This map shows the location of all the German consular offices in the United States, ordered closed by President Roosevelt by July 10. The move was the most drastic step the U. S. has taken since relations were broken off with the old time Imperial Germany in 1917. The German embassy in Washington is the only official German agency in the United States.

World Watching Russo-Nazi Show

Explosive tensions, auguring possible far-reaching developments in the current world conflict, continue to take the spotlight from actual fighting. U. S.-German tension held the stage yesterday; while today international attention is centered on increasingly strained relations between Germany and Russia.

Germany yesterday concluded a friendship pact with Turkey, apparently in an effort to loosen the close relations existing between Turkey and Russia and Turkey and Britain.

However, disclosure of all details reveals that the pact is not such a stunning Nazi diplomatic victory as first appeared. In fact, many believe that Chancellor Hitler concluded it more to impress Russia than for anything else, and that later he will renew demands for Turkish concessions provided he can bring the Soviet to terms.

Turkish spokesmen, explaining the pact, declared that under it Germany and Turkey will not oppose one another in anyway. However, in the same breath they said the treaty would not weaken any existing obligations, which apparently means that Turkey has not had to abandon her position as Britain's non-belligerent ally.

The spokesmen also said that each nation would respect the other's territorial integrity. This was taken to mean that Germany could not send troops across Turkey to strike at Britain's Near East bastions.

However, the two nations have agreed to intimate economic cooperation, and there are indications that Hitler will now help engineer an Italian-Turkish friendship pact.

Britain claimed that Hitler got much less from Turkey than he demanded, which gives credence to the view that he agreed to the pact in an effort to force Russia to terms.

Reports, still unconfirmed at noon today, have been circulating for more than 24 hours in Turkey and much of Europe, claiming that Nazi columns have struck eastward from Germany and have pierced the Russia border at 15 points.

It is generally conceded in Europe that Hitler has demanded that Russia deliver to him all the ex-portable surplus of the Ukraine wheat crop; and give him direction of Russia's mines, railways and oil industry. Russia's agreement would make it Germany's economic servant, and many believe Stalin is maneuvering for time to prepare his defenses.

Yugoslav diplomatic officers were ordered out of Russia when Germany took over their country, but before they left they asserted that Stalin told them a German thrust at his nation might come this summer. He also reportedly said Russia would be ready for anything by August.

Rumania, directed by Germany, assertedly is demanding that Russia return Bessarabia.

British have virtually stopped their assault on Axis forces in the Salum sector and are devoting full attention to the Syrian campaign, bent apparently on a quick windup.

Damascus reportedly has rejected an opportunity to surrender and is now the object of a full-blown attack by the British and Free French forces. British say it as well as Bierut will fall by this weekend. Free French believe it will fall sooner.

Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, recently made U. S. oil coordinator, today told officials of the industry in a conference he called at Washington that his assignment is not to crack down on anybody.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Loewen and children, Rovenia, Doris and Herman, returned Tuesday night from funeral services for Mrs. Loewen's father, O. M. Ham, of Dodge City, Kansas.

Mr. Ham, 67, died last Sunday after serious asthma and heart disease for seven weeks.

Services were held Tuesday from the Dunsford funeral chapel in Dodge City with a Church of Christ minister in charge. Burial was in Dodge City cemetery.

Survivors, besides Mrs. Loewen, include his wife, three other daughters and one son.

Roosevelt Strong For USO; Calls On America

President Roosevelt himself feels that the USO is so important that it should have the full support of every man, woman and child in America.

He has personally asked every American to give his bit—whether it's a dime or a dollar—to put USO programs into operation.

President Roosevelt has asked it to take charge of and operate an adequate national recreation program for military training centers and defense concentrations.

The President has pointed out that many of these centers and concentrations are in or near small towns which do not have big enough recreation facilities to meet the greatly increased needs.

The federal government has agreed to furnish the necessary recreation buildings and equipment, and has asked the USO to staff and operate them for at least a year. This will require at least $10,700,000 for the 360 necessary recreation units.

E. B. Germany, state chairman, has asked Elmer Elliott to serve as Dallam county chairman and be responsible for the Dallam quota. Elliott has enlisted the aid of others who will help him conduct the campaign. They will be his dinner guests at 7:00 tonight in the De Soto banquet room, when final plans for the drive will be made.

