England Takes Over Offensive

Train Kills Stratford Road Worker

Dalhart, March 13.—Ernest C. Thompson, 32, employee of the construction company of Stratford, was instantly killed this morning when struck on the main street crossing by a Rock Island California train that was due at 7:46 a. m. and did not stop here.

The Panhandle division of the Rock Island reported that Thompson, bookkeeper for the Stratford Uvalde company, which is located on 10 miles of U. S. Highway 101, was on his way from a half mile east of Stratford on east toward Texhoma, Oklahoma, when he was struck by the train on its en route back to the Stratford pick-up carried a few tools. Thompson said Covington apparently hurled one of the pick-up, and the head crushed either when it struck the pavement or a Rock Island automatic signal block stand at the crossing.

Officials at Dalhart said that the train and flasher signals at the crossing were working; and that the locomotive bell and whistle were sounding. Thompson said he didn't see the accident, but arrived a few minutes afterward and was told that the signals were working and that the locomotive whistle was sounding.

The train was in charge, division officials said, of Conductor H. C. Dineen, Engineer Arch D. Dineen and Fireman Jess Enfield, both of Dalhart.

Railroad officials said one truck had pulled up and stopped at the crossing awaiting the train, before the accident occurred.

Thompson said he thought Covington originally was from Amarillo and had been in Stratford four months with the Uvalde company. He has a wife and daughter, 4 or 5 years old. His father, E. Covington, is working on the Ke & Braden highway job at Stratford and Dumas, Oklahoma, said. And his mother lives in Amarillo.

Funeral arrangements are being made at noon was still at the time of the accident.

WASHINGTON. — Behind the scenes, Henry Wallace played quite a part in the Mexican-U. S. agreement to work out joint plans for national defense.

It was Henry's job, during his trip to Mexico as Vice-President-elect, to put across some quiet diplomacy with new President Avila Camacho aimed to smooth out all U. S.-Mexican problems. This he did, and became completely "simpatico" with high Mexican officials.

However, Henry also brought back a very worrisome picture of Nazi activity in Mexico.

Being a farm boy from Iowa, and skeptical about the Zimmermann affair during World War I when the German foreign office invited Mexico into an alliance against the United States, Henry went down to Mexico as an unbeliever as far as Nazi propaganda was concerned. But he came back, his skepticism gone.

The great mass of the Mexican people and the Mexican government are sincere believers in friendship with the United States, Henry found. But a small minority, plentifully supplied with Nazi-Fascist cash, has been doing its best to poison friendly relations.

Big Oil Acreage Now Under Lease

Oil companies in the past 12 months have leased nearly 100,000 acres in Dallam county—more acreage than has ever been leased with the possible exception of 1926 when there was intense activity, and major oil development in the county seemed a certainty.

The past year has also seen a lot of core drilling and seismograph work, and it shows no marked abatement. In the past 60 days it has been evident on the Pure Oil block, and on a good deal of unleased acreage, according to local information.

A check of court house records—but not in detail—indicate 93,800 acres under lease at the present time distributed in round numbers as follows:

Pure Oil Co., 34,560 acres in a block in northeast Dallam county. Reliable reports say the Pure has an adjacent block of 30,000 to 40,000 acres lying just over the Dallam county line north in Cimarron county, Okla.

Gulf Oil Co., 47,360 acres in a checkerboard across northwest Dallam county and in the extreme northeast part.

Phillips Petroleum Co., 1920 acres checkerboard in northeast, north, and northwest portions of the county.

Other companies or individuals and their acreages, all lying in the north half of Dallam county include: Stanolind Oil Co., 2,560 acres.

Comedy Is To Be Presented Tonight

The curtain will go up at 8 o'clock tonight at the high school auditorium on "Don't Take My Penny", three-act comedy presented by the junior class of Dalhart High School. Proceeds will be used for the annual junior-senior banquet.

The plot of "Don't Take My Penny" concerns a family with a movie struck daughter. When she plans a film career, her boy friend and his chum interfere, the boy friend disguising himself as the author of a book which is to be made into a picture. When the girl is kept from getting the role it is given to another sister, and her brother gets a pretty little maid who once had been an actress.

