day of keen competition there are few business men who do not run close to the danger line in fixing prices that will attract trade and meet competition anywhere.

It is only necessary to use common sense in dealing with these problems. The field is open to all who may wish to enter any line of business and if there were big profits to be made that condition would not last for every opening of business is carefully searched out, and competition has reduced everything to the level of lowest possible prices.

On another page of the Beacon will be found the special advertisements of business men of Lockney who are interested in getting the facts of the value of home trade before the people.

Perkins Buys Monroe- Speegle Insurance Agcy

Business Will Change Hands On June 1—Perkins Comes From Rising Star

A deal was consummated this week between Messrs. J. W. Monroe and Ryan Speegle of the firm of Monroe-Speegle Insurance Agency and Mr. Frank Perkins of Rising Star, Texas, by which Mr. Perkins bought the insurance business of Monroe-Speegle in Lockney. He will take charge of the business on June 1st, and will retain the offices they now occupy over the First National Bank.

Mr. Perkins comes well recommended from the bankers of Rising Star. He and his wife have arrived and are at home in the Rowe Bryant place, in west Lockney.

The editor of the Beacon has known Mr. Perkins practically all of his life, as he was raised in Dublin, Texas, the same town the Beacon man was born and raised in. His family has always been numbered with the leading business people of Dublin, and Frank has the ear-marks of the father, and although many years have elapsed since we left that section of the state, we do not hesitate in recommending Frank to the business people and citizens of Lockney as being an upright energetic business man, and we are glad to welcome him and his wife to Lockney.

Messrs. Monroe and Speegle have not made known their plans for the future, but we are sure they intend to remain in Lockney.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Harris and family of San Angelo, Texas, are here visiting with friends and relatives.

The people are beginning to talk, and it will be constantly on the increase from now on, until something is done. Most of the people know that this writer travels around a great deal every week, and in our bonancing around here and there we come in contact with a great many people, and one of the first questions we are generally asked is "When is Floyd County going to wake up to the need of good roads?"

This question is a hard one to answer, and we have reached the point where we answer it by saying, "When the State Commission forces them to do something." Floyd county has the worst roads of any county on the Plains today, or at least any county that we have had occasion to travel over. Every effort made to better this condition is promptly voted down by the people of the county. Yes, a majority of the people vote to better this condition, but we have never been able to get that necessary two-thirds to vote for the improvements. Floyd county lands are standing still. We have been in the county for five years, and land values as a whole have not increased one cent in the last five years, in fact, there are few places in the county that can be cashed for the money that the present owner paid for them, and the chief reason is that we have no roads. We have progressed in many ways, but the more we progress in other ways, the heavier the burden on the road, and no relief in road matters mean that the roads will get worse as time goes on. Other lands that were far below Floyd county land in value a few years ago, are now selling for as much money, and sales are happening every day. Take for instance land in Castro county; five years ago we refused to buy land in that county for ten dollars an acre that is now selling for $25 to $40 an acre, and every day these lands are changing hands, the reason is the people of Castro county are up and doing things.

Hale county on the west is now putting up two highways, getting them in readiness for paving; one of these highways comes to the west line of Floyd county, yet Floyd county has not even opened a road from the end of this road that is to be paved into the county. On the east side of the county Motley county is building highways and hard surfacing them two ways across the county, one of these roads come to the east line of Floyd county. Floyd county is the gap in the greatest transcontinental highway in the world, and has refused three times to do her part in making this a paved highway from coast to coast. There is probably not a man that owns a foot of land in Floyd county that would not take issue with us on the subject "That Floyd county was not as good a county as Hale; and would sneer in our face if we said Floyd county was not as good as Motley county," but actions speak louder than words. Both Hale and Motley counties have seen fit to pave their main roads, and the citizenship of those counties voted the propositions over without any delay.

We boast of the fact that Floyd county is the best county on the Plains, yet our optimism does not convince the world that we are telling the truth, actions speak louder than words, and every time we attempt to act we are voted down by the people who need the roads, and are helping to pay for the roads in the other counties of the state, but refuse to let the other counties of the state help them to pay for the roads that they need and could have if they would only make an attempt to help themselves! You are not hurting any part of the state, except Floyd county, when you refuse to build roads. There are roads both north and south of you than can be used for state travel, and the transients who want to pass across the Plains are told by the filling stations, garages, traffic directors all over the state to avoid the Lee Highway on the Plains, because the roads are impassable in Floyd county when it rains, and that travelers can not depend upon getting across the county at any time, as no one knows when it is going to rain. It does not mean that you are hurting the traveler, he can go another route, but it does mean that you are hurting yourself and every foot of land, and every business interest in Floyd county. You know yourself, that when you start any where, if you are as intelligent as we believe you to be, your first thought, if you don't know the roads that you are going to travel, is to get a map and find out where you can travel over the best roads that can be obtained. This only shows that you are using common sense and saving a lot of unnecessary expense. There has been an average of twenty-five hundred foreign cars traveling over the Lee Highway during the summer months each year for several years, but there is not an average of five hundred cars travel over the Lee Highway in Floyd county during the heaviest tourist season of the year. You can answer the question, "Why?" (Uncertain, cannot be depended on in all seasons, safer to take some other route.)

Highways and good roads have made every county in Texas, or are in the making of the best counties today. Highways that are good, and especially paved highways demand the travel and build the counties. Paved highways cause better roads to be built all over the counties through which they run, people see their value and make all the roads leading into the highways first class roads. Floyd county could have more highway mileage than most any county on the Plains, but she only has about 37 miles at the present time, and until the people act favorably on the opening and putting up to grade of highways in the county, we will not increase our mileage one bit, and instead of our roads getting better they will get worse all the time. The voters of Floyd county are the ones who will say whether the county builds or tears down. At the present time we are in the stage of tearing down, shall we continue our course or face about and start on the road to success by building up.