The USO embraces six national service organizations, including the YMCA and YWCA. The six are combined in one program so that there will be no overlapping of effort, and so that every dollar put into the USO program will bring the maximum benefit to the boys in uniform who are doing more than a bit to make the nation safe from all aggressors.

John Steel Will Go To Army Camp

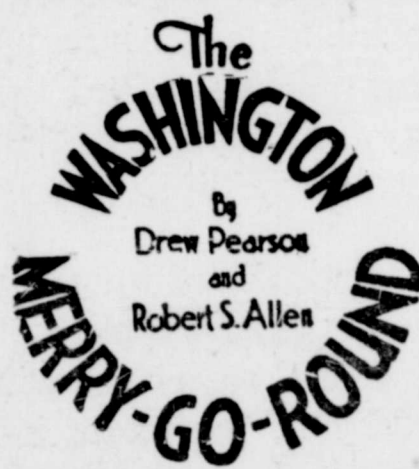

Lt. John Steel, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Steel of Stratford and nephew of L. B. Steel, Mrs. Charley Steel, Mrs. O. H. Finch and Mrs. Joe Storey of Dalhart, is to report for Army training at Camp Wolters at Mineral Wells tomorrow.

Born in Stratford July 29, 1919 of Scotch-English and Welsh-Irish blood, young Steel graduated from Stratford high school in the spring of 1936 and the next fall entered Texas A. & M. college at Bryan.

He graduated there June 7 with degrees in animal husbandry and agriculture. By majoring in animal husbandry, young Steel is following more or less in the footsteps of his father, who is a successful livestock farmer.

In Stratford high school, Steel's outstanding extra-curricular activities were athletics and livestock judging.

The next day after his Texas A. & M. graduation, Steel was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Infantry and ordered to report to Camp Wolters.

Washington — In any showdown between the giant army of Adolf Hitler and the equally huge battalions of Josef Stalin, U. S. Military experts are betting on the Nazis.

Russia's army for years was the largest in the world, even today may be somewhat bigger than the German. Furthermore, it first developed many military tricks now made so effective by the Nazis, such as parachute troops and the mass use of tanks.

Furthermore, the Russian army is well-equipped, well-trained and well-disciplined, though not nearly as well mechanized as the German.

However, Hitler has two big advantages over Stalin. One is the German genius for organization and efficient transportation. The other is the fact that Germany can send lightning strokes against Russia in two or three different areas; and to defend against these the Russian army has to be scattered over a tremendous area instead of concentrated in two or three places.

For instance, U. S. experts figure Hitler will strike at Stalin from three directions:

1. Via Finland toward Leningrad. Already General Mannerheim, who hates Russia, has been in conference with German generals and for some time has been ready to cooperate with Germany in a drive on Leningrad.

2. On the other hand, Germany might strike from Warsaw through Brest-Litovsk into Polish Russia.

3. Finally Hitler might move from Rumania through the Ukraine to Kiev and Odessa. This would be the deadliest attack of all, aimed to cut Russia off from her main southern outlet to the sea. Already German troop transports are reported at Black Sea ports of Rumania and Bulgaria, waiting to strike at Russian oil

Let's Get Together On The Weather!

"By George, all this rain would sure be fine if a fellow could divide it up and have it when he wanted it." This statement coming from a farm friend served to remind us that the weather has always been difficult to control.

Right now, strange as it may seem, there is a demand for dry weather. We can't remember this happening in the Panhandle before. There have been times when we would have liked to see so much mud in the fields and on the highways that it would have been impossible to get a Farmall more than ten feet away from its stall. And we've never seen a Farmall bogged down in Texas Panhandle mud.

Now we don't suggest a cure-all for the weather conditions here or anywhere else. We may have tried to make the weather suitable for all occasions but must confess that we've never had a great deal of success. We've talked the weather over with almost as many farmers and ranchers as there are in Dallam and Hartley counties and still never noticed any outstanding results.

The suggestion we would like to make about the weather is that if you can't control the clouds it might be wise to try a little control over the wind. We always have wind and when we harness it up we realize just how important it is.

If you will harness the wind to an Aermotor Windmill you'll find good use for this free power so abundant in this country because an Aermotor pumps in the slightest breeze; therefore it delivers more water. Its construction eliminates costly repairs, "the first cost is last cost with an Aermotor."

The light-running wheel, the adjustable stroke, adjustable brake, all combine to make this windmill an investment that proves profitable. Every working part is constantly oiled. There is no complicated oil pump to cause trouble. An Aermotor requires oiling ONLY once a year.

