BUT NOT FALSE ECONOMY

One of the biggest dangers threatening municipal and county governments in the United States today is that the demand for economy will lead them to try to save money in the wrong places.

Tax receipts are down in every part of the country. Everywhere the city and county fathers are discovering that budgets must be cut into very material. Reductions are long overdue, and there is hardly a mayor in the land who isn't being made to realize the fact.

Unfortunately, though, attacks for decrease in expenditures often are made on those "humans" departments of county and city activities that many taxpayers feel they can get along without, because they did and their parents did. Nursing service, welfare work, these are things that may not show up so brightly in direct returns—and by direct we mean in dollars and cents—but are intangibles that make life better for more of us and make us happier and more contented because of it.

However, there is a tangible return, eventually. Isn't it better to feed a hungry family than to let it resort to vagabondage and perhaps thievery for its sustenance? Isn't it better to treat sick children who might not otherwise be treated than to let them grow up and become county charges all their lives. Isn't it better to have a self-respecting and healthy citizenry—which is growing all the harder to assure as civilization becomes more complex—than honeycombed with too many undesirables that our own neglect may have caused?

Yes, and isn't it better to have expert advisors for the farmer especially in these times when he cannot afford to learn by trial and error. Isn't it better to have all these things, at no greater expense and really at least expense because of efficiency, than to demand reductions and slash where it's easiest to cut?

The way to economy is a business like conduct of a city or county's business—in other words efficiency. We can have all we now have, at less expense, simply by running county affairs on a business basis. And we believe that's what's being done.

In addition, applicants must have had at least two years of training or experience in bacteriology and roentgenology, including a minimum period of six months of experience in each branch.

ON TEXAS FARMS
(W. H. DARROW, E. S. Editor)

If Texas continues to develop as a farm-fed cattle state it is not improbable that future historians will give 4-H club boys the credit for forcing the change. Seasoned stock men are already saying it.

Ten years ago a mere handful of farm boys were feeding baby beeves. Farmers regarded it as a county agent fad. In recent years the big livestock shows of the state have had a hundred and more well finished club calves on exhibit where formerly a score or two constituted the showing.

PLENTY OF CANDIDATES

Texas this summer has eleven candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and forty-one candidates for the three new seats in Congress which are to be filled from the State at large. The Texas weekly thinks that the wag who suggested that he was going to make some money by getting out an annotated directory of the candidates for Congressman-at-Large had a good idea. How the ordinary voter is going to know how to make a choice among so many is a puzzle which The Weekly confesses is beyond its power to solve.

Texas is a big state and the candidates hail from nearly every section of it. With sixteen candidates for one of the seats, twelve for another and thirteen for the third, it is certain that the average Texas voter will be reluctant even to read through such formidable lists.

Here in North Carolina in the recent primaries many persons confessed after going to the polls that they had never heard of some of the candidates upon whose merits they were asked as sovereigns to pass judgment. But our problem was simple compared with that facing the the Texas electorate. The voters of the Lone Star State are entitled to sympathy.—Asheville (N. C.) Citizen.

Copying the club boys, farmers have gone to feeding calves for themselves. It has graduated from kid stuff to a respected farm enterprise. The collapse of prices has helped instead of hindered the move, for even with low priced beef, beef calves have provided a better market for farm feed than the cash market.

Interest in a few good sheep to each farm is taking hold in Red River county agent reports an importation of a few registered Hampshire bucks and ewes. A buck circle similar to bull circles is planned for breeding up the grade flocks.

FOR SALE—We still have a few Canary Birds for sale, good singers or pairs or an extra female. Mrs. H. H. Weimhold, at News Office.

ACID STOMACH

EXCESS acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. Harmless, and tasteless, and yet its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, once you learn how quickly this method acts. Be sure to get the genuine.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior tooth-paste that safeguards against acid-mouth.

TROOP CAMPING

"Troop camping will be a feature of the coming summer camp at Post," states J. T. Herd of Post, who is chairman of the Council Camping Committee.

"We have too long, not only in this Council, but in many other Councils clung to the Army style of camping. Scouts are sent into camp by their Scoutmasters and there they are given Council supervision and training under Council leaders. The troop plan of camping calls for local troop leadership and training under troop leaders, under the watchful eye of the Council staff," explained Mr. Herd.

He further stated that Scout Councils that have been using the Troop Camp system in their Council Camps, say that they can render a much greater service to their Scoutmasters and boys in this way, than is possible at home. Also, it is a well known fact that, as a rule, Scoutmasters who have not had training or experience in this type of camping are backward about taking their troops on overnight hikes and when they do, the results are likely to be rather unpleasant for both the Scoutmaster and the Scouts. On the other hand, troops whose Scoutmasters attend the Council camp, are usually more active throughout the year and include many more hikes and short term camps in their programs than do those troops whose hikes and short term camps in their programs than do those troops whose Scoutmasters have not attended the Council camp.

"Ask any boy," said Mr. Herd "why he wants to be a Scout and he will probably tell you that it is because the Scouts go hiking and camping. Then when he joins a troop that does not take many hikes, he soon loses interest and drops from the ranks of Scouting." It has been found that the troops in this Council, which have the smallest turnover in membership are those that do the most hiking and camping.

This is the thing we wish to improve at Camp Post, declared Mr. Herd, "We want to give our boys and leaders an opportunity to do for themselves, under proper guidance, of course, and if the Troop Committees will only get their Scoutmasters to camp, then we will be able to help them become more efficient in conducting their own camps, thereby assisting the local committee in their efforts to create and maintain greater interest in the Scout progress."

Herding poultry profits in days of eight-cent eggs is not exactly popular writing. Yet so many poultry demonstrators working with county and home demonstration agents are making small profits that the truth might as well be told. Here's a typical one: Q. Rhoden of Conroe, Montgomery county, has 127 hens that averaged 18 and 1-2 eggs each per month for the first six months of the poultry year for an average monthly profit above feed cost of $19.65 for the flock.

County agents report increasing enrollments in beef calf clubs in practically every part of Texas this year.

Hogs, too, are down, but not 36 club boys of Taylor county who are building self-feeders out of scrap lumber of 10 cents apiece, from which their hogs will be fed for killing, curing and selling from the the farm under a trade mark the boys are devising.

FOLKS

District Court is in session and will continue until July 2nd. My duties as District Attorney must be attended to, and I will have very little time left in which to see the people in the interst of my candidacy. I want all of you to vote for me, and am taking this means of asking for your support and influence, if you think I am entitled to re-election.

Of necessity, my candidacy is in the hands of my friends and I will appreciate their work in my behalf.