It means less to the town man than it does to the farmer. Many town men question the wisdom of paving highways through counties that have small towns, as the people in general have an idea that they can get better goods and cheaper goods in the larger towns, and with a paved highway between the smaller towns and the larger towns, it is very easy for the farmer to go to the larger town to sell his products and buy his goods. But most town men looks at it is that they can also use the highways and get better goods in cheaper and will have their trade stimulated by better transportation facilities, and therefore favor building of better roads. But to the farmer it is a far safer and better investment than it is to the town man. The farmer has the whole country, or nearly so, at his feet when he has a good paved highway within a few miles of his farm, it saves him time and money at every turn, it increases the value of his land, his products, and saves him money in operating his vehicles, he profits more from the roads than any other class of people, yet in Floyd county he is the man who is holding back the very thing that would mean more to him than it would to any one else. On the opening and grading up of the road along the Denver from Lubbock to Silverton, it was the farm vote that defeated the issue, yet that road would have give him direct connections with a larger town than he had heretofore had a chance to carry his products, and whether he carried them there or sold them in Lockney, the transportation facilities between Lockney and Lubbock would have caused the price he received to have been greater than it is today.

The time is coming and efforts to that end are now being made by the Highway Commission down at Austin, to pass laws whereby they can enter counties who fail or refuse to open and pave highways, and the state open and pave such highways, and force the taxpayers of the counties to pay for the roads. That was the contents of a bill presented last session of the legislature, which failed to get over, but it will be brought up again, and within a short time it will be a law, and the counties that have failed to provide for roads will have to abide by it. When this is done, the case will be the same as it is in all other matters where the state says what it shall cost and how it shall be done, the tax payers will pay the price and will have no say whatsoever about the matter. It is far better to decide the matter at home, build the roads, and assess the tax to take care of it, than it is to be forced to accept what the state wants to do about the matter. The people at home are looking out for their own interest, the state gives your interest very little attention.

Floyd county had better act on the road propositions while they can, and be ready to connect up with Hale, Motley, Lubbock, and Birscoe counties on these highway propositions when these roads get through those counties, because if they fail, the state will act and Floyd county will pay the bill without any hesitation, and will pay dearly for their neglect and backward action.

Anti-Pistol Law Irrational
In an attempt to curb crime well-meaning people often advocate laws to make the sale and possession of small arms illegal.

It is interesting to note just what effect anti-pistol laws have had in drastic Sullivan law applying to practice. In New York, which has its small arms, there is no dearth of crime. The underworld which does not pause at robbery and murder, is not stopped by a felony law against gun ownership. Large American cities are hot-beds of crime. Yet most of them have anti-pistol laws of some kind.

As a matter of fact, the most reprehensible and best organized criminal activities, gang outrages, employ machine guns and automobiles almost exclusively, because of their greater destructive possibilities. It is noteworthy that in a number of communities where strict anti-pistol laws are in effect, machine guns are openly sold.

A citizenry which owns guns and knows how to shoot them is a strong protection against underworld depredations. Laws which make protection difficult for the law-abiding, defeat their own object and aid the criminal class.

KNOW TEXAS

Roasting-ears are being shipped from the Rio Grande in car lots. From some parts of Texas roasting-ears will be shipped from now until fall, making it almost a 12-month roasting-ear season in Texas.

Nearly 3,000,000 acres of Texas land have been terraced in the interest of soil conservation and Farm and Ranch is getting under way a summer terracing campaign for stubble land. Since January 1 over 32,000 carloads of fruits and vegetables have been shipped from South and Southwest Texas and the entire State is expected to ship 60,000 carloads before December 1. The average turnout is about $1,000 a car, representing an income of $60,000,000 from this one source.

The Texas pecan crop in 1928 was of estimated value of $2,050,000 for the 450 car loads shipped. The crop is variable, according to weather and other conditions, and within the past ten years has ranged as low as 25 cars, valued at $200,000 (in 1922). The largest production in that period was in 1919 with 500 cars valued at $1,850,000.

Texas stands seventh in automobile registration with 1,214,297 motor vehicles licensed to use its roads. New York is first with 2,083,942 and California, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Michigan following in order ahead of Texas. Oklahoma with 529,843 is the nearest to Texas in the South and Southwest, and North Carolina with 464,376 leads in the "Old South."

The Texas public road system comprises about 180,000 miles of which nearly 20,000 miles are known as "improved." State and Federal improved highways total 9,645 miles and there are about 10,000 miles of gravel, sand-clay or other "improved roads."

Highways are being made safer through wider pavements, smooth surface, easier curves with greater sight distance, wider shoulders and better designed intersections.

This Simplicity means money to YOU!
John Deere Farm Tractor
Simplicity in the tractor you buy is mighty important to you. This quality means easier operation, fewer adjustments to make, fewer repairs to buy, less trouble, and, what's even more important, it means longer life.
In the illustration above, you see the remarkable simplicity of the powerful, light-weight John Deere Tractor. It shows you at a glance why the John Deere is known as the tractor of fewer, but sturdier, parts.
A strong, one-piece frame encloses the entire working mechanism, protecting all parts from dust or sand, and supplies a reservoir for automatic lubrication so that all working parts operate in a constant bath of clean oil.
From engine to drawbar, the John Deere is a simple, but powerful giant, with no unnecessary parts to add weight and cause loss of power.
When you're ready to buy a tractor, don't overlook the fact that the John Deere is actually hundreds of parts simpler than other tractors of similar power rating.
When you're in town come in and look it over.