In the leading roles are Mary Beeler, Betty Mae Carlberg, Afton Martin and Jimmy Rose.

A matinee was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

McDonald Urging Parity Price Plan

Austin — If war is the No. 1 U. S. problem, the No. 2 is stabilization of farm crop prices, asserts Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald.

He condemns "any type of government compulsory acreage control". It is impractical, and can never stabilize agriculture, he said. The farmer's initiative must not be destroyed. His government must guarantee him parity prices on domestic consumption and leave him free to produce for foreign markets at world market prices.

"Perhaps," he declared, "the public does not fully realize the seriousness of our unstabilized farm crop prices. Records show that hog prices fluctuated more than 250 per cent in 31 months. The Ft. Worth hog market Aug. 10, 1937 was $12.60 and on April 6, 1940 was $4.90.

"Cotton prices range about 70 per cent of parity. Other major farm crops likewise are under parity. No business can stand such disparity of fluctuations without bankruptcy.

"The many hog breeders who went bankrupt during the 1937-40 period, and the thousands of Texas farmers on relief today, are facts that congress must recognize".

After the war, he said, nations will be bankrupt. Struggling to become self-sufficient, they will curtail imports, and the U. S. producers will have to depend more and more on home markets.

"After all," he concluded, "the American market is the greatest market on earth, and if the farmers can be guaranteed this market, and parity prices, they will have purchasing power with which to support other essential and organized labor".

Math-Blueprint Class Assured

A class on shop mathematics and blueprint reading under the trade extension division of the state department of industrial education is virtually assured, reports O. E. Duggins, member of the local trade school advisory committee which met at the courthouse last night.

Arrangements have been made for an instructor, enough persons have signed for the class to assure interest, and application for a class will be made immediately, Mr. Duggins said. The classes are open to any adult who is employed or habitually employed, and only a "very low fee" is charged, Duggins stated.

Neal Hutton and Joe Scaling explained to the committee a new silk screen process for producing signs. A class may be started on this process if an instructor can be secured and there is enough interest. Twelve adults and one instructor are needed to form one class, and if enough are interested in any one subject, they should contact W. L. Cotton, committee chairman.

Who Knows Dalhart Population Of 1906?

Who knows how many people Dalhart had in 1906?

J. N. Johnson, former postmaster and father of Lyle Johnson, Mrs. O. V. Hartshorn, and Mrs. I. C. LeGer of Dalhart, is out in California and is writing some kind of a history of Dalhart, according to W. H. Johnson (no relation) who was asked to furnish figures on the 1906 population.

J. N. Johnson is a pioneer Dalhartan and ought to know that figure, said W. H. Johnson yesterday. "However, I find that a good many of the other old-timers don't know it. I'm going to ask the George Walkers".

Dalhart was founded in 1901—a year too late to get into the federal decennial census. The next one, of course, was in 1910, so the 1906 population will have to be estimated.

With a dramatic surge of power, Britain stormed into the offensive last night and today with punishing aerial raids over Germany and occupied territory.

Last night's terrific assault included the Reich's foremost citadel—Berlin itself—where Germans acknowledged 16 killed and 37 injured. It was the first time in 82 days that Berlin had been raided.

Hamburg and Bremen felt the fury of the RAF, as did South Norway, Holland, Belgium and France. Many fires were started, and British claimed military objectives were hit. A torpedo plane also sank a German destroyer, London said.

Meantime, Britain sprang some kind of new defense against German night raiders and seriously crippled a heavy drive toward Liverpool and Birkenhead. Nine German bombers—a new high—were shot down last night. Nineteen have been shot down in the past three nights—an amazing gain.

Germans, replying to the English story, claimed ten British bombers were shot down over Germany and occupied territory last night. The British mentioned no losses. Nazis also claimed that Liverpool and Birkenhead were successfully raided and that one of Britain's most important aluminum plants was fired in North Scotland.

There is still no official confirmation of a British expeditionary force in Greece or in process of being landed there. However, reports from Yugoslavia and elsewhere maintain that Britain is moving, or has moved in at least ten crack divisions—about 180,000 men—to aid in defense of Athens and Salonika. Some of these troops are less

NO-STRIKE LAW ASKED

Austin, March 13.—Addressing a joint session of the house and senate, Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel today asked for "a conservative law" to prevent strikes and lockouts in any defense plant in Texas.

