Choosing a Builder.

The selection of a builder is quite an important matter in putting up a house as the choice of an architect. Don't choose the cheapest builder merely because he is cheapest. If you accept his bid, find out the reason of the cheapness. Frequently the builder is a man of little means, and often he operates on borrowed capital. Should the builder become bankrupt or fail to pay for his labor or materials the owner, under the mechanic's laws of most states, becomes liable for the builder's debts. This is true even though the owner has paid the builder for his work. In order to obtain his house free and clear in such a case the owner must meet the builder's obligations. The prudent owner will, of course, pay for his house only as it is constructed. Even then it would be a useful caution to make sure that the builder has paid his indebtedness on the house. Payments are usually made the builder when the foundations are done, when the frame is up, when the house is closed, when the plastering is finished and when the completed house is turned over to the owner.—Circle Magazine.

Ancient Castle, Curious Clock.

Rushen castle, Castledown, Isle of Man, is the ancient seat of the kings and lords of Man. The castle is a veritable curiosity both historically and otherwise. The first mention of it dates to the year 1257. It was taken after six months' siege in the year 1515 by Robert the Bruce. The castle is built of limestone and is not a ruin. Until a few years ago it was used as a prison. The town clock seen in the castle wall was presented by Queen Elizabeth in the year 1597. It has only one hand on the dial. This is the hour hand. The minutes are judged by the position of the hand between the hours. The works of this clock are also a curiosity. The weight at the end of the pendulum is a large stone, and it is driven by a rope coiled around a cylinder of wood, with another stone at the end of the rope. The clock is still going after its centuries of service and is still the town clock.—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

Where She Got the Money.

They were at the circus. The conversation ran to the subject of how they had financed their admission ticket projects. One said she had gathered rags and sold them. Another had helped her brother spade a garden. The third member of the party presented a sickly grin and seemed reluctant about explaining where her half dollar came from. An explanation seemed absolutely necessary.

"Lizzie, whah yo' git dat half dollar yo' slipped up to de ticket man?"

"Nevah yo' mind. Yo' all saw me pay de mar, didn't yo'?"

"Sho' nuf we did, but dat ain' no explanation."

"Well, I got de money all right."

"Sho' nuf yo' did. Sho' nuf yo' did."

"Yes, an' ef I doan' git a half dollar somewah an' git my ole man's Sabbath shoes from dat pawnshop befo' Satabday evenin' I'm a deevoc'ed woman, dat's all."—Indianapolis News.

East Indian Muslin Test.

A Madras physician was buying muslin for a turban in a department store.

"None of this is fine enough," he said. "In the turban I have on there are forty yards. But forty yards of this would give me a head like a saratoga trunk."

"Indian muslin is very, very fine. It must be fine enough to disappear if it is to pass our A1 test. The test is this: The muslin is spread on grass overnight. In the morning, when everything is dew drenched, if the muslin isn't practically identical with the dew gossamer covering the lawn—in other words, if it isn't invisible—it is discarded and must be sold as 'seconds.'"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Good Time to Go.

General Joseph E. Johnston, the Confederate commander, used to relate that in the hottest part of one of the early battles of the civil war he felt his coat tails pulled. Turning about, he recognized a young man who had been employed in his tobacco factory previous to enlistment.

"Why are you not in your place fighting?" the general demanded angrily.

"Why, I just wanted to tell you that if you don't mind I will take my day off today!"

To Sleep Like a Top.

To "sleep like a top" has probably a very different origin from that which appears. "Top" is thought to be a corruption of the French taupe, or mole. This interpretation is far more in accordance with the idea usually conveyed—that of a prolonged, undisturbed sleep like that of a mole in winter rather than the short, enduring so-called "sleep" of a top when it revolves on its axis with a gentle, humming sound.

Both Willing.

"He said he'd rather go to jail than pay his divorced wife alimony."

"Did she let him go?"

"Yes; she said she'd rather see him save his money behind the bars than spend it over them."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Precocity.

"Every time the baby looks into my face he smiles," said Mr. Meekton.

"Well," answered his wife, "it may not be exactly polite, but it shows he has a sense of humor."—Exchange.

Hunger or Fame.

"It is a good thing to hunger for fame," remarked the struggling author.

"Yes," assented his friend the artist, "if you don't get the fame you are sure to get the hunger."—Chicago News.

 "Spend Wichita Falls money in Wichita Falls."
 "Money spent away from home helps to build another city instead of your own."
 "Why not help build your home city with home money?"