History of the Senior Class of '29

If the history of the Senior Class of 1929 were written in detail, it would require a whole volume; but briefly the eleven years will be related. Twelve pupils of this class started their education in Lockney schools. There were humorous T. H. Stewart, the great scientist, J. Edward Parsons, the movie actor, Buchanan Prickett, the boy who knows how to talk, Carl McAdams, the pretty Ida Barton, the tennis player, Elfie Meriwether, the brown-eyed Roberta Broyles, the shoe-shiner boy, Guy Cope, the girl men cannot forget, Delma Floyd, the real debater, Winston Wofford, the ice cold boy, Cullen Riley, the boy girls cannot forget, Winfred Fowler, and the tiny flapper, Loreta Dagley. Many thrills came to this dozen boys and girls that year, because they were just learning the first rules of discipline.

Then after the first year, Elfie Meriwether moved away, and Ida Barton went to Roseland to attend school. Yet some one entered that could take both of their places, and that was Frances Savage, from Celina, Texas. When the third school year dawned, little, patient Margaret Collier joined the class. She came from Irick, and her cheery disposition won her friends. Elfie Meriwether, being discontented when she was away from Lockney, moved back to begin school again here in her fourth year. How glad Carl was to see her! The class gained another classmate in its fifth year.—Orvis Seal, from Piggott, Arkansas; he was even then fascinated by Roberta's brown eyes. Then during the sixth year these school children were glad to welcome Bertha Ragle from New Mexico, and have never regretted that she chose Lockney for her home. The school session of 1924 and 1925 brought a great change. Who should hop into the ring but L. A. Stowe from Aiken, Virginia Miller from Ramsey, Elvie Cook, from Hedley, Opal Ashby, from Irick, and Fay Royal from Hollis, Oklahoma? Mr. Ivy Hart, who led that seventh grade, was proud of his class, as it bade farewell to grammar school on May 13, 1925.

The first year in high school dawned bright and clear. Miss Carma Thomas was chosen class sponsor, and the class welcomed Ezra Good, of Groveton, Texas, Mildred Reeves, of Lone Star, and Arthur Cox, of Roseland. The next year Melvin Walter from Prairie Chapel and Adolphus Grubbs from Ralls, Texas, slipped in, yet their classmates did not fail to notice them. Also Opal Ashby re-entered after having been absent one term. The class sponsor was Miss Ethel Rice.

At last the Junior year made its appearance, and for the first time the members of the class really felt their importance; they were to be hosts and hostesses at the Junior-Senior Banquet. They chose Mrs. R. C. Haithcock, (then Miss Willie Merle Trapp), to direct them in this affair. They were joined by J. D. Orr, Graham, Texas, George Tate, Aiken; Letha Orr, Tullia, Texas; Mary Nell Meador, Plainview, Texas; Viola King, Roseland; Moruca King, Muncy; Frotilla Kittrell, Aiken. These happy boys and girls aided in making the class merrier, but they say the more the merrier, so the year that the class was to be dignified seniors, the following came in: Ida Barton, from Roseland; Eddie Mae Gilliland, from South Plains; Oliver and Gladys Miller, from Gilliland, Texas; Ruby Farley from Sand Hill; Pauline Hampton, from Irick; D. V. Biggers, from McLean, Texas; Edgar Morgan, from Paducah, Texas; and Louis Lee, from near Lockney. Thrills came to these seniors as they come to all seniors. Miss Carma Thomas guided them, and aided them in presenting to the school a much valued clock system. Although, it is regretted that Adolphus Grubbs and Loreta Dagley saw fit to change their course in life before the closing of the school year, a class of forty-one graduated. The foundation of the class consisted of twelve boys and girls, and the rest gradually drifted in. Eleven years are a long while to go to school before a pupil realizes that he has really accomplished something, but the Seniors of 1929 say that the value of an education is difficult to estimate anyway, besides all the pleasures derived in obtaining it.

The members of this graduating class bade farewell to their Alma Mater, May 17, 1929. Their parents, the school board, and teachers—all were factors that encouraged them when the road seemed rough, and gave them a cheery smile or word to lighten their load. In order not to disappoint the ones who have helped them and also to be of service to the world, the class of '29 is striving to accomplish as much and more in the next eleven years as they have in the past eleven years.—Fay Royal.

Sweaters Awarded To Athletes

On May 10 in the high school auditorium occurred a much delayed event—the awarding of sweaters to football men of the season of 1928. Supt. W. D. Biggers had charge of the ceremonies and with appropriate and clever remarks presented the sweaters to the players who were escorted to the platform by the basketball girls.

Besides the players, T. H. Stewart, Jr., manager, and Glenna Collins, sponsor, were presented sweaters also. When these two and the team had received their rewards, the boys carried Coach Reid down the aisle to receive his maroon jacket.

Mr. Fay Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McAdams, and faculty members were called on for short talks. The spirit of the occasion was reminiscent of the athletic season, and students and all were gay in anticipation of what the next season will bring.

Those receiving sweaters were: T. H. Stewart, Jr., manager, Glenna Collins, sponsor, Jack Spence, captain, Winfred Fowler, Orvis Seal, Leon Wofford, Carelton Cook, Cullen Riley, D. J. Phillips, Guy Cope, D. V. Biggers, Warren Rives, Carl McAdams, Adolphus Grubbs, Lawrence Brotherton, L. A. Stowe.

Sweaters were also awarded to Bert Shelton and Lindsay Wals, who were unable to be present on this occasion.

D. V. Biggers Writes Class Prophecy

You will probably remember J. Edward Parsons who was the science shark of the Class of '29. He called to see me here in Grand Rapids and asked me to be his promoter in pushing the sale of his latest invention—a mirror of television. The instrument is a mirror which is electrically attached to the telephone. When talking to anyone their image and their surroundings are reflected in this mirror. Before I could consent to becoming connected with his unheard of invention I had to see it put into action. We decided that just for old time's sake we would call every member of the Class of '29 and hear their voices and see their faces once more. I happened to have an alphabetical roll of the class and with J. Ed's help found the addresses of the members. Starting with Mozelle Anderson, we found Mozelle at the head of public speaking in W. T. S. T. C. The next in line was Opal Ashby. We found that she had made her name famous by founding an asylum for red headed people.