And that is our suggestion for controlling the weather.

HARRY BRIDGES DEPORTATION

The Harry Bridges deportation case in San Francisco is now closed and awaits decision by the trial judge. Only he knows what the outcome will be. But near the very close something happened which nearly upset the Government's appellate. Richard Frankenstein, CIO Auto Worker official, who tried to stop the North American Aviation strike, was put on the stand as a Government witness.

The idea of having Frankenstein testify was proposed by Director of Immigration Lemuel Schofield in charge of the deportation proceedings. But it was opposed by FBI Assistant Director Earl Connelley, who asked if Schofield knew what Frankenstein was going to say on the witness stand. Schofield indicated that the United Auto Worker Vice-President was going to tell about Bridges' communist background, but admitted that he had not gone into the details of his testimony.

"I'm absolutely against any witness going on the stand until he has reviewed his testimony in advance," Connelley remonstrated.

So they talked with Frankenstein, who, however, declined to reveal his testimony. Later Connelley saw Frankenstein talking with Bridges in the corridor and warned Schofield to be careful. The Immigration director, however, insisted that he be put on the stand.

Almost immediately after he was sworn in Frankenstein pulled a prepared statement out of his pocket and proceeded to berate the Justice Department for trying Harry Bridges twice.

While Government attorneys rose to object, Frankenstein pounded the Government all over the lot. But the trial judge would not stop him because he was a Government's own witness.

So Frankenstein proceeded calmly to the end of his prepared statement, stepped down from the witness chair, put on his hat and caught a plane for Los Angeles to join the North American Aviation negotiations.

AUTO SHOWDOWN

Behind that demand of Undersecretary of War Patterson for a 50 cent slash in auto production is a head-on showdown in a long undercover inner Defense battle between the "business as usual" boys and the military chiefs.

It never leaked out, but before Patterson sent his letter to OPM insisting on the auto cut, the two groups clashed face to face at a meeting in his office.

Among those present at this meeting was OPM Director General Knudsen. The former General Motors head was told bluntly that unless auto production was drastically curtailed it would be impossible to obtain the steel and alloys needed for the greatly expanded plane, ship, freight car and pipe line programs. One or the other had to be sacrificed; there wasn't enough metal for both autos and defense.

The military chiefs backed their argument with the following telling figures:

Despite the 20 per cent auto cut three months ago, the industry has been making new production records for weeks. Last week it established an all-time high with 13,000 cars. At present rates of production the industry is operating on a 11,000,000-ton steel consuming basis.

This tonnage almost exactly coincides with the steel shortage which OPM experts several weeks ago said would face the country.

Military chiefs also argued that there was no real need for this huge auto output since over 10,000,000 good used cars are in the hands of dealers. They also claimed that in addition to taking urgently needed steel and alloys from defense, the auto industry was using tens of thousands of badly needed skilled craftsman and machine tools.

Kuhns Funeral Is To Be In Clayton

Clayton. — The body of Billy Kuhns, Jr., about 22, will be returned to Clayton for burial, it has been learned, but it probably will not arrive for a month or six weeks.

Young Kuhns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Kuhns, pioneer Clayton residents, died of pneumonia last week in Hawaii. He was stationed there with the U. S. armed forces.

Kuhns was also widely known in Dalhart, where about two years ago he was connected with the Dalhart Gas company.

WORLD WATCHING—

He said his assignment is to work with the industry on a mutually helpful basis, and that agreements are to be carried out under the honor system. He emphasized that No. 1 problem is to prevent the threatened fuel shortage in the East which results from transfer of 50 oil tankers from Gulf-Atlantic routes to England.

President Roosevelt today accepted in absentia an honorary Doctor of Civil Law degree from Harvard University. He had intended to be present, but at the last minute business kept him in Washington. His aide, Col. Edwin Watson, accepted for him and read a brief speech prepared by the President. In part, it declared that the American people would rather die on their feet than live on their knees.

President Roosevelt today also proclaimed an extraordinary emergency in the Canal Zone, Alaska and Porto Rico and by executive order suspended the eight-hour day for workmen engaged on defense projects in those areas. The eight-hour day had previously been suspended on some bases secured from Britain in return for 50 over-age U. S. destroyers.

The President also disclosed that he had accepted, effective July 1, the resignation of Clarence A. Dykstra as chairman of the Defense Mediation Board. He did not indicate a successor. Wm. H. Davis, vice-chairman, has often been acting chairman.