There is so much racketeering, fifth column and un-American activities, he said, that doubtless many legislators will want to go beyond the provisions proposed. He said he hoped they wouldn't because, above all things, he wanted to be fair to all interests.

His proposal, he said, would permit a man, when he has a job, to go to work "without paying a fee to some racketeer," without the permission of some other party; or without joining some organization.

It also provides for a "cooling off period." There would have to be 60-day notice of a strike or lockout, and only two pickets could be used. That is enough, he said, for peaceful picketing. More might lead to violence.

He asked immediate action on the bill. It is not, he said, an attempt to usurp rights of the federal government. The government is swamped with tremendous tasks and certainly, he said, Texas ought to do what it can to help.

"Testing Whether That Nation Can Long Endure"

The tall, bewhiskered gentleman who uttered those words so many years ago little realized that they, with others of that now famous speech, would be repeated by hundreds and thousands in the years to come; that orators in our state and national capitols would use them to express their own opinions; that school children would repeat them in oratorical contests; and that writers and publishers would have them placed in print in a thousand different ways.

Now we are engaged in another great world strife, determining whether nations, like the one referred to in that immortal speech, can long endure. Our President has been empowered to give every aid possible to suffering nations who are fighting for the right to rule their own destinies.

It is not for us to here determine whether that policy is the proper one. It is for us rather to dedicate ourselves to the task of cooperating with our leaders in furthering the interests of this and other nations who, like us, desire nothing more than the right to peace and happiness.

This has been the policy of our nation since its birth. Before an issue is settled we debate among ourselves its merits, but after the voice of the people has been heard, through the medium of our system of government, the die is cast and we stand united in one purpose.

The same policy has been followed faithfully by this firm through its many years of service to this territory. Individually we may have differed in our ideas on the best methods of producing in this territory; on the type and kind of machinery and man power to use; and on the crops to be produced, but our people have stood united in the firm belief that ours is a country that has great possibilities, has proven its value over a period of years, and, while suffering many hardships, has emerged from each stronger than before. And as this particular section of the U. S. has endured so will this nation.

In fact, there were some indications that the Nazis might even go to such lengths as outright sabotage or damage to the United States in such a way that Mexico would get the blame, thereby stirring up animosity between the countries.

NOTE.—Last year $2,000,000 in U. S. greenbacks was taken to Mexico from New Orleans by Count Roberti of the Italian legation, presumably for propaganda purposes. Count Roberti is the son-in-law of Ogden Hammond, ex-ambassador to Spain and a leader of the move to cooperate with Spanish Dictator Franco.

GUARDING THE CAPITOL

If you visit the United States capitol in the near future don't carry an isolationist banner or anything more explosive than a cigarette lighter, or you may wind up in the brig. Tightest police restrictions since World war days soon will be put into effect at the capitol building.

Under a plan devised by Speaker Sam Rayburn, Senator Harry F. Byrd, chairman of the Senate Rules Committee, and Arthur E. Cook of the Capitol Police Board, all visitors will be required to check packages before entering the building.

Several thousand numbered checks were ordered last week from the Government Printing Office, to be used at special booths at every entrance to the building. Furthermore, strange visitors will be asked to remove their overcoats, just in case they are concealing something of interest to the public.

Meantime, the safety of members of Congress as well as the protection of the historic building itself is being entrusted more and more to experienced hands, and less to tenderfoot college students who double in brass as Capitol policemen. Veteran bluecoats from the District of Columbia force and FBI agents now handle more obstreperous troublemakers during the day, and guard the building exclusively from midnight until 8 A. M.

Two things hastened the decision to tighten police regulations at the seat of our government. First were the recent disturbances by demonstrators against the lend-lease bill. Second was the fact that a member of the regular Capitol cop force was found asleep late at night at the only entrance to the building. Another was caught dozing at the Capitol's power plant.

A LABOR OPM

What the President has in mind to cure strikes in national defense industries is a labor board under the OPM.