We found that Ida Barton was the head of stenographers of Stewart Drug Co.

Roberta Broyles one of our decided blondes of '29 was head of the home for stray cats at Sand Hill, Texas.

We phoned Charles Bruton's folks and found that he was still single. He had gone to Europe to see a doctor whom he had heard could increase one's height two feet.

It was no trouble at all to find Margaret Collier as she was a renowned radio singer.

We had a great deal of trouble in finding Elvie Cook. She had been married to a good farm boy. We found that she had entered matrimony as she had entered into the work of our senior class, giving all she had.

We found Guy Cope had been married to Eddie May Gilliland. We could tell by his voice and his surroundings that he was a successful man.

We received a great shock when we heard of Ruby Farley. Would you believe it she was married to J. D. Orr. When Ruby was talking to us we had a look at the interior of the house. J. D. was sitting in a large rocker before the fire; in his lap was a wee infant who from its looks must have been crying. J. D. was crooning a lullaby, but the baby evidently did not approve of the song.

Arthur was the next one we found. Arthur had taken his cue from the play "Adam and Eva," and had become a great salesman though, I believe he does not demonstrate his wares.

We found Winfred Fowler at the head of a great educational institution in New Mexico. This institution consisted of a one-room school-house and four pupils.

We found Ezra Good, owner of the French Beauty Shop, Irick, Texas.

We found Mary Lou Hammonds to be a great judge in the circuit court.

We found Pauline Hampton married to George Tate, who was a manager of a branch of the West Texas Power Company.

We found Viola King to be an enthusiastic newspaper reporter.

We found Frotilla Kittrell to be in New York. She was recognized the world over as an authority on dress making.

We found Opal Ashby at the head

Class Mothers Give Farewell Party

After the commencement exercises Friday night the graduating class and faculty assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McAdams, where Mesdames McAdams and W. D. Biggers were hostesses as a farewell party.

D. V. Biggers, class president, acted as master of ceremonies and the following program was rendered:

Class History — Fay Royal
Class Prophecy — T. H. Stewart, Jr.
Class Will — Winston Wofford
Class Poem — Opal Matthews

Following the program various seniors and faculty members made short talks.

Refreshments in class colors were then served to the seniors, faculty members and a few other guests.

We had a time finding Mary Nell Meador. But to our surprise we found that she still went by her maiden name. Judging from her looks and talk, I'm sure she is a very successful book agent.

We found Elfie Meriwether to be the owner of a beauty shop in Sterling. While we were talking to Elfie, Boogin McAdams walked in and told Elfie he had come to have his face lifted.

We were talking to Gladys who was an old maid, when I walked Oliver with his bride, a little girl who had been a junior, with whom his romance was just budding when he graduated.

The next person we talked to was Virginia Miller. We received the shock of our life when her image was reflected in this mirror. In place of seeing the frail form of the old Virginia, we saw a form as large as Aunt Eppie Hogg. She informed us that Orvis Seal had married Bertha Ragle and that they had both become great physicians. Together they had discovered some medicine which would make a lean person put on flesh. They sent Virginia a bottle of this medicine and she took too big a dose—hence the size.

We found Buck Prickett was the head of a livery stable for airplanes at Lockney.

We found Mildred Reeves in Hollywood, California. She had overshadowed all other actresses in popularity in the screen world.

We found Fay Royal a great journalist and writer for magazines.

We found Frances, alias

"Adam and Eva" Presented May 16

Adam and Eva was presented to a record breaking crowd Thursday, May 16. This senior play was one of the best presented in Lockney and the specialty numbers were unusual and interesting.

T. H. Stewart, Jr., introduced as The Great Houdinki, was exceedingly clever with his tricks of magic.

The cast and their director, Miss Carma Thomas, are to be commended for their work in presenting this play and the project which such productions have made possible. The cast of characters follows:

James King, a rich man. L. A. Stove
Corinthia, his parlor maid
Ida Barton
Clinton DeWitt, his son-in-law
Arthur Cox
Julie DeWitt, his elder daughter
Elfie Meriwether
Eva King, his younger daughter
Mary Nell Meador
Aunt Abby King, his sister-in-law
Frances Savage
Jr. Jack Delamater, his neighbor
Melvin Walter
Horace Pilgrim, his uncle
J. Edward Parsons
Adam Smith, his business manager
Winfred Fowler
Lord Andrew Gordon, his would-be son-in-law
D. V. Biggers

Flapper Fanny, had married the shiek of the gravel pit at Quitaque.

T. H. Stewart, we found, was a great magician, known as Houdinki, dinki.

We found Melvin Walter had married the gay little butterfly, Delma Floyd, and settled down on a farm near Lockney.

Letha Orr had married Lefty Wofford, who was the manager of the Merry-Makers Dance Hall of South Plains, Texas.

We found Edgar Morgan with Paul Whiteman's Orchestra. He had received his start in the "Redhotlers" and had continued to play the trombone until he was a trombone artist.

We found Louis Lee to be another Newt Rockney. He was the head coach of Yale University.

Last of all we found Moruca King. She had learned to be an interior decorator and was assisting her husband who was a great contractor.

Needless to say after seeing all these merry faces of the past, I was more than glad to promote so great an invention as this for an old friend and classmate of '29.—D. V. Biggers.

Commencement Exercises May 17

Commencement Exercises for the graduating Class of 1929 of Lockney High School were held Friday night, May 17, in the high school auditorium. The class of forty-one members is the largest which has finished in Lockney.

The seniors entered the auditorium as Miss Mary Richardson played the processional and took their places on the stage. Rev. E. D. Morgan offered the invocation. Miss Frances Savage delivered the salutatory address and the Junior Girls' Chorus sang Mildenburg's Springtime. Then Miss Margaret Collier delivered the valedictory.

