CHEVROLET MOTOR CO. NOW IN MIDST OF GREAT ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

Detroit, Mich. June.—Renewal of a unique series of advertising conferences, in which the automobile dealer is given a voice in the national advertising program of the factory, was announced here today by John E. Grimm, Jr., advertising manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

This company is now in the midst of the largest and most comprehensive advertising campaign ever undertaken in the history of the automobile industry.

The first of the new series of dealer conference, held under the general supervision of Mr. Grimm, took place here a week ago when dealers selected from the domestic Chevrolet organization met with factory officials to discuss the publicity plans of the company for the next few months.

"The object of these advertising conferences," Mr. Grimm explained, "is to keep the home office constantly in touch with the problems faced daily by the home office constantly in touch with dealers so that Chevrolet advertising may be guided by actual field conditions and thus prove most effective."

"The assistance given by dealers in these monthly conferences," he continued, "is of individual benefit in adding to the efficiency of our advertising. This is particularly true of the newspaper advertising, which, of course, forms are greatest retail advertising force for each individual dealer."

"While every type of advertising from newspaper, magazine, outdoor and electric spectacular signs to trade papers is discussed, major interest attaches to the newspaper schedule because this makes up by far the largest part of the year's budget. There are now more than 5,500 leading newspapers carrying the Chevrolet message to practically every city, town and hamlet in the United States."

"Particular care is taken in selecting the dealers invited to attend these conferences. Some are chosen because they have very large car contracts. Others because their contracts are very small. Every dealer also comes from different sections of the country. In this manner we get an ideal cross-section of the advertising needs of all classes of dealers in all parts of the United States."

"Dealer advertising conferences will be held throughout this Summer, with a different group of dealers from different parts of the country present each time."

"Each conference is of two day's duration. The first day is given over entirely to the dis-

TRIMBLE BUILDING NEW RESIDENCE

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY SOCIAL

Mrs. W. A. Murphy's Sunday school class of young people of the Christian Church enjoyed a social Friday evening in the church basement.

After a delightful evening, playing numerous games, punch and cake were served to the following members: Misses Allie Mae and Anita Willis, Frankie Burnam, Effreda Murphy; Messrs. D. J. Maynard and Don Malone.

The visitors present were: Misses Zouell Brooks, Jo Parks, Christine Reynolds, Armavena Stringer; Messrs. Rankin Reynolds, Homer No wood, Jack Gregory, Brooks Woodlee, Bob Flanagan, Jim Gary, Tommie Allen, Ottie Malone.

PICNIC PLANS CHANGE

Since last week's issue of the news the original plans for the celebration welcoming the first train into Dimmitt have been changed to coincide with that of the other towns along the Fort Worth and Denver route who are planning a celebration at the central point—Sterey. All the plans for this mammoth celebration have not been made nor the date in July when it will be held set but a meeting for this purpose will be held within the near future at Lockney.

A special train will be secured to run to Sterey that day from here and it is hoped that every business house will lock their doors and join in this celebration that Dimmitt and Castro county have waited for so long.

Card of Appreciation

We take this means of expressing our appreciation to the friends who labored so faithfully to help us save our property during our recent fire loss. It was only through their earnest efforts that we were able to save our home and the balance of the stock. We thank you one and all.

Sincerely,
Panhandle Lumber Company

cession of advertising in all its phases. The second day the dealers are taken to the General Motor proving ground where they are shown the rigid test Chevrolet cars undergo before they are put on the market."

An added feature of the recent conference was a radio party held for the dealers by W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company. The occasion was "Chevrolet Hour" on the General Motors Family Party program. This was held in celebration of the fact that there have been placed on the road more than a half million Bigger and Better Chevrolets since Jan. 1, a feat never before duplicated by a new model in a similarly short space of time.

After the State Highway Department of New Jersey had subjected a fleet of fifteen Chevrolet cars to a thorough, an order was placed for 25 additional cars.

In Bojale-Duc, Holland, the horse is still in fading competition with the Chevrolet bus, an increasingly popular method of transportation in over-seas towns.

Public Safety Telephone Man

William Foster Owens, manager of the Rock Springs Telephone Company, Rock Springs, Texas, has been awarded a Theodore N. Vail silver medal for the part he played in summoning aid to Rock Springs, after a tornado had struck the town and destroyed all means of communication with the outside world.