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN.

Paris is Full of Them and Nearly All Use Parisian Sage.

In the beauty show three years ago gold medals were awarded to five different women.

To the most beautiful woman between 20 and 25; between 25 and 30; between 30 and 35; between 35 and 40; and between 40 and 45.

A society reporter who interviewed all five women in the interest of his paper, reported that all of them had beautiful hair, and that each of the five enthusiastically attributed her luxuriant hair to Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is a discovery of a celebrated scientist, who spent the best years of his life perfecting this great hair tonic.

In giving his recipe to the people he said: "Parisian Sage is the most delectable hair dressing in the world, but it is more than a hair dressing. It cures dandruff by killing the germs that infest the roots of the hair; it stops falling hair; it gives vigor and strength to the hair roots; it prevents the hair from turning gray."

MATER-WALKER DRUG CO. sells Parisian Sage at 50 cents a large bottle and guarantees it to do all that is claimed for it or money refunded. If you do not reside near a druggist who sells Parisian Sage, send 50 cents to Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and a bottle will be sent you by express, all charges prepaid.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

It is impossible for the Times to get display ads in the paper when they are not in the office by 9 a. m. Patrons of the paper will confer a favor and, at the same time, get better service by getting their ads in earlier than the hour above named.

TWO SERIOUS ACCIDENTS OCCUR NEAR ALLENDALE.

Alledale, Tex., July 7.—Threshing has been progressing very slowly here on account of the rains. This morning, however, two threshers are running and with favorable weather the grain will soon all be threshed.

An accident occurred at Mr. Dunlap's thresher one day last week, which came near being serious. Mr. Dunlap was pitching grain from one of the wagons when he slipped and fell upon the belt. He was carried by it to the feeder. He would have been cut to pieces had he not been able to catch hold of the side of the feeder. Here he held on until the engine could be stopped.

Some needed repairs and improvements are being made upon the schoolhouse. It has been painted and a porch added, among these.

Mrs. Annie Gilham is on the sick list this week.

Miss Vera Herndon of Wichita Falls was visiting friends here yesterday.

Miss Hattie Gwinn came home from Wichita Falls this afternoon, accompanied by her friend, Mrs. Beveren.

What came near proving a fatal accident occurred one day last week when Messrs. Seph Ludolphus, James Herndon and Walter Allen were boating on Lake Wichita. Their boat suddenly capsized, taking James down beneath it. When he came to the surface he was some distance from the boat, in deep water, and unable to swim. Mr. Ludolphus, his brother-in-law, went to his assistance, but was himself being pulled down into the water when Mr. Allen reached them. Evading Mr. Ludolphus' grasp, he managed to seize the boy by the hair and take him to the shore. Mr. Ludolphus was then able to reach the bank by himself. Mr. Allen is a young man visiting here from East Texas, and is to be highly commended for his bravery.

Rev. James Heratt Van Buren, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Porto Rico, was born in Watertown, N. Y., July 7, 1850. He was educated at Yale University, graduating in the class of 1873. In 1876 he took orders as deacon of the Episcopal Church and was a year later ordained priest by Bishop Williams. Following his entry to the ministry, he was for a number of years connected with various churches in New England, New York and New Jersey. He was elected Missionary Bishop of Porto Rico in 1903, and has since resided at San Juan.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and Vicinity
-Tonight and Thursday, partly cloudy weather.

Wichita Falls, Texas, July 7th, 1909.

KEEP THIS FOR REFERENCE.

"I marvel at your blindness," says Cummins of Iowa to Aldrich of Rhode Island. "You are subjecting our party," says Cummins to Aldrich, "to unmeasured ridicule, unlimited criticism and eventually to inevitable defeat and destruction."

"The senator from Rhode Island will not discredit us," says LaFollette to the senate. "Instead he has only discredited his own leadership before the senate and before the country."

"We will have much more trouble explaining somebody else's vote to the people than our own," is what Clapp of Minnesota says in reply to some of the Rhode Islander's taunts.

The copy of the congressional record reporting the debate in which these amenities occurred is worth filing for reference after the congressional election of next year.

If Mr. Aldrich is not riding the republican party for a fall there is no truth in prophecy. The direction in which he is trying to lead the republican party is one in which it has already said it does not wish to go. And marching close at his heels are the republican bolters of the senate who for some inscrutable reason would rather follow him into the ditch than obey a party mandate.—St. Louis Republic.