In the salutatory Miss Savage emphasized thrift in both personal and community development. Miss Collier's talk centered about the setting of a goal or definite purpose in life and the attainment of it.

Mr. D. A. Shirley of West Texas State Teachers College, Canyon, who was to have made the commencement address, was unable to be present and Superintendent W. D. Biggers spoke to the class. Mr. Biggers offered three thoughts for the seniors: that they study, that they work, and that they love their work.

Principal J. W. Jones then delivered the diplomas to the following graduates:

Gladys Miller, Oliver Miller, Virginia Miller, J. D. Orr, Letha Orr, J. Edward Parsons, Buchanan Prickett, Bertha Ragle, Mildred Reeves, Fay Royal, Frances Savage, Orvis Seal, T. H. Stewart, Jr., George Tate, Melvin Walter, Winston Wofford, Delma Floyd, Edgar Morgan, Louis Lee, Moruca King, D. V. Biggers, Mozelle Anderson, Opal Ashby, Ida Barton, Roberta Broyles, Charles Bruton, Margaret Collier, Elvie Cook, Guy Cope, Arthur Cox, Ruby Farley, Winfred Fowler, Eddie Mae Gilliland, Ezra Good, Mary Lou Hammonds, Pauline Hampton, Viola King, Frotilla Kittrell, Opal Matthews, Mary Nell Meador, Elfie Meriwether.

Scholarship to the leading colleges and universities of Texas were awarded Margaret Collier who made the highest average among the girls and Winston Wofford who made the highest average among the boys.

In "West Texas Today"

West Texas Today, the official publication of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has the following comment concerning The Lockney Longhorn:

"A recent issue of The Lockney Longhorn, a school paper published in connection with The Lockney Beacon, was dedicated to 'The Spirit of Progress,' by its young editors in appreciation of the interest and thought of the Lockney citizens in maintaining the new high school building which they consider an important factor of the spirit of progress. The Beacon suggests that the impetus gained by 'The Spirit of Progress' is the building of a new school be replenished by continued efforts of Lockney's citizenship and asks that they never be satisfied with anything below the best in educational facilities."

It makes the staff of The Longhorn feel somewhat "chesty" to be thus noticed.

The Class of '29

The class of '29 has passed away
We are the senior class no more.
We took our diploma today
Our high school days are o'er.

We have fought our fight, we've won the race,
Eleven years we've strived to win
This award we have won tonight
Has brought our battles to an end.

We are seniors no longer in Lockney
High
But we've reached heights beyond.
To prove our worth the days draw nigh,
And we are marching on.

We have had many disappointments
We can not name them all.
But we have had the strength of mind to meet
The things that did befall.

We appreciate our sponsor
Though we have not told her so
We're just thoughtless boys and girls
Her troubles we cannot know.

She's the one that's led us onward
She's back of all we've done
We shall realize her worth
More and more in the years to come

As we go out into the world
Let's add height, width, and length.
Let's strive ever to have A soul full of beauty and strength.
—Opal Matthews.

NEW TOWNS CAUSE
 GROWTH OF COUNTY SCHO-LASTIC POPULATION

Scholastic census for Floyd county was recently completed and an unofficial total of 3575 was given, the largest number on record since the county was organized. A recheck shows the total to be 3586 which is probably correct although the number will not be official until checked by the state superintendent's office.
 Following is the population by districts:

Trick, 127; Pleasant Valley, 55;
 Muncy, 36; Pleasant Hill, 60; Fairview, 96; Starkey, 92; Aiken Independent, 97; Sunset Consolidated, 123; Sand Hill, 127; Harmony, 50;
 Lakeview, 118; Fairmount, 54; Center, 70; Lone Star, 74.
 Cedar, 99; McCoy, 77; Roseland, 63; Dougherty Consolidated, 72; Baker, 58; Antelope, 60; Providence, 37;
 Blanco, 25; Allmon, 75; Liberty, 50;
 Prairie Chapel, 130; Campbell, 75;
 Ramsey, 30; Hillcrest, 19; Goodnight,
 91; Lockney, 534; Floydada, 912.

The gain except 39 was made in Lockney and Floydada and the districts which have newly established towns, Dougherty, South Plains, and Sterley. The failure of the rural schools to gain in population is attributed by many to the growth of wheat farming in the county and the subsequent loss of many families necessary for row crop farming.

Does Undemonstrative Husband Really Love His Wife? Folly of Marrying to Avoid an Old Maid's Future. Should This Girl Stay Single to Please Her Mother?

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been married 12 years and have a wonderful husband, a beautiful home and three lovely children. My husband is a man of high character in every way, very kind and generous and he shows me all sorts of little attention, bringing me flowers and candy and making me presents. Seems to love to do nice things for me and is good to me in every way except this: that he is very cold and undemonstrative and aloof in his disposition. Never kisses me except when leaving or returning from a trip and then in a perfunctory manner and when I kiss him he plainly shows that it is distasteful to him.

I have become very sad and sensitive about this and brood over it and weep most of the time. Do you think he loves me if he treats me this way? Mrs. M.
 Answer: Of course your husband loves you, Mrs. M., and you are a poor silly goose of a woman to doubt your husband's affection when he is giving you continual proof of it by acts of devotion that mean a lot more than a little osculation does.

Kisses prove nothing. They are no indication of love. Often they are the mask under which treachery hides itself. Judas betrayed our Lord with a kiss. Every day women kiss you know, you know very well, are going to claw your character to pieces the moment your back is turned. Do you think that all of these boys who demand to be paid in kisses for taking a girl to the movies have any real love for the girls. You know better.

As a matter of fact kissing has become so common now that it has become utterly meaningless, and there isn't a thrill left in it. It is no longer a proof of love. It is only an in-sanitary proceeding which is rather repulsive to those who have a proper fear of germs.