Owens will receive a cash award of $250 in addition to the silver medal. Vail medals are awarded each year by the Bell System, to employees for noteworthy public service.

Rock Springs is a community of some 1,200 people in southern Texas. It has neither railroad nor telegraph connections, the telephone being its only means of communication. The nearest town is sixty or more miles distant. All communication with the outside world was destroyed when a tornado struck the little town on the evening of April 12, 1932. Re-establishing a telephone service, the only means by which help could be sent out, was one of the most important tasks of the day.

Closing the door with great difficulty, due to the wind pressure, Owens himself crawled beneath the table just as the tornado struck, swiftly and with precision, and sought protection by crawling under the dining room table.

When it had passed, the house had entirely disappeared and the door and table, with its huddled group of refugees, had been carried fifty feet. Owens received a severe blow on the Owens' first thought was to head and was inconclusive. Owens' first thought was to family to safety, but he discovered neighbors who were caught in wreckage and assisted them first. Other men arrived shortly and Owens turned his family over to them and at once set about restoring telephone service so that aid could be summoned.

Owens drove to his brother's home, about a mile out of town. Here he found the wires of the toll line still attached to the poles. Removing the telephone from his brother's house he climbed a pole and connected the instrument to the toll line leading to Kerreville, sixty miles away. He reported the situation to the telephone manager at Kerreville, who in turn arranged to send help.

Later Owens returned to town to look after his family. He then learned that his wife had also received a serious cut on the head, and was temporarily blinded.

Sixty-five Rock Springs people were killed by the tornado, and 155 injured. The small, isolated community was unprepared to deal with so large a disaster.

By disregarding his natural inclination to remain with his family, in order that he might perform a public service, Owens made it possible to relieve much suffering, and probably to save lives that would have been lost had assistance been rendered less promptly.

In the early morning hours three airplanes arrived from San Antonio, one of which returned to that city carrying a badly injured boy.

By disregarding his natural inclination to remain with his family, in order that he might perform a public service, Owens made it possible to relieve much suffering, and probably to save lives that would have been lost had assistance been rendered less promptly.

K. K. Klub

The mysterious order of the K. K. Klub met in secret session last Thursday evening at 8:30 at the Auditorium. Mrs. Vera Duree was elected sponsor, and to act as chaperone. A strenuous initiation was inflicted on Miss Allie Mae Willis, who is now a full fledged three Ks. After a business discussion Pro and Con of May tag washing machines, the members of the club was served cake and lemonade. The personnel of the Club are: Joe Parks, Maurine Smith, Mary and Josephine Cowsett, Frankie and Velma Burnam, Amy Gregory, Allie Mae Willis, Ola Kimbell and Christine Fuller, grand exalted feme Sole of the Club.

The meaning of the Nitals of the Club is creating much discussion among the town folks, but taking into consideration the nature of the members, we suggest that it might mean Kate Kuriousity Klub, for it is well known of the Criousity that women have. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burnam.

HART NEWS

We are very sorry if Dimmitt or any of the other clubs we have met think they have not had a fair deal. Some of the boys are still around here and we have a few old clubs and a glove or two left and are more than anxious to meet any of them, especially Dimmitt, Hyatt and all.

We are glad Dimmitt has a good pitcher, but as it takes nine men to make a team they need eight more. Keep trying boys, that is a good start; you may have a team yet and as she has Hart.

We met Hale, the Great twirl from Flagg, Sunday, May 27 but against our good luck he was helpless.

It is better to be lucky and win than to have a fast team and lose.

Wishing you better success in organizing a league, we are, Hart Base Ball Club.