The man who walked into the Waggoner bank in Fort Worth and out again with $8,195 under his coat is evidently an amateur in the bank robbing profession, or, if he is a professional, as the ordinarily adopted new methods, as the boldness of the plot is unprecedented in the history of bank robberies.—Shafter Lake Herald.

The latest report concerning this bold bank robbery is that no such occurred. The cashier has been indicted; the money supposed to have been walked off with by the "bold robber" turned up mysteriously in the vault of the robbed bank and now there seems to be a disposition on the part of the officials to say just as little as possible about that affair.

"Attorney-General's effort at Cameron resembles flash in the Pan" says the Fort Worth Record. "The speech was liberally and frequently applauded" says the Dallas News. And while they stop to scap about it come to Wichita Falls and see how a city is being built.

FROHMAN'S DAY DREAM

(By Alan Dale.)

Charles Frohman was dreaming. With unseeing eyes he gazed at the sluggish waters of the murky Thames, through the windows of the Savoy hotel, and he spoke, as though to himself. (I won't swear that he had forgotten my presence, but perchance so.) Occasionally he walked up and down sonambullistically. There was nothing febrile or Frohmanesque about his behavior. He dreamed a dream.

"If I never do anything more in New York," he murmured, "if, indeed, I can get no further in my endeavors, the one thing that I want, the one idea that I cherish, the one aim with which I yearn to be credited, is the Poor Man's Theater. I am absolutely devoted to it. I am perfectly and genuinely sincere; it is the one thing upon which I have set my mind. So far I have achieved everything I ever contemplated from the time I came from Sandusky to New York, and took in London as a sequel. I shall achieve the Poor Man's Theater. I feel it in my bones."

He was dreaming. There was nothing of the feverish, exuberant "C. F." in the dispassionate and almost wistful voice. He was dreaming and I felt that it would be cruel to awaken him and force the agile present upon him. He continued to walk, washing his hands with invisible soap, and I listened.

"I don't care where it is built," he whispered. "I don't care. My idea is to get a theater where we can give the very best works for a very moderate price. My Poor Man's Theater must be a theater in which the poor man shall feel at home. Not that I wish to label a man 'poor.' We are all poor, except the millionaires, and they are having their own playhouse. I see that Vanderbilt has presented them with a white marble slab. I am anxious to see the first name engraved upon that slab!"

"How will a poor man's theater be possible," he asked himself, as dreamers often do. And he uncovered. "I want to be able to say to all my artists, to all my popular stars, like Maude Adams and John Drew, 'You must come and play two or three weeks each season in my poor man's theater. You must be satisfied with smaller gains; you must help along a good cause; you must do all in your power to induce other actors to join in this exhilarating work!' I want to charge the very lowest prices—prices that make the seats at the Academy of Music seem terribly expensive. I don't want the patrons of this house to feel that anything is cheap or inferior, but that they are getting the best going. They will get it. Take my word for it that they will get it."

The telephone rang. Somebody horribly awake wanted to come up. But Mr. Frohman answered it not, nor heeded it. His voice still purred sleepily, and he dreamed his dream. Waking would be pain.

"Barrie loves my idea," he said. "Barrie is simply infatuated with it. You know Barrie, and his enthusiasm for anything out of the ordinary. Well, Barrie thinks so well of the poor man's theater that he has actually promised to write me something original for it. He intends to give me a play that shall be done exclusively at this theater, just to help it along. If Barrie does this, other playwrights will follow his lead, and we may get a series of plays aimed especially at this particular undertaking. Big artists at half prices. That is my idea. It is rather different to the millionaire's idea, eh? They ask Sothra and Marlowe, who have been playing at the popular Academy of Music, to come to the millionaire's theater and play there at high prices. That idea seems to me a bit incongruous. Let it pass. Leave me alone to think things out, and be certain only that I am in earnest. I am serious. Please credit me with sincerity."

And that I most assuredly do. I'm the one who has always held that Charles Frohman was no mere money-grubber; that he was a curious mixture of soul and body; that in the mass of his prosaic enterprises there was a faint gleam of poetry. Besides, a man who has done so much successfully can afford a little bit of philanthropy. Yes, Frohman was sincere.