Following five weeks of negotiations, an agreement was reached today among federal representatives, industry and unions under which strikes and lockouts in the shipbuilding industry in the Charleston area are barred for two years.

The wage scale was fixed for the first year at $1.07 an hour. At the end of that time and each six months thereafter it will be adjusted, if necessary, to conform with living costs.

Under the agreement men will get double pay for Sundays and holidays and for overtime on repair work. For overtime on new construction they will get time and a half.

has been boosted, it will be easier for farmer friends inside the Administration to make it stick.

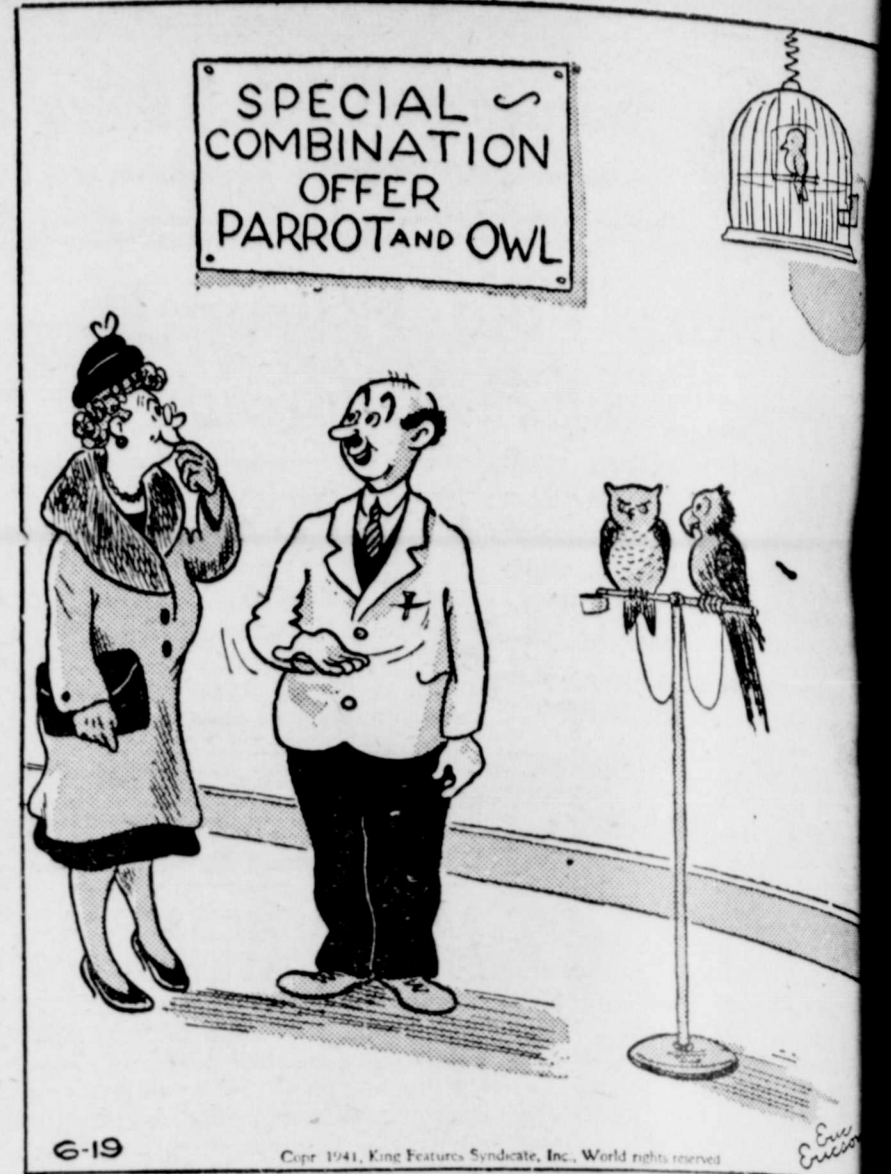

The principal difficulty in getting the loan up to this figure was the Secretary of Treasury. And yet, by a left-handed move, Morgenthau was actually responsible for the high loan figure, though he was direction.

Morgenthau was trying to cut government expenses, and he picked on the farm benefits as a likely place to wield the axe. He moved into Congressional hearings with the flat statement that farm benefits would have to be cut. This so aroused farm members that they ganged up on him and determined to write high payments into the law, beyond control of the economy-minded Secretary.