Mrs. B. D. Woodlee and son and Bob Flanagan motored to Amarillo to meet Miss Mildred Woodlee who has been visiting in Fort Worth.

or two down.
Christ's outstretched hands nailed, while his feet, placed together, were nailed to the upright. Between his hands and feet, was probably a rough projection on which his body rested. On such a cross the naked body was left to hang sometimes for days, till the loss of blood, the pain of the festering wounds, and above all the tortured thirst, brought the welcome release of death. "And parting garments among them, casting lots upon them, what each should take." A quaternion, or four Roman soldiers, in command of a centurion, kept guard over each of the three prisoners, to see that their friends did not cut them down and take away their bodies. The clothing of the condemned was a perquisite of the soldier. Separating Christ's outer garment into four, they drew the seam, they divided it among them; but when they came to his inner garment they found that it, like a priest's robe, was woven in one piece throughout, having no seam. If they had cut it into four parts they would have ruined it, and so they cast lots for it, thus unwittingly fulfilling the prophecy of Ps. 22:18: "They part my garments among them, and cast lots upon my vesture."
"It was the Third Hour," v. 25. "And it was the third hour, and they crucified him." Suetrius was reckoned as beginning day, and it occurred at about 6 o'clock at this time of year. The third hour was therefore about 1 o'clock in the morning, as we reckon time.
"The King of the Jews," v. 26. "And the superscription of his accusation was written over: 'The King of the Jews.' The full form of the title is given by John 19:7: 'Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews.' Pilate himself pressed the title, in grim sarcasm against the Jews. The priest asked him to change it to a statement that Jesus had claimed to be king of the Jews, but with the obstinacy of a weak man Pilate held to his petty revenge for being forced to do a great wrong. John 19:22: 'The inscription was written in three languages, the official Latin, the inscription was written in three common Greek, and the Hebrew which even an unlearned Jew could read. Thus, Pilate's signature in reality proclaimed the universality of the Gospel, that Christianity was to go into all the world,' as Christ had commanded.

"The Seven Words from the Cross."—1. The Words of Forgiveness, spoke at the height of the agony, when the cross, bearing the tortured sinner, was lifted up and dropped with a horrible wrench into the socket prepared for it. "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." (Luke 23:34).
2. The Word of Restoration, spoken to the repentant robber: "Verily, I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise." (Luke 23:43).
3. The Word spoken to Mary, his mother, and to John, his beloved disciple, commanding her to his care: "Woman, behold, thy son!—Behold, thy mother!" (John 19:26-27).

4. The Word of Desolation uttered in the darkness which shrouded the earth and in the deeper gloom which filled the Redeemer's soul: "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" (Mark 15:34).
5. The Word of Physical Suffering spoken after the fever of his wounds under the burning sun had parched his body beyond endurance: "I thirst!" (John 19:28).
6. The Word of Achievement, spoken at the close of his sacrificial sufferings: "It is finished!" (John 19:30)—one word in the Greek; it has been called "the greatest single word ever uttered."
7. The Word of Committal, spoken just before the Saviour rendered up his life: "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." (Luke 23:46).
"This Man was the Son of God." And when the centurion, who stood by over against him, saw that he so gave up the ghost, he said, Truly this man was the Son of God. The centurion was in charge of the Roman soldiers, and stood facing the three cross-bearers that the decreed punishments were carried out. Like all the centurions mentioned in the New Testament, this Roman appears to have been a man of noble character, ready and majestic bearing of Jesus, so different from what he was accustomed to see in his prisoners, and by the supernatural accomplishments of his death. He had caught up the words, "The Son of God," from some bystander, and he was ready to believe that Jesus was more than a man.
"Accept the Atonement." The Christian life begins at the foot of the cross, first reconciling the great forgiveness, the atonement; then the imitation of Christ. (Rev. J. G. Simpson, D. D.).
"Whoever Will Let Him Come." "Now is the accepted time, today, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts." Flee to the refuge. The flag that flies from its ramparts bears yet, in glad, golden letters, the divinely dictated motto, "Whoever will let him come."—William Arnold.

TO THE DADS OF CASTRO COUNTY

Dear Dads:

Next Sunday is Fathers Day! Can you imagine a nation observing a day in honor of our position of course we don't like a lot of sentiment but still it is nice to be remembered. When "the kids" were young we were always remembered, alright and naturally the candy was brought home. Then you older ones remember when John and Mary were in school and expenses kept running up. Part of the farm was to pay off, but it was worth it. After spending a young fortune on Mary, she up and married that young rascal on the next farm, but those grand children are so sweet that it was worth it after all. So it goes.

This job of being a dad carries with it great responsibility and many sacrifices, but with a companion like yours who would miss it.

So here's to our Dad's, if we can be of service in helping supply the family's wants you will find us on the corner.

(Note to Mother) Perhaps Dad would like some of our good firm ice cream for dinner Sunday. We keep four kinds.