"New York is queer," he went on dreamily. "I love it, but it is queer. The things that we have never look as good to us as the things they have over here. I will instance what I mean. Last week I journeyed to Berlin, not to see any wonderful play, or interview any astounding playwright; not to discover any new drama or sign a new contract. They had told me of a marvelous bridge of lights in the files of Berlin's principal theater. It was unique in the world, they said. It threw bewildering gleams down upon the stage. Everywhere I heard of it, but particularly in New York. So I went to Berlin to see it and Barrie went with me."

Was he waking? Had the dream passed? Was this a descent from violet unreality to dark gray reality? No, it was not. Still dreaming.

"Well, sir," he resumed, "we went and saw that wonderful bridge of lights and I laughed. I never laughed more hilariously. Right in that unknown, poor little theater in New York City—they call it the Empire—nobody has heard of it—nobody in the United States would prate about it—right in that theater is a bridge of lights that made Berlin's phenomenal feat look like thirty cents. Why, our bridge of lights spans the entire stage. It is the greatest bridge of lights in the world—"

He was awake. Yes, he was wide awake. All the dreaminess had gone. This was Charles Frohman, the non-visionary. Good morning, C. F.

"The greatest bridge of lights in the world," he repeated. "Why, the affair in Berlin, of which all the world knows, is just a feeble bunch in the middle of the files. Ours goes across. New York firemen take off their hats to it. It is a marvel. I was never so surprised in my life as I was to see this poor Berlin affair. Yet that is the affair that everybody talks about—especially in New York. And my Empire bridge is unheard of. I—well, I bet you never heard of it!"

I sank my head in shame, remorse and utter self-contempt.

"Proud?" he said. "I never felt so proud in my life. I am a patriot. And I am a patriot because I have more theaters in London than any manager ever had, and produce more plays abroad than anybody else has ever produced. Does that sound strange to you? Well, you have read of Shackleton, who planted the English flag near the Pole. I feel like that. I, too, have planted the American flag on the ice. And this, over here in England, is the ice."

Yes, "C. F." was awake with a vengeance. Like the spinster in the song—with a cold in her head—he had "dreaded a dream." The present was upon him. The present took him up and shook him. And I skooted.

YOUR COFFEE TASTE CAN BE EXACTLY SUITED

We have learned from quite an experience that about 95 per cent of all coffee tastes can be suited to a "T" with either our Revere Brand Coffee or with our Concord Brand Coffee

The Revere Brand is, so far as we have been able to find, the finest coffee that is produced at any price. It has that rich, smooth and mellow flavor that makes a person feel like smacking their lips and calling for the second cup.

It is 40c, 75c and $1.10 in 1-2 3 lb tins.

The Concord Brand is a close second to the Revere Brand, containing only a little less of the rich flavor, and at that not so much less as its price, 25c would indicate.

We believe that one of these two coffees will just suit you, but, if by any chance they don't, we want to tell you about two or three others that we have.

It's House Bills This Week
If you are figuring on a new house at this time, or contemplate building in the near future, let us make you an estimate on the material you will need.
And if you will get our estimate within the next ten days, we will make you particularly attractive figures, as we wish to sell as many house bills as possible during the month of July.
Don't neglect this. It will be very much to your advantage in a money-saving way to get our estimate NOW.
Our stock is complete and is of exceptionally good quality. It is well manufactured and thoroughly seasoned.

How to Prevent and How to Cure Consumption, Or Tuberculosis

TUBERCULOSIS is a COMMUNICABLE disease.

TUBERCULOSIS is a PREVENTABLE disease.

TUBERCULOSIS is a CURABLE disease.

If you have a steady cough, go to a doctor. Don't waste your money on reputed cures.

Don't give consumption to others.

Don't let others give Consumption to you.

Don't spit on sidewalks; it spreads disease.

Don't spit on the floor of your shop.

When you spit, spit in the gutters, or into a spittoon.

Have your own spittoons half full of water and clean them out at least once a day with hot water.

Don't cough without holding a handkerchief or your hand over your mouth.

Don't live in rooms where there is no fresh air.

*Health
Rules
Given by the National Association for the Prevention and Cure
of Tuberculosis*

Don't work in rooms where there is no fresh air.

Keep at least one window open in your bedroom day and night.

Fresh air helps to kill the Consumption germ.

Fresh air helps to keep you strong and healthy.

Don't eat with soiled hands; wash them first.

Don't drink intoxicating drinks; they will do you no good, but will make it harder for you to get well.

Don't sleep in the same bed with anyone else and, if possible, not in the same room.

Good food, fresh air and rest are the best cures. Keep in the sunshine as much as possible and keep your windows open, winter and summer, night and day. Fresh air night and day is good for you.