It will consist of nine or eleven members (exact number still undecided), made up of a panel of three or four representatives of management, another panel of the same number from labor, and three representatives of the "public." The last group will be its real work.

This new labor board will be independent of the OPM but will work in close conjunction with it. Object is to relieve the OPM of grappling with labor disputes, so it can concentrate on expediting production.

The board will have no compulsory arbitration powers—vehemently opposed by both AFL and CIO. Its authority will rest chiefly on the force of public opinion.

In the event of a strike, or threatened strike, the board will hear both sides and propose terms for a settlement. If one of the disputants refuses to accept, then the board will make its findings public. Roosevelt believes that such a threat would be sufficient to induce acquiescence.

However, if this "voluntary" method doesn't work, he may later ask Congress to give the board compulsory powers.

Various names are under consideration for appointment to the board, including Dean Lloyd Garrison of the Wisconsin University law school (chairman of the old National Labor Board), and Dean James Landis of the Harvard Law school (one-time chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.)

NO LEGISLATION NEEDED

The President's idea is a compromise between the War Labor Board of World War days, and the 40-day cooling-off plan of OPM Director Knudsen and Under Secretary of War Patterson; also of several other proposals.

All these plans would have required legislation, which Roosevelt wants to avoid. He feels that the defense labor problem is more annoying than serious, and that the best way to handle it is by voluntary rather than coercive methods.

That explains why early in the defense program he laid down the rule that the War and Navy Departments and the National Labor Relations Board were to keep strictly out of defense labor conflicts and let Sidney Hillman and the U. S. Conciliation Service handle them.

Note:—OPM insiders credit Knudsen's sudden advocacy of the 40-day cooling-off plan to John Biggers, Toledo glass manufacturer who is head of the OPM Production Division; and his friend Fred Eaton, $1-a-year anti-New Deal Wall Street lawyer, who tried to get the secretaryship of the OPM but was slapped down by Roosevelt.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Walter Reuther, dynamic young United Auto Workers vice president, has had several private conferences with OPM bosses Knudsen and Hillman on his proposal to use auto plants for mass production of fighting planes. The informal luncheons started by Vice President Henry Wallace to study Spanish have prospered and grown. The group has expanded to sixteen, meeting daily during the noon hour. Taking a tip from Wallace, the Department of Agriculture graduate school is now offering nine courses relating to Latin America.

Greece reported today that one of its 1350-ton destroyers had sunk an Italian submarine that was trying to attack a British convoy in the Aegean sea. This led to speculation that Britain is still moving troops into Greece. They also recalled that London reported March 6 that a British destroyer had sunk an Italian sub trying to attack a convoy in the Aegean. They reason that maybe that convoy also was carrying troops.

Turkey doubts that many British troops have moved from Egypt into Greece, because, she says, they couldn't be spared. However, London has already admitted that a big force of Australians and New Zealanders had been dispatched from Britain to the Middle East. That could mean they went to Greece or that they replaced troops moved from Egypt to Greece.

Observers have no doubt now that Russia is backing Turkey and that Turkey is backing Greece and the British in the Balkans. They reason that Britain would not move into Greece except on pledges of continued Greek resistance, and pledges from Turkey to protect the British rear and flank. Turkey, they say, would not be giving such far-reaching commitments without an O.K. from Uncle Joe Stalin.

Hitler, meanwhile, continues to have trouble in occupied countries. Uprisings and disturbances continue in Holland and Norway and their puppet governors are threatening brutal reprisals.

Premier Mussolini is reportedly still personally directing the big-scale Italian counter-attack in Albania, but Greeks say they are still holding their positions, taking a few new ones, and inflicting staggering losses.

The U. S. has again warned all its citizens to clear out of France, but has given no explanation. French Moroccans have served notice on the world that they will fight any aggressor; and there are reports that Britain with aid of the Turks and Free French forces may move into French Syria to prevent Hitler taking it and Morocco as bases against the U. S.

Lord Beaverbrook, who has been head of British aircraft production, may be made chief of the shipping bureau because of the sea crisis shortly expected, it was said today.

In Washington today, Secretary of Labor Perkins, and Defense Chiefs Knudsen and Hillman submitted to President Roosevelt a joint recommendation for a super mediation board to handle defense strikes.