Anyway, one is born a kissing bug or not. It comes by nature. I have seen a mere babe in the cradle turn its head in disgust from a mother who smothered it with kisses. And I know people who have slobbered their way through the world for 70 or 80 years, so whether you like to kiss or not is a matter of temperament and your husband is no more to be blamed for loathing it than you for craving it.

Therefore, why not try to accept him as he is and to realize that there are other and far better ways of proving one's love than by kissing?
 Your husband is good and kind and considerate and generous and spends his life trying to make you happy.
 Surely that should be enough to satisfy any woman and when you let yourself grow morbid because he doesn't hold a perpetual petting party you are simply going out of your way to hunt for trouble.

So cheer up and forget the kisses.
 Otherwise he may go out and hunt up some lady who has more sense and philosophy than you have and then you will have something to cry for sure enough.

But all the same, when a man realizes that his wife could be happy by being made a fuss over and that she is pining for kisses, he is wrong and foolish not to bestow a few upon her.—Dorothy Dix.

Dear Miss Dix—Should I marry a boy of whom I know nothing, only that he is nice looking and easy-going? I do not love this boy I am going to marry and my only reason for marrying him is to get off my peoples shoulders' and to get scratched off the old maids' list. I am very unhappy living in a small town where I seem to be accomplishing nothing.—Bobby.

Answer: You will certainly be jumping out of the frying pan into the fire if you marry a man for whom you care nothing just because you are bored in a small town and see nothing but a monotonous future ahead of you.

So many girls are guilty of this folly. Their home conditions are not very pleasant. They are restless and dissatisfied. They crave freedom and luxury and they think that they will solve all of their difficulties by getting married. They shut their eyes to the fact that marriage, even under the best of conditions, means care and responsibility and self sacrifice and an endless round of doing the same work over day after day in order to make a family comfortable.

Nor do they stop to consider whether the man they marry will be able to give them the things they want. A girl will actually marry a man on a small salary in order to escape from a poor home, or having to support herself, without apparently realizing that she will be 10 times worse off financially than she was before.

In your case there is nothing to recommend the marriage you are contemplating and everything against it.
 To begin with, it is sheer insanity to marry a man of whom you know nothing. Why, you wouldn't buy a dog without knowing its pedigree, what sort of stock it came from and whether it was healthy or not. You wouldn't think of putting $1,000 in a house without finding out whether there were any mortgages on it or not, yet you will think of taking a man for your husband and for the father of your children without knowing whether he even comes from a responsible family or not and whether there is tainted blood in his veins.

You are thinking of investing everything you have in the world in partnership with this man and you don't look him up to see if he is honest and trustworthy or a thief of if his past is clean or if there is some blot on it that will shadow your whole future.

Your reasons for marrying are that you want to get off your family's shoulders and to be scratched off the old maids' list. There is no reason for any able-bodied, intelligent girl being a burden to her people. Go to work and be self-supporting and if you feel that your little home town does not give you sufficient opportunity, leave it and seek your fortune in a city. Thousands of girls do that every day of the week.

As for marrying to keep from being an old maid, that is the silliest excuse that was ever given. If you think there is any discredit in being an old maid you are simply 50 years behind the times in your point of view. Women have left all that archaic nonsense behind them. They marry or stay single just as they see fit and there is no more discredit in being an old maid than there is in being an old bachelor.—Dorothy Dix.

Dear Miss Dix—I am in love with a splendid young man, but my mother refuses to let me marry him because she feels that I should remain at home and single as long as she lives, even though my father is still alive and very good to her. She has had a happy married life, but she wants to deny that to me in order to keep me with her. Should I sacrifice myself and my sweetheart for her?
 H. B. M.

Answer: Certainly not. Your mother is utterly selfish and unreasonable and you should not listen to her. Don't argue with her on the subject any more. Just you and your young man step around to the parson and get married whenever you get ready and when it is all over she will probably be as pleased as Punch.—
 Dorothy Dix.

they were constantly passing their earnings on to help those who were less fortunate and to make some sad soul happy. This type of people are not general today, and the life of this good man will ever be remembered, and in speaking of him those who knew him best will say "He did his best to make this world a better and happier place in which to live", and no greater tribute can be paid to any one.

Funeral services were conducted at the Church of Christ in Lockney, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Elder Early Arceaux, pastor of the church to which he belonged, and burial was under the auspices of the local Masonic Lodge. A large crowd of out of town friends gathered to attend the funeral, most of them being men and women who had known Mr. Brewster in the pioneer days, and had retained that friendship throughout many years.

One of the most beautiful scenes in the life of Mr. and Mrs. Brewster was that of the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary in Lockney on May 10th, 1926, when a large crowd of pioneer friends gathered at their home, and the early days were lived over for a few hours, and it was the hope of those present that this union would not be broken before they were able to celebrate their 60th anniversary.

Mr. Brewster returned home Sunday from Rochester, Minnesota, where had been through the clinic of Mayo Brothers, where he had been told that there was no hope for his recovery, as he had leakage of the heart, and he told this writer Monday afternoon when we met him on the streets of Lockney that he was liable to pass out any minute but that he would be helping to build the town and community as long as he lasted, that while his heart was going back on him "It was still soft, and he wanted to continue to help those about him to prosper."

Were Present at Brewster Funeral
The following friends and relatives of the family were present at the funeral of Geo. W. Brewster in Lockney Wednesday afternoon: Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Dodson (daughter) and family of Olton; Mr. and Mrs. V. N. Dillard, (daughter) and family of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Gredy Brewster, (son) and family of Perico, Texas; Tom Bellamy and wife and John Clark, of Littlefield; J. M. Ferm Cooling With Water and Stirring Keeps Cream Sweet.

GOOD CARE WILL KEEP CREAM SWEET

Cooling Qualities of Water Many Times Faster Than Air.

An abundance of cold water is one of the dairy farmer's most valuable possessions, declares the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. The cow requires it for making her greatest production of milk and the farmer needs it for keeping milk and cream fresh and sweet so that these products may reach the market in the best possible condition to command the highest prices.