Go to a hospital while you can and before it is too late. There you can get the best treatment, all the rest, all the fresh air and all the food you need.

NOTE—Readers of this notice are requested by the Times to cut out and post conspicuously in order that people may be reminded daily of these simple rules of health. You may save other lives—you may save your own

Barth's Semi-Annual Discount Sale

The interest in this great clearance sale is increasing daily—it is not a sale of the whirlwind variety, full of pomp and display, but just a good, old fashion discount sale, where value predominates instead of display. Remember, everything in our store, except Manhattan shirts go in this sale. Plenty of goods, we don't run out.

Please don't get us mixed with high profit charging stores, for our 25 per cent means 50 and 75 per cent at some stores.

MEETING OF SOUTHERN COMMERCIAL SECRETARIES

Atlanta, Ga., July 7.—Several hundred delegates representing fifteen of the Southern States faced W. B. Royster of Chattanooga this morning when he called to order the convention of the Southern Commercial Secretaries' Association, an organization formed a year ago for the purpose of promoting the commerce and industries of the South and its component States.

The convention met in the Auditorium-Armory, which was handsomely decorated with the national colors and presented a most attractive appearance. Mayor Robert F. Maddox and Asa G. Candler, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, greeted the delegates. President W. B. Royster responded and Secretary Edwin L. Quarles followed with his annual report, in which he reviewed the work of the association during the past year. Grosvenor Dawe delivered an address on "The Southern Commercial Congress and Its Results," following which the convention adjourned for luncheon.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the convention reassembled to listen to an address on the subject of good roads by General Clifford L. Anderson, president of the Georgia Good Roads association. The sessions will be concluded tomorrow.

Americans at Geneva Jubilee.

Geneva, July 7.—A celebration of the 350th anniversary of the founding of the University of Geneva by John Calvin began today with distinguished educators in attendance from many parts of the world. Among the Americans present are President J. G. Scharman of Cornell University, Dr. Charles C. Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania, and Professors Ward and Greene of Brown university.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS GATHER AT SAINT PAUL.

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—With "Thy Kingdom Come" as their rallying cry, an army of enthusiastic young delegates captured St. Paul today, and will remain in possession of the city until next Monday. The occasion is the twenty-fourth international convention of the Christian Endeavor societies. The formal opening this evening, at which Governor Johnson will welcome the visitors, was preceded today by the annual business meeting of the board of trustees for the election of officers and committees and for the transaction of other routine business.

The program proper will begin tomorrow and for four days the meetings will be run almost continuously in the Auditorium, the Armory and the Central Presbyterian church, and almost every church and hall in the city will be filled Sunday by some of the leading divines who will be here to address the delegates.

A large delegation from Texas is here to boom Dallas as the convention city in 1911. The Texas delegation, however, is finding some strong competitors in the race, among them Kansas City, Indianapolis and Atlantic

Big Day in Champlain Region.

Plattsburg, N. Y., July 7.—The Lake Champlain tercentenary celebration reached its zenith here today with ceremonies and festivities in which the president of the United States, the British and French ambassadors, the governors of New York and Vermont and many other notables took part.

On his way to Plattsburg this morning President Taft and his party paid a brief visit to the Catholic Summer School at Cliffhaven. Later the president and other guests were entertained at luncheon, at the residence of Smith M. Weed. This afternoon a military parade, in which State, Federal and Canadian troops participated, was reviewed by the president, the ambassadors, governors and other distinguished guests. At the literary exercises that followed the chief address was delivered by Senator Elihu Root of New York.

GOOD CIGARS.

Within certain limits, there is a chance for a difference of opinion as to whether cigars are good or not. No one brand is sure to suit everybody, but there are certain brands which come pretty near it and this is the kind we endeavor to keep. In our opinion, at least, we have the best assortment of cigars in the city and shall be glad at any time to have the opinion of smokers who are not already familiar with our line.

One thing is certain, that we always pay enough to get good brands and are quite sure that we get what we pay for. Yours for good smokes, until you have used one. It is as great an improvement on a coal stove as the latter is on the old fashioned fire place. At the touch of a match it gives an intense heat just when you want it. Instantly controllable. No smoke, no smell, no coal to bring up, no ashes to carry out, no uneven temperature, no fallen cakes or pies, no delayed meal. Not necessary to change your nice dress; everything clean and tidy. We sometimes take in your old stove as part payment.