It was also announced that the Army and RFC have plans for taking over between $300 million and $350 million in British war orders in this country. This would enable them to more quickly replace military supplies that have been or will be released immediately under the new British Aid law.

Time For Business And Labor To Join Draftees

Cameron. — The time has come when every citizen of the United States must dedicate his abilities and talents, regardless of what they may be, to the service of his country unselfishly until the present crisis in international affairs has passed, says Hubert M. Harrison, vice president and general manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

"We have talked about the privileges of democracy, and enjoyed those privileges to the utmost," Harrison said. "And many of us have forgotten that those privileges were won for us, in another day, by other men, through hardship, blood and toll. Now the time has come for us to regard the duties of democracy, as well as its privileges. We have lived in the shade of the Tree of Liberty, planted by other men; now the tree needs watering, and it is up to us to water it, or see it perish."

"It is hard for me to understand how our government can draft one set of our citizens, put them in a training camp and drill them at $1 a day, while permitting another group of highly paid civilian workers, enjoying defense-boom wages, to go out on strike and impede our nation's defense program," Harrison said.

"Business, equally, must make its contribution to national defense unselfishly. If we stop to argue about how much profit business shall get out of the defense program, it may be that there will not be any business left for us to defend."

Plans Underway For Dance Class

Plans are underway to start classes in folk dancing here under a WPA recreation project, according to Lawrence Brotherton, Amarillo, district supervisor. Such classes are proving popular over this entire area, with 1,600 persons enrolled in Amarillo, some 500 in Canyon and over 700 in Pampa.

Dances offered include old-fashioned square dances, reels, waltzes, schottisches, varsoviennas, polkas, Irish jigs and old-time party dances. They are open to the public at no charge.

Of all recreation projects, the Dalhart craft classes show exceptional progress, Mr. Brotherton said. Local craft workers have produced fine work in a shorter time than in another locality, he stated.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Date Set For Scout First Aid Contest

Date of the Dallam-Hartley counties Boy Scout district first aid contest has been set for Saturday, April 5, announces C. L. Dunlap, field Scout executive. The contest, open to all Scout troops in the district, will be held on the courthouse lawn, and will be open to the public.

J. T. Ellison, chairman of the health and safety committee, will be in charge of arrangements, assisted by Dick Coon, chairman of camping and activities. Four Dalhart troops, one from Stratford, and probably troops from Texline and Channing will participate. Winning team will represent the district at a Llano Estacado Council contest in Amarillo late in April. Five Scouts will represent each troop in the contest. Red Cross certificates of participation will be presented each troop that takes part, and the winner will receive a handsome silver loving cup.

Twelve men having advanced Red Cross training are now working with the local troops and picking teams.

W. H. Johnsons Round Out 33 Years In City

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johnson have just rounded out 33 years of living in Dalhart.

Mr. Johnson recalled yesterday that he landed in Dalhart Mar. 2, 1908, coming from Brunswick, Mo. He brought along his household goods in a railroad car.

There wasn't a vacant house in Dalhart — then a booming little town seven years old. But a real estate man had one under construction at the corner of Eighth and Keeler Sts. Johnson bought it, made a few changes in the plans and owns and lives in it today.

"I've always owned it, but I haven't always lived in it", he said yesterday. "I was out on my farm part of the time, and lived elsewhere in Dalhart some of the time".

He recalled that when he bought the house there were no other residences beyond it. "I was out in the country," he said, "and friends asked me why, if I wanted to live in town, I didn't buy a house that was in town".

Eighth and Keeler now, of course, is right on the fringe of the main business district, and a good many suburban establishments are beyond it. A major portion of South Dalhart, including the high school plant, are now beyond it.

A few weeds grow in every garden

Among the thousands of decent law-abiding beer retail establishments in America there may be a few disreputable "joints."

While it is the brewers' responsibility to brew good beer and the retailers' responsibility to sell beer under wholesome conditions, nevertheless the brewing industry is concerned about these undesirable places and wants them cleaned up.

We want them cleaned up because they endanger your right to enjoy good beer . . . and our right to make it.