While the temperature of air in late fall and winter is generally much lower than that of well or spring water, cold air does not cool cream quickly enough to prevent rapid bacterial development, the cause of souring. Cold water has been found to cool cream many times faster than cold air.

The greater effectiveness of water over air for cooling cream was illustrated recently by the Minnesota College of Agriculture. A can of fresh cream direct from the separator with a temperature of 90 degrees, allowed to stand for one hour in air having a temperature of 70 degrees, far below the freezing temperature of water, and not stirred, reached a temperature of 73 degrees. Cream at that temperature sours rapidly. Another can of fresh cream standing for one hour in air at 70 degrees and stirred every 15 minutes dropped to 65 degrees, a temperature at which cream sours gradually. When a can of new cream was placed in a tank of water having a temperature of 54 degrees, considerably higher than that of the cold air at 70 degrees, and not stirred, the temperature of the cream fell to 67 degrees in one hour's time. However, when a can of cream of 90 degrees temperature was placed in water 56 degrees in temperature, and stirred every 15 minutes, it reached a temperature of 56 degrees, the same as that of the water, in one hour. At low temperatures cream will stay sweet for several days. It is sure to reach the market in highest condition and command the highest prices if marketed often.

All We Know is What We Hear
(By Rasmitum)

We guess that some time during the life of "Aspiration" Barker, in order to encourage him along life's path, some good-hearted person told him that his vocal organ, if developed properly, would become a rival to the nightingale, and the poor boob believed it, and every time he gets a chance to display his vocal chords upon an unsuspecting audience he does so, and because they do not throw him out, and through respect allow him to stay in their presence, he thinks he is getting over great, but the fact is that the American public in general likes to see a man make a monkey out of himself, as there is a certain amount of amusement in hearing big over-grown country boys "braying" before an audience, especially when their voices sound like drawing a file across a piece of rawhide. You know that people ought not to tell other people that they can sing, when their is no music in their makeup, for the poor public has enough hardships to undergo without having Barber Shop soloists and quartettes continually making life miserable for those who want to live in peace and enjoy the better things of life. We have heard fog horns, cows-bellow, and donkeys bray, and at times there was a little music in them, but never have we heard "Aspiration" Barker come anywhere near making music out of anything but a "Tin Lizzie."

About the biggest joke that has ever been pulled in Lockney is the establishment of a "golf course." We have been taught all of our lives that golf courses were to be used by men who were wealthy and needed some recreation, therefore, they found delight in hiking around over the prairies, creeks, etc., in order to loosen up their limbs, but these guys around Lockney that compose the golf players, can get all the exercise they are in need of cutting weeds around their own homes, and relieving their wives of the ordeal. You know these Lockney golf players are quite amusing, for instance one Grady Crager invites the editor out to play golf, gee, we wish we were in the gold class, that had lots of money and could not find anything else to do but to chase a pill over the hills and hollows for exercise, but we seriously doubt if we were in that class about us ever playing such a game, as we would prefer to fish and hunt, or at least do something that has some sport about it. However, we would like to know the whyfore and whereabout of these golf players needing any recreation anyway. Out here on the "ballies" it is not very much trouble to get all the recreation a fellow would want without having to chase a ball all over the country. It may be fun to play golf, but we can't see it. We had rather play base ball, tennis, or something of this nature, where there is some pep connected with the game. Of course, we realize that to a great many the word "golf" sounds like something big, but we never did care for the "rich folks" game, we had rather play with the common people and play games that are simple and you don't have to be "educated" up to. There are a lot of these golf players that could make a great deal better showing in helping to clean up the town of Lockney with a hoe and rake, than striking at a small white ball with a club, but, of course, golf is play and weed cutting is work, and they are not really looking for exercise after all.

DEED TO PROPERTY IN WEST PART OF TOWN DELIVERED

The trustees of the Lockney Independent School District received the deeds to the eight acre plat in the western part of Lockney, where the new school is to be erected, Saturday of last week. The land is just west of the McKay addition. Work is to begin on the foundation within the next few days.

Scout News
The boys present at the last meeting were Rowan Ward, Ben Whitfill, D. Trammel, Weldon Dodson, and Kenneth Hoblass, also the scoutmaster, Mr. Crocker.

Monday night the Senior League held the basement of the Methodist church so we met Tuesday night. The scoutmaster made arrangements for the league to meet up stairs and let us have the basement.

The question discussed was smoking. Everyone we caught smoking was to be put out, even if they were the president's son. After discussing this subject for a few minutes, they selected Rowan Ward to drill them. When they were about half through in came Mrs. G. S. Morris with some sandwiches for the league banquet, but they had already eaten, so she gave them to the scouts. Now let me tell you, they were good and we enjoyed every one. We heartily thank Mrs. Morris.

We made a mistake the last time telling about where the absent boys were. Weldon and Ben were home studying, but Buster was at the picture show. We do not know where the boys absent were but expect to find out.

We are still ready to take any boy that can be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean, and reverent.

Come on boys, we want to make Lockney proud of her boys.—Scribe.

Petroleum and natural gas represent the most important mineral resources of Texas, but granite, marble, graphite, gold, silver, copper, iron, ichthyol, lead, zinc, tin, quicksilver (mercury) sulphur, borax, gypsum, and mica are found in either the Central Mineral or the Trans-Pecos region, while coal and lignite are produced in many parts of the state.

Potash and other valuable minerals are known to exist in Texas, but have not been developed. Asphalt, carbon black, celestite, cement, clays, including several deposits of kaolin, Fuller's earth, gas, natural gasoline, guano, limestone and lime, manganese—all are produced in Texas.

A Minimum Wage for Dollars

When a dollar goes to work for a manufacturer or a merchant it demands relatively high wages, the actual amount depending upon the hazards of its occupation.