Result was that, instead of cutting farm benefits, Congress fixed crop loans at a new high of 85 per cent of parity, and added provision for conservation payments and parity payments, making a total guarantee to farmers of 100 per cent of parity.

The above is copy of a prayer being sent out to the press by one of the original members of "The Congress of Patriotism," established in 1905 and which prayed for peace in a mass movement during the World War. It was sent us by Miss Adina De Zavala, San Antonio, and she asked that it be published and the people asked to repeat it between the hours of 12:00 to 1:00 noon each day.

Now that the government stepped in and brought us to a lot of these strikes it's good time for all of us to get the situation in a calm state of mind. It would be well to remember that when Samuel Insull convicted it started a wave of antagonism against all labor. There developed a class hatred between labor and capital and a tide of sympathy toward labor agitators used it to full advantage preaching a doctrine of class war. There were plenty of scoundrels and rascals in big business, probably still is, but Insull takes and those of a few characters offered no good reason for condemning all business have found that out to our cost.

For the same reason the foundation for this belief in organized labor is guilty of column activities and so on. Because a few leaders have communist beliefs is no reason to condemn all those who fight battles for organized labor. The right of collective bargaining speech etc. must never be quashed. The right to strike not be taken away from the individual, neither the privilege of creating unions or the right to hold a decent job without joining to a union.

If, during the emergency, these rights should be lost or we would be fighting for what we already been lost.

I am just as strongly opposed to this radicalism, communism labor as any person and have literally opposed it, but I do believe the American public condemn all labor because

Rat Eradication Campaign Starts

Field rats, small long-tailed animals that often are called Kangaroo rats, have become such a menace to crops that Dallam county commissioners have made available a half ton of poison grain to eradicate them, it was learned yesterday.

The grain is free, as long as it lasts, and any farmer or stockman can get what he needs by applying at the county agent's office.

These kangaroo rats, it was said, have increased by leaps and bounds the past few years, assertedly because wind erosion has created countless small hummocks, or mounds of dirt and weeds which are virtually ready-made and highly protective homes for the pests. They will chew young field plants off at the ground, and later eat the plants if their hunger is not satisfied. Sometimes they will then dig for the roots and often they dig up and eat the planted seeds. They can be poisoned, the agent's office said, by putting about a half thimbleful of the treated grain at each of the holes leading into the rat's home.

ACC Quartet In Dalhart Friday

A program by the Abilene Christian College male quartet will be given tomorrow night at 8:15 at the Dalhart Church of Christ, Guy V. Caskey, minister, reminded today.

In the quartet, Erle T. Moore of New Market, Ala., is first tenor; Leon Locke, of Columbia, Tenn., second tenor; Wayland James of Friendship Tenn., baritone; and James Black of Denver City, Texas, bass.

Dalhart will be included on a two-month tour that will carry the singers through seven states.

"This year's quartet is one of the best ACC has ever had," Caskey said. "And it has appeared on numerous civic programs, radio broadcasts, and all kinds of campus entertainments."

The public is invited.

Mrs. Joe Mann has returned from Sedalia, Mo., where she attended last rites for her brother, Arthur Sellars, on Friday, June 13. Mr. Sellars, who was well known in Dalhart, died in Seattle June 7. He had been ill with asthma for six years.

Raymond Raillard has been transferred to Dalhart from Glen Rio by the state highway department. He was in charge of the tourist bureau at Glen Rio for a month.

Ten Sweeney Libel Suits Dismissed In Kansas This Week

(By United Feature Syndicate)

Kansas City, Mo.—U. S. District Judge Richard J. Hopkins this week dismissed suits brought by Congressman Martin L. Sweeney of Cleveland against ten Kansas newspapers, for lack of prosecution. He described the suits as "without merit."

The suits were brought for libel because of publication of an article in the syndicated column "The Washington Merry-Go-Round," by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen.

Sweeney claimed that the article accused him of anti-Semitism.

The Kansas suits were part of a $7,500,000 chain libel suit brought by Sweeney against the authors, United Feature Syndicate and 70 individual newspapers. Twenty-six of these suits have so far been dismissed by the courts.

The Kansas papers sued were: The Atchison Globe, Concordia Blade-Empire, El Dorado Times Garden City Telegram, Great Bend Tribune, Hutchison Herald, Ottawa Herald, Junction City Daily Union, Topeka State Journal and Winfield Daily Courier.