We want them cleaned up because they endanger the 31,165 jobs and $22,076,182 payroll created by beer in Texas since re-legalization. Beer contributed $2,273,968.64 last year in taxes in this state.

These benefits are worth preserving. You can help us, if you will, by (1) patronizing only the reputable, legal places that sell beer and by (2) reporting any law violations to the duly constituted law enforcement authorities.

IN THE ARMY NOW!
WHY AND HOW
By S. T. Williamson

Should you hear some member of a little group of serious thinkers hold forth on "snobbery" and "caste system" in the Army, tell him the story of nearly two-score married officers and non-commissioned officers at Fort Richardson, Alaska. Last June this nearly completed Army post at the head of Cook Inlet was nothing but landscape and scenery. Today some 3000 members of the Alaska Defense Force are garrisoned there—a number almost equal to the population of Anchorage, four miles away.

Until the middle of last November the troops lived in tents, enjoying two feet of snow and zero weather. Now they are in wooden temporary barracks, but there is still no army housing at Fort Richardson for the families of officers and non-coms. Those who wanted their homefolks with them sought accommodation in Anchorage which, with defense construction, is experiencing its first boom since gold rush days.

A boom town means high rents which few married officers and non-enlisted men can afford. Fourteen officers and twenty-six non-coms who refused to be licked borrowed money for construction materials from the Federal Housing Administration. They performed their regular military duties, then in their spare time they doffed their regimentals and turned carpenters. Sundays and Saturday afternoons and other times long into the night, these commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the United States Army labored with their own hands in sub-Arctic weather to put roofs over the heads of their families. They are proud of what they have done, and so is everyone else.

Now, let's look at the mail. F. J. R., Pittsburgh, Pa.: I am eligible for the draft and interested in music and play a saxophone. If I am taken can I continue my playing while in service to keep up with my music?

That depends upon how well you play. If you're good and saxophonists are not a dime-a-dozen at your camp, you may be assigned to the band. But if you are a beginner, your practicing will depend upon the tolerance of your neighbors. A. L., Minneapolis, Minn.: I am a lawyer and I understand that before being drafted the government allows five months to professional men to clear up pending matters. Is that correct?

Neither the law nor the Selective Service regulations make this mandatory. The decision is up to the local board, but it cannot defer on occupational grounds for more than six months at a time.

Today's Don't: Don't knit socks and sweaters for someone in the Army unless you have his measurements.

Babson Is Concerned About Indebtedness

By ROGER BABSON

Park, Fla., March 13.—Brought up in a frugal household which debt was considered my father always did the marketing, going personally to the corner grocery and paying a young man, I can remember a few bills, except for water, taxes, coming into the house. When these, my father paid taking back a formal receipt. My father maintained a credit balance, but drew his sparingly. He was a generalist; but he had a healthy respect for the value of a dollar. As of his influence and example I have never borrowed a penny in my life either for business or personal reasons.

The Effect of Debt

vation that the borrowing of money, either by an individual or by a corporation, can result in terrible consequences. This is likewise true from a national point of view. Note the effect upon individuals of other countries when inflation followed upon the heels of a broken-down debt structure. Indebtedness of any kind, whether of a social or a financial nature, is best to be avoided. Certainly, in its wake can come discontent, distress, poverty, and unemployment.

Today, much of our national prosperity, as reflected by larger pay rolls, higher wages, increased retail trade, and a generally larger volume of business, is based upon our expanding debts. Some of our needs are legitimate, real, and economically sound; but others are false and should be abandoned. But note the word "expanding." It is not the debt which gives us good business, but the continued increasing of the debt. Herein lies the danger of borrowing. Read Romans 13th chapter, eighth verse, and see what the Bible has to say on this subject.

Where Do We Stand?

Newspaper readers know that the limit of the national debt has been recently raised from 49 to 65 billion dollars. The latest figures available for the actual size of the national debt put it at $45,876,972,769 as of January 31. The per capita share of this debt amounts to $346.48 for every man, woman, and child in the country, or about $1500 per family. It may be of some interest to note that on Aug. 31, 1919, when World War I was at its peak, the national debt amounted to only $26,596,701,648, the per capita share being $250.18.