If it gets a "white collar" job, such as serving as a loan or first class security, its wages are lower because of the elimination of hazard.

In any event, 6 cents a year is the accepted minimum wage for a healthy American dollar.

But the average wage of the dollars engaged in public service is lower than this.

A recent survey of 30 leading groups of utility companies having in the aggregate about 7 1-2 billion dollars working for them, showed that the wages of each dollar were only 4.8 cents a year.

How many dollars working for commerce and industry are satisfied with wages of less than 5 cents a year?

Because of the elimination of occupational hazard (resulting in stability of investment) a dollar working for the consumer of utility service asks less in the way of wages than the accepted minimum standard.

WHY WAS IT SO?

As the wheels of time rolls it annals round, many things inject into life and business. Just at this writing we have our mind on the Bond Issue, a cause deemed just by many of our progressive and loyal citizens. The battle for its issue was defended and fought beneath the flag of hope from early morn till setting sun. They watched, worked and waited for the final result, but just as the dark cloud that overshadowed the eastern sky and the golden rays of the setting sun produced the last ray of hope as it looked down upon the beautiful rainbow that spread its wings from the sky, the sad news was borne to them that the battle was fought, the developer's hopes were over, and the road bond issue was no more. So the only chance to cheer their weary hearts was to stop at Riley & Brewster's for a supply of fresh groceries and meats to stimulate their almost silent heart, which they did, for we keep plenty on hand and invite your trade on all occasions.

TUNE UP—General Motors Family Party, every Monday, 8:30 P. M., (Times Standard Time) WEAJ and 37 sponsored radio station

Here's where a car leads a tough life

NO General Motors car is turned out of the factory until a fleet of exact duplicates of that model has been found good by the engineers at General Motors' Proving Ground.

Such an advance model must prove itself from stem to stern. The tests involve speed, power, endurance, braking, riding comfort, handling ease; fuel, oil, and tire economy; body strength—every phase of car construction and performance. It's a tough life.

Such testing would be beyond the means or resources of an individual. 1268 acres of land at Milford, Michigan, are devoted to this outdoor laboratory where hills are steep and roads are vicious. Men who are among the world's best automotive engineers conduct the tests.

This tested performance is as much a part of a General Motors car as the chassis. You can't see it. You don't pay extra for it. But you know it as you give the car long use on the road.

RUM WITNESS IN AMARILLO FOUND SHOT

Amarillo, May 20.—Kidnapped the night before he was to have testified in a series of liquor cases, Adolph Esquibel, Mexican employe of the Rock Island Railroad at Dalhart and formerly a deputy at Tucumcari, N. M., was found Monday in a Las Vegas, N. M., hospital, according to word received here from Dalhart.

Esquibel was shot and abducted by a band of men. Efforts to find him had been fruitless, but word was received Monday that a man suffering from gunshot wounds and a beating, who was picked up beside a road near Las Vegas, had been identified as Esquibel.

MORRISON CASE TRIAL DATE SET

Amarillo, May 20.—Mrs. Levi P. Stallworth, Amarillo, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. E. M. Stallworth, Fort Worth, will go to trial here June 3 for the slaying of Mrs. Grace Morrison, Plainview, here a week ago today. A special venire of 200 men has been summoned.

The trial will precede by ten days that of R. H. Hamilton, prominent attorney, for the slaying of his son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr., 21, on May 4 when Walton went to Hamilton's office to tell of his marriage to Theresa Hamilton, 19.

Mrs. Grace Morrison, it is alleged, was slain because of jealousy over the affections of Levi P. Stallworth. The elder Mrs. Stallworth is said to have held Mrs. Morrison while the first three shots were fired into her body.

LAND COMMISSIONER TO FACE IMPEACHMENT CHARGE IN JUNE

Resolution Calling for Proceedings Were Withdrawn Thursday, No Personal Feeling

Austin, May 18.—Impeachment proceedings will be submitted to the June session of the legislature against Land Commissioner J. T. Robinson, based on the report of the land office investigating committee report, Representative Grady Woodruff of Decatur announced. The house will be asked to consider adoption of impeachment charges as a measure of "fairness to the people and to Commissioner Robinson," Representative Woodruff said.

Resolution calling for impeachment proceedings was withdrawn by Woodruff Thursday, and has been revised. To avoid jeopardizing numerous bills now awaiting action, Mr. Woodruff said he will consent to delaying the proceedings until the house is called back in the next session.

Mr. Woodruff declared the investigator's report, which he termed "just, fair, and concise," bristled with criticism of Commissioner Robinson's policies in conduct of the land office. "If these criticisms are based in fact, the people are entitled to know it; if Commissioner Robinson can answer them, it is fair that he should have the opportunity of doing so," Mr. Woodruff declared.

Representative Woodruff said "there is no personal feeling," in his purpose of pressing the resolution. He declared he has regarded the veteran land commissioner as "one of the truly honorably, honest, faithful state officials." He declared he voted for the land reappraisal bill of 1925, one of the issues of the report, because he was informed it had been written by Commissioner Robinson, though he questioned the advisability of the law at the time.

Mr. Woodruff said that in the interest of expediting legislation, he was willing to hold up his resolution until the next session, but that he will introduce it then.

FLOYDADA CREAMERY TO OPEN ON MAY 25

Floydada, May 19.—The official opening of one of Floyd county's newest industries, the Floydada Creamery, will be held May 25, according to the announcement of the officers and directors of the institution. The creamery, organized in February of this year after repeated efforts on the part of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce to secure such an industry, is largely owned by local people, and will be managed by E. L. Angus of this city who has been in the produce business for a number of years.

Having a capacity of 4,000 pounds of butter per day the new creamery will take care of the needs of this section for a number of years. A new brick building was erected on South Wall street by J. G. Martin for the firm and actual operation of the creamery will be started immediately following the opening.