Private debt now also far exceeds the existing and contemplated national debt. The long-term private debt amounts to about 75 billions and includes 42 billions of mortgages; 12 billions of railroad debts; 13 billions of public utility

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

If Germany loses the war, she will repudiate her debt and forget it; while if she wins, she will make us pay it. Great Britain will follow a similar program. But you say that Uncle Sam will not let Britain lose. Very well, I agree; but still the war could end in a stalemate with a compromise peace. This is very likely. Then what will become of war debts? The majority of people know the danger of private debts; but the public debt is of little concern to the average individual. I am very sorry for this.

Are We Willing to Sacrifice?

In plain English, our national debt should rightly be measured against our willingness to produce and save real assets. This, in turn, is contingent upon our moral eagerness to work longer and harder in raising our national income to a point where its tax load will carry and even reduce the debt. Real assets, however, do not include war supplies! The safety valve of our national debt is controlled by our willingness to make sacrifices, by working harder and longer to reduce private, corporate, and municipal debts. We must recognize individual responsibilities or be content with our lot in the deluge which may eventually result.

Private, corporate, and public debt should be kept to a minimum when our national debt is increasing. Our war "prosperity" should enable many to get out of debt for the first time in years. By all means pay cash during the remainder of the war. Do not get messed up with instalments. However, the main thought I want to drive home is that it is a choice between harder work, longer hours, and lower wages during the defense effort—or else repudiation in some form.

debts; and 8 billions of industrial corporate debt. The additional short-term private debt is represented by 24 billions of bank loans; 10 billions of retail credit extensions; and 3 billions of loans on life insurance policies. Altogether, we have a private debt of 112 billions. Our combined municipal and state public debt is 20 billions. Adding our national, private, and public debts, we get a grand total of 178 billions, or about $6000 per family.

Are Government Bonds Safe?

The Federal government will shortly announce a new loan. More and larger ones will follow. I am continually being asked if these new bonds will be paid. My answer is, "Yes" because the Federal government can print paper money to pay them off. This is something that states, municipalities, corporations, and individuals cannot do. But how much this paper money will be worth is another matter. If the war lasts very long, it will not be worth much.

A constant increase in national, city, or municipal debt is just as bad as an increase in personal debt. This especially applies to war debt.

MONEYMOON PREFERRED^{II} by May Christie till you see where I'm taking you, Jean," Walter said, as he veiled his eyes. "We're going to the home of my parents who are celebrating their golden wedding to-our Girl of 1890. Isn't that fact. I'm taking you there where there is such a thing as a honeymoon falling in love and staying that way!"

Walter had shouted: "Darling, I only knew I'm all for that!" But the perverse imp that directed her conversation when she was with Walter made her reply: "Huh? I've been in and out of it myself. As the jitterbugs say, the honeymoon and the reeds got hot, but it turned out to be only a clam-

"Funny child!" "It's a crazy world, Walter!" "Your lips trembled, and to her annoyance two tears not shed in her eyes, but spilled over the thick lashes helped make her the Grade our Girl she now hated.

were in the country now. He drove onto a side road. It was winter. He drew the car to the side of the road and took her in his arms and kissed her. To Jean it seemed that everything stopped in a heavenly, breath-taking moment. He kissed her before, hadn't he left her for Gaby.

It meant nothing you could do today. He thought she ex-them. He wasn't going to kiss her again. She pushed away.

he said: "I love you, Jean," and she had believed him. But just his misconception of a girl.

He despised the rôle. But it had been her things. You learned to show that you were hurt.

He called "the sophisticated" and let the men get away with anything. Hide your heart.

She managed a brisk laugh. "On the way back, she told him: 'It isn't so bad after all. The old marriages like that, your business would suffer.'

He said quietly: "I don't handle divorce cases." "You say you always try to bring your sparring clients together to kiss and make up! That's sweet of you, Walter, but isn't it rather poor business from your own side?"

"Money isn't everything, my dear. Salvaging people's happiness gives me a far greater kick than the biggest fee that ever came out of Reno or Florida."

"Whoops! Aren't you the philanthropist, old dear?"

"No. I use common sense. I tell people they have to work at their marriages to win happiness. It's a truism they too often neglect."

"Well, I'm sort of a stepchild myself, and it isn't such a picnic at that, even though Rupert means to be kind. He is such a watchdog nowadays. Gaby has the freedom to do anything she pleases, because she's a visitor. And she's been much more tactful with Rupert than I have," Jean added honestly.

"You've been mighty good to that girl. She's been with you quite a while. And she's down in Florida with your mother now, Jean?"

"Yes."

"And you're left with your step-father?"

"Correct. But I'd as soon be up here. And it's nice being out with you today, Walter."

"You prefer a country drive to night clubs and bars?"—quizzically.

"Certainly I do. You always did have a wrong impression of me, Walter."—emphatically.

"I may sound awfully old-fashioned," he went on, "but the girl I marry—I'd like her to have some of the old-fashioned virtues, Jean. For instance, in addition to spunk—courage—I'd want her to be absolutely honest with me. Nothing hidden. It seems few girls are like that."

"But I am." Then she remembered the subterfuges that Gaby had forced her into. "At least, I try to be," she sighed.

They dined at a country inn. Had a lovely time. Never had he been so kind, so attentive. She was his—as he was now hers, she felt, even though he hadn't, in so many words, asked her to marry him yet.

She saw him off on a train for Pittsburgh around nine. He would be gone, on business, only a few days. He would write her. She was to meet him on his return.

So back to Park Avenue that evening, in a happy dream. Treves opened the door.

"The master is dining out, Miss Garrett." The butler looked worried. "There are two persons waiting to see you. They would not leave."

Fear caught her. Green, the escaped convict? And who else?

The men were in the anteroom by the front door. Plain-clothes men.

It was neither Gaby nor Madame Armand Blanchard they asked for.

"You are Miss Jean Garrett?" "I am. What is it? What do you want with me?"

"Where were you last night?" "Motoring with friends." Her voice was dry in her throat.

"Ever know a man named Green?" "I believe I've heard of him. I think I read in the paper that he was in jail," she said.

The detective shot out, staring hard at Jean: "His body was found this morning in the woods at Lake Placid, near a burned shack named La Vilette."

The blood ebbed from her face. She put a hand out to steady herself against the closed door.

"What do you know about it, Miss Garrett?"

"Nothing," she faltered.

"We suspect foul play regarding his death."

She made a mighty effort to pull herself together. "Why do you ask me about it?"

"Because the young woman who was seen running out of the cabin, apparently followed by him, answers your description."

"That's nonsense! I don't know what you're talking about!"

"Finally, you got to the railroad station. This fell from your bag as you boarded the train." The detective produced her driver's license, with her name and address on it.

"We've checked up with the porter and conductor."

The door opened and her step-father came in. Jean stammered: "There's been such a stupid mistake."

"What is it? What do you want of my daughter?" Rupert demanded.

The man repeated his story. "An escaped convict named Green was found dead this morning, sir, in the woods outside the cabin of one Armand Blanchard who was not there. He is tubercular, and had passed the night at the sanitarium. A young woman who has been going to the cabin and passing herself off as Madame Armand Blanchard was seen running from the cabin, which was afire, and the man, who is now dead, running after her. Later on, she accidentally dropped her driver's license at the railroad station. It's in the name of Jean Garrett. Inquiries at the nearest garage brought out the fact that a car registered in Miss Garrett's name has, over several week ends in the past, stood outside the cabin, and also been serviced by the local garage."

Rupert looked stunned. "Is this true?" He turned to Jean.

She lost her head. "No! No! There's some mad mistake!"

"Sorry, sir, but we have to search her room." The men had a search warrant.

renewed hope that the legislature will find it possible to fill the college's request for a $260,000 science building.

Towns and cities throughout the Panhandle have adopted resolutions and sent them to state legislators strongly urging the improvement if at all possible. It would be the first new state-constructed building for the college in 13 years.

President Hill pointed out to legislators that the Panhandle has developed remarkably in the past 10 to 15 years, and that public schools had found it necessary to expand their plants. Since the college has not had new buildings, it is seriously overcrowded, especially in the science department.

The Dalhart chamber of commerce recently adopted resolutions urging the expansion.
